Lt. Beach Only Local Man-In Philippines

First Lieutenant Kenneth O. Beach, son of Mrs. D. Edward Beach of Chelsea, is believed to be the only man from this vicinity with the United States armed forces in the Philippines. The last heard from Lt. Beach was a telegram received by his mother on Christmas night: "I am still kicking. Merry Christmas to all!" It is believed that he is now on Corregidor fortress, as the headquarters were moved from Manila to Corregidor on Dec. 28, 1941.

Lt. Beach was born Nov. 9, 1912 at Lima Center. He graduated from Chelsea high school in 1931 and in 1935 received his Bachelor of Arts degree from the University of Michigan. He was commissioned 2nd Lieutenant in the U. S. Reserves. After his graduation, he was employed in the bookkeeping department of the Ann Arbor

LT. KENNETH O. BEACH

Commercial and Savings Bank. In 1940 he graduated from the University of Miami, Coral Gables, Fla., with an L. B. degree, and was admitted to the practice of law in Florida.

In October, 1940, Lt. Beach was called for temporary duty in the U. S. Army, where he supervised the induction of Co. K, 125th Infantry, Michigan National Guards. Called to active duty in February, 1941, as 1st Lieutenant, he was sent to Camp Grant, Ill., where he was engaged in training Medical Corps officers. He was assigned to the 31st Infantry in June, 1941, and was sent to Nichols Field, Manila, Philippine Islands, spending ten weeks in maneuvers on the islands.

Transferred to Regimental staff, Post of Manila, in August, he was given the assignment of post surveying and investigating officer and auditor of the 31st Infantry, also serving as fire marshal of the post and supervisor of the non-commissioned officers' club.

Chelsea Public Library Gets Check From State

The Chelsea Public Library has received a check for $86.34 from the State Board for Libraries, according to Mrs. Waldo Kusterer, treasurer of the Library Board. This is a partial payment on the General Library Grant for which this library has qualified according to the requirements set up in the State Aid to Public Libraries Law.

An appropriation of $250,000 for 1941-1942 has been set apart by the legislature to add to the public library service given by local communities. The largest division of the fund is for public libraries which meet certain conditions, the most important of which is that the local governmental unit must have appropriated during its last fiscal year preceding July 1, 1941, an amount equal to or more than the average of the last three fiscal years.

The State Aid Law allows the grants to be used for salaries, books, longer hours of service, and for equipment or supplies. In the terms of the law, "Any and all benefits provided under the provisions of this act and paid to any public library, may be used for any expenditure, except the purchase of sites or buildings, the erection of buildings or additions to buildings, the remodeling of buildings and the payment of principal or interest charges on any indebtedness."

The administration of the State Aid Fund is under the direction of the State Board for Libraries. The members of the Board are: Mrs. Florence B. Dearing, of Hartland, chairman; Mrs. Dorothy T. Hagerman, of Grand Rapids, vice-chairman; Helen Warner, of Mt. Pleasant; Mrs. George Hunter, of St. Johns; and John J. Axe, of Allegan. Mrs. Loretta D. Fyan, State Librarian, is secretary to the Board.

Men 45 To 65 Will Be Registered April 27

Monday, April 27 will be fourth registration day in Michigan. Persons required to register on that date include all men who attained their 45th birthday on or before February 16, 1942, and who have not attained their 65th birthday on April 27, 1942. While these men will not be liable for military service, they will be registered in practically the same manner as men who enrolled in previous registrations. The hours for registration will be between 7 a. m. and 9 p. m.

The place for registration in this area will be the Sylvan town hall, and the registration will be carried out under the supervision of the local Council of Defense. Volunteer registrars will be asked to assist. The office of Washtenaw County Local Board No. 2, located at 120 North Fourth Ave., Ann Arbor, will be open on Saturday and Sunday preceding registration day to register those who will for some legitimate reason be unable to register on the 27th. However, the Board issues the warning that they will register only those who can show proof that they will not be able to register on the regular date.

Persons registering on April 27 have been requested to bring some means of identification, such as a driver's license or social security card, to the registration place. The registration cards this time will be buff in color and there will be no substantial change in form.

