Defense Council Wants Service Men's Addresses

Because of the interest expressed by various local groups desiring to write to men from this vicinity who are in the armed forces of the United States, and due to the fact that there is no complete list of these men and their addresses, the local Defense Council has taken action which they believe will make it possible for anyone to obtain the names and addresses of those to whom they would like to write.

Everyone who has a son, brother, sweetheart or friend in the service, who has resided in this community, is asked to mail or bring the name and complete address to The Standard office. A record will be compiled and kept up to date so that anyone desiring this information may obtain it by calling at The Standard office. It would of course be necessary that any change of address be reported immediately.

The fact that there are many who would like to write to service men, send them gifts or reading material, should prompt those who have relatives or friends in the armed forces to report their names and addresses at once.

It is hoped by the Defense Committee that everyone who cooperates in this project which should be of real value in helping to keep up the morale of our friends who are in camp or at the front. Prompt action is desired so the record may be made available to everyone as soon as possible.

GIRL SCOUT DRIVE

Mr. and Mrs. Chelsea, we are again bringing the Girl Scout activities to your attention. No doubt at some time during this past week you were called to your door by one of the eager troop members to sell you some of the Girl Scout cookies. These girls are working hard to make this a very successful drive to help the financial condition of the organization. If you have not been approached, won't you call their committee chairman, Mrs. Wilbur Hinderer, who will gladly send someone to you?

What is Girl Scouting?

Every person, either the young ten-year-old Scout or one of the older members who belong to the organization accept the ideals of the Girl Scout promise: "On my honor, I will try to do my duty to God and my country, to help other people at all times, to obey the Girl Scout laws."

It is easy to make a promise but to keep it is the difficulty, but with emphasis and thought given to the meaning of "on my honor" each girl is trusted to do her very best.

"To do my duty to God and country" helps each girl to be a faithful member of her own religious choice. In this day of national stress the girls will all be ready to do all possible to make their country safe and to help in any way within their power.

"To help other people at all times" does not necessarily mean money, clothing or food, but sometimes the act of friendliness, cheery word or pleasant smile will do so much for someone else.

The third part, "To obey the Girl Scout laws"; these laws are the code by which the Girl Scout measures her conduct.

A Girl Scout's honor is to be trusted; she is loyal and thrifty; is willing to do for others; is a sister to every other Girl Scout; is courteous, cheerful and clean in word, thought and deed.

The Chelsea Girl Scout club, as the Girl Scout sponsor, with Mrs. John Hale as president, is asking for assisting members to help this active group to continue and grow in this community. If you have not been contacted by some member of the club and will help with this; by becoming a sustaining member, will you not call Mrs. Hale, president, Mrs. Wilbur Hinderer, Scout committee chairman, or a member of the following publicity committee: Mrs. Sidney Schenk, chairman, Mrs. L. I. Lord and Mrs. Wm. R. Geddes? The Chelsea State Bank will gladly take your membership if more convenient for you.

Next week will bring more Girl Scout News.

—Member Publicity Committee.

Bill Schatz Provides Best Election News

The only real news concerning the annual village election on Monday (in addition to the fact that a record low of 55 votes were cast) is that Bill Schatz voted for the 44th consecutive time in a Chelsea village election. Bill states that he has voted at every election of any kind for just 50 years, casting his first ballot in Toledo, Ohio in November, 1892, following his 21st birthday on Oct. 3 of that year. His last 44 years have been spent in Chelsea and he is "one in a million" who has continuously exercised the American privilege of expressing his choice at the polls without interruption. Congratulations, William!

As stated above, 55 votes were cast on Monday for the People's party candidates, the only ticket in the field. A. D. Mayer was elected to his third term as village president. Other officials are: Clerk, Olen Hart; treasurer, Gurney Hopper; trustees, Dahus Riker, Claude Spiegelberg and George L. Staffan; assessor, S. W. Schenk; library board members for three years, Mrs. A. A. Palmer and Mrs. P. G. Schaible.

Trustees whose terms do not expire this year are David Beach, John L. O'Hara and Dale J. Claire.

The next local political activity will start on Saturday when Republicans and Democrats will hold caucuses to name candidates for the spring election to be held on April 6. Official caucus notices for Sylvan, Lima and Lyndon townships appear on another page of this issue.

American Legion Will Aid Treasury Dept.

