Kresge Hall To Be Dedicated On Sunday

DR. LEROY I. LORD
Methodist Home Superintendent

New Methodist Home Unit and Repairs To Buildings Completed

Among the many evidences, in this community, of the vision and generosity of the late Frank P. Glazier, is the Chelsea Methodist Home. This Home was located here because of his gift of land and $10,000.00, and thirty-five years ago the seventeenth of last January the cornerstone was laid for the main building. Work must have moved faster in those days, for it was dedicated on October 31st of that year.

Now, as the thirty-fifth anniversary of that first celebration approaches, plans are being made for the dedication of the fourth building, known as Kresge Hall, on Sunday, September 20, at 4:00 o'clock. The formal dedication program will be in charge of Rev. Benjamin F. Holmes, president of the Board. The dedicatory services will be conducted by Bishop Raymond J. Wade of this area, who is also president of the Methodist Board of Hospitals and Homes. The address of the afternoon will be delivered by Dr. John G. Benson of Indianapolis, Ind., executive secretary of the Methodist Board of Hospitals and Homes. Greetings will also be brought by Howard Baldwin, representing the Kresge Foundation; William J. Norton, executive secretary of The Rackham Foundation; F. F. Fauri, supervisor of the State Bureau of Social Welfare, and others. Music will be furnished by the First Methodist church of Ann Arbor.

Of the members of the family, one in particular awaits this occasion with unusual interest. That is Mrs. Carrie Gowing from Hudson, Mich. She entered the Home on November 20, 1915 while the south wing was being built and was present when it was dedicated on December 13, 1915. She had one of the first rooms assigned in that building, which she occupied until recently. She watched with interest the construction and dedication of the north wing on May 13, 1926. Still active and alert, she has had but one ambition, and that to live to see this latest building and alterations completed. Having spent almost twenty-seven years in the Home she is one of the prize exhibits.

Kresge Hall is of reinforced concrete construction and is complete in every respect. The basement contains two stoker-fed boilers, either of which is capable of heating all the buildings; a kitchen storeroom with two large cold rooms. The first floor has a beautiful dining room with a seating capacity of 150 people and a (Continued on page three)

Shortage Of Scrap Iron Is Big Problem

Output Of Mills Will Be Curtailed Unless Scrap Is Turned In.

By Gene Alleman
Uncle Sam has scraped the bottom of the barrel for steel metal.

Unless plain Americans everywhere, in thousands of villages and towns and cities, and on thousands of farms everywhere, dig down into their own scrap barrel, American boys will go without vitally needed tanks and airplanes and other arms of war and our Allies may be deprived of weapons with which to fight our battles before we can open our Second Front.

That's a pretty long sentence, but it may be a longer one—a dictator would impose it—if we Americans fail to deliver. But it's the plain truth.

Four Michigan newspapermen were invited to attend a conference in Washington a few days ago. They came from Detroit, Ironwood, Grand Rapids and Lansing. I happened to be one of them.

Traveling to Washington these days is no picnic, we assure you.

We couldn't get sleeping accommodations out of Washington at all, although we made our reservations one week in advance. Finally, at the last minute while in Washington, we managed to get accommodations on another railroad. We arrived at the capital at 8:20 a. m. and left at 5:20 p. m.—just long enough to hear this unusual story.

Bahnmiller, R. Perkins, E. Beissel and D. Le Van are new at this sport but most of them are learning fast.

Chelsea faces a very tough and full schedule this year:

Standard Gets Citation From U. S. Treasury

Publication Lauded For Support Of War Savings Program

Henry Morgenthau, Jr., Secretary of the United States Treasury, has awarded a citation to The Chelsea Standard "for distinguished services rendered in behalf of the National War Savings Program."

The Treasury Department and the Michigan War Savings Committee keep in close touch with newspapers to determine the extent of co-operation with the War Savings Program and citations, which have been awarded to comparatively few publications to date, are based upon the amount of publicity and advertising carried in connection with the all-out war effort.

The Standard appreciates the splendid cooperation of advertisers who are supporting this part of the war program, thus helping to make it possible for the citation award, which is in reality a community honor rather than merely a recognition of this newspaper's efforts.

