Local Blackouts To Be Governed By Ordinance

An ordinance which clearly defines the duties and limitations of civilians during a blackout or other air raid precautions was adopted by the Chelsea village council at their regular meeting on Monday night.

This ordinance, authorizing blackouts, air raid protection, orders, rules, and regulations, prescribing penalties for violations thereof, and declaring an emergency, was deemed necessary by the council in order to protect the lives and property of individuals during the present conflict.

Provision is made in the ordinance for the appointment of special police by the village president or the Chelsea Council of Defense, to serve without pay during any blackout, air raid or other protective measure. These police would possess all the powers and privileges and perform all the duties of the regular police force of the village, and will wear an identifying emblem while on duty. It will be unlawful for them to carry out any police duties unless they are wearing the proper identifying emblem.

The ordinance also prohibits the display of any lights during a blackout, practice blackout, air raid or air raid protective measure, if such lights are at all visible from "out of doors," except lights deemed necessary by military or civilian authorities, and lights prescribed for emergency vehicles which shall be shielded in accordance with the regulations of the village president.

Selling or serving of beer, wine, or intoxicating liquors is prohibited during a blackout; smoking on streets is prohibited; congregating in groups is also forbidden; all vehicles except those required for civilian defense shall be immediately parked in a lawful manner, lights turned off and if occupants leave the car it must be left unlocked.

Any person violating the provisions of this ordinance will be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction shall be punished by a fine of not to exceed $100.00 and costs, or imprisonment not to exceed 90 days, or both. This ordinance appears in its entirety in a full page advertisement in this issue of The Standard. Everyone should carefully read all the directions contained therein and should preserve this copy for future reference, as it is expected that practice blackouts will be authorized within the next few weeks and it is entirely within the realm of possibility that air raids may necessitate sudden blackout of the village at any time.

Community Honors War Dead On Decoration Day

By Wm. Rademacher

The Herbert J. McKune Post, 31, American Legion, introduced Harold M. Dorr of the University of Michigan Political Science Department to this community in the Decoration Day program last Saturday.

Prof. Dorr in his address related the stirring history of the American soldier at Concord Bridge, at Valley Forge, at Gettysburg, at the Argonne, and at Pearl Harbor, while he illustrated the reasons why brave men march forth to death to protect the liberties of democracy we hold so dearly.

With many of our local men in the service and all of us aiding the war effort in every way the subject was both timely and informative.

While Mr. Dorr's address highlighted the program, the fine presentation of Lincoln's Gettysburg Address by Irma Brueckner and John Wellnitz's recitation "In Flanders Field" should not be forgotten. The Band and Chorus of the high school favored with two patriotic numbers, while Rev. F. D. Mumby read the invocation and Rev. P. H. Grabowski gave the benediction.

The customary decoration of graves, salute to the dead, taps, and a prayer by Father L. Dorr took place at the cemetery immediately after the exercises at the public school auditorium.

K. O. BEACH REPORTED MISSING
Mrs. D. E. Beach received word from the War Department the past week that her son, Captain Kenneth O. Beach, is "missing in action." The letter stated that all the soldiers on Corregidor on May 7 and who are unaccounted for are listed as "missing in action." The Japanese claim that they will abide by the ruling of the Geneva Conference and will give the U. S. government a list of all our soldiers who have been taken prisoners, but this will take some time and their relatives will be notified as soon as possible.

SUGAR FOR CANNING
According to information received by Supt. A. C. Johnson, people in this vicinity who wish to obtain additional sugar for canning must go to Ann Arbor to get their permits until local quarters are established for this work. The permits are now being issued at the office of the County Rationing Board, Chamber of Commerce Bldg. in Ann Arbor. It is hoped to have local quarters open within the next few days.

Commencement Week Activities Start On Friday

THE HOME FRONT IN MICHIGAN

An agricultural force of 12,000,000. A factory force of 20,000,000. A fighting force of at least 8,000,000 soldiers and sailors.

This is the immediate program for mobilization of our manpower, a mobilization which must be complete to win this war.

Michigan must give her share, a share which will be large because of her great industrial plants, her vast farm lands and her wealth of brave young men of military age.

We are fighting a four-sided war—war on the field of arms, war under the factory roofs, war on the rolling farms, war on the Home Front. If any one of these armies fails, all may fail.

The War Manpower Commission has taken over the huge job of filling the ranks of these armies—from suspended civilian industries, from the professions, from the temporary unemployed, from the homes.

The cook at clerk with mechanical skill, retired workers, women without children, boys under draft age and girls in their teens will hear the call to arms—to fill a place on farm or in factory, where they better can help win the war.

If you haven't found your place in this program, get in touch with the nearest office of the U. S. Employment Service—there's one in almost every community—and see if they have a war job for which you are fitted.

If you have the aptitude but lack the necessary training, there are many methods which may provide you this training.

The first rule of total war is not to waste manpower.

America is ready for this complete mobilization. America is ready for whatever action is necessary to bring us victory over enemies who would destroy our nation, our freedom and our way of living.

We're really getting tough these days. We are learning to take it and because we are learning to take it, we will be able to dish it out.

We're dishing out the tanks and planes and ships and guns to lick Hitler and Hirohito. We can dish out the manpower, too, even though it may mean leaving our present jobs, comfort or homes to perform more essential chores.

Home Fronters today are taking in stride developments which might have thrown many of us off balance a few months ago. We are like the Army recruit, whose training takes off, fat, puts on muscle and sinew. The back pack, which dragged along the ground at first, now is hoisted shoulder high in one quick, easy movement.

The bag is heavier than before. We are stronger.

America is toughening up. Two-thirds of the nation already is, or soon will be, under federal rent control. Saving of tin cans for salvage is restricted to certain areas where re-claiming of the metal is practical.

