Olive Chapter, O. E. S. Installs New Officers

Installation ceremonies for the newly elected officers of Olive Chapter 108, O. E. S., which were held at Masonic hall on Wednesday evening, were attended by a large gathering of members and friends of the order.

After the officers had taken their regular stations the impressive ceremonies opened with the presentation of the American flag and the O. E. S. flag by Leora Noll and Lillian Allshouse, respectively, and the address of welcome was given by the retiring worthy matron, Mary Ann Gracey.

Mrs. Gracey then presented gifts to her retiring officers and committee chairmen and she, in turn, was presented with a gift in behalf of the chapter for her untiring efforts during the past year. Paul Belser, outgoing patron, received a past patron's pin in appreciation of his services.

As a token of grateful remembrance for Miss Florence Ward, who has served as treasurer of the organization for 16½ years, she was presented with a beautiful bible with a gold O. E. S. emblem on the white leather cover.

After the 1941-42 officers had retired, Leora Noll, installing officer; Virginia Brock, marshal; Lenora Schmidt, chaplain; and Esther Belser, organist, were escorted to their stations by the assisting marshals—Betty Leitch and Lillian Allshouse and the following officers were installed:

W. M.—Allen Steinbach.
W. P.—Martin Steinbach.
A. M.—Lila Ashfal.
A. P.—Lewis Noll.
Secretary—Lenora Schmidt.
Treasurer—Helen Lindemann.
Conductress—Betty Hall.
Asso. Cond.—Wilma Miller.
Chaplain—Helen Baxter.
Marshal—Mary Ann Gracey.
Organist—Hazel Wacker.
Adm.—Doris Norton.
Ruth—Doris Allshouse.
Esther—Betty Dancer.

Martha—Vivian Dancer.
Electa—Clara Lantis.
Warder—Leora Noll.
Sentinel—Florence Ward.

During the ceremonies ten young ladies—Elnae Schmidt, Joyce Foster, Eleanor Harper, Joan Shutes, Ruth Gracey, Virginia Spaulding, Willetta Lantis, Madelyn Rowe, Dorothy Knickerbocker and Kathryn Lindauer, dressed in formal gowns in the various colors acted as escorts for the newly installed officers. Mrs. Steinbach, the new worthy matron, was escorted by her husband and their two children, Connie and Raymond, scattered flower petals in their path as they proceeded down the aisle.

Immediately after the installation, Mrs. Gracey, retiring matron, was presented with a past matron's jewel by the Past Matron's club and Mrs. Steinbach the new matron received a gift of flowers presented by Lillian Steinbach in behalf of the chapter.

A reception honoring the newly installed officers was later held in the diningroom and lunch was served with Lila Ashfal and Allen Steinbach pouring.

FUEL OIL APPLICANTS

The fuel oil panel is very desirous of getting fuel oil applications out of the way to clear the ground for gasoline, coffee, and coming rationing programs. Therefore the fuel oil panel requests that all fuel oil applications now in the hands of consumers be filed on or before Monday, Nov. 23, to avoid embarrassment and probable hardship to users of fuel oil who fail to comply with this request.

GIRL SCOUTS

The Chelsea Girl Scouts will collect cooking fats from homes on Saturday, Nov. 21, between the hours of 1:00 and 4:00 p.m. Housewives are requested to have those fats strained into wide topped containers.

PRE-THANKSGIVING PARTY
A pre-Thanksgiving party for 10 guests was given by Miss Lillie Wackenhut at her home on Wednesday afternoon. Games were played and refreshments were served.

Gas Registration

Registration for Dec. 1 gas rationing began yesterday and will continue through Thursday and Friday at county and city schools according to the following schedule of hours when applicants for basic A or D mileage allotment cards may appear at the schools near their homes to register.

In Chelsea registration will take place at the public high school at the following hours:

Thursday, Nov. 19—2:30 to 5:30; 7:30 to 8:30 p. m.

Friday, Nov. 20—1:30 to 6:00.

Rural Schools—1:00 to 8:00 on Thursday and 1:00 to 6:00 on Friday.

Dexter—1:00 to 9:00 on Thursday and 6:00 to 9:00 on Friday.

Manchester—2:30 to 5:30 on Thursday and 2:30 to 5:30 on Friday.

Day.

Heavy Wind Storm Causes Some Damage

During the hard wind storm Thursday night and Friday morning one of the large plate glass windows in the Vogel store on East Middle street was blown in. The loss was covered by insurance. The wind also caused some other glass breakage and branches of trees were down.

The thermometer gradually went downward and on Saturday morning the temperature ranged from 12 to 20 degrees above zero. The coldest weather of the season. Sunday the weather moderated and the thermometer climbed into the middle fifties.

Christmas Seal Sale to Start Monday, Nov. 23

Carrying the vital war-time message, "Protect Your Home from Tuberculosis," the 36th annual Christmas seal goes on sale Monday, November 23. Its colors form a patriotic motif—red barn, crisp white snow and bright blue sky.

But although its design is gay, its purpose is as grim as war itself. War conditions and the spread of tuberculosis germs. England has seen tiny children stricken with tuberculosis meningitis. Where two children died before the war, now three die. The Christmas seal is the voluntary guard, dedicated to "Protect Your Home from Tuberculosis."

The J. Werle, executive secretary of the Michigan Tuberculosis Association, reminds us that we, in Michigan, now face greater public health problems than in World War I. Yet between 1914 and 1918, Michigan's tuberculosis deaths increased 29 per cent.

"If we suffer such a rise here next year it will mean 10 more persons in Michigan die of tuberculosis every week of the entire year," he points out. "This would be in addition to the 93 who at present die each week."

