Canteen Classes Are Organized In Chelsea

The first meeting of the Canteen Class was held Tuesday afternoon at the high school, under the able instruction of Mrs. Kent Walworth. The committee was happy to count thirty-four women in attendance.

The committee in charge of organizing these classes is Mrs. Paul Maroney, Mrs. Kent Walworth and Mrs. Wilbur Hinderer. An organization meeting was called on Wednesday evening, April 2, at which time it was decided to divide the aides into groups according to churches, with the following as leaders: Mrs. Armin Schneider, St. Mary's; Mrs. Lawrence Wacker, Congregational church; Mrs. I. H. Weiss, Methodist church; and Mrs. Howard Flintoft, St. Paul's church.

Another group, a mobile emergency unit, is still to be organized. This unit would function when the others might be without utilities or building space.

Some people might question this detailed organization for possible emergencies. There is no doubt that many of the local organizations have had much experience in preparing meals for large numbers and could function for a time in case of necessity. However, providing funds to pay for the food is another problem. Here again we have the Red Cross coming to our aid. It will finance any group that is organized according to their requirements, thus assuring the protection of local merchants.

The church units and especially the emergency unit, still need more members. The men are urged to join because their help will be vital in times of disaster. The rural ladies are also invited to join. Bring your notebook and pencil and meet with us at the high school either Tuesday afternoon from 1:30 to 3:30 or Wednesday evening from 7:30 to 9:30.

Let us hope that our canteen units will never be called to duty. Unpreparedness, as we have seen in this war, has been a fault of our nation. Let us be prepared!

—Publicity Chairman.

P. O. Service Windows Close At Noon Saturday

Postmaster H. D. Withers reports that beginning Saturday, April 11, the local post office will close all service windows at 12 noon in conformity with the policies of other first and second class offices throughout the nation. This change was advocated during a recent four-day survey of the office by the regular post office inspector for this territory, and subsequently approved by the Post Office Department at Washington, D. C.

Along with this change in service window hours, the post office inspector has been instrumental in securing for the local office considerably more hours of auxiliary clerical service which will allow for more concentration of employees' hours during the first five and one-half days of the working week. It is thought that the closing of the remaining service window at noon on Saturdays will not cause any appreciable inconvenience to the patrons, as in most cases a few stamps purchased in advance will supply their needs for Saturday afternoon mailing as usual. There will be a clerk on duty in the work room to handle receipt and dispatch of the afternoon mails as heretofore. Also, anyone wanting to purchase War Stamps will find them on sale at various other agencies in Chelsea.

A. A. Bicyclist Killed Sunday Night On US-12

Miss Kathryn Lancaster of Ann Arbor, was killed at 10:50 Sunday night while riding a bicycle on US-12 a mile east of Lima Center, when she was hit by a car driven by George Semple of Highland Park.

Miss Lancaster was returning home from Chelsea, where she had spent the day with her sister, Mrs. George Miller. The accident occurred in heavy traffic, and Mr. Semple told sheriff's officers he did not see the bicycle until his car collided with it. He was uninjured but his wife, who was riding with him, suffered cuts on the face and left arm, and was treated at a Highland Park hospital.

Miss Lancaster was born Oct. 22, 1918 in Petoskey. For the last four years she had resided in Ann Arbor, where she was employed at the Superior Dairy. She is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Lancaster, of Petoskey; two sisters and three brothers. The body was brought to the Staffan funeral home and was later taken to Petoskey, where funeral services were held at 2:30 on Wednesday. Burial was in Petoskey.

Fourth Registration Ordered for April 27

Michigan Local Boards were authorized this week by Col. E. M. Rosecrans, State Selective Service Director, to organize their plans for the conduct of the fourth registration, which will be conducted throughout the nation in accordance with the President's proclamation on Monday, April 27, between the hours of 7:00 a. m. and 9:00 p. m.

Persons required to be registered in the fourth registration will include all males residing in the continental United States or in the territories of Alaska, Hawaii, or in Puerto Rico, who were born on or after April 28, 1897, and on or before February 16, 1897. With the registration of this group, there will remain to be registered only those males between the ages of 18 and 20. Registrants of the fourth registration will not be subject to military service under the Selective Service Act of 1940, as amended.

Col. Rosecrans estimated that 570,000 persons in Michigan will be subject to registration on April 27. Approximately 225,000 of these will be registered in Wayne county. More than one million Michigan residents are now registered with Local Boards in this state.

Local Boards have been instructed to establish places of registration in public schools and other public buildings similar to those used for the third registration in February. Approximately 25,000 volunteer registrars will be called upon to assist Local Boards in the conduct of the registration. School officials and other local government agencies have been called upon to assist Local Boards in every way possible to insure accurate and complete registration.

Naval Officer Sends Thanks To Red Cross

Mrs. J. E. McKune, chairman of the local Red Cross knitting division, has received a copy of a letter which was received by the Ann Arbor Chapter from the Commanding Officer of the U. S. S. Bancroft, expressing appreciation for outfits received from Ann Arbor. Local knitters will be interested in this letter, as all work completed by the Chelsea workers is taken to Ann Arbor and sent from there. The letter follows:

March 17, 1942
The American Red Cross,
Ann Arbor Chapter,
Ann Arbor, Michigan.
Dear Sirs:

The U. S. S. Bancroft, a new Destroyer of the United States Fleet, has just received a shipment of knitted articles, 200 outfits of sweaters, helmets, socks and gloves, through the field director of the American Red Cross, Boston, Massachusetts. The Commanding Officer notes with pleasure that some of these articles have been provided by the Ann Arbor Michigan Chapter, and desires to express his personal appreciation for the service which is being rendered by the crew.

This ship is soon to enter active duty with the Fleet and it is hoped that it will, by its record in service, prove its gratefulness for the thoughtfulness and patriotic work of the American Red Cross.

Although this is a new ship, the crew, drawn from other ships of the Fleet, has already been in contact with the enemy. We are confident that victory will be ours and that each article which we have received to assist us in our job will be returned to the American people in terms of defeated tyrannies.

Sincerely yours,
R. M. Pitts,
(By direction).

Savings Stamp Party Will Be Held April 17

The Chelsea War Savings Stamp party will be held in the Chelsea high school gymnasium on Friday evening, April 17, from 8 to 12. The committee in charge has planned this party as a means of stimulating the sale of War Stamps and Bonds and to aid the country in these days of crisis. There will be fine music played by Maurice Baker and his talented musicians for those who care to dance, and there will be card playing for the non-dancers so that the whole community may participate in this patriotic endeavor. There will be no charge as admission to this party except the purchase of a War Stamp or Bond of any denomination, which shall be retained by the purchaser as his own property. All the residents of this vicinity who plan to purchase a War Savings Bond on the week-end of the 17th of April are urged to purchase the bond at this party and to thereby assist Chelsea to have a fine record for sales at this affair.

