Four Teams To Meet In Tourney Semi-Finals

Four fine basketball teams earned the right to meet in the semi-finals of the Chelsea Invitational Basketball Tournament as a result of winning their quarter-final games last Wednesday and Saturday nights.

The Central Fibre gang of Chelsea played hard, aggressive basketball to beat a fighting Dexter team 45-24 in the first game on Saturday evening, while the smooth playing Junior Chamber of Commerce squad of Coldwater eked out a win over a stubborn, plucky Stockbridge five 43-33 in a later game the same evening.

Central Fibre boys and the Coldwater quintet are both in the upper bracket of the tournament and they will play this Saturday evening at 7 o'clock to determine the finalist who will play the winner of the other game. Both of these teams have an abundance of good players in their lineups and feature a good brand of teamwork, so the result of the contest appears to be a toss-up.

In the lower bracket of the tournament, the orack Neeley-five of Jackson will play the Kimunity team of Chelsea at 8 o'clock on Saturday night.

The Neeley aggregation ousted a hard-fighting Cassidy Lake squad from the tournament to the tune of a 60-41 score, while the Kimunity team beat a good Manchester five 45-28 in their games on Saturday night.

The Neeley team recently won the Jackson County AA League title, so the Kimunity boys will have to play hard to upset them in the tournament.

Both games promise to be very interesting and the public is invited to witness some of the finest basketball in this vicinity on Saturday night of this week at the Chelsea high school gym. The winners of these two games will play the final game of the tournament at 10 o'clock on the same evening and the prizes will be awarded the winner at the close of play.

On last Wednesday evening the Dexter team annihilated a good Pinckney squad 37-24 and earned the right to play Central Fibre last Saturday night. Coldwater demonstrated their excellent passing game to outscore a fighting Chelsea Spring combination 45-32 after being outplayed during the first fifteen minutes of the contest. All of the teams have played a fine brand of basketball in this tournament and the semi-final and final games promise to display a fine exhibition of tournament basketball.

Here is your opportunity to patronize your own Chelsea tournament, so let's all come over to the high school this Saturday evening, March 21, and see the final rounds of this tournament.

NORMAN O. WENK ENLISTS

Norman O. Wenk, 24, of Freedom township, who enlisted March 10 in the Air Corps of the Naval Reserves, reported to Detroit on Monday for assignment to a training base.

The son of Martin Wenk, he was born Jan. 18, 1918. He graduated from Chelsea high school in 1935 and in 1938 completed a course at Cleary Business College. For some time he was employed as bookkeeper for the City Body Shop, Ypsilanti, but had recently been associated with the Lutheran Mutual Life Ins. Co.

On Wednesday evening, members of the Luther League of Zion Lutheran church gave him a farewell party at the school house and presented him with a parting gift. Refreshments were served, with places for 30.

He also was honor guest at a dinner given Sunday at the home of his father, which was attended by 16 relatives and neighbors.

APPOINTS AIR RAID WARDEN

Village President A. B. Mayer has named Carl J. Mayer as chief air raid warden for Chelsea, and the appointment has been confirmed by Owen J. Cleary of Ypsilanti, chief state air raid warden. It is planned to appoint about 25 deputy wardens in the near future.

Waste Paper Drive Set For March 26th

Proceeds From Sale
Of Paper Will Go
To Local Red Cross

Under the direction of the Chelsea Council of Defense, an intensified drive to collect waste paper is scheduled for next Thursday afternoon, March 26, when a fleet of trucks will cover the business district and every street in the village to collect the paper.

This campaign for the collection of waste paper was requested by L. R. Donovan of Monroe, field agent for the Michigan Waste Paper Conservation Committee, who visited Chelsea last week to investigate the situation here. He stated that in spite of the fact that some high school students and others had been collecting paper, it would be necessary to have an organized effort behind the project for it to be entirely successful.

To aid in the drive, Supt. A. C. Johnson states that the seven male faculty members of the public school and many high school boys have volunteered their services to man the trucks which will be donated by business men, pick up the paper and aid in baling operations.

The pick-up of paper will be started at 2:30, and business men are asked to have their waste paper at their back doors, and housewives are asked to have their contributions of paper either at the curb or at the front of the house so that it will be convenient for loading on the trucks. All bundles of paper must be securely tied, and cartons must be closed and tied so that the paper will not be scattered over lawns. In case of rain the collection will take place on the following day if the weather permits.

Baling of the paper will be done in the town hall with a baler which will be loaned the Defense Council by the Federal Screw Works. It is planned to collect all the paper during the afternoon and evening, and the baling crew will work that night until all the paper is ready to deliver to a truck which will be sent here from a paper mill the next morning.

The proceeds? All money received for the paper will go directly to the local chapter of the Red Cross.

There may be a number of rural residents who would like to contribute to this patriotic cause. If so, they may bring their waste paper to the town hall any time after 2:30 that afternoon. This action would be greatly appreciated by the Defense Council.

Come on, Chelsea—let's have 100 per cent cooperation in this conservation effort. One nearby city collected more than 15 tons of paper as the result of a similar drive. There wouldn't be enough strong men in Chelsea to bale that much paper in one day, but there should be several tons of old newspapers, magazines, etc., that can be picked up in attics, basements, garages, storerooms and closets. You'll be eliminating fire hazard at the same time aiding Uncle Sam in his war efforts!

Distinguished Speaker To Appear In Chelsea

On Tuesday evening, March 31, Chelsea will have the opportunity of hearing one of the foremost speakers of the University of Michigan, when Professor Harley H. Bartlett will lecture on "The Philippines" at the Public Library. The Chelsea Child Study Club is sponsoring the program and because of the world-wide interest in these islands, and the fact that the talk will be timely and pertinent, the meeting is to be open to all who are interested.

Professor Bartlett, who is at present the chairman of the Department of Botany and the director of the Botanical Gardens, has been at the University since 1915. A graduate of Harvard in 1908, he went immediately to the Department of Agriculture at Washington, prior to coming to the University. Since then he has travelled extensively and in 1918 he went to Sumatra to do some work for the United States Rubber Company. His scientific explorations have taken him to the island of Formosa, Guatemala and to Mexico. It was in 1935 that he was asked to serve as an exchange professor at the University of the Philippines in Manila so that he is particularly qualified to give an intimate and comprehensive picture of the country and the life of the people.

The lecture will start at 8 o'clock, and the public is cordially invited.

ATTENDS RATIONING MEETING

Supt. A. C. Johnson of the Chelsea public schools attended a meeting on sugar rationing in Detroit last Friday afternoon. At this meeting further details were discussed about the issuance of sugar rationing stamps, which is to be carried on in the schools during the week of April 13 to 17. Details of the program will appear in future issues of The Standard.

Body of Manchester Man Found Tuesday

The burned body of Orville Wurster, 34, of Manchester, a clerk employed in the dry goods store of his uncle, G. R. Breitenwischer, was found shortly before 10 o'clock Tuesday forenoon on a wooded hill on the Oscar Buss farm, east of Manchester.

Wurster failed to report for work on Monday morning, but the car which he used, owned by Mr. Breitenwischer, was found parked in front of the store before 7 o'clock, which was earlier than usual. Nightwatchmen said the car was not there up to 5 o'clock in the morning.

Several searching parties were organized by the mayor, R. B. Haussler, and the body was found by William Linn, one of his members.

Wurster's outer clothing and a long-handled shovel were found by Joshua Dexter in a shallow trench and a can containing kerosene was found beside the body and another about 225 paces away, where the clothes were burned. Sheriff's officers and Coroner E. C. Ganzhorn are investigating to determine whether Wurster took his own life or was a murder victim.

Wurster, who lived with his mother, Mrs. Dow Wurster, was rejected the past week in a selective service examination but no indication of despondency have been found.