Appreciation to the community is expressed in a letter from Frank N. Isbey, chairman of the Michigan War Savings Committee, as follows:

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 14, 1942.
Mr. M. W. McClure, Publisher,
The Chelsea Standard,
Chelsea, Michigan.

My dear Mr. McClure:
It affords me great pleasure to present to you herewith the U. S. Treasury Department citation for the outstanding manner in which your publication has been supporting and furthering the War Savings Program.

Won't you be good enough to express to your readers that we feel that the community is doing a splendid job with its average sales of $1,000 a day, especially since the population is but 2,500. It is this type of support of the government that will make it possible for the nation to achieve ultimate victory.

Urge your readers to keep up their savings investment in War Bonds for the duration.

Thanking you again for the splendid cooperation that you are giving us through your publication, I am

Sincerely yours,
Frank N. Isbey, Chairman,
War Savings Committee,
State of Michigan.

Work Of Correcting Sewage System Started

Carlton Finkbeiner of the firm of Finkbeiner, Pettis & Strout, Toledo, who was construction engineer on the local sewage disposal system, was here Monday to advise and assist in correcting the defects in the system.

Village employees are making a thorough check-up of the sewage system and are finding that a large amount of sewage is emptying into the storm sewers that will have to be diverted to the sanitary system, and that a lot of surface water is going into the sanitary sewers that will have to be changed over to the storm sewers.

Village authorities point out that while they are locating the defective hookups, the expense of correcting the situation must be paid by property owners who do not have the proper connections.

LEAVES FOR ARMY SERVICE
Dr. A. A. Palmer, who served as Surgeon and Medical Officer in World War I, and since then as a Reserve Officer, left Saturday for Headquarters Sixth Service Command in Chicago.

Three Local Young Men Enter Military Service

Three young men from this vicinity were included in the list who reported at Ann Arbor on Monday morning for induction into army service. They were sent to Fort Custer. They are: Herman George Gage, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elma H. Gage, who was born October 20, 1919 in Sylvan township. He was married April 5, 1942 to Elma Desmond and they resided on Freer Road, Lima township. He had been employed as Gridley operator at Federal Screw Works.

Leo Tuttle, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Tuttle was born October 14, 1907 in Bay City, and graduated from St. Mary's high school, Chelsea, in 1927. He was an employee at the Federal Screw Works. He was inducted into the Quartermaster's Corps.

Carl Frederick Bristle was born August 1, 1910 in Lima township, the son of Mrs. Emanuel Bristle and the late Mr. Bristle. He had been employed in the planning room at the Federal Screw Works.

Members of the Young People's Society of Zion Lutheran church, Rogers Corner, gave a farewell party at the school house on Friday evening, in honor of Carl Bristle. Bunco and other games furnished amusement and lunch was served. Carl was presented with a service testament and prayer book.

Mrs. E. H. Gage gave a dinner on Thursday night for her son, H. G. Gage, and on Saturday evening, Carl and H. G. were guests at a neighborhood party at the home of the former's mother, Mrs. E. Bristle.

Scrap Iron

Production Board, reiterated the urgent need for more scrap iron. They were all "big shots."

Lieut. General Brehon Sommiervell, the commanding general for services of supply, and Vice Admiral S. M. Robinson, chief of bureau of procurement and material, both stressed the imperative importance of getting more metal to the steel mills in the next 60 days.

Elmer Davis, director of the Office of War Information, said the war could be won quicker if "a great part of the effort comes from the grass roots"—the people themselves—in getting every ounce of scrap out of their homes and their farms. And that means old shovels, rakes, washing machines, irons, machinery—anything that contains iron.

A hard-hitting industrialist, whose language consisted of short, blunt words and whose broad jaw reminded us of a bull dog almost "stole the show."

"We have at last struck the bottom of the barrel," said R. W. Wolcott, president of the Lukens Steel company and chairman of the American Industries Salvage committee. "The steel mills of the United States have only a two weeks' supply of scrap. The scrap is in the hands of the people. It is gold to the steel mills. Only a miracle can prevent reduced steel operations within the next few months."

Here was a realistic picture of America's plight. Two weeks! And our war effort is just getting under way.

