Scrap Drive Produces Big Pile Of Junk

Estimates Place Collection At One Hundred Tons

Chelsea's collection of scrap metal last Thursday was a real contribution to the war effort, judging from the enormous pile of junk accumulated during the afternoon.

Business places closed promptly at 12 noon and at one o'clock there was a line-up of trucks, men and school boys ready for the kill—and what a kill it was! A few minutes after the first trucks were dispatched on their collection route the junk started to roll in at the dumping grounds just west of the Michigan Central freight house.

At times there were five or six trucks unloading their valuable metal and others were waiting their turn to unload. There was everything in the accumulation from ash trays to truck chassis—old washing machines, refrigerators, farm implements, wire fence, car bodies, etc.—and the pile continued to grow until the last truckload came in just before dark.

Estimators placed the weight of the junk pile at from 50 to 200 tons, with those who claimed to be good guessers placing the weight at about 100 tons. The committee was unable to get more than one bid for the pile because of the labor shortage being experienced by some junk dealers, and the entire lot was sold for $350.00—and it is believed by the committee that the Jackson firm which bought the scrap will earn their profit by the time they do the sorting which will be necessary, and haul the junk away.

This money will be given to the Salvation Army for war work, in accordance with action taken by the local salvage committee.

In addition to helping defeat Hitler and his Axis partners, the drive really helped to clean up the basements and yards of townspeople and farmers, and it also provided lots of fun for those who participated in the pickup. True, there was plenty of hard work, but it was a jolly crowd of business and professional men and other public-spirited citizens, as well as school boys, who were anxious to get into the scrap.

Many of the rural schools are to be commended for their effort in making the collection of scrap so successful. First honors go to the Sylvan Center school, where twelve truckloads of scrap was collected through the efforts of the pupils, their teacher, and farmers in that district. There were five truckloads at the Riemenscheider school, and many other schools made a real contribution through their efforts.

The committee extends its thanks to those who donated their trucks and to the loyal and patriotic men and boys who so conscientiously gave of their time as a part of their contribution to the appeal of our Nation for more scrap to build more tanks, more guns, more planes, more ships—it is this cooperation on the home front that gives courage and weapons to our boys on the fighting front.

Thank you, Chelsea!

Fall Meeting of Pilgrim Fellowship Held Here

The annual fall meeting of the Pilgrim Fellowship of the Congregational churches of the Jackson Association was held in Chelsea on Sunday. Officers of the organization present were Dr. Geo. N. White of New York, Miss Esther Ewell of Lansing and Mrs. Lawrence Horning of Leslie. About 90 young people, with their adult sponsors, attended from Ann Arbor, Ypsilanti, Dexter, Webster, Pinckney, Jackson, Wheatland, Clinton and Hudson, in addition to the local group.

At the business session Miss Rachel Culbertson of Jackson was elected president. After a recreational period at the high school gymnasium under the direction of Supt. Johnson, lunch was served by the ladies of the Congregational church, with Mrs. A. C. Foor in charge.

In the evening Dr. White gave an interesting and inspiring address which was followed by the candle-lighting installation service under the direction of the State leader, Miss Esther Ewell.

HOLD FAMILY NIGHT

The first Family Night of the season was held at the Methodist church on Tuesday evening and a delicious pot-luck supper was enjoyed by the many who were in attendance. Games, under the direction of Charles Cameron, furnished amusement for the evening.

ATTEND CONVENTION

Mrs. Lyle Christwell and Mrs. Mary Adam attended a convention of District No. 1, W. R. C. held Friday and Saturday, October 9 and 10, at Fort Shelby Hotel, Detroit. At the business session, Mrs. Christwell was elected district chaplain.

CENSUS REVEALS INCREASE OF 245 IN CHELSEA'S POPULATION

According to preliminary figures released by Wm. F. Lehmann of Washington, D. C., who has supervised the enumerating of a new Federal census in Chelsea, the population of this village is now 2591, an increase of 245 over the figure of 2346 reported for 1940. The official figures will be available within a few weeks.

Zion Lutheran Church Will Celebrate

Special Services Sunday To Mark 75th Anniversary

Sunday, October 18, will be a day of rejoicing for the members of Zion Lutheran Church of Rogers Corners, in Freedom Township. On that day they will celebrate the 75th anniversary of the organization of their congregation.

Rev. Gebauer of St. Thomas Lutheran church, also of Freedom township, served the new congregation during the period of its organization.

The first pastor called by the congregation was the Rev. J. Baumann, who served from 1873 to 1885. Since then the following pastors have served the church: Rev. P. Merz, 1885-1888; Rev. H. Lemster, 1888-1910; Rev. E. Thieme, 1910-1926; and Rev. M. W. Brueckner, the present pastor, 1926.

Michael Hinderer, John Schenk and Jacob Eschelbach constituted the first board of trustees of Zion Lutheran church. The present church council consists of the following members: Edwin Buss, Arthur Gau, Geo. Haist, Fred Hinderer and Clarence Koenigster.

For about thirteen years the services in Zion Lutheran church have been conducted in both languages—German and English, while in the Sunday School and all classes of religious instruction only the English language is being used.

The congregation has three organizations, the Brotherhood, the Ladies' Aid and the Luther League, which take a very active part in the work of the church.

On Sunday, October 18, three services will be held—at 10 o'clock in the morning, 2:30 in the afternoon and 7:30 in the evening. Dr. Wm. G. Sott of Columbus, Ohio, stewardship secretary of the American Lutheran church, will preach in the morning; Rev. Harold Yochum of Detroit, our District President, will preach in the afternoon, and Rev. Bruno Brueckner of Copac, Mich., chairman of the Southern Michigan Conference, will preach in the evening.

A cordial invitation is herewith extended to all our friends and neighbors to attend these services and to rejoice with Zion Lutheran church on its anniversary day.

AWARDS WILL BE MADE FOR SUMMER READING PROGRAM

During the vacation months a children's summer reading program was conducted in the Chelsea Public Library. Children were given record books to record all of the books read and a chart was hung in the library listing the names of all the children taking part in this program.

In order to present the certificates of award to the children who took part in this program, all record books must be turned in at the library as soon as possible. A special award will be given this year to the school grade which had the greatest number of children enrolled in this program.