Rifle Range Opened By Rod and Gun Club

Chelsea's new rifle range, sponsored by the Chelsea Rod and Gun Club, was opened by members of the club on Tuesday evening, when about 500 pounds of ammunition were used by about 50 members of the club who were testing their skill.

According to C. H. Schwiager, chairman of the committee in charge of the project, the range will be open to the public for the first time on Saturday night of this week. The range is located in the basement of the Baxter building, North Main St., with entrance at the rear.

This project was planned by the Rod & Gun club as a contribution to the local defense effort, and local residents are invited to improve their marksmanship by participating in target practice. Shooting at the range is confined to .22 caliber rifles and pistols. Anyone who does not possess firearms may use the guns of Rod and Gun club members.

The range will be open to men on Tuesday evenings and for women on Thursday evenings. Any of the fair sex who are interested may register at Burg's Drug Store or call Mrs. Schwiager, phone 7261.

Only a nominal fee is to be charged, to cover the cost of ammunition and targets.

The Annual Senior Play will be presented at the public school gymnasium on Friday night. Don't miss it! Adv.

County Health Dept.

As a part of their contribution to the defense of Washtenaw county, the physicians, through the County Medical Society, have gone on record as being in favor of removing the 25c fee customarily charged for immunization in clinics organized by the Health Department. This year there will be no charge for either smallpox vaccination or diphtheria testing or immunization.

Word has been received by the County Health Department that serum will be available for a county diphtheria and smallpox immunization program the first week of April. Clinics will be held in at least one rural school in each township throughout the county. Definite arrangements have been made with the following schools: Platt, Frain's Lake, Begole, Moreville, Milan, Lyndon Center, Roberts, Spencer, Whitmore Lake, Sharon Hill, Lodi Plains, Leland, Lima Center, Hagen, Sullivan, Smith, Fritz, Sylvan Center, Bridgewater, Station, Cushing, and McMahon. Additional rural schools have been contacted, but to date have not signified their intention to provide space for the clinic. The public and parochial schools in Chelsea, Dexter, Saline, Milan, and Manchester will have clinics when immunization in the rural schools is completed. A complete schedule of clinic dates will be announced when replies have been received from all schools contacted by the Health Department.

Parents of children too young to be in school should watch their newspapers for dates when clinics will be held at schools near them. The Health Department is particularly anxious to have these infants and pre-school children protected against these diseases. Children from nine months of age to and including ten years will be eligible to receive toxoid for diphtheria in all cases where immunity is questionable. Children over ten will be Schick tested. Children of all ages will be vaccinated for smallpox unless they have had a successful vaccination within the last five years. Local physicians in each area will do the immunizing and vaccinating. Health Department nurses, school teachers in some cases, and parents will assist them. Areas in the county near Ann Arbor will be served by Ann Arbor physicians. The areas in the county near Ypsilanti will be served by the Ypsilanti physicians.

Our Neighbors

HOLLY—Holly's one ticket no-contest election last Monday brought out the smallest number of voters the community has experienced. Only 28 people, and that number includes the five people who acted on the election board throughout the day, used their right to vote.—Herald.

MANCHESTER—Mrs. Joseph Rossett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. August Kuntz, and son, are visiting their parents here. Mrs. Rossett left Aruba, the Dutch West Indies Island recently shelled by a German submarine, on February 21, via plane to Venezuela where they remained for a week. They then took a plane to Texas, which took two half days and one day, no planes being flown at night. From Texas they came to Ann Arbor by bus and train, reaching there last Thursday night. Mr. Rossett is an employee of an oil company at Aruba.—Enterprise.

MILAN—The people of Milan Monday emphatically turned down the proposal to allow the sale of beer and wine on Sunday. For the second time since the repeal of the Federal dry law, the people of Milan have been asked to decide on the question of whether beer and wine should be sold on Sunday for consumption on the premises. There was no question as to how the people felt about the proposition when the votes were counted Monday night. 301 people voted for the closing while 90 went to the polls expressing their opinion that the beer and wine should be sold on Sunday. The vote was about in the same proportion it was the last time the vote was taken.—Leader.

New Loading Coils Save Copper and Nickel for War

A LOADING COIL is a doughnut-shaped contrivance of copper wire wound over a ring of alloy containing nickel. Its job is to give your voice an electrical "push" as you talk over a telephone line.

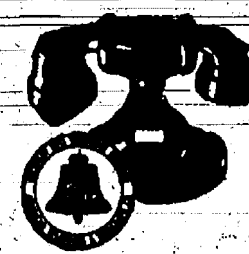

There is about one loading coil for every mile of an average Long Distance telephone circuit in cable—nearly half a million in Michigan alone, besides about 200,000 on local circuits.

For years the Bell System's research has been making these coils progressively smaller, yet keeping them as effective as the larger coils. Now, as a further step to help meet the shortage of war materials, loading coils have been developed that use only about half as much copper and nickel as the former type. The pictures indicate the latest reduction in size.

From this single source, in 1942, the Bell System will save an estimated 40,000 pounds of each of those needed metals.

In spite of material shortages that make it increasingly difficult to satisfy all service requests as promptly as in the past, Michigan Bell is confidently determined that every war need will be met.

NAVY ENLISTMENTS INCREASE

Over 150,000 men have enlisted in the U. S. Navy since the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor last Dec. 7, according to word received this week by Lieutenant Commander Carson R. Miller, officer in charge of the Detroit Navy Recruiting Station.

In making the announcement, based on word received from the Navy Department, Lieutenant Commander

Miller said Navy enlistments will continue on a voluntary basis.

Expressing gratification at the response of thousands of men from the Detroit recruiting area who have joined the rapidly-expanding Navy, he reminded men between 17 and 50 that they are free to enlist voluntarily in the Navy up to the time they undergo their physical examinations prior to induction into the Army.

THE HOME FRONT IN MICHIGAN

You can't sit out this war!
If you do, Hitler may be calling the next dance.

The war involves all of us, whether you are raising Michigan corn on an upper eighty or directing one of the state's mighty industries. The farm must look to the factory and the factory to the farm—and both must be ever mindful of their brothers-in-arms on the battle line.

The farm is affected by what goes on in the factory and the factory only can continue to produce because of the farm. The duty of the Michigan farm is to grow more foodstuffs—and to save and make sacrifices. The duty of the Michigan factory is to turn out more weapons and more weapons—and to save and make sacrifices.

These are basic truths which are written and rewritten between the lines of each day's news. It is a mistake to ask why this group or that group isn't doing more toward victory without at the same time asking:

"Am I doing all that I can. What more can I do?"

What Are You Doing?
"I was never surer of anything in my life than I am that we either work together for the common good, or we shall inevitably share the common evil or defeat."

That was WPB Chairman Donald M. Nelson speaking to American industry—labor and management. They are good words to be remembered in the days of toil and sacrifice to come.

Mr. Nelson will give the fourth and last of his series of nationwide radio speeches next Monday night.

United We Stand.

Don't feel too smug because you've paid your income tax. That didn't begin to fulfill your financial obligation to your government. You must continue to buy defense stamps and defense bonds—more and more of them.

The Fiddler Must Be Paid

Michigan farmers will feel the effect of the recent OPA order fixing a 90-day temporary maximum wholesale price on pork products probably more than any other war order to date.

Neither farmers nor retailers were covered directly by the order, which becomes effective March 23. But when price ceilings are placed on dressed hogs or pork cuts, it naturally limits prices which the packer will pay for the farmers' live hogs.

Pork products make up more than half of the nation's total meat supply. Hog prices have been rising rapidly, reflecting a heavy demand from three sources: (1) normal consumers, (2) U. S. armed forces, and (3) lend-lease. Lend-lease is in the market because America must help supply the needs of our allies in the fight for freedom.

The pork order is only one of many by OPA in an attempt to stabilize prices and help hold down the cost of living. Lard, that important by-product, already is under a price ceiling.