This community dance and card party is sponsored by the American Legion and the Kiwanis club of Chelsea, but the intention of the organizers of the party is to have all the civic groups of this vicinity to participate in the enterprise, so that all may play a part in "going over the top" in this National war effort. We wish to contribute to our nation in these perilous times in every manner humanly possible, so let's aid the sale of War Stamps and Bonds by attending this function.

The committee for this party is headed by Henry C. Schneider, executive chairman of the War Stamp and Bond organization in this vicinity. Mr. Schneider will be assisted by Merle Barry, L. D. Christy, Paul C. Manney, M. W. McCluskey and George E. Spelling, Jr. as members of the committee. The chairman and his committee are planning excellent decorations and a fine program for this party to furnish the patrons with maximum entertainment throughout the evening.

Second Defense Lecture Scheduled for Thursday

Last Monday the course was opened by Major W. A. Brewer of the National Office of Civilian Defense in Washington.

This course of lectures, which is open to the public free of charge, will continue through April and May. It is intended "to give as many persons as possible basic knowledge in methods of passive defense against enemy air raids and a means of dealing with active sabotage with enemy agents."

All Washenaw county residents are urged to attend these lectures. The date of each will be announced through the newspapers.

President A. D. Mayer urges all citizens of this vicinity who can possibly do so, to attend the lecture by Colonel Cleary on April 16.

Our Line of Defense

County-wide efforts to move scrap materials from farm to factory have been announced by the salvage committee of the County Council of Defense, according to Harrison H. Caswell. Through the township supervisors and township CDMO chairmen, farmers and all rural residents are being requested to collect scrap metal into piles in some accessible place on their property by Saturday, April 11. The chairman of the salvage committee, W. Dawson, requests that farmers sell their own scrap piles to local junk dealers as soon after April 11 as possible. It is urged that the money be used to buy defense bonds or stamps or to replace parts on farm machinery. If the rural scrap drive commences at once, the clean-up of the farms will not interfere with spring farming. Metal is an essential war material today. 18 tons of scrap material is required to build a 27-ton tank. Old rubber, newspapers, and rags are also necessary for national war production. Attics as well as fields should be cleaned out at once. Where it is impossible for individual owners to sell the scrap, arrangements will be made for joint pick-up. Men and women who have already registered for civilian defense will help in this effort if they signed up for salvage schemes. Our slogan is: "Sighted Scrap—Sold Same".

The following information concerning incendiary bombs was discussed recently with auxiliary firemen:

In dealing with an incendiary bomb, first use an extinguisher or hose to put out the fire that the bomb has started on the furniture or curtains—then put out the bomb. Always use a fine spray, not a direct stream of water on a bomb or bomb particles. A hard stream of water on the bomb will explode or scatter it. Sand may be used. Circle the bomb with the sand, then cover it. When it is nearly out, put sand in the bottom of a pail, shovel the sand-covered remnants of the bomb into the pail and cover it with sand.

As a general precaution against incendiary damage, clear the attic of all combustible material. Have chemical extinguishers freshly charged; that is, not over a year, or water pump, balls of sand and shovels.

The country is still active in registration for civilian defense. Every village and city is working to increase its number of registrants. Have you registered to offer your time in any branch of service? The local office will be open at the Public Library on Saturday afternoon, April 11, from 3 to 5 to give you the opportunity of registering if you have not already done so. The various townships throughout the county are now carrying on registration under able chairmen and splendid results have been reported. The County Coordinating Committee urges that rural residents who signed up in near-by communities may re-register in their townships if they have not already been called to duty and prefer to serve in neighborhood groups. Co-operative canning projects, salvage schemes, joint transportation groups, child care, will be included in the demands upon volunteer time.

How many of the agencies in Chelsea understand the method of using the registration cards which have been placed in the files at headquarters in the library? Do you need someone to help out for a few hours or perhaps a week or maybe longer? Do you need a typist, a mechanic, some light sewing done, some teaching help, a bookkeeper, someone for child care or any other line in our list of twenty-two classifications? If you do, call our placement chairman, Mrs. Edwin Eaton, and she will be glad to look in the files and perhaps find just the one you need for part time work.

In March we were able to fill a call from the National Youth Administration at Cassidy Lake. A young lady with a splendid education and a wealth of experience to her credit had the requisites to fill the need that was shown and through her civilian registration, we were able to place her in this emergency.

Have you tried our files?

WALTER APPLETON

Walter Appleton, 87 years old, died Wednesday, April 1 at his home, 1129 E. Huron St., Ann Arbor.

He was a native of Leeds, England, where he was born March 13, 1855. In 1879 he married Mary Ellen Burrow, who died in 1922.

He is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Mahlon J. Dunkel of Chelsea and Miss Hilda J. Appleton of Ann Arbor; a son, William Appleton of Detroit; six grandchildren and a great-grandchild.

Funeral services were held at 2:30 Saturday afternoon at the Plankell funeral home, conducted by Commander Alice of the Salvation Army, Ann Arbor. Interment was in Oak Grove cemetery.

THE HOME FRONT

MICHIGAN

It was a year ago on April 19 that the Hitler plague fell on Norway. Nazi invasions are black dates in the history of many nations once free and proud. Their anniversaries pass in bleak and sorrowful silence. Let us hope and pray and work and sacrifice that the shame of Dec. 7 be erased from the history of OUR nation; that anniversaries of this date be celebrated, not in Berlin and Tokyo, but instead throughout a democratic world, as marking the rise of American courage upon which was wrecked the nefarious Nazi scheme to enslave the world.

A peace-loving America was slow to awaken.

As the effects of war reach more and more of us in Michigan and elsewhere on the Home Front, it becomes increasingly apparent that the great resources of our country are united to preserve freedom for ourselves and our children—and to free such brave peoples as the Norwegians.

It was apparent as management and labor worked side by side, and knee-deep in flood to keep a war plant at work—come Hell or high water.

It was apparent as farmers—in Michigan and elsewhere—responded to a request of the Office of Defense Transportation to pool their trucks for drives to market, to conserve trucks and tires.

It was apparent as plans developed daily for greater production from farms and factories.

It was apparent as housewives and merchants accepted cheerfully the restrictions which changed their normal course of life.

It was apparent as brave young men marched ungrudgingly to army camps, some of them heroically to the battle lines.

With most of his 130,000,000 nieces and nephews willingly shouldering their part of the job, Uncle Sam is going to get tough with anybody who doesn't play the game.

The recently adopted new War Powers Act provides for heavy fine and imprisonment for willful violators of WPB priority orders or OPA rationing regulations.

The OPA has opened a field office in Detroit (Penobscot Bldg.) "to prevent inflation and protect the consumer." It will serve all Michigan, although enforcement of the vast program of controlling prices and rents likely will lead to other offices in the state. Draper Allen, who was state sales tax director in the Gov. Frank Murphy administration, is in charge of the Michigan office.

The new de-centralized WPB organization also divided Michigan. The Upper Peninsula became a part of the Minneapolis region. All the rest of the state, plus the Toledo, Ohio district, form the Detroit region. Ernest Kanzer, chief of the Automotive Branch, is director of the Detroit region. These WPB offices will handle problems of production, conversion, machining and equipment, contract distribution, procurement and expediting, and priorities.

