Youths 18 to 20 Will Register On June 30

Michigan Local Selective Service Boards are making preparations to register approximately 150,000 youths between the ages of 18 and 20 on Tuesday, June 30, in accordance with the President's proclamation calling for the Fifth Registration under the Selective Service Act, it has been announced by Col. E. M. Rosecrans, State Selective Service Director.

The President has announced that every male person will be subject to registration on June 30 "if such male citizen or other male person has attained the eighteenth or the nineteenth anniversary of the day of his birth on or before June 30, 1942, or the twentieth anniversary of the day of his birth after December 31, 1941, and on or before June 30, 1942." Persons previously registered will not again be subject to registration.

In addition to the official registration on Tuesday between the hours of 7 a. m. and 9 p. m., Local Boards have been authorized to accept registrations at their Board offices on the Saturday, Sunday and Monday previous.

Registration for men in this area will be held at Sylvan town hall on Tuesday, June 30 only. "Anyone wishing to register prior to that date may do so at the Local Board headquarters in Ann Arbor."

to Registration Day. In view of the relatively small registration it is likely that many Local Boards will establish only one central place of registration on June 30. Each Local Board has been authorized to determine how many places of registration will be necessary to accomplish effective and complete registration in their Local Board areas.

The Fifth Registration this month will complete the tabulation of all persons between the ages of 18 and 65, as required by the Selective Service Act. Approximately 1,700,000 persons have already been registered in Michigan. More than 1,000,000 of these registrants are in the military group between the ages of 20 and 45. Registrants of the Fifth Registration will not be subject to military service until they reach the age of 20 or until such time as the present Selective Service Act is amended.

Men subject to registration on June 30 are urged by Selective Service Headquarters to register at the nearest registration place in their own Local Board area, if at all possible. Persons away from home on Registration Day, however, may register at the office of the nearest Local Board. Persons outside the United States on Registration Day will be subject to registration as soon as they return to the United States.

Scrap Rubber Drive Is Off To Good Start Here

Chelsea's effort in the national rubber salvage program got off to a good start this week, according to reports from local service stations.

Spaulding Chevrolet Sales & Service led in the amount collected up to Tuesday night, reporting that they had purchased 788 pounds of scrap rubber on Tuesday alone. Mack's service station and Wahl & Foor each reported receiving about 500 pounds.

Everyone is urged to gather up all the scrap rubber they can find about their homes and either take it to a service station or give it to some youngster who will be glad to take it to the service station where 1c per pound will be paid for the scrap.

Several tons of rubber should be collected in Chelsea if all will cooperate. The acute rubber shortage throughout the country will be aided greatly if the drive is a success.

Remember the drive closes July 1. Act today!

Wardens To Complete Survey Next Week

The house-to-house survey, being made by local air raid wardens under the supervision of Chief Air Raid Warden Carl J. Mayer, will be completed next week.

Name; address; phone number; number of people living in dwelling; age groups; number informed; between what hours of the day or night are most of the family home; is there someone home during the day; is there a man in the house; have you had instructions in fighting the fire bomb; have you prepared your attic; do you have sand, a shovel, a hose with adjustable nozzle; have you prepared a refuge room; do you know how to prepare for a blackout; do you have a cistern; do you have an extension ladder available; type of house.

Public Warned That War Will Be A Long One

Army Official Says Our Nation Faces A Serious Situation

By Gené Alleman

Lansing—The biggest problem today on the Michigan home front, according to a high-ranking army official in an "off the record" talk in Detroit last week, is a widespread over-optimism by the public that the war will be over in six months.

"Two out of five persons we interviewed recently are convinced that victory is in sight," he explained.

"Yet, the truth is this: In six months' time we have taken the worst beating in our nation's history. We're not ready yet to do any major fighting. Our war plants will not be in full production for many months to come.

"The public is being deluded if it expects anything but a long, long war with great sacrifices. We should face the facts: The situation is very serious."

Nor is this over-optimism restricted in Michigan, we might add.

A newspaperman who recently visited relatives in Ohio encountered the same attitude of mind: "Victory is in sight."

CBS Correspondent Cecil Brown reports: "Out here in Indiana, the war in the Pacific seems not 8,000 miles away but 80,000. Incredible as it may sound, they are betting 9 to 2 that the war will be over by Christmas, 1942."

Army recruits at Mid-West camps are saying, "The war will be over in six months" and quote Wall Street betting odds for authority.

A soldier in Times Square, New York City, is heard telling to his girl, "See you at Christmas time when the war will be over."

An intelligence officer at a New York dinner party confides to his friends the enemy can't hold out for six months—he has just come from Washington!

Wishful thinking of this kind has been encouraged, unfortunately, by circumstances under which war news is released by the government for publication.

It is also traceable, according to authorities at Washington, to planted stories by Axis agents who are under instruction to pave the way for a (Continued on page two)

Leo Maloney Confesses Assault and Robbery

William Tompkins of Ann Arbor, son of Richard Tompkins of Chelsea, was the victim of an assault and robbery early Monday morning on the Cavanaugh Lake road about a mile west of the village. Badly injured about the head and bleeding, he was found beside the road shortly before 9 o'clock Monday morning and was taken to St. Joseph's Mercy hospital, Ann Arbor, where his condition is reported as serious.

