The Bulldogs vs. The Flying Dutchmen

By Dwight Gadd

One of the oldest pigskin rivalries in this section of the state will again be manifest Friday, November 13, as Chelsea meets Manchester on the local gridiron.

Chelsea, after a very poor "41" showing, came back to life this year and ended in third place in the Huron League standings, while Manchester, suffering the same fate as Chelsea did last year, has won but one game this season. But pre-game records and statistics are nothing to place your bets on as has been proved conclusively this year in many of the outstanding games of the nation's gridiron. And especially when the rivalry is as intense as it is between the Bulldogs and the Dutchmen, the favored team may find itself facing a frenzied team, which has risen to a height for this one game, that they have not attained all season and that they might never reach again.

One of the fundamental foundations of Americanism and American life is the living spirit of competition which runs through it and keeps it interesting and alive. No better example of this spirit than the ever growing interest in the rugged game of football can be pointed to, and no finer exemplification of what American men should be trained to face can be found than in the struggle taking place on the gridirons of today. In war or peace the courage of the individual—the ability to fight against great odds, the self-mastery and self-help which football teaches—all are important. It is not always necessary to win. The essential thing is the courage it requires to fight and the fine sportsmanship which is big enough to honor the vanquished.

For the senior boys on the team, it will be the last game of their high school careers, and maybe the last of their lifetime, for most of them are planning to get into a much bigger game as soon as graduation day rolls around. Some have already enlisted in the varied reserve branches of our armed forces but, whether they have or have not, you should come and see the Class of '43 as they emerge on the local gridiron for the last time. These boys are almost the complete (Continued on page four)

Federal Screw Moves To New Office Building

The new Federal Screw Office building is now completed and the offices at the main plant and the offices in the Steinbach Building on West Middle street were moved into their new quarters on Tuesday evening. The building has been completed for six weeks, but due to the delay in getting the telephones installed, it was impossible to use the building.

DAVID WINANS ENTRAINS

David was born April 26, 1917, in Highland Park, coming to Chelsea 21 years ago. He graduated from Chelsea high school in 1935 and for three years has been employed with the Johnston Optical Co., Ann Arbor.

The Basic "A" cards will be issued to all owners of passenger automobiles and the "D" cards for owners of motorcycles. Only the above mentioned basic cards can be obtained at this registration, but owners of vehicles needing more gasoline can obtain the forms to apply for "B" and "C" supplemental cards.

The registration will be handled by teachers and volunteer helpers and the hours and places for registration will be as follows:

Thursday, November 19—1:30 to 6:00 p. m. and 7:30 to 8:30 p. m. in the high school gymnasium.

Friday, November 20—2:30 to 5:30 p. m. in Room 14, high school.

Owners of passenger cars and motorcycles are asked to register at their earliest possible convenience, and to bring with them on applying for rationing books the following:

1. Certificate of registration (not certificate of title).
2. Application blank which can be secured from local gas station or at place of registration. These application blanks should be filled out in advance and signed by car owner.
3. Number of Federal Use Tax (windshield sticker).
4. Serial numbers of all tires. If the numbers are not legible the manufacturers' name and the description of the tires must be given. (Only five (5) tires per vehicle are permitted).

Additional notes:

1. Every applicant must agree at the time of application to drive 35 miles an hour and to use tires carefully.
2. Agree to have tires inspected at regular intervals as stated on application at an official inspection station within a specified period. No tire inspection records are necessary before securing Book "A".

"Dizzy" Trout Sends 3 Autographed Baseballs

Chelsea War Bond and Stamp committee have received three baseballs fully autographed by all members of the Detroit Tigers. These baseballs were presented to the committee by Paul "Dizzy" Trout, pitcher for the Tigers.

The committee plans to place the baseballs on display in local store windows and during the time of display sealed bids in War Bonds will be received for these baseballs. One baseball will be displayed during a specified period and the person making the highest bid on the baseball during that period will receive the ball. War Bonds are to be retained by the bidder.

Definite announcement about the place of displays and procedure of bidding will be made in the next issue of the Standard.

ATTEND INITIATION

Twenty members of Chelsea Rebekah Lodge, No. 130, attended initiation work exemplified by Jackson Home City Lodge, No. 203, on Friday night. The initiates included Misses Doris and Lillian Allshouse and Mrs. Sue Moore of Chelsea.

Fuel Oil Consumers Application Blanks

There seems to be some confusion in the minds of persons applying for fuel oil rationing cards. There are three distinct forms for the consumer of oil and he must be sure that the form which meets his needs is in his hands and properly filled out before sending it to Rationing Board No. 81 in Ann Arbor.

Applications for private dwellings where fuel oil including kerosene is needed for heat and hot water must be made on Form OPA R-1100. This includes trailer houses.

Applications for all premises other than private dwellings, including rooming houses, apartments and stores, where fuel oil including kerosene is needed for heat and hot water must be made on Form OPA R-1101. This includes apartments over store buildings heated by the same unit also churches and schools.

Applications for industrial, commercial and governmental uses of fuel oil, Diesel oil and kerosene for other purposes than heating such as machinery must be made on Form OPA R-1102. This form is not to be used for farm vehicles or farm machinery.

Applications for domestic, institutional and agricultural uses of fuel oil, Diesel oil and kerosene for other purposes than heating such as cooking and lighting on farms, and operation of farm vehicles and machinery, must be made on Form OPA R-1103.

These forms may be obtained from your oil distributors.

Local Drive For Day Room Funds Continued

Response to the drive to raise money for a Chelsea Day Room at Fort Custer has been encouraging, the committee reports, and the drive will be continued this week to insure getting enough money to furnish one room.

Three hundred dollars is the cost of the furniture alone, but will not provide any extras. Since the purpose of this room is for a recreational center, the committee hopes not only to furnish it, but to add some magazine subscriptions, cards and games to make it a real living room.

If those of us who still enjoy the comforts of our own homes will each make a small contribution our boys, who are sacrificing for us, will have a pleasant place to read and write and play. Donations will be received by members of the bank staff and checks may be made out to the American Red Cross.

Annual Boy Scout Drive

The annual Boy Scout financial campaign will get under way in Chelsea during the coming week. The Chelsea Boy Scout Troop is sponsored by our local Kiwanis club and therefore the responsibility for raising this money is to be taken care of by this organization.

The Boy Scouts of America is financed entirely through voluntary contributions and during the next week the Kiwanians will make a house to house canvass of the village soliciting contributions for the Boy Scouts.

Approximately 40 per cent of the money collected will be turned over to the local Boy Scouts' organization and the remainder will be sent to the central offices.

BROTHERS ENTER SERVICE

Jack and James Barkley were honor guests at a farewell party given Saturday evening at the home of their mother, Mrs. Blanche Barkley on Dewey street, previous to their departure to enter army service. Cards furnished entertainment for thirty guests, among whom were Mrs. Russell Atkinson of Cleveland and Mr. and Mrs. William Sly of Ann Arbor. Supper was served and silver cigarette cases were presented the young men as parting souvenirs.

John Lewis Barkley was born Aug. 18, 1918, in Chicago and for eighteen years has made his home in Chelsea. In 1939 and 1940 he was in New York with the American Air Lines and had recently been employed with the Chelsea Fibre Products Co. He was inducted into service at Fort Custer on Monday.

James Hugh Barkley was born Jan. 26, 1924, in Chelsea, where he has always resided. He was an employee of the Dexter Machine Products Co. On November 7, James enlisted in the U. S. Army Air Corps and left this morning to join his brother in Fort Custer.

Premium Money Sent State Fair Exhibitors

Lansing.—The State Department of Agriculture is completing the distribution of $18,729 in premium awards to 186 winners in the state fair exhibits held this fall at 16 county fairs. When the annual state fair was cancelled because the army took over the grounds, Leo V. Card, state commissioner of agriculture, suggested that $85,000 appropriated for premium awards be made available by holding the state fair livestock exhibits at the county fairs and the state 4-H club show in some new location. This represented 50 per cent of the state fair premiums, the remainder having been made up from fair revenues.

The board of fair managers approved the plan which included an allotment of $6,000 for the 4-H show, formerly an annual feature at the state fair.

When the exhibit list had been adjusted to the desires of the county fairs it was found that the allocations could be raised to 60 per cent, or a total of $26,379, leaving $5,621 to cover the 4-H show and incidental expenses.

