Chelsea Defense Effort

On Display This Week

Chelsea's part in the National Defense effort is portrayed in a display in the Vogel & Wurster store window this week, sponsored and arranged by the American Legion Auxiliary.

Included in this display are records of the Civilian Defense registration, which totals 131; the number enrolled in Red Cross classes, which is 112; Red Cross production records—417 sewed garments, 298 knitted garments, and 7008 surgical dressings, all made by local volunteer workers; the amount of Defense Bonds and Stamps sold here, which totals $85,399.65; the number of books collected in the Victory Book Campaign, 608. There are also displays furnished by the Chelsea Spring Co. and Central Fibre Products Co., showing items they are making for war industries. Signs in the window were painted by Carl Swickherath.

The most important part of the display is the honor roll of men from this vicinity who are serving in the armed forces. Although the Auxiliary realizes that this list may be far from complete, they have made several appeals for names of men in the service, and the list which is displayed is the most complete they could obtain. They ask that names of all who are entering the service be reported to them as they plan to keep a permanent record of these names.

Names so far obtained are as follows:

Joseph Jurgens, Jr., Leonard Jurgens, Albert E. Jurgens, Dwight Beach, Kenneth Beach, Claude S. Rogers, Paul Rogers, Frederick J. Martell, Ben T. Alger, Ellis Boyce, Carl H. Swickherath, Jr., Sylvester Parker, Guy Weatherwax, William Heurion, Waldo C. Homing, Richard G. Lyons, Harold R. West, Lester H. Harrison, Earl Hadley, James H. Grissom.

Rudolph H. Ottoman, Martin Slane, Charles S. Ritter, Otto Urpilla, Philip Atkinson, Robert Kiss, Richard Haisinger, Vincent Schmitz, Edward Langowski, Wm. Tompkins, Harold Barth, Russell Olson, Jr., Thomas Young, Herbert Vogel, John H. Kink, Roy G. Ives, Richard White, Frank Novess, Robert E. Allhouse, Harvey Knickerbocker.

Edward Honeck, Clyde K. Stone, Moritz Brueckner, John Lamb, Leonard Withersell, James H. Whipple, David Strieter, Edward J. Rabley, Harley Prudden, Robert V. Abdon, Richard H. Barton, George Prinzing.

Rod & Gun Club Will

Operate Rifle Range

As a contribution to the local defense effort the Chelsea Rod & Gun Club is equipping an indoor rifle range in the basement of the Baxter building on North Main street.

The object of the club in establishing this range is to teach the public in the handling of firearms—and it is planned to have classes for ladies, as well as for men.

With world events developing into a more critical situation every day, little is known of what may be expected of every citizen within a comparatively short time, and with this thought in mind the idea of establishing rifle ranges in every community originated with the Michigan United Conservation Clubs. They have asked every sportsman's club in the state to cooperate in the venture which may prove to be of real value at a later date.

Shooting at the local range will be confined to .22 caliber rifles and pistols, and other small bore pistols. Anyone who does not own firearms may use the guns of Rod & Gun club members.

The range, which will be ready for use in about two weeks, will be the official 50-ft. small firearms range and there will be four targets. It will be open for use one or two evenings a week, depending upon the demand for its use.

According to C. H. Schwieger, chairman of the committee in charge of preparations to open the range, the venture will be operated on a non-profit basis, and charges for shooting will be held to a minimum—just enough to cover expenses.

M. J. Baxter is donating use of the basement to the Rod & Gun club. The entrance to the basement is at the rear of the building, just south of the bowling alleys.

The date of the opening will be announced within the next week or two.

Our Line of Defense

Washtenaw county went over the top in its Victory Book Campaign, with more than 47,000 books collected and ready for shipment to army posts and navy stations. In the work of sorting and packing the many contributions, volunteers provided by the Civilian Defense Volunteer Office in Ann Arbor assisted members of the University Library staff. Chelsea's collection of books went over the 600 mark and the committee wishes to express its thanks for the remarkable response.

The County Defense Council reports that 4,681 citizens of Washtenaw county had volunteered for home-war work by the end of January. Since then Chelsea has added 37 registrants to that list.

At present there are four classes in First Aid being conducted in Chelsea, under the direction of Dr. Guide, Dr. Quirk and Dr. Fisher; one Nutrition class, with Miss Clark of the high school faculty and Mrs. Kent Walworth as co-workers. This last class will meet each Thursday night at 7:30 in the Home Economics Room. On Thursday, Feb. 26 an announcement will be made to this group regarding the Short Canteen course. Plans have been received at the headquarters of the Red Cross in Ann Arbor and full details will be relayed to the local nutrition group on Thursday. The national organization has dropped its requirement that women must take a standard Red Cross nutrition course before being eligible for canteen instruction.

Along with the change in rules has come a change in instruction. Ten hours of classwork and 10 hours of practical experience replaces 20 hours of classwork as the requirement for canteen aides.

The local training class chairman would like for everyone interested in the canteen work to report on Thursday, Feb. 26 at 7:30 (tonight).

Independent League

Plans B. B. Tourney

After a very successful season by the local Independent Basketball League, plans are being made for a series of games between local teams and teams from Mason, Pinckney, Dexter, Manchester, King Seeley of Ann Arbor, and perhaps one or two more. According to tentative arrangements the pairings and games will take place in the next week or two. Having played 10 games in the regular league this year and having viewed the fine competition and brilliant ball playing there is every assurance that these games will be well worth attending.

Last Wednesday night brought the regular season to an end with the All-Stars accepting the playoffs—and the basketballs as prizes—as they subdued Cassidy Tech 30-23 in a hard fought game. Charley Panarites paced the All-Star attack with 14 points, while Graham rolled in 7 for Cassidy. Central Fibre walloped Federal Screw 34-10 after a close first half. This victory and Kimunity win gave these two teams a tie for runner-up spot.

Kimunity gave warning that they'll be tough to beat in the tournament as they trounced Chelsea Spring 49-25. This gave the Kimunity boys 101 points in their last two games. Al Johnson, injured during the game, rolled in 17 points to tie Bob Foster, his teammate, for the best single game performance of the season. G. Miller and Bob Foster followed him up with 10 points each. Heselshewerdt and Hart paced Spring with 6 points each.

Roynt Houle won the scoring race with 99 points, with Al Johnson second at 85 points, while C. Panarites with 79, Sperling 78, Duit Foster 72, D. Houle 72, Marshall 68, G. Miller 66, B. Foster 61, and Rademacher 61 completed the first ten scorers.

Schedule for Tonight

7:00—Chelsea Spring vs. Kimunity.
8:00—Central Fibre vs. All-Stars.
9:00—Federal Screw vs. Cassidy Tech.

Organization Formed

To Aid Air Recruits

An organization to aid prospective recruits, enlisted in the air force was formed in Ann Arbor last Thursday night when representatives from nearly every part of the county gathered in the circuit court room in the courthouse. W. M. Strickland of Ann Arbor was named chairman of the organization which is to be known as the Washtenaw County Air Force Sponsors Association.

Lewis G. Christman was named chairman of the program in Ann Arbor; L. A. Scamans, Ypsilanti; M. W. McClure, Chelsea; A. D. Van Aken, Dexter. Chairman from other villages in the county will also be named, and each rural supervisor is named as chairman of his township.

Other members of the local committee are Rev. Lawrence Dorr, A. D. Mayer, Jas. A. Park and A. C. Johnson.

Major Floyd Showalter, president of the army's traveling aviation cadet examining board for this area, addressed the group and stressed the importance of the sponsors' program. He stated that one pilot and 20 ground force members are needed for each plane and that the increased output of planes necessitates a large increase in the number of recruits.