"It would mean robbing children of their mothers, cheating young men of the maturity of which they had dreamed, murdering tiny children, taking workers from our war industries," he warns.

In order to finance a more intensive attack on the disease, more Christmas seals will be placed in outgoing envelopes this year, Mr. Werle reveals.

The Christmas seal program for 1943 will consist of (1) searching for unknown cases of tuberculosis, through tuberculin tests and chest X-rays, (2) educating children and adults to prevent tuberculosis, (3) aiding tuberculosis research, (4) helping the ex-patient to a suitable job.

OLD RADIOS NEEDED

The boys at the army camp at Willow Run are in need of old radios, no matter what condition or age. These radios are taken apart piece by piece and the parts are sent to different camps in the U. S. A. to be used in their communications department for experimental purposes.

The Herbert J. McKune Post, No. 31, American Legion has been asked to make an appeal to the people of Chelsea to turn in all of these radios (cabinets not necessary). Anyone having an old radio please deliver to Lyle Christwell, 304 E. Middle street; Merle Barr, second house on Old Manchester road, or contact any legionnaire. If unable to deliver call Chelsea phone 6675. A general pickup will be made Sunday morning, November 22.

PAPER EARLY NEXT WEEK

Because of the Thanksgiving holiday next Thursday, the Standard will be published Tuesday afternoon so it will be delivered to subscribers on Wednesday morning. All copy must be in our office one day earlier than usual.

THANKSGIVING MASS

A special Thanksgiving Mass will be held on Thursday morning at 8:30 at St. Mary church.

Autographed Baseballs Will Be Put On Display

One of the autographed baseballs which was presented to the Chelsea War Bond and Stamp committee by Paul "Dizzy" Trout will be on display in the window of Vogel & Wurster store, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, of this week and in Walworth & Strider store on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week. Sealed bids will be received for this ball until Wednesday evening at 6:00 o'clock, November 25, when the highest bidder presented with the baseball.

Anyone wishing to place a sealed bid may get the forms at the stores where the ball is displayed, fill in your bid and put in cardboard box in window. All sealed bids for War Bonds made in this way are to be retained by the bidder. The committee reserves the right to cancel all bids, if they are not large enough to warrant the presentation of the autographed baseball. The winner will be announced in The Standard at the earliest possible date.

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to take this opportunity to thank all of my friends, the Rebekahs, my neighbors and relatives, for all of the many cards, gifts, plants and many welcome visits, which I received during my illness, both in the hospital and at home. I appreciate everything that was done for me during that time. From the bottom of my heart, I thank you once again.

HOME VOLUNTEER BULLETIN

By Home Service Consultant
Michigan Consolidated Gas Company

Dear Home Volunteer:

Here it is—your first H. V. Bulletin. We are pleased to send you these bulletins and hope that you will find them contain some worthwhile information.

For many years, the American housewife has been accustomed to having all the coffee she could use—and much as we hate to admit it, we know that an ample supply of anything will breed waste of that product. Since we will have coffee rationing, or a switch to less appetizing and less satisfactory substitutes, we must learn to use coffee with care. We must learn to make only what we need—cutting out our wasteful habit of adding one more tablespoon of coffee than is necessary "for the pot," a habit that sabotages good coffee flavor. In an effort to use coffee wisely, coffee should be made by gauging the exact number of cups desired for serving. When a cup or two of coffee is left over, however, it should not be thrown away. Instead, it should be used in cooking. Left-over coffee, when properly stored, will retain all of that good coffee flavor. Instead of pouring it down the drain—as we have done for years and years—it should be used in making dozens of good-to-eat desserts, puddings, pie fillings, frostings, cakes, confections, and so on.

If left standing in the pot in which it was made until ready for use, left-over coffee will become stale and lose that certain something that makes coffee what it is. It will become rancid and bitter. If stored properly, however, it will keep for a day or two and will maintain all that good, fresh flavor that will turn everyday desserts into something special.

Left-over coffee should be poured into a glass container, such as a mason jar, as soon as possible after it is made. The container must have a well-fitting cover that can be screwed or clamped on tightly. The container of left-over coffee should be placed in the refrigerator until ready for use. Coffee left over from subsequent meals can be added to this supply.

Have you told your friends about the H. V. program yet? We are anxious to make Chelsea a leader in the nation-wide nutrition program. If you have any particular problems or any suggestions for our next bulletin, call us or drop in to see us. Let us all do our part to win the war on the home front.

Many Things to Eat Without Using Meat

Remember poultry, fish, eggs, cheese, beans and nuts.

Those are some of the principal alternatives, rather than substitutes, suggested by members of the home economics extension staff at Michigan State college as the problem of getting normal meat supplies becomes more acute in Michigan and other states.

Good nutrition can be combined with patriotism in selecting foods that will supply those things that meat normally supplied. Flavor, protein, iron and three members of the vitamin B complex—thiamin, niacin and riboflavin, are the points to watch.

The protein, some iron and some of the B vitamins can be put on the table in the form of poultry, fish, milk, cheese, eggs, dried beans and peas, soybeans and nuts. Additional vitamins and iron can be obtained from servings of whole grain or enriched grain products, dark green leafy vegetables and potatoes.

Such a dish as that made from the navy or white pea bean can come to the table in various forms.

The navy bean is the one grown principally in Michigan. Beans from the 1942 crop in the state would fill nearly seven million bags holding a hundred pounds each.

Beans, it seems, are baked in three styles. New England bakes its beans slowly to a rich brown, with salt pork and molasses for extra flavor. Michigan has a reputation in bean recipes for baking them in a flat pan and seasoning with salt pork or bacon. Western style adds onion and tomato.