The presentations will be made at the public school on Tuesday, October 20. Those not attending the public school will receive their awards at the library as soon as the record book has been checked.

CHICKEN SUPPER

The W. S. C. S. of Salem Grove church will serve a chicken supper in the church dining room on Thursday night, Oct. 22. Serving will begin at 6:00. Price 60c and 30c. Adv.

Second Scrap Drive Will Be Held Oct. 22

Village and Rural Areas To Be Covered; Stores Will Close.

Chelsea's second big scrap collection will be held next Thursday afternoon, October 22, according to Paul C. Maroney, who has accepted the chairmanship of the salvage committee for the second big drive.

The pickup next Thursday will be conducted in much the same manner as the one last week. Business places will be expected to close at noon for the remainder of the day so that men and trucks will be available for the pickup—and it is hoped that the few able-bodied business men who took holidays last week will be on deck this week to do their fair share of the work. Supt. A. C. Johnson has stated that high school boys will be released from classes to work with the men in collecting the junk.

A more thorough house-to-house canvass will be made next week than was possible last week because of the enormous amount of scrap to be collected, which made it impossible to take the time to call at every home if scrap was not in evidence at the curb. Plans for next week's collection are for a call at every home, and if you are not going to be at home fasten a note to your front door telling where your junk can be found.

For the rural collection everyone having scrap metal which they will donate should call either Paul C. Maroney, Walter Harper or Wilbur Hinderer, so that trucks can be routed to make this pickup complete. Collections of scrap at schools should also be reported, and anyone who reported to the committee last week and was missed should call again to make certain that their place is included when trucks are dispatched to the rural areas.

The task which confronted the volunteers last week was too great for one afternoon, and judging from reports coming in, the clean-up squad next week should collect another big junk pile to throw at our Axis enemies.

REMEMBER—tin cans will not be accepted, as the local committee has no way of disposing of them at this time. However, save your cans, as there may be a call for them at a later date.

The committee wants everyone in the scrap next week—so plan to be on hand at Harper's garage, West Middle street, at 1:00 o'clock next Thursday afternoon and you will be assigned a task!

Tim Doolittle To Appear Here On Friday, Oct. 23

Tim Doolittle and his Pine Center Gang will be in Chelsea to play for the Kiwanis dance on Friday evening, October 23, from 9:00 to 1:00. Smiling Red, Al, and other WJR radio artists will be here to entertain both old and young. Square and round dances will be featured and a very entertaining program during intermission will be offered. (Another husk-ing-bee seems to be in the offing and some of the boys have been training very faithfully for this night).

The proceeds for the party will be used to sponsor the Kiwanis club's annual "Kiddies' Halloween party" for the following week. You can show your appreciation for this type of work by purchasing a ticket or two from any member of the Kiwanis club.

JOIN "MOTOR MECHANICS"

Twenty women have registered for the "Motor Mechanics" class which will be held at the high school shop each Thursday night from 7:30 to 9:30 for six weeks, starting October 15. There is still place for a few more applicants. Those wishing to enroll may call Mrs. A. L. Steger or Mrs. A. A. Palmer.

INDUCTED INTO ARMY SERVICE

Earl Heim, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Heim, was inducted into army service in Detroit on Saturday and will leave for Fort Custer on October 24. He was born May 5, 1921 in Sylvan township. On Sunday, he was honor guest at a dinner given by his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Harvey of Waterloo township. Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Harvey also were guests.

RECEPTION SUNDAY

A reception will be given in honor of Rev. and Mrs. W. H. Skentelbury on Sunday afternoon, October 18, from 3 to 5 o'clock in the Congregational church parlors. The public is cordially invited to attend.

Robert Lantis, who has been confined to his home by illness for several weeks, is much improved.

2nd Lt. Charles Ritter, who has been stationed at Ft. Oglethorpe, Ga., is spending 11 days' furlough at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Hutzel.

RESOLUTION

Passed by the Washtenaw County Medical Society

The population of Washtenaw County is increasing at a rapid rate. The number of physicians in the county is steadily decreasing as the doctors answer the call to the armed forces.

This situation creates a problem for both the laymen and the physician. Providing medical service for the non-military public will be more and more difficult month by month.

In order that the sick may be cared for in the most efficient manner possible, it is urged that consideration be given to the following points:

1. Requests for home visits by physicians must when at all possible, be placed early in the morning.
2. Patients should be taken to the physician's office whenever possible, arranging appointments with the physician's secretary.
3. Night calls MUST be limited as far as possible to emergencies only. Physicians will be unable physically to make any unnecessary night calls.
4. Serious cases and those needing close observation, such as confinements, should whenever possible use hospital facilities—if only for a few days.

NORTHVILLE—The Northville Community Scrap pile accumulated during the recent successful drive has been sold by the Salvage Committee to the Northville Waste Materials Co. at $11.48 a gross ton. The removal of this scrap will begin at once. The pile is expected to run approximately 130 tons.—Record.

Local Defense Topics

Every community in Washtenaw county will be asked to consider forming neighborhood war clubs under their local defense councils, according to an announcement of Harrison H. Caswell, chairman of the county council of defense, at a meeting of the council in the Armory Friday evening. He placed Mrs. Finley Riggs of the CDVO staff in charge of coordinating neighborhood clubs throughout the county.

"Partial mobilization is no longer enough," says Mr. Caswell. "The county's reliance upon volunteers in meeting war-time obligations requires the organized help of every home and every street in every town. Total mobilization is the goal of the neighborhood war clubs. They may be used at one time for the execution of a salvage campaign, planned and supervised by the salvage committee; at another for a house-to-house campaign sponsored by the war savings committee of the council. They may be used to carry vital nutrition information to every home; to promote the more extensive use of certain foods which the necessities of war may require us to use in greater quantities, in place of other foods to which we have been accustomed."

Ann Arbor, which has already adopted the program, will serve as a starting point for Washtenaw county, states Mrs. Riggs.

Implement dealers throughout the state have loaned their staff men to work for local salvage committees to complete collections, particularly in the rural areas. George Gabler, Washtenaw salvage chairman, informed those present at the meeting.