The aviation traveling examining board will be at the Health Service, corner of Washington and Fletcher, Ann Arbor, on Tuesday and Wednesday, March 3 and 4, to receive candidates for air corps recruits. Young men between the ages of 18 and 26 who are interested in enlisting in the air corps are invited to contact this board at that time.

The Ann Arbor Elks lodge is underwriting all expenses of the sponsors' association.

ENLISTS IN NAVAL RESERVE

Charles H. Bycraft, Jr., enlisted Monday as machinist's mate in the Naval Reserves and is awaiting the call to report for duty. He is 23 years old and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Bycraft, Sr. Graduating from Chelsea high school in 1937, he has been employed at the Federal Screw Works.

TWILIGHT LIMITED DELAYED

The westbound Twilight Limited was delayed in Chelsea on Tuesday evening for about an hour and a half. The engine broke down and it was necessary to send to Jackson for an engine to come and take the train on its run.

ATTEND QUARTERLY MEETING

Jack Danouchel, Dennis Guinan, Herman Weber and Carl Swickherath, officers of the Chelsea Branch of the St. Vincent de Paul Society, attended the quarterly meeting at the Nativity Auditorium in Detroit on Sunday.

HAROLD HARRISON PROMOTED

Harold Harrison, formerly of Chelsea, now stationed at Camp Gordon, Augusta, Georgia, has been promoted to the rank of sergeant.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Buehler of Ann Arbor, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Fisk and Mrs. Carpenter of Jackson, Theron Foster and Mr. and Mrs. Thurne of Ypsilanti were Sunday guests at the home of Mrs. W. K. Guerin.

The V for Victory party held at the gymnasium on Friday evening, Feb. 20 is past history but it leaves a committee still full of enthusiasm for future projects. The appreciation of the functioning group can best be expressed by giving its patrons an account of the receipts and disbursements. Total amounts taken in from tickets, refreshments and check room were $208.75. Disbursements, including printing of tickets and posters, plus orchestra, refreshments, decoration and tax, $93.13. This left a balance of $115.62 which goes into the local Red Cross funds for home emergency. Many thanks!

FARM HOUSE BURNS

The farm house on Lima Center Rd. near Four Mile lake, owned by Harold Wright of Ann Arbor, was destroyed by fire which started about 10 o'clock Saturday forenoon from a burning chimney. The local fire department answered the alarm and most of the contents were saved. Mr. Wright's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Wright, with his brother James and three children occupied the lower apartment, while another brother, Burton Wright and family, lived on the second floor. The loss is partly covered by insurance.

Lansing—More efficiency in our war effort may be the 1942 battle cry of Michigan Republicans.

When a war is going well, citizens are usually satisfied with the men who are running the war. But when military reverses come—Singapore, for example—the same citizens awaken from general complacency to demand better and more vigorous leadership.

It is ironic, in a way, that frequently this is the case. Too often it was the same leadership which encountered indifference, if not outright resistance, to suggestions that the enemy might reach our own shores. Then when the enemy approaches nearer, the same public turns in partial panic upon their own leaders for "failure to act."

Such may be the case in Michigan.

When you get alarmed, you get mad. And angry voters are apt to vote for a change.

If military defeats continue to accumulate, and the likelihood is that they will as we prepare men and equipment for battle, Republicans may find themselves armed with a psychological weapon made to order for victory in November.

This is mere observation, not prediction.

Governor Murray D. Van Wagoner has been accused of political favoritism in appointment of county councils of defense, tire rationing officials and even Red Cross chairmen.

He countered with a statement that only 48 per cent of his appointees were Democrats, that the state council of defense was "overwhelmingly Republican."

Republican congressmen, such as Rep. Jesse P. Wycott, charge the national administration with failure to tell the truth about our losses at Pearl Harbor. Wycott declared recently in Lapeer that eight out of nine American capital ships, light and heavy cruisers and battleships, as well as 473 bomber planes, were "destroyed."

President Roosevelt said in a press conference last week that this sort of rumor was "rot." And he spelled it out—"r-o-t."

"Under certain conditions," the President added, the enemy could drop bombs on Detroit—a statement that is said to have startled reporters at his press conference.

German submarines have sunk numerous American oil tankers off the Atlantic coast. Dutch oil refineries were damaged by shells fired from an enemy submarine cruising only a few hundred miles from the Panama canal.

Loss of Singapore and the prospect that the Japanese will make a clean sweep of Sumatra, Java, and other Pacific strongholds have sent a wave of alarm over Allied Nations.

Senator David I. Walsh, Massachusetts Democrat, chairman of the Naval Affairs committee, declared on the Senate floor the coasts of the United States were "almost defenseless" and it might be necessary to "bring back our Navy from the four corners of the earth simply to protect our shores."

Other attacks in the wind as to 1942 Republican strategy:

Rep. Dewey Short, Missouri congressman: "Lack of leadership in Washington has contributed to a feeling of complacency. Until that smugness has disappeared, we are in danger of losing this war."

Rep. William W. Blackney of Flint: "This is no time for petty politics. America is on fire. It is our duty to put out the fire."

Senator Arthur Vandenberg: "The liner Normandie was not sunk by an enemy at sea. It was sunk by an enemy at home—which is definitely more ominous—and that 'enemy' was either sabotage or negligence."

Foremost in the Republican line is Secretary of State Harry F. Kelly. Kelly was not caught in the draft in the World war, but he may be in this one. The "Draft Kelly for Governor" campaign, launched months ago, is gathering momentum.

Kelly is from Detroit where much of the Van Wagoner political strength has centered. He was wounded while fighting in France. As secretary of state he has talked comparatively little, like Coolidge he has built a reputation of being a man of strength as well as a man of action.

Many Republican strategists in the winter-hot-stove league believe Kelly is a logical choice to head the 1942 ticket.

Kelly's pronouncements, made in a recent series of public addresses, include these remarks:

"We stand behind the administration 100 per cent in the prosecution of the war, but we also support the party whose principles we hold sacred."

"This is a time of trial and sacrifice for America, and as in every such crisis, we turn to Lincoln, the man of the common people, for help and guidance."

"Americans have always been opposed to dictatorship and oppression of any kind by government. We stand for liberty, knowing that when man has been free, the world has gone ahead, and when man has been enslaved, the world has gone backward."

"In the next election we shall continue to maintain the two-party system and the Republicans are going to fight to win."

Mentioned for lieutenant governor, as a running mate for Kelly (if Kelly chooses to run and wins the nomination), are Howard Nugent of Bad Axe, speaker of the house; Elton R. Eaton of Plymouth, successful editor-crusader against "boss control" and a former state legislator; Don Vanderwerp of Fremont who is credited by many with starting the Kelly bandwagon months ago and who is serving his third term in the state senate over which the lieutenant governor presides; and Dr. Eugene B. Keyes of Dearborn, the dentist-physician dark horse who outran a field of prominent veterans two years ago.

Because Keyes surprised politicians two years ago by soaring out of the blue, like a blazing comet, hot-stove leaguers have already coined a 1942 slogan: "Kelly and Keyes." But the public is notorious for its short memory; 1942 is a brand new year.

Muri DeFoe, former state liquor commissioner, recently attended the state convention of supervisors in Lansing. Returning to Charlotte, he wrote of political gossip at the state capitol, offering these pungent observations in the Charlotte Republican-Tribune:

"Governor Van Wagoner's friends are trying to switch Secretary Harry Kelly (R) to become a candidate for senator with their back curtain support, and if successful in this they don't care who is named against Van Wagoner; many folks think this was the technique that gave Michigan to Wilkie."