Tompkins told Deputy David Mohrlock that he was beaten and robbed of $100 by a companion and then thrown out of his own car. He later named Leo Maloney of Chelsea as his assailant, and Maloney was arrested by Deputy Sheriff Erwin Klager about one o'clock Tuesday afternoon in a barber shop in Ann Arbor.

When first questioned Maloney stated that Tompkins was injured when a shotgun which he was trying to sell him was accidentally discharged. Sheriff's officers doubted his story and upon further questioning late Tuesday night confessed the shooting and robbery. He stated that he and Tompkins left a nearby beer parlor about 2 o'clock Monday morning and drove to Maloney's home, where the latter obtained the shotgun. He was uncertain whether he shot Tompkins while they were in the car near his home or after they were on the Cavanaugh Lake road. Believing he had killed Tompkins he took his money and dragged him behind some bushes at the side of the road.

Maloney then took Tompkins' car and drove to Jackson, later driving to Gary, Ind. where he left the car in a parking lot. He then went to Detroit by train and came to Ann Arbor by bus, arriving about 8 o'clock Monday afternoon. He read in the papers that Tompkins was not dead and decided to see an attorney Tuesday and give himself up, but Deputy Sheriff Klager arrested him before he had an opportunity to see an attorney.

Charges placed against him will depend upon the outcome of Tompkins' injuries. Maloney was recently paroled from prison after serving more than a year for breaking and entering.

Rev. Fr. Dorr Honored At Farewell Reception

Parishioners and friends of Rev. Fr. Lawrence L. Dorr assembled at St. Mary's hall on Sunday afternoon for a farewell reception, preceding his departure for Wayne, where on Wednesday he assumed the pastorate of St. Mary's church.

Mumby representing the churches, John L. Fletcher of Chelsea State Bank, and John P. Keusch, attorney, expressed sorrow at the departure of Father Dorr and wished him success in his new field of endeavor. Music for the reception was furnished by St. Mary's orchestra.

At the close of the program, J. Louis Burg presented Fr. Dorr with a purse of money as a parting gift from the members of his parish, which he gratefully acknowledged. Fr. Dorr bade each guest farewell as they departed from the hall.

During the afternoon refreshments were served.

IN MICHIGAN

Donald Nelson, America's production chief, paid a flying visit to Michigan last week and saw for himself the flow of war goods from giant industrial plants.

He was pleased. So was Oliver Lyttelton, British Minister of Production, who accompanied him.

Looking back over the road we have traveled in the last six months, we may find proof of great accomplishments. Today, with our civilian economy reorganized, our warships and our soldiers poised for action in every quarter of the globe, our war industries reaching out toward the President's goal of tanks and planes and guns and ships, we can be forgiven pride in what we have done.

But our pride in past achievement must not tempt us to relax.

Continued far-reaching changes in the lives of every citizen on the Home Front—Michigan—continue during the next few months.

Food, clothing, transportation and housing are the four principal fields in which changes have been wrought and in which even greater changes may be expected.

Specialists in the Division of Civilian Supply have been working to determine the needs of the civilian population and to correlate these needs with the exigencies of a war economy.

The food picture can be comforting or disconcerting, depending on how we look at it. From the comforting side, it may be said categorically that there is no danger that this country will lack a sufficient supply of staples or that the American diet will lack its vital elements.

On the other hand, while we can be sure of a balanced, nourishing diet, it also is clear that some of our eating habits may have to be revised.

Sugar is being rationed. That cuts down our supply of sweets. Coffee, tea and bananas are not as freely available as they used to be because of the shipping situation. Other things which must be imported may be lacking from our customary menus.

Some of our fishing areas are being closed by the war, or are concentrating on Army, Navy and Lend-Lease requirements. The job of sending our allies food, such as pork, imposes an increasing demand on the supply.

Home Fronters can help in many ways. Don't hoard. Don't overbuy. Don't waste food. Eat fresh fruits and vegetables to diminish the requirements for tin cans. Try to get locally-grown vegetables to diminish requirements for food transportation. Eat substitutes for fish and pork.

This country has plenty of food. Changing food habits doesn't necessarily mean changing them for the worse.

It appears now that rationing of clothing can be avoided this year. There will be additional style modifications. The public will have to wear more cotton, less wool. Military demands for wool are very heavy. Cloth manufacturers will have to blend wool with other materials in order to conserve.

Garments likely will not be as glamorous as formerly.

Leather presents another problem. Demands of our armed forces for shoes increases heavily. There are no shoes in the stores, so there is nothing to get excited about now.

We are all going to be warmly and adequately clothed but "dressing as usual" no longer will be possible.

Transportation difficulties will have broad effect upon our daily lives. There'll be fewer bridge parties, unless the ladies have only short distance to go to the home of the hostess. There will be less social life in the evening, unless confined to the neighborhood. Mr. and Mrs. America will have to get acquainted with the neighbors' trade at close-by stores, attend neighborhood movies, accept a greatly curtailed variety of goods and dispense with the customary desire for a change in scenery.