Archery Hunter Bags 326-Lb. 10-Point Buck

Allegan—Eight deer—six bucks and two does—exactly the same score as was made in the entire archery season in Allegan county last year, were taken in the first half of the archery season here this year, and there is every prospect that the 1942 total will be higher.

Biggest deer bagged in the first half of the season was a 10-point buck brought in by J. F. Yeager of East Lansing. Yeager's buck weighed 326 pounds when taken, 263 pounds dressed. Next largest buck weighed 272 pounds before it was dressed out, 223 pounds afterward.

While hunting here with bow-and-arrow, Durward Allen of the conservation department's game division was attracted to an opening in the woods by a great crashing and snorting, came up in time to witness a mating season battle between two great antlered bucks. They escaped in the early morning light before he could get an effective shot at either.

No report of success for archers hunting bucks in the northern deer counties has been received here yet.

4-H Gardeners' Output Sets a New Record

A record output of more than 3 1/2 million bushels of garden vegetables and small fruits will be produced this year by 4-H club members throughout the nation in response to the government's call for super-production of these foodstuffs to meet war needs. This output is an increase of 60 per cent over last year's production by the clubsters.

Roughly 350,000 members participated in the 1942 National 4-H Victory Garden contest conducted in co-operation with the Extension Service, in which awards consisting chiefly of U. S. War Savings Bonds were provided. This also is an all-time high enrollment in the 4-H gardening project, and shows how vital 4-H production is to the war effort in this as in all times.

County winners in this competition received gold-filled medals, and four representatives of each state's blue award group were awarded a $25 War Savings Bond. One of the latter will be considered in selecting sectional and national winners. All-expense trips to the 21st National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago, Nov. 29-Dec. 2, will be awarded to the two highest scoring participants in each of the four extension sections, who will also receive a $100 War Savings Bond apiece.

Postponement of Gas Rationing Aids Hunters

Marquette—Last minute postponement of gasoline rationing on the eve of the deer hunting season has brightened the prospects of resort and deer camp operators throughout the upper peninsula by permitting better distribution of hunters and a longer stay in camp.

Hunter concentration will still be far from normal, however, in the opinion of conservation department officials who look for very heavy hunting pressure in the southern part of the territory on opening day. Many hunters' vacation time is limited, many have poor tires, and the 35-mile an hour driving limit discourages long trips.

The wartime deer hunting season has found open recognition everywhere of the value of deer for meat as well as for sport. (Venison may be kept up to eight months, under permit, past the end of the hunting season, to supplement regular meat rations.) Wartime hunters also have the responsibilities of salvaging brass shell casings, reporting scrap iron they find, turning in excess deer fat for making explosives, and contributing their deer hides, at nominal sale prices, to the nation's leather supply.

Chicago's Delight

Sixty-eight per cent of the chickadee's food is caterpillars and moths, their eggs, and similar animal matter, and the vegetable matter it consumes is largely weed seeds.

High Floor Gloss

An excellent finish for a wooden surface, where alcohol may be spilled can be obtained by rubbing in linseed oil to which about 25 per cent of strong white vinegar has been added. This will require continuous application until a high gloss finish is achieved.

SCHOOL FOR WAR-TIME LIVING

The "School for War-Time Living," which is part of a national program to assist housewives with war-time living problems, will be held in the Ann Arbor High School on Saturday, November 21.

This school consists of four half-hour demonstrations, from 10 to 12 a. m. and 2 to 4 p. m. Admission is free, and visitors may stay for one or all of the demonstrations, since they will be going on continuously. The subjects to be covered are: nutrition, clothing, household equipment and meats.

The school is in Michigan is under the auspices of Mrs. Martha G. Sawyer, the Chief of the Consumer Activities Section of the Michigan Council of Defense. It will appear only once in each county.

Texas Refineries within Texas convert 90 per cent of the state's crude oil into manufactured products.

Every Second Counts

A HUGE TANK swings upward through the darkness. Winches creak and derricks groan. Under the shaded flares men's backs are sweaty.

In an hour the convoy sails. And every second in that hour is packed with dynamite.

For ships at anchor win no wars.

Rail transportation to the ports is a vital key to the life-and-death shuttle race of the Atlantic.

And this involves more than keeping the trains rolling.

The grim, unrelenting activity of the Nazi wolf pack makes it impossible to determine accurately the time of arrival of ships in port—frequently makes it necessary to divert convoys to ports far distant from those originally scheduled.

But no matter where or when the ships come in, there must be waiting—balanced cargoes ready for immediate loading. And there must be no congestion—no immobilized rolling stock.

Careful planning, accurate timing, the machinery to divert shipments en route—these are essential to control the flow of vital war materials to the docks.

That ships have not had to wait for cargoes—that ports have not become congested—is a tribute to the cooperation that exists between the government and the railroads.

Of railroad performance, Joseph B. Eastman, Director, Office of Defense Transportation, has said: "There has been no breakdown and no serious congestion. The railroads have done promptly and well all that they have been called upon to do. In view of all of the conditions, it has been a remarkable record."

Remarkable as this achievement is, it must be remembered that there are physical limits to the carrying capacity of any given amount of equipment.

The coming months will make even sterner demands on American railroad capacity—demands which can be fully met only with additional locomotives and cars.

But meanwhile railroad men are united in their determination to make every available locomotive and car yield the last ounce of performance—feeding the convoys which carry the hope of the world.

Pack a Full Meal in his Lunch Box

"One of the most important and most neglected meals of a worker's day is lunch," says Dr. Louise Stanley, Chief of the U. S. Dept. of Agriculture's Bureau of Home Economics. "This need not be the case. Even when a man must carry every bite of his noon meal from home, it can be complete and satisfying."