That Frank McKay, now in Florida, really wants to see Van Wagoner defeated; that the Republican party will be just a memory if it loses; that Elton Eaton (Plymouth) is almost certain to be in the primary for a top post, probably governor on an all-out anti-boss platform, which if true would certainly disturb the politicians who have been trying to avoid any major primary battle, and particularly the knockdown-drag-out campaign that Eaton would put on; that Vern Brown disappointed many friends when he eliminated himself from the governorship contest."

All this speculation leads to a few conclusions:

1. The American people are united in a grim determination to win the war whatever the cost. But they do demand efficiency. If this requires scrapping a few public officials, the latter will be retired overnight. Mad voters are apt to favor a change.

2. If this trend of public opinion continues, Governor Van Wagoner may take another lesson from F. D. R.'s notebook and sacrifice a few favorites to appease the multitude. Departments may be "reorganized"; new "reforms" proclaimed with great flourish; more Republicans given positions in the war program.

3. The two-party system of government, providing a ballot box accounting of what is being done and is not being done, should contribute to greater war efficiency regardless of the November election outcome.

O'NIEL-STEINER WEDDING

The parsonage of the Thoburn Methodist church in Detroit was the scene Sunday afternoon, February 22 of the wedding of Madeline Jane O'Neil of Detroit and Edward E. Steiner, son of the late Mrs. Eugene P. Steiner of Chelsea. The service was read by the Rev. J. D. James at 2 o'clock.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of Nartisian blue net over taffeta, with a tight fitting bodice and a large bouffant skirt. The bride repeated the blue net in the headdress of her illusion veil, and wore long lace mitts and open sandals the same shade. Her flowers were orchids.

The bridegroom was attended by his only brother, Fredric Steiner of Trenton, and the bride's brother, Philip Junior completed the attendants.

The mother of the bride chose a dress of flag blue, with black accessories, and both the bride's mother and the groom's sister, Mrs. Frederick Woodbury, wore corsages of yellow roses and white gladioli centered with blue bachelor buttons.

Following the ceremony a reception for 25 guests was held at the bride's home on Whitcomb Ave., where a two-course luncheon was served. The bride's table held a round three-tiered wedding cake of fruit, bouquets of daffodils and sweet peas with white tapers in heirloom candelabra.

Mr. and Mrs. Steiner left on a short honeymoon and on their return from their wedding trip will make their home at 1136 Lakewood. Mr. Steiner graduated from Chelsea high school in 1933, later attending Auburn College, and has been with the Budd Wheel-Co. in Detroit for some time.

NOTICE

GAS FOR HOUSE HEATING

The United States Government through the War Production Board on February 16, 1942, issued the following order:

"Whereas, because of increased gas requirements for war production and civilian uses, and because of scarcity of materials for the construction of pipe lines and other facilities, shortages of natural gas have occurred in certain areas of the United States and are threatened in others; and, whereas, during periods of adverse weather conditions, the demand for natural gas in many areas will increase beyond the capacity of existing facilities to meet such demand; and, whereas, the limitations upon deliveries of natural gas and the integration of gas system operations hereinafter ordered are necessary in order to maintain gas deliveries to war industries and essential civilian services; now, therefore, it is ordered that * * *

(e) Prohibition against delivery to new space heating installations; No utility shall deliver and no consumer shall accept delivery of natural gas or mixed natural and manufactured gas to the areas specified in exhibit "A" annexed hereto, (which includes Michigan) * * *

(i) For the operation of central space heating equipment, (or for heating equipment supplying the major portion of the heating requirements of the premises), unless such equipment was installed prior to March 1, 1942, or unless in the case of new construction, the equipment was specified in the construction contract, and the foundation under the main part of the structure in which the equipment is to be installed was completed prior to March 1, 1942; or

(ii) For the operation of central space heating equipment, (or heating equipment supplying the major portion of the heating requirements of the premises), which has been converted from other fuel to natural or mixed natural and manufactured gas, unless such conversion has been completed prior to ten days after the effective date of this order * * *

In accordance with this order, we shall after March 1, 1942, be unable to take on any new customers for household heating, or for commercial or industrial space heating.

This restriction does not apply to the use of gas for cooking, water heating and refrigeration.

WINDSTORM COMPANY MAKES FINE RECORD

The annual meeting of the Michigan Mutual Windstorm Insurance Company of Hastings was held at the Home Office on January 25, 1942. The officers and directors were re-elected.

The annual report shows 1941 to have been a very successful year for this reliable old company. The amount of insurance in force December 31, 1941, is $471,762,689.00. This represents a net gain of $13,372,581.00. It can plainly be seen that the company is headed for $500,000,000.00 insurance in force. At its present rate of increase the company will reach this goal within two years.

The number of losses paid during 1941 was 31,049, the largest number ever paid in any single year during the fifty-six years' experience of the company. These individual claims amounted to over $1,100,000.00 and were paid without borrowing money or increasing the number or size of its assessments. The wisdom of the management of this company has been shown in its having a large cash reserve on hand with which to pay this unusually heavy loss.

A new feature has been adopted by the company whereby $400,000.00 in losses are re-insured during 1942. This, together with the splendid financial condition of the Windstorm Company, places it in A-1 condition to meet any eventuality in 1942.

It can be seen that the Windstorm Company deserves the splendid reputation it has. Confidence in it is based upon its record of over fifty-six years of square dealing with its policyholders and the careful, prudent management of its affairs.

The work of decorating the M. E. church at North lake has been finished and the new seats have arrived. The church will be reopened with appropriate services on March 7 and 8.

Next Wednesday is the beginning of Lent.

It is reported that the yard at the Jerusalem mills is filled to its utmost capacity with saw logs that the farmers in that vicinity will have saved in lumber for use on their farms.

Rev. Wm. Kiemenschneder of Sylvan celebrated his 86th birthday on Saturday.

Monday of this week D. C. McLaren & Son received 36 loads of baled hay from farmers south of Chelsea. Each load contained 30 bales and the average weight of each bale was 125 pounds. The 36 loads filled five railroad cars.

Prices of meat in advertisements were: Round steak 11c, sirloin steak 12c, porterhouse 14c, all pork 10c, beef roasts 8c, 9c and 10c, boiling beef 6c to 8c, all kinds of sausage 10c.

Waterloo

The Ladies' Aid served dinner to 38 guests and members on Thursday, Feb. 19, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. Vicary. The March meeting will be held at the Emory Runciman home, in the afternoon. There will be no dinner served until April 6 at the town hall.

Mrs. Walter Vicary spent several days recently with her mother and other relatives in Detroit and New Baltimore; she also attended the wedding of her nephew, Dr. Robert Foyt, and Miss Lauretta Gilt, in Detroit.

The first Red Cross meeting will be held at the town hall on Friday afternoon at 2:30, for the purpose of organizing Waterloo. Arrangements will be made to have Mrs. Nunn from Jackson Chapter at this meeting. Miss Marie Harr is chairman of Waterloo and urges all who are interested to meet her there.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Stanfield and children were dinner guests at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Walz.

Miss Isabelle Hitchcock and sister, Mrs. Hazel Thompson, of Detroit were week-end visitors at the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Hitchcock.

Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Walz entertained her folks on Sunday.

Mrs. Mable Woolley and Mr. and Mrs. James Morse entertained at a family gathering on Sunday, honoring the former's son James, who left for army camp on Monday. A turkey dinner was served, with all the trimmings. Others present were Newell Woolley, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Woolley, Richard Vicary and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Morse of Howell. The honor guest received several gifts and a purse of money from relatives, friends and the Ladies' Aid.