The American Legion of Michigan will carry the U. S. Treasury message on payroll savings to the thousands of city, county, township, and school board employees of the state in an intensive campaign starting immediately. City employees alone number 35,000 in Michigan.

Joint announcement was made by Frank N. Isbey, chairman of the Defense Savings Committee of Michigan, and Herbert E. McDonald, Department Director of the Legion National Defense Committee. Isbey praised the Legion for volunteering to undertake the job, and McDonald declared:

"For months Legion members throughout the state have been calling, wiring and writing Department headquarters, asking for an important war work assignment. We are notifying all department officers that this is it."

A bulletin sent to all officers from Legion headquarters, 602 Barluni Tower, Detroit, says "your job is to contact the responsible public officials of each county, city, village and school board, and urge that arrangements for deductions from payrolls for the purchase of Defense Bonds, be made as promptly as possible."

It was pointed out that while business and industrial firms have enrolled by the hundreds, the response from governmental agencies is negligible. Washtenaw is the only county government in Michigan which has installed the payroll savings plan. Nineteen cities have done so. They are Alpena, Ann Arbor, Battle Creek, Cadillac, Escanaba, Flint, Grand Rapids, Iron Mountain, Jackson, Kalamazoo, Lansing, Ludington, Menominee, Monroe, Negaunee, Niles, River Rouge, Saginaw and St. Joseph.

Only seven boards of Education have installed the program, at Battle Creek, Fremont, Flint, Grand Rapids, Lincoln Park, Lowell and Sault Ste. Marie.

Herman F. Luhrs, Department Commander, telegraphed all zone and district commanders to appoint from two to six Legionnaires from each post who are capable of handling a big job, and stated that Michigan is being used as a test state. "If we produce satisfactory results, plans will be adopted nationally."

Rev. Ray Barber To Leave Local Church

Rev. Ray W. Barber, who for five years has been minister of the First Congregational church of Chelsea, gave notice to his church board last Sunday of his intention of closing his work here. The declaration of such intention was given in order that the church might be able to select a new minister before he leaves, and thus insure no loss of time between pastors in the church.

Rev. Barber has left with his board a proposal to continue with the church as "stated supply" until the end of July. No action has yet been taken on this proposal. Whatever may be the final agreement between the church and the minister, the Barber family will remain in the village at least until the middle of June.

ESSAY CONTEST CLOSES

The annual Americanism Essay Contest sponsored by the American Legion Auxiliary was ended last week and the prizes were distributed on Wednesday to the winners by Mrs. Julius Niese, president, and Mrs. E. W. Eaton, chairman of Americanism. The title of the essay was "The Characteristics of a Good American."

In the girls' contest first prize of $2.50 went to Jane Schlosser; second prize of $1 to Barbara Fraser, and honorable mention to Wilma Schwefarth. In the boys' contest first prize of $2.50 was awarded to Roderick McDonald, second prize of $1 to Dick Richards, and honorable mention to Lawrence Dietle. Roderick McDonald's essay was chosen to be sent to the district contest.

Judges were the Americanism committee—Mrs. E. W. Eaton, Mrs. Wm. Kolb and Mrs. G. W. Walworth.

WHAT SAY, ELMER?

Elmer Weinberg was quite enthusiastic in guessing that we would have an early spring when he saw 10 wild geese at North Lake on Saturday. However, we wonder what happened to the geese on Monday (and we haven't heard Elmer bragging about being a weather prophet either).

JOHN LAMB PROMOTED

John J. Lamb, formerly of Chelsea, who is stationed at Pine Bluff, Ark., has been promoted to the rank of Lieutenant in the Flying Corps of the "Adv. Naval Aviation."

SAVE and PRODUCE!

That's our country's slogan today—and we all can do our part and thereby help to win the war. But listen! The matter of saving and producing doesn't apply to food alone. It applies with particular force to your daily work, whether in office, store or factory.

Of course the factories are running at top speed and you're glad to do your bit by working full time and overtime to help them produce war materials and equipment in large quantities.

There is a tremendous daily wastage of good raw materials in our factories, and it isn't due to carelessness or sabotage, either. Defective eyesight is largely to blame.

Good eyesight invariably cuts down spoilage losses, increases production and reduces the danger of accidents. It means more turned out and less thrown out. Think it over, then see your optometrist for a thorough eye examination.