America's tremendous problem in arming itself while it supplies lend-lease arms to Russia, Australia, England, China and others was outlined by Donald Nelson.

Here was a man whose soft pleading voice did not do justice to the vast economic powers which he wields. A dictator would have been ashamed to plead with newspaper editors as he did humbly and modestly at this conference in Washington.

"We're not doing a good job yet at winning the war," he said. "Our enemies have accumulated tremendous reserves—Japan in eleven years, Germany in eight or nine years. With our left hand we have to help arm our allies, and with our right hand we have to produce and equip for our own American army and navy, and at the same time maintain our own economy and sustain it all."

Here was a good epigram: "Instead of too little and too late, we are trying to do too much in too little time, and I think we will do it."

Why the shortage of scrap iron? Well, here is one answer, and it may surprise you. American industry and American labor are doing the job in fewer operations than even the engineers' foresaw.

Capacity production has not been reached. More scrap iron is needed. If the scrap can be found in homes and farms, and there are literally millions of tons of it available there today, American factories can produce MORE tanks, MORE airplanes, MORE cannons and other essential armament for our Yanks and Allies overseas and our army at home. That's the story, folks. Newspapers have been invited to tell it to you to see that this metal is turned over to Uncle Sam. Do your part.

Our Neighbors

DEXTER—Dexter's newest industry is getting under way this week and will be in full production by next week, according to Robert Warfel, one of the proprietors. The factory is located at 7300 Huron River Drive, about a half-mile east of Mast Road. It is the Electronic Products Manufacturing Corporation and is owned by Robert Warfel of Ann Arbor and J. R. Seaman of Chicago. Between 200 and 300 people will be employed in the light assembly work of small radio parts that will be carried on in the plant.—Leader.

Dr. Katharine B. Greene, director of the famous Sherwood School at Bloomfield Hills, is the outstanding speaker who will address the Young Mothers' Child Study Club and guests at 8 o'clock next Tuesday evening, September 22 at the home of Mrs. Russell McLaughlin, 321 South St.

Dr. Greene was born in Laramie, Wyoming, the daughter of Dr. Frank Pierpont Graves, president of the University of Wyoming. She attended John Dewey's and J. L. Meriam's schools for youngsters. Later she studied at Ohio State University. She received her A. B. degree from Vassar, her Bachelor of Science in Education degree from the University of Pennsylvania, and her Ph. D. degree from Columbia.

In 1914, Dr. Greene went abroad to study and was forced to remain in Europe during the first World War.

In 1926 she was married and both she and her husband were on the faculty at the University of Michigan for a number of years prior to her present appointment.

As Dr. Greene is the mother of five children, her educational background and outstanding accomplishments in the educational field should be an extremely rich source from which to draw the materials for her talk on "The Stability of the Family and the Home."

A Good Citizen
The Lexington (Mo.) Advertiser-News says a good citizen is a man who sweeps the snow off his front walk promptly.

The Army and Navy are doing their part to ease the Long Distance load...

ARE YOU?

Our Army and Navy have issued orders to their personnel to restrict the use of Long Distance telephone lines, making only such calls as are absolutely necessary.

Officers and men are doing their part. They know the necessity of keeping the lines and central office apparatus clear for vital military and war production calls.

Today, many lines are crowded with war calls. Adding enough new equipment to handle all the increased load is impossible because of material shortages. So it's up to all of us to make the most efficient use of what we have. Here are some of the ways you and all other civilians can help:

1. Make only the most essential Long Distance calls.
2. Keep all your conversations as brief as you can.
3. When possible, give the number of the distant telephone you are calling.

The same kind of cooperation will help improve local service, too. Your own telephone line may never carry a war message, but every call you make passes through a busy central office where it may tie up a war call. Try to keep your calls short. Help save wires for war!

Kresge Hall To Be Dedicated On Sunday

completely equipped kitchen. The second floor is the convalescent unit, with a huge sun-room, diet kitchen, examining room and single and double rooms for the sick. The third floor has a large sun-room and additional rooms for members of the family. All of this has been made possible by the gift of $120,000.00 from the Kresge Foundation.