Mr. and Mrs. Victor Winter entertained at their home in Chelsea on Sunday for her sister Wilma and brother Gerald Runciman, to honor their twin birthdays. Their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Emory Runciman, Mrs. Gerald Runciman and baby were also present.

KEEP

YOUR CAR ROLLING

You May Have To Drive It 5 More Years!

YES, SIR! Your old bus will have to keep on rolling or you'll be walking or riding with the neighbors.

WILL YOUR CAR LAST 3 - 5 - 10 YEARS? Your car is in for the duration, maybe 3, 5 or even 10 years. Factories won't be changed back until the war is over. Then it will take months—maybe years—to fill demands.

GET YOUR CAR SET FOR THE DURATION—NOW! The sooner you get your car tuned up for the duration, the less it will cost and the longer your car will last. It is vital that you keep your car in good condition for yourself and for defense.

A STITCH IN TIME SAVES NINE—MAYBE TEN. Even a new car should be tightened up and gone over. Minor adjustments prevent wear, and if parts are needed, get them now when you know they are available.

SAVE YOUR TIRES—YOU'LL BE NEEDING THEM! Wheels frequently get out of balance, even on new cars. This means dangerous tire wear. Bad breaks cost much vital rubber. And tires should be switched from wheel to wheel for maximum wear.

Spring Conditioning that's TAILORED TO YOUR CAR!

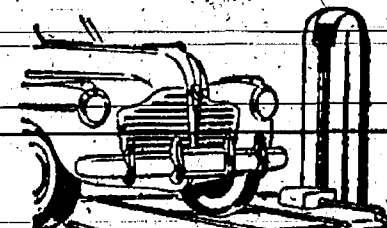

Come in Now for a FREE Inspection by Authorized Factory-Trained Mechanics that Will Show Exactly what Attention YOUR Car Needs.

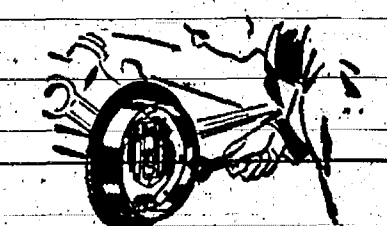

HOW'S YOUR CLUTCH ACTION? Did you know that a clutch that is not operating properly can result in too-rapid tire wear? That's one of the things our tailored spring servicing catches.

WANT LONGER TIRE LIFE? When switching tires, do you remember the space? If you'll let us switch your tires, marking the space in where it can best be used, each tire out of the five you have will be on the road only four-fifths as much as usual. Not result: Longer life from the same full set.

ARE YOUR WHEELS IN LINE? Misaligned front wheels not only wear tires rapidly but may interfere with proper car control. One of many instances where it's better to check up and be sure.

GOOD BRAKES MEAN SAFETY PLUS. Brakes ought to be kept in proper adjustment for safety reasons alone. Beyond that, brakes that are "out" can also result in unnecessarily increased tire wear. For best results, let Buick men adjust your Buick brakes to Buick factory specifications.

LICK-AND-A-PROMISE spring conditioning won't do this year, mister!

You've got something more important to think about than just changing oil and grease—you've got a whole car that will have to see you through the duration, and you can't afford to overlook any part of it.

That's why Buick spring service is tailored to your own particular car.

We change oil and grease in the regular way, of course—we check batteries, cooling systems, wheel alignment and other routine matters.

Your whole car lasts longer when it is conditioned as a unit—especially when trained Buick specialists do the job.

So we write your spring conditioning ticket to fit your car's needs—not to make up a ready-made "package" according to average requirements.

The cost is no higher than for a comparably good job anywhere else. It's actually lower in the long run, because it pays to have a job done right.

Drop in for a FREE check-up by our authorized factory-trained mechanics and let us detail the service your car should have this spring.

A LETTER TO..

Chelsea

from Bridgetown, Barbados

(Written in Apartment 1, St. Ann's Hotel, Garrison, Bridgetown.)

An unexpected opportunity has arisen, of which I should definitely avail myself to the extent of an article. It would likely not have occurred elsewhere during the trip. Perhaps it is just as well we have been delayed in Barbados.

Kate and I have met our first real live Englishwoman.

She is not yet thirty, attractive, and the mother of two handsome children. The wife of a British naval airman, she has spent the last year shuttling herself and kiddies between Montreal, New York, Bermuda, Trinidad, and has now settled in Barbados for the duration. They left England a year ago, feeling it their duty to do so, feeling the riddance of three non-essential people might be of some advantage to the war effort.

We have spent many hours in her company. In her descriptions of conditions in England she has been frank and un-dramatic. We have discussed every phase of the vital relationship between the British Empire and the United States. She has been candid and so have we. For the first time we have known actually what the British have thought and felt since the war began, all propaganda aside.

When last in Chelsea, A. D. Mayer asked us to find out what "they" thought of us, meaning the people of the Caribbean and South America. I shall now include the English in that "they". And I trust many of you will be as genuinely interested as we.

Her experiences have been, I suppose, typical. She has seen heroism and doggedness, limbs on the ground and heads in trees, time-bombs hanging from tree branches, swaying dead in the wind. She has seen a Nazi plane machine-gun the entire length of a village street, banking so low she could see the pilot's face. All this, and much more.

She believes the strength of England has been the strength of her little people—the ones who have been bombed and machine-gunned, have lost their homes and their dear ones—and then asked for more. They have been wonderful.

How does she feel about our entry into the war? Thankful—for now England is less alone, and sorry—for now we must endure much of what the British have endured.

She was positively amazed when we told her it was quite possible America would never have entered the war had she not been attacked. "Haven't you known what we were going through? Didn't you realize that war would eventually come to you anyway?" No, we told her. We knew you were suffering greatly, but in our colossal American complacency we thought no nation would ever dare challenge us. We thought America could play safely in her own back yard, unconscious of what was happening in her neighborhood.

We argued about stupid things—payment of the war debts, religion in Russia, we insisted we had learned a lesson in the last war and would never again tangle with European intrigues. "But didn't you see this war was different?" And that you must become world-conscious, not just Western Hemisphere-conscious? "No, we told her, not until Pearl Harbor—and now our eyes are opened. Letters from home have told us the country is united as never before."

She was frank. She told us that since the frightful thing began the common people in England have expected us to come in at any moment. "You see, when the war began, we had old, conservative, incapable men governing us. The men in their forties and fifties who should have been our leaders were all killed in the last war. We did not see it coming. But you had young men—and we thought you would see it clearly." No, we told her, we were sulking. "I wonder how Winston Churchill went over in the States." We said that letters from home indicated he had been received with open arms, and the whole country thought him marvelous.

"There is no marvel in the whole of the truth now. The volume of your aid to us was very disappointing." There was nothing we could say, for we knew it to be true. But we assured her her country would not lack now.

Finally, we all sighed. "Isn't it a shame Americans and Englishmen don't understand one another better?" Well, we said, we think you English are snooty and smooth and you don't pay your war debts. "Do you want to know the truth?" she said.

"Frankly, we are conceited—and we realize we have no more to be conceited about than you have. You Americans amaze us and we're envious of you. And haven't you yet realized we couldn't pay our war debts—Lord, the money and arms you're giving us now are just as much for your own defense as ours! We come over to you with monacles and 'Hello, chaps!' and you come over to us with shirt-tails hanging out and throwing your money impudently about."