Sandwiches should be substantial. Use thick slices. Whole wheat or enriched bread are preferable. Vary with rye, raisin, oatmeal and corn bread. Spread butter clear to edge. When using cold meat, slice it thin and use several slices. Add horseradish, mustard, catsup, chili sauce, onion, pickles or salad dressing.

Use more than one kind of sandwich. Hard-cooked eggs, peanut butter and jelly, and cheese make good fillings. Remember, there must be enough energy packed in the lunch box to carry your man through an afternoon of hard work. Here are a few suggestions for variety in lunch box meals:

Deviled Egg Sandwich on Enriched Bread	Egg Salad Sandwich on Whole Wheat Bread	Cream of Celery Soup
Peanut Butter and Honey Sandwich on Whole Wheat Bread	Cold Roast Beef Hash Sandwich on Enriched Bread	Ground Meat Sandwich on Whole Wheat Bread
Raw Carrot Sticks, Banana Cakes (made with milk)	Dill Pickle, Orange Cakes (made with milk)	Raw Carrot Sticks
Sliced Roast Beef Sandwich on Whole Wheat Bread	American Cheese Sandwich on Whole Wheat Bread	Oatmeal Cookies
Chopped Raisin and Cottage Cheese Sandwich on Enriched Bread	Prune and Apricot Spread on Enriched Bread	Apple
Scallions, Apple, Milk	Oatmeal Cookies	Sliced Egg Sandwich on Enriched Bread
	Cocoa (made with milk)	American Cheese Sandwich on Whole Wheat Bread
		Dill Pickle, Orange Cakes (made with milk)

This is a message to people in rural communities.

In my travels throughout the country I have noticed that the housewives in the rural community pay very little attention to traffic when getting the mail from the mail box. If the mail box is located across the road, it is doubly hazardous because so many times they start reading the mail before they get into the protection of their own driveway.

This is a dangerous practice and should be discontinued. Wait until you know that the road is clear before crossing.

Read the mail (if you must read it outdoors) in your own road or driveway.

These are some points to the good of the citizens living in the country and I urge that they be followed.

War calls must go through this Thanksgiving

Please do not make social Long Distance calls

War goes right on, despite Thanksgiving. And messages essential to the war effort will crowd the wires as on other days.

War-loaded Long Distance lines cannot carry the usual flood of social calls this Thanksgiving.

Therefore, please make only the most urgent Long Distance calls on Thanksgiving Day, and keep those calls as brief as possible.

GRASS LAKE—Grass Lake friends of Miss Maritta Wolf will be pleased to learn that her second book, "Night Shift," will be placed on sale throughout the United States on November 19. Motion picture rights have already been sold to Warner Brothers producers for $25,000. Her childhood was spent at the farm home of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ellis in Sharon township. —News.

HOWELL—Lester Van Blaricum of National avenue found seven sticks of dynamite last Saturday night and took them to the sheriff's office to find out what to do with them. Sheriff Kennedy told him to take them to a hardware store or throw them in the lake. That idea didn't appeal so he took them to a vacant lot near his home and ignited them—all at once. The vibration of the explosion was heard in Brighton, and the shaking of houses in Howell was felt all over town. —County Press.

PLYMOUTH—Fearful that they might be left high and dry way up here in Michigan after "gas" rationing, numerous newcomers to this part of America from Kentucky, Tennessee and Arkansas have filled their buzz-wagons with gasoline, packed up their worldly possessions and started back to the hills and dales of the southland. While Plymouth has not suffered materially by this exodus, it is stated by those in a position to know that some 400 or 500 workers have quit the Bomber plant during the last two or three weeks and returned south. They told their companions in the factory that they didn't want to get caught up north with their automobiles and not be able to get their cars dack down south. —Mail.

Local Defense Topics

The local committee for Blood Donor service is putting forth every effort in setting up a successful response from volunteers for the unit to be carried on in Chelsea Wednesday afternoon, December 15 at the Methodist church.

In previous projects, Chelsea has responded in a commendable manner and has never hesitated to help out drives over the top. It is essential that the committee enroll 175 volunteers for the Blood Donor unit and to date only 93 have registered. Your donation is needed for it may be the means of saving a life either in civilian catastrophe or military action. You are taking no risk because you are given a test to determine your physical status and the unit works accordingly. A complete staff of trained workers has charge of the Blood Donor unit which has functioned in all large cities and towns. Are we going to fall behind or are we going to volunteer and still keep Chelsea among those who believe in progress and benefit. Call Mrs. A. L. Steger, 5123, today.

Share the Meat Drive
Opens in State Nov. 30

Lansing—Neighborhood War Club leaders in all sections of the state will begin training November 23 for the job of enlisting the people of their communities in the nation-wide meat conservation program. War Club leaders will begin a house-to-house educational survey November 30 to explain the reason and necessity for conserving meat, distribute "Share the Meat for Victory" folders and sign up householders who wish to attend food demonstrations.

First steps were taken during the week of November 9 to 16 when representatives of the State Nutrition Committee of the Michigan Council of Defense met with chairmen of county and local councils of defense, county nutrition committees and chairmen of Neighborhood War Clubs to explain the details of the meat conservation program. Organization of Neighborhood War Clubs, designed to enlist every family in all phases of the home defense war effort, is going forward rapidly in all parts of the state, according to Mrs. Margaret E. Blaney, chief of the MCD Volunteer Activities Section, who is in charge of developing Neighborhood War Clubs. County councils of defense in 75 of the state's 83 counties have reported progress on war club organization, and clubs are fully organized and active in many communities.

A 65-year-old Michigander gathered 150 pounds of scrap metal and wheeled it by barrow to the village collection center five miles away.