Margaret Blaney of Lansing, assistant to the chief of volunteers offices, spoke on the need for neighborhood organization which has been expressed by officials in the ODT in order to intensify the swap ride plan. She predicted the neighborhood movement will facilitate patriotic group discussions, expedite scrap collections, and will spread the idea of USDA war clubs already in existence in rural areas. Men as well as women will meet in neighbors' homes to elect permanent leaders and one of their first considerations will be price control.

Volunteers meeting special requirements will help the ration board when allotment of gasoline and fuel oil goes into effect, according to instructions received by the CDVO from the State Defense Council. The preliminary or A rationing bracket in which everyone owning a car will get his card entitling him to a basic gasoline amount will be done through the schools about November 7, it is expected by the State Defense Council, and volunteers will not be needed. However, applications for additional gasoline, by certain people in classifications of business as set up by the OPA for B and C cards, are expected to be taken about a week later and this will require seven volunteer helpers. If each serves on a full-time schedule, to each 1,000 auto registrations per ration board area. Their services will be needed for the seven days duration of this supplemental rationing operation. Hours of duty will be from twelve noon till nine P. M. each day.

Several hundreds of volunteers in Washtenaw county will be necessary for gasoline rationing alone, according to computations made by James H. Cook, Chief of Volunteer Services, Michigan Council of Defense, on the basis of car and truck registrations. Preliminary notice that the OPA would depend upon volunteer help was received by the local CDVO in September. Of the number estimated as necessary for Washtenaw county, 70 per cent should be men, to meet the regulations of Arthur H. Sarvis, State Director of OPA. Because of the official nature of this volunteer assignment, certified public accountants, bookkeepers, and insurance men are requested to serve.

The program involving the use of volunteers on rationing fuel oil has not yet been made public, but the local ration board, according to the CDVO, will need specialists familiar with heating problems and those with ability to make certain computations on the basis of data submitted by applicants in determining fuel rations. Fuel oil salesmen, representatives of oil burner companies, building engineers, architects, heating contractors, plumber steam-fitters, are asked to offer their services at once.

Since this is a county-wide program, the state instructions will be communicated to each city and village from the Armory volunteer headquarters in Ann Arbor, and it is requested that men and women enroll at once as volunteers for the rationing of gasoline and fuel oil. A three hour tour of duty has been found to be the minimum amount of time for which it is practical to assign a volunteer to a job of this nature, and it is hoped that experts and others will offer longer periods. This is a request where neither money nor manpower is available to do the job at hand. Private citizens will be relied upon to undertake this phase of the war effort. Those who register now for service in November will receive complete instructions at a later date through the CDVO and ration board.

Mrs. A. A. Palmer as chairman of CDVO will be ready at any time to take registrations of volunteers to work on this board. Call 7913.

Critical labor shortage in harvesting the sugar beet crop in Michigan has resulted in a call for help to the Washtenaw County Civilian Defense Volunteer Office from Lansing. Volunteers who are willing to accept a paid job of this kind may register at the Armory. They will be immediately referred to the United States Employment Service which has received detailed instructions on when and where the need for farm laborers is most acute at the present time. Action of the two agencies to save the sugar beet crop will follow the procedure used last summer by the USES and ODVO in supplying all available workers to pick the cherry orchards throughout the state.

Most towns, cities and villages forbid U-turns.

A truly good driver will avoid U-turns because they have a tendency to confuse the drivers following or coming in from side roads. U-turns are permitted in certain locations, but personally I feel that they should be forbidden wherever they may be tried so that there will be no confusion at any time on our highways because of this practice. Somebody may argue that out in the country where you have miles of vision, U-turns should not create a hazard; but in these days of high speed, a few miles mean only a few minutes and before a U-turn can be completed successfully on a narrow country road, some speeding motorist may be on top of you and an accident will result. Let's avoid U-turns for safety.

JERUSALEM SCHOOL NEWS

The first term of the Jerusalem school closed Wednesday, Oct. 7, 1942.

The following pupils have been neither absent nor tardy during this term: Donald Barth, Donald Koch, Aileen Lewis, Shirley, Raymond, Harold, Wilfred and Howard Moore; Joan Koenigster, Carl and Norman Koch, Arlene Haist, Loren and Lelia Trinkle.

We all made booklets to put in the reports of the books we have read. Some of us have already read several books. We are planning to buy a few new books for our library.

The following have the most punches on their arithmetic keys: Wilma Koenigster, Doris Trinkle, Donald Koch, Arlene Haist, Paul Lewis and Joan Koenigster.

The president of our health club is Shirley Moore, the secretary is Raymond Moore. We have started our health scrapbook. We have studied the problems of safety, posture and whooping cough. We have had several health posters in our room. We all try to keep at the "Harbor of Good Health" on our inspection chart.

Each week we put up a new motto for all to follow. These mottos help to stress good health and citizenship.

We have our Good English chart up. It should help us to remember the good English forms to say. A few of us have some reminders on the chart.

The beginners, first and second grades, have studied some pictures for their language. They have told and written some good stories and put them in their Picture Study book.

We have set up our music program for the year. The upper grades have learned two songs so far and so have the lower grades.

The eighth grade have prepared several projects. They have mounted and named flowers, weeds, vines, seeds, leaves, insects and butterflies. They have drawn the life cycles of some insects.

In art work we have made some free-hand drawings.

We have started our scrapbook of Current Events.

The third and fourth grades made a diorama of "The Ten O'Clock Scholar." The fourth grade finished a project on "Dogs."

The fifth and sixth grades carried out a project on "Inventions."

The sixth and seventh grades made product maps for the countries they have studied.

Fourteen of us got our names on the Spelling Honor Roll this term. Twelve of us have bought Defense Stamps. We bought 95 this term.

We collected quite a bit of scrap which the volunteers from Chelsea collected October 8.

We did not have school October 8 and 9, because the teacher went to Detroit to the Teacher's Institute.

We have received our money for prizes on our exhibit at the Washtenaw county fair.

We want to thank Miss Lillie Wackebut for all the good clippings and pictures she has given us again this year.

Mr. Thayer, the new school supervisor, visited us. We were sorry to hear Mrs. Robinson had given up this work.

Of every pound of meat being produced in the U. S. about 12 ounces will go to the civilian population, the remaining four ounces will be distributed among our fighting men and the armed forces and civilians of our Lend-Lease allies.