"But, underneath, we're very much alike, and this war will bring us closer together than ever. It must—for at-terwards the responsibility for the world's future will rest upon our shoulders."

Which—in American slang—was saying a mouthful.

Before I close—Henry Schneider seemed interested in manufactured products down here. And in all the islands of the Caribbean, little manufacturing exists. All manufactured goods are imported from Canada, England, or the States. Manufacturing would be economically unfeasible down here, for raw materials are lacking. The low cost of labor would be the only thing in its favor. But I do know that in many species of handicraft the natives excel, and I am truly surprised that some enterprising Americans haven't cornered the supply of some of the items and wholesaled them in the States.

From St. George, Grenada
(Written on the deck of the "Marian-Belle-Wolfe" of Grenada.)

In order to break the monotony of our enforced beachcombing on Barbados, and to satisfy our restless feet, Kate and I are taking a side trip to the British island of Grenada, "one hundred forty-five miles" south and east of Bridgetown.

It is not where we have gone—it is the way we have come! In coming to Grenada we have satisfied a long-cherished ambition of ours: to travel somewhere by sail. The "Marian-Belle-Wolfe" is a three-masted schooner, about a hundred and fifty feet long. She is really a beauty, with her crimson hull, green and white trimmings, and her yards and yards of white sail. She has been lying in the Careenage at Bridgetown for some weeks, refitting, when we heard she was to make a short run to St. George and return. We clambered aboard and inquired as to round-trip fare—$10 per person, furnish your own food!

It was too good to miss. She would be gone only four days, and the gods of war had supplied us with an abundance of time.

I wish you could see us right now. The "Marian-Belle-Wolfe" is pulled alongside the wharf in the St. George Careenage, taking on a cargo of coconuts. Donkeys are here-hawing, black boys are shouting and singing, women with trays on their heads stand around offering unsolicited advice on how the cargo should be taken on, all in confusion and excitement. Overhead, the sky is sunbrilliant and blue, with white clouds puffing by as though from a pipe; the sea is unbelievably indigo and the hills huddle closely around the harbor, green with envy.

Kate is seated on our mattress on deck—oh, yes, first class passengers sleep on deck on our luxury liner—fighting desperately with the meat of a frightened coconut. I am squatting on my haunches trying to typewrite amid the indescribable hubbub.

But it is all wonderful. A day and one-half coming over, with cooperative Trade Winds, a day in St. George, and a day and one-half to return—a total of four days we shall never forget. These days prove to us that the torments which man can devise for himself—especially war—are as yet unable to drive romance from the globe.

We have set foot on Grenada only long enough to walk through the streets of the capital city of the Grenadines. It is reminiscent of Bridgetown; even the black policemen wear similar uniforms. I shall go ashore again to get this article off airmail, and soon we shall put out to sea. Here are the only items of information I have gathered from snatches of crew conversation: the island of Grenada is 23 miles long by 12 wide, the population is about 71,000, it was discovered by Columbus in 1498, its chief exports are cocoa and nutmegs, and the interior of the island is so picturesque that it has attracted a number of American artists.

Men will go down to the sea in sailing vessels as long as adventurousness is characteristic of men.

Sailing on a three-master over the blue Caribbean! The sea was calm coming over; our decks were never awash. Schools of flying fish skittered away from us, an occasional porpoise walloped playfully in our wake, overhead the billowing canvas tried to out-do the clouds, the glare of sun on water was exhilarating. We sat on our mattresses and burned even browner than before. The ship's cook prepared our meals in a little galley, a sort of shed on deck amidships.

The night was glorious. We were unable to sleep until the wee hours. So much beauty and peace was breathtaking. We lay as though on the back of a great animal, ageless as time, which rolled and trembled as it walked the searoads in the path-cur by buccaneers, whaling men, and the old American clipper ships. Milky stars played merry-go-round between the tall spars; the rigging hummed secrets to itself; the songs of the black sailors came to us fitfully.

"Satan's children lie in de grass, Mockin' believers as dey pass."

The waves were friendly but determined; they fought and foamed against our wooden walls, leaving carpets of phosphorescence behind.

Tonight we shall be at sea again. Will you come with us?

Before I close, I think it time that of us had a heart-to-heart talk. You all know what the war has done to

The protective skin of the apple is not there by accident. It's Nature's way of guarding the flavor and keeping out harmful elements until the fruit is fully matured. In the same way, ALTES' exclusive sealed-in process (closed instead of open vats) keeps in all the natural flavor and aroma of the beer—keeps anything harmful out. That's why ALTES BEER is so light, mellow and wholesome.

Food Is Definitely In First Line of Defense

"Guns and planes and tanks may be the most dramatic and the most visible one of defense but food is the first and the firmest line of defense. This is the theory held by Harry M. Cole, secretary of the Washtenaw county AAA committee, who urges farmers to follow through next spring on their production pledges made last fall in the "food for freedom" canvass conducted by AAA farmer-committee-men.

"Food has been the deciding factor in many past wars," Mr. Cole declared. "The nation that has plenty of food as well as plenty of arms is certainly a lot better off than a nation with only plenty of arms. It was lack of food that licked Germany in the last war and lack of food will probably lick her again in this war eventually."

Mr. Cole said that it was the farmer's job to see to it that this country never wants for food. It's the farmer's contribution to national defense. The aim of the 1942 Farm Defense Program, he said, is to produce in an orderly and planned manner a sufficient amount of food in this country to meet increased domestic demand due to increased purchasing power, to meet the needs for improved nutrition in this country, to help feed friendly nations, and to build up reserve stockpiles of food to use as a bargaining power at the peace table, and to have on hand to help feed starving Europe after the war.

"It looks to me like a good dairy cow is going to be as important in this war as an anti-aircraft gun," the secretary declared, as he pointed out that Washtenaw county farmers have indicated they will produce 100,550,214 pounds of milk in 1942 to help make up the nation's total of 125 billion pounds, more than this country has ever produced in any one year.

To back up his contention of food's importance in the present crisis, Mr. Cole quoted a statement from U. S. Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard, an Indiana farmer: "Food is a whole arsenal of weapons in this struggle for human freedom. It is the driving force behind high production by munitions workers, and top-notch performance and strong morale among soldiers and sailors. Our national self-interest and our humanitarian instincts challenge us to do this job of producing food and do it on a scale that will write history. In the day of victory when the nations sit down at the peace table our food stockpiles, ready to be drawn on by the famished people of the Old World, will give great force to our views. For they will show once and for all that democracy builds for the needs of common men. By winning our American battle of farm production we will help to make it possible once again for men in all parts of the earth to live in comfort and in tolerance and in freedom."

our plans. One by one the boat lines which formerly touched Barbados have been discontinued. It has been a bitter experience. And we feel deeply responsible.

We may have to revise our itinerary to this extent: it may be necessary to pass through the Panama Canal and go down the west coast of South America to Peru and Chile first, then cross and do Argentina and Brazil. There would be no harm in it. But the changing of plans is always a disagreeable duty.

I think you would do exactly what we are doing: investigating every ship possibility, devouring rumor and suggestion, pouring over our maps—desperately determined to go on if at all possible.

Rest assured of this—by the time the next article appears in the Chelsea Standard—something will have happened. We hope to have definite information as to our future plans.

Optical Illusion Causes Accident
Drivers who survive after crashing into the rear end of a slower moving truck or automobile, usually explain that they realized too late the real difference between their speed and that of the vehicle ahead, according to the Automobile Club of Southern California. According to eye physicians, there is an optical illusion which, especially at night, makes the car ahead seem to be farther away and traveling faster than is actually the case.