WEDDINGS

Quigley-Alber
Emanuel Evangelical church at Manchester was the setting for the wedding on Friday evening of Miss Nora Jean Quigley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore B. Quigley of Sylvan township and Allan Arthur Alber, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Alber of Sharon township.

Rev. H. S. Von Rague, pastor of the church read the double ring service and the bride was given in marriage by her father.

Mrs. Hazel Davidoff played the wedding music accompanying Miss Marjorie Kahl who sang "O, Promise Me" and "I Love You Truly."

Miss Quigley chose for her wedding a gown of white satin, fashioned with fitted bodice, long sleeves and a flared skirt with lace insets. Her finger tip veil was held with a wreath of orange blossoms and she carried a bouquet of bridal roses.

Miss Esther Feldkamp, who attended as maid of honor, wore a yellow sheer dress and her bouquet was of bronze mums. The bridesmaids were Mrs. Twila Ranson of Ann Arbor and Miss Marjorie Alber, sister of the groom. The former was attired in blue taffeta and carried bronze mums while the latter wore teal blue crepe and her flowers were yellow mums.

Mr. Alber was assisted by his brother Earl as best man and the ushers were Charles Quigley, brother of the bride and Howard Bergman of Sylvan.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Quigley chose a black crepe dress and Mrs. Alber, mother of the groom, wore wine velvet. Their corsages were gardenias.

White chrysanthemums banked the altar, which was lighted with white tapers, also decorating the table at which refreshments were served in the church dining room.

About 140 guests attended the reception.

Mr. and Mrs. Alber will make their home in a residence on the Fred Alber farm in Sharon township.

YOUNG MOTHERS' CLUB
TO VISIT NURSERY SCHOOL

The Young Mothers' Child Study club will visit the Educational Nursery school of the University of Michigan next Tuesday morning. This group of children are to be observed from 9 o'clock until noon.

At noon the group will meet at the Women's League Building where they will have luncheon.

At 1:30 the group will be shown through the Horace Rackham Building by Grace Smith of Ann Arbor.

ST. PAUL'S MISSION CLUB
A meeting of St. Paul's Mission club was held on Thursday at the home of Mrs. John Osterle. A Thanksgiving song opened the meeting and devotionals were conducted by Mrs. Louisa Eppler. Readings were given as follows:

Praise to God—Mrs. Osterle.
God is Your Helper—Mrs. Eppler.
The Story of Emmaus—Mrs. Hazen Lehmann.

A Stream That is Never Crossed—Mrs. Fred Sager.
Rolling bandages and knitting rugs was the work of the afternoon after which lunch was served by the hostess.

ARMISTICE DAY DINNER
Herbert J. McKune Post, No. 31, American Legion and the Auxiliary, held an Armistice Day dinner at the Legion home, Cavanaugh Lake, Wednesday, Nov. 11, with forty in attendance. A delicious turkey dinner was served by the committee. A social hour was enjoyed by the group during which Walter Harper entertained by showing some very interesting navy and local pictures.

The total volume of the new all-purpose ration books would fill 128 freight cars.

HOLD FAMILY DINNER

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Keezer entertained their children and their families at a dinner on Friday night at their home in Lyndon township, as a farewell for their son, Chester Keezer, who re-entered army service on Saturday. The guests included Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Keezer of Lansing, Mr. and Mrs. Dale Keezer and family of Chelsea, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Keezer and Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Keezer. Chester, who was inducted into the service April 8, 1941, served at Camp Grant, Ill., and March Field, Calif., until August of that year when he was released so that he might engage in defense work. He was recently recalled and reported on Saturday to Fort Sheridan, Ill.

FARMERS' CLUB

The Western Washtenaw County Farmers' club will meet at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Musbach on Friday evening, November 20. The following program will be given:

Song—Group.
Roll Call—An Incident from School Days.
Song.
Talk—Supt. A. C. Johnson.
Song.

TWO FIRE CALLS ANSWERED
The Chelsea fire department made two runs late Monday afternoon. The first was a still alarm at Cavanaugh Lake where the house car and contents owned by Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Collier was destroyed by fire. The second fire was a grass fire at the Schneider Nursery on South Main street. There was no damage to the stock of trees.

HONORED AT TWO DINNERS

A. B. Shutes was honored at two dinners the past week given to celebrate his birthday. The first one was given by Mrs. H. G. Shutes and son Bob at their home in Detroit. The guests were Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Shutes and Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Shutes and daughter. The second was a family dinner given by Mrs. Shutes on Friday evening at the Shutes home on East Middle street.

PLACED ON DEAN'S LIST
Margaret June Harper, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter A. Harper of 222 E. Middle street, a sophomore at Albion college, has just been placed on the Dean's list by Dean Emil Leffler for receiving grades in her studies last semester averaging at least 2.3, or better than B. This is a distinct scholastic recognition at Albion college.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Campbell of Asheville, N. C., who spent the past five months with their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Carl H. Fletcher, were joined here on Tuesday by their daughter Mrs. B. C. Mae Cluze and son Robert, also of Asheville. After a two week's visit they will leave for a winter's sojourn in St. Petersburg, Fla.

BOOK WEEK LECTURE

Miss Ruth Barnes, associate professor of English at the Michigan State Normal college was guest speaker at a special Book Week program at the Chelsea public library Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock.

Miss Barnes gave a very interesting lecture on current popular fiction and popular reprints. She dwelt at some length on the present popular reprint, "War and Peace" by Tolstoy, commenting on its adaptability to the present crisis as far as episodes, human feeling and emotions were concerned, even though the book was written with the Napoleonic wars as its setting. The "Song of Bernadette" by Franz Werfel, was recommended as "escape reading" for today.