Recent war orders reached almost literally from the cradle to the grave—and deep into the household—in an effort to meet the ever-growing demand for metal. A WPB order limited the iron and steel which may be used in burial caskets. Another decreed that after June 30, no more metal shall be used in making children's toys.

Use of iron, steel and zinc in a long list of kitchen utensils and household articles was limited. No copper and brass will be permitted for zippers, and hooks and eyes. Fewer lawn mowers will be made. No vacuum cleaners will be manufactured after April 30. Metal used in paper clips, thumb tacks and office supplies was cut in half. The output of safety razor blades has been reduced.

We can do without these things. We can NOT do without victory.

SCOUT TO RAISE GARDENS
Scouts everywhere are being urged to join the Victory Gardens program, a nationwide project for increased food production by the boys and girls of the schools. A committee of men is being set up to advise Scouts in this activity. The objectives are to provide increased food supplies for the participants and their families, to foster appreciation of the land and growing things, to provide useful recreational activities, to offer direct participation in democratic citizenship, and to give the gardeners a chance to share in the Victory program.

The Victory Gardens project is being launched and promoted cooperatively by the United States Department of Agriculture and the Office of Education. Its president, Floyd Meadley, urges its support as a patriotic service.

The local committee set up to advise Scouts in this enterprise promises pleasure, healthful outdoor recreation, and useful work to those who join the cause. They have in mind group gardening and will furnish information on how to participate and how to garden once one has joined in the project. Local Scout officials will advise any who wish to become Scout gardeners.

A LETTER TO.

Chelsea

Paramaribo, Surinam

(Editor's Note: G. S. & K. S. docked safely in Brooklyn the 21st of March after a hazardous and harrowing voyage along the submarine-ridden Atlantic coast. Their last articles will be among the most interesting to appear, since they may run absolutely uncensored. Next week's article will begin the story of their incredible journey home. The following, scheduled originally for March 5, was either condemned by the British or lost through an air accident.)

We had determined to interview a soldier from Michigan now stationed in Paramaribo, Surinam, preferably a buck private. Camp Paramaribo, three miles from town, seemed a likely lair for such a specimen. We rode off with high hopes—the reactions of a Michigan soldier to jungle should be intensely interesting. Our hopes of ever arriving in one place were practically nil—the cab driver obviously would be incapable of acquiring a driver's license in any state in the Union.

The dust whirled viciously; the road dwindled away to a snake-track finally lost itself in luxuriant grass and vines. A group of wooden barracks appeared, standing dejectedly in the place and heat; an American flag hung limply against a background of palms—Uncle Sam in Surinam!

At the gate a young sentry asked for identification before allowing us to pass. Having left our passport aboard ship, I handed him a card; it was the most positive identification I could offer.

He grinned. It was my registration card under the Selective Service Act. We passed through the gate.

Colonel Henderson, Commander-in-Chief of all the American forces in Dutch Guiana, was tall and bald and tough, in the best Army tradition. More than that, he was cooperative. The service records were searched—not a man in Camp Paramaribo had been born or had ever lived in Michigan! Just our luck. We did the next best thing—we interviewed the Colonel!

The troops in Surinam, known officially as "Force A", are an off-shoot of the 33rd Infantry which has been stationed in Panama for over twenty years. The Colonel could tell me nothing of their strength other than that they embraced all arms. Force A embarked at Cristobal, spent several weeks conditioning at Trinidad, then sailed directly to Surinam. Tropic heat was no deterrent to the men; they had all become inured to it in Panama. The Colonel said he was very proud of his outfit because it was "practically undiluted with selectees". Naturally, I took some mental offense at this, being comparatively ripe for Army reaping myself.

"This bunch will do what it's told," he said, "without asking 'why'!"

I took further mental offense.

In response to our question concerning the special diseases endangering his men he named malaria, dengue fever, and elephantiasis, but asserted they were all under control. We had seen several cases of elephantiasis on the streets of Paramaribo—great, swollen arms and legs; the disease is contracted by swimming in the stagnant, fresh water pools everywhere in the jungle.

He was utterly candid about what the troops did for amusement: "Quite frankly, they raise hell. Surinam needs a U. S. O. desperately. They can't be blamed."

The Colonel admitted his greatest administrative difficulty had been establishing the proper relationship with the "Dutch" authorities. American newspapers insisted on terming it an American "occupation" for Surinam, whereas it was really a "cooperation" for purposes of defense.

I told the Colonel I was certain he had some anecdote handy—some tidbit coincident with the troops' occupation—or cooperation in Surinam.

"Well, for one thing, the boys have changed a custom in native dress which has endured for over three hundred years."

You see, Surinam is really a pretty dull place for men. But they want their sweethearts back in the States to believe it's a male paradise. The native girls have gone around for centuries clad only in modesty from the waist up. Now they add garments whenever they spot a soldier with a camera so that he will pay them for subtraction!"

I asked Colonel Henderson to describe the most serious hardships encountered by Force A since its disembarkation several months previous.

"In the first place, the boys have had ice cream only once since they landed. Second, they've had no movies at all!"

I was shocked. But he was quick to reassure me—

"However, the projectors are on the way now and we'll have movies regularly in a week or so!"

I was tremendously relieved.

The interview was over. Not knowing whether to salute or shake hands I merely stumbled over Kate's heels on the way out.

On the road back to Paramaribo I couldn't help thinking about the American boys fighting and dying in the Philippines and at Pearl Harbor—without ice cream—without movies. The words went round and round in my brain like squirrels in a cage—Pearl Harbor, ice cream—Manila—movies.

By Gene Alleman

If the fall elections were to be held today, many Michigan office-holders would be buried in a landslide protest. Fortunately for these public officials, in Washington as well as in Lansing, we're still going to have an election in November, not this spring.

Right or wrong, the man on the street is pretty mad today. He is mad about the way the war is going. He is mad about labor's insistence of double pay for Sunday work, while the government asks him to buy bonds cheerfully and to pay more taxes. He is mad about a 40-hour week, while his son serves in the army for $21 a month.

He is mad about Congress. He is mad about the state defense officials. He is just plain mad—frustrated, peeved, and sore.

The popular protest is a reaction to several war developments.

We are losing a war, and we don't like it a bit. The idea of Americans being beaten isn't natural to us. Hence, we would like to kick someone in the pants, foot sweet, and if a Nazi or Jap isn't handy, we'll take the next best thing at home.

We read headlines that the C. I. O. in Detroit automobile plants must be paid double-time for work on Sunday, and that Michigan sons who get $21 a month are killed in Java. That doesn't make sense.

Nearly 400,000 Michigan men registered a few weeks ago for selective service. On March 18 many of us learned of our numbers after a lottery at Washington. We face possible military sacrifice, and that brings the war home closer than ever.

Our income taxes are higher, too. That is all right, but it makes us think a bit more.