The questions to be asked of each registrant pertain to his name, place of residence, mailing address (if other than place of residence), telephone, age in years and date of birth, place of birth, name and address of a person who will always know the registrant's whereabouts, his employer's name and address, and the place of his employment or business.

Air Force Sponsors Seek Aviation Cadet Recruits

W. M. Strickland of Ann Arbor, president of the Washtenaw County Air Force Sponsors Association, addressed the local Kiwanis club on Monday evening, outlining the program that is being carried on by the association in an effort to obtain recruits for the United States air force. Mr. Strickland stressed the point that planes will soon be produced at a faster rate than trained men will be available to fly them, unless aviation cadets are recruited at a much more rapid speed.

Captain D. J. Bulmer, of the Military Science Dept., University of Michigan, also spoke concerning the great need for men in the air service. Capt. Bulmer deplored the fact that while our battles are being lost, a majority of the eligible people are trying to devise ways of keeping out of the service. He stated that students at the University show a definite apathy in the face of the crisis which is faced by this country today and that very few express any desire to serve their country.

Washtenaw county's quota of aviation cadets is thirteen every month, and this quota is now being recruited, according to Mr. Strickland. However, everyone must cooperate if the county continues to fill its quota. It is planned to have a mass meeting in Chelsea within the next few weeks, with a good speaker and moving pictures which will portray the advantages offered in the air service.

Men between the ages of 18 and 26 are eligible for enlistment as aviation cadets. Anyone interested in obtaining further information should contact a member of the Chelsea committee: M. W. McClure, A. D. Mayer, Father Lawrence Dorr, J. A. Park and A. C. Johnson.

The Traveling Aviation Cadet Examining Board will be in Ann Arbor on April 30, May 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, and it is hoped that Chelsea can furnish a number of applicants at that time.

Labor Survey Is Being Conducted By Women

Michigan is mobilizing its workers for farm and factory. From April 13 to April 25, members of the local American Legion Auxiliary and the Women's Relief Corps will conduct a door-to-door survey of available labor in Chelsea, and the townships of Sylvan, Lyndon, Dexter and Lima.

Answer their questions—Cooperate. They are volunteering their time and their services. Michigan will need thousands of workers on its farms and in its factories in coming months. Perhaps you can help. You can participate in the war effort by helping to create this "reservoir" of available labor.

The survey in this county is under the supervision of the county chairman, Mrs. Frank Kopka of Ann Arbor.

SOFTBALL MEETING

A meeting of all prospective softball managers will be held at Kolb's hall next Monday evening, April 20, at 8 o'clock. All organizations desiring to enter a team in the league should have a manager or some representative present.

She attended McLaren school for the first six years of her education and concluded her grade school education at Jerusalem school, entering Chelsea high school in the fall of 1938. Jane hopes to attend the Michigan State Normal College in Ypsilanti next fall.

Arlene Laura Koenigster, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Koenigster has been selected salutatorian of the class of 1942. She attended Jerusalem school for the first eight years of her education and entered Chelsea high school as a Freshman. Arlene hopes to attend the Cleary Business College at Ypsilanti next fall.

Women Urged To Join Home Nursing Course

Washtenaw county residents are beginning to feel the shortage of registered nurses. The army and navy have drawn heavily from the civilian nursing corps. To meet this need, Washington says 500,000 people must prepare themselves by July 11 to fill, as much as possible, this need.

Of this number, Washtenaw county has as its allotment 665. Although 239 persons have registered for the Home Nursing course so far only 64 have graduated.

This is a 24-hour course and teaches the use of ordinary home appliances for the care and comfort of the sick and the injured. Some time is also spent with infant care and child training.

All those interested in such a course please register at the Red Cross Headquarters, North Hall, North University, or call 24456.

LEAVES FOR ARMY SERVICE

Alfred Eisenman left Sunday for Fort Custer, where he was inducted into army service. The son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Eisenman, he was born June 7, 1907 in Freedom township. For nine years he has been employed as driver for the Standard Oil Company. Members of the Zion Lutheran League gave him a farewell party at the church hall, Rogers Corners, on Friday night and on Saturday night a group of friends entertained in his honor at the home of his brother, Harold Eisenman, in Freedom. On both occasions he was presented with gifts.