The list of books which she discussed were taken from the Chicago Sun and New York Times book reports. A copy of this list was left in the library.

Most of these books were on display during the lecture.

Don't miss seeing "Jane" and "Toby" gleefully playing pranks on everyone in "Sunbonnet Lane of Sylvanmore Lane."

JOINS NAVY

Great Lakes, Ill.—Now a member of America's fighting sea forces, Harold S. Hanselmann, 18, son of E. M. Elsmann, 820 East street, reported to the U. S. Naval Training Station here last week for a period of recruit training. Instruction for recruits—known as "boot" training—includes drilling, vigorous physical conditioning, seamanship, and Naval customs and procedure.

Recruits are given a series of aptitude tests through which they may qualify for advanced training at one of the Navy's many service schools with an opportunity of obtaining a petty officer rating. Some, also, are selected for immediate active-duty at sea or some other shore station.

Upon completion of the training period a nine-day leave is granted.

BETTER BE EARLY THAN SORRY

Lay away a GIFT A DAY

Make good your resolution to do your Christmas shopping early. Gifts are slower. Gifts to men in service must travel long distances. And while we have a vast variety of sparkling gifts, we haven't been able to get all we wanted of every item, due to war-time demands upon manufacturers. To be certain of getting exactly what you want for every person on your list, lay away a gift a day, and your Christmas shopping will be easy, enjoyable and economical.

NATIONAL BOOK WEEK

In recognition of National Book week several displays of books have been arranged in the store windows. An interesting display of bookplates and bookmarks are in the south window of the Schneider-Wurster store. Some of the bookplates were designed by Miss Ida Brown, teacher in the public school.

"My Favorite Book" is displayed in the window of the Walworth & Strieter store. It is an interesting collection and each book has a statement on it why it is my favorite book. The bible display in the Vogel & Wurster store contains one of the smallest bibles printed. Several family bibles belonging to the pioneer families of Chelsea are also on display.

"Old Books" in the Chelsea Hardware window is a unique display. It ranges from my lady's fashion book of the 1850's to story books.

PAST NOBLE GRANDS

Mrs. Leroy Hoffman was hostess to the Past Noble Grand of Kokeah lodge on Wednesday evening of last week. Bingo furnished the diversion with Mrs. Helen Schatz holding high score and Mrs. Belle Barth low.

Chelsea Wallops Manchester

Friday, Chelsea gladders walloped Manchester 47-0, before one of the smallest crowds to witness this traditional game in years. It broke Manchester's string of three straight victories and the local club and Chelsea broke this string in a very convincing fashion. Chelsea made 13 first downs while Manchester made but three, as every player on the roster participated in the rout.

From the first few minutes of play when Edgar smashed over for a touch down the outcome of the game could readily be seen. Edgar also scored again after intercepting a pass in the fourth period.

Kern also scored two touchdowns, once scoring on a reverse and again after intercepting a pass and running 85 yards to score.

Capt. Rob Strieter, Chelsea's fine center, also scored after intercepting a pass. Rob ran 20 yards for a score. Thus three of Chelsea's seven touchdowns resulted from intercepted passes. Gadd and Slane also scored touchdowns on off-tackle smashes.

Edgar booted two conversions and passed to Muckack for another; Weir also booted one, while Gadd rushed over the other conversion.

The game was featured by the splendid downfield blocking of the Chelsea line, specially Joe Merkel. On all three of the touchdowns scored on intercepted passes Joe was leading the interference.

This was the final game for Chelsea and they close the season with a record 6 wins, 2 ties and 1 loss.

Pep Meeting

A pep meeting was held Friday afternoon just before the big game. The seniors were in charge of the program, with Wilma Swinburn and Margaret Pohlkamp co-chairmen.

All the football fellows were then called up on the stage. After some trouble in getting the modest 23 little fellows up there, the pep band played a number. Incidentally the pep band sounded all right! Then the seniors put their two cents worth of advertising the Senior Stand in. After some cheers, Mr. Miller gave a talk. Everyone was surprised to see Mrs. Cameron (it seems little Charlie, Jr. has been taking up quite a bit of her time) who gave an interesting talk.

After waiting patiently for his wife to finish her talk Mr. Cameron had an opportunity to say a few words.

The pep meeting was then closed by a cheer and the pep band playing a number while everyone marched out.

G. A. A. Exercises

"Oh—h my back," "Am I ever sore," These were the sounds you heard a field at the school Wednesday night. Few weeks ago when the girls started doing calisthenics in G. A. A., but now you don't hear those sounds, everyone seems to be used to it.

Everything goes O.K. while the girls are doing exercises until they come to the push-up. Arms swing in perfect unison (almost) and everyone is together until the aforementioned exercise, when on the count of six, more of the girls are found flat on stomachs instead of standing upright. Isn't that so, Helen? Don't worry, they say practice makes perfect and the girls certainly hope so.

But wait a minute, what's this a fight? Oh, no, it's just last year's basketball players playing "keep-away" and practicing up on their rough stuff.

Well, all these exercises go into the makings of a good team. The girls want to make last year's basketball record even better this year if they can play at all.

All-Hi Party

Friday, the 12th, the boys and girls of the Chelsea Public School had another All-Hi Party with the Seniors and their family, but it was not a pop. The Sophomores decorated the gymnasium with Chinese lanterns and made the end of the party when the seniors were cut everyone was laughing and yelling for the color guard.

Entertainment was provided by the different parts of the world. They clubs and by dancing. The Latin club played many songs on the xylophone had a musical quiz game, and the young of the trio did some "Pats" before the party.