Governor Frank Murphy, friendly to labor during the sit-down strike, was caught in a protest wave at the following November election.

Politicians will tell you that the late Frank Fitzgerald wasn't elected by an uprising of citizens who went to the polls to vote for Fitzgerald. He won because a lot of folks were mad. They expressed their anger at sit-downs by voting against Murphy, and in so doing they had to vote for his opponent.

We are not saying that Governor Murray D. Van Wagoner faces the same fate. The situation is not parallel. But a lot of people are restless today. And voters usually do irrational things when they are in a mood to kick someone in the pants—whether the fault lies at Washington or at home. By November they may feel differently about it.

That Harry F. Kelly is going to toss his hat into the ring is conceded at Lansing.

The question is: What ring? Will he run for governor or for United States senator?

The secretary of state would like to go to Washington. His inclinations are reported to be more in the direction of national service chiefly because of the war. And yet Harry is a good soldier, and he will abide by the party's decision.

An announcement is expected in the very near future.

Another factor in today's unrest is the grim realization that Michigan's part in World War (with its army of less than four million men) will be greatly eclipsed by today's military demands for war manpower.

Washington is talking today in terms of 8,000,000 to 10,000,000-man army; while another 1,000,000 will be needed for our navy.

To get that many men the government is lifting selective service restrictions. Col. E. M. Rosecrans, director for Michigan, announces that Uncle Sam will furnish eye glasses and even teeth.

An army of eight or ten millions will take many men with family dependents. (Sixty-four per cent of all registered men have been deferred to date because of their dependents.)

More taxes and more bonds are inevitable, too. War spending is now around $2,300,000,000 a month—and is due to reach $4,500,000,000 by the end of 1942. By next year this outpour of dollars will reach $7,500,000,000—a month! Inflation is already here; standards of living are going down; regimentation is certain.

United Automobile Workers (C. I. O.) demand from General Motors Corp. $1 day pay increase, 30-minute paid lunch period, double time Sunday and holidays, 10 per cent premium for work between 3:30 p. m. and midnight; 15 per cent premium for work between midnight and 8 a. m.; 60 days' pay if a worker enters the military service instead of two weeks; $100 bond in lieu of two weeks' vacation.

Right or wrong, justly or unjustly, the public is going to hold labor to blame for acts of everyone attached to the labor movement. If war production is stopped by strikes, labor will be responsible in the public's mind. The public also favors limitation of profits by management as well as by labor. Post-war pensions for war veterans are now being conceived.

Such is the unrest which is evident everywhere in Michigan today. We are losing a war, and we don't like it.

Old Metal Needed for U. S. War Production

Discarded tools, broken or obsolete household equipment, unused kettles, garden implements and old tire chains, items generally found in basements, back yards and attics are potential guns and tanks, A. D. Mayer, chairman of the Salvage for Victory Committee of the Chelsea Council of Defense, declared this week.

"It has been impossible to estimate the total amount of iron and steel scrap that might be made available in this community," Mr. Mayer said, "but our committee feels sure that several tons may be lying around unused and wasted, when it might easily be collected and used to help fill the widening gap between the supply of essential metal and the ever-increasing demand."

Probably no other metal is in demand in such vast quantities for war use as steel, the chairman pointed out. It is not only for tanks, guns and planes, but goes also into the hulls of new merchant ships, into freight cars and new housing units and industrial plants.

The Salvage for Victory Committee urges that any person who has an accumulation of scrap metal, in whatever form it may be, sell it to a waste material dealer or give it to a charitable agency. By either method, the scrap material will be returned for use in our war industries.

Three Factors Rule Proper Rubber Care

Elastic fabrics, household gadgets rimmed with rubber and any other home equipment of which part is rubber needs extra care these days against the three principal enemies of rubber.

Members of the home economics extension staff at Michigan State College suggest homemakers remember that heat, light and oil or grease are these three factors, according to the federal bureau of some economics of the United States Department of Agriculture.

The higher the temperature, the more quickly rubber gets weak, cracks, becomes sticky. Sunlight is especially harmful because it combines the destructive action of both heat and light. And rubber, left in contact with oil or grease for long, swells and becomes weak.

Rubber used in elastic fabrics, such as foundation garments, is more easily damaged by oil and grease than other kinds of rubber. If these garments are worn next to the skin, the body oils may cause them to weaken unless they are washed frequently.

Rubber goods can be kept clean with warm water or with water and soap. Any kind of soap will be safe on articles made solely of rubber. But if the garment is part fabric, a mild soap protects the fabric. Rubber articles or garments should be dried in a cool or only moderately warm place, never near a radiator, stove, or hot pipe. Direct sunlight is harmful. If a garment with rubber in it needs ironing, it should be pressed as lightly as possible.

"Never dry clean any garment that has rubber in it," warn those who know. "But if you can't get oil, grease, or tar off rubber with soap and water, a dry cleaning fluid will remove them. Sponge the rubber lightly with the fluid. Even in stubborn cases, never leave rubber in fluid more than two or three minutes. Be very careful of the rubber while it has the fluid on it, because it is weaker and tears more easily. Carbon tetrachloride is recommended as an efficient fluid. If you use any other dry cleaning fluid, be sure it evaporates quickly and leaves no deposit as it evaporates. Never use gasoline motor fuel."

Rubber should be stored in a cool, dark place. If the storage space is not dark, wrap the rubber in thick paper or put it in a covered box. Try to store the article in as natural a position as possible. If you must fold it, dust the surfaces that come in contact with each other with talcum powder or cornstarch.

Michigan To Be Dotted With Victory Gardens

Every county in Michigan, busy with plans to make earnest contributions to the 1942 national Victory program.

Forty thousand more farm gardens, gardening activities of the Michigan chapters of the Federated Garden Clubs of America, gardening by school children under adequate supervision and the work of the state offices and staff of the federal Farm Security Administration in aiding clients to garden more productively are the four phases promised in the movement.

There is no plan to advocate plowing up the city man's lawn, according to H. D. Hoffman, extension horticulturist at Michigan State College and chairman of the Michigan Victory Garden committee.

Instead the desire is for actual volumes of efficiently produced garden products. The food will relieve necessity of using as much of the usual food transportation facilities. Hoffman will present a healthful occupation and diversion for those who want to participate, and that the entire movement will be directed at more adequate rural and city nutrition.

Michigan already has an excellent reputation in the more than 145,000 of its 186,000 farms that usually have farm gardens for household use. The other 40,000 are to be encouraged to have such gardens in 1942.

In 1917 the nation had its estimated 3,000,000 war gardens covering 1,150,000 acres. Those who kept the records indicate that 1918 saw 5,250,000 war gardens.

Michigan's organization has worked out its plans to present a full season's information to interested gardeners. Facts on supplies of vegetables, seeds, suggestions on crop selections, culture and home consumption and preservation are to be provided.

The trees planted were white pine, Norway pine, balsam, and other evergreens. 16 acres have been prepared for the planting. Mr. Webb intends to plant so many acres of trees each year.—Dispatch.