All America Is At War
America has three main fronts which demand manpower: the fighting front, the factory front, the farm front.

Selective Service is taking care of the first. Intensive training and the employment of women must supply the second. The farm front will require its own mobilization. This will call for ingenuity, planning, hard work by farm leaders and groups.

We Must Attack On All Fronts
Every time a 16-inch gun is fired, it eats up the distilled product of a fifth of an acre of sugar cane. Smokeless powder fires our guns. When you've saved nine-tenths of a pound of sugar, you've saved the equivalent of enough sugar alcohol to make, together with nitric acid and ordinary cotton, a whole pound of smokeless powder.

Remember this, when you line up soon to get your sugar ration books. SAVE AND SACRIFICE!

A LETTER TO.

Chelsea
from Georgetown, British Guiana

(Written in Cabin 6, aboard a ship at anchor in the Demerara River, Georgetown).

It is rather a long way from here to Panama-Cristobal Canal Zone to be exact. As far as the submarine situation in the Caribbean is concerned, our chances of getting there seem to be about fifty-fifty at present.

On the way up from Paramaribo to Georgetown, Kate has busied herself with what she terms our "Submarine Defense Unit". There is a built-in sofa directly between our two bunks in Cabin 6. On it, two brand-new life preservers are propped into position, ready to slip on. Between them lie my portfolio, our camera, and Kate's immense purse. These are the things we hope to save in the event of any distress. I have chosen the non-essential things—passport, money, etc. Kate has selected all the essentials: comb, toothbrushes, lipstick, needles and thread, her bottle of perfume.

Last night we had blackout practice. Lying at anchor, all the windows and portholes were papered up, and all the lights turned on behind them. Then the chief officer and captain were rowed around the boat in search of the faintest gleam of light anywhere. All the officers have been issued revolvers, that they may handle the blacks better in case of emergency.

In other words, this is really a serious business.

In search of a Sea-Cow . . .

The main "must see" in British Guiana, we had been told, was the sea cow at the Botanical Gardens. We grew rigid with determination—after all, in Michigan sea cows are usually products of alcoholic imaginations, not realities.

Georgetown harbor consists of the first several miles of the Demerara River. Outstanding for its mud content, the most powerful ship is completely at the mercy of the Demerara tides. Entrance and exit are possible only between noon and four o'clock each day.

We dock—we wash our faces—comb our hair—present ourselves to the Immigration Officer for "In Transit" cards permitting us to go ashore—do we have a visa for British Guiana? We smile sweetly—how could we get a visa when we did not know the ship was coming to Georgetown? Very sorry—it will take time—we cannot go ashore until—no sea cow!

We sit disconsolately on deck all that hot day, watching a horde of unenthusiastic black stevedores—load several thousand tons of rice into the hold. After dinner we go to a movie. The heat in Cabin 6 is ghastly. At eight o'clock the loading begins again—it goes on until four in the morning. The steam whistles hiss and clatter; the hand carts rattle over the wooden wharf floorings; the electric fans beat the warm air up to the hot thickness of a batter. No sea cow . . .

In the morning our visa and several officials arrive. There is much shaking of hands, flashing of teeth. We do not bother with our appearance—down the gangplank—on to the sea cow!

We race up the main street. Wide, unpaved, it is lined with huge frame buildings which house an infinite variety of establishments. The houses are built on piles, with only a lattice-work walling the first floor. We pass an Americanized soda fountain. We are not tempted. We have a mission. We will stare at the blasted sea cow on the . . .

Someone tells us to take a Regent Street bus out direct to the Gardens. We wait on a corner. Eventually a normal-sized car creeps near, carrying a small bus body lurching on its back. Several doors hang idly open, banging. All the busses have names; this one is "Tyron Power." The driver sticks his head out the nearest door.

"Come in!"

We start off, honking at "Greta Garbo" and "Bob Hope" as we pass. We reach the Botanical Gardens—one hundred fifty acres of tropical flora and fauna; yellow, blue, and red birds, water lilies with leaves five feet in diameter, orchids, and a green, mysterious pool.

Several little black boys pounce on us. We want to see the cow? They will arrange everything. One whistles shrilly, another splashes the water's edge with his hand, the third tears up a handful of grass.

The sea cow at last! Not one, but twenty—swimming placidly, their great moss-covered backs rippling the surface. Most of them are enormous, ten feet long with flippers instead of legs and a great, fan-like tail. They crawl part way up the bank, wrinkle their snouts, mangle the grass between hardened gums. Then, relaxing, they lie back peacefully, chewing their cud like any Michigan Holstein.

They are almost unbelievable. We have seen something rare, a mammalian relic of bygone ages . . .

Changing the subject, I seem to recall that A. D. Mayer was particularly interested in labor conditions and unions. In Georgetown the stevedores are typical of the average blacks. This body has a strong union, modeled after American unions, and recognized by law. When we arrived they had just ended a five-weeks strike, having won an increase in pay from 92 cents to $1.04 for an eight-hour day. They were a happy-go-lucky lot, made even happier by the fact that the Colony Legislature had just passed another law making it legal to picket. They had definite working hours; at four-thirty in the afternoon, quitting time, I saw one of them stop in the midst of a yawn. Frankly, I believe their good cheer over the picketing law enactment resulted principally from the acknowledged fact that picketing is less fatiguing than working.

BIRTHDAYS CELEBRATED

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Fitzmiller, Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Satterthwaite and son Duane, Mr. and Mrs. Alton Grau and family were entertained Sunday at the home of Mrs. Lydia Zahn in Freedom township. A chicken supper was served, in celebration of the birthday anniversaries of Mrs. Zahn, Mr. Fitzmiller, Mrs. Satterthwaite and James Grau.

Plans Made To Register Rural War Volunteers

Plans have now been completed for the registration of township residents of Washtenaw county for volunteer war work. While protective services have already been organized in rural areas of the county through the Sheriff's office, citizen's living outside the incorporated towns and villages will now have opportunity to enroll for the many other volunteer services which concern the health and welfare of the community in time of emergency.

In each township, a woman who has been appointed as Civilian Defense Volunteer Office chairman, will work with the supervisor to plan registration in her area. Township meetings will be called by these chairmen, with representatives of organizations such as the Grange, PTA, church groups and patriotic organizations, to discuss the emergency problems of the community, and organize local registration of volunteers. The enrollment plan was formulated by the county coordinating committee of the Volunteer Office, in collaboration with the sheriff's office, and has been approved by the Board of Supervisors.

An active project now being assisted by the Volunteer Office is a survey of the employed women in Ann Arbor who have children of pre-school and elementary school age. It has been estimated on the basis of interviews with various types of employers that there are between 500 and 700 of these working mothers. The next step in the survey is to consist of interviews with each of these women to determine what care her children are getting during her working hours, and what she sees as their future need in this respect. Local day nurseries are overcrowded, and it is hoped that the survey, which is sponsored by the Council of Social Agencies, will help determine the extent of needed day nursery facilities.

ST. PAUL'S MISSION CLUB

The regular meeting of St. Paul's Mission club was held on Thursday at the home of Mrs. Albert Widmayer, opening with devotionals by Mrs. Louis Eppler. The program included: Reading—A Lenten Seed—Mrs. J. N. Strieter.

Reading—A Beautiful Life—Mrs. Hazen Lehman.

Reading—Faith Creates Facts—Mrs. Widmayer.

Poem—The Season of Lent—Mrs. Alvin Vall.

Rolling bandages and making rags constituted the afternoon's work, after which lunch was served by the hostess.

DAUBY-HUNT WEDDING

The ceremony uniting Laura Dauby of Jackson and Charles A. Hunt of Chelsea took place at 1:30 on Saturday, March 7 at the Methodist parsonage, with Rev. F. D. Mumby officiating. The attendants were Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Dexter. A wedding dinner was served on Sunday at the home of Mrs. Hunt's son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Johnston, Jackson. Mr. and Mrs. Hunt are residing at the Truckers' Restaurant on U.S. 12, of which he is proprietor.