Also, we should lay in our supplies of coal now in order to take some of the strain off our transportation facilities this fall.

All available housing space in critical defense areas will have to be utilized. Demands of the war program for steel is going to limit new construction to absolutely essential needs of war workers. Compulsory billeting of war workers has been resorted to in England; also unoccupied houses have been commandeered. These measures haven't become necessary in this country yet.

Local Defense Topics

Volunteers registered with the Civilian Defense Volunteer Office will soon receive identification insignia in the form of sleeve emblems officially authorized from Washington. Along with the members of the Civil Air Patrol and the various protective services, workers who have served 50 hours or more in other volunteer capacities will be entitled to wear the insignia. This consists of a cloth sleeve emblem bearing a red V flanked by a small "CD" in a white triangle on a field of blue.

Volunteers who have already completed their 50 hours may receive their sleeve markers as soon as they arrive locally, while those who have already done some work may apply the amount completed toward their quota. Attendance at training courses will count, when and if the training has been subsequently applied in actual volunteer work.

Local city, village and township Volunteer Office chairmen will receive letters from the County headquarters in the near future containing information on how to obtain insignia, and details on rules of eligibility.

Glenn L. Mills, of the speakers' bureau of the Washtenaw County Council of Defense, speaking last week to the Milan Rotary Club, described five months of progress on the organized home front, and explained consumer angles of price control.

Mr. Mills made the point that price control is a necessity in order to prevent inflation, and added that local merchants should be trusted in this matter, since controlling inflation is as much to their interest as to that of the consumer.

The speaker pointed out that price complaints should not be made until after July 1, at the request of the Federal government, since machinery for handling complaints will not be ready before that date.

A county-wide meeting of volunteer workers, gathered last week at the County Headquarters of the Volunteer Office in the Ann Arbor Armory, heard speakers describe the work of home front volunteers over the past five months. Mrs. Theophile Raphael, presiding, spoke of the work of the CDVO in the training and placing of thousands of volunteers. Dr. Otto Engleke of the County Health Department described the work of volunteers in giving invaluable assistance to the recent county-wide immunization program.

A third speaker was Serg. Robert Mayfield of the Ann Arbor police department, who commended the work of volunteers who assisted in making out cards in triplicate for the finger printing of air-raid wardens.

The meeting here in the nature of a celebration to evaluate five months work on the home front, was attended by citizens from all parts of the county. Mrs. Arthur W. Bromage concluded the discussion with a summary of the county-wide program.

The County Council of Defense will cooperate in the nation-wide campaign to urge householders to buy next winter's coal at once, in order to relieve congested transportation facilities. Mr. Harrison H. Caswell, chairman of the County Council of Defense, has appointed Geo. H. Gabler, 1503 Morton avenue, as chairman of the county "Buy Coal Now" campaign. Householders will be given suggestions to buy their coal at the present time even if they do not have additional storage space in their basement. The office of the Bituminous Coal Consumers Council has asked the Michigan Council of Defense to assist in promoting the "Buy Coal Now" campaign, according to Mr. Caswell to relieve the demands on the railroads next fall. This program is undertaken at the request of the State Defense Council.

War industry, coke ovens used in making steel, railroads and the power generating stations will need from 10 to 20 per cent more coal this year, an increase which will be felt after midsummer. There will not be enough locomotives, and cars, and coal ships, and barges to supply all the needs of the domestic market if buyers wait until the end of summer to order coal. Mr. Caswell states that the problem is not one of a shortage of coal but one of transportation. Coal, it is reported, accounts for one-fourth of the rail traffic of this country. The local campaign urging citizens to aid the national war effort by ordering their coal through their regular dealers, at once, will commence as soon as plans can be drawn up.

Lipstick containers, rouge boxes and miscellaneous brass bottle caps used up 2,300 tons of brass in 1941, or 2,350 tons of copper and 500 tons of zinc.

Be A Long OneArmy Official Says
Our Nation Faces
A Serious Situation

peace offensive. A warning of such an Axis move was sounded in May by Archibald MacLeish, director of the Office of Facts and Figures, Washington, D. C.

As it has been explained to us, here lies the reasoning for the peace offensive. Recent speeches by Hitler, Goering and Tojo have emphasized the idea of a hard struggle ahead. Yet stories of shortages of manpower, shortages of food, were permitted to get out, although such news could have been suppressed.

Field Marshal Goering, in a speech on May 23, 1942, made this astonishing admission: "I know that despair is easy when, after having planted in the fall season, you now find in spring that the greater part of the seed has not come up. We must plow and sow again, and in spite of all, we must harvest."

Goering closed with an admonition: "I should only like to beg a hardening to a greater extent of each individual at home that he will say to himself, 'We must hold out in this war irrespective of how long it may last.'"

For any weeks we have read in our favorite newspaper, and probably heard on radio broadcasts, a long series of favorable news events.

For the first time, United Nations air forces are strong enough to strike in four-figure plane raids over Cologne and the Ruhr district, seat of great munitions factories.