VICTORY GARDENS

Michigan Council of Defense

By George Tomlinson, Director, Michigan Victory Garden Program

If you wish to get a jump on the weather and have vegetables two or three weeks ahead of your neighbors now is the time for advance indoor planting of tomatoes, cabbages, cauliflower, peppers and eggplant, for late transplanting outdoors.

Any wooden box which is shallow and wide can be used as a flat bed to start seeds. Put an inch of gravel or cinders in the bottom for drainage and fill to the top with good soil. Plant seeds eight to 10 to an inch and rows two inches apart. Set the box where the light will hit it and keep the soil damp. Inside a few days your plants will be well sprouted.

When the plants are an inch high thin out by transplanting them in other seed boxes, spacing the plants two inches apart, to insure having good, strong roots.

Before the final transplanting to the garden outdoors, set the box in the outdoors in mild weather so that the plants can be toughened up. The plant should then be watered, and transplanted with a ball of dirt sticking to the roots. Don't shake the dirt away from the roots. Make a hole larger than is needed to hold the root and a little deeper than the top grow. Then pack the soil firm around the plant.

You'll find transplanted plants do not stand strong sun at first, and it is far best to do your transplanting on cloudy days or late in the afternoon.

Don't plow up your lawn for a Victory Garden if a fertile plot is available adjacent to your home. There is an abundance of fertile soil in favorable locations in practically every community which can be used in community gardens. If you do not have any garden space on your property, why not use the community facilities and not try to use someone else's plots, or the front lawn?

Many folks try to grow gardens in a spot where grass never would grow. A vacant spot on the lawn is a great space for a Victory Garden. But they're going to be mighty surprised when they find no turnip seeds, radishes or whatever they plant the won't come up. Plants need food, just like anything else. If grass won't grow on some spot in your soil, usually means the soil is very acid or something is the matter with it. Use a little care in selecting the spot for your Victory Garden and you'll get far better results.

William Schatz Wins As Sticker Candidate

William Schatz, Sylvan township's popular constable, provided the only interest in Monday's election when as a sticker candidate he polled the highest number of votes cast that day for any of the candidates. With no Democratic ticket in the field Bill was "out in the cold" until his friends persuaded him to become a sticker candidate for the office of constable which he has held for several years, being one of the very few who ever qualify when elected. The fifth grade has made some very interesting scrap books in geography. Now they are studying Alaska. We had fun making maps.

The seventh grade got along very well on the last county tests and are now studying hard for the next ones. We have been making a chart of birds that migrate. We have seen about twelve different ones now.

In the grade spelling bees, Jim Ewald was champion for seventh grade and Mary Ann for fifth. On March 27 we had the spelling bee for school champion. Mary Ann Gage is now our champion speller. She will spell at our district bee which is on April 17 at Dexter.

THE STORY SO FAR: Joan Leland accepts a secretarial position in a night club and falls in love with the handsome proprietor, Karl Miller. Her sister, Sybil, suspects Karl's motives and is not mollified when he also gets her a new position. Paul Sherman, club manager, warns Joan about Karl but she defends him to both Paul and Sybil. Delivering a mysterious message for Karl to a tramp steamer, she finds Paul secretly following her. He rescues her from Eric Strom, Karl's partner, when Eric tries to kiss her. Karl shoots and kills Eric in Joan's presence, and threatens to blame her if she calls the police. He admits he is German, and part of a spy ring. To her surprise, Paul backs him up. At her home that night, Paul enters through the window and reveals himself as Paul O'Malley of the FBI. Knowing her fingerprints were on the gun Karl used to kill Eric, he had to side with him temporarily, he explained, as this work was more important than their lives. Joan is shaken by the revelation that Karl also has a wife in Germany. Sybil disappears. Now continue with the story.

CHAPTER X

One-thirty and still Sybil had not come home. What had she meant by that note saying "something terrible had happened?"

"She never trusted Karl," Joan spoke fearfully.

"Paul was looking out of the window. He's not there now. What ever happened to Sybil had nothing to do with Karl personally. He hasn't been out of sight all evening. Of course there are plenty of others working with him."

"Karl said that everyone at the Club Elite was involved. Is that true?"

"I'm afraid so. Karl is too clever to take any chances."

"But what does he actually do?"

Paul thrust his hands into his pockets and stared at the fire. "I'm not sure of all his activities and I have no proof. But he is suspected of transferring plans of bombing planes and munition plants to other foreign agents. He's working with someone else, of course."

"Remember that freighter Karl took me to and later sent me to with a package?"

"Maybe establishing refueling bases for submarines."

"Not here!" Joan cried.

"No. Probably in the South Atlantic. I don't know yet."

Joan sighed. "I always wanted adventure—but I certainly didn't expect it to take this form."

"I'm sorry you got in so deep," Paul told her very seriously.

"It's my own fault. You tried to warn me, so did Sybil."

Their eyes met. Two o'clock and Sybil was still out.

"I'm going," Paul said, rising, and you'd better get some sleep. I'll be by for you at one-thirty. Karl's orders, you know. He smiled grimly. "It's fortunate for both of us."

"I'm not going to bed until Sybil comes," Joan insisted.

"Oh, yes you are! You need your sleep. Tomorrow is going to be a tough day. You've got to be clicking on all cylinders. Both our lives are at stake. You can't afford to make a slip. If Karl ever finds out, we'll end up just like Eric."

Joan said that. Oh, Paul, I've been such a fool. I loved him."

He patted her shoulder. "We all make mistakes," he said comfortingly.

When he had gone she tried to obey his instructions. She went to bed and tried to sleep. But the grandfather's clock had chimed three, then three-thirty before she slept, a fitful doze. It was a little after six when she awoke.

"Sybil!" she called hysterically, but there was no reply. Her sister's bed was untouched.

Joan got up, shivering in the cold of the December morning. She went into the kitchen and made a pot of coffee. What had happened to Sybil?

"I've got to keep my head," she thought desperately, pouring the coffee with shaking hands. "But I feel so helpless."

At one-thirty Paul arrived and took Joan to the Club Elite.

"Now remember," he said as he parked the car, "we're not friends. Ignore me. And watch your step."

"I'll do my best," Joan said grimly.

But it was not easy to walk into this office, to see Karl sitting at his desk with the familiar red carnation in his buttonhole, the same smile that had once endeared him to her. With shaking hands she removed her hat and coat and sat down at her desk.

"Paul tells me you have decided to be sensible," Karl commented.

"What else can I do?" She paused for a moment, then burst out, "What have you done to my sister?"

Karl regarded her with apparent surprise. "Sister? What do you mean?"

"She didn't come home all night."

Karl shrugged and smiled. "What makes you think I had anything to do with it? I have no interest in your sister."

"You know what I mean..."

"Let us get on with our work," Karl said. Joan managed to control her resentment, and obeyed.

The afternoon finally dragged to a conclusion. At six Paul Sherman appeared and he and Karl had a short conversation in German, after which Karl left.