While Kresge Hall was being built, the other three buildings have been completely remodelled and made fire-resistant. The old plaster and wood lath were removed and new metal lath and plaster put in its place. The old wooden open stairways were taken out and closed steel stairways installed. The Kresge Foundation had insisted that their aim was not so much to increase the capacity of the Home as to add to the comfort of the members of the family.

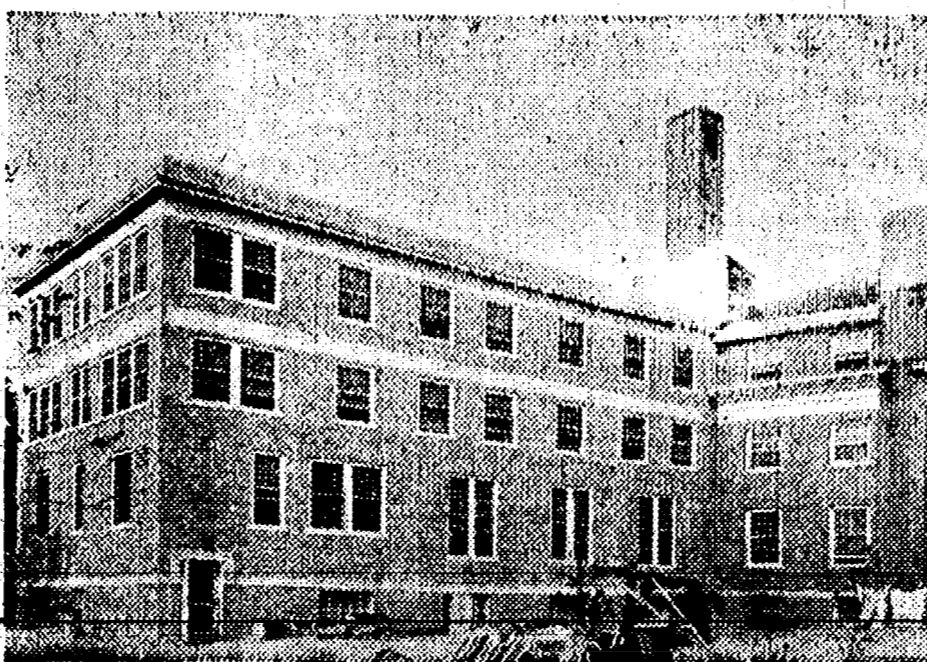

On the first floor of the main building a lounge with a capacity for 200 people has been provided; the library on the second floor has been enlarged; the porches on both the north and south wings have been made into sun-rooms for use both summer and winter.

The cost of these alterations and improvements, besides the new wing, was not paid by the Kresge Foundation, but was covered through funds raised last year by Dr. Harvey G. Pearce of Gregory, a member of the Board for many years, and the superintendent. The Board itself had also been accumulating funds through the years for this purpose, as well. In spite of increased building costs and the usual list of extras which goes with building, the work will be completed without any debt whatsoever.

In this building program the Board has not merely considered the interests of the family but the staff as well. In the north basement, attractive rooms have been built for the employees, with splendid toilet and bath facilities. A large recreation room has also been provided for their use.

In addition to the gifts for the building work, friends of the Home have also given generously for the furnishings of the Home. A grand piano has been presented for the lounge, while the mantle and fireplace equipment was given as a memorial to one of the missionaries of the Conference. New tables, chairs, china and silver have been given for the dining room and new furniture for the lounge. Most of the sun-rooms have been furnished by friends and the guest room by a Bible class from Westlawn Methodist church in Detroit.