The Russian news has been generally favorable. The American raid on Tokyo was a spectacular exploit, popularized by the dramatically planned scene whereby President Roosevelt awarded the Congressional medal to General Jimmy Doolittle at the White House.

We had favorable news from the Coral Sea battle, while our losses were suppressed temporarily in order not to aid the enemy. Naval news from Midway and Dutch Harbor have been likewise optimistic, and our losses are being similarly withheld from the Axis but also from the American public.

This false one-sidedness of the war news parallels the grim reality that the Japanese, whom our radio commentator said on Dec. 7 we could defeat any "Wednesday afternoon", have conquered the Philippines, Dutch East Indies, Singapore, and Burma, and now stand at the gates of India and Australia—all of this being accomplished in six months' time!

Although Russia has maintained a reasonably effective offensive, she has not yet succeeded in seizing the major key bases on which Germany's defense depends.

And Germany, although engaged in heavy fighting on the Russian front and therefore pressed for manpower, nevertheless mustered enough strength to start her own "second front", the offensive under General Rommel in Libya.

While there are many signs of unrest in the occupied countries, no signs can be found that German troops in the occupied countries have lost control.

And in spite of the bombings and the superiority of the Allied air forces in the west, a second front by invasion is still a long way off. American troops in northern Ireland, while armed to the teeth with the best of armored equipment, number only few divisions compared with German strength in France as estimated by foreign correspondents.

A most difficult situation confronts us in the matter of ocean-going transport, with ships being sunk faster than we can build them.

As of June 2, according to published reports, the toll taken by Axis submarines in American waters since Pearl Harbor had mounted to 234 ships. Assemble these vessels together and you would have a sizeable fleet—a disastrous loss. And yet, like automobile accidents, the sinking of boats off the Atlantic coast have been so commonplace they seldom occupy page one position in the day's news.

According to all facts which can be assembled, we can reasonably anticipate that the war will continue for 18 to 24 months. Even if Germany collapses by 1943, a minimum of a year would be expected to transport troops and supplies to the Orient for a decisive showdown with the Japanese.

And, when the war is won and a long armistice is proclaimed, we can not expect that millions of American men must be maintained at fighting fronts on land and sea scattered over the globe to police conquered nations and to maintain world order?

An American army of 7,000,000 men is now in the making. Congress has just authorized another tremendous increase in our naval strength.

Instead of repeating whispered rumors about "victory in 1942", whether inspired by favorable news together with suppression of our military losses or by a "peace offensive" by Axis agents, the Michigan home front must maintain 24-hour production in its arms plants, must shun temptations to minimize sacrifices, and must continue its "all-out" spirit of determination to win—as Goering himself declared—"irrespective of how long it (the war) may last."

MILLIONS OF TONS of discarded and worn-out rubber articles are gathering dust in the garages, basements, and attics of American homes... articles useless to you, but all-important to the American war effort.

That rubber can be reclaimed—IF YOU'LL TURN IT IN TO THE GOVERNMENT. Here's a real opportunity for you to help speed the day of victory. And there's another side to it—the shadow of nation-wide gasoline rationing is upon us. Its necessity in the Midwest is based not on a shortage of gasoline, but on a need to save tires for possible future war use. If enough scrap rubber is provided by this drive, nation-wide rationing of gasoline may be avoided.

When you bring your scrap rubber to your Standard Oil Dealer, or to any other service station, the rubber will be weighed and you'll get your money at that time. No oil company will receive one penny profit. The difference between the amount we pay and the amount Uncle Sam pays us goes to the USO, Navy Relief, Army Relief and the American Red Cross.

DESTRUCTION... IN SMALL PACKAGES

INCENDIARY BOMBS are little things, far less noisy than the huge demolition bombs but just as destructive when they find their targets. One bombing plane can drop a thousand, each a package of white-hot fire.

Householders are learning how to fight the incendiary bombing of their homes, if it comes. For it hundreds of small fires started at once in a single community, it would take the alert fire department to put them out.

The secret of fighting a wide-spread fire is speed. Fire-fighters, volunteers, police and others must be summoned instantly. That cannot be done if the telephone system already is jammed with calls.

So during and right after an air raid, please do not telephone except for vital messages.

Chelsea High Seniors Purchase War Bonds

By Jeanne Meserve
The Chelsea High class of 1942, having approximately $160 balance on hand at the end of the year, voted to spend their money in buying War Bonds. These bonds are to be left with the school board and when the bonds mature or after the war, the money is to be used for an electric scoreboard in the gym. The Senior class was very happy to be able to invest their money in such a worthy cause.

During the past school year the Senior class has been writing to the boys in service and copies of their yearbook were sent to graduates of the Chelsea high school whose addresses were obtainable. This included those graduating since 1934.

This is the time to thank the Seniors who have taken part in the Chelsea High School National Defense Council and worked so cooperatively with it. Included in their defense projects have been letter writing to boys in service, attending meetings every Wednesday, sending out Annals to the boys in service, attending and helping with assembly programs.