Entry lists usually are not filled completely and awards at the county fairs were $7,650 short of the total allocation. The state fair board of managers will now be asked by Commissioner Card to use $4,000 of this balance to bring 4-H awards up to 100 per cent. The 4-H show was held at Michigan State college.

200,000 4-H Girls Vie For All-Round Records

More than 200,000 4-H girls in this and 41 other states are now making the final drive to achieve one of the most coveted objectives in club work—that of being chosen as the outstanding all-around girl clubster in their county, state and nation. To gain one or all of these goals, they are participating in the National 4-H Girls' Record contest, in which superior achievements in home economics projects and activities are also rewarded in the form of medals, trips, and college scholarships.

That participants in this annual contest have well-rounded 4-H records is reflected in the achievements of previous winners. Their records show that they know how to keep healthy, improve their room, renovate old clothes into "new" and becoming garments, prepare and serve nutritious meals, keep house, can foods, raise gardens, beautify home surroundings, handle poultry and livestock, exhibit, demonstrate, and judge, as well as take active part in community life.

County winners receive gold medals, recipients of state honors are awarded all-expense trips to the 21st National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago, November 29 to December 2, and national winners are presented with a $200 college scholarship each.

THE HOME FRONT IN MICHIGAN

The raw materials front of the United Nations—a front that, like the fighting front, stretches around the world—is being strengthened by cooperative planning. This fact was brought home to Michigan in bold relief this week. Instead of sending Russia more manufactured rubber tires made to Russian dimensions, this nation is sending a tire manufacturing plant, bought by the government under lend-lease for Russia from the Ford Motor Co. The tire plant, prior to the war, was an important unit of Henry Ford's vast Rouge plant at Dearborn.

To help keep Americans warm this winter the War Production Board has ordered an additional 6,000,000 pounds of wool made available for manufacturing sweaters, shawls, knitted underwear, etc. This wool is over and above the yarn currently going into knitted goods.

Take good care of your vacuum cleaner, Mrs. Michigan, or expect to be back to the old days of broom sweeping. Present stocks of new vacuum cleaners have been frozen for the armed forces and may not be released to civilians unless stocks are found later to be sufficient.

A long-range plan for controlling the flow of critical materials into war production—the Controlled Materials Plan—has just been put into effect by WPE. At the same time, further curtailment in use of critical metals for any but war uses becomes effective. Use of stainless steel in more than 75 products, from coffee pots to farm machinery, has been prohibited. Idle and excess stocks of stainless steel will be redistributed for war use.

To save metals and rubber, typewriter manufacture stopped at the end of October. But the government needs 600,000 typewriters, chiefly for the use of the Army and Navy—contracts must be typed and so must military orders and documents. The government wants to buy standard-size machines made since Jan. 1, 1935. Patriotic citizens and firms who wish to dispose of machines they can spare may sell them through authorized local typewriter dealers.

Migratory farm workers who use trucks traveling from job to job and who are far from home are urged to consult the nearest Office of Defense Transportation district headquarters on how to apply for Certificates of War-Necessity for their vehicles. ODT is racing against time to get these certificates in the mail for the nation's more than 5,000,000 commercial motor vehicles before November 15. Without a Certificate of War Necessity a commercial motor vehicle operator will not be able to buy gasoline, tires and spare parts.

Young America—the diaper set—is not due for immediate introduction to war-imposed shortages. At least there will be enough three-cornered panties to go around, even with the increasing national birth rate.

Are you cooking with gas? Seriously, Mrs. Michigan, conservation of gas is one way you can help the war effort. Cutting down on gas in home heating and cooking does two things—it makes more available for war industries and, of course, it lowers your bill.

Dots and Dashes

Milk cans and all wire fencing used on farms will be rationed through the Department of Agriculture... use of new burlap bags will be restricted to sacking up barley, beans and peas, dairy products, potatoes, rice, rock salt, feeds and meals for animals, dried fruits, nuts, seeds, raw sugar, wheat, wool, wool products and a few other items.

Motorists seeking more mileage than the basic ration under mileage rationing will have to furnish specific, detailed information about their driving requirements on a supplemental form supplied by OPA... incidentally, OPA has called upon local war price and rationing boards to appoint competent tire men in their communities as inspectors so that the plan for periodic tire inspection can be handled with a minimum of inconvenience to vehicle operators.

Increasing pressure on price ceilings over woodpulp, news print and other paper products has been halted by OPA in an action freezing current prices on pulpwood cut in Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota... meat slaughtered on farms for home use and that which families purchase in quantities for storage in freezer lockers should be counted in the 2½-pound weekly sharing allowance.

Steps to assure that a particular type of rubber footwear best suited to needs of miners will be rationed only to persons in that occupation have been taken by OPA... this agency also has authorized increases of about 20 per cent in cigar prices.

Tract in Waterloo Area Available To Hunters

Jackson.—Opened in time for the last month of duck hunting, an additional 2,200 acres of the Waterloo area which is mostly marsh has become available to hunters with the completion of posting of both sanctuaries and outside limits, the conservation department reports.

The lease under which the conservation department is taking over management of the hunting ground part of the area—about 8,500 acres of the 12,300 now federally owned—was drawn with a view to blocking in the tract through purchase of another 5,000 acres.

The Waterloo park area, including the Cassidy and Portage lake developments and covering 3,800 acres, is continuing under national parks service administration. This too may eventually be administered by the state conservation department, and blocked in by purchase of another 1,000 acres.

Our Neighbors

HOWELL.—Mrs. T. N. Darling is not only an exception to the rule that women can't shoot, but she can kill two birds with one stone, or rather, shot. On the Mason road last Friday afternoon with her husband and son, Dick, she came on two cock pheasants, aimed at one and turned to see that the other had been injured also. Through the series of events, the rest of the family retrieved one of them, and yet when they returned to her with what they thought was her one prize there Mrs. Darling stood with another in her hand. Any glory that husband Ted and Dick claim is sheer bluff and bravado. Mary knows that powder can spread and sticks to her story.—County Press.

MORENCI.—Morenci's new industry, the Michigan Egg Dryers Incorporated, expects to be ready to start egg drying operations the first of next week. They will employ around 90 to 100 persons and at the start will use 600 cases of eggs a day, each case containing 30 dozen eggs. This capacity will doubtless be increased as production gets under way. The entire output will be sold to the United States government to fill lend-lease contracts. Most of the product will be sent to England and Russia and they also hope to fill army and navy contracts soon.—Observer.

PLYMOUTH.—According to Earl Russell, president of the Plymouth Chamber of Commerce, there will be no uniform Christmas decorations on the business streets of the city this year. "We intend to comply fully with the War Department request and the recommendation of The United States Chamber that we forego any decorating this year," he said. The request was made by the War Department as part of its program to conserve light and manpower throughout the nation.—Mail.

Visiting Time Reduced One Hour at Ft. Custer

Fort Custer.—Visiting hours for the friends and relatives of Selectees passing through the Fort Custer Recruitment Reception Center have been reduced by one hour with the onset of winter weather, it has been announced by Lieut. Col. Eldon M. Stenjen, commanding officer of the unit.

Visitors for the Reception Center may enter the post from 1:00 to 5:30 p. m. daily and from 9:30 a. m. to 5:30 p. m. on Sundays and holidays. They must be off the post by 6:00 p. m., instead of seven o'clock as formerly.

Selectees sent to Fort Custer remain here only a short time, and visitors should expect to find occasionally their friends have moved out unexpectedly. Orders to move come suddenly and since for safety of convoys the men are not told where they are going, they cannot let their friends know of the move until it is completed.

800 Lucky Hunters To Get Special Permits

Allegan.—Special permits are being mailed this week to 800 lucky hunters who will have two opportunities to get a deer this season—one in the north for an antlered buck, and if unsuccessful there, a second in Allegan county December 1-10 for antlerless deer only.

Theodore Bowler of Clare, president of Michigan United Conservation Clubs, drew the "unlucky" numbers from a fisherman's creel in the lottery at Lansing. The first 228 drawn were eliminated, and the remaining 800, including 48 farmers residing in the 30,000-acre area being hunted, qualified for permits. Last year 500 were chosen from among 1,175 applicants.