MAKING SURVEY OF WELLS

The Canteen Glasses are making a list of all the wells in Chelsea where drinking water would be obtainable in case the city water supply would be cut off in a time of emergency. If you have a well or know of one, will you kindly inform Mrs. Lawrence Wacker, phone 6151, of its location. The canteen aides are anticipating every possible emergency and hope to be ready to meet any that should arise.

HOLD PAN-AMERICAN TEA

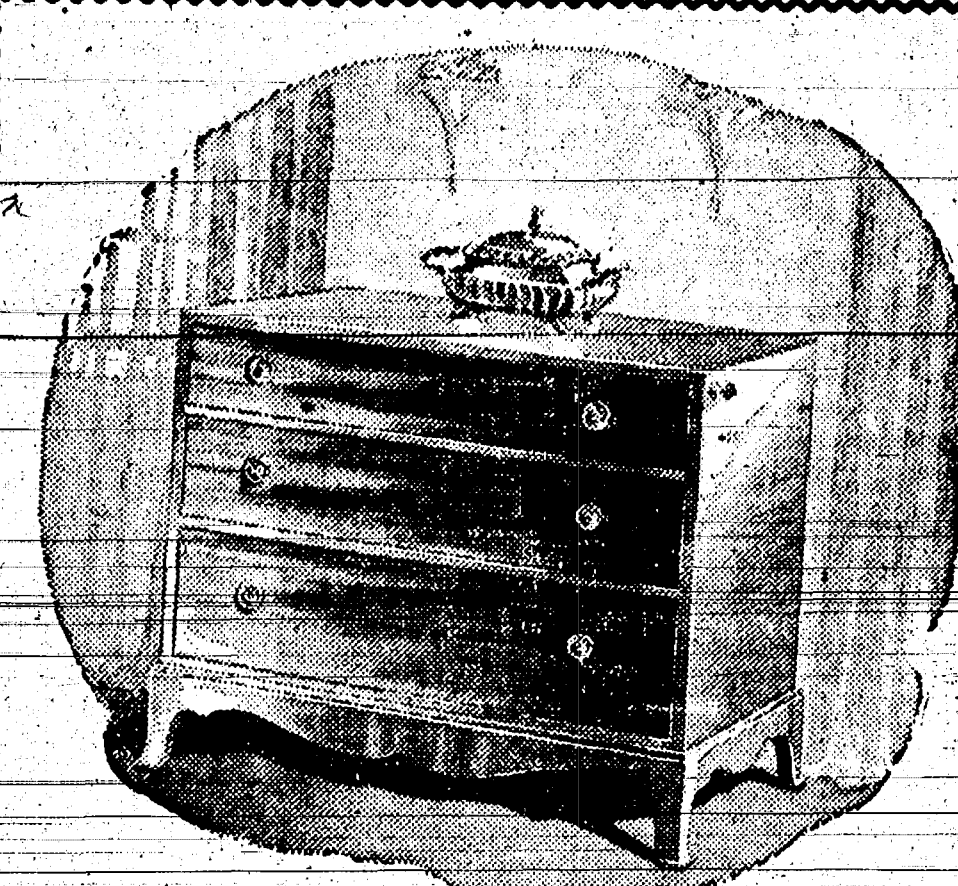

The Erwin Priesskorn Post and Unit 46 American Legion of Ann Arbor were hosts at a Pan-American Tea on Sunday afternoon, April 12.

One of the banquet rooms of the Michigan Union was tastefully decorated for the occasion with American flags and Post colors. The serving table also added to the patriotic motif with its center piece of red, white and blue flowers surrounded by gold stars on which were the names of the Latin-American countries.

Besides several interesting talks by our neighbors to the south, there were Spanish songs and dances. Professor John L. Brumm's address on "Unity of the Americas" was especially well received.