But now that school soon will be out, millions of boys and girls may join the salvage program and collect rubber, old rags and scrap metal. We still can scrap the Jap with scrap and Hitler, too. Goose and duck feathers over a certain length have been released for civilian use in pillows and upholstery. There are plenty of ways to spend a pleasant week-end without the family car. . . . If 30 American families pass up a Sunday afternoon auto ride, they will save enough gasoline to keep a bomber in the air a full hour. . . . and save tires, too. . . . The need for stenographers in war offices, particularly in Washington, but in other cities, also, is very great. . . . Apply to your nearest Civil Service Commission—your post office can tell you where it is.

By Gene Allenman

Have you joined a "car club" yet? Sharing automobile transportation has become an act of war patriotism in Michigan this spring, all because the Nazi in Germany induced some crazy Japs on the other side of the world to seize rubber plantations in Malaya, a good 10,000 miles away.

Funny, isn't it, how the world has grown smaller in 1942?

The "car club" idea was initiated by State Highway Commissioner G. Donald Kennedy at Pontiac where it received a thorough test and has been popularly labelled the "Pontiac Plan," and also the "Michigan Plan."

The plan calls for a maximum use of buses and a minimum use of automobiles to conserve existing supplies of cars and tires for transportation of workers to war production plants.

Routine of peace-time lives was violently disturbed with inauguration of the plan March 16. Alarm clocks were set to conform to new working hours; housewives rearranged shopping schedules; school children welcomed the later opening of classes, and workmen started their new shifts cheerfully.

"Surveys of Michigan war plants," Kennedy explained, "called attention to the fact that 75 per cent of workers depend upon their automobiles for transportation to and from work. This clearly indicated that unless existing facilities were conserved, a critical condition in war industries would soon develop."

A survey made by the highway department revealed that Pontiac industries employ more than 25,000 workers. Of that number, the survey showed 4,000 use buses, while 12,000 residing in the city and 9,000 living outside use private automobiles in going to and from work.

Selected as a typical Michigan industrial city, Pontiac was chosen for the first test, and after more than four weeks of experiment its success is believed assured.

By use of the "club plan" whereby workers pool and alternate use of their cars, the "Let's Ride Together" phase of the program has already increased passengers per car from an average of 1.3 to 2.0.

Staggering factory shifts, together with later opening of stores, offices and schools, has resulted in bus lines reporting that school and office bus loads formerly bunched from 7:45 to 9 have been spread between 8:30 and 10 and entirely miss the industrial workers. Buses are also operating under capacity between the hours of 10 and 2:30, showing that shoppers are using the facilities to further advance the plan.

Traffic volume also has been reduced materially according to police department reports, and a sharp drop in number of accidents and loss of man hours is hailed as an important secondary result of the conservation program.

In March, 1941, Pontiac experienced 295 traffic accidents in the city, as compared with only 170 for the first 26 days of March, this year. "Not only is traffic spread out more evenly," said Lieut. Edward Shigley, of the police traffic division, "but volume has been reduced materially. Formerly, traffic division counts, showed an average flow of 1,000 vehicles an hour on South Saginaw street, one of the principal thoroughfares. This recently has been cut by 100 vehicles an hour."

As success of the "Michigan Plan" became more certain, field representatives of the Automotive Safety Foundation reported more than 1,000 inquiries had been received already at the Washington office. The plan also has the approval of the Highway Traffic Advisory Committee to the War Department, and the city of Detroit, confronting its most critical period in 20 years of operating the street railway system, is seriously considering adoption of the plan for getting the maximum use out of limited transportation facilities.

"To aid other cities in developing a war conservation traffic plan," Kennedy stated, "result of the Pontiac experiment are being compiled and will soon be made available to all interested cities and organizations."

Work of perfecting an organization for the volunteer war-time program was turned over to Leonard C. Sauer, administrative assistant to Commissioner Kennedy. The organization includes local advisory and technical committees, co-administrators for industry, labor, business and bus companies, and scores of volunteer workers.

To gain a minimum use of automobiles, the program calls for a discontinuance of all unnecessary driving, a "club plan" for factory workers whereby not less than four persons ride and alternate use of their cars, and effective use of all other transportation facilities.

Maximum use of buses was obtained by staggering factory shifts, re-scheduling of buses, school hours, business and office hours, and by getting housewives to shop at off-peak times.

Extent to which the plan affects the lives of the average person may be seen by the fact that war plants re-scheduled shifts. Those in the north part of the city now start at 6, 7 and 8 a. m. and those in the south sections at 6:30, 7:30 and 8:30 a. m.

Stores have changed their opening hour from 9 to 10 o'clock and schools from 8:30 to 9 and 9:15. Other businesses have rescheduled their opening and closing hours so as to lengthen the peak transportation hours.

An example of the work done was in the formation of the "club plan" for war plant workers. Plant managers and union officials were contacted, and supported the plan 100 per cent.

Each worker was given a pledge card, upon which he listed the residence section number where he lives. All residential areas had been numbered and listed on large charts. Tabulations were made from the cards and workers brought together. Voluntary grouping also was encouraged and resulted in many workers forming their own clubs.

Once aware of the necessity for prolonging the life of all available transportation facilities, Commissioner Kennedy declared the universal acceptance of the Michigan Plan proves Americans are only too willing to make the sacrifices necessary to guarantee success of the war production program.

MICHIGAN BELL COMMENDED
The Michigan Bell Telephone Company has been commended by Major General Dawson Olmstead, chief signal officer for the U. S. Army, for its part in the war effort.

George M. Welch, president of the company, announced receipt of the following telegram from General Olmstead: "You are rendering a vital service to your country in this time of war by the rapid and efficient manner in which you are doing your job. The Army commends you for rising to the new and greater needs of the nation with spirits of loyal effort over and above your line of duty. Conduct of the war effort in your important section of the country demands dependable communications under all conditions. You are doing your part in holding the lines of communication for us."

COOK
VEGETABLES

No. 1 in a series of messages on how to get the full health values out of the food you prepare.