McClear at the mike, and Jim Gakos, they played the following numbers: doing the commercial, their project "The Bells of Saint Mary," first as a was Richards Jiff, "Chicken Mix," Mr. Gakos then as it was originally written. Cameron was the father question, and then in swing time; "My which was "What six couples are here Wild Irish Rose," "Glow Worm," tonight?" The prize was balloons, "Anchors Aweigh," "Cassions," "Ma-Kon Slocum" and "The Marching Song." When the Evening Sun Goes Down," with much necessary coaching from the audience. The Home Economics club presented a girls' quartet featuring Theresa Lyons, Rose Mary Lyons, Madelyn Rowe and Pat Burg with Mary J. Eder at the piano.

Because of unforeseen difficulties the Hi-Y was forced to cancel their part of the program. Music for dancing was furnished by the radio, photograph and juke box.

HELP KEEP BOYS FLYING!!

Through the Keyhole

Was that Bob P. and Dick U. going back to school before the rest of the band went back last Thursday? Thanks for the help anyway, boys, we finally found out which was the front of the band.

Those poor boys! Mr. Johnson even had to come to their rescue. You see in the air-raid drill they were stranded on the girls side of the hall.

Who was that lying flat on her stomach in G. A. A. the other night after the "push-up" exercise? It was no other than Helen G. Those elbows need a little greasing, don't they, Helen?

Could that have been Bob S. and Luther K. wandering out of Miss Crumback's room around the middle of the period? We'll excuse you this time boys.

The Sophs. must have ordered their rings last week. Anyway we heard a lot of grumbling from them last Thursday. Well, I guess you can't satisfy everyone can you?

What! No cheery whistle around the halls? Soon the word was around that Mr. Gentner was sick. Absent for the first time in 21 years. That's quite a record, Mr. Gentner; and we did miss you.

Has anyone ever wondered what happens to worn-out dollar bills? Well, according to A. Modack the government grinds them up and makes postage stamps out of them.

Class News

Junior Class

The Junior class has selected their play, which will be given the latter part of January.

The class hopes to take over the next All-Hi party. The funds they receive will be used for gifts for the soldiers that have graduated recently from our school.

Sophomore Class

The Sophomore class has selected their class rings.

Freshmen Class

The Freshmen class will give the Sophomores return party on November 20.

The class colors have been chosen; they are green and white.

Seventh Grade

Mary Belle Lantis celebrated her birthday on November 13.

Our stamp sale was $13.10.

Geography has been taught us this week by Mrs. Hale. We like her very much.

Congratulations, Boys

Chelsea Bulldogs lost one game, tied two and won six in the 1942 season. They were scored against only twice in the entire season. Although Chelsea was in third place in the Huron River League, each of the top teams also lost a game. In the league, Dundee lost one, Flat Rock lost one and tied one, and Chelsea lost one and tied two.

This is an excellent record and the students of Chelsea are justly proud of the team and their coach—Congratulations!

Graduates of '43 (?)

Edward Beissel, one of our tallest Senior boys, is 6 ft. 2 in. tall. He has brown hair and blue eyes. His favorite subject is shop, and he likes hiking as a pastime. Football is his favorite sport. He is very ambitious and he enjoys working. Ed says he has no favorite dish; he just enjoys eating them all.

Latin Club

The Latin club held its third meeting of the year Tuesday, November 3. After a short business meeting copies of Latin songs were passed out and everyone sang.

It was decided to have a Latin club party in December. As yet no plans have been made.

F. F. A.

Wednesday night the F. F. A. had a party for the Greenhands. At this time the Greenhands took the oath of the club and were initiated into the F. F. A. club. Volley ball was played and sweet cider and pretzels were served as refreshments.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

A Flying Fortress is to America's air fleet what heavy artillery is to the Army. This gigantic four-engine bomber, equipped with heavy cannon, carries about three tons of bombs and reaches a speed of about 300 miles an hour.

These ships carry a crew of seven to nine men, weigh about 22½ tons, have a wing spread of 103 feet and each motor develops 1,000 horsepower. We need more of these "Flying Fortresses" to compete with the Nazi forces. You can help by investing in War Bonds every payday. Buy them from your bank, post office or other convenient issuing agent.

BOMBS BURST ONCE

By Granville Church

WNU Features

Inside the long partition they spent a moment studying the layout. The cylindrical casings were pointed at the bulkhead, which was constructed of thick plan. When assembled, there'd be a space of about two feet between the noses of the bombs and the heavy wall.

"Okay, men, it'll work," Collins said. "Get busy on your jobs, I'll handle mine."

The room was wired with lights. Since no beam could escape outside, Collins snapped the switch and immediately got to work on a study of the first tail fuse at hand.

"Huh," he said dismally, "they're the arming vane type. Well, guess I can revolve them by hand. Nossie piece, I understand that well enough. Pull the pin and they're set for impact."

These bombs were designed for loading on planes, assembled, but not set for explosion. On release from the plane, the arming pin of the nose fuse would have to be pulled, to free the mechanical restraint that prevents the fuse from firing the detonator. In the case of the tail fuse, however, that "brake" would be released automatically by the revolution of the arming vane as the bomb fell through the air.

CHAPTER XIX

Collins' job was to assemble the bombs and release all mechanical restraints so that impact on the noses would explode them. He started to wind the vane.

Meanwhile, Curt and McInnis put saws to use. They cut half through all the ground supports which held the heavy wall firm, then sheered through the ceiling ties. So much work was necessary, perhaps, but it helped. Thus, an explosion of dynamite outside this wall would force it back against the noses of the bombs.

