Willow Run is not two mere words. It stands for America's growing power in the air.

It is a symbol of our hopes for victory. Its four-motored bombers, produced to the extent of "dozens daily," are capable of flying from the new Ford Airport at Dearborn to any military airbase on the globe. They can leave Willow Run at 6 a. m. in the morning and arrive the next day in Europe! Superman couldn't do much better himself.

While the government prevents publication of vital information, nearly 200 Michigan newspaper editors were given an exclusive tour of the giant serial hatchery last Friday (May 22) and they learned much about it.

The visit, arranged by the Ford Motor company with permission of the war department, afforded a new insight into war complexities of the Michigan home front.

For example, where was once rolling meadow land 18 months ago, today stands an industrial engineering triumph in construction. It is the largest one-story industrial structure in the world—another superlative.

When in complete production, the plant will require employment of an army of workers—100,000 at least, of whom one-fourth will be women.

The housing problem is vast. Ypsilanti, the nearest city, cannot accommodate a fraction of the Willow Run army of workers.

The government is building dormitories for men, huge apartment units, and thousands of single homes—all within a short distance of the plant—in an emergency effort to meet the needs.

Because of the transportation problem created by scarcity of rubber tires and shortage of gasoline in the East, officials do not believe it is practical to transport 100,000 persons twice daily at any great distance.

Ypsilanti and Washtenaw county officials fear that Willow Run will become a great "ghost town" when the war is over. But you can't stop philosophy when there is a war to be won. And so it's all-out for bomber planes. The cost can not be measured in our freedom.

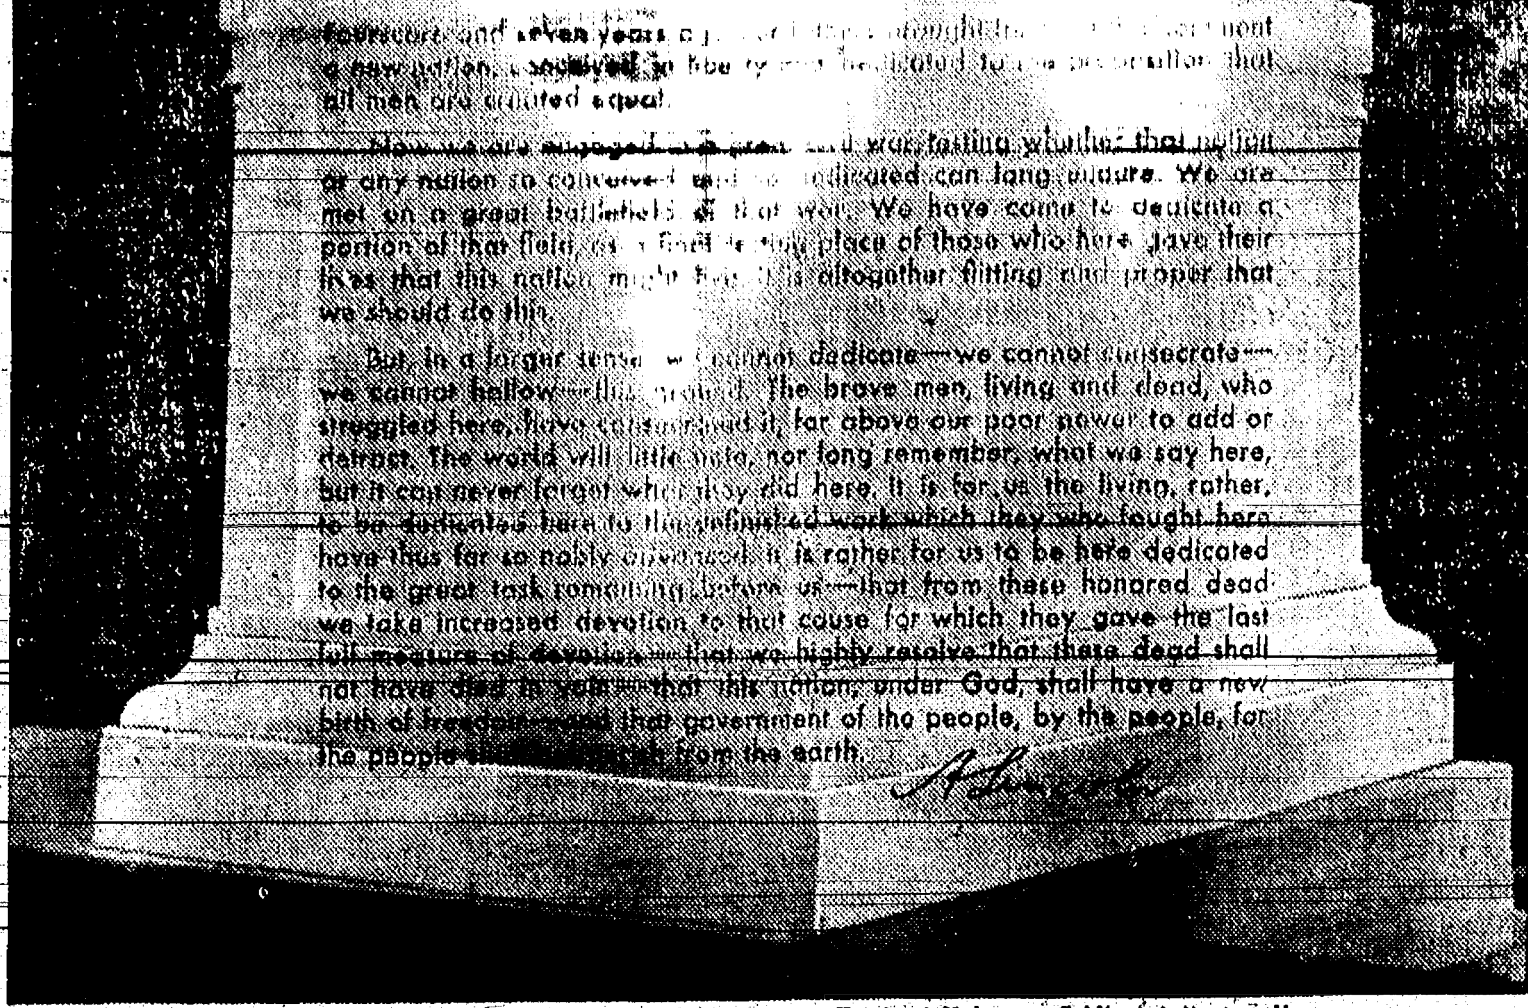

The rate of production at Willow Run is a highly guarded military secret.

But this much can be said: The objective is fantastic, but it will be reached. The mechanical wizardry of Henry Ford is legend to every school child.

President Roosevelt himself has put the nation's goal at 185,000 warplanes by 1944. That is in terms of annual production.

Little wonder that Detroit war ofsocials, while quarreling among themselves over jurisdiction, agree on this: Willow Run is an invitation to an Axis air raid, just as the Sault Ste. Marie locks at the "Soo" constitutes a challenge.

Wives of editors—and some of Michigan newspaper editors are women—were greatly irked by a government regulation forbidding admittance of women visitors into the plant.

After all, were not women sacrificing for the war? And were not women being invited to work in the plant?

The explanation, however, is far from being critical of the fair sex: Michigan newspaper women are blessed with beauty, a fact that no one can possibly deny.

As a public relations diplomat explained the situation to us, war workers would be distracted from concentration at the assembly line, thousands of hours of needed war work would be lost, and perhaps bombers would be not finished which would mean the difference between defeat and victory on some far-off front.

All because of the ladies—

Governor Murray D. Van Wageningen and officials of the Michigan Council of Defense recently made an inspection tour of the "Soo" locks.

Army troops paraded through the main streets.

Balloons were high in the sky; guardians against dive bombers.

Residents of the border city viewed the spectacle with great satisfaction, for this historic frontier town is today one of Michigan's best protected centers.

Anti-aircraft posts have been established in a huge ring on both sides of the border. Soldiers and trucks cross the border without formality of passports, evidence of a coordinated program of military preparedness by both American and Canadian governments.

It is a well publicized fact that these locks at the "Soo" serve twice as much freight tonnage each year as Panama and Suez canals put together.

Rationing of gasoline is now regarded as inevitable.