Aside from the sixty-mile-an-hour Mosquito Torpedo Boats, the Sub Chasers are the speedsters of our Navy. Light and fast, they are the eyes of the Fleet on the water. They displace approximately 1,500 tons and cost about $2,400,000 each.

We need many of these powerful, fast little boats to cope with the treacherous submarine type of naval warfare fostered by our enemies. Everybody can help pay for more Sub Chasers by putting at least ten percent of his income into War Bonds. Buy Bonds or Stamps every pay day. Aviation Cadet Board Coming to Ann Arbor

Having just completed the most successful tour it has ever had, the Traveling Aviation Cadet Examining Board, headed by Lieutenant John H. Patterson, will again be in Ann Arbor on June 27, 28 and 29, at the U. S. Health Service, on its regular swing through lower Michigan.

Lieutenant Patterson commented, "American youth is to be commended for the way it is shouldering the load in our march to victory. The way to victory is UP," he continued, "and we must look to the heavens to attain it."

During the May tour of the Board more men enlisted and qualified by it than at any time it has been operating. People all over the state, realizing the all importance of air supremacy, are urging young men to qualify in that branch of service. Young men realizing the advantages of Aviation Cadet training are flocking in ever increasing numbers to the Board. They serve themselves and their country.

The Aviation Cadet is trained to become a commissioned officer in the Air Forces with pay up to $245.00 per month. Of course, while in training the Cadet receives $75.00 plus his food, clothing, equipment, shelter, and a $10,000 Life Insurance Policy.

The Aviation Cadet Examining Board can completely qualify and enlist men for flight duty, either for immediate service or under the deferred plan, but will also accept applications from those who wish Aviation Cadet Ground Training. For the latter type of service higher education is required. For flying all educational requirements have been waived with the exception of a mental test. This test is given but twice daily. The morning exam begins at 9:00 a. m. The afternoon exam at 12:30 p. m. Applicants must be prompt. They cannot be admitted to the exam after it has begun.

PROCLAMATION

By Governor Murray D. Van Wagoner

President Roosevelt has ordered an intensive two-week rubber salvage drive to begin June 15 to bring in from homes, offices, factories and farms all articles of rubber which have been or can be discarded.

All gasoline stations in Michigan are acting as collection centers, with the petroleum industry working in co-operation with the Salvage-for-Victory Committee of the Michigan Council of Defense.

One cent a pound will be paid for all scrap rubber, or if the rubber is donated, the proceeds will go entirely to the USO, the Army and Navy Relief Fund and the Red Cross.

The oil industry is donating its services without profit, and in some instances gasoline station operators lack scales to weigh the rubber brought to them. Persons with suitable scales will be making a patriotic gesture if they will loan them to such station operators for the two-week period.

The rubber shortage is America's most serious war problem. On the salvage drive depends the answer to the question of gasoline rationing, for tire conservation, and the degree to which rationing may be necessary.

All types of rubber are wanted, from rubber bands and pencil erasers to raincoats and sports shoes. Automobile battery boxes, however, contain too much metal and are not wanted. Wood, leather and metal should be removed from the articles before they are taken to the gasoline stations.

Aside from the gasoline rationing aspect, the rubber shortage already has caused serious handicaps to military machine. Building of tanks, treads, life rafts, gas masks, barrage balloons, and other military needs depend upon an adequate rubber supply.

I call upon all citizens, all youth groups, public officials, industrialists and labor leaders, and all civic organizations, to do all in their power during the next two weeks to make the national emergency-rubber collection program the complete success that its vital importance merits.

Given under my hand and the Great Seal of the State of Michigan, at the Fifteenth day of June, in the year of Our Lord, One Thousand Nine Hundred Forty-two, and of the Commonwealth, the One Hundred Sixth.

TWILIGHT LEAGUE

By Rolly Spaulding

Schedule
Thursday, June 18—Kimunity vs. Chelsea Spring.
Friday, June 19—Kimunity vs. Central Fibre.
Monday, June 22—Central Fibre vs. Federal Screw.
Tuesday, June 23—Spaulding Chevrolet vs. Kimunity.

Thursday, June 25—Cassidy Lake vs. Chelsea Spring.

Standings
Spaulding Chevrolet .5 1 334
Cassidy Lake .3 2 600
Kimunity .2 2 500
Central Fibre .2 3 400
Chelsea Spring .2 3 400
Federal Screw .1 4 200

Our league season has passed the one-third mark and the standings are showing a definite indication of how come who's what. The one mystery so far seems to lie in the fact that Central Fibre bought shirts identical to those the championship team for the past two years wore and then refuse to make a play for any ball that the opposing team knocks out of their infield. They may be wearing championship colors but a bit more practice seems in line (enough dirt slinging for one week).

During the past playing week one of our postponed games was cleaned up when Spaulding Chevrolet defeated Cassidy Lake last Wednesday night, but the following night the Kimunity-Chelsea Spring game was postponed and the number of postponed games remain the same.

Monday night Cassidy Lake proved a bit too much for Central Fibre and stepped into second place in the league, but there are still too many games remaining to be played for the present league standings to mean very much outside of showing which team has been getting the breaks or needs a little more practice.