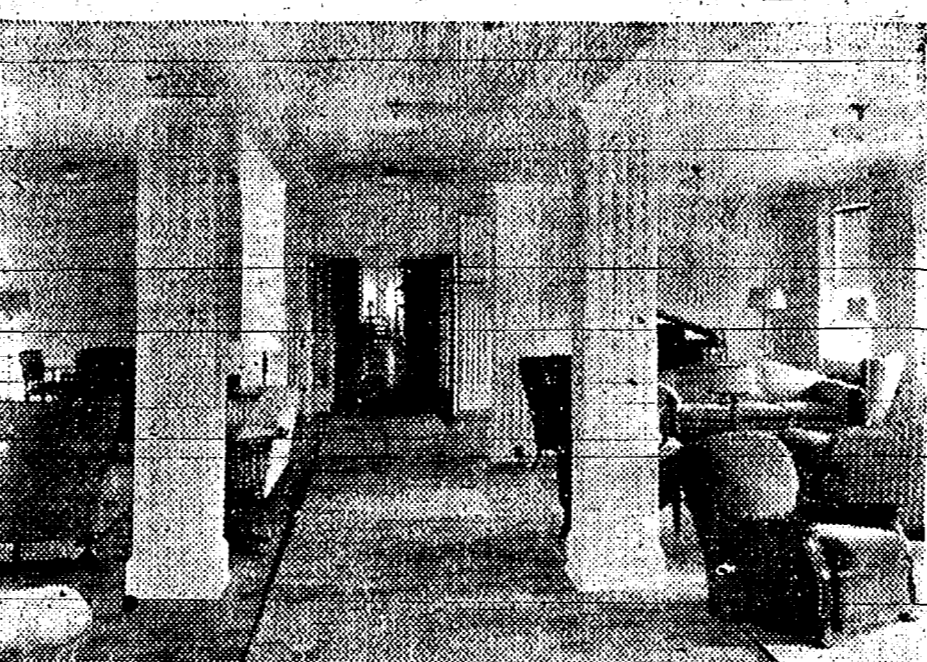

A cordial invitation is extended the people of Chelsea to attend these dedication ceremonies on Sunday and to inspect the Home if they have not already done so. These alterations and additions, involving the expenditure of a quarter of a million dollars, exclusive of furnishings, will make as complete, modern and safe a Home for the aged as may be found anywhere and it is worth seeing. Remember, this is an occasion for inspection and celebration, not for money-raising. THERE WILL BE NO SOLICITATION OF FUNDS OR COLLECTIONS TAKEN AT ANY OF THESE MEETINGS.

We're Busy Helping Uncle Sam

...-V...-

LAST YEAR, America's railroads moved 475 billion ton-miles of freight, history's greatest traffic job. (We'd like to tell you how many millions of soldiers and sailors we carried, but . . .)

This year the railroads may haul 50 million carloads of freight—10% to 15% more than in 1941.

We did the 1941 job pretty easily because freight shippers and receivers and the public cooperated. We can do this year's bigger job if we again get that cooperation.

This all-out war requires all-out transportation. Uncle Sam is depending on the railroads for that. We're handling 70% of his military freight. To let him down would be tragic.

So "the tall man in the high hat" comes first.

At any time now there may be one, even two or three fewer cars in your passenger train. You'll excuse it, won't you? Uncle Sam will be using them.

Or your freight may move out, or come to you, a little later than you had hoped. We're certain you'll overlook that, too. We'll be moving important things for Uncle Sam.

We know you would. And you'll be helping him, too.

Hunting Season Opens Saturday, September 26

Lansing—When duck hunters fire the first shots of Michigan's 1942 hunting season at sunrise Saturday, September 26, there will be plenty of conservation officers on hand at the popular spots to make sure there is proper understanding and observance of the 1942 regulations, the conservation department reports. Shooting grounds at Monroe, Lake St. Clair, Saginaw Bay and Houghton and Muskegon lakes are among the areas that will have reinforced law enforcement personnel.

More liberal than in recent years, the duck hunting regulations this season permit shooting from sunrise to sunset in a 70-day season. The once rigidly protected wood duck may now be shot, but only one may be taken in a day or had in possession. Not more than three redheads or buffheads may be taken, singly or in the aggregate, in the daily limit bag of 10. Repeating shotguns must be plugged to conform to the three-shell limit.

Waterfowl hunters need both the state license and the federal duck stamp.

Methodist Home Open House Held Tuesday

A large number of people from Chelsea and vicinity accepted the invitation to attend the open house at the Methodist Home on Tuesday evening. With Rev. L. I. Lord, superintendent of the Home, in charge, there was a short program at seven o'clock, with greetings and congratulations from Village President Alfred D. Mayer, Rev. P. H. Grabowski and Rev. Bert Ede.