Girl Scout Drive

Mr. and Mrs. Chelsea:

The Publicity Committee is very pleased that you are interested in our campaign for sustaining members. Please notice at the close of this article a partial list of those contributing.

One of the badges that may be earned by a Girl Scout is a Community Life badge. To earn this, she must take part in at least one community project for local improvement; show how the flag of the United States of America should be displayed and cared for; investigate one way in which her community protects her and her family, and find out how she may cooperate.

The Brownie program is for girls too young to enjoy the activities of the older Scouts and includes girls ages 7 to 10, who have the most fun in group play of outdoor games and in short exploring trips in the neighborhood.

They have their own style uniforms and pins, and if there is enough interest in such a troop, Chelsea Scout leaders will endeavor to start one.

You may contact Mrs. Wilbur Hinderer, Scout committee chairman, or Mrs. Sidney Schenk, publicity chairman—and please do not forget, if you are interested and do not know how to contact a member of the above committee or a Child Study Club member, you may leave your contribution at the Chelsea State Bank. This is a partial list of sustaining members:

Wake Up, America -- It's Late!

The nation needs to awaken to the full gravity of the peril that confronts it.

It needs to appreciate how badly we have been defeated in three months of war.

It needs to understand that it is possible for the United Nations and the United States to lose this war and suffer the fate of France—and that this possibility may become a probability if the present tide does not change.

It needs to realize that there is grave chance of the Japanese pushing through India and the Germans driving through the near east, to join their armies and resources in an almost unbeatable combination.

It needs to get away, once and for all, from the comforting feeling that while we may lose at the start we are bound to win at the end.

Only when fully aware of existing perils will the United States do its utmost. Pray God that awareness will not come too late, as it did in France!

Production Director Donald Nelson appeals for vastly increased industrial output on a 24-hour, seven-day basis—168 hours a week. Maximum production in short.

Can we get it?

Not on the present basis—not under the psychology of recent years.

Not until we quit thinking in terms of less work for more money.

Not while there is greater concern about overtime pay than overtime production.

Not while farmers, politicians are more interested in higher prices than raising more essentials.

Not while government bureaus created to meet a depression emergency that is ended—continue to grab for themselves money needed for armaments.

Not while an army of Federal press agents clamors to promote and perpetuate activities that have no present need or value.

Not while Congressmen try to put over useless canals and river schemes and take up the time of defense officials clamoring for factories and contracts as if war were a great gravy train.

Not while WPA, despite a shortage of labor, seeks to carry on projects which it doesn't have the men to perform or the need for performing.

Not while CCC and NYA stretch greedy hands for funds to pamper young men who ought to be in the armed forces or the war plants.

Not while strikes hamper war production despite a solemn promise that they would stop.

Not while the life-and-death need for uninterrupted production is used as a weapon to put over the closed shop.

Not while double time is demanded for Sunday work which is only part of a 40-hour week.

Not while a man can't be employed on an army project or in a war plant until he pays $20 to $50 or more to a labor racketeer.

Not while criminal gangs control employment and allocation of men to work on the Normandy and other ships along New York's waterfront.

Not while Fifth Columnists are pampered and enemy aliens move freely in defense areas.

Not while the grim job of preparing our home communities against war raids and sabotage is gummed up with a lot of high-falutin', boondoggling social service activity.

Not while pressure blocs clamor for higher benefits, bounties and pensions.

We will not get maximum production, in short, unless first, we realize our awful peril; and second, get over the gimmies of recent years.

Gimme shorter hours? Gimme higher wages, gimme bigger profits, gimme more overtime, gimme less work, gimme more pensions, gimme greater crop benefits, gimme more appropriations and patronage, gimme plants for my Congressional district, gimme fees and dues to work for Uncle Sam, gimme Ham 'n' Eggs, gimme share-the-wealth, gimme $30 every Thursday.

France had the gimmies, too—had them till the Germans were close to Paris. Then everybody went frantically to work—too late.

France has no gimmies today—except gimme food for my baby, gimme a place to lay my head, gimme death.

LEGION CELEBRATES BIRTHDAY

The 23rd birthday party of Herbert J. McKune Post No. 31, The American Legion, and the Legion Auxiliary was held on Tuesday evening at the Legion home, when a roast beef supper was served at 7 o'clock, with covers for 54. Paul C. Maroney, Legion Commander, then introduced Rev. Fred D. Mumby as speaker of the evening. His topic was "The Legion and Loyalty." Moving pictures were shown by W. C. Smith, and dancing followed.

KIWANIS NEWS

The Kiwanians held another fine meeting on Monday evening of this week. The program chairman secured Nic Prakken of Ann Arbor to be the principal speaker of the evening. Mr. Prakken is manager of the Michigan Bell Telephone Company in this district. Chester Manning, another representative of the Michigan Bell, showed some very fine pictures of "America on Parade." These pictures depicted in detail the many ways in which the armed forces and the army of production are cooperating in the "all out" defense of this nation at the present time.

President R. A. McLaughlin announced that the Savings Defense Stamp Dance which is sponsored by the Kiwanis club and the American Legion, will be held in the Chelsea high school gym on Friday evening, April 17. He stated that Maurice Baker and his fine band of musicians from Detroit had been selected to play for this affair. The president mentioned that the purpose of the dance is to stimulate the sale of Defense Stamps and Bonds and urged the Kiwanians and the residents of Chelsea to reserve this date on their calendars to aid the defense effort of the nation by attending this affair and purchasing Defense Stamps.

Waste Paper Is Vital To Victory Production

Only about one-third of the nation's waste paper is now being recovered. Most of this comes from large industries, factories, department stores, hotels, public buildings, and apartment houses. About two-thirds of all paper is destroyed—going into furnaces, incinerators, and rubbish heaps. It is imperative that a considerably larger percentage of waste paper be saved and reclaimed, or the current shortage will become increasingly acute with serious effects upon America's war effort and regular business activities.

Trade estimates indicate that the average family can save a pound of waste paper a day. This is the important source of waste paper that must be salvaged if a serious shortage is to be averted.

A ton of paperboard, from which containers are made, contains 1906 pounds of waste paper, cardboard, and corrugated board. America's war effort now takes one-fourth of the more than 8,000,000 tons of paperboard scheduled for manufacture in the U. S. this coming year. By the end of 1942 it will be utilizing two-thirds of an estimated 9,000,000 tons.

One ton of waste paper, according to a research source, will produce any of the following: 1500 shell containers, 47,000 boxes for 30-caliber ammunition, 71,000 dust covers for airplane engines, or 36,000 practice targets.

Michigan Mirror

By Gene Alleman

Enemy air raids on Michigan cities or the Soo locks could occur during April or May when weather would be more suitable for long distance flying, according to military advice. Inconsistency exists in the fact that the army has not taken steps yet to designate Michigan as a possible target for air attacks, although President Roosevelt said in a recent press conference that Detroit could be bombed under certain conditions.

Protective defense services—such as air raid wardens and fire and police volunteers—are in charge of Capt. Don Leonard, Michigan State Police, who was designated months ago by the governor as coordinator for these agencies in Michigan. Official instruction courses have been prepared by the Office of Civilian Defense at Washington for which Leonard was a special field man for many months.

Ludington is all excited over prospects of the huge chemical defense plant to be constructed there by the Defense Plant Corp. and operated by the Dow Magnesium Corp. In Benton Harbor a new mine-sweeper was launched. A new lock is believed assured for the St. Mary's river canal at Sault Ste. Marie.

Brighter news from the industrial front, in contrast to the flow of reverses from the war front, was reflected in an announcement by the state unemployment compensation commission that 111,538 claims had been paid to jobless as of Feb. 21, as compared to previous official forecast of 250,000 to 300,000.