Tuesday night Spaulding Chevrolet defeated Federal Screw in a game that neither side had much to brag about.

But hold everything—take a look at next week's schedule. Thursday night's game will be a tough one with the edge going to Kimunity, though it's mighty thin. Central Fibre has all their bad breaks for the season used up so they'll probably win next Monday and the Tuesday night game is in the bag. Which bag is the question. Let's see you out to some of these games!

The bride was attired in brown sheer crepe, with white accessories, and a corsage of white orchids. Her bridesmaid was Miss Jeanne Martin of Detroit, who wore a dress of green silk jersey. KIWANIS NEWS

The Kiwanis again enjoyed a delicious supper and a fine program at St. Mary's hall on Monday evening of this week. The Kiwanians secured Private First Class George Webb of the United States Army to be the principal speaker of the evening. Private Webb gave a very interesting talk on his duties as a parachutist in the army and he explained the functions of parachute troops in the present war. The members then asked the parachutist many questions regarding the nature of the parachute, the amount of equipment carried by a parachutist, and other pertinent matters dealing with this recent innovation in modern warfare. Private Webb concluded the program by urging the Kiwanians to aid the current USO drive as a means of aiding the morale of the armed forces during their leisure hours.

Fishing Season Opens On Thursday, June 25

Lansing—One week from today, on June 25, "fishing season" opens for the many thousands of Michigan anglers who think of fishing in terms of bass, bluegills and panfish, and whose homely equipment features worms, a cane pole and an anchored rowboat.

Cold and rainy weather that has kept pike and trout fishermen idle in many parts of the state in recent weeks after the phenomenally perfect days of the trout season opening also have kept many a lake fisherman anxious about the success of the late spring spawners. State fish-hatchery men observing brood stock on nests in rearing ponds noted some damage to the first bass fry produced, but the later spawning bluegills have so far been unaffected by the unusual season.

When fishing becomes permissible on all of Michigan's 6,454 inland lakes June 25, the season will be open on every Michigan game and food fish except two that have year around protection: the grayling and sturgeon. The inland lake rules are changed very little, but no creel this year may contain more than five "big game fish"—black bass, or northern pike or wal-eyed pike or all three combined. No more than 15 bluegills may be taken, nor more than 25 panfish, including bluegills.

Though Michigan's inland lakes are so well distributed about the state that travel restrictions may not seriously hamper many fishermen, conservation department officials will be watching the season opening closely to observe indications of decreases in fishing pressure and fishing license sales.

WALWORTH & STRIETER

THE STORY SO FAR: Joan Leland is horrified and disillusioned when her employer, Karl Miller, with whom she is in love, shoots his business partner and threatens to implicate her, unless she follows his directions. He confesses he has a wife in Germany and is a member of the Nazi spy ring. Sybil, Joan's sister, is missing. Paul, Joan's business manager, is really Paul O'Malley, FBI agent. Karl imprisons them on a boat from where they escape to Mexico and when Karl attempts to murder Paul, Joan shoots him. There they meet Arthur Mulford, a former employer of Joan's, who offers to fly them to safety. Joan and Paul discover they are in love with each other. Mulford is the real head of the espionage system and instead takes them to a desert hideout, where Karl, only wounded by Joan, appears and tries to get Paul to join them. The FBI agent, anticipating rescue, from previous plans, stalls for time, and Karl produces Sybil, as an added inducement. The rescuers secretly arrive and the climax is fast approaching. Now continue with the story.

CHAPTER XIX

The other men stayed at the gate. Joan saw that they had pistols and two machine guns. She and Sybil climbed into the car, followed by Paul and Thomas.

"Won't someone hear the car?" Sybil asked.

"It won't matter. The place is surrounded," Paul told her.

Joan was surprised to find that there were three planes instead of one. Paul put the girls and Thomas into one of them.

"Happy landing!" he called. "I'll be in San Francisco tomorrow night."

"You're not coming with us?" Joan cried in alarm.

"My job here isn't done yet," he reminded her. "Don't worry, honey," he added as tears filled her eyes. "We'll round up the whole bunch and it will be all over for good." He thrust some papers into her hand. "Give these to Scot Reynolds. He'll meet you at the airport and take care of everything. Good-by, darling!"

Joan choked back her tears but as Paul closed the door she fell weeping into Sybil's arms. "He'll be killed!"

"No he won't," her sister comforted. "You forget that this is Paul's business. He knows how to take care of himself."

The plane gathered speed and rose into the air.

"We're safe!" Thomas cried. "Do you know what that means to me? I'm safe from Karl Miller! I can live again. I'm free!"

There were tears in his sad, blue eyes. Joan forgot her own troubles and patted his hand. "Of course you are. And when we get back to the city we'll find a job for you."

The three of them were weak from fatigue and the reaction from tense anxiety when they reached San Francisco six hours later. At the airport they were met by Scot Reynolds. Joan gave him the papers.

"I have orders from Mr. O'Malley," he said pleasantly. "I'll take Thomas to a hotel and you girls are to go back to your apartment."