It may be proclaimed about July 1, a date that traditionally has ushered the summer season of Michigan's well developed tourist industry.

Resort proprietors are not any too happy about the prospect, but they are finding bright linings on the rationing clouds.

If railroad and bus transportation facilities are not rationed, as the Office of Defense Transportation recently intimated it might require, resorts served by good transportation will have a good season.

People will come to hotels and cottages and stay PUT for the "duration" of their vacations. The usual gadding around at dancing and night spots, hamburger stands, taverns and other American institutions will not be possible.

Roadside cabins will probably take a licking—in business this summer, if gasoline rationing is declared.

But the demand for lake cottages is the greatest in many years, so we hear from Cheboygan. Healthful vacations may be re-discovered; families will stay together and get acquainted.

To John S. Knight, newspaper publisher of Akron, Miami and Detroit, our "inept, spineless" Congress at Washington is one of the worst in history.

In a long page-one editorial Knight recently blasted Congressmen for their pension "bundles" and "X" rationing cards. He branded our representatives at Washington as being a "total waste of time, money and effort," and he urged all voters to do something about it.

A contrasting viewpoint is offered by Frank R. Moses, publisher of the Marshall Evening Chronicle, who points to the latest Gallup poll as convincing proof that the next Congress will be increasingly Democratic.

"The idea most frequently expressed by voters in this poll was that they didn't want to change parties while a war was on and the Gallup people came to the conclusion that the Republicans had not found an issue which appeals to the people or a leader who could rally the voters to the Republican cause.

"Congress is bitterly criticized year in and year out, but taken as a whole, it does a good job."

Campaign tactics by Messrs. Van Wagoner and Kelly will be officially non-political for the next few months.

Both men are making frequent appearances throughout the state at war rallies, and they are shunning politics in their prepared talks.

Van Wagoner's cue may be the reasoning of the Gallup poll: Don't change bi-partisan government while a war is on. Kelly's appeal may be: Put more efficiency in Michigan's war effort.

Each reasoning has the same motive: Help to win the war.

Our Line of Defense

More than nine thousand residents of Washtenaw county have to date offered their time and energy to the home defense effort through the Civilian Defense Volunteer Office. In the county-wide registration now completed in every township, city and village, citizens numbering 9,191 have enrolled for a great variety of services to their community and their country. Township residents enrolling through their local chairmen number 1,991, while cities and villages total 4,810. Special categories include 1,525 for protective services: fire, police, air raid; emergency medical personnel is 165; University Building and Grounds, 200; and University Hospital employees—protective volunteers total 500.

Training courses for township volunteers are now in process of formation in several localities. Already in session is a Home Nursing course sponsored by the Red Cross, which is attended by twenty young mothers in Bogale school district of Ypsilanti township.

Also of interest to rural residents is a plan now being developed jointly by the County Agricultural War Board and the Volunteer Office. The War Board will use for special projects lists of these volunteers who have registered for three special types of activity: (1) discussion groups on farm and garden problems; (2) explaining defense needs to neighbors; and (3) working on snail-mail drives.

Each township Volunteer Office chairman has been made a member of the township branch of the County War Board.

AAA COMMITTEEMEN MEET FOR DISCUSSION

Plans for a check-up on the progress made by Washtenaw county farmers on the agricultural war production program will be discussed at a meeting of all AAA farmer committeemen from the twenty townships of Washtenaw county on Thursday, May 28 (today) at the Y. M. C. A. auditorium in Ann Arbor.

Harry M. Cole, county AAA secretary, and Lodi township farmer, said that the AAA war production check-up will be made during the next few weeks in this county and all other agricultural counties of the ten mid-western states comprising the North Central Region—the "breadbasket" of the nation.

Data will be gathered from farmers regarding the efforts they are making to increase production this year over past years and to obtain preliminary estimates of what they can do next year in the "Food for Freedom Program."

This data will serve as a report to the nation on the status of the agricultural war production effort in this area and will be the basis for future planning on agricultural output for war.

The wives of the AAA community committeemen have been invited to attend the meeting and to participate in the discussions, Mr. Cole said, because farm women are becoming increasingly important in the job of carrying out agriculture's obligations to the war effort and the nation.

60th ANNIVERSARY of TELEPHONE SERVICE in Chelsea

YESTERDAY...

Telephone service was introduced to Chelsea 60 years ago... in 1882... when, largely through the efforts of George P. Glazier, a long distance line was built to Dexter. At first, there was only one telephone in Chelsea, located in an office over the Glazier drug store, and connected with the new line so the community could talk with other points. A few years later a switchboard was installed and local service inaugurated. Those early telephones were crude and transmission was limited, but Chelsea, then as now, had the finest service possible to provide.

TODAY...

Chelsea has grown into a thriving, attractive community of 2,500 people. Its industries produce flour and cereals, fibre and screw products, wire springs and steel balls, etc. It is the trading center for the surrounding rich agricultural areas, and for the resort sections nearby. The Methodist Old People's Home has been a local institution since 1907. Today, more than 900 telephones serve Chelsea. This Company is proud to have had a part in the growth of the community, and appreciates the patronage of its customers here.

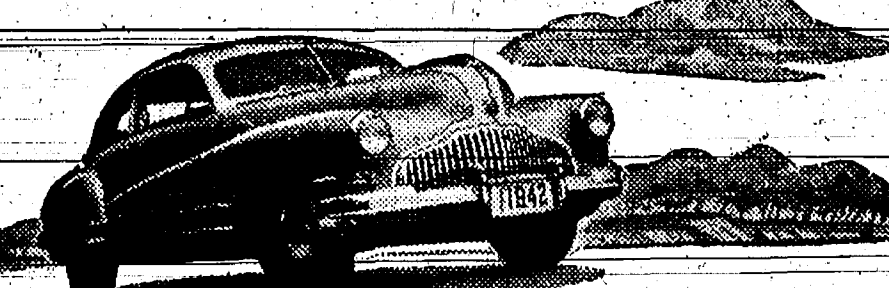

TOMORROW...

No forecast of the telephone service of the future could be accurate. To meet tomorrow's needs, however, progress must be made. To insure that progress, the Bell System maintains the Bell Telephone Laboratories, where a large group of scientists devote all their time to developing a "better thing or a better way". That research is an important factor in enabling the Michigan Bell Company to provide high quality telephone service at low cost to the users.

Much Bell Telephone Laboratories research today is directly associated with the Army and Navy War Program and in the development of alternate substances to permit the saving of valuable materials needed for war.

Really NEED a New Car? Liberalized rules may let you get one

If your work is connected directly or indirectly with the prosecution of the war, you may be eligible to buy a new car—right now.

Who is Eligible to Buy a New Car?

There are seven major classifications for persons eligible to buy new cars under basic rationing rules.

These include persons engaged in the production of war materials or in the prosecution of the war, directly or indirectly, physicians, nurses, clergymen, veterinarians, car-owners engaged in public service, such as fire departments, public health, highway maintenance, etc., owners of taxicabs and other means of transportation, farmers, newspaper wholesalers, and traveling salesmen in certain fields.

Your Buick dealer will be very glad to help you determine whether you come under the rules of eligibility. He also will be glad to help you fill the proper applications.

Don't guess about your eligibility—see your Buick dealer now and make sure.

Under newly liberalized rationing rules it is easier than most people think to replace cars now in use with brand-new, long-lived, gas-thrifty 1942 Buicks.

Maybe you can wash out worries about tire-life by starting afresh with a complete new set—tires that will last longer, if they're on a Buick, because new Broadrim wheels both ease the ride and lengthen tire-life.

Remember, the 1942 models your Buick dealer now has ready for immediate delivery were built to serve you through the duration and beyond.

They are wartime tough, durable beauties built to last, built to go a long, long way with a minimum of upkeep.

So if you're eligible, you may be money ahead getting a new Buick, now rather than trying to make an old car "do."

Why not drop in, talk it over and see if the new liberalized rules do not entitle you to a new automobile now?

If you're eligible for a new car—
Better Buy Buick!

BUS SCHEDULES AFFECTED BY WARTIME RESTRICTIONS

Conditions imposed by wartime restrictions on vital materials will affect the schedules of all Great Lakes Greyhound Lines buses June 3, P. L. Radcliffe, general traffic manager of the company declared this week.