There is NO priority on Careful Driving

Last week, honor was paid to 106 Michigan Bell employees in Detroit who have driven telephone company vehicles for 10 or more years without an accident! Combined distances driven by those men equal 574 times around the earth without a scratch!
Michigan Bell employees are instructed, and cooperate enthusiastically, in safe driving. In the National Emergency, safe driving takes on added significance, for it is an important means of conserving cars, tires and gasoline.

NYA PREPARING YOUTHS FOR ESSENTIAL POSITIONS

Geared to the nation's effort for all-out production, the National Youth Administration for Michigan is now preparing 5,000 out-of-school youths for essential jobs as part of a nationwide total of 182,000. It was reported this week by Orin W. Kaye, state administrator.
Production of planes, tanks, guns and munitions of all kinds for the armed forces is urgent and by preparing young people for jobs in factories and armament plants, the NYA in Michigan, and throughout the country, is making its most important contribution to the war program, Mr. Kaye said.
NYA mechanical shops and production projects are giving on-the-job training to 3,800 young men and women in the state and 83,700 nationally. In workshops, organized along industrial lines, these young people are getting practical experience through the production of goods, and learning their job through doing a job.
The types of work carried on in NYA shops include metal and mechanical work, radio and electrical work, woodworking and industrial sewing.
In addition to the shop program, the NYA in Michigan maintains professional and clerical projects, which are giving experience to 1,500 young people in the state and 48,000 throughout the nation.

A LETTER TO..

from

Paramaribo, Dutch Guiana

(Written at the Koninklijke Nederlandsche Stoomboot Maatschappij docks in Paramaribo).

We have completely given up trying to predict where we shall be from week to week. A look at a map of South America will indicate our present position—approximately 1000 miles from Panama—just 1000 miles from where I told you we'd be at this time!

Beyond Trinidad our ship was rerouted unexpectedly. Quite all right with us; it is further opportunity to give you items of interest.

Let me take a paragraph or two to describe conditions aboard ship. She is still jammed to the gunwales with Barbadians, Trinidadians, Panamanians, and Dutch subjects of myriad colors and ages and sizes. All these latter are transplanting themselves to Curacao. Childlike, individual people, they are burdened with unbelievable amounts of luggage, food, plants, potted palms, fruit, and tiny birds shrinking timidly in cages. The promenade deck is no longer a deck; it is a veritable aviary. A strict blackout is imposed; cigarettes may not be smoked on deck; if one wishes to read after dinner he must do so in a closed cabin with the temperature hovering around the 95 degree mark.

To get to Paramaribo, capital of Dutch Guiana, the ship must thread its way over twenty miles up a muddy river through alternating jungle and bush. It is unbearably hot. Where the river is narrow, the odor of rotting jungle from both sides is almost overpowering. Here is South America, you think, untouched, virgin, prime!

You are wrong. Down that river and down the Commewijne River American ships sweat and steam almost unceasingly—Alcoa boats of the Aluminum Company of America are bringing bauxite ore northward where our countrymen may transform it into aluminum, sinew of war!

We are getting every ounce we can out of that jungle. Nothing on this vast continent is more vital to our war effort than the bauxite mines at Moengo, miles and miles in the interior. That we realized this value in time was proved in December, 1941, when American troops first stepped on Surinam soil.

Yes, Paramaribo is worth visiting. The harbor consists of a sort of widening-out of the river. Several Alcoa boats lie at anchor; a small American Army steamer disappears into the jungle bound for Moengo. In the center of the activity a great steel bulk lies on her side in mid-stream, a gaping hole torn in her hull. She is the German freighter Goslar, scuttled by her crew in 1940 after the Reichswehhr had invaded Holland and the Low Countries.

There is little resemblance between Paramaribo and Willemstad, Curacao. The former is another melting pot, similar in this respect to Trinidad. A few years ago Japanese and Hindu workers were imported to relieve a labor shortage, and they have remained and multiplied. One also finds Russians, Chinese, French, German Jews, East Indians, and bush Negroes. The streets are wide, principally unpaved and thus dusty, and lined with royal palms. The shops are blessed with names like Toon Tjang, Sin Fat, von Romont, Gandhi Bazaar, Fogarty's, G. Bottencourt, and so on.

Paramaribo is certainly not uncivilized. Coca-Cola signs and American automobiles predominate, although the need for motor transport is not acute. A few miles from town the bush begins and a white man couldn't exist a week in the bush without the assistance of the bush Negroes.