He had his own car and drove them to himself.

"Imagine still having our apartment!" Sybil said as they went into the familiar rooms. "Who paid the rent?"

Joan remembered Pat. "Paul's sister was living with me. She probably took care of it. I wonder where she is now." She ran into the bedroom but none of Pat's clothes were there. Paul had suspected Mrs. Murdock, but Scot Reynolds had said nothing about Pat. Surely, if she were in trouble, he would have known it.

Too tired to think or even speculate, the girls undressed and went to bed. The first rays of the cold winter sun were just creeping over the city.

It was four in the afternoon when Joan awoke. She sat up in bed and yawned luxuriously. How good it was to be home. To go into the little kitchen and prepare coffee. To see Sybil's blonde head on its usual place on the pillow. And tonight Paul would come!

It was a real thrill to discard the black wool dress she had worn ever since the night Karl surprised her and Paul in the beauty shop's secret room—to put on a soft gray crepe with matching turban—to take a taxi to the nearest beauty shop—to have her hair set in fresh shining waves—to have her fingernails shaped back into brightly polished ovals. She had a facial, too, delighting in the efficient massage that made her skin glow.

It was seven-thirty when she got back to the apartment.

"You look like a new woman," Sybil commented.

"I see you've been at it too," Joan replied with a smile, noticing that each of Sybil's blonde curls was in its proper place and that a fresh coat of rosy polish covered her long nails. "I hope you didn't go to the Ritz."

"It's closed," Sybil said. "I went by there. That proves that they must have caught up with Mrs. Murdock. By the way, Scot Reynolds was here. He's going to take us all out to dinner. Wants us to meet him downtown and afterward we'll go to the airport. Paul's plane is due at nine-thirty."

They smiled at each other affectionately and after a moment Sybil said, "Do you believe in love at first sight?"

"Why, Sybil? What are you talking about? You don't mean Thomas?"

"Of course not. It's Scot Reynolds, Paul's friend. Joan remembered his laughing blue eyes and crisp blond hair.

SHE LOVED A SPY

by SYLVIA TAYLOR

"Oh darling!" Joan cried, burying her head against the warmth of Paul's overcoat. "Are you all right?"

"You know, Joan, I don't think I'll look for another job." "But Sybil! What will you live on?" Joan asked in surprise. "I still have some money in the bank that I saved when I was working before, and Scot and I—well, we just seem to be in love," she finished, blushing.

"I think that's wonderful." "Of course, we've known each other only a week," Sybil continued uncertainly. "And we wouldn't want to be married right away. But I have enough money to last a couple of months, and if we both feel the same way then—"

"Her blue eyes were shining and the bitter look was gone from her face." "Thomas was happier too. Paul had found a job for him and though the salary was not large he could manage well enough and, most important of all, he was free from the tyranny of Karl Miller."

There was only one unsolved problem—the whereabouts of Paul's sister. Paul had refused to discuss Patricia with Joan, saying, "I don't want to talk about it, honey! When things are straightened out I'll tell you."

"I shouldn't have asked," she said, kissing him. "Did you get the tickets for the boat?"

"All set!" Paul said, but she fancied there was a worried note in his voice. She knew that he would not want to leave San Francisco with the problem of Pat unsettled, yet she dared not inquire further. Joan continued to think of it, however, and that night she decided to ask him, but when he arrived at the apartment she knew from his expression that he had brought good news.

"It's all settled!" he said. "Pat is at a hotel. I just took her there myself. She wants us to come down right away to see her."

"Of course! But where has she been, Paul?"

"In jail," Paul said briefly. "Just as I suspected, when we disappeared, Pat tried to go to the police, but Mrs. Murdock got hold of her first. She held her in her apartment and had her doing all kinds of things; sending messages in her own handwriting and delivering plans to other members of the spy ring. When the police finally raided the beauty shop, Pat was naturally involved. They've held both of them at headquarters awaiting my return. And so their wedding day dawned and without a flaw to mar their happiness."

It was a quiet ceremony at the small church Joan and Sybil had attended for years. Thomas was there with Pat. Sybil held tightly to Scot Reynolds' hand. Joan wore a pale green wool dress and coat with soft fur collar.

As they took their marriage vows, peace filled Joan's heart—the peace of a woman who is sure of her choice. Her eyes were wet with tears as she glanced at Paul's face. He was slipping the wedding ring on her finger. She heard his voice, strong, yet so full of tenderness. "With this ring—I thee wed."

The little party returned to Paul's hotel for an early supper. The ship was sailing at midnight. Joan's bags had been brought to the hotel, filled with lovely clothes for the trip. Everything was in readiness for their departure.

But as they sat happily in the dining room Paul was summoned to the telephone. "Long distance, Mr. O'Malley!"

"Hope it isn't bad news," Scot Reynolds said with a frown when Paul had gone.

Father's Day

Here's a Dad fortunate enough to be home when the family celebrates Father's day. Son, looking at his Pop's aviation insignia—is very much interested in those wings of freedom. Dad, admiring his son, seems to be saying to himself: "I might not be seeing you for a long time, little fellow, but all this fighting will be worthwhile so that you, too, can grow up in a sane, normal world."