Of these 500, 384 actually hunted, and the season reduced the herd in the crop damage area by 44 animals. Crop damage was less this spring than in previous years, but in recent weeks it has increased again.

Gas rationing is expected to have little effect on the antlerless season as more than 50 per cent of the hunters last year came from within a 50-mile radius, and this percentage is expected to be even higher this season. For some hunters with thin tires, Allegan may provide the only deer hunting they could reach.

Studebaker says:
"Wartime care will save your car"

Government regulation of driving makes it clear that every one of our cars and trucks is vital to the nation's need for essential wartime transportation.

Less driving means more danger from corrosion, sticking parts and leaking engine gaskets. Slower speeds make small irregularities of engine performance more bothersome.

Your car should be lubricated and inspected on the basis of time rather than mileage intervals. Use your car carefully. Give it regular maintenance. This is the best way to preserve it. Simple, yes, but important.

Studebaker dealers are engaged in a wartime service program—to assist you—regardless of the make of car or truck you own.

Vitamin B Bread—The Body Builder

No. 7 of the Nutrition Series

Flour is America's most useful and most economical energy-building food. When nutritionists reported that many people do not get enough of some of the B vitamins and iron in their diets, it was decided that by ENRICHING flour, which everyone eats, the nation would be better nourished.

ENRICHED flour is flour to which important vitamins and minerals have been added. It looks, tastes and bakes like ordinary flour. Food authorities now urge homemakers, as a matter of health insurance, to see that the flour they use is enriched.

BUTTERCRUST ROLLS (About 2½ Dozen)

1 cake compressed yeast (¼ ounce).	1 egg
½ cup lukewarm water	½ cup bran
½ cup boiling water	About 3 cups sifted enriched all-purpose flour

¼ teaspoon salt

1. Dissolve yeast in lukewarm water.
2. Combine boiling water, shortening, sugar and salt. Cool mixture to lukewarm; add well-beaten egg, dissolved yeast, bran and flour.
3. Mix dough but do not knead it. Put into a large buttered bowl, cover and chill in a refrigerator.
4. Toss dough on lightly floured board and roll about ¼-inch thick.
5. Cut in strips 1 inch wide and then cut the strips in 1-inch squares. Brush one side of each square with melted butter.

24 Years Ago

Thursday, November 14, 1918

Residents of Chelsea and vicinity put in a strenuous day Monday celebrating the signing of the armistice. All business places and schools were closed for the day. In the evening a huge street parade was held. Otto's band of Ann Arbor headed the parade and gave a concert at the corner of Main and Middle streets. It was the biggest day Chelsea ever had.

The engagement of Miss Grace Fletcher of Chelsea and Arthur Moehman of Detroit has been announced. George Seitz, who is employed as a fireman on the Michigan Central railroad, has purchased a residence in Jackson and is moving his family there at once.

Mrs. H. T. McKune of Lyndon township has received a telegram from the war department at Washington stating that her son, Herbert, 20 years old, had been killed in action in France on October 4.

Mrs. E. W. Holden of Sylvan died on Sunday, November 10, 1918.

34 Years Ago

Thursday, November 12, 1908

Mrs. John Clark of Lyndon died on Friday, November 6, 1908.

Charles and Chris Prenting have left for Montana where they will spend the winter.

Miss Ethel Wright and Harold Pierce have been engaged for the season to act as house orchestra for the Sylvan theatre. They will also furnish the music at the Chicago theatre on Saturday nights and for special shows.

Frank Leach has shipped considerable stock from Chelsea this week. Monday he sent 33 head of cattle to Lorain, Ohio, Tuesday a carload of hogs to the same place and on Wednesday he sold a carload of hogs in Detroit.

Michigan is breaking into the air-bore a postal card asking the finder ship business. The first of the week to fill it out and return it telling Frank Guerin found a paper balloon where it was found. The balloon was about 2 miles east of Chelsea which sent up at Detroit, July 4.

Conserve Coal

Use this
Fuel Saving
Firing
Method

Right now it is more important than ever to conserve coal. You can have plenty of heat and still conserve coal by following a few simple rules in operating your heating plant:

Keep the smoke pipe, the radiator chamber and the heating surfaces in the fire box clean. Make all connections and seams in the furnace, smoke pipe connection with the furnace, and chimney tight. Make sure all doors fit properly and that all dampers are in good working order. Replace any broken grates.

The conical method of firing low volatile Fuel Satisfaction has been thoroughly tested and has proven to be most economical and efficient.

Start this method now — pile (don't throw) coal in the center of the fire box, thus creating a cone-shaped pile for round fire boxes, and a ridge-shaped pile for rectangular fire boxes. Heaping coal in the center results in the larger pieces rolling to the sides, thus permitting a freer flow of air, which makes the fire hottest next to the side heating surfaces. The slack, or fine coal, helps to build the cone; it cokes properly, and holds fire longer. Bank the fire at night with slack coal, and adjust all dampers to retard burning.

When refueling open the smoke pipe and ash pit dampers and close the check damper. After refueling, open the ash pit damper and adjust the smoke pipe and check dampers to meet heating demands.

Before refueling, occasionally it may be well to push a poker through the top of the cone-shaped pile and crack it. Never use a poker in a way that will stir up the fire. If a quick, hot fire is wanted, don't stir, but shake the grates gently, crack the cone slightly, and open the drafts. Do not shake grates violently but rock them gently until first red sparks appear in ash pit — a layer of ashes on top of grates protects them. Keep ash pit clean. Cover the entire grate area with a bed of fuel. A thin fuel bed is wasteful. A thick fuel bed lasts longer and gives more uniform heat.

When using high volatile Fuel Satisfaction, the alternate method of firing is recommended — place coal on opposite sides of fire box each time coal is added, instead of building a cone in the center.

first team, as you will note in the following: Tom Lyons and Jack Weir, ends; Joe Merkel and Charles Downer, tackles; Bob Strieter and Duane LaVan, centers; Dwight Gadd, Dan Ewald, Dick Kern, Bob Edgar and Bud Slane, backs. While Edgar and Slane are not seniors, they will have completed their eight semesters of schooling by next June, so will be ineligible for sports next year.

The merchants of Chelsea have cooperated wholeheartedly with the athletic council of the school, and are closing their establishments between the hours of 3:00 and 5:00 on Friday afternoon. The athletic council, representing the school, thanks them most graciously for this sporting gesture which feeling is also seconded by the team. To make it complete, all of you that possibly can, why not come to the game?

And now in closing may I quote from one of our great leaders, Gen. Douglas MacArthur—"On the fields of friendly strife are sown the seeds which in other years on other fields will bear the fruits of victory."

1942 Deer Season Opens Sunday, November 15

Lansing — In Michigan's regular 1942 deer season opening Sunday, November 15, wartime conditions are making transportation the primary consideration for most hunters; while conservation department field men report that such peacetime considerations as weather and deer abundance are both highly favorable to hunter success.

The beginning of nation-wide gasoline rationing November 22, in the middle of the season, is expected to concentrate most of the hunting in the first week and in the southern fringe of the deer territory. Guesses vary widely, however, on the degree to which any particular area will be affected.

Some hunters inconvenienced by the ammunition shortage will be hunting with borrowed rifles of the less popular calibers, for which shells are still available. Many resorts catering to hunters are reported well stocked, but cautious hunters who will cook their own are taking along ample supplies of coffee, sugar and bacon. Sportsmen this season also have the novel wartime responsibilities of salvaging empty brass shells for possible reloading, excess deer fat for explosives making, and deer hides to supplement the nation's limited leather supply.

Light starvation losses in the last two winters and a favorable summer have left the deer herd in excellent condition in most areas, according to field reports.

FAMILY NIGHT SUPPER

About 100 members and friends of the Congregational church were present at the first Family Night supper of the fall season on Thursday evening. A delicious pot-luck supper was served. Following the supper several songs were sung by the group. Miss Lucia Lyons of Detroit was the guest speaker. She was a Missionary in occupied China and was repatriated and returned home on the Grisholm late in the summer. Miss Lyons told many interesting things concerning life in China under Japanese rule.

Gas Rationing Has Been Postponed

"A" card may be issued if a signature other than that of the registered owner appears on the application. If the application is not signed by the registered owner, they will be referred to the War Price and Rationing Board.