The first line of Defense on the Home Front is Good Health. We must not neglect those things that build strong bodies, increase resistance, create energy.

Improper cooking robs food of vital elements that the body needs. Energy-building minerals and precious vitamins must reach the table.

Previous articles have pointed out the importance of using very little water in cooking vegetables, and of keeping the cooking utensils covered.

It is often said that we "eat with our eyes." If food looks appetizing, we are more likely to eat it. Preserving the natural color and shape of vegetables is therefore important. The way to do it is to cook vegetables ONLY LONG ENOUGH TO MAKE THEM TENDER.

Overcooked vegetables lose their color and flavor. They do not retain their shape, and valuable vitamins and minerals are washed out and thrown away in the excess of water used when cooking for an unnecessarily long period.

To serve your family colorful and full-flavored vegetables rich in food values, cook them the shortest possible time.

AIR RAID INSTRUCTIONS

PEOPLE OF CHELSEA

An Ordinance Adopted by the Village Council, Pertaining to the Behavior and Duties of Civilians During Blackouts and Air Raids.

ORDINANCE 37

An Ordinance Authorizing Blackouts and Air Raid Protection, Orders, Rules, and Regulations; Prescribing Penalties for Violations Thereof; and Declaring an Emergency.

Whereas, the United States of America is now engaged in a war with foreign powers and the defense of the Nation is now in the hands of the Army and Navy, and since it is well known that lights at night-time are a definite aid to the enemy in reaching military and other objectives, and in order to prevent the loss of life or property through such possible air raids, it is now deemed necessary for the safety, health, and welfare of the residents of the Village of Chelsea to enact an ordinance governing the extinguishment of lights and the regulation of persons and vehicles within the village limits during a blackout or other air raid precautions.

THE VILLAGE OF CHELSEA ORDAINS:

Section 1. Definitions.

(a) And period of time designated by the Federal or civilian authorities for extinguishing lights of all kinds during the existence of a state of war with any foreign power or powers is hereby defined as a "Blackout".

(b) Emergency vehicles shall include all ambulances, police or fire vehicles, and such other vehicles designated by the Village President and these vehicles shall plainly exhibit on their front windshield an insignia designated and furnished by the Village President to this effect.

Section 2. In order to protect life and property in the Village of Chelsea from enemy action, the Village President and/or the Chelsea Council of Defense are authorized and directed to carry out blackouts and air raid protective measures in said village at such times and for such periods as are ordered by the Army, Navy, or civilian authorities and to promulgate such orders, rules, and regulations as may be necessary to insure the success of the blackouts and air raid protection measures and to protect the lives and property of the residents of Chelsea during such periods, and they are further authorized to conduct practice blackouts at all reasonable times in order to acquaint the residents of the Village with their duties and responsibilities in case of an air raid. Provided, that said order, rules, and regulations shall include traffic movements of emergency or other vehicles, evacuation of residents, congregation of persons on public streets, sidewalks, in public places or buildings, but the foregoing enumeration shall not be taken as a limitation on the power to promulgate orders, rules, and regulations governing any other subject, persons, or property which must be regulated in order to insure the proper carrying out of any duly authorized blackout or air raid measure.

Section 3. All orders, rules, and regulations promulgated pursuant to the authority conferred by this ordinance shall be in writing and shall be available for public inspection at all reasonable times at the Sylvan Township Hall, and all such orders, rules, and regulations shall be in full force and effect from such time of promulgation until amended or repealed.

Section 4. The Village President and/or the Chelsea Council of Defense may appoint for a specified time as many special police, who shall serve without pay, from among the residents of the Village of Chelsea as may be deemed advisable for service in any blackout, air raid, or other protective measure. During the period of time that such special police are called for active duty, they shall possess all the powers and privileges and shall perform all the duties of the regular police force of the said Village of Chelsea, and they shall have in addition such other powers and shall perform such other duties as shall be designated by the Village President. The said President shall prescribe an identifying emblem to be worn by the special police, and it shall be unlawful for any special policeman or other individual to attempt to carry out any order, rule, or regulation promulgated under the authority of this ordinance when he is not wearing such identifying emblem.

Section 5. The following general regulations shall form a nucleus for the government and control of persons and property within the Village limits of Chelsea during the progress of a blackout, practice blackout, air raid, or air raid protective measure, but they shall not be exclusive for the Village President and/or the Chelsea Council of Defense may promulgate such further orders, rules, and regulations in accordance with the provisions of this ordinance.

(a) No person, persons, firm, or corporation who is or are the owner or occupant of any residence building or structure within the Village shall display or allow to be displayed any light or lights visible from out of doors except lights deemed necessary by military or civilian authorities and made known to the Village President and lights prescribed for emergency vehicles which shall be shielded in accordance with the regulations of the said Village President, nor shall such emergency vehicles be driven at a speed greater than twenty (20) miles per hour.

(b) No person, persons, firm or corporation shall sell or serve any beer, wine, or intoxicating liquors.

(c) No person or persons shall join with others to congregate in groups of five or more persons on any public sidewalk, street, alley, or other public place within the village limits of Chelsea.

(d) No person or persons shall smoke tobacco in any manner whatsoever on the public streets, alleys, sidewalks, or other public place within the village limits of Chelsea.

(e) No person, persons, firm or corporation shall do any act forbidden or shall fail to perform any act required by this ordinance or by any rules and regulations established pursuant to this ordinance, and they shall at all times comply with the requests of the special police officers duly appointed and acting pursuant to the rules and regulations promulgated pursuant to this ordinance.

(f) All vehicles except those of the armed forces or the emergency vehicles required for civilian defense which are upon the public streets, alleys, or public places within the village limits during the course of a blackout air raid, or air raid protection measure shall be immediately parked and stopped on the side of the street, alley, or public place in a lawful manner pursuant to present traffic rules and regulations, and the operator of said vehicles shall immediately extinguish all lights and set the hand brake on the vehicle at once, and if the occupants leave the car, it is to be left unlocked.