"I'm taking you to dinner," Paul said, "Karl's orders."

Without a word Joan got her coat and they left the club.

Safe in a small restaurant, she asked, "What about Sybil? Have you heard anything?"

"Not a word. And I can't ask Karl. It's too much of a chance."

"But we have to do something," Joan pleaded.

SHE LOVED A SPY

by SYLVIA TAYLOR

Joan laid the dazzling emerald before Karl without speaking and Karl put it in his pocket as if it had been a slip of paper.

"Wait until tomorrow and see what happens."

Paul smiled grimly. "It amuses me the way Karl trusts me. Even the most clever criminals make one fatal mistake. This is his."

"You really think he trusts you now?"

"Yes. And since he does, he is sure to reveal something."

"And all this trouble started because I wouldn't take Sybil's advice."

As Joan picked up her purse she remembered the ring Karl had given her. It was in its velvet box in her purse when she had placed it this morning. She had completely forgotten to return it. Karl did not seem to care particularly whether she did or not.

"It's probably stolen anyway," Joan thought bitterly as Paul took her back to the club.

Joan laid the dazzling emerald before Karl without speaking and Karl put it in his pocket as if it had been a slip of paper.

Joan wanted to scream, to pour out her anger. But she suspected that it would only amuse him.

Karl actually seemed to think that she would return to their former relationship. "You loved me yesterday," he reminded her. "What is so different?"

"You can force me to work for you—that's all!" Joan told him, her green eyes blazing. Had she ever loved this cruel, conceited man?

An hour later Paul Sherman appeared again and said something to Karl in his own language. Joan noticed that Paul did not look at her, but she felt a personal importance in those guttural words even though she could not understand them.

Karl smiled as he turned to her but there was warning in his eyes.

"There are two officers here to see you, Joan. I believe they have news of your sister."

"The police!" In an instant Joan was on her feet.

"Something about Sybil," Karl repeated calmly, but his eyes warned her not to make a false move.

Joan risked a glance at Paul. It seemed to her that he shook his head ever so slightly. He was trying to tell her not to take any chances.

"All right," Karl snapped. "Show them in."

Paul disappeared.

When the door opened as he left, Joan could hear the music and laughter from the front of the club. Christmas gayety! How could these people laugh and be merry? How could they be so unaware of the drama that went on in that back office?

"Watch your step," Karl advised. "If you say anything, you will be the loser, I warn you. I will not hesitate to use all the cards I hold. Shall we put it that way?"

Her green eyes filled with tears. "Don't worry! Sybil is all I'm thinking about now."

Paul returned with two officers.

"Sorry to bother you, Mr. Miller."

"Not at all," Karl replied graciously.

"Tell me," Joan cried, "is it something about my sister? What's happened to her?"

"We're not sure it's your sister, Miss Leland. We want you to come down to headquarters and identify the clothes."

"Clothes? You mean... oh, no!" Her voice rose to a scream.

"Take it easy now," the officer advised. "We're not sure."

"Tell me," Joan begged. "Where did you find them?"

Military Establishments Need Athletic Equipm't

Fort Custer, Michigan's greatest military establishment, and other Army and Navy posts and stations throughout the state are badly in need of athletic equipment of all kinds—and if citizens of Michigan don't do something about it, their fighting men will have a dull spring and summer season, from the standpoint of enjoyment of body-building, morale-building sports.

These gloomy prospects motivated Charlie Gehringer and his fellow members of the Sports Committee of the Army and Navy Recreation League to take some direct steps. And thus was born the campaign, headed by the Detroit Tiger coach, to obtain from groups and individuals contributions of athletic equipment—new or used, but in good condition—for use of Army and Navy enlisted men.

Surveys of athletic needs of fighting men have revealed that softball will be the major sport at Army and Navy camps and stations this spring and summer, with baseball running a close second.

"Various other outdoor sports are also being discussed with a great deal of interest by all concerned," reported Lieut. Owen T. McDonnell, of Fort Custer's Special Service Office. "These sports include soccer, speed ball, football, archery, golf, tennis, badminton and track."

Lieut. McDonnell pointed out that Fort Custer is now constructed to take care of approximately 115 companies of troops, each numbering about 200 men. Thus, he said, it is believed that each unit of company size will have need of equipment for one softball team and one baseball team and also for the miscellaneous sports he listed.

"I believe we will have a great deal of athletic activity at Fort Custer during 1942, even though much of our soldiers' time will be taken up with technical training," he said.

According to members of the Sports Committee of the Army and Navy Recreation League, contributions of good used athletic equipment will be just as welcome as gifts of new equipment.

"But where is Sybil? Has he...?"

"As a matter of fact," Paul said thoughtfully, "I think Sybil is alive."

Now this is pure theory, understand, but I think Karl is trying to put a scare into you. He's probably taken Sybil away somewhere, but I don't think he's really harmed her. He doesn't want to take that much of a chance. He wants her as a hostage."

"You mean," Joan said slowly, "that Karl will someday tell me that Sybil is alive and threaten her life if I don't do as he asks?"

"That's the way I have it figured."

"As long as Sybil is alive, that's all that matters. Surely we can find out if we go on with Karl and he isn't suspicious."

"Good girl," Paul approved as they drove up before her apartment. "If we work together, I think we can beat Karl Miller at his own game. He's bound to make a slip and when he does we'll have all the evidence, not only about Sybil but his other activities. You'll stick it out, Joan?"

ment. Generous donors should remember, though, that mitts and bats, as well as other articles, should be "man-sized" and not of the types used by youngsters. The men in the state's camps, they pointed out, are big and husky and will soon wear out softballs and baseballs that are not of regulation types.

"We'll venture to say that in thousands of Michigan homes, as well as in the clubrooms of organizations of various kinds, much good athletic equipment is lying idle, gathering dust," says Charles (Gus) Dorais, University of Detroit athletic director and vice chairman of the league's Sports Committee. "Gloves, bats and balls such as these can easily be cleaned up so they will give eminently satisfactory service all summer long at Custer and other posts."

A number of organizations throughout the area in which the campaign is being launched have already indicated that they will provide complete new athletic equipment for given companies or units of service men. Arrangements are being completed by the Army and Navy Recreation League, with headquarters at 1243 Washington Boulevard, Detroit, which will enable such groups to obtain sets of equipment at lower than list prices, it was announced.

Editorial

Some students who drive in from out of town spend their noon hour driving in and around the vicinity of the school. This practice should be stopped for two reasons.

1. With cars continually meandering in this section it puts the small school children in the playgrounds in a certain amount of danger.
2. In view of the fact that America is all out for defense, it is only fair that these people do their part by helping to conserve on rubber tires.

Cooperation from the drivers of these cars for the elimination of this danger will be greatly appreciated by the whole community.

Canteen classes will be held at the school every Tuesday afternoon and Wednesday evening for a period of five weeks.

An evening school for all students is scheduled for the night of Friday, May 1.