SPENDS WEEK'S LEAVE HERE

Charles B. Winans returned on Wednesday to Great Lakes Naval Training School after spending a week's leave at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Winans. On Sunday, they entertained at a family dinner, the guests including Mr. and Mrs. Robert Winans and daughter of Lambertville, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Park and son of Ortonville, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Winans, Mr. and Mrs. Don Osterle and daughter, and Miss Marilyn Lyons of Chelsea.

The nickel which went into the 1941 output of nickel-plated tableware would have supplied all the nickel needed in production of 48 heavy tanks.

His Needs MUST Come First

The reason you are unable to buy a new gas range is that this American boy and his millions of buddies out there need the metal for guns and ammunition, tanks and planes and other equipment.

Much as you may have had your heart set on a new gas range, water heater or refrigerator, we know you are glad to subordinate your desires to the urgency of war necessity—anything that will help to speed Victory.

Fortunately your gas equipment is well and durably made, and with proper care and use will give satisfactory service for the duration.

The government does recognize certain situations in which the purchase of new gas appliances is justified. Families without means for cooking or for heating water (such as newlyweds and families moving from furnished apartments to private dwellings) and families whose equipment is worn out or damaged beyond repair, may qualify for purchasing new appliances. If you classify as one of these, come in and we shall be glad to explain the procedure to be followed.

WEDDINGS

Boyce-Stewart
At a candlelight ceremony at 8:00 o'clock Saturday evening in North Lake Methodist church, Ruth Adelaide Boyce, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Boyce of Chelsea, was married to Lieut. Erie Lynn Stewart of Camp Wheeler, Ga., son of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Stewart of Benton Harbor.

Mrs. Paul F. Niehaus, who also played Lohengrin's Bridal Chorus. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a dress of white net over tulle, with fitted bodice and full skirt. Her veil of tulle was held in place by a Juliet cap of gold and rhinestones, edged with white flowers. She carried a shower bouquet of white roses and baby's breath.

The bride was attended by her sisters, Mrs. Stanley LaSavage as matron of honor and Mrs. Wilber H. Worden as bridesmaid. They were gowned alike in pink chiffon, fashioned with late bodices with V necklines and full skirts. Mrs. LaSavage carried a colonial bouquet of Johanna Hill roses, baby's breath and carnations, while Mrs. Worden's flowers were Talisman roses, yellow and bronze mums. Dean Ray of Ann Arbor assisted as best man and seating the guests were Fred Stewart, brother of the groom, and Lawrence Noah, uncle of the bride.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Boyce chose a two-piece dress in plum shade, with black accessories, and Mrs. Stewart wore a gown of blue silk jersey.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Perry E. Noah, and a buffet lunch was served from a table laid with a lace cloth and centered with a tiered wedding cake.

The bride attended Michigan State College for the past three years, and the groom was a student at University of Michigan before his induction into the army in November, 1941.

DEATHS

Louis Notten

Louis Notten, a former resident of Francisco, died Friday afternoon, Oct. 9, at Foote hospital, Jackson, as the result of a stroke suffered two weeks ago.

The son of Henry and Amanda (Hoppe) Notten, he was born Sept. 19, 1874 in Grass Lake township. His mother died when he was one year old. On Oct. 10, 1905 he was married to Kate Sager of Grass Lake and for 47 years they have made their home in Jackson, where he was employed first as a machinist and later as a painter and decorator. He was a member of Haven Methodist church, Jackson.

Surviving are the widow, two half-brothers, Erle Notten of Sylvan township and Chester Notten of Grass Lake township; and six half-sisters, Mrs. Leonard Loveland, Sylvan township, Mrs. Herman Bauer and Mrs. Floyd Clum, both of Hastings, Mrs. Emmet Dancer and Mrs. Ezra Heininger, both of Lima township, and Miss Maybelle Notten of Grass Lake township.

Funeral services were held at 8:00 o'clock Tuesday afternoon at the Bailey funeral home, Jackson, with Rev. E. Runkel officiating. Burial was in Woodlawn cemetery.

VICTORY SERVICE LEAGUE

Motorists of America: Here is your opportunity to render an invaluable service to your country. Your car is vital to Victory. It must be conserved so that our country can be preserved. A new organization has been founded to promote car conservation for Victory. It is open to all car and truck operators, regardless of the make of their vehicles. All drivers will welcome this new chance to enlist in a nation-wide organization dedicated to conserving America's great civilian transportation system. The name of this new group is the Victory Service League, which has branches in all sections of the country. More than 8,000 Chevrolet dealers, with their 75,000 trained automotive personnel, are pledged to work for Victory through the Victory Service League. They hope that you will join them in this new movement. Victory Service League Headquarters for Chelsea is the Spaulding Chevrolet Sales & Service. They urge you to see them today and learn how you can do your part to "Save the Wheels that Serve America." A free car conservation inspection will be given each new member of the Victory Service League by the Spaulding Chevrolet Sales & Service, and when you sign the VSL pledge, you are entitled to display the VSL emblem on your car. Mr. Spaulding will be glad to explain the Victory Service League to you.

54,000 communities depend entirely on motor vehicles.

Six out of every ten farms use one car or more; 67% of farm car mileage is necessary driving.

More than 65.2% of all war plants reporting in Michigan (a typical war production state) depend on trucks to haul their incoming and outgoing freight.

Trucks haul nearly 100% of the milk supply of most large cities—58% of all livestock marketed in the U. S.

Trucks are the sole transportation system serving our 54,000 communities not reached by railroads.

The automotive mechanic—the trained Chevrolet Victory Service Man—is the lifeguard of America's millions of cars and trucks. Help him to help you and America by getting a skilled service check-up at regular intervals.

Good-by, now—
I'll tell you all about it when I see you!

BE BRIEF—

AND HELP SPEED WAR CALLS!

It's a fact that by keeping your own telephone conversations short you can help the war effort. Central office equipment can handle only so many calls at a time. Some of them may be important war messages, and war calls must go through. By cutting down the length of your calls you help free the equipment for handling war calls speedily and efficiently.