Following the program the visitors inspected the new Kresge Hall and the improvements which have been made in the other group of buildings. Many were the expressions of surprise at the fine appointments throughout the Home, both in the older units and in the new addition. A pleasant feature of the evening was the outstanding hospitality of residents of the Home who seemed so delighted to have the visitors stop for an inspection of the individual rooms. Expressions of praise for the treatment they receive at the Home was heard from the elderly people who are enjoying their declining years in such pleasant surroundings.

Every resident of this community, regardless of religious affiliations, should be proud of the fact that such an institution is a part of the community, providing happiness for many who might otherwise find it difficult to live in such comfort and with the pleasant companionship which is a part of their everyday life.

Study Club Starts Season's Activities

The Chelsea Study club started its new year last Wednesday evening, September 9, at Cavanaugh Lake, with an indoor picnic and a business meeting held at the summer homes of Mrs. W. R. Daniels and Mrs. Paul G. Schaible, respectively.

Mrs. Philip J. Olin, the new president, began the meeting with a short talk, inspiring in nature, calling on the members to promote club projects which might in their small way help to win the war. The suggestions which came as an enthusiastic response, were most ambitious.

First, the members decided that the club should pledge itself to supply the USO with 250 cookies each month, to be sent to Fort Custer in response to the appeal sent out, which set the quota for this district at 500 cookies per month. This project will begin immediately.

One member suggested that there is a need locally for an emergency kit of surgical dressings and other supplies. All surgical dressings made in Chelsea at present are sent out of town. The club decided that it would sponsor the making of an emergency kit, and when completed it will be presented to the village for use in time of need.

The president appointed chairmen for the promotion among club members of Red Cross knitting, Red Cross sewing and fat salvage. They are: Mrs. William Geddes, Mrs. P. G. Schaible and Mrs. Paul Maroney.

Two new members, Mrs. C. J. Mayer and Mrs. A. C. Johnson, were welcomed into the club at this meeting.

Mrs. Otto Hinderer will entertain the club at their next meeting, which will be held on Tuesday evening, September 22, with Mrs. Geddes assisting as hostess. Miss Barbara Tinker will speak on "Textiles in China."

Temporary Telephone Service Is Available

The Michigan Bell Telephone Company has announced a plan to install new service on a temporary basis for civilians in certain areas where installations have been restricted sharply because of the war.

George M. Welch, president of the company, said that applicants for new installations in the restricted areas are being offered contracts which permit the company to withdraw service on a 48-hour notice, in the event the facilities are required for the direct war effort or for the "public health, welfare, or security." That will permit many applicants to obtain service on a temporary basis who otherwise might not be able to obtain it at all.

He suggested, however, that persons or firms planning to move consult first with the Telephone Company to ascertain whether service will be available at their new locations. Welch said the plan is designed to afford service to the greatest possible number of persons wanting it, at the same time complying with orders of the War Production Board that adequate facilities be reserved to meet increasing military, war-production, and essential public needs. The telephone system cannot be expanded sufficiently to care for all increase of service demand, he added, because the materials required, such as copper and aluminum, are more urgently needed for weapons of war.

"Rather than holding ourselves to arbitrary estimates of the extent of future essential demands, and denying service to civilians, we propose to make service available to as many as possible by offering temporary contracts to applicants," Welch explained.

"Whether it will become necessary to withdraw service on a 48-hour notice will depend upon factors associated with the service increase in a particular area, together with the growing needs of military organizations and war-production industries and for essential public purposes. Every effort will be made, however, to avoid such withdrawals. It may even become necessary to request individual line users to take party-line service so others who need telephones can have them or keep them."

Announcement of the new policy came as restrictions on new installations were extended to three more exchanges—Reese, Farmington, and Gailen. Other exchanges where the service restrictions have been necessary are Sault Ste. Marie, Livonia, Coloma, Zeeland, Watervliet, Big Rapids, Hillsdale, Ann Arbor, Mt. Clemens, Ishpeming, Republic, Kalamazoo-Lake office area, Pontiac-Mercer office area, Napoleon, Vicksburg, and a number of central office areas in Detroit.

WRITE THEM LETTERS!