Student Council

The Student Council gave the Sophomore class permission to sponsor a book dance in place of an All-Hi party, May 15. It will be carried on as an All-Hi party except that the admission will be a book.

Wilma Schweinfurth and Helen Grabowski are making a graph on the progress of the sale of the defense stamps of the different grades. They were requested to do so by the defense council.

The question of creating more spirit at baseball games was discussed. They decided to have pep meetings before the games and to have the band and cheer leaders at the game.

Senior News

On Friday of last week the seniors were measured for their caps and gowns. Along the same time announcements and personal cards have been ordered and most of the members have had their pictures taken. The Crowell-Collier annual spring magazine sale is now under way. Save all your orders and renewals for some senior who will call in the near future.

Underclassmen

The Economics class took a trip to the bank. Activity Period, Thursday, April 2, to see how banking is carried on.

The Mathematics class is also studying banking. Instead of their going to the bank the president of the bank, Mr. Schaible, came to school to give a short talk and answer questions which are not in their text books.

Baseball

The nineteen forty-two baseball season will officially open on April 17, the first game being here with Manchester. This should be a pretty good season. There are 21 boys out for the sport, with L. Dietle, J. Hale, D. Kinsey and C. Lane the only seniors.

There are no freshmen out consequently, the majority of boys are Sophomores and Juniors. The team will be strong in the field. Strange as it seems the boys are almost all left-handed hitters with only three batting right-handed. The weakness of the team is in the pitching staff, as the three candidates—L. Slane, S. Policht, A. Modak, are inexperienced. However, we are hoping they will "come through."

During spring vacation the boys, under the supervision of Coach Miller, will "skin" the diamond. That is, they will take the grass off of the infield.

Following is this year's baseball schedule. We sincerely wish the team much luck and hope the student body will support the team this year.

Baseball Schedule
April 17—Manchester at Chelsea.
April 22—Chelsea at Ann Arbor.
April 23—Chelsea at Manchester.
May 5—Milan at Chelsea.
May 8—Saline at Chelsea.
May 12—Chelsea at Roosevelt.
May 15—Chelsea at Milan.
May 19—Chelsea at Saline.
May 22—Roosevelt at Chelsea.
The winner of each division of the Huron League will meet at the field day Friday, May 29—Field Day at Lincoln.

FFA Oratorical Contest
In the regional F. F. A. Oratorical Contest held at Chelsea High on April 22, Harlan Paschal of Adrian High School was the winner. He is now eligible to enter the State Contest at East Lansing. Contestants from Olivet, Adrian, Haslett and Chelsea were entered.

Girls' Tournament

In the final game of the class tournament for girls the score was 20-5 in favor of the Juniors, thus making the Junior girls, as well as the Junior boys, the winners in the class tournaments. Although the Juniors defeated the Seniors by 15 points the game was interesting and exciting.

Wilma Schweinfurth was high point man for Juniors and Peggy Almond for the Seniors.

After the playoff the Freshmen and Sophomores played a consolation game. The Sophomores were victorious, with the score 9-6.

Latin Club

The Latin club has been making elaborate plans for a Roman dinner which will be held in the Home Economics Room at the high school on Thursday, April 23. Members of the second year class have charge of all the arrangements.

Home Economics

The girls in Home Ec. 2 are finished with their living room unit and their next project is rearranging the whole Home Ec. room into a living room.

After vacation the second group of girls in Home Ec. will start their cotton dresses.

All girls in Chelsea high school who are planning to join the Red Cross class which will start Monday, April 13, should be looking for clean pieces of wool cloth and yarn. Have your knitting needles also (size 6).

Rambling

Have you seen students wandering all over town this week? Especially the Seniors going from door to door with their persuasive smiles and chatter.

By now you all must know that Spring is here—and with it, C. H. S. week's vacation.

Everyone (including the faculty) said they were positively going to get more sleep, but time will tell, and next week the news will be out.

Since school activities take up so much time, this week has also been devoted to shopping for Easter "toys".

The Juniors have already been trying to learn part of the play they are going to give: "Aunt Tillie Goes to Sea."

Next week we'll have the details of where, why (?) and when, the various groups went and what they did. If they'll "fess up."

Hi-Y News

The Hi-Y has received word from Ann Arbor concerning their swim, and will probably go shortly after vacation. They have been offered all the facilities in the Intramural Building.

The Hi-Y plans to take individual portraits of all the students in the high school and grades. They will be taken by the Lyndon Studios of Dexter, and sold by the Hi-Y.

Chorus

Last Friday, which was Good Friday, the Protestant churches of Chelsea had a joint service. Mixed Chorus sang three songs. They also led the congregation in songs. The service was held at 1:30 p. m.

We are having a lot of fun now because we are out of school for our spring vacation.

We are starting our work on the Poppy Posters for the American Legion Auxiliary. We only hope that we win some of the prizes.

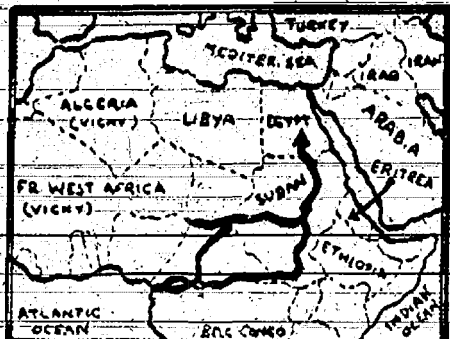

Flying Kangaroo

AN AUSTRALIAN AIRMAN, back from a bombing raid against the Japanese, leans contentedly against his B-25 bomber while the ship is being refueled and reloaded. Australians, together with Dutch and American flyers, are keeping up a steady battering of Jap bases in New Guinea and New Britain to hamper an invasion of the Australian continent, now the last important United Nations stronghold in the Southwest Pacific.

Free French Build New Highways To Open Dark Continent To Allies

Brazzaville, Africa—Two hard-surface military highways, built in record time by native labor under Free French direction, have just been completed across the heart of Africa, linking the Atlantic port of (Free) French Equatorial Africa to the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan. From there, established routes lead on to the Mediterranean coast and thence to the fighting fronts of the Middle East.

From the immediate point of view of military strategy, the importance of these new highways can hardly be exaggerated. They make it possible for American and British supplies for the Middle East to be landed on the West Coast of Africa and to be forwarded from there by land; thus not only cutting off days or even weeks from the long and sub-infested Water route around the Cape of Good Hope, but also freeing much needed shipping for other uses.

But even further, the roads, while of tremendous importance to Africa after the war, for they open up what has hitherto been one of the "darkest" parts of the traditionally dark continent. By means of these roads, goods, supplies, education and all the other advantages of civilization will be able to move right to the center of one of the richest parts of all Africa and thus throw open some millions of square miles to trade and travel. Incidentally, it is feared they may also facilitate the spread of certain diseases which heretofore have been isolated to certain areas of the continent, but Allied medical authorities have foreseen this danger and are already at work to prevent it by wide-spread immunization drives.