Because the telephone is vital to all war activity, many local offices and long distance lines are crowded with calls. In normal times we would install enough new equipment to handle the added load. But we can't, now, because of material shortages. So it boils down to this: Every one of us has a duty to help keep the lines clear for war.

HOW YOU CAN HELP

1. Keep all your telephone calls as brief as you can.
2. Make only the most essential Long Distance calls.
3. On a Long Distance call, give the number of the telephone you are calling, if possible.

And please don't call Information for a number when it's listed in the directory. Help save the wires for war!

HARRY F. KELLY
BROUGHT BUSINESS EFFICIENCY INTO THE DEPARTMENT OF STATE

When Harry F. Kelly first took office as Secretary of State, January 1, 1939, the department was obsolete in its methods, dilatory in its service, hog-tied with red tape! Before his first term was over, Harry F. Kelly had streamlined the entire department, upped its efficiency month after month, and brought its economy to a high point.

Today, the department, doing an annual business in excess of $80,000,000, is a model of ably directed operation. Its 9 divisions and 170 odd branches function with the precision of a fine watch. It operates 24 hours a day, 365 days a year, in its Registration and Title Division to benefit the police and public alike.

To Harry F. Kelly, and to him alone, goes the entire credit for this amazing transformation! You can depend on his achieving the same high degree of efficiency, in all state departments, when he is elected Governor of Michigan on November 3rd.

SURPRISED ON BIRTHDAY
Mrs. Donovan Sweeney was pleasantly surprised on Saturday evening, when a number of her friends arrived to help her celebrate her birthday. Eucire was the diversion of the evening and high scores were held by Mrs. Leo Smith and Fred Alber, and low scores by Mrs. Walter Mohrlock and August Dorer. A delicious lunch was served, and Mrs. Sweeney was presented with several lovely gifts. An out-of-town guest was Mrs. Leo Smith of Morenci, twin sister of Mrs. Sweeney, who was a week-end guest at the Sweeney home.

Rebekahs Entertain Officers of District

Rebekah Lodge No. 130, of Chelsea, entertained their district officers and guests on Friday evening. Mrs. Lulu Sweeney, president of District No. 12, was introduced and welcomed with her staff of officers: Vice-president, Flossie Weeks of Hanover; secretary, Eva Hite of Jackson; treasurer, Florence Foster of Brooklyn.

Mrs. Mable Pavey of Jackson, who is the Assembly Inside Guardian, was also introduced and welcomed. The Noble Grand, Mrs. Alice Krumm, presented corsages to each of these officers and also to her Vice Grand, Mrs. Velma Wolfe, in appreciation of her splendid cooperation. The District Deputy, Mrs. Anna McDonald, presented Mrs. Krumm with a corsage. Then Mrs. McDonald presented Mrs. Lottie Alexander with a corsage from the Lodge, who paid tribute to her as their only charter member.

As a surprise to Mrs. Sweeney, whose birthday was the celebrated event of the evening, a program, given by the drill team, was enjoyed by all. The guest of honor was presented a beautiful birthday cake, and the following wishes were given:

"Welcome Song" by the drill team; "Greeting Toast" by Mrs. McDonald; "Friendship Wish" by Mrs. Edith Hoffman; "Best of Health Wish" by Mrs. Kathleen Bernath; "Birthday Toast of Happiness" by Mrs. Leora Noll. A prayer by the chaplain concluded the program.

Under the chairmanship of Mrs. Kathleen Bernath and her committee, Mrs. Lillian Foor, Mrs. Mable Goodell, and Mrs. Velma Wolfe, covers were laid for 57 members and guests.

KIWANIS NEWS

The Kiwanis club entertained their ladies, the public school faculty and members of the board of education at their regular meeting on Monday evening at St. Paul's hall. A fine chicken dinner was served by the ladies of the church at 6:30, after which the "Laugh Fiesta", produced by the Party Guild of Chicago, and directed by P. F. Niehaus, provided hilarious entertainment for the evening.

Every part of the program came as a surprise to all except those who supervised some particular act or stunt. Cheerio bingo was played, with Miss Mabel Fox winning the prize; a Kiwanis word contest as won by Mrs. G. G. Hopper; pandora boxes of wit, wisdom and satire were distributed by J. C. Hendley, with the people receiving the boxes reading the messages contained therein; Prince Nur-Al-Din, the Hindu Mystic (Howard Baker) answered some extremely difficult and personal questions which only a Hindu could answer. Next came the international milk-bottle contest, with impersonators of President Roosevelt, Benito Mussolini, Josef Stalin, Adolf Hitler and Mahatma Gandhi holding the costumed babies while they drank milk from their bottles—the winner of this contest was Lloyd R. Heydlauff, with "Abe" Staffan a close second—others in this contest were A. C. Johnson, H. T. Moore and J. C. Hendley. The impersonators were P. G. Schable, W. R. Daniels, A. D. Mayer, Lowell Davison and Tom Bust. The final act on the program was the "battle of the sexes in song", with the men being declared the winners (?).

SALEM GROVE W. S. C. S.
The executive committee of the Salem Grove W. S. C. S. met at the church Monday night, Sept. 28.

The October meeting of Salem Grove W. S. C. S. was held at the church Wednesday afternoon, Oct. 7. After the business meeting there were devotions and a social hour. A pot-luck lunch was served.

Devotions were led by Mrs. John Beal. The program was arranged by Mrs. Kenneth Proctor. Topic: "Christian Leadership Among Women in Latin America."

DEATHS

Mrs. Harriet Gambee
Mrs. Harriet Gambee died Sunday at the Methodist Home, where she had been a member since Jan. 25, 1940, coming here from Morenci. She was born Dec. 16, 1867 in Milan, Erie county, Ohio and is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Ellen Wetzel of Toledo.

Funeral services were held at 10:30 Wednesday morning at the Staffan funeral home, with Rev. Bert Ede officiating. Burial was in Woodmere cemetery, Detroit.

Frederick Morin
Frederick Morin, 55 years old, died Thursday, October 8 at St. Joseph's Mercy Hospital, Ann Arbor, following an operation. He was born March 18, 1887 and served four and one-half years in World War I. He was married to Marjorie Halstead, who died several years ago. Mr. Morin had recently been employed as guard at the Federal Screw Works.