Reasons, as given by Wendell L. Lund, commission director: "Unexpected industrial activity and greater speed in defense absorption of the idle."

It seems that everybody won in the recent legislative skirmish over unemployment compensation benefits. The Republican legislature and the Democratic governor are both claiming credit for liberalizing maximum payments from $16 to $20 for 20 weeks, minimum payments $7 to $10 for 12 weeks.

Director Wendell Lund said that manufacturers and employees were happy. And the best acclaim of all came from Ewan Clague, associate director of the Federal employment security division of the Social Security Board: "Michigan is to be congratulated that it has the best unemployment insurance law in the United States."

Clague said the trend was toward a "straight state system"—in contrast to federal benefits granted by Congress to pressure groups for political purposes.

Local draft boards are to be cautioned by Brig. General Lewis B. Hershey, director of selective service, against exhausting farm labor rolls in their counties. General Hershey said in Washington: "One of the hardest men you have to convince that he is a specialist is the farmer. Farmers are patriotic. They don't try to get exemptions."

Recommendations of the civil service commission for saving $171,000 annually are to be put into effect by the state liquor control commission, following the recent reorganization effected by Governor Van Wageningen.

The newest reform followed appointment of Ralph Thomas of Detroit as chairman and Felix H. H. Flynn, formerly on the unemployment compensation commission, as a member.

Recognizing a war-time demand for industrial efficiency, the commission took steps to discourage "any conditions in the industry which interfere with all-out production." In other words, war orders will get the right-of-war over liquor licensees when the two clash.

Recent public opinion polls by Dr. George Gallup have shown a rise in sentiment for prohibition.

Herbert J. Rushton, attorney general, has upheld the right of the civil service commission to reorganize state governmental agencies in order to eliminate unnecessary employees and to effect operating economies.

The constitutional amendment on civil service, however, does not remove control of state departments from state officials except for the assignment and placing of personnel subject to civil service, it was held.

G. Donald Kennedy, state commissioner of highways, reported a reduction of department payroll by 13.9 per cent for January. Gasoline revenues are expected to decline due to the rationing, and Kennedy is taking steps to keep operating costs in line with 1942 revenues. Highway construction will be limited virtually to war needs.

The pension repeal was whooped through the house of representatives at Washington by unanimous vote of Michigan's 17 representatives.

Editorial comment on defense: (By Stanley Banyon in the Benton Harbor News-Palladium):

"How many hours a week do the boys on Bataan work? If the Japs attack on Sunday, do you think the American troops demand double time for overtime?"

"The work week is between 55 and 60 hours in Great Britain. It is between 60 and 70 hours in Germany.

"This is war. Every American must work as many hours as compatible with maximum efficiency. He should be paid for every hour, at his regular pay rate. The 40-hour week overtime penalties—like excessive profits—are holding back the war effort. For the duration, they must go!"

Chase S. Osborn, writing in the Sault Ste. Marie Evening News: "This is no time to get too cocky or to think of ourselves as bullies or anything of that sort. But it is wholesome to remember that Americans have never shirked a fight when they were in the right. They really appear to have enjoyed dying for their country. It is as good a way to be assured of future happiness as can be found. Sooner or later the Americans are going to wipe the Japanese off the face of the earth."

"If the boys with MacArthur can take it, so can we!"

So said a World war veteran on the midnight-to-dawn shift at Colt's patent fire arms plant in Connecticut when he explained why the men called it the "MacArthur Shift."

M. A. Gorman, editor, Flint Journal, observed editorially: "What a boon it would be if this spirit should take root throughout American life and it must!"

THE STORY SO FAR: Joan Leland, secretary to importer Arthur Mulford, is discharged by him and refused any explanation. She takes a similar post with handsome Karl Miller, proprietor of a night club who pays her generously for material late hours of work. He gets her, sister Sybil, a new job and Joan falls in love with him. His club manager, Paul Sherman, warns her about Karl, but refuses to give any reason, and later rescues her from the unwanted love-making of Eric Strom, Karl's business partner. Sybil suspects Karl's motive but Joan defends him. They board a freighter ship, apparently as a lark, and as they leave, Joan notices that Paul Sherman had followed them. She remains silent about this. Later Karl sends Joan with a package to the freighter captain. Paul follows, again warning her. One night before Christmas Eric arrives suddenly and Karl asks Joan to leave the office.

Now continue with the story.

CHAPTER VIII

The club was crowded with a gay holiday group. Joan went into the bar and took her place on a tall stool.

"Something to drink, Miss Leland?" one of the attendants asked. "No, thank you," Joan said. "I'm waiting for Mr. Miller." She looked at her watch. Exactly ten o'clock. She hoped Karl would not be long. She was jealous of each moment he spent with anyone else.

She was so deep in her own thoughts that she did not hear Paul Sherman until he spoke a second time.

"Fancy finding you here," he was saying as he caught her attention. "I'm waiting for Karl."

Paul smiled ruefully. "I might have known it."

"Are we going through this again?" Joan asked. "It's Christmas time. Paul. I'm happy and I don't want to quarrel with anyone."

Paul's brown eyes twinkled. "Even me?"

"Even you," she said firmly. "Let's call a truce, shall we?"

"It's a deal. And to prove it, how about a dance with me?"

She hesitated, but Paul pulled her to her feet.

"I won't take no for an answer. Even Karl can't begrudge me one dance."

Paul was an excellent dancer and Joan was relieved that he seemed resigned to the situation. She really wanted to be friends with everyone, to share her happiness with the whole world.

There was pity in Paul Sherman's brown eyes but Joan did not see it. As light as a feather, she danced in his arms. Over her head Paul's serious face belied his gay attempt at bantering conversation.

"You have the cutest turned-up nose," he informed her. "But it doesn't suit the rest of you."

"That's a dubious compliment," Joan smiled.

"Your nose gives you away for just what you are, a cute kid! Paul laughed and so did she. Cute kid! Karl called her beautiful, glamorous, exciting—Paul Sherman thought she was just a cute kid. It proved how much more sophisticated Karl was. Yet if she had never met Paul, he would have been fond of her. He was young, good-looking and intelligent. Karl, however, had so much more to offer. He had lived. He was experienced. There was a mystery about him that set him apart from all others. There was even a subtle fascination about his guttural accent. Karl represented power and strength.

"I'm still here," Paul reminded her, breaking into her dream.

"Sorry," Joan admitted. "I'd almost forgotten."

"The orchestra filed out for an intermission."

"I think I'll go back to the office," Joan said. "Karl said he'd send for me in ten minutes and it's been much longer than that. Eric Strom is there."

"Eric Strom?"

"That's right. And Karl didn't seem too pleased about it."

"I wouldn't advise you to go back then," Paul said, frowning. "I'm worried," she confessed, "about Karl."

"Karl can take care of himself," Paul said, lighting a cigarette.

But Joan felt a sudden inner compulsion. "I'm going anyway," she told Paul. He made a step as if to detain her, then apparently reversing his decision, walked to the bar.

Joan hurried down the long corridor exactly as she had done so many times before. But fear hastened her footsteps, fear for Karl. She did not trust Eric Strom. She had been alarmed by his expression.

"If anything happens to Karl..." she thought.

As she reached the door she heard the two men arguing violently. Then there was a shot followed by a crash.

"Karl!" Joan screamed, flinging open the door.

But it was Eric Strom who lay upon the floor. There was a gun beside his hand.

Her eyes sought Karl's fearfully. "He killed himself?" she faltered. Karl shut the door. "Pick up that gun!" he commanded.

Shuddering, Joan obeyed, placing it upon the desk.