In cooperation with the Office of Defense Transportation, Mr. Radcliffe said that a speed limit of 40 miles an hour would be in effect and it will be necessary to curtail service where there is the least demand for it to release buses for heavily travelled lines since additional buses cannot be purchased.

He added that second sections of regular schedules will not be operated unless there is a sufficient number of passengers to justify it, and charter coaches are available only for movements authorized by the war department. Unless on business or in an emergency people are asked to travel on Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays.

Mr. Radcliffe also expressed the hope that passengers will remember that wartime travel cannot be "travel as usual," and that they would make allowances if inconvenienced, crowded or delayed.

KIWANIS NEWS

The Kiwanians held their regular meeting this week at St. Paul's hall. The ladies of the church again prepared and served a delicious supper to the members and their guests. Howard Baker had charge of the program for the evening and he led a discussion concerning the problems of price control under the new governmental regulations. The members later participated in this discussion and presented many questions surrounding the measure and its relation to the governmental war effort, the community, and the nation. The speaker concluded the program by urging the members to study the relationship of the present monetary policy to the high wage scale and price control in order to determine just how far price fixing should be extended in the other fields of human endeavor.

These stamps are made into paper-mache and used in hospitals for bandaging in place of heavier plaster-of-paris, so painful to victims of air raids and accidents. It is light in weight and may be split, sprung open, and replaced after examination of the wounded part, until the final cure is effected.

It is the dextrine on the back of the stamps that is valuable and American stamps are preferred for this purpose. Do not save stamps from the stamped government envelopes—they have no dextrine.

Seven canteen units made up of 83 members have now completed their five class periods and are working out their ten hours of practical experience in various ways. The local church groups are gaining some of their experience by serving dinner to the Kiwanis club each Monday night during the summer. The St. Paul's unit has been serving during the month of May and most of the members have now finished their ten hours. The St. Mary's unit will work during June, the Methodist unit during July, and the Congregational unit during August. The Salem Grove and North Lake units are finding other ways of putting in their time.

When each group has finished this period of practical canteen experience it will be qualified as a Red Cross canteen unit and will be ready for call at any time.

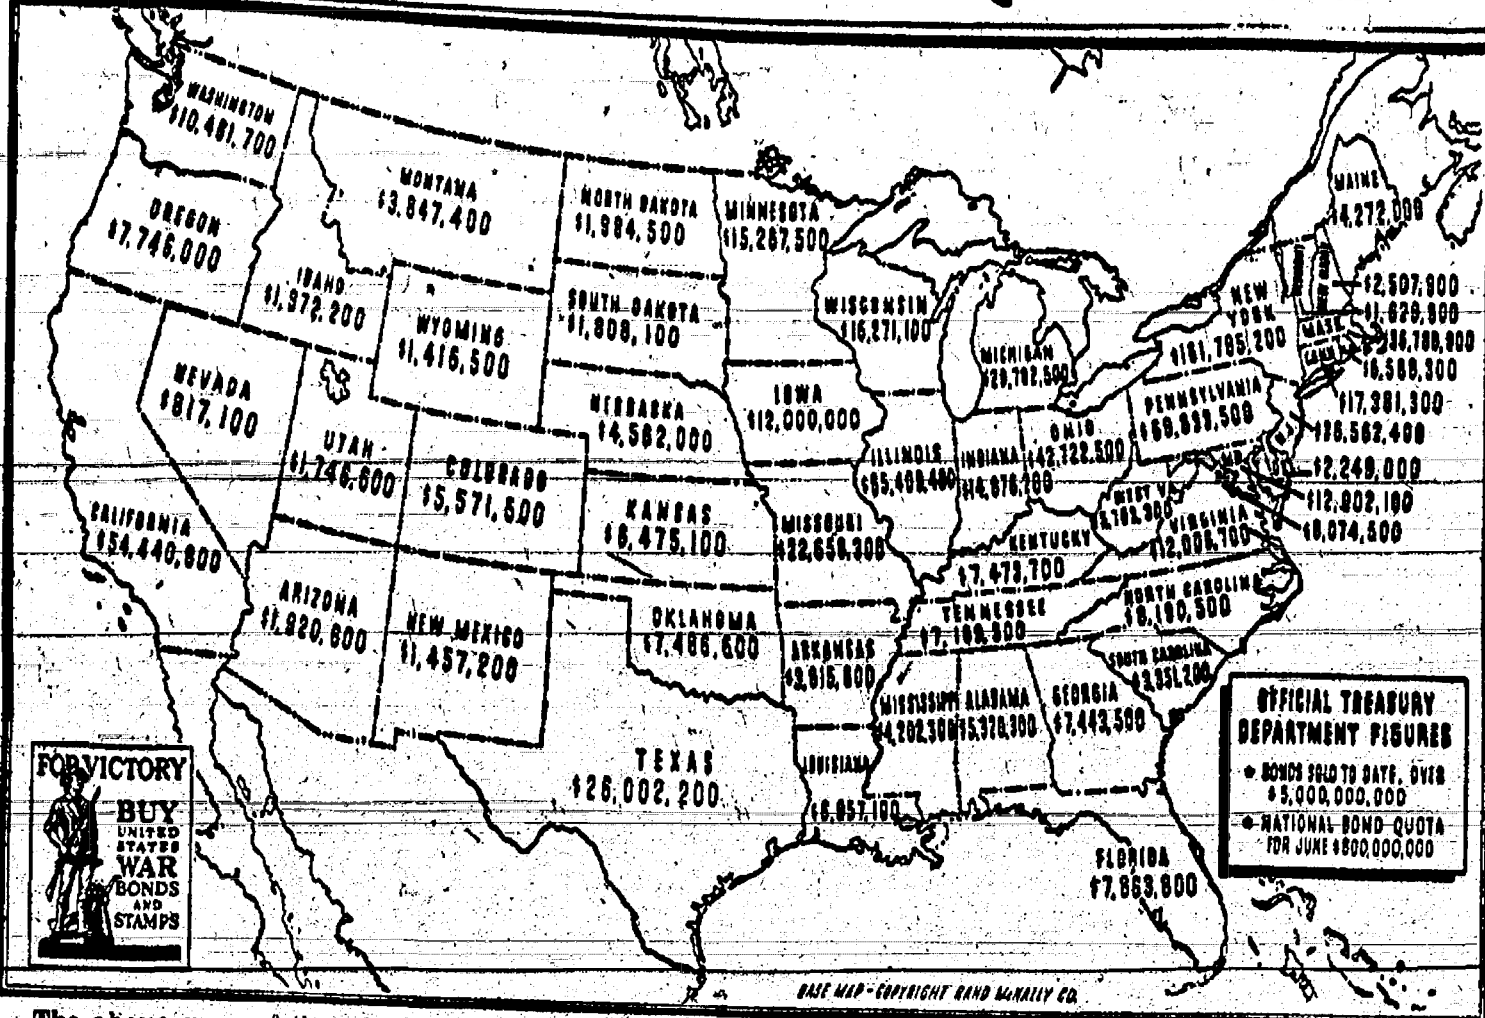

The canteen executive committee, unit chairmen and co-chairmen met at the home of Mrs. Armin Schneider on Tuesday afternoon, May 19 to discuss plans for organizing each unit. On Wednesday, May 20, Mrs. Paul Maroney called all the units together for a final meeting. At this time, the members presented Mrs. Kent Walworth with a gift in appreciation for her services as teacher of the classes. Then each chairman met with her group for the purpose of working out menus, market orders, receipts, and all necessary plans for emergency feeding.

Ed. Downer has offered the emergency units the use of his truck.

On Wednesday evening, May 20, the group which had completed the Standard First Aid course of instruction in April, started on the Advanced Course of ten weeks under the direction of Dr. E. J. Quirk. Eleven members enrolled with Mrs. Sidney Schenk, who is chairman of the local units in First Aid for women.

About the first of June a new class in child care will be started under Civilian Defense guidance. It is hoped that a large number of persons will be interested in this branch of service and join the group. This promises to be a very worthwhile course. Call Mrs. A. Palmer for further information.

Official U. S. Treasury War Bond Quotas for June

The above map of the country shows the War Bond Quota by states for the month of June totaling $800,000,000. Everybody every day is expected to invest at least ten per cent of his income in War Bonds to aid in financing America's offensive against the Axis powers.