(g) All persons other than armed forces and civilian authorities who are in the public streets, alleys, and public places during the course of an air raid, blackout, or other air raid protection measure must find shelter as quickly as possible and must remain in the shelter and out of the public streets, alleys, and public places until the "all clear" signal is sounded to terminate the blackout, air raid, or air raid protective measure.

(h) During the progress of any blackout, practice blackout, air raid, or air raid protective measure, the police, air raid wardens, and special police appointed pursuant to the provisions of this ordinance are authorized and directed to enter upon any premises within the village limits of Chelsea and to extinguish lights or to take any other necessary action to make effective any order, rule, or regulation promulgated pursuant to the authority conferred by this ordinance in order to protect the lives and property of the residents of the Village of Chelsea.

(i) The terms and provisions of Public Act No. 13 (First Extra Session 1942) of the State of Michigan are hereby made a part of the within ordinance.

Section 6. This ordinance is an exercise of the governmental power of the Village of Chelsea to protect the public peace, health, and safety of its residents and neither the Village nor any individual acting pursuant to the laws included herein or promulgated in accordance with the provisions of this ordinance shall be liable for any damage or loss to any person or to any property caused by the reasonable conduct of the Village authorities or by individuals acting pursuant to the provisions of this ordinance or the rules and regulations promulgated in accordance therewith during the course of a blackout or other air raid protective measure.

Section 7. This ordinance and the rules and regulations promulgated pursuant to the authority conferred by this ordinance shall supercede all existing ordinances, orders, rules and regulations insofar as the latter may be inconsistent therewith.

Section 8. Any person, persons, firm or corporation violating any of the provisions of this ordinance or any of the rules, orders, and regulations issued pursuant to the authority conferred by this ordinance shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine not to exceed the sum of One Hundred Dollars ($100.00) and costs of prosecution, or imprisoned for a term not to exceed ninety (90) days, or both such fine and imprisonment in the discretion of the Court.

Section 9. It is the intention of the Village of Chelsea that each separate provision of this ordinance shall be considered independent of all other provisions herein, and it is further the intention of the said Village of Chelsea that if any provision of this Ordinance is declared to be invalid, all other provisions shall remain valid and enforceable.

Section 10. This ordinance is necessary for the immediate preservation of the public health, peace, and safety of the residents of the Village of Chelsea because of the menace of possible air raids and other enemy action and because of the need for blackout and air raid protective measures, and an emergency is therefore declared to exist.

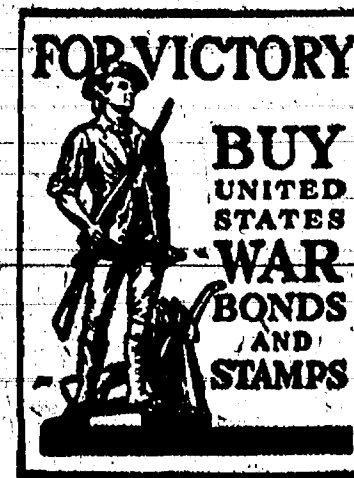

Section 11. This ordinance shall be in full force and effect immediately after passage and upon publication thereof, and shall continue for the duration of the present war.

Made and passed by the Village Council of Chelsea, Michigan, this 1st day of June, A. D. 1942.

Local Defense Topics

"The United States Needs Us Strong—Eat Nutritional Food." This is an important new war slogan, according to Martha McBride, Washtenaw County Nutrition Chairman. Speaking last week on the anniversary of the First National Nutrition Conference called by President Roosevelt in Washington last May, Miss McBride stated that the Washtenaw County Nutrition Committee is cooperating in the national program for encouraging better eating habits in the country as a means of improving health.

The chief aim of the local committee is to reach as many people as possible with information on proper everyday eating. Among projects in which the committee is interested are: improving school lunches, providing free lunches and penny milk for school children, nutrition classes for housewives and others, neighborhood discussion groups on nutrition, stimulating the sale of enriched flour and bread, and starting information centers where advice and printed material on healthful eating may be obtained.

At present there are about 500 who have enrolled in nutrition classes in the county. Information centers already exist at the Chelsea Public Library where an abundance of material on nutrition may be found. You will enjoy the consumers' pamphlets and bulletins containing information of value and interest to you who are conserving in war time. Balanced diets and budget management are included in the articles which are at your disposal at the "Information Center" in the library.

Recently the ladies of the Lutheran and Congregational churches offered their services in response to a rush call from the Red Cross asking for 25 kits for the men in service. These kits were made and filled in a very few hours, showing again the splendid response of the civilian volunteers.

On Friday, June 5 the monthly luncheon and report meeting of the Washtenaw County Red Cross, under the direction of Mrs. Frederick Collier, will meet in the Production Room in West Hall, Ann Arbor. All chairmen of the training classes in Nutrition, First Aid, Canteen and production are asked to report at that time.

Washtenaw county citizens registered with the Civilian Defense Volunteer Office are now engaged in a large number of home defense projects. Everything from stenographers, speakers, and poster-makers to blood donors and nurses' aides have been supplied to date by the Volunteer office, which acts as a clearing house for organizations wishing to find personnel for important home war work.

Township citizens registered with their local volunteer offices are participating in salvage drives, bond sales, canning and school lunch projects. Day care for the children of working mothers is a problem being considered now in many localities of the county; in Chelsea a program is now under way to handle this problem with the help of volunteers.

The County Agricultural War Board, whose function is "The Catch-all for every type of work pertaining to agricultural or rural communities as it affects the war program"—according to one of the Board's four members, is working in cooperation with the Volunteer Office to organize Washtenaw's 20 townships for carrying out local community war work. Each township will have a committee and each school district a "war group" so that individuals and families can be quickly contacted for all types of victory campaigns.