SHE LOVED A SPY

by SYLVIA TAYLOR

THE STORY SO FAR: Joan Leland, secretary to Arthur Mulford, San Francisco importer, is amazed and angry when he discharges her without notice or explanation. Her sister Sybil, with whom she shares an apartment, loses her position also and Joan accepts a secretarial position with handsome Karl Miller, night club proprietor. He pays her well because of the unusual hours. She is fascinated and accepts his love-making. Later she meets his manager, Paul Sherman and his partner, Eric Strom, who both express admiration for her. Paul warns her against Karl but refuses to give his reasons. Returning to the office unexpectedly Joan overhears Karl and Eric in a mysterious conversation. Paul drives her home and they quarrel over Joan working for Karl. Later Karl invites her to inspect a freighter, whose captain he knows. Both Paul and Joan's sister, Sybil, warn her against Karl. Paul is found following her.

CHAPTER VI

Sybil shrugged. "There are a lot of people I don't trust. For instance, why is Paul Sherman following you?"

"I intend to find out tonight. He has an appointment at the club at ten-thirty. I'll try to see him alone for a few minutes. I'm going to ask him to explain."

"Karl probably knows about it already. It may be his orders."

"That's ridiculous!" Joan flared. "How can you dislike Karl so much? After he got you your job and has been so kind to you?"

"You're just tired, honey!" Sybil said as she put comforting arms about Joan. "You don't get enough sleep. You need more sun and fresh air. Working in that shut-in office with no outside windows is enough to make anyone ill."

"Let me alone!" her sister wept. "You don't understand. No one understands how I feel."

Sybil sighed as she went back to the kitchen. But before Joan left for the office she had kissed Sybil affectionately, saying, "I'm sorry, Sybil. I guess I am tired. One of the things that's making me nervous is having Paul follow me all the time. I can't stand it any longer, and I'm going to settle it tonight."

Later when Joan hurried from the apartment and walked to the trolley line through the dark night, she felt strangely exhilarated. It was a thrill even to go to work when her boss was Karl Miller.

"The whole world is different when you're in love," Joan thought, and she pitied the girls who were neglected by this great emotion.

At the Club Joan paused to look at the crowd. The low ceiling was flooded with a soft indirect lighting. It was a pleasant intimate room. The dance floor was small but adequate. It formed a circle in front of the band which, according to Karl, was "going over big." The Club Elite was definitely a success.

The bar at one side of the room was crowded. Joan, glancing casually at the well-dressed men and women, saw Paul Sherman. She glanced at her watch. It was a quarter of eight. She had fifteen minutes before she was due in Karl's office. Now was her chance.

"Hello," Paul said, "is it possible that you want to see me?" Joan sat down beside him. "I have been seeing you almost constantly for three weeks," she said significantly.

"That's a tricky bit," Paul said admiringly. "Be serious, Paul. You know what I mean. Why have you been following me?"

"Must have been two other people. Want a drink?"

"No, thank you," Joan exploded. "There's no use trying to evade the issue. I saw you down at the boat that night."

His brown eyes were serious. "You didn't tell Karl?"

"No! I didn't."

"Why not?"

"I didn't want you to lose your job," she confessed. "I couldn't believe that you meant any harm."

"That's very sweet of you, Joan. I appreciate your confidence."

"Well? Aren't you going to explain it if you don't, I'm going to tell him."

Paul looked at his watch. "We haven't time to talk now. You have to be in the office by eight-thirty. You'll come in later and we'll talk then. Meanwhile, please don't say anything to Karl. Promise me, Joan."

"I won't if you'll explain."

"You have all the instincts of a detective," Paul laughed.

"That's what Karl said to me once, Joan informed him. 'I'll see you later.'"

Karl Miller was in his office. The moment Joan entered, he drew her into his arms. "That's an adorable hat," he said, kissing her.

"I knew you'd like it!" She pressed her cheek against his. She possessed her cheek against his. She pressed her cheek against his. She possessed her cheek against his.

"I'll be out of the office until ten," Karl told her. "Try to finish those letters."

"Paul wants to see you at ten-thirty," she reminded him.

"Ah! Miss Leland! You are alone, I see. And looking very beautiful, as always."

"I'll be back. Good night, Liebchen!"

Another kiss and he was gone. Joan turned back to her typewriter wondering how she could keep her mind off Karl Miller and type these letters. Karl was such a man! He had lived. He was not an inexperienced boy in his twenties. Paul must be twenty-six or seven but he seemed a boy compared to Karl.

Karl who was so sophisticated—so completely sure of himself.

"Stop thinking about him!" Joan scolded herself and, fitting a sheet of paper into her typewriter, she began to work.

It was almost ten when the door opened without warning. Joan thought it was Paul but it was Eric Strom, Karl's partner, who stepped inside. Joan had not seen him since the night he dined with Karl and her.

"Ah! Miss Leland! You are alone, I see. And looking very beautiful as always." Eric's voice was soft but his eyes regarded her insolently.

"Karl will be back any minute," Joan said quickly.

"I don't think so. I left him only a few minutes ago, quite absorbed in a business matter. Mind if I have a drink?"

"You're Karl's partner. It's your office, too. She was trying to control her dislike of him."

"You are very generous," Eric Strom said, but he did not open the bar concealed in the wall. Instead he approached her desk.

"You'll have to excuse me," Joan said, suddenly afraid. "I'm very busy."

But with a quick step, Eric was beside her. Drawing her to her feet, he attempted to kiss her. "You beautiful little devil!" he murmured.

Joan was terror-stricken. She tried to scream but no sound would come. She pulled away with all her strength but Eric Strom only laughed.

"Let me alone!" Joan cried as she felt Eric's arms about her. She was not aware that the office door had opened until a hand seized her and whirled him around.

"Paul!"

Paul's face was grim. "You dirty rat!" He smashed his fist full in Eric's face with a blow that sent him spinning across the room.

Eric staggered to his feet but there was a smile on his evil face. "You'll pay for this, Sherman!"

You seem to forget I have something to say about this business."

Joan leaned weakly against the desk, sobbing.

"Shut up and get out!" Paul ordered, advancing toward Eric again. And at that moment Karl Miller appeared in the doorway. His voice cut like a whip through the tense atmosphere. "What's going on here?" he demanded.

No one seemed inclined to answer him but he read the story in their faces. "I want to talk to Joan alone!" She had never heard him use this tone before. His voice was edged with steel. His eyes were hard. He seemed another Karl, a man she had never known.

As Paul turned to go, Joan ran to him. "Thanks, Paul!" she said, her voice trembling.

But Paul did not look at her. His voice was strained. "Don't mention it!"

When they were alone, Karl said, "I won't happen again, Joan. I'll see that Eric doesn't annoy you."

Desperately she tried to regain control of her shattered nerves but sobbed shock her. Karl put his arms about her and his touch was magic. "Don't cry, Liebchen! There's nothing to be afraid of now."

She clung to him, feeling strength in his assurance. "Oh, Karl, I love you!" The words tripped over each other in stammering sincerity.

Karl Miller, pressing his lips against her white forehead, smiled.

The days of November marched by with astonishing rapidity. Joan was not bothered by Eric Strom again and her fears vanished. Karl was more attentive than ever, and Joan, with the radiant assurance of a woman loved, checked off each day as more perfect than the last.

Sometimes she doubted her efficiency as Karl's secretary. She typed letters scarcely knowing what she was writing. But if she was inefficient Karl did not seem to notice it.

One rainy night Joan said to Sybil, "I've never been so happy in my life."