The ultimate quota for the nation will be on a basis of one billion dollars per month effective in July. This sum is necessary to provide for all-out production of planes, guns, ships and munitions adequate to arm our fighting men with the tools necessary to win the war.

TWILIGHT LEAGUE

By Rolly Spaulding

Schedule
Thursday, May 28—Cassidy Lake vs. Kimunity.

Monday, June 1—Chelsea Spring vs. Central Fibre.

Tuesday, June 2—Kimunity vs. Federal Screw.

Thursday, June 4—Spaulding Chevrolet vs. Cassidy Lake.

Standings

Team	W	L	Pct.
Central Fibre	2	1	.666
Spaulding Chevrolet	2	1	.666
Kimunity	1	1	.500
Cassidy Lake	1	1	.500
Chelsea Spring	1	2	.333
Federal Screw	2	2	.500

So far this year errors have played the big part in the final deciding of our twilight ball game. Last Thursday night Cassidy Lake defeated the Spring plant boys and stepped into a tie for second place with Kimunity.

According to the score book "Whitney" Guest, pitching for the Spring plant, allowed two hits—the rest were mostly due to errors and the ability of the Cassidy team to make the most of them.

Monday night—the worst we have been expecting came true—Manager John Ford wrapped a glove around his hand and took the field with his Soxew plant boys against Chelsea Spring.

From the very first inning the score shifted back and forth in favor of first one team and then the other. It was anybody's game right up to the last inning when Chelsea Spring, up in the first half, drove in 4 runs, making the score 14 to 10—but that wasn't the end of the game.

The Screw plant boys, coming up for their last chance in the ball game, drove in 5 runs to win the game 15 to 14.

The following night saw Central Fibre and Spaulding Chevrolet squaring off—Central Fibre raring to go and yours truly praying for more rain in a hurry—but the sun came out and so did a few more of the Chevrolet players. Central Fibre came out with a bang—or rather lots of 'em and the score read 10 to 1 in favor of Central Fibre.

Spaulding Chevrolet picked up a few in the 5th and 6th innings and came through in the last of the 7th to tie the score and knock in one more run to win 14 to 13.

I can't give you any details from the score book as the scorer used a heavy pencil and tried to keep track of every other error.

From the standpoint of really playing soft ball—what this league needs is lots of practice, but from the standpoint of the real reason the league was created, we're pretty well satisfied—the games are packed with real softball thrills and excitement—never a dull moment, and no broken noggins so far.

Questionnaires Studied By Employment Service

Occupational questionnaires which have been returned by Selective Service registrants of the Ann Arbor area are being examined by the local office of the United States Employment Service with the view of calling in those who have needed skills but who are not working on war production. These questionnaires so far have been sent only to men who registered on February 16.

"The Employment Service is responsible for calling in all Selective Service registrants in the group of critical occupations who are not currently employed at their highest skills on war production," says L. H. Glendening, manager of the Ann Arbor office of the USES. "Critical occupations include any and all occupations for which local offices have current unfilled openings with war production contractors."

Neither the Employment Service nor any other agency at present possesses the power of mandatory transfer to war production of individuals who are not now employing their full skills in war industries. However, the Employment Service is charged with the duty of making every reasonable effort to bring such workers into the war production program.

"An employer engaged in the manufacture of non-essential products should be willing to release workers so they may transfer to war production work. Armed forces must have war weapons."

"The Employment Service of course, has no power to defer skilled workers needed in war production. That is exclusively the responsibility of the Selective Service boards. However, upon request the Employment Service is furnishing lists of needed skills to the Selective Service boards."

Government Controls Charge Accounts

The new Government Credit Regulation makes it necessary that future monthly statements include all charges and credits for the entire calendar month.

There has been no change in credit terms on monthly charge accounts: bills are due and payable in full by the 10th of each month.

However, if any portion of the account remains unpaid 30 days beyond the due date merchants are not permitted to extend additional credit accommodation.

The Retail Merchants of Chelsea wish to continue credit service to all their charge customers as usual; co-operation in paying bills as required by law will enable them to do this.

You can protect your credit by paying IN FULL each month.

We feel sure that the public will cheerfully and patriotically co-operate in these new governmental requirements.

Mending Sprees Aid Farm Home Morale

Keeping up morale at home is a strict "must" in war time. Home economics extension workers at Michigan State College are showing the value of training in rural home projects. Fixing up worn furniture, either by a complete job of reupholstering or occasionally just a tying of springs is the tonic needed to make cushioning ride an even keel once more. Slip covers add beauty and interest to a room and when well made may transform a drab Victorian into a glamorous ous furniture piece with 1942 written all over it. Under the direction of specialists Ruth Peck and Jessie Marion at the college, home agents are helping extension members to put new beauty in their homes—and being patriotic too, since the repairs cost little. "Make good use of what you have," says Miss Peck. "There is too much furniture rather than too little in many homes, both for comfortable living and convenience in cleaning or moving about."

A series of meetings were held recently in Wayne county rural homes called "Bring Your Home Up-to-Date". In some homes all the living room furniture was placed in the center of the room before the group arrived. The radio was placed with a convenient chair nearby, there was a place for the children's toys, books and games, mother's sewing box was placed near a good light. A "junk pile" or the discarded cause much good natured merriment as the pile of knick-knacks, dust catchers, souvenirs and other relics were banished from the new arrangements.

As a test of their knowledge of what is good design in a real home, these women declared it taught them much they never knew before.

Slip covers, custom tailored from cotton—preshrunk of course—cost as low as $2.72 for a chair or an average of $8.00 each according to thrifty members in Washtenaw county. At least 25 homes have completed slip covers with more yet to be done.

Men Wear Veils Among Tuaregs in North Africa

It is an odd fact that most of the world's continents have the initial "A." This is true of Asia, Africa, and Australia. It is also true of North America and South America, in regard to the second part of the name. Europe is the only continent without that initial.

The reason for Africa's name is not clear. One theory is that it came from the name of a certain tribe in northern Africa.

That tribe is made up of so-called "Africans." It is one of the Tuareg tribes of the Sahara desert.

The Tuaregs live mainly in the western and central parts of the vast desert. They have villages in some places, but many of them spend most of their time wandering about.

The skins of Tuaregs are white or mostly white, but they usually are fairly well tanned by the desert sun. Their eyes are brown, as a rule, but some of the natives are blue-eyed.

There is a veil custom for women in some parts of northern Africa, but this is not true of the Tuaregs. Their women go around without covering their faces, except when they are called to meet a stranger and wish to show him respect.

It is the young men of the Tuaregs who wear veils. They keep a piece of cloth over the lower half of the face. Chiefs and sons of chiefs wear blue cloth. Others use white cloth for this purpose.

The Arabs of northern Africa call the Tuaregs by a name meaning "Men of the Veil." The reason for the cloth may be to guard against the sand, of which there is plenty on the desert!

Symptoms of Cancer Told; Advise Prompt Treatment

"If you are fair-skinned and burn or turn red instead of getting a tan in sunlight, don't overdo sun bathing lest in later life you develop conditions conducive to skin cancers."

"A wart on the back of the hand that is inflamed more than an ordinary wart is possibly the beginning of a dangerous cancer."

"If you have a bluish black spot on your skin that suddenly starts to spread, have it out. It is cancer."

"A persistent, thickening lump, especially in the breast, is a danger signal. Suspect cancer."

These were pointers given by six prominent physicians at a symposium in Beverly Hills.

Speaking of cancer of the stomach, most prevalent of all types, Dr. Clarence J. Berne warned against "carcinoma phobia" or cancer fear, saying:

"Fear of cancer is harder to cure in some persons than actual cancer is in other patients."

Early recognition of cancer with prompt treatment assures cures in 90 per cent of the cases, all the speakers stressed.

"The terror of discovering you have an operable cancer is not to be compared to the thousand times worse hopeless terror at discovering you have sought help too late," warned Dr. Philip J. Cunnane, speaking on breast cancer.

Telling Age of Fish
Telling the age, origin of fish and how many times they have spawned by their scales is a new technique recently developed by Dr. R. A. Nelson of the United States Fish and Wildlife Service and David H. Wallace of the Chesapeake Biological Laboratory of Solomons, Md.