A word about these queer people, probably the most independent group in the world. In 1700 something, great numbers of Negroes were black-birded from Africa by the Dutch. They were slaves; and they were worked like slaves. Eventually they revolted, massacred most of the Dutch, and ran away to live in the bush—but not before they signed a treaty with their former masters by which they were to be paid twelve hundred guilders yearly in return for their friendship. So savage were they—and are they—that this sum has been paid regularly for over three hundred years.

Natural selection and the rigors of jungle existence have toughened them, made them self-assured. They will take nothing from a white man. They aid only when well-treated. Unwillingness to accept the softening influences of the white man's civilization has enabled them to live in their chosen environment.

They are the only group of Negro slaves ever to have thrown over their masters and then exacted payment for protection. No one in the world can be quite as regal in a hut made of trash and a garment of string as a Dutch Guiana bush Negro.

Probably the most colorful sight we saw in Paramaribo was the market place in early morn. (You must pardon at least one market place. They are the meat and drink of the tourist.) Row upon row of women queerly costumed—bright headresses, the flowing robes of tiny Hindu women, the tight gowns and slit skirts of the Chinese, the wily pigtails of the Indians. The produce is all exotic in hue and taste—too exotic for my Michigan tongue. The lingual paradox of nine races and innumerable gradations in color all speaking a common language—Dutch. Outside—bicycles, donkeys, automobiles, and khaki American army trucks.

We wanted to see some Yanks. We wanted to find out what the American troops thought of their new life. Above all, we wanted to chat with a soldier from Michigan. So we went out to Camp Paramaribo.

But more of that next week. And I shall feel the opportunity of a literary lifetime has been lost if I fail to entitle it: "Uncle Sam In Surinam." G. S. & K. S.

County Health Dept.

The population influx expected because of the Willow Run Bomber Plant may create definite health hazards in Washtenaw county. One of the specific possibilities is the chance that workers' families coming from outside the state may bring in smallpox, diphtheria, and other dangerous communicable diseases. The County Medical Society and Dr. Engetke of the County Health Department have worked out basic plans upon which a county drive for infant, pre-school, and school smallpox and diphtheria immunizations will be based. Details of these plans will be announced when it is determined that enough serum is available for the program.

Emphasis on immunization programs in defense areas throughout the state has created a statewide serum distribution problem. At the present time, the only serum available has been distributed to the practicing physicians and serum depots throughout the county. The Health Department wishes to advise parents desiring immediate protection for children from nine months of age to and including school age, to take their children to their family physicians at once for advice and immunization if he thinks it necessary. The Health Department has been told that, because this is a defense area, there is a good chance Washtenaw county would receive its next allotment of serum early in April.

Children should be immunized for diphtheria when they are nine months old. Their immunization should either be repeated or checked with a Schick test at the time the child enters kindergarten or school. Repeated tests or immunizations are advised every three or four years thereafter until the child leaves school. Smallpox vaccinations should also be done in infancy, preferably before the infant is one year old. If the vaccination does not "take", it should be repeated within a few months. If the vaccination produces a "take", the procedure should be repeated every five to seven years.

While diphtheria immunization is not stressed for adults, repeated vaccinations for smallpox are considered a sensible procedure at any age.

SPRING GETS SET-BACK

The spring weather of the past week wound up on Sunday with a 24-hour rainfall. Monday morning the ground was covered with snow and a high wind drifted the snow.

The west side of Main street had several snow banks from two to three feet deep, while the east side of the street was bare.

The high wind continued all day Monday. On Tuesday a bright sun quickly melted most of the snow.

Several of the country roads are in bad condition and forced motorists to travel many miles out of their way to avoid getting stuck in the mud.

The storm of Monday was the worst of the winter season.

THE STORY SO FAR: Joan Lejand, secretary, is discharged by her employer, Arthur Mulford, importer, who refuses any explanation for the act. She takes a secretarial position with Karl Miller, handsome proprietor of a night club. She is fascinated by him and when he gets her sister Sybil, a new job and takes her into his arms, her joy knows no end. She meets his club manager, Paul Sherman, who warns her about working for Karl, but refuses to give his reasons. Then Karl introduces her to his partner, Eric Strom, and she refuses his secret invitation to dinner. During a ride with Karl they board a freighter and when Karl asks her if she can show her the world she melts into his arms with an affirmative answer. Sybil notices that the never mentions marriage to Karl but Eric defends him. Eric Strom seizes an opportunity to try to make love to her, when Paul Sherman walks in and knocks him out with one blow. Karl sends Joan with a package to the freighter captain. Paul follows. He takes her to a hotel room.