Summer Reading Program

The Chelsea Public Library will conduct a Children's Summer Reading Program as in the past few years. It is the aim of the librarian to enlist even a greater number of children in this program than in former years. All children from the first to the eighth grades, inclusive, are invited to enroll. Subscription sheets will be sent to the various grades, giving the children an opportunity to sign up for the summer reading program, which will begin June 15.

Record books will be given each child upon registering at the library. A chart will be made, including the names of all the children who have registered. When a child has read a book and has recorded it properly in the individual record book, a star will be placed beside his name on the chart. The purpose of this plan is not to have children compete with his or her friends to see who can read the most books, but rather to see how many good books each individual can read, and most of all to help children to read systematically throughout the summer vacation.

A list of books for the various grades will be placed in the library as soon as possible. Children are encouraged to refer to these lists in selecting books.

Reading certificates will be presented to all children who participate in this Summer Reading Program. Children of rural schools as well as parochial and public schools are invited.

PAST NOBLE GRANDS MEET
Mrs. Lena Jones entertained the Past Noble Grands at a dessert luncheon on Wednesday evening of last week. Covers were laid for 16. Mrs. Kathleen Bernath was winner in the game which furnished amusement.

The National Defense chairman, Mrs. E. W. Eaton, reported having cooperated with the Legion in erecting the honor roll bearing 77 names, which is now on display on the south side of the Freeman building. More names will be added as men are called.

The cooperation of citizens of the community is asked in reporting names of men entering the service.

READ-BALMER WEDDING
Victor Balmer of Detroit, son of Mr. and Mrs. Austin Balmer of Lyndon township, and Miss Hazel Read, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. William Read of South Lyon, were quietly united in marriage at the home of the bride's parents on Friday evening, May 20, at eight o'clock. The bridal couple were attended by Donald and Ruth Read, brother and sister of the bride.

A wedding reception followed the ceremony after which the newlyweds left on a short motor trip over the Memorial week-end. They are living at 9601 Sorrento, Detroit, where Mr. Balmer is employed at the River Rouge plant of the Ford Motor Company.

Among those from this vicinity attended the wedding were Mrs. Austin Balmer and son Harold of Lyndon, Miss Melissa Balmer and John Smith of Ann Arbor and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Haarer of Manchester.

GRIEB-WALKER WEDDING

Wedding vows uniting Miss Edna E. Grieb, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Grieb of Lima township and William F. Walker, also of Lima, were exchanged at the home of the bride's parents on Saturday afternoon, May 30.

Lohengrin's bridal chorus was played by Miss Rosemary Wallace as the bride party took their places before an arrangement of gladioli, peonies and other garden flowers. The double ring service was read at 4:30 by Rev. M. W. Brueckner.

The bride wore a street length dress of beige crepe and carried an arm bouquet of Biarcliff roses and white daisies, while her sister, Emma, who attended as bridesmaid, was gowned in light blue crepe and her flowers were Talliesman roses and yellow daisies. Carl Hertler of Saline performed the duties of best man.

Following the ceremony a wedding supper was served to 30 guests. The couple left on a motor trip through the south. They will make their home with the bride's parents on Fletcher road, Lima township.

PACKER-SCHILLER WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Schiller of Lima township announce the marriage of their daughter Marian to Ross Packer of Detroit, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Packer of Pinckney. The service was read at seven o'clock Tuesday evening, June 2 by Rev. M. W. Brueckner at the Zion Lutheran parsonage, Rogers Corners.

Miss Georgia Packer, sister of the groom, was matron of honor, and Arthur Schiller, brother of the bride, was best man.

Later in the evening the couple left for several days' visit with relatives in Toledo, Bay City and Pontiac. The groom is leaving for Army duty on June 8.

Sessions were held both afternoon and evening, with a banquet at 6:30. Mrs. Noll is vice-president of the association, while Mrs. Gracey, Mrs. Ashfal, Mrs. Hall and Mrs. Steinbach took part in a ceremony honoring the Worthy Grand Matron, Mrs. Margaret Jones of Otego.

ROGERS TO BE AT SCOUT CAMP

James S. Rogers of Gainsville, Florida, Eagle Scout and graduate of the U. of M. and entering medical student, will be in charge of the Camp Newkirk waterfront this summer, it was announced last week. Rogers first came to Newkirk as a camper in the summer of 1935 and returned as a staff member, assisting on the waterfront during 1936 and '37. Heading the waterfront this year will thus be something of a homecoming to Mr. Rogers. He is already living at the camp, getting everything ready for the camp opening on June 7. Many Chelsea Scouts and parents will remember Mr. Rogers and be glad of his return to Scout camp.

MRS. IDA A. WOOD

Mrs. Ida A. Wood, 71 years old, died at her home in Omaha, Neb. on Saturday, May 30. The body was brought to Saline where the funeral services were held at the Federated church at 2 o'clock on Wednesday afternoon. Burial was in Oakwood mausoleum. Mrs. Wood was well known in Chelsea.

KIWANIS NEWS

The Kiwanians held another interesting meeting at St. Paul's hall on Monday evening of this week. The ladies of the church prepared and served a delicious dinner to the Kiwanians and their guests. The Chelsea High School Swing Band played several dance numbers and classical selections for the group in their usual fine manner. The Kiwanis quartet, composed of A. D. Mayer, Fred D. Mumby, Howard Baker and M. W. McClure, entertained the gathering by singing several numbers. The Swing Band, under the able leadership of Ralph Dingle, concluded the program by playing a few patriotic numbers for the group.

George Doe announced that the Kiwanians had purchased over $90.00 worth of War Savings Stamps at the regular club meetings during the month of May. Dr. Faye Palmer, chairman of the House Committee, announced that the club would meet at St. Mary's hall next Monday night, where the ladies of the Red Cross canteen unit would serve them a fine dinner.

Miss Jane C. Tuttle of Columbus, Ohio and Miss Marjory Delavan of Lansing were guests of Mrs. J. N. Dancer on Saturday.