Every owner of a private passenger car or motorcycle will apply at the schoolhouse in the school district where he lives, not in the school district where he works, to secure basic mileage ration books.

In school districts in which the school is closed and the pupils are transported to another district the board of the closed school has the option of registering the car owners or of requesting the teacher of the school to which the children are transported to take charge of the registering.

Representatives of industrial plants, Civilian Defense organization, and school officials met last week Friday in the Rackham Building, Ann Arbor, for a three-hour session at the invitation of the local administrator of war transportation, William Strickland, to receive latest information on ride-sharing as it relates to mileage rationing.

Chelsea, Dexter, Saline, Tecumseh, Milan, Wayne and Ypsilanti sent representatives in addition to Ann Arbor. E. C. Hahow, deputy state administrator for war transportation, declared that the purpose of rationing is to divert mileage into essential driving only, not to eliminate essential driving.

He explained that every plant employing 100 or more workers must have a plant committee to certify supplementary applications on the basis of share-riding with three or more workers or must certify that such share-riding is impossible and no public transportation available. Persons swapping rides may be eligible for supplementary gasoline.

Plants employing 50 to 100 men may also be asked by the local war price and rationing board to set up similar committees to certify supplementary applications. Tire inspection stations at garages and service stations are now being chosen in every community, stated Harlan P. Cristy, rationing attorney for the Office of Price Administration in Detroit. Location of inspection stations will be announced soon.

"The rationing program will actually make more tires available if the applicant can show he is share-riding," stressed Mr. Cristy. "This does not mean tires for everyone but everyone holding gas coupons has a place on the eligibility list for tires of some grade."

All car owners must have tires inspected before Jan. 1, 1943, and will receive a record sheet for this at the time they secure basic A mileage books.

Holders of A cards will be required to have their tires inspected every four months. Holders of B or C cards will be required to have inspection every two months. The purpose of tire inspection is to advise motorists to recap tires as soon as necessary. When the owner receives his A book he should sign the back of the cover page in the presence of the registrar for the sake of future identification. Basic mileage coupon books are divided into two month intervals within which specified amounts of gasoline must be used up or the coupon becomes invalid.

Applicants for supplementary rations will receive a blank to state additional need at the schools when they get A coupon books. Supplementary blanks are to be filled in at home states Mrs. Luella Smith, war price and rationing administrator for Washtenaw county, with the help of information centers which will be opened by the ODVO and announced later. The supplementary application must then be mailed to the war price and rationing board in Ann Arbor for consideration. All such applications will be passed upon by the rationing board and volunteers will not make decisions.

National Book Week November 15 to 21

The week of November 15 to 21 has been designated as National Book Week this year. At this time special effort is made in the schools and libraries to emphasize the importance of books in the everyday life of the people. The Chelsea public library has also arranged a week of special events for Book Week.

Open house will be held at the library every afternoon during library hours with special exhibits and displays. Everyone is invited to visit the library sometime during this week. School children are invited to visit the library in groups.

As in the past few years, a lecture program will be held Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock with a speaker from Ypsilanti state teachers' college. The public is invited to attend this meeting and enjoy an evening with books.

As a special feature this year displays will be arranged in several store windows. Old Bibles will be displayed by Mrs. A. Wilkinson and Miss Lillie Wackenhut.

Mrs. Philip Olin will arrange an exhibit in the window of Walworth & Strieter's store of "My Favorite Book."

"Older Books" will be arranged by Mrs. John Hale and Mrs. Leigh Palmer in the windows of the Chelsea Hardware.

Books and Bookmarks will be displayed in the south window of the Schneider & Kusterer store to be arranged by Mrs. Howard Flintoff and Mrs. A. Mayer.

These committees urgently call upon the public for contributions for these displays. Anyone having material for any or all of these exhibits please call the respective committee members or leave the material at the library anytime until Monday, November 16. Your cooperation is solicited.

Technical and Scientific Books
Whereas the soldier of World War I preferred D'Artagnan to all other book themes, according to the library staff of the Los Angeles campus of the University of California, soldier demands today are vastly different. The Victory Book campaign lists technical and scientific books first, but they must have been published since 1935. The list by current local demand, includes books on photography, mechanical drawing, current affairs, action, medicine, sports, history, applied psychology, law, travel, business, geography and biography. Camp librarians include books on poetry, music and playwriting. Magazines are not wanted.

Calories Needed
The number of calories needed daily depends on your physical activity. If you eat more fats and carbohydrates than your body needs for heat and energy, they are converted into fat and stored in the body to be used as fuel at some future time. This does not apply to proteins, B vitamins and minerals.

By Gene Allaman

Unless Harry F. Kelly breaks another precedent in Michigan history, he can look forward to two years of public service as Governor and no more.

The Republican secretary of state, victor in the G. O. P. landslide of November 3, upset one historical habit of voters in not changing their governor during a war. War Governors Austin Blair, Hazen Pingree and Albert E. Sleeper were all returned to office by a public which evidently cherished the old admonition against "swapping horses in mid-stream."

However, the custom didn't save the genial, capable Murray D. Van Wagoner, smiling "Pat" to thousands of his friends, from being buried beneath a 75,000 Kelly majority. The "war governor" will be retired in favor of an opposition candidate whose record in the World War was most distinguished, having been awarded the French Croix de Guerre for valor.

Another fact still remains: For seven successive elections, a majority of the voters of Michigan have switched allegiances. Every other year an opposition candidate has ousted the incumbent governor — seven times straight!

Between 1892 and 1912 the Wolverine state was tagged by politicians as "Safely" Republican. Republican Governor Blair had put the state well into the Republican column during the Civil War. The memory of Lincoln became a rallying point in succeeding campaigns, and the state remained G. O. P. for twelve elections until the turn of the nineties. Edwin B. Winans, Democrat, won in 1890 by only 11,500 plurality. The state then remained Republican until 1914 when Woodbridge N. Ferris defeated the field to win by a plurality of 35,000.

Michigan then returned to its Republican voting habit until the Roosevelt New Deal swept across the nation like a tidal wave in 1932, and William A. Comstock, a conservative Democrat, became governor.

Since advent of the New Deal which hastened the development of social legislation at Washington such as unemployment compensation and old age pensions, the state has gone Republican for two years and then Democratic for the next two.

Wilbur M. Brucker was the first victim of the Democratic upset in 1932. Every governor from that day on has held office for two years—and no more!

Here is the procession, just to refresh your memory:
1930—Wilbur M. Brucker, Rep.
1932—William A. Comstock, Dem.
1934—Frank D. Fitzgerald, Rep.
1936—Frank Murphy, Dem.
1938—Frank D. Fitzgerald, Rep.
1940—Murray D. Van Wagoner, D.
1942—Harry F. Kelly, Rep.

Why have the voters switched favors so consistently, as the above record bears out?
From a state considered in the past to be Republican, Michigan has become fighting ground for both parties every other year with better than even chances of victory for the opposition.

These have been times of depression—ups and downs in employment. They have been years of labor unrest—strikes, sit-downs, organization ferment. Farm prices have been low.

Michigan, once an agricultural state, is now heavily industrial. Security through governmental action has been replacing security through individual initiative. More and more centralized control at Lansing and Washington has been the trend. More bureaus, more employees and higher payrolls have followed each administration, almost regardless of party, during these years of economic and social turmoil.

Why did the voters swing the pendulum once again in Michigan?

Your guess is just as good as ours. Last March we appraised the trend as follows:

"If the fall elections were to be held today, many Michigan officeholders would be buried in a landslide protest. Right or wrong, the man on the street is pretty mad today. He is mad about the way the war is going. He is mad about labor's insistence of double pay for Sunday work, while the government asks him to buy bonds cheerfully and to pay more taxes. He is mad about a 40-hour week, while his son serves in the army for $21 a month."

It was our observation eight months ago that "voters usually do the irrational thing when they are in a mood to kick someone in the pants—whether the fault lies at Washington or at home."

Again in early August we sized up public opinion as follows:

"The key to the 1942 primary and election, will be the war. If the war is going badly as it is today, watch out! If the tide turns, voters will be more cheerful, less in a mood to kick someone in the pants. . . . Generally speaking, 1942 is already tagged an 'emotional year.'"

We have an affectionate regard and respect for both Murray D. Van Wagoner and Harry F. Kelly.