Memory of Her Parent Inspired The 'Mother' of Father's Day

The "mother" of father's day, Mrs. John Bruce Dodd of Spokane, Wash., got the idea for a tribute to fathers during a Mother's day sermon. She suggested it to the pastor, who encouraged her. Later the Spokane ministerial association adopted the idea, and it immediately received wide publicity. When the International Father's Day association was formed, Mrs. Dodd became its president.

Inspired by the sacrifices of her own father, who reared six children, after his wife's death, on an eastern Washington farm, Mrs. Dodd was lured by the songs of the early 1900s. "Everybody Works But Father," "Father, Dear Father, Come Home With Me Now" and others which pictured fathers as selfish, cruel or disreputable. Father's Day was officially founded in 1910.

In an interview on the occasion of the 28th observance of the day, Mrs. Dodd said that she did not mind the commercial aspects which surround its celebration. Even the somewhat thoughtless "buy it for dad and let him pay the bill," she said, has done real good. "It has focused attention on observance of the day," she commented.

Many suggestions have been offered for Father's day activities. They include "father and son" golf tournaments and a special visiting day for fathers in the schools. But most significant is the feeling of everyone, including mother, that there should be at least one day in the year on which father is rewarded for his patience and generosity.

"Bad news?" But what could happen now? Joan cried, distressed.

Scot smiled. "When you're in our line of work you never know what is going to turn up."

When Paul returned, Joan knew that something had happened. His brown eyes were troubled as he said, "Honey, I'm terribly sorry this had to happen."

"Oh Paul! What is it?" Paul and Scot exchanged glances. "Orders from Washington. A special assignment. My vacation is cancelled."

The others looked at them in sympathetic silence. For a moment Joan thought she would cry, then seeing Paul's distress, she lifted her chin and smiled. "It doesn't matter, darling!"

He took her hand. "I don't have to be in Washington until Monday night. We'll fly. At least we'll have this week end."

She lifted happy, confident eyes to his. "We'll have the rest of our lives, darling!"

"The rest of our lives," Paul repeated, kissing her tenderly. [THE END]

PLYMOUTH—Mr. and Mrs. Blake W. Fisher entertained a group of relatives Sunday evening after baccalaureate in honor of their son, Bob, who is a member of the graduating class. Mail. Bob was a former Chelsea resident.

DEXTER—National holidays that bring out the displays of national flags expose one flag in Dexter that is different. That flag belongs to Jack McLeod and is often displayed in front of his drug store here. The flag has only 45 stars. Mr. McLeod purchased the flag a number of years ago in Pontiac at a close-out sale. The flag was wrapped up and he did not undo it until later, then found that it had only 45 stars. As the forty-sixth state was admitted to the union in 1907 the flag apparently was made before that time.—Leader.

MILAN—Announcement was made this week that Dr. H. C. Dunstone, assistant superintendent of the Ypsilanti State Hospital has been named as the temporary head of the Coldwater Home and Training School for Children. The appointment follows the sudden death of Dr. Harry Schneider a few days ago. Dr. Dunstone is not a candidate for the permanent position of superintendent of the Coldwater institution, preferring to remain in the Ypsilanti Hospital. The Hospital Commission expects to announce the permanent appointment within the next three or four weeks. Dr. and Mrs. Dunstone will retain their home at the Ypsilanti hospital.—Leader.

HOWELL—True to its traditions, the American Red Cross is working through the officers of the Livingston County Chapter to help the residents of Livingston county and this area of Michigan visited by the tornado on May 29. John S. Page, chairman of the board of directors of the Livingston County Chapter, American Red Cross, phoned a report of the damage caused by the storm to midwest headquarters in St. Louis, Mo. Headquarters sent its field representative, M. A. L. Gardner, to Howell at once. Mr. Gardner and Mr. Page made a survey of the damaged buildings over a portion of the county, and as a result of a brief survey in which 67 barns and buildings were found to be damaged or destroyed, Red Cross made the arrangements to secure the release of some two million feet of lumber and at least two carloads of nails to be used in rebuilding and repair work. Residents of the area can now secure through the lumber dealers of the area the materials needed to replace damaged property. It is said at least 100 barns suffered storm damage in Livingston county alone.—County Press.

LINER COLUMN

LOST—Comfort in work shoes is lost for good when they dry out hard and stiff after soaking. Wolverine Shell Horsehides don't do that. They're buckskin soft always—dry out soft—restful comfort never fails. Save you money, too, because they're so amazingly tough—wear so much longer. Test 'em out with a try-on at Quality Shoe Repair.

DON'T FORGET the Rubber Salvage Drive—Take your scrap rubber to a service station at once!

FOR SALE—Building, 20x30, 1-story, to be moved; also disc grain drill, riding cultivator, corn planter, mower, riding plow, farm wagon, fuel oil storage tank, row boat, small safe, double harness, corn sheller, set 2-in. micrometers, kitchen sink, quantity 2x10 white pine plank, 22 ft. long. John Sarossy, RFD 3, Grass Lake.