USO TO RAISE FUNDS

The USO is organizing groups throughout the nation for the purpose of raising funds to be used for recreational purposes among men in military service. The local chairman, L. T. Freeman, is waiting for credentials from headquarters while Mrs. A. L. Steger and Mrs. Vincent Burg as co-directors are enlisting the service of volunteers for the local drive.

P. A. Schable was appointed treasurer and will give a report on all funds collected. The unit members will give you an opportunity to help in this project by calling upon you in the near future. The drive will terminate July 1.

SHE LOVED A SPY

by SYLVIA TAYLOR
© DELL W.N.U. RELEASE

THE STORY SO FAR: Joe Leland, secretary, in love with handsome Karl Miller, night club owner, is horrified and disillusioned, when he shoots his business partner, Eric Strom, and threatens to implicate her unless she continues her work and remains silent. He confesses he has a wife in Germany and is part of a Nazi spy ring. Paul Sherman, his manager, reveals to Joan that he really is Paul O'Malley, an FBI agent, trying to trap the spy-rings. Joan's sister, Sybil, is missing, and Paul believes Karl is holding her as a hostage. Paul Hines, a new singer for Karl, is really Paul's young runaway sister, Patricia, and she innocently betrays Paul's identity to Karl, who captures Paul and Joan as they discover incriminating evidence. He spirits them away on a boat and they find they are in love. A submarine appears to pick up bomber planes stolen by Karl. Thomas, a pilot, is known to ever since I obtained those papers on the ship. "And you didn't tell me?" "No. I didn't want to frighten you."

CHAPTER XVII

"And you? Don't you want to go home?" Mulford asked Joan.

"Yes and no. I want to leave—but not without Paul."

"Ah," Mulford said. "I see. But I will be glad to take all of you. I have my own plane, my own pilot, and I am returning to San Francisco tomorrow. Why not talk it over with him? Surely he can have no objection to your leaving since it will be absolutely safe."

Joan wavered. "I couldn't go without him. But maybe he would be willing to go with us. He could get aid in the states and return to Mexico and continue the search. I'm not much help to him now, and neither is Thomas. What I really came down here to tell you, Mr. Mulford, was that what Thomas told you is the truth. He should have his chance to get out."

"I understand, and I'll take him of course. But, Joan, I think you should go too. I'm really shocked at this situation. After all, you were in my shop for almost two years. Naturally your welfare concerns me."

She smiled. "That's nice of you, Mr. Mulford. By the way, what are you doing in Mexico?"

"Since the war ruined my business and I closed the shop, I've been having a vacation. I needed one after all those years. I worked hard, and it's good to be away."

Joan rose. "Can I let you know early in the morning about leaving? I'll have to talk it over with Mr. O'Malley."

"Of course. I do not plan to leave before noon, so take your time."

"You're not staying at the hotel?" "No. With a friend of mine, Dr. Gomez. I'll give you his number, or better yet, I'll phone you here. About ten o'clock, say?"

"That will be fine. And thank you very much for everything."

What a lucky break, Joan thought. It all worked out so perfectly. If Mr. Mulford had his own plane, how could Karl possibly check on them? She roused the desk clerk and had him ring Paul's room.

"Please come down, Paul," she begged. "I must talk with you."

Thomas came in from the veranda. "What do you think?" he asked. "It sounds fine," Joan agreed. "That man is my former employer. I've known him for years. He's here on a vacation."

"Then you'll go, too?" "It certainly seems like a good chance, but I'll have to talk to Paul. In any case, Thomas, Mr. Mulford has promised to take you."

"Thanks, Miss Leland." The gratitude in his eyes was unmistakable. Paul came down almost immediately. "What's going on?" he demanded.

"The most wonderful thing has happened! Arthur Mulford is here! I used to work for him before I got my job with Karl. He was the man who was trying to locate me through the bartender, also the one I saw on the street today."

They went out to the patio, which was covered by a patchwork of shadows and moonlight. Thomas had gone upstairs and Joan and Paul sat down at one of the rustic tables. "So Arthur Mulford has offered to take you home?"

"Yes! How did you know?" "Very simple deduction, darling," Paul laughed. "I read it in your eyes. . . . I suppose Thomas is at the bottom of all this."

"Yes," Joan admitted. "His keen eyes searched her face. 'You want to go?'"

"Not without you. But, Paul, if we all went, it might be better. We could get help and come back."

A bird twittered sleepily, and the fragrance of a million flowers flooded the moonlight night. Paul smiled. "Okay! I'll go with you."

It did not occur to Joan that victory had been too easy.

The following day at noon they left Mazatlan in Mulford's plane. It was Joan's first experience at flying. Once or twice she tried to look out but it made her so dizzy she turned to Paul, saying, "I guess I can't take it."

Paul smiled placidly, much too placidly, Joan decided, eyeing him speculatively. This was the first time she had known Paul to give in so easily on any issue. But perhaps love had changed him. She said impulsively, "I know you're doing this for my sake, Paul, and I appreciate it, really I do."

He smiled at her earnestness and said quietly, "You may as well know now."

Joan's peace of mind was shattered. "Now what?"

Paul leaned closer. "I told you I wanted to track down the rest of Karl's men to find out who was at the head of this. Remember?"

"Yes, of course, but . . ."

"That," Paul said, "is exactly what I am doing."

"I don't understand, Paul. What are you talking about?"

"You thought I agreed to come with Mulford because you wanted me to, but there is really another reason."

Her face was white. "What are you trying to tell me?"

"I came because we are at last on the trail, we're being taken straight to the heart of the spy ring."

"You mean that Mr. Mulford . . ."

She could not go on.

"Mulford," Paul said calmly, "is the head of this whole business. I've known it ever since I obtained those papers on the ship."

"And you didn't tell me?" "No. I didn't want to frighten you."

She leaned weakly back in her seat. "And I thought we were safe! But where are we going, Paul? Do you have any idea?"