Now continue with the story.

CHAPTER VII

"Listen to me, Joan!" Paul said in a low voice. "You were right. I have been following you but only for your own protection. You don't know what you're getting into. I've tried to warn you but you won't listen."

"You have never said anything except that I wasn't the type to work in a night club. In spite of her annoyance, she felt compelled to listen."

"There are some things I can't tell you, but you must trust me. Do you think I'd be risking my own position this way if I didn't feel that it was terribly important?"

Silently she stared at him.

"I know you think you're in love with Karl," Paul went on quickly. "But if he is sincere, Joan, why doesn't he ask you to marry him? Isn't that proof enough that there's something wrong with the picture?"

His steady brown eyes stared into hers. She twisted her hands nervously. Paul's words had quickened the doubt in her own heart but she said calmly, "I don't see that it's any of your business."

He smiled wryly. "I'm only using that as an example to prove to you that Karl Miller is not on the level. Believe me, I don't go around meddling in other people's affairs without reason."

The sincerity in his voice was unmistakable as he continued, "I can't tell you now what that reason is. All I can do is to warn you that Karl Miller will never marry you."

Her voice was ragged with alarm. "How do you know? What right have you to say that?"

"You poor kid! You're really in love with him, aren't you?"

A lump rose in her throat. "He's wrong about Karl," she thought. "He must be," Karl likes me. Paul went on. "There's no use kidding yourself, Joan! If you don't believe me, why don't you ask him and find out for yourself?"

Joan raised challenging green eyes to his. "All right! Maybe I will!"

Paul Sherman's warning had disturbed Joan. Paul had said that Karl would never marry her. Why? Paul had even challenged her to find out for herself whether or not Karl was sincere.

She was awake early the next morning. Lately she watched Sybil dress to leave for the beauty shop. When Sybil had gone Joan tried to sleep but it was useless. At nine o'clock she rose, dressed, and drank a glass of orange juice and a cup of coffee.

Shortly before ten she left the apartment and went downtown. To satisfy her curiosity she walked past the shop where she had been employed formerly by Arthur Mulford. It was vacant and a "For Rent" sign hung in the window.

"Karl didn't lie about that then," she told herself, recalling that he had said Mulford had quit the importing business.

Why was she doubting him? Was it really because of Paul's warning? Or because of her own small doubts that she had conceived so carefully the last few weeks?

As she walked down Grant avenue, deep in her own thoughts, a voice surprised her. "Hello, Joan! What are you doing out so early?"

She looked up into the smiling face of Karl Miller.

"What's the matter, liebechen? You look surprised."

It was impossible to doubt him when she was with him. His magnetism banished her fears.

"I am surprised to see you," she admitted.

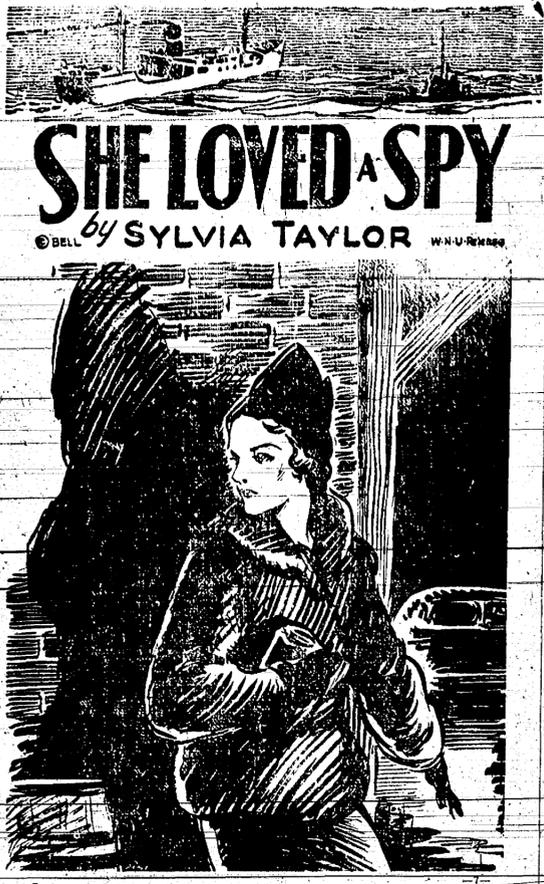

He took her arm and they walked slowly up Grant avenue past the shops, into the crowded narrow streets of Chinatown. Karl stopped at a sidewalk flower stand to purchase three wax gardenias.