He is survived by a son, Eugene Frederick Morin, of the United States Army, and two sisters, Mrs. Mina Parker and Mrs. Anna Ruben, both of Detroit. Funeral services and burial were in Detroit on Saturday.

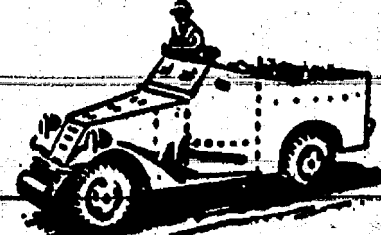

ENTERTAIN MOTHERS

The 4-H girls of Sylvan township entertained their mothers at a party on Thursday evening at the home of Dorothy Grau. Lunch was served after the games. Monica Merkel, leader of the club for the past year, was presented with a gift. Miss Frances Wilson of Ann Arbor, Home Demonstration agent, was a guest at the party.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

A scout car is a low-slung motor car armored with heavy steel plate, used to transport troops from one point to another. It is of low silhouette and gives protection against machine gun and other ground fire. A scout car costs $5,000.

You and your neighbors joining together can buy one of these vehicles for the Ordnance Department of our army with your purchase of War Bonds. We need hundreds of them and need them quickly. Put at least ten percent of your wages or income into War Bonds every pay day and help your fellow Americans top the War Bond quota in your county.

CHELSEA STUDY CLUB

A meeting of the Chelsea Study Club was held on Tuesday evening in the high school home-economics room. A short business session was held, at which time the names of Mrs. Kent Walworth, Mrs. Augusta Hollidge and Mrs. H. T. Moore were added to the list of members. The rest of the evening was devoted to making surgical dressings, which will be used for an emergency kit for the village of Chelsea, to be used in time of need. This project is under the capable direction of Mrs. E. W. Eaton. The next meeting will be held October 27 at the home of Mrs. L. G. Palmer. Professor Emeritus William Frayer will be the speaker.

ENTERTAINS NOBLE GRANDS
Members of the Past Noble Grands were entertained on Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Velma Wolfe, Francisco, where a pot-luck supper was served, with covers for 18. The birthdays of Kathleen Bernath and Lulu Sweeney were celebrated and they were presented with gifts. Bingo furnished the evening's diversion, with prizes going to Inez Lesser and Nellie Kern.

MISSION CLUB MEETS

St. Paul's Mission club met at the home of Mrs. Albert Widmayer, on Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Louis Eppler conducted the opening devotionals after which a reading, "True Values" was given by Mrs. Alvin Vail, and "Serve God" by Mrs. Widmayer. The afternoon was spent in sewing for missions, and the hostess served refreshments.

ORDER APPOINTING TIME FOR HEARING CLAIMS

No. 32691
State of Michigan, the Probate Court for the County of Washtenaw.

At a session of said Court, held at the Probate Office in the City of Ann Arbor, in the said County, on the 8th day of October, A. D. 1942.

Present, Honorable Jay G. Pray, Judge of Probate.

In the Matter of the Estate of Philipp Cerwinka, Sr., deceased.
It appearing to the Court that the time for presentation of claims against said estate should be limited, and that a time and place be appointed to receive, examine and adjust all claims and demands against said deceased by and before said Court;

It is Ordered, That creditors of said deceased are required to present their claims to said Court at said Probate Office on or before the 23rd day of December, A. D. 1942, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, said time and place being hereby appointed for the examination and adjustment of all claims and demands against said deceased.

It is Further Ordered, That public notice thereof be given by publication of a copy of this order for three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing, in the Chelsea Standard, a newspaper printed and circulated in said County.

Oct 15-29
Jay G. Pray, Judge of Probate.

get latest information before starting any trip

* Throughout the nation Greyhound buses start operating on new schedules beginning October 15th. Although Greyhound has been preparing for this change for some time, it is not a simple thing to rearrange fully a service that covers 65,000 miles of routes and has transported more than 85 million passengers since Pearl Harbor. Until every detail of the new service is carefully worked out, you may be inconvenienced on occasion. We hope you'll take it in stride, as we're doing our best to maintain customary high standards of service under unusual conditions.

Now when every bus, every tire, every gallon of gasoline must be used to full advantage, you can help in many ways. Travel on mid-week days when possible, to avoid week-end crowding—avoid holidays and rush periods—take along less baggage than usual—and get tickets and full information about the new schedule changes well in advance of any trip.

BOMBS BURST ONCE

By Granville Church
WNU Features

I—uh, know you don't like inter-departmental comments, but I have one you shouldn't object to. That part of the field used daily is kept pretty well under fire control. But one can see from a distance that the grass at the far end of the field is high and dry. It should be kept cut."

Montaya was looking steadily at Curt. He didn't speak.

"None of my business, perhaps," Curt shrugged, "but it's in the interest of safety. Even if the buildings at that end aren't of great value, you have materials stored there. Precautions should be taken."

"You are quite right, Mr. Curtis, quite right. I shall make a note of it." And make a note of it he did—at least he did some careful scratching on his calendar pad.

What! Can't I get any kind of rise out of him? The imp of perverseness in Curt prodded him, and he ventured again.

"That army plane from the Canal Zone that was forced down here yesterday. I rather expected you to come to the field—as a sort of welcoming gesture."

Montaya's voice chilled, there was a touch of contempt in his reply.

"This, my dear Mr. Curtis, is a business venture, not a social enterprise. I have a telephone. I know you and Dr. Toenjes were there to perform—ah, the amenities. Was there need of more?"

Curt let it go at that.

CHAPTER XII

Since arriving at San Alejo Curt hadn't seen much of his children, and one of the things he most enjoyed was playing with them, letting Chuck and Buddy crawl over him. He loved making them squeal with happiness. And now little Sylvia Mitchell was an added attraction. So today Curt went home early, to have some time with them before dark.

Curt spent a full hour with the children before the clouds let loose with a ten-minute shower, a daily feature so regular they could set their clocks by it.

The shower gave Curt a chance to calm the children down with a story so they wouldn't be too excited for supper and bed, and when Lee called for them he shoed them up. But the steps and into the house. But he remained outside. He returned to the open basement. For here his eye had caught something of interest during the play which he couldn't have investigated then without raising the children's curiosity.