"I have a very good idea, and if I'm wrong it's going to be tough on all of us."

"Poor Thomas!" Joan said, looking over her shoulder. "This will be a terrible shock for him. Mr. Mulford, the head of the spy ring! I can't believe it!"

"It's true! He's been working with Karl all the time. His importing shop was only a blind, just as Karl's Club Elita is. All the time you worked for Mulford you were really involved. Mulford fired you and refused to give you a reference—so you would be forced to take any job that came along. The want ad was put in that paper especially for you. Mulford had decided you would be loyal and really transferred you to Karl's employ. If you hadn't fallen in love with Karl, you might still not have known what was going on."

Shocked at the revelation his words brought, Joan sat silently listening to the roar of the plane as it winged its way to their unknown destination.

At last the true picture was unfolded to Joan. Paul had made their situation clear as Mulford's plane roared on. It seemed incredible that she could have been so blind. For almost two years she had worked for Arthur Mulford, regarding him as a kindly but rather tiresome employer. She had had no suspicions that his importer's shop was a blind, or that the letters she typed day after day were code messages concerning the subversive activities of a spy ring. She had wondered at her sudden dismissal but even then she had not connected it with the want ad she answered for Karl Miller's secretary. How completely she had fallen into their trap! And as Paul had said, if she had not fallen in love with Karl she probably would not know the truth even now.

What a fool Paul must have thought her, watching her through those weeks when she had happily boasted that Karl was going to marry her. How carelessly she had treated Paul's words of warning, and Sybil's. Sybil! Her sister's name struck fear into her heart. Paul had told her that when they arrived at the end of their journey he hoped to find Sybil. If they would only find her alive! And what about Patricia?

It was night when the plane landed, and forewarned by Paul, Joan was not surprised to see Arthur Mulford confronting them with a gun and saying, "All right now, keep your hands up."

Silently they filed out of the plane and at Mulford's command entered a waiting automobile, followed by the bewildered Thomas.

"What's it all about, Mr. O'Malley?" he begged. "Where are we?"

"Another of Karl's tricks," Paul explained in an undertone. "I think we're somewhere in New Mexico or possibly Arizona."

The moonlight showed them little as they drove along the rough country road. Barren waste land stretched on all sides.

"You mean this guy is one of Karl's men?" Thomas whispered.

"Just Karl's boss," Paul said wryly.

Thomas, for once, was stunned into silence.

In a short time they arrived at a ranch house. It was the first dwelling of any kind they had seen since landing. Behind the large house was a smaller one and into this Paul, Joan and Thomas were led. The house was modern though crudely finished. There was a fireplace and electric lighting. Several rooms led into the living room but none of the three was inclined to venture from the fire.

"Well," Thomas said, "I guess this is all my fault. I thought Mulford was on the level. I didn't know he was connected with Karl. Honestly."

"We know that, Thomas. It's all right. It had to be this way. I've suspected for some time that Mulford was the chief of this outfit."

Joan sat down in an old wicker rocker and drew it closer to the blaze. "And now what do we do?"

"This ranch is a clearing house. Stolen plans that are not taken from San Francisco by boat are flown here and from here to Mexico where they are picked up off the coast by fishing boats."

Thomas rubbed his hands together nervously. "But why did they want us to come here? Why would they have bothered?"

"That," Paul admitted, "remains to be seen."

"They must think they have some use for us," Joan argued, "or they wouldn't have gone to so much trouble."

The wind whistled outside. The silence of the night held the peculiar loneliness that belongs to the desert.

Joan was so deep in her own thoughts that the sound of footsteps startled her and she leaped from her place by the fire.

The door opened to admit Karl Miller. His arm was in a sling. "You didn't quite finish me," he said smoothly. "Your aim is really very bad."

"What a pity," Paul murmured. Karl turned his cold blue eyes upon him. "You have caused us a great deal of trouble, Mr. O'Malley. I believe the time has come now for you to be of use to us."

NEW WARTIME SCHEDULES

The transportation needs of America-at-war have made it necessary to change Greyhound schedules. This new service has been arranged in full cooperation with the wartime program of the Office of Defense Transportation.

Today the important thing is to make every bus work full time—keeping vital traffic on the move. To achieve this purpose, Greyhound is introducing many changes—diverting buses to more essential routes—reducing driving speeds—eliminating Expresses and Limiteds and many "second sections"—unifying service with other bus companies in some cases—conserving tires and vital materials in every way.

Be sure to ask about the new schedules before you take a trip. We hope you will not be inconvenienced, crowded or delayed. But if you are, please be lenient—the war effort comes first with Greyhound as it does with you.

TWILIGHT LEAGUE

By Rolly Spaulding

Schedule

Monday, June 8—Cassidy Lake vs. Federal Screw.
Tuesday, June 9—Chelsea Spring vs. Spaulding Chevrolet.
Thursday, June 11—Central Fibre vs. Kimunity.
Last Thursday night saw the outstanding game we have had so far played, between Cassidy Lake and Kimunity. This game was really close all the way through. There was no wholesale scoring like that which has taken place in most of our past games and each team really had to earn their runs. It looked for a while as if Kimunity had the edge but a Cassidy Lake player stole home to score and the game went into overtime play which lasted until Cassidy Lake drove in the winning run in the 9th to defeat Kimunity by one run, with a score of 5 to 4.

Monday night, Central Fibre slipped down another notch when Chelsea Spring defeated them 9 to 4 in a hard fought game. It seems that the boys from the Spring plant are stepping up considerably.

On the next night Federal Screw took the field against Kimunity to discover that Kimunity was loaded for bear. All the "factory throw-outs" were in their positions and there are rumors that Walt LaSavage took two hours off to play with Kimunity. Anyhow the boys representing Federal Screw took a slight shellacking but they took it and gave back the best they could, which seems to really be picking up since the first of the season. Incidentally, Harv Lixey, one of the famous "factory throw-outs", got his first and only hit of the season (a single). Umpire White stopped the game, three cheers were given for Harv and the game continued.