When my brother joined the Army And went so far away, We said goodbye and prayed that he Would return to us some day.

We write to him quite often And send him pictures too, With cakes and books and magazines, These things we all must do. It helps these boys feel at home, When they are far away.

If they receive a card or letter When mail is passed each day, It's such a little thing to ask, To write them now and then. These little boys we sent to war Have changed to grown-up men, But still they're boys enough at heart To want to hear from mother.

So all you folks get busy and write To husband, son or brother, And when they all come home some day, They'll thank us every one For bringing joy into their lives While they set the Rising Sun.

—By Veryl Wright, in honor of my brother, Pvt. Alva W. Jones. Sent in by Pvt. Lawton T. Scripper, H. Q. Co. 816, T. D. Bn., Camp Cooke, Calif.

Michigan Retailers Display New Emblem

25,000 merchants in Michigan who are members of the Michigan Retailers War Savings Committee, of which J. B. Webber, Jr., assistant to the general manager of the J. L. Hudson Company, Detroit, is state chairman, are displaying a new window trim featuring their September theme, "America Must Win!" In addition, a colorful new official emblem, identifying stores which are members of the committee, will be permanently displayed by these stores throughout the war.

"About 450 merchants in Washtenaw county are cooperating in this job," stated Paul L. Proud, retail chairman for Washtenaw county. "This is a good percentage, but our goal is to have every merchant doing his share. When the Treasury Department asked the retailers of the nation to sell over a billion dollars worth of War Savings Stamps and Bonds during the present fiscal year, they made no exceptions, but included every store which sells any kind of merchandise or service at retail. This takes in everything from shoe shining parlors and barber shops to the largest department stores. If every merchant does his part, we can easily make the quota assigned to us. But if only half the merchants participate, then the other half must average just twice as much as they should have to."

I wish in this way to thank all of my friends and neighbors, the Royal Neighbors and Rebekahs for remembering me so kindly with fruit, flowers, cards and calls during my illness. To you all I am very grateful.

BOMBS BURST ONCE

By Granville Church

WNU Features

One thing, though, during all this intense effort, constantly made Curt wonder, rang a bell in the back of his mind.

There were minor matters under the Chief Engineer—farmhouses, wells and windmills, furniture manufacture, production of concrete items—culvert pipe, building blocks, reinforced girders and slabs to bridge farm ditches—all coming along at a fine pace.

But the really important jobs, the Rio Negro levee, the railroad branch lines to haul from present plantings to Tempupo three or four months from now when fruit should start to come in—these things had dragged! The drainage ditches, too, were far behind schedule.

Curt sometimes talked over his problems with Lee. This usually amounted to a monolog, but putting bothersome angles into words seemed to help. And here was something in which Lee had a vital interest.

It was Tuesday evening. The children had been put to bed, and Curt was lounging on the darkened veranda, propped up with cushions, Lee in the curve of his arm. His dangling left foot lazily pushed the couch-hammock back and forth. It was the half-hour after dinner that he was snatching for himself.

They'd held a silence for some time, lulled by the gentle rattling of young palms in the evening breeze, so like rain on a tin roof. The lightning, slither of a lizard darting up the screen to the wide overhanging eaves roused Curt. He sat straight and reached into a hip pocket for his tobacco pouch. When he spoke it was in a sober voice.

"Lee, I'm worried. No, not worried—puzzled is the word. There's something rotten going on here, and I don't know what it is. I'm afraid of stepping into something unaware. Like Mitchell might have. If I knew what it was, I could steer clear."

"What—what do you mean, Jeff?" "You remarked about the coincidence of those three deaths. I didn't intend to go over this with you, but you're level-headed and whatever it is I've got us into, you're in it. You should have the whole picture."

"Jeff, what are you trying to say?" "Lee, I'm convinced those three deaths were no coincidence. That they were all deliberate murders. The second and third, I suspect, to cover up the first."

"I knew it! Zora Mitchell couldn't possibly have committed suicide! Not the Zora I used to know. But Bill Henderson? What you told me about his accident?"