The living room ran the width of the house across the front, screened on three sides—a lanai had this been Hawaii. Along the front and sides of this veranda-living room was a solid bank of hibiscus, broken only by the steps. A cement walk ran from the front around the side of the house to the rear, but a two foot space had been left for the shrubbery between this and the cement floor under the house.

And on the edge of the cement, inside the hedge were dried mud footprints! Someone had stood on this spot. Why? For only one reason. To listen in on what passed above in the veranda-living room.

Then who could it have been? The prints were broad and indicated flat shoes. They weren't large. The men in this climate didn't run to big feet, Curt knew, but he sensed these were woman's prints. Not Lee's, for she wore heels. The cook's? No, she didn't know English and eavesdropping would have done her no good. That is, Curt had been told she knew no English.

But Ines knew English. Not well, but enough for simple phrases, which meant that she understood it even better. Ines was the maid furnished by Montaya. She was a mestizo, a mixture of Spanish and Indian bloods, and rather an eye-fel. Curt had noticed this much, and that she was unusually neat, with an eye for style and effect. Were these her prints?

Whoever had left them had inadvertently stepped into the hibiscus bed, then up onto the cement, and since this soil absorbed moisture quickly it had to be early in the evening after the shower. Perhaps after dinner when he and Lee sat on the veranda above. About the time Ines left for the day.

Let's see, he and Lee had been on the couch-hamock. It was some distance from this spot. But the veranda walls were of wood waist high, screening above that, with rattan drops to afford a measure of privacy with the lights on. Sounds should carry.

Dinner, Curt was quiet and brooding, and Lee caught his eye on Ines whenever the girl was in the room. Respectfully, Lee noticed, he glanced at her feet. Lee wondered, but said nothing—couldn't have at the table. What Curt saw was that the shoes Ines wore to work, despite her flare for style in dress, were for comfort, not style. They were practically heelless and broad enough for feet which had gone barefoot through childhood.

After coffee, Curt collapsed on his shoulder blades in a comfortable bamboo chair which he pulled close to the couch. He lit his pipe and blew rings to the ceiling, and ignored the stack of papers on the table by his side. Lee recognized the mood and got out her sewing—small rompers to mend. She knew he'd start talking when he got ready. She took the couch, as he'd planned for her to do. A subdued clatter of dishes came from the rear as Ines removed them from the dining table to the kitchen sink. Then sounds from the sink. Curt came to life.

"Lee, I want you to talk to yourself for a while, as though you were talking to me."

Lee shot him a startled look. "I want to know if ordinary conversation can be heard outside," he grinned.

"Oh." But she stared. "Curt put down his pipe, went to the door, silently let himself out into the dark."

Lee, with the ghost of a snicker, sighed and did as asked, keeping her voice down as though Curt were beside her.

"Well, I suppose I might as well talk about the people I've met. I'll get as much attention as if you were here. Let's see, there's Mrs. Berry, the doctor's wife. She's from Pennsylvania, but she's no Quaker! And there's Mrs. Laine—she's with an 'i'. Her husband's something-or-other in the Merchandise Department. She's cute. You'll like her if only because she looks like Myrna Loy."

Lee's hands flew at her work while she talked.

"Oh, I've found there're quite a number of nice people here. It's a good clubhouse we have, with pool and billiard tables, a card room, and movies twice a week."

Lee heard a chuckle and looked up to find Curt had returned as silently as he'd slipped out.

"Dance? Okay," he said. "Much as I hate the idea, we'll go one of these evenings. It's a promise. Well, I found out what I wanted to know. He picked up his pipe and knocked out the cold ashes. His voice was careful as he told her of the footprints he'd found.

"But," he told her, "while I could hear your voice just now, I couldn't make out what you were saying from this spot. I was a little worried for fear we might have been overheard last night. I reckon not. Nevertheless, we'll have to be careful of what we say from now on."

"And you suspect Ines."

"Yes. If it were only Ines, I could put it down to housemaid's curiosity. But there's this greasy Vargas. I have a definite feeling he's more than a bodyguard—a spy on me in the field."

Lee said nothing, but her eyes closed. Sounds from the kitchen now ceased.

"Well, she's through for the day," Curt said. "We can make certain. I can watch her leave from the bedroom—it's dark. You keep on talking."

The back door closed and steps descended to the ground. The barest drops were down all around the living room so that no one outside could see what went on within.

Curt left the room. Lee didn't snicker this time, but there was the hint of a smile in her voice as she spoke up.

"Well, if I could get a date for a dance the first time I talked to thin air, perhaps this time I can get you started on that collection of orchids for me. After all, you promised."

At the bedroom window Curt first used only his ears. He listened to the pad of footsteps going to the gate, the normal click of the latch. Presently came a rustle of shrubbery and he knew his guess was correct. There could be no doubt.

The rattan screen at the bedroom window was down. In lifting it aside to peer out, Curt made the slightest of sounds. Instantly his straining eyes caught a flicker of shadow slipping into solid darkness around the corner of the house. Quickly followed the click of the gate latch again, muffled this time, but unmistakably the gate latch. He frowned.

"It was her, all right," he told Lee as he returned to the porch. After a pause, determinedly, "Lee, I've got to know why Mitch was hiding up the work. I won't rest easy until I know what his trouble was here. Montaya's the key to it. And who within reach of us is likely to know all about Montaya, including his cute remarks as a baby?"

"Mr. Moore," Lee said quickly. "Right. And Old Man Moore doesn't give readily. Nevertheless, tomorrow."

Curt sank back and blew rings to the ceiling. He had plans to perfect. Lee watched from troubled eyes, but said nothing. Hadn't she told him she was no sugar-and-water wife?

On the morrow the weather held hot, and coupled with the ever-present Emilio, it didn't improve Curt's disposition. It was mid-morning when Curt and his shadow reached Tempujo for their trip upriver. By phone from San Alejo Curt had ordered the launch fueled and ready. He intended wasting no time here. But the need of a map of two took him first to his office.

As he was about to turn into a figure rose from under a palm and Curt was startled by one of the most disreputable looking tramps he'd yet seen in the tropics. An American, clearly, but the many days' growth of beard, the nifty rags he wore, effectively concealed what kind of man this was. "Mr. Curtis, sir?" in a cringing voice.