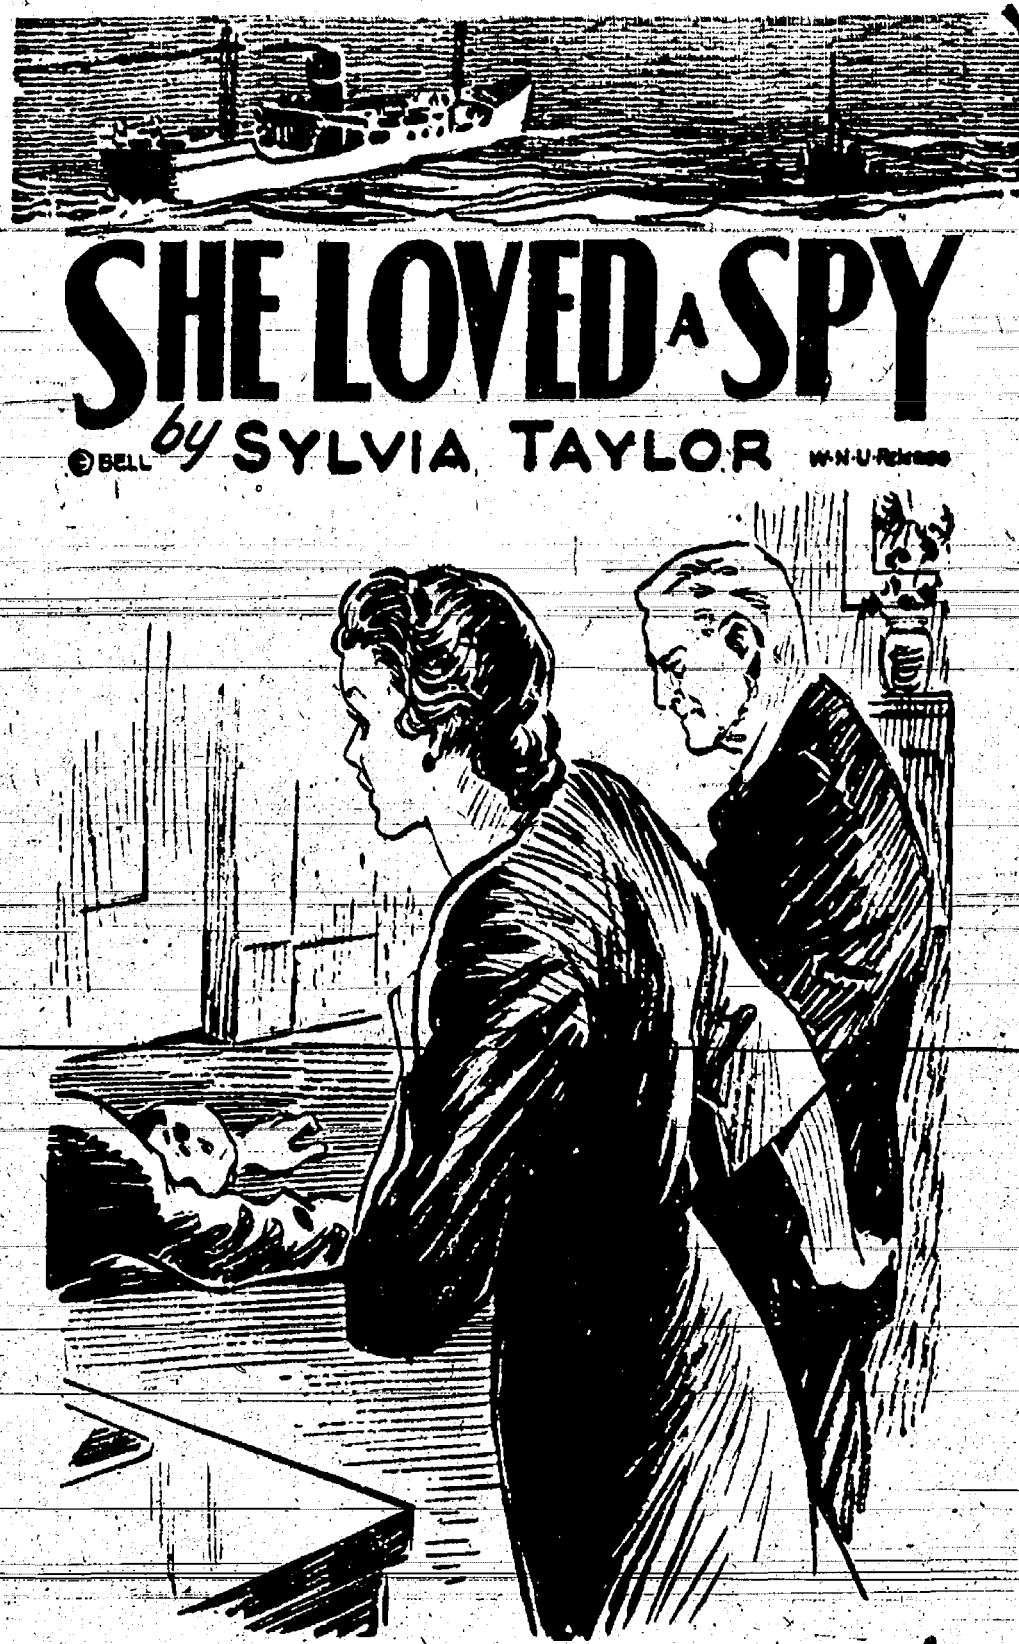

"Karl!" She ran to him, seizing his arm, staring into his face, which had no glint of emotion in it. "Darling, you didn't kill him?"

Her green eyes were pleading from a chalk-white face. "Karl! Answer me! You didn't!"

"You couldn't... Why that would be..."

"Murder!"

Karl Miller smiled grimly as he took a cigarette from the silver box on his desk. "Some people might call it that," he said without a trace of excitement.

But it was Eric Strom who lay upon the floor. There was a gun beside his hand.

Joan leaned weakly against the desk. She was beyond fear, beyond tears. There was a terrible silence in the office, a heavy dreadful silence. A silence intensified by Karl Miller's face; narrowed eyes, hard mouth. A silence made more tense by the stillness of Eric Strom's body upon the floor. Joan's mind slowly tried to put together the pieces of this horrible picture. Karl had shot Eric—killed him. Beyond that she knew nothing.

Her hand reached for the telephone. "I'm going to call the police!"

Karl seized her arm with a violence that almost jerked it from its socket. "You will do nothing of the kind!"

She stared at him. Was this the Karl Miller she knew? Was this the hard-faced man the one who had held her tenderly and murmured "liebchen"?

Someone was pounding at the office door. Karl had looked it. Paul Sherman's voice came distinctly through the opaque glass panels. "Joan! What's going on in there? Let me in!"

Karl walked to the door and opened it. "There has been an unfortunate accident," he said calmly. Paul's expression did not change. "What happened?"

Karl Miller smiled a little as he regarded his white-faced manager.

"Joan was perfectly justified. Eric has tried to annoy her before. You can testify to that yourself."

"Just what are you drinking at?" Paul demanded.

Joan tried to speak but her lips would not move. What was Karl saying? What did he mean?

"Joan shot Eric," Karl Miller stated.

His words were like an electric shock. "I didn't! Karl, you know I didn't! You did it yourself! You shot him!"

She ran to Paul and clutched his arm. "Paul, you believe me, don't you?"

Paul Sherman did not answer. He did not even look at her.

"Your fingerprints are on the gun," Karl said.

"But you told me to pick it up," the man she loved and trusted, had turned against her, accusing her of a murder he had committed. It was like some fantastic nightmare.

"I have no wish to turn you over to the police, Joan. We will forget about this little matter. No one need know what has happened."

Rage blazed in her green eyes. "But I haven't done anything. I'm not afraid to tell the police! And I'm going to tell them the whole story."

She was not speaking to the Karl Miller she had loved. This man was a stranger.

"You will not go to the police!" His voice cut like a whip.