Those from Chelsea who attended the Tea were Mr. and Mrs. Paul Macrone, Dr. and Mrs. A. L. Brock, Mr. and Mrs. Howard C. Baker, and Carl Chandler.

Getting Service that

Conserves Your Car?

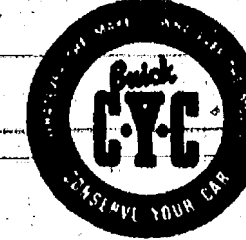

Come in for service by Authorized Factory-trained Mechanics who know how to make cars last longer

THERE'S a big difference between servicing a car and conserving it.

The first simply takes care of needed matters—the second attends to them in a way that prolongs car-life.

For example—now's the time to change to spring and summer oil and lubricants. But if you want longest car-life, it's also the time to check up on motor efficiency, gas mileage, wheel alignment, clutch and brake condition, battery condition and general tightness.

Buick Spring Servicing includes many of those things—then goes farther.

Why not get Spring Servicing that includes this EXTRA safeguard of long life at no extra charge?

THE HOME FRONT IN MICHIGAN

Michigan is used to doing things. So praisers recently accorded the great industries and the workmen of our state by Donald M. Nelson, WPB chairman, and others were not unexpected.

They were echoed by a group of newspaper, magazine and press association writers—from Detroit, Flint, New York, Washington and London—who last week found some of Michigan's war plants with Army, Navy and WPB representatives.

Unable to reveal what they saw—although it would have been no comfort to our enemies—they spread throughout two continents the message:

"The job is being done!"
But Mr. Nelson also said, and it was repeated by Ernest Kanzler, Chief of the WPB Automotive Branch in Detroit: "We cannot be satisfied, because the sky is the limit."

Michigan is used to doing things—and in a big way. That isn't enough. To win this war we must give it everything we have. This is true, not only on the production line but in the home and on the farm.

A series of orders within recent weeks will revolutionize American life—in Michigan and 47 other states. Our life has been geared to automobiles, electric cleaners, washing machines, toasters, mechanical refrigerators, automatic mixers, electric churns, zippers, periodic changes in clothing styles and innumerable things which have come to us through a higher standard of living.

Manufacture of these many consumer goods has been, or soon will be, discontinued and the plants and men turned to making war products. Our fixed habits, our standard of living, must undergo a change.

But the sacrifices we are asked to make are absurdly small in a relative sense. They would not be considered sacrifices by any substantial number of people in the other countries at war. They never had automobiles, electric refrigerators, toasters and washing machines. For that matter, neither did our immediate forebears, and they seem to have gotten along all right.

A LETTER TO.
Chelsea
from Willemstad, Curacao

Since this letter is to be sent from a port other than Willemstad, I may explain a few things hitherto inexplicable.

We are aboard the S. S. Cottica of the Royal Netherlands Steamship Company—the same ship which originally brought us to the island of Barbados! Transportation facilities became so impossible that we were forced to leave the island the same way we came.

Last week's letter, written from a "Caribbean Port", really originated from Port of Spain, Trinidad, but due to the widespread submarine activities in that area I was advised to avoid actual names of actual places.

The two days' voyage from Trinidad to Curacao was the most dangerous we have yet experienced. The Cottica slipped out of harbor at four in the morning in a convoy of four other ships bound for England. We were accompanied by a heavily armed corvette until noon of the first day, then we left the convoy and proceeded alone in the opposite direction, on a course mapped out by the British Admiralty.

Every man on the ship volunteered for watch duty; fifteen men were constantly on the watch. My hours were from seven to nine in the evening and one to three in the morning. We slept in our life-belts, with passports and money at arm's length. Our blackout was perfect—not a sliver of light escaped the ship at night—it was rigorously checked before we sailed.

We were lucky. Neither hide nor hair of a U-boat appeared before we snatched a pilot and dashed triumphantly into Willemstad harbor.