"Yes," Curt answered shortly. He hated subservience in a man. "My name is Collins, sir. I'm looking for work."

Curt eyed the man. The eyes were bloodshot and told unquestionably of hunger—real hunger. "Well?"

"I'm a good transman, sir, and I'm good on gas engines or Diesels. I heard you need men."

Curt stood silent. There were plenty of tropical tramps in these quarters—drunken, irresponsible men, all of them fugitives, if not from the law, then from themselves.

Curt had sufficient sympathy to give such derelicts a lift from his own pocket, or a little work if he could—enough to carry them on to some other place.

But he knew he could place no reliance in them, and from the standpoint of efficiency it didn't often pay to take them on. In this case, however, something in the man's bearing, drooping though it was, didn't quite match the rest of him, and Curt was sufficiently intrigued to pause.

Emilio unwittingly settled the matter. He was standing by, eyes veiled. By now Curt could read the native's dead eyes, and the disapproval Curt saw there was enough to swing his decision. Curt nodded toward the door and the man followed him inside. Emilio brought up the rear.

Lauriano Duro, the draftsman in charge of the office, was bent over his work.

"Anything for my attention?" asked Curt.

"No, sir."

The native straightened up, looked at the three, and Curt thought he caught a flicker of Emilio's eyelids before the draftsman bent over his table again.

In silence Curt selected the maps he wanted, together with a bundle of white flags. He took down from a shelf a company camera, loaded it deliberately, handed the lot to Emilio.

"Put them aboard, and get some lunches packed at the mess-hall. It'll be better than what they could put up for us over at the levee camp. See to it there's plenty of coffee-black." Then, as Emilio hesitated, he barked, "Well! That's all! We've no time to waste!"

Emilio departed, and this time Curt definitely caught the flicker of eyes that Vargas aimed at Lauriano Duro as he turned to the door. Curt spoke to the stranger.

"All right, Collins, where you from?"

"Illinois, sir."

"How long you been down here?"

"Four years, sir."

"Not so much 'sir,' if you don't mind!" Curt was rapidly getting in a mood. The prospect of two days of Emilio was facing him. "What've you done to keep going these four years?"

"Worked most of the time, si—worked, here and there. I've handled a Diesel shovel, done rough carpentering, used a transit."

"Where'd you come from last?"

"I've been up at the Rosario mines on the hydraulic pumps."

"Why'd you leave?"

"Fired."

"Drunkness?"

"Yes, sir."

"I don't know what I can do for you. I've got to depend on the men under me and I won't hire booze hounds."

"I'm hungry, Mr. Curtis, and I'm a good worker. I don't get drunk very often. I can keep away from it, honest. I'll promise to leave it alone, if you'll give me a chance."

"Don't snivel. Here," Curt sighed, "let's see what you look like on paper. Fill this out. Make it snappy. I've only a few minutes to spare."

The man took the application blank, sat down at a table and commenced writing. Curt loaded his pipe while he studied the man's back. He paced for a few moments, forgot to pull on his pipe, had to light it again.

"Lauriano!"

"Yes, sir?"

"Here." He handed the native a bill. "Get me a tin of Briggs and a couple cartons of candy bars. Any kind. Put them aboard the launch and hurry back. I haven't much time this morning."

The candy bars was an old trick of Curt's. It was his theory that the more candy a man consumed the less alcohol his system craved. He used to leave candy lying about his camps, as it helped induce the candy habit among his workers. The man before him reminded him to start it here.

The native hesitated, but under the glower Curt gave him, departed in haste. Lauriano Duro hadn't the pertinacity of his compatriot, Vargas. The screen door had no sooner slammed after him than Curt approached the man at the table.

"Stand up!"

Collins rose to his feet. Curt looked him steadily in the eye a moment, then reached out and ripped open the shirt. It practically came apart. The man's head jerked up. Curt grunted. "Thought so!" Collins' skin was smooth and healthy tanned—and clean! The flesh was firm and hard, no ribs showed. The man was in the pink of condition, other appearances notwithstanding.

"All right, out with it, and quick. What do you want?"

It was a different voice Collins used in answering, as he tucked the shirt together again and under his belt, a calm enough voice if not assured.

"Just what I asked for, a job."

"Why the disguise?"

A silence greeted this.

"Quick, man, why'd you come to me?"

"I came to see Mr. Mitchell, but got here too late. Mr. McInnis, across the river, told me to see you."

"Why?"

"I want a job."

Curt grunted again. "Collins! Collins! Sure!" The name had suddenly clicked. The man from Henderson's home town—more lately from the Zone! "You wouldn't want to see Bill Henderson, too, would you?"

The Tim Doolittle dance, sponsored by the local Kiwanis club, will be October 23. The proceeds for this dance will be used to put on the Kiddies' Halloween party.

Home Economics

The girls exchanged names for silent sisters.

Those on the committee who planned the program for the Home Economics club for the month of October, are Anna Marie Armstrong, Rose Marie Clark, and Mary Jane Eder.

Defense Council

A sale of defense stamps was sponsored at the Community Fair on Friday and Saturday nights by the Chelsea high school Defense Council. The stamps were sold by the girls who sell stamps to the high school students.

The sale of defense stamps amounted to $11.25 on Friday night, and $28.75 on Saturday night, making a total of $40.00 for both nights.

Graphs are going to be made to show the amount of defense stamps each class buys, by a member of the Defense Council.

A slogan contest was held by the Defense Council for the best slogan pertaining to the scrap drive. A prize of 50¢ worth of defense stamps was offered. Jimmy Miller of the seventh grade won with this slogan: "If the Scrap Metal Drive booms, it will be the Axis partners' doom."

The Athletic Board

The officers of the Athletic Board were elected as follows: President, Louis Policht; secretary, Bob Edgar. The members of the Athletic Board are Eleanor Harper, Marilyn Lyons, Bob Edgar, Louis Policht, Dick For, Dwight Gadd, Miss McDonald, Mr. Cameron, Mr. Miller.

The Athletic Board sponsored a sale of season football tickets and they took in $55.50.

Hi-Y News

On Thursday evening the new members, mostly Juniors, will be inducted into the Hi-Y club. This is to be a great event in the eyes of all members.