"Well, have lunch together," he promised, "and take a drive. Would you like that?"

As they sat eating lunch, served by a bland, unsmiling Oriental, Joan felt a thrill of pride. The thought of being with Karl aroused a fierce emotion in her heart. Would he ever transfer the tenderness he had given her to another woman? How could she be sure unless... But Paul's words rang in her ears. "Hell, never marry you. Ask him and see..." You are worrying about something," Karl said. "What troubles you?"

What would he think if he really knew? When she remained silent, Karl changed the subject. "By the way, did you see Paul Sherman last night?"

She hesitated for one cautious moment before she said, "Yes, I did. Karl's smile was unfurrowed. "Ah? I am glad he found you. I sent him after you. I forgot to mention it last night when you got back to the office.

Paul Sherman's warning had disturbed Joan. Paul had said that Karl would never marry her.

Joan's eyes widened. Karl had sent Paul after her? Certainly Paul had not given her that impression. "Don't you believe me?" Karl asked softly and Joan felt the color rush into her cheeks.

Karl, however, did not seem angry. He paid the check and together they walked to where he had parked his car.

It was not until they reached the beach that Karl stopped and said abruptly, "I know what you're thinking, Joan!"

She stared straight ahead into the blue waters of the Pacific. She did not know what to say.

"I'm confused," Karl muttered. "I don't know why I don't ask you eyes to marry me."

Her heart beat heavily. She could not bring herself to meet those piercing blue eyes.

"Joan!"

She felt his hand strong and warm over hers.

"Look at me," he commanded. Blindly she raised her eyes to his. "Will you marry me?"

She could not believe it. She stared at him as though she had not heard. "No answer? You do not love me?"

"Oh, Karl! Of course I do!"

"We can't be married for two or three months yet," Karl said. "I want to get the club going first. Then we'll take a long honeymoon, maybe to South America. Would that make you happy?"

Tears trembled in her green eyes. "Happy? I'm so happy I can't speak."

"You must learn to trust me, Joan! I would have asked you before to marry me, but I wanted to be secure financially. You understand?"

"Of course I do, darling!" How could she have doubted him? Paul Sherman had been so sure that Karl would not marry her? How wrong he had been! How wrong Sybil had been! Karl had been misjudged by them all.

"I'll never doubt him again," Joan vowed as they drove back to the Club Elite. She sat contentedly with her arm tucked through his.

No girl had ever been so happy as she was at that moment. All fears had been swept away by Karl's proposal of marriage.

When they entered his private office he drew her to him, kissed her and said, "I have a surprise for you."

"What is it?" Her eyes shone like a child's in their happiness.

Karl smiled as he opened his safe and drew out a small velvet box. Snapping open the lid, he took out a ring, a magnificent emerald set in plain platinum. It was a large stone, beautifully cut.

"Oh Karl! Karl! It's gorgeous!"

"An emerald to match your eyes," Karl said as he slipped the ring on her finger.

Suddenly the words of Eric Strom came back to her: "A woman with green eyes is very rare..." Why must she think of Eric Strom now? Like a warning of evil in the midst of her new joy.

Hurrying home at six o'clock, Joan displayed the ring to Sybil.

"We're engaged, Sybil! We're going to be married in two or three months!"

"Karl asked you to marry him?" Sybil asked unbelievably. "That's a beautiful emerald, Joan! Must have cost a fortune."

"Karl's smile was unfurrowed. "Ah? I am glad he found you. I sent him

"Frankly I'm not," Sybil confessed.

"I suppose you would have been better pleased if Karl and I had quit," Joan said coldly.

Sybil was silent for a moment, then said, "You're not going to be married for at least two months?"

"That's right, Sybil, what's the matter with you? You act so mysterious lately. Is anything wrong?"

"Not a thing in the world," Sybil denied. "I just wondered, that's all."

Joan could not worry about Sybil's meaning now. She could not worry about anything. Karl wanted to marry her! His ring gleamed on her white hand. She could scarcely wait to see Paul Sherman and tell him the good news, but Paul did not appear at the Club Elite that night or for several nights to come.

The days passed rapidly, magically for Joan.

"You'll have to get a new secretary," she told Karl. "My mind is definitely not on my work."