Curacao has changed—the Americans have come. Lads in khaki amble the streets, sit vigilantly in sand-bag and barbed-wire emplacements, squinting over machine gun barrels. Peeps and jeeps racket down the thoroughfares. Stores have adopted new names: Casa Americana, American Bar. Portly burgher businessmen are doing a land-office business in American dollars. Swing music blares from radios and phonographs sweating on the sidewalks. And at the harbor mouth sit six brand new "mosquito" boats equipped with machine guns and depth charges, powered by 1500 horsepower, capable of a mile a minute.

Overheard in a soda fountain—speaker boasts a treniendous paunch and an ice cream soda:
"Ya, de Americans do a very good job. Everywhere dey put up barbed wire, machine guns. It is good. I am surprised!"

Before Kate takes over the controls, let me leave something with you. It may be my last opportunity. In Trinidad I observed a sumptuous

But these things will return—when we have removed from the world the Hitler-Mussolini-Hirohito plague.

Production remains the most important problem on the Home Front. There are three other problems which must be solved and you must help! They are (1) shortage of materials vital to the war effort; (2) inflation; and (3) transportation.

Spring housecleaning is more important this year than it ever has been. "Waste junk" which is cluttering up your attics, cellars, barns, garages and backyards can be turned into guns, tanks and planes.

What to look for in the attic: Old beds made of brass or iron, electric cords, toasters, irons, heaters, fans, door knobs, hinges, keys, locks, bed springs, metal ash trays, porch and garden furniture made of metal, broken radio parts, screens made of brass or copper, metal sleds, ice skates, roller skates, broken vacuum cleaner parts, old rubber overshoes, raincoats, bathing caps.

What to look for in the cellar: Coal stoves, andirons, grates, poker, fire extinguishers, furnace parts, pipes, bathtubs, faucets, sinks, radiators, ice trays, old tools.

What to look for in garage or barn: Automobile parts, batteries, chains, license plates, parts of motors, tires, tubes, bicycles and tricycles, garden tools, lawn mowers, hoes, pick-axes, rakes, shovels.

What to look for in the yard or on the farm: Farm tools, logging chains, wire, fencing and fence posts, well handles, plows, wheelbarrows.

You can help solve the inflation problem, too. Buy wisely, save, economize and, above all, don't hoard.

You can help the transportation problem. Don't make unnecessary trips in your car or truck, or by train or bus. Pool your transportation facilities with your neighbors.

Save your stove pipe. There'll be very little available when needed again this fall.

A Southern department store staged a special sale of its "made-in-Japan" goods and bought War Bonds with the proceeds, while a Baptist congregation in Memphis, Tenn., bought War Bonds with its building funds—the best security against being "bombed out."

HOWELL—About a month ago it was reported in this paper that a White Leghorn hen in the flock of Sabin Herlea of Cochoctah had distinguished herself by laying an egg with the letter "W" plainly embossed in the shell at the large end. Since then Mr. Herlea reports more curious formations. One was plainly a letter O, then came a dash, and a few days later a dot. Other formations closely follow the respective outlines of letters Z, D, L, and U, all on the large end of the shells. Mr. Herlea brought four of the eggs with him for evidence. Some of the others he gave to his egg customers in Detroit. This White Leghorn is a good layer and gives many eggs with normal shells. The Nelson Studio made a photo of the egg with the "W" formation. County Press.

KIWANIS NEWS

The Kiwanians enjoyed another fine meeting on Monday evening of this week. The Kiwanis club each year presents gifts to members who have rendered outstanding service to the unit and to the community in what is known as a "Flowers for the Living Program". This year the board of directors selected Rev. Ray W. Barker and Roland Waltrous for this honor. John P. Keusch and Charles S. Cameron extolled the many achievements of these Kiwanians and presented gifts to them in recognition of their fine work during the past year. The recipients acknowledged the gifts and asserted that they would be always ready to aid their community and organization in its many community projects—carried out from time to time.

The program chairman urged all the Kiwanians and their ladies to attend the Chelsea War Savings Party which will be held at the high school gymnasium this Friday evening. The Kiwanians and the American Legion are promoting this project to stimulate the sale of stamps and bonds to our current war effort.