Paul Sherman stared straight ahead of him, seeming to see or hear nothing.

"I will," Joan cried hysterically, turning towards the door.

Karl's powerful arm stopped her and forced her roughly into a chair.

"There are two reasons why you will not. The first—if you do I will testify that you shot Eric, and Paul will back me up."

Her pleading eyes turned to Paul. He would not fail her.

But he said coolly, "I'm afraid that's right."

"But you can't! It isn't true! Karl, why are you going this? Paul! Help me! I don't understand!"

"Eric," Karl went on, "tried to double-cross me. You may observe for yourself what has happened to him. That is the second reason that you will do nothing."

Joan clutched the arms of her chair for support. She compressed her lips in a desperate attempt to control her emotions.

Karl Miller advanced towards her. "And if you double-cross me, you know what to expect. Now do you understand?"

"You wouldn't dare!" Joan said but the sightless eyes of Eric Strom refuted the statement.

She covered her face with her hands and wept.

It couldn't be true. That wasn't Karl, her Karl! He must be driven by desperation to turn against her. It was some horrible mistake. In a moment it would be over. He would explain everything and hold her in his arms again.

But Karl was saying, "You know nothing! You will tell no one what has occurred here tonight. We will go on as if nothing has happened."

She wanted to laugh wildly, hysterically. "Go on as if nothing had happened?"

Karl wrapped the pistol in a handkerchief, put it in the safe, then motioned to Paul. "Give me a hand." Together they carried the lifeless Eric Strom from the office.

Joan could hear them descending the fire escape, outside the back of the building. What would they do with Eric? The noise from the orchestra must have prevented the sound of the shot from disturbing the Club guests.

Joan stared at the telephone. She was alone. It would be easy to call the police—but she was afraid. She was afraid of the look in Karl Miller's eyes. There had been ruthless determination in those eyes. And in the safe lay the gun that had killed Eric. A gun bearing her fingerprints. Paul had said he would testify in support of Karl. What chance would Joan Leland have? The evidence was conclusively against her. What was behind this murder? Why Karl's attitude, Paul's sudden change of front?

She had no idea how long it was before Karl returned. He was alone.

"Let us understand each other," he said, sitting down at his desk. "It would be most unfortunate if I were to become involved with the police. I am not an American citizen."

"You are a German?" Joan asked dully.

"Naturally, as is everyone else associated with me here at the club."

"Paul, too?"

"Of course, Paul, too," Karl Miller smiled as he leaned towards her. "You see we are engaged in certain activities which are necessarily very private."

Then at last Joan knew the truth. This was a spy ring. It must be. That explained everything—those mysterious letters to Mexico, Karl's reticence. The Club Elite was only a blind. But why was Karl telling her this?

"I trust you now," Karl said with a wry smile. "You are in much too deep to get out. Not only would you be held for murder, but you are implicated just as much as the rest of us. You recall the portfolio you delivered to the freighter?"

She stared at him without answering.

"That envelope, contained very valuable information. Information enough to convict you on many

Why Good Americans?

Last Wednesday morning the results of the American Legion contest were announced. The contest consisted of an essay entitled "The Characteristics of a Good American" to be written by the boys and girls in high school.

Certainly this was a worthwhile contest. There is nothing so important to the welfare of the United States today as hard working and loyal American citizens. Each and every one of us, rich and poor, young and old, must be ready to give unselfishly and willingly all that we can to aid in this great fight. Over and over we have been told of the ways in which we can help. Some of these ways should be mentioned over and over again. Buy Defense Stamps; plant Victory Gardens; conserve supplies; keep healthy; do your every day job the very best way that you know how. Are you honestly doing as many of these things as you can? Are you a good American?

The Student Council discussed the lack of support that the Student Body gives to the baseball team. They wondered how they could work up more enthusiasm for the game. It was decided to have cheerleaders at the games this coming season.

The monitors for this week are Marjorie Whipple, Marie Winter and Carl Hesselchwerdt.

Senior News

In preparation for their graduation the Seniors have much to accomplish and are working hard to get everything finished on time. Last week at the class meeting they discussed plans for their four-day Senior trip, and are expecting the representative of Youth Travel of Ann Arbor to help them finish the arrangements.

They are still having their pictures taken and over three-fourths of the class have received their proofs.

Geneva Brown has charge of ordering of the calling cards and also collecting of the money.

At the class meetings they also chose committees for the class will, program and history for the Senior Annual.

Evening Classes

Evening classes in shop and agriculture are being held every Thursday night for boys out of school. These classes are under the supervision of Mr. Miller and Mr. Bust.

counts. You were seen delivering that envelope by several people. One of them happened to be Paul Sherman."

Little by little Joan Leland's confused brain began to see the picture. And she knew that what Karl said was true. She was in too deep to get out. But she must get out! She could not, would not continue to have anything to do with Karl Miller now that she knew the truth. A spy! So this was the mystery that she had once considered romantic and attractive! She looked at him now with loathing.

But Karl put a hand over her. "Be sensible, Joan. You're hysterical at the moment but you'll be all right. You have nothing to worry about. I'm very fond of you. Is there any reason we should not go on?"

The girl leaped to her feet. "I hate you, Karl Miller! And no matter what you say, I'm not afraid of you!"

His hands were on her shoulders. "You don't mean that, liebchen!"

Our Seniors

Just last week a new Senior made her appearance in C. H. S., coming to us from Cooley High in Detroit. Her name is Allyn Kohsman and she was born on January 20, 1925 in Detroit. She has brown eyes and auburn (not red!) hair, weighs 121 pounds, and is five feet, four and three-quarters inches tall. Allyn's favorite color is blue and her favorite song is the "Blue Danube Waltz", played by Glenn Miller or Kay Kyser. History, swimming and Italian spaghetti all rate A-1 with her. After having been graduated from Chelsea High, Allyn hopes to go to business school.

In Marion, Ohio, on January 11, 1924 a bouncing baby girl was born, who was destined to be named Alida Marie by her parents (Mr. and Mrs. Rudd). After 18 years Alida is now 5 ft. three and one-half inches tall, weighs 112 pounds and has brown eyes and hair. Dancing is her favorite pastime and "to have fun" her ambition. Blue, like so many others, is her favorite color. "Missing You" by Bonnie Goodman makes a suitable song to dance to or if no dancing is in store, Alida goes to the movies. "Miss Bishop" was her favorite, and after that, in fact any time, she consumes hamburgers.

Agriculture

The Chelsea high school agriculture department was visited last Thursday by Raymond Clark of the State Vocational Education office.

Mr. Clark's visit is one of the services of the State Board of Control for Vocational Education and takes place from one to three times during each year. At this time new developments in F. F. A. programs, adult education and day instruction are discussed. In addition to visiting the day school classes in agriculture Mr. Clark also visited the class in farm mechanics now being taught by Mr. Miller.

The F. F. A. has ordered thirty-four hundred pounds of certified seed potatoes for their summer potato projects. In addition five steers are now on feed for the Marshall F. F. A. fat stock show in September and plans are being made to feed a few pens of lambs and pigs for the same show.

The boys are also considering planting a cooperative potato project from which graded potatoes would be marketed next fall.

Band News

The band will go to East Lansing on Saturday, April 14, to take part in the District Festival. If the band should get a high enough rating, it will go to Ann Arbor on Saturday, April 25 to take part in the State Festival. Some of the most prominent musicians of the United States will be the judges of these contests.

The Band Parents' Club will provide transportation to and from these festivals. If anyone planning to go, is willing to take band members, they should notify some member of the club. This will be appreciated very much by the club.

It Happened Here

The most interesting games of the basketball season were played here last week. Know why? Chelsea, believe it or not, was on the winning side for a change—they had to be the games were the class tournaments!