Things are running along fairly even as far as league standings are concerned and with the completion of next week's schedule one-third of the season will be over. The championship race has still hardly started.
We'd like to have two more fans in the stand next week. How about it?

PRESENTS BOOK TO LIBRARY

Dr. Louis Doll of A. A. has presented the library with an autographed copy of his latest book, "The History of St. Thomas Parish, Ann Arbor." Dr. Doll is assistant in the Graduate Reading Room of History and Political Science of the General Library of the University of Michigan.
Dr. Doll visited the Chelsea Library and was greatly impressed with the fine library facilities now in Chelsea. The library board appreciates Dr. Doll's interest and acknowledges with sincere thanks his contribution.

MISS UNA STIEGELMAIER

Miss Una Stiegelmaier, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Stiegelmaier, former well known Chelsea residents, died on Friday, May 29, at the home of her sister, Mrs. R. H. Van Orden in Jackson. Miss Stiegelmaier was born here and was a graduate of the Chelsea high school. Funeral services were held at the Wetherby funeral home in Jackson on Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock and burial was in Woodlawn. Her sister is the only survivor.

GRADUATE FROM U. OF M.

Two Chelsea young people received their degrees at the graduation services marking the 98th annual commencement of the U. of M., held on Saturday, May 30, 1942. Miss Eileen Adam received the degree of Bachelor of Arts in Speech and plans to enter radio work. Charles Erickson received the degree of Bachelor of Science in Chemistry and plans to continue his studies.

MRS. MELISSA GIFFORD

Mrs. Melissa Gifford, widow of the late W. W. Gifford, died at her home in Royal Oak on Thursday, May 28. She is survived by one son, Lloyd. Funeral services were held at 11 a. m. Tuesday morning at the Sparks funeral home in Royal Oak and burial was in Leslie. Mr. and Mrs. Gifford and son were Chelsea residents while Mr. Gifford was superintendent of the public schools.

CHAPTER MEETS

The Martha Mary chapter held their May meeting at the home of Miss Jane Walker on Thursday afternoon. About 20 members and guests were present. The devotional service was in charge of Miss Bertha Spaulding. H. C. Schneider gave a talk on the business management of the church. Refreshments were served. The assisting hostesses were Mrs. George Gondell and Mrs. Ross Munro.

REV. BARBER'S MOTHER DIES

Mrs. Hattie P. Barber of Detroit, mother of Rev. R. W. Barber of this place, died on Thursday, May 28. She is survived by nine sons, two daughters, four sisters, 36 grandchildren and 17 great-grandchildren. Funeral services were held on Tuesday afternoon at the R. G. and G. R. Harris funeral home, Detroit. Rev. and Mrs. Barber and family attended the services.

ENTERTAINS TEACHERS

Miss Dorothy Beach entertained the teachers of the Bloomfield school, Jackson, at a buffet supper on Sunday evening at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leigh Beach of Lima.

Waterloo

Mrs. Hazel Thompson returned home on Sunday after a week spent with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Hitchcock, during his illness. Miss Isabelle Hitchcock spent the week-end here.

Richard Vicary and Newell Woolley spent last Wednesday in Detroit. Memorial services were well attended on Sunday afternoon and a fine program was given. Children and all braved the heavy rain and with the loud speaker from Jackson, all could hear services at the church and cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. Victor Winter spent Sunday with her parents. In the evening, all attended Baccalaureate in Stockbridge.

Mrs. Kate Walz and daughter Alice of Jackson and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Stanfield and children were Sunday callers at the Arthur Walz home.

Rev. and Mrs. Guilford Casselman of Grand Rapids and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Casselman of Lansing were Sunday guests at the Rev. Schade home.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Vicary spent Tuesday with her mother at New Baltimore.

HONORED FOR COLLEGE WORK

A Kellogg Foundation scholarship for Michigan State College student teachers in home economics has been awarded to Vivian Kalmbach, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Max Kalmbach of Lyndon township. Miss Kalmbach, who did her student teaching in Wayland, also received the Anna H. Bayba Award from the college home economics department. This award is given to the girl who, at the end of her junior year, has the highest record in clothing courses and at the same time has earned part of her way through college. In recognition of her work in this field, Miss Kalmbach has been asked to join the State College chapter of Phi Kappa Phi—honorary scholastic organization.

STORMS ARE PLENTIFUL

Chelsea residents had a good opportunity to catch up on their sleep on Tuesday night after four nights of storms. The storm began on Friday evening with a hard wind and sand storm around 9:30 o'clock. Chelsea was fortunate that the damage was confined mostly to large timbers broken from shade trees, as several miles north of here buildings were blown down and several people killed. Saturday, Sunday and Monday nights there were hard electrical storms.

HONORED ON BIRTHDAY

Miss Lillie Wackenhut entertained a group of relatives on Monday to honor the birthday of her cousin, Mrs. Elba Gage. Games furnished amusement and refreshments were served. Mrs. Gage was presented with gifts.

PAST CHIEFS MEET

The Past Chiefs club held their May meeting at the home of Mrs. A. E. Johnson on Tuesday evening. A desert luncheon was served at 7:30. Cards furnished the diversion of the evening.

BEAUTY AID

FOR OLD ROOMS

Nothing cheers up a dull room like a fresh new color scheme. We have a new 32 page book, "Color Keys to Decoration," which is yours for the asking. Let this book guide you in solving your interior decorating problems. It was prepared by one of the country's leading interior decorators whose work you have admired in your favorite home magazines. This decorator outlines the newest, and most exciting decorating ideas in exact detail, illustrated with color charts and colored pictures of actual rooms.

Scores of fresh new ideas to make your home sparkle with life and color. Also the news about a new kind of paint—TEXOLITE—that dries in an hour—has no objectionable paint odor—is cleanable and very economical.