Our Line of Defense

Civilian Defense Registration for volunteer service is still being conducted in all cities, villages and townships of Washtenaw county. Increasing numbers are responding each day, offering their services where their qualifications will fit the need.

We have had a call for candidates in clerical work and stenography, and the Chelsea Headquarters at the Library will be open on Saturday from 3 until 5. If you have the necessary credentials to fit into this type of work, the registrar will be glad to take your registration. There are many other fields in which you may enter your interests as well as in the clerical openings.

Do not forget that we are out 100 per cent for Defense and your registration with your local Defense Board will be your sign of cooperation.

Washtenaw County's Salvage for Victory campaign is well under way. Farmers and other rural inhabitants whose scrap piles lie unused or uncollected for want of transportation facilities, are urged to notify their local township Civilian Defense Volunteer chairman, who will arrange for cooperative pick-ups. To aid individuals who have questions about what is worth salvaging, the Michigan bureau of industrial conservation makes the following suggestions: There is no present need for razor blades, bottle caps, rubber heels or fats and greases, nor is the scrapping of railings, fences and gates to be encouraged at this time. A program is now under way to reclaim imbedded street-car rails and abandoned railroad trackage. Crepe rubber soles are readily reprocessed and could well be collected.

C. Fred Cole, chairman of the Ann Arbor Junior Chamber of Commerce conservation committee, adds that discarded tools, broken or obsolete household equipment, unused kettles, garden implements, old tire chains and similar items are acceptable.

A series of immunization clinics now being started throughout Washtenaw county under the direction of the county health department is receiving assistance from a number of women volunteers recruited through the Civilian Defense Volunteer offices of the county. These women will aid physicians and nurses working in rural and consolidated schools, by keeping immunization records and preparing children for immunization. Training sessions have been held at the county health department office to prepare volunteers for this work.

A note on the passing of silk. In January of this year only 14,677 dozen pairs of full-fashioned hosiery out of a total of 3,072,019 manufactured were made of silk. Rayon and cotton are replacing nylon in women's hose as nylon replaces silk as material for parachutes.

THE STORY SO FAR: Joan Leland, secretary, falls in love with her handsome night club employer, Karl Miller. Her sister, Sybil, does not trust Karl but Joan defends him blindly. Paul Sherman, his manager, offers Joan a ship and warns her against Karl, but refuses to give reason. Delivering a mysterious message for Karl late at night, Joan secretly notices Paul trailing her. Karl shoots his partner, Eric Strom, and asks Joan to pick up the gun. He then reminds her of her fingerprints on the gun and threatens to charge her with murder unless she does as he wants. Paul Sherman, to her surprise, agrees with him. Karl admits he is not a U. S. citizen and has a wife in Germany. Later Paul confides in Joan that he is Paul O'Malley, of the FBI and part of the force trying to trap the higher-ups of the "Red" ring. Joan fears "Red" rings from Sybil and she and Paul suspect that Karl is holding her as hostage for Joan's good behavior. Joan agrees to carry on her work, but to secretly help Paul and the FBI. The police call at the office next day with Sybil's clothes and a suicide note, found near a bridge. Joan wants to accuse Karl then but Paul prevents her.

Now continue with the story.

CHAPTER XI

"Yes!" Joan cried with determination. "And I'll be all right from now on." She lifted her chin bravely.

"That's swell," Paul said with admiration as they entered the apartment. "You've got more nerve than any girl I ever saw."

"Paul, why didn't the men at police headquarters know who you were?"

He laughed. "My dear girl, the reason they sent me out here was that I am not known by the local police. We have to work in absolute secrecy."

"Where is your real home?" Joan asked curiously.

"Brooklyn," Paul laughed. "I was born and raised there. Technically I work in Washington but I'm usually off on an assignment."

"Was Eric really Karl's partner?" Joan inquired.

Paul shrugged. "Probably just a title. I don't know who actually put up the money but I am certain that Eric worked under Karl."

"And Karl works under some other person?"

"(Right) And someone else who will bear watching is this Mrs. Murdock who supposedly owns the beauty shop where Sybil worked."

Paul had scarcely finished speaking when the doorbell rang. Joan and Paul exchanged glances.