WOMEN'S PAGE

Norwegian Mothers

A story of how even the mothers and housewives of occupied Europe work to keep alive the spirit of their national traditions in the face of stern Nazi measures to suppress them was brought to the United States by a Norwegian refugee, who escaped from Norway by fishing boat and reached America via Britain.

In Norwegian fairy tales, forest trolls and elves wore a long, peaked cap, colored red. To Norwegians, this cap is a recognizable symbol of their folk lore and national background, much as a pilgrim's hat is to New Englanders. The Nazis, however, did not know this until recently.

Thus when Norwegian mothers, in spite of the wool shortage, began to send their children to school in bright red knitted caps with long peaks, the German police at first considered it merely a quaint Norwegian custom. It was months before they discovered the real meaning of the caps. Finally, on Nov. 22 of last year, they sent a circular letter to all Norwegian schools, protesting against the wearing of the caps as a "demonstration against the state."

For the Norwegian mothers, this posed a quandary. In the first place, they did not like to drop the custom, which helped their children remember their Norwegian traditions; in the second, the wool in the caps was really too valuable to be thrown away. They finally decided to send a delegation to a German official to inquire what the objections to the caps were.

"Is it the color—red?" they asked. The official, embarrassed, said "Yes," and agreed that the caps would be acceptable if dyed a different color. So today, thousands of Norwegian children still wear the caps—dyed. And the Nazis realized too late that it is the shape of the caps as much as their color that is regarded as a symbol of resistance by the Norwegians.

India's Army

The one million men from India who are fighting with the United Nations are all volunteers.

"The War This Month"

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Spring is here at last—the third spring of World War II, the first of America's full-scale participation. This is the spring that has been dreaded in Allied quarters, the spring that was to bring Hitler's final offensive on Russia. So far, it hasn't worked out that way.

In the Pacific, what was perhaps the most important development of the month took place when General Douglas MacArthur made a spectacular escape from Batavia and reached Australia, to take full command of the United Nations forces in the Southwest Pacific. As a matter of practical strategy, the move may take months to pay off, but from the point of view of Allied morale, nothing quite so important has happened since the Russians first threw back the Germans from Moscow. The Jap advance, meantime, has slowed down considerably, and things in general look brighter than at any time since the Pacific war began.

In Europe, the Russians are still advancing, although they have not yet succeeded in re-taking Kharkov or any of several key-points from which the Germans might launch offensives. However, Hitler, in a surprise speech late in March, suddenly spoke of a "summer" instead of "spring" drive, and the Russians insist that they have forced the Nazis to use up so many reserves that a major German offensive now is unlikely.

In the Middle East, the Libyan stalemate continues, but there is a chance that the quiet may not last much longer. One theory often heard here is that the move may take months to pay off, but from the point of view of Allied morale, nothing quite so important has happened since the Russians first threw back the Germans from Moscow. The Jap advance, meantime, has slowed down considerably, and things in general look brighter than at any time since the Pacific war began.

IN BRIEF

So Sorry!

In an attempt to suppress spreading guerrilla revolts in Poland, 400 German Gestapo agents were recently sent out to mingle with the Polish people, for the purpose of locating the headquarters of the chief leader of the guerrillas, Arno Ranowicz. Six days after the Nazi agents set foot in Poland, the clothes worn by them began arriving in Berlin, neatly folded in parcels addressed to Gestapo Chief Heinrich Himmler. In each parcel was a note from Ranowicz, politely expressing regrets that the Germans had forced him to take "extreme measures."

Famine in Belgium

Medical reports on the health of the people of Belgium are alarming, according to authoritative London and Washington sources. "Tuberculosis is rapidly increasing. Adolescents have lost an average of 10 or 12 pounds in weight, at a time when they should be gaining. Children faint or vomit in the classrooms, and malnutrition is becoming general. The rations available for adults are said to represent about 40% of the amount of good food required for average adult activity."

Norwegian Escape

In spite of harsh restrictive measures imposed by the Germans, many Norwegians still make their escape to Britain each week. Most of these, using small fishing or sail boats, come by twos or threes, but occasionally a real coup is made when audacious groups seize a larger vessel and flee together. Not long ago, a ship of some 200 tons disappeared from under the Nazi noses in Western Norway. It arrived in England a few days later with more than one hundred Norwegians aboard.

British Work On

About 60 per cent of Britain's total productive capacity is now engaged in war work, with factories working 24 hours a day and seven days a week. Work now goes on even during air raids. Each factory has a private spotter stationed on its roof, and it is only when he gives the signal that his particular factory is being singled out for bombing that the workers leave their machines and take shelter.

Australia's Army

With a population of only seven millions, Australia now has a total of 300,000 men in her armed forces. Of these, more than 170,000 have volunteered for overseas service and are now fighting in Libya, the Netherlands East Indies and the Middle East. If the United States had a proportionate army, more than 10,000,000 Americans would now be in uniform, ready and trained to fight.

No More Ships

Reports from Denmark state that practically all ship building has ceased because the necessary wood is no longer obtainable.

Global War

The Greek Navy, which is normally stationed along a bay from Japan, is just about the last fleet on earth one would expect to find fighting Japs. Yet Greek ships are now serving with the United Nations fleet in the Indian Ocean, and so, recently, the Greek destroyer "Aietos" (Eagle) was attacked by a Japanese submarine and succeeded in sinking it with depth charges.

Pavement Slogans

The people of Brussels, capital of Belgium, awoke one morning recently to find "Down with Hitler" and "Hurrah for the RAF" printed on the pavement of their main streets. A car fitted with cleverly cut tires coated with white paint had been at work during the night. At mid-day, special German squads watched by crowds of citizens, were called in to erase the slogans with brushes and acid.

Repaying Debts

Japanese writings, as well as much of Japan's art and culture, was originally copied from the Chinese. Japanese industry, of course, was copied from the West.

Australia

Australia is almost exactly the size of continental United States, but her population is only 7,000,000 or less than that of New York City.

Chetniks

The Chetnik (guerrilla) armies of Jugoslav General Draja Mihailovitch now control an area of about 20,000 square miles in the heart of occupied Yugoslavia and are now well organized that they issue regular communiques by short wave radio. It is estimated that they are tying down at least eight divisions of Axis troops (100,000 to 120,000 men) which otherwise could be used elsewhere.

Great Mother India

In area (1,500,000 square miles), and population (350,000,000), India is about equal to all of Europe, excluding Russia. Her people speak 200 languages.

Jobs for Nazis

According to a report received by the Czechoslovak Press Bureau in London, the Germans have had to place a guard near every fifth machine in the Skoda armament works in Pilsen to prevent sabotage.

Nazis Nervous

Proof that Allied broadcasts are heard more than ever in occupied Europe and that the Germans know this and are nervous about it, was given recently by the Nazis themselves. In Luxembourg, for example, a German court sentenced a Luxembourg iron miner to death for throwing a bomb at a Nazi leader. The court, in its findings, blamed the incident on the prevailing habit of "listening to broadcasts from London and Moscow, with their instructions to murder."