The scales of fish show annual growth "rings" much like the annual rings in trees. Fish scales are better age indicators than teeth in horses.

The portion of the scales shaped like an inverted "V" which lies underneath the skin reveals these "rings." They show up as blank spaces where the new scales were not laid down due to slowed growth during winter. It is necessary to use a microscope for accurate results.

1,086 Dolls 'Motherless'
The recent death of Mrs. Mary Anna Wherland in Fresno, Calif., left "motherless" a family consisting of 1,086 dolls which she painstakingly collected and cared for during the past 40 years.

The collection occupied 30 show-cases in the Wherland home and included dolls of every size and nationality, from all parts of the world.

Mrs. Wherland began her unique collection when she decided to keep her children's dolls as remembrances. Through the years she added to this hobby until her home became a little girl's "paradise."

The collection will find a new home, with Mrs. Wherland's daughter in Eugene, Ore.

Patron of Rila Monastery
Although Bulgaria's famous Rila monastery has been pictured on many stamps, a new stamp introduces to philately the founder and patron of this 900-year-old monastery, Ivan Rilski, saint of the Greek Orthodox church.

Pilgrims to Rila are allowed to see and sometimes touch a mummified hand, sacred relic of St. Rilski. The relic is said to effect miraculous cures.

Rila monastery is shown in the background of the new stamp. There are 14 churches and 300 guest rooms within its walls. Views of the monastery have appeared on Bulgarian stamps of 1911, 1921 and the 1940 airmail issue.

WARTIME NEEDS

CHANGE GREYHOUND SCHEDULES

EFFECTIVE WEDNESDAY, JUNE 3RD...

Greyhound buses will operate on new war-time schedules. This change in service is being made in order to cooperate to the fullest extent with the war-time plans of the Office of Defense Transportation. The purpose is to make every bus work full time—keeping vital traffic on the move.

America's war program has the right of way! The great majority of the people Greyhound is carrying today and intends to carry efficiently are selectees traveling to examination centers, fighting men on leave or furlough, war workers moving to their jobs, businessmen traveling on essential work. The trips they take are necessary to keep the war program rolling.

With increased service demanded for war production areas—and little increase in buses available—it is necessary to divert equipment to routes where it is most needed.

Many peace-time features are discontinued. Operating speeds are somewhat reduced. Express and Limited schedules are eliminated entirely. Second sections of regular schedules are being eliminated unless the buses carry a sufficient number of passengers. Greyhound schedules will be combined with those of other bus companies, when necessary.

Conservation of rubber is all-important—and Greyhound is taking every possible step to increase the big savings already effected. Today buses use only a fraction as much rubber as private cars per passenger, per mile—and they average more than 40,000 miles per tire.

We hope that these war-time changes will not cause you inconvenience, crowding or delay. But if you don't find travel as comfortable and easy as in normal times, please make allowances! The war effort comes first with Greyhound as it does with you!

You Can Help

by getting information about the new schedules before you travel—taking as little baggage as possible—traveling before or after the mid-summer rush period—taking your trip on mid-week days, leaving seats on week-ends for soldiers and war workers.

Work of M. S. C. Pays State Many Millions

Just in the control of insects a savings of $4,087,000 was effected in 1941 by Michigan farmers who followed suggestions of the extension service of Michigan State College.

On a dollar basis alone, the activities of the federal-state extension service in agriculture and home economics return manyfold the amount invested in the service annually by the state's taxpayers.

Proof of that is found in a summary completed recently on the activities in 1941 of such staff members as county agricultural agents, 4-H club agents, home demonstration agents and subject matter specialists on the college staff.

How many families in Michigan received some of these dividends? The summary indicates that a total of 115,470 different farm families were influenced by some phase of the extension program designed to give such families some measure of a better rural life from more income, less needless expense, more adequate diets, advice on clothing, furniture, home recreation and community advancement.

Among the 26,760 rural homemakers enrolled in 1941 there were such items as $140,380 in foods canning or other preservation, $20,000 saved on clothing by using suggestions offered, more than 11,000 mattresses made from cotton supplied by the federal government, $70,600 saved on house furnishings by taking the tips offered in the year's program.

Farm economists had their innings during the year. Those who assisted farmers in various phases of agricultural economics reported some of these results. They assisted farmers in purchasing more than a million dollars of livestock feed and more than half a million in fertilizers and seeds. Dairy products worth $6,463,000 were sold by associations or groups organized or assisted during the year.

ST. PAUL'S WOMEN'S GUILD

The Women's Guild of St. Paul's church met at the church hall on Thursday for their regular monthly meeting, which opened with a responsive service, consisting of readings by Mrs. Herbert Paul and singing by Mrs. Otto Lucht and Mrs. Oscar Lindauer. The theme for the month was "The Unchurched in the Nation."

A reading, "Blessings of a Christian Home" was given by Mrs. Alfred Lindauer and "The Things I Ought To Do" was read by Mrs. Wilbur Hindorff. Miss Dorothy McIntosh gave a report on the Religious Clinic held in Ann Arbor.

There were 26 in attendance at the meeting and lunch was served by the hostesses—Mrs. Elmer Pierce and Mrs. Glenn Harbour.

ENTERTAINS COLLEGE PLAYERS

On Saturday evening Miss Henrietta Beach was hostess at a picnic at her home in Lima township for the Albion College Players of which she was recently made a regular player and elected vice-president. Thirty players and associate players, with Miss Beulah G. Chompy, "player" director and Dr. Layman, head of the Speech Department, enjoyed the picnic supper. Following the supper the seniors of the players entertained with their customary retiring skit. Other entertainment included a treasure hunt, and singing around the fire, ended the year's work for the group.

America's Unknown Soldier

France originated the idea of honoring an unknown soldier as a symbol of all the unidentified who lost their lives in defense of their country. Other nations soon followed her example. On September 9, 1921, in compliance with a joint resolution of congress, the secretary of war instructed the quartermaster-general of the army to select from unidentified American dead the body of a member of the American Expeditionary forces to typify the Americans who lost their lives in the World war.

The selection was to be so made as to preclude the remotest possibility of future identification as to his name, rank, organization, service or the battlefield on which he fell.

Four unidentified American bodies were exhumed from the four different cemeteries—Meuse-Argonne, St. Mihiel, Somme and Aisne-Marne. These four bodies, after being embalmed and put in similar caskets, were placed in a small improvised chapel in the city hall at Chalons-sur-Marne, France.

On October 24, 1921, Sgt. Edward Younger, who was chosen from American soldiers present, went into the chapel and designated one of the four bodies as the unknown American hero by placing a spray of white roses upon the casket.

The body was then immediately placed in a specially prepared casket and conveyed to the United States in the United States cruiser Olympia. After lying in state in the Capitol at Washington, the Unknown Soldier was interred in front of the memorial amphitheater in Arlington national cemetery on Armistice day, 1921, with solemn ceremonies.

Pigs Eat Solid Food Before Weaning Time

Even before their mothers lose the job of nursing them, little pigs are ready to help in the job of making hogs of themselves.

"Pigs will start eating solid feed when two to three weeks of age and make more gain in proportion to feed consumed, in addition to nursing from their mothers, than at any other time in their lives."

That is the advice of V. A. Freeman of the Michigan State College animal husbandry department, as one of his contributions to increased pork production in 1942. Pork is one of the top items in goals of the Michigan U. S. D. A. War Board.

Sows with six or more pigs ought to get liberal feeding, but the pigs, too, can start helping themselves from a creep or self-feeder at an early age. Pigs gain faster with extra feeding, there is less death loss and the pigs will reach market weight in shorter time.

A few precautions are listed by Freeman along with the feeding advice: At first the pigs eat so little the matter of protein and mineral balance is not a problem. Then when the pig begins to eat more, the protein, mineral and vitamin balance needs consideration.

Pigs will feed economically on pasture, but the pig is not a heavy grass eater and even from April to October will need supplementary feeding. Skim milk and buttermilk are rated top-notch supplements to grain such as corn, wheat and barley. Protein supplements such as tankage, fishmeal, soybean oilmeal or linseed oilmeal will cut down other feed requirements.