But we still believe the vote in November was influenced chiefly by upset emotions of many Americans who don't like the way the war is going.

Looking for someone to kick in the pants, they found Governor Van Wagoner within ballot-box reach.

Will the voters again swing over to an opposition candidate in 1944? Based upon contemporary history, the chances are seven to one that they will.

We offer one final observation. Harry F. Kelly upset one precedent in 1942. He may do it again in 1944.

Spiced Coffee

Early records show that the first coffee drink served in a New York coffee house combined cinnamon with coffee with honey added for sweetness sake. That was in the year 1688 when coffee was introduced in America for the first time. Four years later coffee was being made in the homes of New Yorkers and coffee spiced with cinnamon continued to be as popular a drink at the home hearthside as it was in the public coffee houses. Smart hostesses are reviving the coffee-with-cinnamon drink at parties today. It's "Coffee Imperial" now and here's the 1941 version of the New Yorker's first cup of coffee:

Put dash of cinnamon in each coffee cup; pour in hot, freshly made coffee. Top with whipped cream and dust with cinnamon.

Covering Scratches
A quick, easy way to cover scratches, water marks or hot dish rings on dark furniture which has a dull finish is to use liquid shoe polish. It comes in dark and red brown. Match it with your furniture and apply with a sponge, using just enough to cover and color the blemish. Rub dry with a soft cloth. Put a few drops of oil on the cloth and go over it gently the last time.

Soybean Oil Aids Farmers—The Connecticut agricultural experiment station has announced an increase in the tobacco crop yield after using soybean oil meal instead of cottonseed meal in fertilizer experiments. Average results for five years showed a 7 per cent increase in the yield of soybean-treated plots, while the grade index increased 8.5 per cent and the total crop index (yield by grade) 14 per cent. Other experiments show nitrogen from castor pomace to be 20 to 25 per cent more efficient than nitrogen from soybean oil. 14 to 15 per cent more efficient than cottonseed.

The New Fire Alarm System
Perhaps you have noticed the little red boxes on each floor of the school building. These are a part of the new fire alarm system which is used for both air-raid and fire signals.

The fire alarm is a series of rapidly ringing vibrations. Immediately when this alarm is heard each teacher and pupil must leave the school without stopping to finish what he is doing or to take his books along. Although he should hurry out he should not run for fear of falling. The first people out of the school should go a safe distance from the school.

The air-raid alarm is a series of three short vibrations with a few seconds between each group of three rings. The boys are supposed to go to the boys' basement while the girls remain in their seats. Immediately after the boys have gone the girls go to the girls' basement.

These alarms are very important to everyone in the building so they should be left alone by those who have no right to touch them. They are very important for clearing the building in case of fire and getting pupils to the safest place in the building in case of an air-raid.

Class Incidents

Oh-h does that look bad! Some of the Shop II boys are making dog houses. Well, they have to have some place to sleep when the situation gets bad around home.

By the appearance of Miss McDonald's Latin class and G. A. A. last Thursday the football game must have been most interesting to school.

Wouldn't B. West look cute in France, giving someone a guinea hen for a dress, Mr. Chandler meant money, nemine.

In English one day last week Dick Barton was asked what "erect carriage" meant. His answer, "A straight buggy."

The first hour A History class loves cats. Anyway, Friday morning everyone was playing with one. The poor cat!

There is going to be an All-Hi party this Friday, November 13. An Assembly will be held this Friday at 10:30. The Bentley Trio will furnish the entertainment.

Chorus

The Chorus concert that was scheduled for November 1, has been postponed until after Christmas. The purpose of this concert is to promote the sale of defense bonds and stamps. The Chorus is also planning a Christmas concert.

The male section of the Chorus has been increased by a new member, Dick Poor, and it is hoped that more boys will join to make a more favorable balance of the Chorus.

Band News

The Band now has a business manager to plan the details of trips, programs and other activities. Dwight Gadd, a senior, has been appointed to this position. His first important project will be the Sylvan Theatre program on December 1. Arrangements have been made for another high school night at the theatre with a large share of the proceeds going to the Band treasury.

The program that was originally scheduled to take place November 1, has been postponed until after Christmas.

Plans are rapidly being made for the theatre program which will take place December 1. There will be three performances, one at 7:00 in the afternoon for the children to attend, and two in the evening. It is hoped that the people of Chelsea will turn out as they did to the performance last year and support the Band.

F. F. A.

F. F. A. planned a night meeting which took place last Wednesday, November 11, entertaining the Sophomore Green Hands. They are also registering purchased gifts. Charles Downer has won two first places on steers at the recent State F. F. A. Fat-Stock Show at Detroit. He has purchased two more steers to feed for the next fall show.

Chelsea Defeats Roosevelt

Last Thursday, Chelsea's football team defeated the surprisingly strong Roosevelt team, 21-13. Roosevelt, although they did not win a game this year, did what no other Huron League team was able to do, score against Chelsea on the ground. Previous to this game, Chelsea had yielded only one touchdown all year and that one going to Dundee on a pass.

Chelsea scored in the first few minutes of play when Gadd went off tackle for a touchdown. Roosevelt tied the score in the second quarter when Miller raced 75 yards for a touchdown. The remainder of the first half was scoreless as costly penalties kept Chelsea from scoring a couple of touchdowns.

In the third quarter a pass to Policht put the ball on the one-yard line from where on his third try Edgar went over for a touchdown. Gadd bucked over for the extra point. In the fourth quarter Chelsea scored again when Policht caught a 30-yard pass and ran the remaining 25 yards for a touchdown. Late in the game Miller scored again for Roosevelt. Chelsea also got a safety when Blair was tackled in the end zone.

Joe Merkel played a whale of a game for Chelsea on defense—also Joe did the thing that every lineman dreams about, he stole the ball from a Roosevelt back and ran 10 yards before being tackled. Policht also did some nice pass catching, helping to pull Chelsea out of many holes.

Chelsea has completed their Huron League season, which was a very successful one as they finished third in the standings with four wins, one loss and two ties.

On Friday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock at the local athletic field, Chelsea closes the season against its traditional foe, Manchester. This will be the last game for some of the boys. They are Capt. Strieter, Kern, Lyons, Merkel, Downer, Weir, Gadd, LyVan and Ewald, lost through graduation, and Slane and Edgar, who have completed their scholastic eligibility.

Sadie Hawkins Day

Signs around school sort of warned the boys about the big event Friday—Sadie Hawkins Day.

Friday morning many of the girls appeared in bikini skirts and pig-tails. The pig-tails made quite an improvement on some of the girls while on others—well!

Throughout the day the girls teased the boys with the common courtesies such as holding the doors while the boys entered rooms, or went outside or inside of buildings, they waited for the boys to get drinks, and they carried the boys books from class to class.

Some one heard Helen G. say to Bob S., "You're my man!" but Bob wasn't so slow on the draw, he gave her his books for the day.

After school there was a dance with the girls escorting the boys or, worse, wiser. Everyone noticed the usual couples for instance Esther R. and Donald A. each of the couples with her Bob E., Jeannette M. and Tom L. made up the usual couple.

One of the many surprises of the day was when Joyce E. and Leon McC. appeared together after three or four weeks' silence.

Another surprise was when the junior girls stopped a certain freshman from the West 17th carrying off their prize.

Several girls overheard her say about a certain junior boy (with dark curly hair) "I think he's cute and nice, too."

After the dance some of the girls took the boys to John's and stood the expenses, while some boys still remained gentlemen and paid the expenses.

Everyone certainly had a grand time and although last year the after-school dances didn't succeed, the students who attended this dance certainly had fun and hope to have another one very soon.

Homemaking News

When the Homemaking class made their investigation through their food survey, they found that 52 per cent of the high school students did not eat a fresh vegetable daily. What a waste of these 52 per cent of our students! They have for not, including a fresh vegetable daily?

Now, you may buy vegetables, such as, cabbage, pumpkin, lettuce, carrots, turnips, spinach and potatoes. They are on the market at the present time.

A lack of vegetables in the daily diet results in the following: Poor blood circulation, as a result of constipation, running nose, no appetite and nervousness.

Are we, the students of Chelsea high, going to waste our money paying for doctor bills, laxatives and cold pills?