Right after school on Wednesday the Freshmen bravely marched into the gym followed by their opponents, the Juniors. The second game was between the Sophomores and Seniors—plus a few eighth graders. The Seniors felt very patriotic so like our government, drafted Leroy May and "Bugs" Slane to head their team line-up. We'll skip the scores of both games—the finals were played between the Sophomores and Juniors. The Freshmen and Seniors also played sort of a consolation game. The Freshmen had strong fellows like Dick Richards and Bob Gross, for example, to lead their team. "Bugs" was not in the Senior line-up (we hear that he contacted some horrible disease and has red spots all over him!) but taking his place was a fellow from the muscle-builder's class, namely "Fireball" Hale. No fooling—the Seniors won.

For a change there wasn't any activity at school Friday night 'cause Senior play practice is in full swing. So all the boys and girls patronized the local theater. Stan Policht and about five other fellows were so anxious to see Shirley Temple that they sat in the third row from the front!

Mr. Cameron's government class took a "beating" last Wednesday when they got their cards. (Thinking C. S. C. would be especially happy these last few weeks they expected better marks than they received. Maybe he wanted a new supply of apples which he, no doubt, will be getting during this next six weeks.

And last but not least some of the basketball boys ordered sweaters. They're going to be pretty "super" as Matthew Kusterer says it's going to take him about two years to pay for his sweater—must be something special.

Chorus

The triple-trio is going to sing at the Senior play next Friday night, March 20.

Chorus is preparing to sing at a church service to be held on Good Friday.

Defense Bd. Assembly

The Chelsea high school National Defense Board is planning an assembly to be held the 24th of March in the study hall for the students and teachers.

It has not yet been decided who the speaker will be at the assembly but a panel discussion will probably be carried on by representatives from the 9th, 10th, 11th and 12th grades and an instructor.

The C. H. S. Defense Board will tell the students what they can do to help in this crisis. Projects have already been started. Freshmen are collecting scrap iron, Sophomores are in charge of books for soldiers, Juniors collect paper and the Seniors write letters to the boys in service.

Class Tournaments

The Class of '43 claimed the honors this year of being class champions. The first game in the playoffs Wednesday at 3:45 resulted in the Juniors defeating the Freshmen 61 to 12. At 4:50 the same afternoon the Sophomores defeated the Seniors 17 to 32. The Juniors played the Sophs on Friday after school, which resulted in their win 47-17. The players on the winning team included Luther Kusterer (with 44 points), Stan Policht, Dwight Gadd, Dick Kern, and Dan Ewald. The team was coached by Bob Strieter.

Elementary News

Eighth Grade

The eighth grade girls were entertained at Dexter on Saturday, the 14th. We played basketball the first thing, at which we defeated the Dexter girls 20 to 6. Our team was made up of the seventh and eighth grade girls. We ran relay races and played games. We were served a lunch, also. We had a very good time, and we hope we may invite the Dexter girls to Chelsea.

The measles have really hit the eighth grade for there was a large per cent gone Monday morning.

Seventh Grade

(Lewis Holbrook and Mary Aldrich)

Bob Daniels had a birthday last week. To celebrate, the class gave him an indoor baseball. He proceeded to give us a talk on "baseball" while we wrote our penmanship. Miss Fox says he made 128 true statements about baseball in eleven minutes.

Josephine Salzer had a birthday on Monday of this week. Her talk during penmanship was about "birthdays."

The seventh and eighth grade girls went to a field meet at Dexter gymnasium on Saturday. Chelsea won the basketball game and the "four-corner-kick" game, but lost the relay races. Refreshments were served.

Our stamp sale for last week amounted to $16.10.

Naomi Gordon went to Coldwater last Saturday.

Sixth Grade

By Patsy Mohrlock

Friday we had a spelling bee. Douglas Vogel won it on the word citizen. Douglas will go through the Detroit News building and will get a dictionary with his name on 'in gold.

Quite a few people have been out with the measles. Today we had more in the class than before.

In Science we have been studying about animals and how they protect themselves. We find this very interesting.

We hope all our class will be back soon.

PRISCILLA CHAPTER MEETS

The Priscilla chapter of the Congregational church held their March meeting at the home of Mrs. Lewis Noll on Thursday afternoon. The Lenten devotionals were given by Rev. R. W. Barber. Twenty-eight members and guests were present. The afternoon was spent in doing Red Cross sewing and knitting. Refreshments were served. The assisting hostesses were Mrs. James Almond and Mrs. D. E. Crocker.

Consumer Information Center Opens In A. A.

Monday, March 9 marked the opening of the new Consumer Information Center at the Armory in Ann Arbor, with facts about sugar substitutes, conservation of sugar, and grading and labeling of canned goods as an opening feature. Housewives and interested persons throughout the county are invited to contribute low-cost recipes and menus, suggestions for available substitute products, and clippings and articles on war-time diet and nutrition. Recipes will be tested and their approximate costs listed and placed on file.

County representatives of the Civilian Defense Volunteer Office meeting last week at county headquarters heard a talk by Deputy Thomas FitzGerald, who described the work of the county's protective services. "A total of 564 men have registered for the county's general protective services—fire, police, and first aid. Air-raid wardens are to be registered in the different sections of the county this month. In addition to these 564 men, other parties of volunteers are being organized by the sheriff's office for rescue, demolition, poisonous gas, utilities, decontamination, public work and communications." Deputy FitzGerald added that a chart is being prepared in the sheriff's office showing all available personnel and emergency equipment within a given area.

Speaking of the necessity for all volunteer activities to be closely coordinated to avoid confusion and duplication, he mentioned the carefully coordinated work of the Disaster Committee of the Red Cross with the protective services of the county, and also added: "Much has been gained by working with the Volunteer Office in the way of securing volunteer assistance. It is possible to call for help and get the right kind of short notice by working through the Armory."

The two training courses open to citizens of Washtenaw county are beginning this week under the auspices of the Volunteer Office. An orientation course, designed for those interested in learning more about the relation of the volunteer program to other aspects of civilian defense, starts Thursday, March 12 at 10 a. m. in the Ann Arbor Armory, and will continue at the same time each Tuesday and Thursday morning through March 25. "Mental Hygiene for Teachers in War-Time" is the subject of a course now being given in the Ann Arbor high school for teachers of the county who are interested in the special problems that a war psychology brings. This course will be repeated if there is sufficient demand for it.

Safetygrams by Fred W. Brown. The Safety Man.

The problem of proper tire control is a common topic of discussion nowadays. If the rubber shortage continues definitely, then we shall see all kinds of rubber that will hold air being used for automobile tires. Safety-minded drivers will do everything possible to keep their present tires in the best possible shape. 1. Switch the tires every two or three thousand miles from wheel to wheel. 2. Avoid fast stops. 3. See that your tires are inflated properly and regularly. 4. Check your wheel alignment to see that the wheels are lined up properly. 5. Cut down speed. 6. Cut down speed around curves. Many more rules could be developed but these are some of the most essential; and if you will follow them, you will have rubber on which to drive your car. It's smart to drive carefully!

Vegetables for Victory

With spring making its official debut on March 21, thousands of amateur gardeners are being encouraged to take an active part in their country's war effort. Victory gardens, inspired by the need to promote home vegetable growing, are the No. 1 war assignment for gardeners in all parts of the nation. The enthusiast pictured above is typical of the many youngsters who will do their bit to step up food production.

Although canning profits will be higher in 1942, due to the prospective high price of vegetables, smaller and more intensively cultivated gardens are recommended. Possible difficulties in securing containers for canning, shortage of farm labor and higher prices of certain seeds are factors which will determine the

The Victory garden isn't a recent development. Pictured above is a War garden—1918 version. The first World War saw many inexperienced city dwellers attempt to work up vacant lots or back yards where there was little chance of success. The 1942 Victory garden drive is being directed largely toward farm families and suburban dwellers who have both land and experience available.