Curt was silent a moment. "I know. It looked like an accident, sure enough. But Lee, last Wednesday Bill told me he knew who killed Mitchell, and then refused to tell me anything more for fear of involving me. He pointed out my precarious position, having you and the kids here. Said he'd work it out himself, for me to keep hands off. Well, I was all set to get behind that on Saturday night, and you know what happened."

He felt Lee stiffen beside him, but she didn't speak. "He went on. 'You didn't know, I didn't tell you, but Zora Mitchell sent me an urgent note warning me not to come to Tierra Libre, not to bring my family. I got it in New Orleans and like a fool didn't look at that batch of mail readressed to us until we'd dropped the pilot and were out in the Gulf. Then it was too late to do anything about it. I kept quiet, not wanting to alarm you. I intended to talk with her first chance I got. But she—died.'"

He read fear in Lee's voice when she finally said, "Jeff, what are you leading up to?"

"I don't know, Lee, I don't know. I've been going over this business until I'm dizzy! Look. Here are several possibilities. Listen and give me your reactions."

"Go on."

"First, Bill Henderson knew who killed Mitchell, and why. That 'why' is somehow important, from the way Bill stressed it. He was done away with before he could pass it on. Zora knew something, and she died. Well, these two deaths would seem to be for the purpose of covering up Mitchell's murder. Then, the crux of the whole business is why Mitchell was killed. Was it really a personal grudge, or was it something deeper?"

"Go on," Lee said, in a small far-away voice.

"Well, Mitchell was no fool, yet at the rate the work was going here, the coming rainy season would have flooded the whole valley again. The railroad and all the planting done this year would have been washed out!"

"Jeff, what are you driving at?" "Just this. You've read my abstract. Pretty stuff, one. I'm absolutely boss in my department—practically so long as I follow the plan."

laid down. Well, if Mitchell had a contract like mine, and we can assume he did have, and if he was deliberately slowing up the work, then his death was very convenient for Montoya."

"Sabotage! You're advancing that as the reason? You think Montoya had him killed?"

"I don't say that, honey," Curt answered doggedly. "It simply seems a possible answer."

"Well," Lee replied slowly, "I know you don't like Senor Montoya. I don't, either. But that's simply personal taste on our part. We have no reason to dislike him. Or have we?"

"No."

"It's an ironclad contract you have, sure—for Montoya. There's an escape clause which would let him cancel the contract if you should turn out incompetent or unsatisfactory. Surely he could have got rid of Mitchell in a case of sabotage."

"Sabotage is difficult to prove sometimes!" Curt exclaimed. "For example, I've found Mitchell was making the dragline men use cables too slender for the job. They kept breaking. Every break slowed up the work a little more. There are many ways he could, or I could, slow up the work without enabling Montoya to invoke that clause you mention."

"That clause isn't as elastic as you think. A court, in an ensuing breach-of-contract case against the company had Mitchell been let out, might have obliged Montoya to pay heavy damages. Not only for remainder of salary under contract, but punitive damages for injury to reputation."

"I see what you mean," Lee said slowly. "But no, Jeff, I can't see Montoya having Mitchell killed for any such simple reason. And two other murders, too!"

"One—planned murder," Curt pointed out. "The other two were follow-ups."

Lee said nothing. "Well, another point. Montoya's put this Emilio Vargas on my tail as a bodyguard. Lee, I never had any trouble with native labor—or any labor. Kid 'em along and you can get anything done. I don't need a bodyguard. Montoya may or may not be involved in these murders—either way, I can understand his wanting to hush them up with the least trouble—but at least he does know what's behind them. Otherwise, why this Emilio Vargas?"

Mrs. Lewis Bernath was hostess at a party given Friday evening for the pleasure of her cousin, Miss Wilma Bernath, whose marriage to Kermit Archer will be an event of the week. Two tables of bridge were in play, with Mrs. Ole Johnson holding high score, Mrs. Ambrose Dreyer second, and Miss Bernath the consolation. A parlor lamp was presented the bride-to-be and lunch was served.

How 'Dun' Originated
The word "Dun" applied to the process whereby delinquent debtors are urged to pay overdue bills originated during the reign of Henry VIII when Joe Dun, a London bailiff, was a successful collector of old debts. A threat to "Dun" a man who didn't pay his debts generally produced results.