Senior News

For the All-Hi party this coming Friday the seniors are planning super entertainment. The following committee was appointed for this task:

Thomas Lyons, chairman, and Bob Strieter, Jeannette May, Dorothy McCleary, Dick Kern and Helen Grawbowski.

Also, this Friday, is Chelsea's final football game, and consequently the seniors' last refreshment stand at the athletic field. If you haven't tried one of those delicious hot dogs and green spot, yet, don't forget to do it this Friday.

Assemblies

Last Thursday Mr. Johnson gave a short talk on the new fire alarm system which has been installed in the school within the past three weeks. He explained how the system worked and he also informed us that when the bell rings continuously without stopping it means it is an air-raid warning; when it rings and then stops and then rings and stops and so on, it represents a fire.

Mr. Johnson also stated that if anyone sets off a false alarm it will be a serious thing. He also made it clear that when the fire bell rings and it is just a drill, everyone should leave the building, following these instructions: Walk fast, but don't run, don't push and go far enough away from the building so that others coming out after you can get out.

Friday morning there was a fire drill and everyone acted as instructed. Wednesday, during activity period, assemblies were held, one for the boys and one for the girls. There were really four assemblies instead of two, because the junior high and senior high had separate assemblies.

The "Sadie Hawkins Day" was an event which resulted from the senior girls assembly. At the assemblies promises were made to make Chelsea high school a better place to attend. Mr. Richards promised to let the pupils have more of these assemblies, which is believed by everyone to be a good thing. One of the important problems which came up in the senior high girls discussion was the wearing of slacks to school. Almost everyone agreed after awhile that school wasn't the right place to wear slacks after all. Most of the girls feel that "there is a time and place for everything."

Graduates of '43 (?)

Luther Kusterer, the senior class treasurer, towers above almost everyone in school, not only in scholastic grades, since Luther is very studious, but also in height. He is 6 feet, 1 1/2 inches tall. Luther is slim. He weighs only 150 pounds, has brown eyes and brown hair. He likes to eat real well and never seems to stop eating. Escaloped potatoes, which is his favorite dish. The two things which Luther likes to do best are play basketball and golf.

Student Council

The Student Council has been discussing the problem whether our school should enroll in the "Victory Corp," but they have decided to leave this decision up to the Defense Council.

The trip that the Student Council was to take to Flat Rock for the Huron League Conference has been cancelled. Everyone was sorry to hear that.

Conservation Club

Conservation club is planting 300 evergreen trees on the sewage disposal grounds. They were invited by the Rod and Gun club to attend a meeting at Marilyn Inn last Tuesday evening, November 10.

Hi-Y News

The Hi-Y boys are going to sell Christmas cards again this year, but they haven't received them yet. Also they are planning a swim but the details have not yet been worked out.

Shop

The boys are busy working on their various projects. In Farm Shop, Charles Downer has just completed a hog house. Some of the boys are now constructing self-feeders, and others are making trailers.

BOMBS BURST ONCE

By Granville Church
WNU Features.

"Good! Now for some details." They talked, planned, argued this point and that, the full trip. It was after four when they reached Tempujo, pushing the car into the yards from a long distance outside, and Curt hooked up the speedometer again.

There was movement at the woodpile in back of the mess-hall. Smoke rose from the stove-pipe of the lean-to kitchen, and the smell of roasting coffee beans wafted pungently to them.

"Man!" muttered Collins, "what I'd give for a good cup of coffee!" "Forget it," said Curt. "You've got to look your worst for Montaya. He's a pretty slick hombre. Go without breakfast, don't shave, and don't sleep. That worked on me."

They approached Curt's bungalow cautiously, found Monahan on the job.

"Nary a soul been around," the man said.

"Good. Slats, we've got a job on our hands. Bad job. Want in?" "Hey! Why'd you suppose I squatted here all night without an argument?"

Curt chuckled. In the lee of the hibiscus hedge he told Monahan who Collins was, why he was here, what the two of them had just found. The lanky shovel man didn't ask a question throughout the recital, and the only surprise he expressed was one "I'll be darned!" He could listen, this fellow.

"Everything hinges on my getting Lee and the kids over to Soledad today. I've got that planned. If it works, we'll have Jerry with us. The four of us will get across the flats as we two did tonight—about midnight."

"Jerry, Collins and I will have our work cut out for us, but a good deal depends on you, Slats. Your job will be to make your way up through San Alejo to the radio station above; get the drop one way or another on whoever's stationed there, and smash the sending apparatus beyond easy repair. This will cover our escape but leave you holding the bag." Curt's tone was a little disturbed. "Only way of your getting out is over the Quebrados and across the Negro into Associated territory."

"Don't worry about me. I can make it."

"Good. This leaves one thing. We want to see the murderers of Mitch and Zora and Bill get what's coming to them."

"Yeh," Monahan spat.

"Well, we haven't figured out a synchronization to take care of all the ringleaders. All we can plan on are Ryden and Lannestock. If we can get them to the lower end of the field we'll be halfway satisfied. Now, the hangar entrances are bound to be wired for alarm, but we can't be certain there's no break in the circuit since whenever they last tested it."

"So we plan to fire the grass. Those two babies will be so concerned for the safety of the hangars it should bring them on the double. But it'll be midnight, they'll be asleep, we can't even be certain they'll have a guard to raise an alarm. At one o'clock straight up you telephone the field."

"Yeh, got your point. Can do."

"And we need some explosives—dynamite, powder."

"Easy. I can get that." "Well, then, that's the best we've worked out so far. See if you can think up anything. Meanwhile, good luck."

Montaya had said he'd be at Tempujo early on Sunday. Early for him must have meant ten o'clock. He was headed for Cabeza. Curt wondered why, then remembered that the Keito Maru, in port yesterday, was pulling out today.

With German shipping chased from the seas, with the British blockade pretty effective in the Atlantic, contact with Berlin had to make a detour. A long one.

Montaya had his black brief case with him and never let it leave his hands. Reports, decided Curt, and probably pictures of the assembled plane. Even gangsters want some kind of proof for the money they pay out.

The senior talked with Collins on the river docks, and Collins, while seemingly as sick and neat as he could make himself, except for not having shaved—put on a good show as a tramp.

Montaya looked him over coldly, asked him a good many questions, especially about the Rosario mines from which the man was supposed to have come recently. This roused apprehension in Curt, but Collins had schooled himself well before crossing the river. He knew the answers.

At the end Montaya was satisfied and Curt nodded dismissal to the man, saying shortly, "I'll be sending the launch up river at day-break. Be on it. And keep away from the bar. One drink and you're out on your ear!"

Collins slunk away.

Montaya was using the launch for his trip, to Cabeza today. Curt descended to the floating stage to see him off. And here the first step in his plans nearly misfired. Setting out from Riverbend was a small skiff. Though Montaya was patiently anxious to be on his way, Curt had to keep him talking long enough for that skiff to reach the Tempujo shore.

True, there was plenty to say, but it wasn't essential at the moment, with Montaya in a hurry, and it began to sound a trifle hollow when at last the little boat from Riverbend bumped the stage and out climbed a native with a letter for Curt.

Montaya's eyes narrowed. No longer was he in such impatience to get started. Curt ripped open the envelope, read the note. A grin split his face from ear to ear.

"From friends in Soledad," he explained. "McInnis, their Chief Engineer, invites me and my family over for an anniversary dinner to-night. Of course, I'd like to go, but I can't. I can't even spend the day at San Alejo. But I can send the car for my wife and the children."

"Mr. Curtis!" Montaya's voice was frigid. "You've contracted to remain on the concession for the term of your contract."

Curt blinked, stared. "Huh?" he said.

"Your contract, Mr. Curtis, binds you and your family to remain here."

"What do you mean? My contract binds my family to residence here with me, yeh, but a visit to Soledad isn't breaking residence. And anyway—" Curt began to show anger. "I won't have my wife cooped up, unable to see her friends who are so near. I don't care so much for myself—I have enough to keep me busy without a social life. With my wife it's different."

He drew a deep breath and rushed on.

"What are you afraid of? That I'll spill your secret formula? I don't even know it! That I'll lose time from the job? I shan't be going. But get this, Senior Montaya, and like it or not, I'm either sending my family to Soledad today to visit our friends there or I walk off this job right now, contract or no contract. And let's see you stop me!"