"Karl!" Joan cried in alarm, but Paul shook his head.

"I don't think so," he said, going to the door.

A middle-aged woman, well-dressed, rather heavy-set, with dyed black hair and expressionless black eyes, stood waiting.

"May I see Miss Leland?" she inquired. "I am Mrs. Murdock."

Joan rose quickly from her place by the fire. Mrs. Murdock Sybil's employer.

"Do come in," Paul said pleasantly. "I am Karl Miller's manager, Paul Sherman."

Mrs. Murdock nodded her head slightly. "Yes, I know."

"And this is Miss Leland, Sybil's sister."

The three of them sat down by the fire. "I was so sorry to hear of your sister's unfortunate accident," Mrs. Murdock said delicately.

Joan looked at Paul. These had been Karl's words, "unfortunate accident." But Paul seemed not to notice.

"I feel it my duty," Mrs. Murdock continued tonelessly, "to tell you certain facts. First, that I discharged Sybil two days ago."

"Discharged?" Joan repeated in astonishment. "But Sybil didn't tell me anything about it."

The older woman looked uncomfortable. "Her work was not entirely satisfactory. I was sorry but I had to let her go."

Sybil was one of the best beauty operators in this city," Joan flared. "Sybil," Mrs. Murdock went on, "was very upset. She told me she needed the money desperately."

"That isn't true!" Joan snapped. "Mrs. Murdock shrugged. "That is what she told me. When I told her that I was letting her go she became hysterical and threatened to do away with herself. I told this to the police when they called on me an hour ago."

Very kind of you to come to see Miss Leland. She is upset naturally, but it's always better to know the truth. Paul's voice was smooth. Joan did not look up. Better to let Paul handle this. He went to the door with Mrs. Murdock and watched her disappear down the hall. Then he said, "Well, what do you think?"

"The whole thing's a lie," Joan insisted. "It fits together too well," Paul admitted. "The truth is seldom that logical. This Murdock woman is undoubtedly involved with Karl."

"How can we prove it? Paul, we've got to do something! Sybil may be alive and in danger."

"We must have patience," Paul said. "These things don't work out overnight and we can't afford to rush it."

They regarded each other gravely - earnest in their youth, desperate in their desire to solve this problem.

Paul took her hand gently. "It will work out. I must," he said. "I know." His understanding broke down her last defense. She hid her face against his shoulder and wept. "But I'll never get over it, never."

"I'd like to break his rotten neck," Paul said but Joan did not hear him. She was comforted by his sympathy.

She was comforted by his sympathetic shoulder. She needed some one to talk to so much, now that Sybil was gone.

pathetic shoulder. She needed someone to talk to so much, now that Sybil was gone.

December days dragged to a close. Christmas passed. Paul spent the day with Joan, taking her to dinner at a quiet restaurant. They spoke little. Paul attempted to cheer her but his efforts produced little effect.

"Karl said we wouldn't be needed at the Club New Year's Eve. Would you like to go out?"

Joan glanced about the brilliantly decorated restaurant, the shining Christmas tree and light bedecked wreaths in the windows. "It doesn't seem fair for us to celebrate while we don't know what's happened to Sybil."

"Don't think Sybil would want you to worry. Let's try it anyway. Shall we, Joan?"

"We'll try," she promised. New Year's Eve arrived, clear and cold. Joan wore a green satin dress to match her eyes.

Paul bought her gardenias, waxy pale and fragrant. "You look very lovely, Joan," he told her and she was glad that he had not said "beautiful." Karl always said that.

She made a valiant attempt to enjoy herself and though the evening proved not particularly gay, Joan found Paul entertaining.

"I've been watching Mrs. Murdock's beauty shop," he reported, "and I'm convinced there's something funny about it. Once I thought I saw Karl with her."

"How can you get proof?" "You are going to have your hair fixed there next week," Paul informed her. "Look the place over and if you see anything suspicious, tell me. You might even try to see Mrs. Murdock in her private office. If there's anything going on, you may find evidence there. Try to be pleasant with her. You probably put her on her guard the last time you saw her."