A typical, good mixture for starting young pigs, Freeman suggests, can include 50 pounds cracked corn, 20 pounds flour middlings or ground wheat or barley, 12 pounds ground oats, six pounds tankage or fishmeal, six pounds soybean oilmeal, six pounds ground high quality alfalfa. The alfalfa can be omitted when the pigs are on good pasture.

THE STORY SO FAR: Joan Leland, secretary, in love with handsome Karl Miller, night club owner, is horrified and disillusioned, when he shoots his business partner, Eric Strom, and threatens to implicate her unless she continues her work and remains silent. He comes to her a wife in Germany and is part of a Nazi spy ring. Paul Sherman, his manager, reveals to Joan that he really is Paul O'Malley, an FBI agent, trying to trap the spy-ring higher-ups and Joan agrees to help him. Joan's sister, Sybil, is missing and Paul believes Karl is holding her as a hostage. Paul finds a way to get Karl, a very young run-away sister, Patricia, and she innocently betrays Paul's identity to Karl, who captures Paul and Joan as they discover incriminating evidence. He spirits them away on a boat and they find they are in love. A submarine appears to pick up "bomber plane" stolen by Karl. Thomas, a victim of Karl, slips a run to Joan, who shoots Karl as he is about to shoot Paul. Then Paul sends Thomas to recover the evidence from the ship's safe. They escape in a lifeboat.

Now continue with the story.

CHAPTER XVI

Paul looked from Joan to Thomas. "Now listen, both of you. This may be something of a shock but Karl was not dead. He had a nasty wound but he's probably still very much alive."

Thomas looked terror-stricken. "Then he'll find us."

"We were allowed to escape from that ship for a purpose. We will doubtless be picked up by other members of the ring as soon as we land. We're off the coast of Mexico now. About Mazatlan, if my calculations are correct."

And less than an hour later they were picked up by a fishing boat and landed at a Mazatlan hotel.

The hotel proved to be old and magnificent, with beautiful tiled floors and high-beamed ceilings and ramps instead of stairways. It appeared practically deserted except for the yawning clerk who assigned them to rooms.

Joan was surprised that Paul spoke Spanish. "Is there anything you can't do?" she asked.

"I specialized in languages in college and it comes in handy with my job. I never know where I'll be next."

Joan felt better after a hot bath. Joan enjoyed her first taste of papaya and the oversized cups of coffee served with hot milk and huge lumps of unrefined sugar. "No wonder everyone seems so lazy. Nothing to do but eat and sleep and breathe this heavenly air."

Thomas looked up in disgust. "Sometimes I think you two are nuts. You sit there and wait for Karl's gang to come after you as if the whole thing is a joke. I don't get it. Why don't we get out of here right now while we still have a chance?"

"If you tried it, you'd find out how much chance you have."

"Where are they then?" Thomas demanded.

"Don't be impatient. They'll be with us soon enough."

But when Thomas had gone back to his room and Joan and Paul walked in the tropical garden patio of the hotel, she said seriously, "Thomas is right, Paul. Why don't we leave before it's too late?"

"This is the end of the trail, honey. Even if they let us get away, which they won't, what would we have gained? Their next move will lead to the heart of this affair. It's what I've been waiting for all these months."

They strolled through the garden where every variety of tropical fruit and flower was exhibited by nature's lavish hand.

"It's so beautiful and so peaceful," Joan whispered.

Paul held her hand tightly. "Be patient, dear. Just a little while longer and everything will be cleared up, and when we're married I promise you I'll take a vacation and there won't be a single mystery to solve."

"Darling, I don't care where we go just so we aren't being followed, or," she added laughing, "following someone else."

"Not a single person," Paul promised. "I'll guarantee to be under foot every hour. You'll probably be tired of seeing me around so much."

During the next three days Joan's fortune began to waver. She understood Paul's devotion to duty, but in her heart she longed to escape, to go home—to be married, to give up the chase which seemed to grow more dangerous and futile all the time.

"I don't know why I'm sticking around here," Thomas complained as the three of them sat in the deserted hotel bar watching the shafts of sunshine fall through grilled iron windows.

"You're staying because you're afraid to leave," Paul said, "and you're smart enough to realize it."

Thomas stared at him. "This place is driving me crazy. I've looked around the empty bar in disgust. The bartender dozed. The warm sweet air was heavy and languorous. 'Where is everybody?'"

"Didn't you ever hear of a silent?" Paul inquired.

"I've heard of it," Thomas said. "But people who have Karl Miller's gang after them aren't apt to waste time taking sestas."

"Nothing doing. I'm sorry you two have to stay but it isn't safe for you to leave alone. Believe me, it wouldn't work."

Thomas sighed. "Okay, if you say so. Bartender!" he yelled, "bring me another bottle of beer."

The bartender shook his head, muttered "Si, señor," and hurried over with the beer. But at the sight of Joan he paused.

SHE LOVED A SPY

by SYLVIA TAYLOR

Someone was tapping gently at her door. She sat up in bed. "Who's there?" she demanded.

"You are Miss Joan Leland?"

"Yes?"

"Why?" Paul asked flatly.

The bartender broke into Spanish. There was a torrent of words and gestures.

"What does he say?" Joan asked.

"It seems there was a man looking for you here. An American. He gave him ten pesos to get some information about you. He doesn't know what his name was though."

"Karl?"

"Not a chance. Karl wouldn't be apt to show all the way to shore. And the ship isn't in sight. I've been watching to see."

"But who in the world could it have been?"

The bartender, test on the bar, had returned to his siesta.

"What a country!" Thomas muttered.

"If someone wanted Joan, why didn't they telephone the hotel? We're all registered under our own names."

Paul laughed. "This is what is known as the subtle approach."

"Paul! Be serious!" Joan insisted.

"Okay," Paul said, leaning forward and surveying her with his kind brown eyes. "It's probably one of Karl's men. They want to get the idea across that they're around, and this is their way of doing it. They may want to make further contact with you. I don't know. They're probably picking on you instead of me as a gentle warning that if anything goes wrong, you'll be the one to pay for it. However, that's looking at it in the worst possible light. He took her hand."

"Don't worry, honey. I'll do all I can."

"Maybe Karl has some Mexicans working for him," Thomas suggested.

"I don't think so. Besides, this man spoke English, and if he had been able to speak Spanish he certainly would have done so, because the bartender was barely able to understand him."

"So now we start waiting all over again?" Thomas asked.

"That's about it."

She shivered. "Let's go," she urged.

They visited the cathedral, the park, and finally took in a movie. They walked leisurely back to the hotel. Dinner was never served until nine o'clock.

As they turned on to the long avenida which bordered the sea, one of the few automobiles they had seen turned the corner sharply.

"That man!" Joan cried. "I have the strangest feeling I know him! I couldn't see him very well, but I'm sure of it."

"Maybe it's the man who was trying to get in touch with you," Thomas said. "Maybe it's one of Karl's men that you used to see around the club in San Francisco."

"That could easily be possible," Paul said.

"But I don't connect him with anyone at the club," Joan said puzzled. "It gives me the queerest feeling."

She was still worrying about it after dinner when Thomas announced that he was going to "do the town."

"Watch your step," Paul advised. "Don't get absent-minded and try to escape."

"Don't worry about it, Mr. O'Malley. You've got me baffled. I'll stick around and watch the fireworks."

Joan retired early but she lay awake in the huge four-poster bed wondering about the man she had seen. Who was he? Why couldn't she place him? The roar of the sea and sweet night air filled the room. Moonbeams flitted across the stone floor like shimmering mist. She looked uneasily towards the old-fashioned door. She had locked and bolted it but it rattled in the wind.

She was almost asleep when a sound disturbed her. Someone was tapping gently at her door. She sat up in bed. "Who's there?" she demanded.

No one replied. She drew on the colorful Mexican robe and slippers she had bought and tiptoed to the door. "Who's there?" she repeated.

Thomas' voice came to her. "It's me, miss. I've something to tell you."

Quickly she unbolted the door and snapped on the light. "What's the trouble?" she asked, annoyed. "Why don't you tell Mr. O'Malley what ever it is?"

"I can't," Thomas whispered, looking over his shoulder. "I've found a way to get out of here."

Joan eyed him coldly. "Have you been drinking?"