The knuckles of Curt's fist, clenching his pipe, were white as Curt jabbed home his words. The act worked. Montaya bit his lip, glanced at his wrist-watch.

CHAPTER XVIII

"Bueno, bueno," Montaya finally said, more smoothly. "There is no need of this heat. It will be only for a day or two. But understand, this visit must not be used as an opening wedge for regular contact with the Associated people. That I will not have during our construction period."

His dignity recovered, he turned to Emilio, who had been standing by, staring incuriously into the distance. "Help to get Senora Curtis and the children across to Riverbend."

"Si, Senor."

Curt mounted the steps. At the dispatcher's office he put in a call for his house at San Alejo.

"Hiya, Lee. Surprise. Pack for yourself and the kids. You're visiting Jerry and Marta for a day or two. They're having an anniversary dinner tonight."

"But Jeff, what anni?"

"I'm sorry I can't go. As I told you, I'm completely tied up until the new shovels are in operation. Anyway, you have a good time for the both of us. I'm sending the car for you now. Can you be ready in forty minutes?"

"I think so, dear, but—"

"No buts, I can't go and that's that. If you wait for me you may never see them. There's no telling when I can get a day from the job." He hung up. This last should tell Lee the urgency of the situation without giving the operator undoubtedly listening in—anything to chew on.

But Lee reached Tempujo by noon. The kids bounced about in excitement, clutching at Curt. He turned them over to Emilio, together with the three small bags Lee had brought.

Then he held Lee close, whispering while pretending to kiss her. "Don't look so anxious, sweet. Keep a clear face. Everything's under control, and I'll be with you sooner than you think."

He managed to slip into her palm a note folded tightly. "For Jerry."

The skiff had been held on this side to take Lee across. Emilio loaded it with bags and children. Buddy and Chuck squirmed excitedly, little Sylvia Mitchell was quiet, rather frightened at these strange goings-on.

Curt then handed Lee into the boat and watched the crossing. He saw her met on the other bank—that would be Jerry, God bless him!—and they waved across at each other.

Monahan had been all day at the tractor-shovels. Their progress had been slowed today by more difficult terrain. More filling, more mucking had been necessary. He returned to Tempujo along with Curt and Emilio, and after the three had showered and changed clothing, they had supper together. Collins was finishing his at a table by himself. He looked a good bit fresher than he had this morning. He'd shaved and it was clear he'd slept all day.

After supper Curt went to his room. Then if anything goes wrong we don't all grow hāloa. You'd be no use to me anyway."

"Guess you're right," Curt growled. "Well, we can't all be heroes," and he mentally saluted the Navy man.

Midway across the flats he stopped the car to climb a pole and cut the two telephone lines—the dispatcher's line and the general office link between San Alejo and Tempujo.

Nothing happened to impede them. They reached the foot of the Quebrados in good time, despite running without lights. There Monahan melted into the night to grope his way up a trail. The radio towers above were faint against the thick stars. They looked close at hand but the perspective was deceptive. It would take time to reach them.

A wide ditch circled the foot of the Quebrados, a catch basin to carry off the torrential rains of the wet season as they flooded down the mountainsides. A wooden bridge carried the tracks across this channel. The three men quickly pushed the car through the airfield spur and mainline connecting tracks until it was headed for the river again, and pushed it back across the bridge so it was clear for the run to Tempujo.

As Curt and McInnis were loading themselves gingerly with explosives—the dynamite and two cans of powder—Collins spoke up.

"It won't take all three of us to break in. I'll be planting this last can to knock out that bridge behind us. Have that much done."

"Good."

Curt cut a length of fuse for the job, took the rest of the coil, and with McInnis got under way for the hidden hangars.

They reached the fence and Curt led the way cautiously to the spot where he'd broken through last night. He played his flash along the ground. Good. The leaves and debris scattered over the soft fill of the hole he'd used before was undisturbed. Their entrance had not been discovered. Tonight it wasn't necessary to use such care. They had the proper tools, so they simply cut through the fence and bent back a section to make a man-size hole. At each snip of the cutters the taut wire made a loud "ping" which resounded in the stillness of the night.

"That noise carries!" McInnis warned.

"Not to the other end of the field," said Curt shortly.

"Yeh, but I don't like this, Curt. Looks too easy. I can't believe they don't keep some kind of watch. You would, I would, they're not dumber, are they? You could have got through last night by sheer luck."

"I know. It's been in my mind, too. But there's nothing we can do about it except keep alert."

McInnis' words were prophecy. It was as they were hauling at the strip of corrugated sheathing a noisy job itself—that they heard the running feet. So there was a patrol maintained! The two men jumped away from the wall and fell flat in the dry grass. The feet pounded around the end of the building, a flash played back and forth and picked out the hole in the fence, the spring sheet.

"Was ist das? Antworten sie!" The man ran to the fence, then to the break in the hangar wall. The sheet had not been ripped sufficiently to admit a person, so the man turned from the building and played his light about the space between it and the fence.

"Kommen sie hierher! Horen sie?" He cried Spanish. "Que pasa? Venga!"

The two Americans couldn't possibly avoid detection long. Curt made a cautious move for his gun and the rustle of the dry grass gave him away. The guard shot wildly in that direction and doused his flash.

Curt and McInnis rolled apart instantly, but neither used his gun in the blackness for the flash would give away his position. The guard, too, after the first wild shot, held his fire. But his movements showed he was edging toward the fence.

"Alarm! Alarm!" shouted Curt. "Along the fence-top! He's trying to reach it!"

"Ah! Amerikana!"

The guard lunged for the fence, but there came a shot from beyond it, from the other side. Collins! A quick stab from Collins' flashlight showed the man upstretched, the man ready to spring. Another shot, and the man went down.

"Finish his job at the tracks," Collins called anxiously, "and heard this guy as I neared the fence. Then the shot. Are you okay?"

"Yeh," cried Curt. "There's a hole in the fence, Collins. Get busy, you guys. I'll see if the shots carried."

He raced around the end of the building and to the front. He had a clear view to the other end of the field. A few night lights showed, as they had last night. Under one of these, the one like a statue. Men listening. Presently they seemed to relax. They moved out of the light, not fast as though alarmed, and the clubroom lights snapped on. Curt and McInnis joined him.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

These huge 60-ton heavy tanks cost $120,000, and America's automotive and locomotive plants are turning them out on a never-ending assembly line. Our army uses light tanks, weighing 14 tons, and medium tanks of 28 tons also, but we favor the medium tank over the other two.

These heavy tanks are needed for certain phases of modern warfare, and with their thick armor and heavy-gauge guns they are almost unstoppable. They are considered superior in gun power, in maneuverability and in the power of their huge tractor motors to Axis tanks. Americans everywhere are helping to pay for these monsters of war through their purchase of War Bonds. Invest at least ten percent of your income in War Bonds every day.

Record War Bond Sales Is Goal Of Women At War Week Nov. 22

WASHINGTON, D. C.—America's women in the cities and on the farms—in war factories and in their homes—are determined to make Women At War Week the greatest War Bond selling effort since Pearl Harbor.

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt sounded the keynote for the Treasury Department's "things" to provide money for War Bonds.

"We women want to work hard, we want to be a part of this strenuous period because unless we are, we will not be able to face the men when they return and claim our share of the future responsibility for building a peaceful world," the First Lady declared.

The overall direction of Women At War Week rests with the Women's Section of the War Savings Staff under the leadership of Miss Harriet Elliott, Associate Field Director, and Mrs. Henry Morgenthau, Jr., Chief of the Special Activities Unit.

From coast to coast women in every community have made plans for torchlight parades, fashion shows, teas, rallies, store window displays, Stamp and Bond booths, pageants, civic sings, balls and mardi gras. In each locality administration of the one week drive tests with the local War Savings Committee which has worked out activities adapted to their areas.

Mrs. Morgenthau, in a special message for Women At War Week, declared that the spirit of America's pioneer women lives today more strongly than ever.

"The average American woman began to rise to new heights on Sunday, Dec. 7, 1941," Mrs. Morgenthau said. "This winter, the average American woman will be spending less in order to save more to invest in War Bonds and Stamps. She will not, please God, ever have to fire a gun or fly a bomber. But she will, please God, always do everything she can to help buy anything—and the best of everything—that fires or flies or floats in this terrible war."