"It's too good to be true," Sybil prophesied gloomily. "I still don't like Karl. The more I see of him the less I trust him. And another one I don't care for is that Mrs. Murdock who runs the beauty shop."

"Is that Karl's fault? He got you the job. That's enough, isn't it?"

Joan had come home for dinner and Karl had told her she need not be back at work until nine, an hour later than usual.

"I never heard of such crazy hours," Sybil objected. "Karl certainly isn't very businesslike about the club. I don't see how he makes anything."

Joan walked restlessly up and down the living room. "Karl makes plenty of money. He's a very clever man." She glanced at the clock. "I think I'll go back early. Karl might need me." Shortly before eight she left.

Happily she opened the door of Karl Miller's office but the smile on her face faded when she saw that Karl was not alone. Eric Strom was with him.

"I'm just leaving," Eric said, and without a word to Joan he walked past her and down the corridor.

Karl did not seem surprised that she had arrived early. He made no comment upon her appearance. He read her thoughts, when he said, "I did think you'd want to see Eric, so I told you to come later."

Instantly she was reassured. It was kind of him to spare her a meeting with Eric Strom.

"Joan," Karl continued, with his quick smile, "I hate to ask you to do this on such a bad night but I can't leave the office and I want this package delivered." He held out a small leather portfolio.

"I don't mind, Karl! Where does it go?"

"Do you remember the night I took you aboard the freighter?"

She nodded and he went on, "I want it delivered there. Take a taxi and go immediately."

Joan fastened her coat and slipped on her gloves. "To whom shall I give it?"

"They're expecting you. Someone will meet you. Give him the package and come right back. You'll find a taxi outside." He kissed her briefly.

When she arrived at the pier Joan asked the driver to wait, and clutching the portfolio tightly, ran into the warehouse. She walked rapidly through the darkness, through the opening which led to the ship. There was no one in sight as she ascended the slippery gangplank.

She stood uncertainly for a moment peering through the misty darkness before she heard a voice.

A Senior Speaks

In all activities, especially those at school, enthusiasm plays a very important role. Whether it is a basketball game, All-Hi party or class play, everyone concerned must be enthusiastic but along with this enthusiasm there must be cooperation, good sportsmanship, and the willingness to work hard.

With a combination of these three essential factors, the Seniors are sure to make a great success of their play to be held March 20—so please don't be distressed if you encounter an overly-enthusiastic Senior—just buy a ticket.

Office News

The Washtenaw District of the Michigan Education Association will hold a dinner meeting at Milan on Monday, March 2.

The boys' basketball team is scheduled to play Roosevelt in the local gymnasium on Friday, February 27. The boys will play in the District Tournament at Napoleon on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, March 5, 6 and 7. Drawings for places in the tournament will be held on Friday, February 27. The girls' team is scheduled to play Clinton in the local gymnasium on the afternoon of that same day.

The Seniors are busy engaged in rehearsing for their play, "Miss Smarty", which will be presented on Friday, March 20.

We wish to express our thanks to Arthur Paul, who has done a very good job of taking care of the school's skating rink during the winter.

We are also requesting that the parents of former Chelsea high school pupils who are now in the armed forces of the United States send a postcard to the school, giving the soldier's name and address, so that members of the Senior class may write to him.

Student Council

The Student Council sponsored another program of the National Program Service during the activity period on Tuesday. It was entitled "Uncle Tom's Cabin."

Dick Kinsey was in charge of the seating arrangement.

John Hale gave a report on the activities of the C. B. I. and also on the monitor system. They also discussed the question "Should a monitor system be adopted during the school day?" It was decided that they would have such a system. It is to be discussed more in detail at the next meeting.

They also discussed the question of the machine dances. Everyone voted in favor of it.

An All-Hi party will be sponsored Friday, February 27, after the Roosevelt basketball game. The duties of the classes are: Seniors, clean-up; Juniors, refreshments; Sophomores, decorations and advertisements; and the Freshmen, entertainment.

Senior News

"Play practice is well under way. Everyone in the cast is enthusiastic and promises to do his part to make this a successful production. The tickets are to go on sale sometime this week, so be watching for a Senior to come to your door."

In case you haven't heard the name

"Wer da!" She drew back involuntarily. The guttural voice frightened her.

Instantly a man appeared out of the night and the muscles of his scarred face relaxed when he saw who it was. "Miss Leland?"

"Yes," Joan faltered. "Here is a package from Mr. Miller."

"Danke schoen!" He saluted her and disappeared into the shadows.

Joan returned through the warehouse to the street. She shivered as the wind swept the rain in great gusts. Thank goodness, her taxi was still there.

Quickly Joan ran to it, opened the door and climbed in.

"Good evening," Paul Sherman said.

He was sitting in the corner composedly smoking a cigarette. "I thought you might need me."

"So you're following me again!"

She felt his arm nudge hers in warning as he glanced towards the taxi driver. "Don't talk now!" he said under his breath.

"Take me back to the club," Joan ordered.

But Paul said, "Drive straight ahead till I give you further directions. And step on it!"

Joan sat in furious silence as the driver, obeyed Paul's orders. They climbed the slope of Nob Hill. Not until they stopped at a hotel and were settled at a small table in the grill did she turn angrily to Paul.

"Would you mind telling me what is the idea of this? I happen to be working for Karl, and he's expecting me back at the office."

The room was warm and gay and there was a hum of voices.

Class News

The class is having a skating party this Thursday. They have charge of the entertainment for the coming All-Hi party, and guarantee a good time to all.

The Sophomores have charge of the pep meeting Tuesday.

The Juniors are on the refreshment committee for the All-Hi party Friday night.

Our Seniors

Richard Kinsey, known mostly as Dick, was born in Chelsea on July 10, 1924. He moved to Ann Arbor after several years in C. H. S., but now is back to graduate with his original classmates. Dick has brown eyes and hair (to match his favorite color), weighs 150 and is 5 ft. 11 inches tall. Someday he hopes to be a mechanic and to build muscles for this, he eats plenty of tenderloin steaks and gets plenty of sleep. His favorite song is "Were the Couple in the Castle" when Guy Lombardo plays it. Dick likes a dog for a companion and of all the subjects he's taken, History is his favorite.

In Chelsea on Dec. 15, 1924 another Senior was born. His name—Stanley Koneski. Stan is now 6 ft., weighs 150 pounds, with brown hair and eyes.

Ice cream is his favorite food and bowling his pastime. Like Dick he plays baseball but his favorite color is green. To be a tool and die maker is Stanley's ambition and maybe that's why he likes shop so well. For relaxation Stan listens to Tommy Dorsey, especially when he plays "Deep in the Heart of Texas." His favorite animal is a horse.

Chelsea was defeated by Flat Rock, who holds top place in the Huron River League, by a score of 30-25, at Flat Rock last Friday.

Chelsea led the scoring during most of the game until the last four minutes when the score was tied 25-25.

In the last four minutes Flat Rock outplayed Chelsea 7-2. Chelsea is the first team to score over 20 points against the Flat Rock five.

In the first quarter Kusterer and S. Policht scored 4 points each and Flat Rock scored 8 points also.

At the end of the second and third quarters Chelsea led their opponents, 19-17 and 21-19 respectively.

Kusterer was high point man for Chelsea and Stevenson took the same honor for Flat Rock.

The second team game was an easy victory for Flat Rock, the score being 38-4.

Girls' Athletics

The girls' basketball game with University High, which was scheduled for Friday, February 20, was postponed because of an epidemic of measles in Ann Arbor. This game will probably be played sometime during the first week of March.