"Only a few," Thomas insisted. "Listen, Miss Leland, I met a man tonight who will take us back to the States. He's an American and he's flying back home tomorrow. He has his own plane and when I told him we were stranded..."

"You shouldn't have done that!"

"Maybe not, but I'm scared, Miss Leland. This guy is okay so I took a chance. He was swell about it. Said he'd be glad to help us. I told him I thought you'd be willing to go too and he wants to see you. He's downstairs right now."

"Paul will never consent to leave," Joan said slowly, "and I can't leave him. I don't blame you, Thomas, but you know Mr. O'Malley said it wasn't safe. However, if you want to go, I suppose it's all right."

"Now look, Miss Leland," Thomas begged. "At least go down and talk to this man. He's waiting for you. After all, he's been pretty decent about this whole thing. If you don't see him, he'll think there's something phony about it and he won't even take me."

Joan considered for a minute. "All right, for your sake I'll see him. But I'm not going to leave. No one can persuade me."

"Okay," Thomas said hurriedly. "Just back me up on my story. That's all I ask."

He departed and Joan dressed quickly, thinking how strange it was that now that she had a chance to escape she could not take it. It was impossible to consider leaving Paul. Even so, she could not blame Thomas. And if corroborating his story would help, she would be glad to do it. After all, he had given them all the aid possible on the ship.

She walked down the stone ramp to the dimly lit lobby. A man was waiting for her, a man who was at once familiar to her. It was the same man she had glimpsed in the car that afternoon from the street.

"Mr. Mulford!" she cried in surprise as she realized that it was in truth her former employer who now rose smiling to greet her.

"Joan! This is a surprise!" Arthur Mulford said.

"It is to me," she admitted. "I heard you were here. I even went so far as to ask the bartender for information about you, but I didn't connect you with Thomas."

"Possible. Now tell me, what is this all about?"

They both sat down in the deep leather chairs. "I suppose Thomas has explained the situation?"

Thomas was standing on the ve-

CAP Pilots Are Now Prepared for Action

Lansing.—As American pilots and planes are blasting a wide swath in Japanese invasion areas in the Far Pacific and on Nazi-dominated European territory, a civilian air force is ready in the event of an emergency at home to go into action along with millions of trained civilian defense workers in city and country.

In Michigan alone, more than 2,160 trained pilots of the Civil Air Patrol are prepared to resist air attack, land invasion, sabotage, or other enemy action, according to S. B. Steers, chairman of the aviation committee of the Michigan Council of Defense and commander of the Michigan Wing of the CAP.

The pilots are supplemented by a ground organization of approximately 550 mechanics, radio operators, parachute riggers and other personnel. Michigan's CAP consists of eight groups comprising 27 squadrons.

Planes of the CAP have completed a 30-day experiment in conjunction with the U. S. Coast Guard, flying a daily air patrol over the Detroit River from Lake Erie to Lake Huron.

Approximately 200 planes participated in State-wide tactical problems last week.

Indication of the value of the CAP in the eyes of the Army and Navy was seen in the announcement that a number of pilots and observers are now operating with the submarine patrol on the Atlantic Coast. Additional units from the Michigan CAP may be assigned to coastal duty soon.

As every family becomes increasingly affected by price-control regulations and consumer problems, local and county councils of defense, through their consumer committees and consumer centers, are preparing to distribute consumer educational information to every Michigan home.

Broad outlines of the consumer program of the Michigan Council of Defense, implemented by detailed instructions on formation of consumer groups in local communities were explained to more than 200 consumer committee members at the Price Control and Consumer Institute at Albion College on Saturday.

Pointing out the urgent need for wide dissemination of consumer information, Lt. Col. Harold A. Furlong, administrator of the MCD, declared:

"As consumers we must realize that any needless drain on our economic energies hinders our power to produce, and it is on that power that we depend for victory. The food we eat, the clothes we wear, the things we buy and the things we use—all these are as much a part of the victory program as guns, tanks and airplanes. They must not be wasted."

"It's bike or hike" from now on for Michigan's high school students. If a campaign started by high school councils of defense is successful.

Started by Redford (Detroit) high school students, the bike-or-hike drive has been endorsed by the Michigan Council of Defense. The councils will ask students to pledge to avoid unnecessary driving of the family car, and this includes taking the girl friends for a joy ride—because of the critical rubber shortage.

To help meet the problems of production created by increased population in vacation resort areas, many councils of defense will request qualified summer residents to join the local Defense Corps organization of the town in which their summer home is located. It is felt that among the summer visitors will be many persons who are air raid wardens or members of other corps at home.

THE HOME FRONT IN MICHIGAN

Like a brand-new baby, Michigan is getting used to price-control and likes it.

If you or Mrs. Jones are still confused about it, here are a few reminders.

Price control is our charter of security. Without it, the cost of living would rise to heights which would bring suffering to many.

Your cooperation is needed to make it work smoothly.

There are a number of exceptions—seasonal foods such as fresh fruit, vegetables, fish and game. Excluded also are butter, cheese, canned milk, flour, mutton, lamb, poultry and eggs.

rande smoking a cigarette, apparently preferring to let Joan do the talking.

"Yes," Mulford said with concern. "He tells me you are in danger of being recaptured by some gang. I must say it sounded a little fantastic."

"It's the truth," Joan said gravely. "After you discharged me I went to work at a night club, the Club Elite, owned by a Karl Miller. I learned later that he is head of a spy ring in this country. I also met Paul O'Malley, of the FBI, who is trying to get evidence against Karl."

"And why don't you leave Mazatlan?" Mulford inquired.

"Paul, that is, Mr. O'Malley, is still trying to run down the rest of the gang. And he believes they are keeping tabs on us. He is determined not to give up."

"Thomas seems quite willing to leave."

"Yes. He worked for Karl in return for Karl's promise to save his wife from a Nazi concentration camp," Joan said bitterly.

It seems kind of funny that there is a ceiling price on pork and beef but none on mutton. The Office of Price Administration can't put a maximum price on any farm products until the price of a product reaches 110 per cent of parity. If the price of mutton goes up until it reaches this parity, then a ceiling price can be placed on it—and probably will.

How about a quiz program on the price-control regulations the next time the Busy Bee Sewing Club meets? The quicker everyone gets acquainted with these regulations, the smoother and better it will work.

There are some other exceptions which do not touch the family larder, including newspapers, magazines, books, admissions to movies and other amusement places, collectors' items such as antiques, pictures, stamps, coins and precious stones.

Of course, you know that the price of a can of corn can be 15 cents at one store and 18 cents at the store down the street. A merchant is entitled to set his price at the highest level he charged for that particular article in the month of March, 1942. That's No. 1 on the things you must remember.

Your grocer has his problems—and the butcher, the druggist and the dry-goods store.

If the druggist has not posted ceiling prices for all his merchandise, don't get worried. He is supposed to have posted the maximum prices for "cost-of-living" items. But he can't possibly cover the thousands of articles he sells. They are under the ceiling, however, and he will give you the ceiling price, if you ask him.

The ceiling on retail service charges doesn't go into effect until July 1. Retail service charges are to be controlled only if they are performed in connection with a commodity. This means the prices of automobile and radio repairs, laundry, dry-cleaning, shoe mending and such will be controlled. Personal services such as hair-dressing or dental work will not be controlled, even after July 1.

You're not a price policeman—at least not yet.

Be patient and tolerant with your merchants. Give them until July 1 anyway to get this thing to working. Only flagrant and unmistakable violations should be reported to your local War Price and Rationing Board.

President Roosevelt recently directed a message to newspaper editors, which will help be applied to everyone on the Home Front.