He smiled at her. "There's plenty of time for that later."

And then one night, as Joan sat alone in the office typing, Paul Sherman made an appearance. He was as good-looking, as debonaire and cheerful as ever.

"Did you miss me?" he inquired, grinning at Joan. "Karl sent me out of town."

Joan smiled. She was going to enjoy telling Paul. He had been so sure about Karl, so prejudiced.

"Not much," she informed him airily. "A lot has happened while you were gone."

"Such as what?"

"Karl and I are going to be married," she said proudly.

Paul's expression changed. He advanced towards Joan's desk repeating incredulously, "Do you mean that Karl Miller has asked you to marry him?"

There was something in his face that took the joy out of her announcement but she said calmly, "Yes! You were wrong about Karl."

"I was wrong all right," he agreed savagely. "I suppose nothing I can say now will make any difference."

Joan smiled. "That's right."

"When is the happy event taking place?"

"In about two or three months. We're going away on a long honeymoon."

"Is that so?"

Joan was really annoyed with him now. The least he could do was admit he had been wrong.

"Well, it's your funeral, my girl!" Paul said, and jamming his hat down on his head he booted out of the office.

Joan smiled as she turned back to her work. Perhaps Sybil had been right. Maybe Paul was in love with her. But he certainly had a peculiar way of showing it.

Sybil seldom mentioned her sister's approaching marriage. She was behaving strangely these days, saying little, staring into space for long periods.

And so life moved on triumphantly until the week before Christmas. It was a windy, wintry day and San Franciscans thronged the shops armed with umbrellas and golashes. The stores were open at night now and Joan found herself elbowing her way through the crowd. She had dined downtown preparatory to buying Karl's Christmas presents.

"Ten past eight!" Joan exclaimed, glancing at the clock on the corner. "I'll have to come back to-morrow."

Paul Sherman's warning had disturbed Joan. Paul had said that Karl would never marry her.

Joan's eyes widened. Karl had sent Paul after her? Certainly Paul had not given her that impression.

"Don't you believe me?" Karl asked softly and Joan felt the color rush into her cheeks.

Senior News

Since the Senior class has announced that they are going to produce a new comedy entitled "Miss Smarty" on the evening of March 20 at the C. H. S. gym it is interesting to observe where and how this group procured the rights to present this smart and popular comedy. This play was written by Wilbur Braun and published exclusively by Samuel French. Just in case you have never heard of the Samuel French firm they are the largest publishers of plays in the entire world, with offices in London, England, New York, Canada, California and there is even an office in Africa. There is hardly a play produced in America that isn't looked over by one or more of the Samuel French play scouts. In its New York office, in the heart of the Times Square district, Samuel French maintains elaborate and spacious offices, offices that cover almost an entire floor. Here, a comfortable reading room is maintained, sufficient for at least 25 or 30 people who are interested not only in reading plays but in looking over all sorts of theatre literature.

A competent staff of experts is employed to offer suggestions and to see that you are served politely and efficiently. Various posters and heralds are displayed on a large board telling you where certain plays are being given and a visit to any of the Samuel French offices is bound to prove of real value to anybody who is interested in the theatre.

Just as it is sure to be of real value to you to witness the forthcoming performance of Mr. Braun's latest and greatest comedy hit, "Miss Smarty."

Ability Tests

A group of Seniors have taken tests given by the Psychological Clinic of the University of Michigan. These tests were given to help the students find occupations best suited to their abilities and are mainly for students intending to go to college.

Tests were given three mornings at the high school and a full day in Ann Arbor at the Clinic.

The students who took these tests were Virginia Barr, Arlene Koengert, Grace-Merkel, Jane Schlosser, Martha...

She took a taxi to the Club Elite and arrived breathlessly in Karl's private office.

He laughed at her excitement. "Does Christmas always affect you this way?"

"Only this one, darling! This one is special."

There was no doubt in her heart as his lips touched hers. No premonition of disaster. She was completely sure, completely happy.

It was nine-thirty when the office door opened to admit Eric Strom. "Ah?" Karl said, and Joan noticed that his voice was annoyed.

"Eric summoned indifferent should. 'You come early?'"

"Yes!" Karl said, rising. Eric went to the cleverly concealed little bar, opened it and reached for a bottle.

Karl glanced at Joan. "Go to the dining room. I'll send for you in about ten minutes."

Joan obeyed but she was worried. She did not like the way Eric had looked at Karl. Evidently there was bad feeling between them. But why?