Uncle Tom's Cabin

Tuesday during activity period a program was presented by the National Program Service. It was a play entitled "Uncle Tom's Cabin." The Student Council sponsored it. Everyone enjoyed it very much.

Week In Review

Have you ever visited or attended Chelsea High? If you haven't, you're missing something. No kidding! Everyone seems so busy and yet there is an air of friendliness and gaiety among the students.

Monday: Bright (?) and early we go! Journalism club started a campaign for selling the paper when they are going to publish. The books will contain all school news for this school year—play practice started in study hall for that great Senior play entitled "Miss Smarty"—thirteen brave Seniors started taking attitude tests sent out by the U. of M.—bowling continued but may I add, not improved! (anyway, it gives the pinboys a chance to catch up on sleep "lost" over the week-end).

Tuesday: Speech class had an interesting assignment on impersonations. They were very good, especially Jean Dexter's southern accent—Chemistry class made five extinguishers (huff said). One "blew up" in Evelyn Lehman's face and V. Sullivan's dress which was navy blue turned a peculiar shade of red.

Wednesday: The seniors taking tests missed lunch again. In studying play production, Mr. Chandler asked Don Howland what a burlesque was. "I didn't know there were that many shades of red!" Lent started and many students attended church.

Thursday: Journalism was pleased to have 131 students sign up for their book—we noticed mail being postmarked Ann Arbor starting to arrive—remember we played U. High not so long ago?—there was no B. B. practice so most of the students met at John's just to drink cokes and chat.

Friday: Mr. Cameron made a subtle remark about the senior girls being beautiful but dumb and said "Now watch them smile, they believe in the Chelsea U. High girls' game was postponed. Guess what? The U. High girls have that terrible disease, measles! The boys journeyed to Flat Rock and put up a terrific battle. You know the results. The upperclassmen were well represented. Incidentally, all who attended had a wonderful time and are hoping there will be another dance soon.

Defense Program

Chelsea high school has put forth quite an effort in support of the Defense Program. The sale of Defense Stamps was first started and the sale has increased so that now the average money received a week is thirty dollars in the high school.

The boys have started physical training classes led by Lawrence Dietle. Several students met after school last Wednesday to form a Victory Garden club. Mr. Richards is sponsoring this and has seeds.

Drives for paper and scrap iron have been on for some time. The Freshman class has charge of the scrap iron drive and Juniors have charge of the paper.

Air raid drills have been successful. When the air raid signal rings the girls remain in their seats while the boys leave the room and go to the basement. The girls then go to the lower halls. Teachers have charge of the halls.

A better and bigger program will eventually be carried out.

Victory Garden Club

Every student who plans to have a garden this summer should take advantage of the service offered by the Victory Garden Club. Help will be given in planning gardens, in ordering seeds, and in various other ways.

One meeting of the club has been held and another is planned for Thursday, March 5. In the meantime, information and enrollment blanks may be obtained from Mr. Richards.

Chelsea was defeated by Flat Rock, who holds top place in the Huron River League, by a score of 30-25, at Flat Rock last Friday.

Chelsea led the scoring during most of the game until the last four minutes when the score was tied 25-25.

In the last four minutes Flat Rock outplayed Chelsea 7-2. Chelsea is the first team to score over 20 points against the Flat Rock five.

In the first quarter Kusterer and S. Policht scored 4 points each and Flat Rock scored 8 points also.

At the end of the second and third quarters Chelsea led their opponents, 19-17 and 21-19 respectively.

Kusterer was high point man for Chelsea and Stevenson took the same honor for Flat Rock.

GRASS LAKE—In the presence of 30 immediate relatives, Miss Doris Marian Wardwell of Jackson and Keith H. Shelly, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Shelly of Grass Lake were married at a simple but impressive ceremony Sunday at 3 p. m. in the league room of the Beatrice Isbell church, with Rev. E. K. Lewis officiating.—News.

TECUMSEH—In August 1936, a bill fold was lost by the late Lloyd Cole, while plowing at the W. G. Waldon farm west of town. In September 1941 the purse was found by Mr. Waldon and turned over to the United Savings Bank. The bills were badly discolored and hardly legible. The money was sent to the U. S. Treasury department in Washington, and on February 16, new money, in the amount of $27 was returned to Mr. Waldon, who turned it over to Mr. and Mrs. George Cole, parents of the boy who died about two months after the loss.—Herald.

Federal Income Tax Facts

No. 8

Taxes due on a return filed for the calendar year 1941 may be paid in full at the time of the filing of the return on or before March 16, 1942. The taxpayer, at the option of the taxpayer, may, at the option of the taxpayer, be paid in four equal installments instead of in a single payment, in which case the first installment is to be paid on or before March 16, the second on or before June 15, the third on or before September 15, and the fourth on or before December 15, 1942. If the taxpayer elects to pay his tax in four installments, each of the four installments must be equal in amount, but any installment may be paid, at the election of the taxpayer, prior to the time prescribed for its payment. If an installment is not paid in full on or before the date fixed for its payment, the whole amount of the tax remaining unpaid is required to be paid upon notice and demand from the collector.

The tax must be paid to the collector of internal revenue for the district in which the taxpayer's return is required to be filed; that is, to the collector for the district in which is located the taxpayer's legal residence or principal place of business, or if he has no legal residence or principal place of business in the United States, then to the Collector of Internal Revenue at Baltimore, Maryland.

The tax due, if any, should be paid in cash at the collector's office, or by check or money order payable to "Collector of Internal Revenue." In the case of payment in cash, the taxpayer should in every instance, receive and the collector should furnish a receipt. In the case of payments made by check or money order, however, the cancelled check or the money order receipt is usually a sufficient receipt.

Marvin Zinke of Rogers City came last week to spend some time at the home of his sister, Mrs. Fred Fairbrother and family. Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred of Muskegon spent the week-end at the Fairbrother home.

KIWANIS NEWS

The Kiwanians enjoyed another fine meeting on Monday evening of this week. The program chairman selected James Daniels, who is an honor student at the University of Michigan, to be the principal speaker of the evening. Mr. Daniels gave an interesting talk on the international situation and also spoke extemporaneously for a few minutes on the life of George Washington. He specifically pointed out the great need for political and economic unity in the world and in our nation at the present time. The speaker elaborated upon the practical importance of cooperation by the nations of the world in a peaceful manner, since all of them are economically dependent upon the products and resources of the other countries. He urged the Kiwanians to consider the very great need of cooperation by all persons in the time of crisis so that we may use all our natural and physical resources to the advantage of our nation and the world.

The Kiwanians decided to sponsor a Savings Defense Stamp drive along with the local American Legion group during the month of April. The price of admission to this affair will be a defense stamp purchased at the dance and the purchaser will be entitled to retain this stamp as his contribution to the national program of increasing the sale of Defense Bonds and Stamps.

CHILD STUDY CLUB

The Child Study club held a most delightful and entertaining meeting at the home of Mrs. Warren R. Daniels on Tuesday evening. The members and their guests were received in a candlelight setting, and the program "Colonial Days" was given before an open fire.

Mrs. Geo. W. Walworth, who was also hostess, had prepared a paper on Stephen Foster and his work, and while she read the narrative, the girls' triple trio from the high school, under the capable direction of Miss McNell, sang the selections as they fitted into the narrative.

"Camp Town Races", "A Beautiful Dreamer", "Old Black Joe", "Jeannie With the Light Brown Hair" were among the songs which were enthusiastically received. It was a most enjoyable program.

A short business meeting followed and the group spent the remainder of the evening doing Red Cross knitting and sewing.