WOMEN AT WAR—Overall, wrenches and drills replace fineries as these war workers in an Army Arsenal march to tank repair shops. Note the determination on their faces. These women are typical of hundreds of thousands who are working in war factories and investing part of their earnings in War Bonds.

Mrs. Roosevelt (left) says women help men at front by buying War Bonds. At right is the label tag which volunteers will wear during Women At War Week, Nov. 22 to 28.

Ev'rybody Ev'ry Pay Day 6,000,000 Women Enrolled in War Savings Payroll Plan.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Women At War Week, opening Nov. 22, during which women will seek to sell the greatest single week's volume of War Bonds and Stamps will serve to put the spotlight on the mighty contribution women generally are making toward financing the war.

Six million women are on War Savings payroll plans. Their monthly deductions total $70,000,000.

The customers of 300,000 newspaper boys who have sold more than $50,000,000 in War Bonds and Stamps are mostly women.

Volunteer saleswomen run nearly all the Bond booths in theatres from Maine to California. They also are sparking the War Bond sales in retail stores.

Ralph G. Engelmann, Associate Field Director of the payroll savings section of the War Savings Staff, readily admits that without the support of women the phenomenal record of payroll savings enrollments would not have been achieved. Payroll savings plans are now in operation in 148,000 businesses and factories. Employees of twenty-five thousand of these firms are contributing at least 10 percent of gross payrolls into War Bonds every payday.

Associate Field Director Engelmann says that women have contributed directly and indirectly toward this record. When a man devoted 10 or more percent of his pay envelope to War Bonds, the woman at home has had a powerful voice in the decision. Her planning, her economies and her cheerfulness play their part in the success of payroll savings.

The Treasury Department is counting upon this woman influence in its current campaign to "top that 10 percent by New Year's." By the first of the year the Treasury hopes to enroll at least 3,000,000 women workers in a payroll savings plan and 5,000,000 more women with total deductions for War Bonds over the 10 percent mark.

What makes a good auto driver?

Many times this question has been asked of me, but there are too many provisions in the answer to give a satisfactory reply to it.

However, there is one good way to find out. Here it is—try it! See how long you can drive without making an emergency stop. It sounds easy, but it isn't. This will make a good test of your ability. A good driver always looks ahead of his car, anticipates any emergencies and therefore never has to jam on the brakes, practically turning his car around while making a stop to prevent an accident.

Have you ever seen an expert driver? Notice how smoothly he comes to a stop—how easily he comes to an intersection—how he anticipates trouble at schools, at crowded corners and intersections—how he is always on the alert and keeps his car under control at all times.

Try this test sometime on a trip and see how you measure up.

CHELSEA STUDY CLUB

The members of the Chelsea Study club met Tuesday evening in the high school Home Economics room to continue their work on the surgical dressing kit they are making for the village. A business meeting was held at which time Miss Nina Galle Warster was extended membership. The club voted to give $10 to the Red Cross to help equip the Red Cross service kits; and another $10 was set aside for the fund being raised locally to equip a Day Room at Fort Custer.

A very interesting program conducted by Mrs. Paul Schable was presented in celebration of Book Week which is the week of November 15. Mrs. A. A. Palmer gave a history of the Chelsea public library from its beginning as a club project in February, 1932, to its present status, and Mrs. George Walworth followed with a short review of the operation of the library at present. Mrs. W. R. Daniels then gave a report on the vertical files—the information center—urging all who enter the library to take advantage of the up-to-date information on a wide range of subjects to be found there.

The next meeting of the club, which will be the Christmas meeting, will be held at the Methodist Home on December 15, with Mrs. Leroy Lord and Mrs. Augusta Hollidge as hostesses.

A report of the 69th State Grange convention, held at Adrian, was given by the installing officers. Members of North Sylvan Grange were entertainers for the meeting.

ARMISTICE DAY

For most of the citizens of Chelsea Armistice Day was just another day of work. The bank was the only business place to close for the day. Several of the business places and a few private homes displayed the American Flag, but for the most part "Old Glory" was conspicuous by its absence.

The members of the American Legion with their families celebrated the day with a turkey pot-luck dinner at the Legion Home at Cavanaugh Lake.

Arizona Mines Yield Riches

Arizona produced $2,500,000 in asbestos last year and a major part of it came from Gila county, according to Dr. T. C. Chapman, dean of the college of mines at the University of Arizona.

Dr. Chapman pointed out that asbestos is one of the materials used in defense of the United States and said that of the 14 critical materials nine are minerals, for which the government has set aside $400,000,000 for purchases.

He declared an increase in the price of low-grade manganese to 50 or 70 cents per unit will be necessary on a five-year market to increase present production in Arizona of manganese, which last year totaled 1,600 tons.

Strong on Corn

It is difficult to convince some people that the common corn has virtues but a fifth of its food is bugs and insects. Its black reputation is built up by its habit of robbing nests of other birds and its liking for corn.

Cupid Busy in '37

The wedding business reached an all-time high in 1937 when 1,600,000 were sold.

MCD Undertakes Its Greatest Organization

Lansing—Manuals outlining plans for organization of Neighborhood War Clubs are being distributed by the Michigan Council of Defense to local and county councils in preparation for the enlistment of every youth and adult in programs of the civilian war effort.

The Neighborhood War Club plan is the most recent organization effort yet attempted by the MCD. While it incorporates features of similar programs in operation throughout the country, it has for the most part been developed by the Michigan Council of Defense. It will be administered under the direction of Don C. Weeks, Director of the Civilian War Service Division, and when in operation it will carry out the plan for war effort programs down to neighborhood and family levels.

Neighborhood War Clubs are not intended to duplicate or interfere with the War Clubs formed by USDA War Boards in rural communities.

The clubs will be available for use in carrying out phases of the home defense war programs and should release the highly efficient Air Raid Warden Service, which has been utilized for many home front duties, for service more strictly within the field of air raid precautions. One of the chief values of the plan is that it will bring the energies of a vastly increased number of civilian volunteers into coordinated war work on the home front.

The early steps of the program call for a series of county meetings at which local civilian defense workers will discuss the plan with representatives of the Michigan Council of Defense.

V-Home Campaign On

Final instructions to air raid wardens from Lt. Col. Owen J. Cleary, State Chief Air Raid Warden, and preparation for distribution of 300,000 window stickers marks the launching of the V-Home campaign in Michigan. Under the Michigan plan, wardens will distribute forms on which householders may make application for V-Home emblems. Wardens will make a check-up call at homes submitting applications, satisfying themselves that all conditions have been met, and then award the V-Home stickers. These emblems will serve as a signal that all within are making full contribution to the Victory effort.

To Direct Health and Welfare Work
Walter M. Berry, of Caspian, who has spent most of his life in the social welfare field, has joined the staff of the Michigan Council of Defense to serve as chief of the Health and Welfare Section of the Division of Civilian War Service. Mr. Berry is employed by the State Social Welfare Commission and has been loaned to the Council of Defense. He will organize and co-ordinate the program for war relief, welfare and health of the Council's newly created Health and Welfare Committee, headed by John D. O'Connell, Director of the State Social Welfare Department.

Mr. Berry has been field representative of the Commission for the Upper Peninsula, and during and after World War I, directed welfare and relief for the U. S. Army and the Government in Poland and other European countries. Going overseas with the 80th Division, U. S. Army, he was assigned on detached duty for welfare direction. Berry's assignment to the MCD is in line with a recent resolution by the Social Welfare Commission placing its facilities and personnel at the disposal of the MCD.

Bread as Toast
Bread gains in flavor and pleasure in eating when toasted; it is also more digestible after toasting, especially for the aged, the infant, and all weakened digestion or peristalsis; bread should be sliced only as used, and all breads should be sliced more thinly, before purchasing, look at the type of loaf and select one which does not bump at the top, study the spread-area of the slice, so that there will be less waste, in toasting or spreading, and also a wider, better-proportioned spreading surface.

Tennis in Closed Court
Tennis, the real game, is played with racquets and balls in a closed and covered court. It is a very old game, probably being derived from ball games played by the Greeks and Romans. Some form of the game was known and played in the time of Chaucer. Lawn tennis is much younger, being invented as recently as 1874. It was first played on a court shaped like an hour glass. The present shape of court was adopted in 1877.