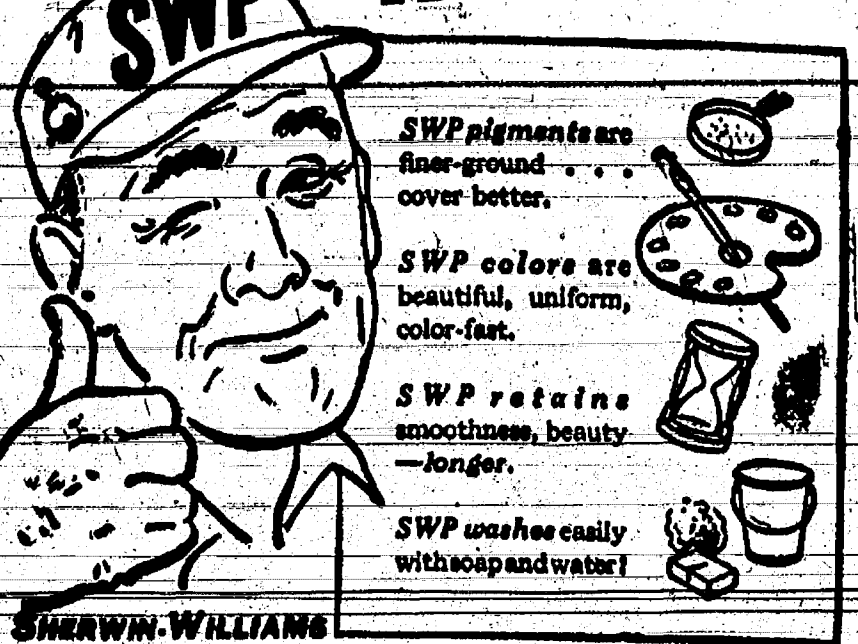

"The men and women of a nation at war have the right to expect... the same loyalty with which they send their men to join our fighting forces. The same energy with which they raise food and make arms for America and the other United Nations. The same courage with which they face an enemy who would destroy the world, the same vision with which they foresee the world of freedom for which we are fighting..."

New For The Old

Make new friends
But keep the old;
One is silver,
The other gold.Each June brings to our school, as in all schools, a great many farewells and long last looks at familiar and beloved things. Although there are many promises made for meeting again, life intervenes and changes all things. With these farewells and departures, however, there is one bright note—the thought of the arrival of a new group. Young, eager, and ready to "take life by the horns", they come to our doors. Ready to absorb knowledge, some like a sponge—fast and easy, others like a blotter—slow but sure; and yet others, less fortunate, like a sieve.And yet, we wonder what this new group will be doing four years from now. Will they be graduating from their alma mater? Will they be serving their country? Only time can tell, and we look forward and hope for a pleasant answer.The Seniors will leave for their annual trip at 11:42 a. m. on Thursday,
May 28 and will return to Detroit on Sunday at 2:00 p. m. They will visit the Soo Locks, Mackinac Island and other points of interest in the northern part of Michigan.The Grade track meet was held on Wednesday, May 27 and the high school track meet is scheduled for Wednesday, June 3.The High School Band will play and the Chorus will sing at the Memorial Day services in the gymnasium on Saturday, May 30.A meeting of the mothers who are working in defense industries was held at the high school on Thursday, May 21 to discuss the possibility for a summer program for their children.
The second meeting of this series was held at the high school last night (Wednesday, May 27).The faculty members held a picnic at Huron River Drive on Tuesday, May 26.

Sgt. Leonard Speaks

Sergeant George Leonard spoke at an assembly which was held in the study hall at 8:30 a. m. on Friday,
May 22 for those students in grades
7-12.Sergeant Leonard served overseas for five years as a member of the Canadian Army in the last World War. Before enlisting in the Army he was a member of the New York Giants baseball team. He has been speaking at a number of schools in Washtenaw county during the last month.Sergeant Leonard's interesting talk dealt with the story of his life, his action on the war front, the horrors of war, and the part youth is to play in the present conflict.

Senior News

This week is a big week for the Seniors, for they finally leave on the
S. S. South American to Mackinac Island today. They have all been advised to take along their coats, because last year's Seniors had a chilly time of it. The itinerary of the trip is as follows:Leave Detroit May 28, 3 p. m.
Leave Eort Huron May 28, 8:30
p. m.
Arrive Mackinac Island May 30,

Reception! This is the password of the Juniors and well it should be. The time for the big event is rapidly drawing near. An orchestra has finally been signed up and the menu committee has at last decided on the dinner.Sophomores
Last week this class ordered their rings. They were requested to make a down payment and it seems that there is just a little matter of a "Luxury Tax" to add wood to the fire.This year the rings were purchased from the Josten Company. This company was well recommended in the school because the Class of '41 got their rings from it and were very much pleased.Freshmen Right now the greatest concern of this fine group of young people is where to go on their annual picnic!
Several suggestions have been made to the president, so next week at their usual class meeting it will be decided upon.

The Home Ec. Club

The Home Ec. club went to Jackson to the Cascade Inn last Thursday evening for their annual dinner. There were 66 who went, including Mrs.
Burg, Miss McDonald, Miss Consaul and Miss Bernadine Wheeler, who went as guests. Their dinner consisted of fried spring chicken, French fried potatoes, spring salad, fresh green peas, cream pie and coffee.
Later they went to the Michigan Theatre to see the show "To the Shores of Tripoli." Everyone reported a very pleasant evening.Ann Arbor

Student Council

The Student Council argued about the party that was supposedly to be held May 29. Since no solution to this problem has been offered a special meeting will be held.Rules for the Junior-Senior Reception were discussed but no decisions were made.

Current Events

During the school year several classes take current event papers. After a period of several months the company sends out current event tests.The scores from schools all over the United States are sent in and then a national average is obtained. The average score of the local eleventh grade was 73 while the national average was 68.2. The local seventh grade was 55.09 and the national was 61.7.

Remembrance of '41

The faculty and students of Chelsea High are grateful to the 1941 graduating class for their parting gift, which was scenery for the stage.This scenery is a new type which makes it possible to have entrances and exits at most any desired point.
It has improved the appearance of the stage a great deal.

Thank you, Seniors of '41!

Hither and Yon

They say Chelsea High is close to a madhouse these days. The Seniors, being so excited about their cruise, say they can't sleep and certainly find it hard to concentrate. You might ask them about transportation to Ann Arbor and they would certainly say
"Take a boat!"Speaking of Seniors—did you see D. Kinsey's ingenious play at Friday's baseball game? He made a nice hit, ran to first, then to second, much to everyone's surprise, as D. Ewald was on second!During the assembly last Friday
the study hall was extremely quiet.
Maybe it was because the speaker used a little force. By the way, Red Light told us that he wasn't scared—just petrified!John's, as usual, was busy over the week-end. Saturday night we saw a group of six there having a lot of fun.
Rohn Miller, a former C. H. S. student, was one of them—must be Detroit's too quiet for him so he comes all the way to Chelsea for excitement! If only the "natives" would feel that way.We are still trying to decide whether or not students were tired or lazy or really "on the beam" when Chelsea had the air raid drill. Anyway, we didn't see any of them going to a fire and perhaps that's more than can be said about some adults (?)The Juniors, especially the boys, want the public in general to know they soon will be putting on a reception. So if you see some fellows making flowers, don't think they're effeminate—just trying to be helpful.

Seventh Grade
(Eunice Lehman)
The Safety Patrol boys went to the Tiger-Philadelphia game in Detroit last Wednesday. Five carloads of boys, as a reward for faithful service on the safety patrol, were driven in by P. Schable, W. Daniels, L. Palmer, L. Chriswell, and Miss Fox. The boys wish to thank their drivers for their kindness in furnishing transportation.Our Stamp sale for the week was thirty dollars. We would like to get the silver cup for next week if we can.
Loren Munro's birthday is May 28.
We plan to sing to him, and to make him give the "birthday speech".Last week we finished our penmanship, and this week we are finishing our year's work in spelling.The seventh grade girls feel a little imposed upon because the boys went to the ball game, and they had lessons during the afternoon. The teachers were Bob Strieter, Mr. Bust, and Miss Clark. Compliments were paid the group by each of the "visiting teachers".

Thanks for Donation

The librarians of Chelsea Public High wish to thank Mr. and Mrs. Paul Maroney for their generous donation of books to the school library.

Defeated By Dexter

The girls played their second game of the season with Dexter at Dexter on Wednesday, May 20.The Chelsea girls didn't look too good in the first 4 1/2 innings but in the last half of the fifth they really went to town. As they started the fifth the score was 17-2 in Dexter's favor;
here Chelsea came to with a bang, scoring four runs. They also collected 3 runs in the sixth, making the final score 18-9.Although the girls didn't win one of their two games, they have gained valuable experience and they look forward to next year with high hopes.