Joan leaned closer to hear him. The laughing, screaming crowd all around them made conversation difficult. A spray of confetti fell across Joan's shoulder. The blare of trumpets drowned in their ears.

Paul smiled. "Let's dance." Holding her close, he guided her through the mob. It was hard to dance in the crowd but Joan found the happiness of others infectious.

"Any resolutions?" Paul asked, smiling. "Not one, except maybe never to fall in love again."

"So long as you don't give up your friends."

She smiled at him. "You're the best friend I have, Paul. In fact, you are the only one I have right now."

"They laughed and suddenly the lights were dimmed, the bells pealed.

"Happy New Year!" Paul cried. "The same to you, Paul."

"It's good-bye to the past," Joan thought. "Good-bye to Karl and all the things that such a little while ago were important."

And then she saw Karl Miller, handsome, smiling Karl. And he was not alone. A girl clung to his arm, a girl so freshly lovely, so heartbreakingly young that sympathy swept through Joan's heart.

"Look!" she said to Paul. "Karl has a new girl."

As Paul's eyes followed hers, his face grew white.

"What is the matter, Paul?" Joan asked as they stared at Karl Miller and the girl at his side.

"Let's get out of here," Paul said

"And to think," Joan said savagely to herself, "that I looked like that once!"

That evening she had made an appointment at Mrs. Murdock's beauty salon.

She found the Ritz Beauty Salon an elaborate establishment and an efficient operator arranged her hair with capable fingers. As she sat under the drier she glanced around curiously, but could see nothing unusual.

When her hair was dry, Joan inquired the way to Mrs. Murdock's private office.

Mrs. Murdock did not seem pleased at Joan's visit. She regarded the girl through narrowed eyes, saying, "This is quite a surprise."

"I feel that I owe you an apology," Joan said pleasantly. "I was so upset when you came to see me. I hope you understand." As she spoke her eyes took in the room. There seemed to be nothing strange here either. It was a nicely decorated room, beige rugs, paneled walls and Venetian blinds.

FSA FOOD LOANS TO AID FAMILIES ON SMALL ACREAGES

Even the smallest agricultural producers in the rural area of Washtenaw county, regardless of the size of their acreages or whether they farm on a full or part time basis, can make a valuable contribution to America's total war effort by increasing their production of food and feed for home use and for the market.

This statement was made by Donald Kline, county supervisor of the Farm Security Administration, in calling attention to the fact that in addition to its lending program for family size farm operators, Farm Security is now authorized to make special "Food for Freedom" loans to rural families on acreages which are smaller than regular farm units, to enable them to take part in the increased production campaign.

The special "Food for Freedom" loans can be made in amounts up to $500, at 3 percent interest. Mr. Kline said, "They are repayable in one year when used to buy feed, seed, fertilizer, tools, and equipment for conserving food stuffs, and to rent equipment, work stock or power. A borrower may have up to five years to repay a loan for the purchase of machinery, work stock, cows, heifers, calves, pigs, chickens, materials for fencing and building shelter for livestock, and food, supplies for operating and repairing farm equipment, and materials and equipment for construction of food storage."

As is the case with all FSA loans, they are available only to families unable to obtain credit from any other source.

"In Washtenaw county," Mr. Kline said, "there are 1507 farms under 80 acres, according to the 1940 U. S. census of agriculture. The people on these acreages may not be engaged in full-time farming. They may be getting most of their income from work off the farm or from public assistance. It is these people we hope to be able to help most with the special 'Food for Freedom' loans."

"These loans are a recognition of the fact that even the smallest producers can help out in the campaign for more food, if given the chance. Their contribution is needed as much as that of larger operators if the 1942 goals, calling for the greatest production of food and fiber in the nation's history, are to be reached."

Persons interested in these loans can contact the FSA supervisor at his office, 201 E. Liberty St., Ann Arbor.

The depot serves both the Ann Arbor and Wabash Railroad passengers. Word was also received by the staff of the railroad that repairs would be made soon on the office of the freight depot. The plan is to modernize the office for the use of the employees.—Leader.