Girls' Teams Tie

The girls' basketball team played their eighth and last game Friday, March 6, against University High.

The game was the closest and most exciting of any played. The starting line-up consisted of Lyons, Lehman and Schweinfurth, forwards; and Feldkamp, Spaulding and Richards, guards. Others who played were Meserva, Almond and Lucht, forwards; and Grabowski and Collins, guards.

The score at the half was 6-11, U. High's advantage. At the end of the third quarter U. High was still ahead, 9-11. Finishing an exciting fourth quarter with both teams leading at various times, the score was tied, 17-17.

Almond was high point man for Chelsea with 7 points. Meserva was close behind with 6 points. Mackay made 12 out of the total 17 points for U. High.

After the game the girls had cake and pretzels in the Home Economics room.

In eight games the girls were victors four times, tied once, and lost three times.

Band News

March 20 the band will play its concert numbers at a pot-luck supper given for the members' parents. The band now has 38 members.

Elementary News

Eighth Grade

We held the Detroit News spelling-down during English class on Friday, March 6. Audrey White won the dictionary, with Laverne Holbrook, second, and Shirley Platt, third.

In Science we collected the weather reports from the paper for ten days to determine how accurate the weather man is.

Our sale of Defense Stamps has increased during the past few weeks.

Conservation Club

The club has just purchased 10 bushels of corn for the boys to supply their bird feeders with. A night meeting is to be held soon when a member of the Rod and Gun club will speak on training dogs.

The club's spring project will be the reforestation of trees in Chelsea.

Our Seniors

Grace Merkel is 17 years old and her birthday is June 9. Like nine out of ten people her favorite color is blue and like most of us "loves" chicken to eat. Grace enjoys hearing Lanny Ross sing the "White Cliffs of Dover" and likes to do shorthand, but not both at the same time. Soon summer will be here and then Grace can spend many hours at her favorite sport and pastime—swimming. Next year she will go to Michigan State at East Lansing.

Pat Richards was born in Kingsley, Mich. on September 3, 1924. Since then she has been frequently "on the move"—she has attended four high schools! Pat's favorite color is yellow and song "I Don't Want To Walk Without You" as played by Harry Miller—and who doesn't? Pat says she has no favorite subject but definitely likes tennis and swimming. Also, she enjoys ice cream any time of the day or year. Next year Pat is going to Albion College.

Have You Heard - -

About the bus the school chartered to go to the tournaments in Napoleon? It really was exciting—just from the point of view of everyone being together, if for no other reason but, of course, there were other reasons.

Because of the overcrowded group, three and four were sitting in seats for two; no one minded at all, so we hear anyhow; it seems that the bus driver was very unobliging to the wishes of some—he kept switching the lights on.

Dick F., after going to all the troubles of waiting off those pesky measles ahead of schedule, so that he could play in the game, forgot to take half of his equipment. Too bad Dick!

About the new cases of measles over the week-end! Thursday, Joyce F. developed them Friday night Margaret F. (hum!) could she have gotten them so soon after Thursday? and Sunday Tom L. became a victim. Won't they ever disappear, entirely?

About the girls' game with U. High Friday? After a rough and tumble affair the game ended in a 17-17 tie. But then, they enjoyed some cakes, ping-pong, pretzels, and cookies; so both teams drowned their sorrow.

Third Grade (Georgia Ann)

On Monday, March 2, we elected all new officers. Their names are: President, Donald O'Dell; vice-president, Duane Gentner; secretary, Theodore Slane; boys' health officer, John Ruddy; girls' health officer, Georgia Ann Salzgeber; and to pass the waste basket, Donald Schneider. The president appointed new housekeepers.

The weather changed a lot since Saturday, but some of us like the snow. Five of us went outdoors to play. We were Eskimos.

The third grade drew defense posters. They also drew a picture for a movie to tell the story "By Wagon and Flatboat", about how the pioneers

She is survived by one brother, Charles Heinbach, of Big Rapids, Michigan, besides other relatives. The body was removed to Gorsline Bros. chapel where it remained until Saturday afternoon when it was taken to the Olney funeral home at Mendon, where funeral services were held Monday morning. He did not intend to rebuild the plant but later in the day he was interviewed by a committee of the Howell Board of Commerce and is reconsidering a proposition made by them which gives a ray of hope that he may reconsider. The loss totals nearly a quarter million dollars.—County Press.