They then planted the dynamite, dragged the two motors to the spot, measured the fuse. Against the chance that Collins might not probably set the bombs for they were, after all, foreign to him—a can of black powder was planted in the cockpit of each machine. At length the three charges were set, with fuses that would allow Collins time to get away.

"Collins wants pictures. But we can't risk lighting up the window strip by the flash so early. He'll have to take them when he's ready to light the fuses."

They looked in on Collins. "In the dead air of the tight-closed room he'd sweated through all his clothes, his face was shiny wet. No picnic, this. He knew what his chances were if he guessed wrong on these bombs."

"Okay," he told them, "I'm about set. Only three noses left to screw in, then all pins to remove."

"It's late," worried Curt. "Close to midnight. Took us longer than we'd expected. Slats will be phoning them any minute now."

"Yeah, you two get going," Collins said. "But Curt was reluctant. Then, 'You're no watch, Collins, take mine. It's synchronized with Monahan's.'"

He handed it over and still hesitated. Collins lifted his head sharply to speak again, but Curt held up his hand.

"Okay, okay," he said, "we're on our way." He set the camera on one of the cylinders, carefully, to balance it. "We'll fire the grass now. There was a shower this evening, it'll take a little time to get it bling good."

Curt and McInnis snatched up bunches of tinder-dry grass from sheltered spots as they ran to the front of the hangars. Curt was getting anxious.

His worry was short-lived! Curt and McInnis were brought up short as they rounded the end of the hangars. The tennis court at the other end of the field was now ablaze with lights!

Even as they stared, a small band of men was emerging from behind the office building, headed this way. "Six of them, Jerry! The two of us can't count on holding off that gang with pistol fire!"

"Blaze the grass, Curt! All the way to the fence and around the other side of the hangars to the rear fence!"

"Sure, sure! A solid wall of fire ought to slow them up—long enough!"

Curt lit his first bunch of tinder, planted it, raced on with another. McInnis did likewise, heading around the other end of the long building. They met at the back by now there was a swiftly creeping line of fire behind them blocking off the hangars within this entire corner of the field.

There was nothing they could do for Collins but shout into the building a warning of the men on the way. Collins was now grabbing off his pictures—the planes from different angles. He'd taken the row of bombs already.

Curt and McInnis raced across the black fields, stumbling constantly but making ground. There were shouts behind them.

Then came the furious chugging of a motorcar, headed from the upper end of the field.

"They expect to get behind us, Jerry, head us off! We'll have to stop that before they reach our car!"

They were close to the airfield track. They turned, running at top speed toward the car, which hadn't yet rounded the curve of mountain-side. There were half-rotted logs left from clearing the field. Curt and McInnis had perhaps a minute and a half—a minute. They tugged and hauled at one of the logs. Rains had sunk it into the ground, set it. They tried it loose and slung it across the tracks. The driver would see it, but not in time to stop.

Then came the car. Around the curve of mountain-side it sped. It hit the log, bounced from the rails, turned over. But not before a figure had snapped open the door and shot from it. A man rolled over and over, then scrambled to his feet. "Toenjes!" shouted Curt joyfully.

Toenjes it was—a wild man in the flare of the car's headlights which still worked, curiously enough, one of them slanting skyward. He had a gun in his hand but was helpless from both the glare of lights and the loss of his glasses.

Curt coolly put a bullet into the man's shoulder. "Explain that away, my fine friend," he grunted, "when the investigation breaks."

There were two others in the car. One was apparently pinned down, the other hurt and feebly trying to climb through a window. Neither was Ryden nor Lannestock.

"Jerry! They planned on Lee and the kids as hostages if I got wise! That business works two ways. We'll take Toenjes with us. Then if things don't go well at Tempuio—"

"Okay. Grab him."

Between them Curt and McInnis seized the raging, helpless man and hustled him along the tracks toward their car. Toenjes' legs didn't pump fast enough to suit them and as a result they dragged him most of the way.

They kept glancing up toward the radio station high above. No lights showed, it was a black mountain-side. They reached the car, bound Toenjes' hands behind him, gagged him to get rid of his insane, spluttering threats, and tossed him in the back. Another glance upward and a light popped on and on several times under and between the two shafts. A rectangle it showed, a window.

"Man, is that a relief!" exclaimed McInnis. "They'll send no messages tonight!"

"Yeah, didn't know myself what slats would be up against," Curt admitted. He discovered his mouth was dry. He laughed.

They looked back. The black bulk of the hangars showed up within a solid thick wall of fire. The waist high grass blazed fiercely, throwing flames high into the air. They were licking at the trees overhead, they'd spread beyond the fence.

Against that sheet of light they saw Collins come stumbling their way. He reached them, out of breath, tossed the camera into the car, gasped out that things were ready to pop, and collapsed on the back seat. There he discovered Toenjes.

"Traveling companion we picked up to keep you company," said Curt. Dr. Toenjes himself, if you please. He'll be glad to see we get through to Soledad, no doubt, no doubt, if the need arises."

One thing remained, McInnis did it. He lit the fuse to the charge of black powder that would blow the bridge behind them, even as Curt stepped on the starter, and jumped to the running board. He slid in-side as the car shot off.

They'd covered half a kilometer when McInnis, eyes on his wrist, said, "Half a minute, Curt!"

Curt stopped the car, all three got out. They stared back. The flames had spread to the trees, but as they ferent angles. He'd taken the row of bombs already.

Curt and McInnis raced across the black fields, stumbling constantly but making ground. There were shouts behind them.

Then came the furious chugging of a motorcar, headed from the upper end of the field.

"They expect to get behind us, Jerry, head us off! We'll have to stop that before they reach our car!"

They were close to the airfield track. They turned, running at top speed toward the car, which hadn't yet rounded the curve of mountain-side. There were half-rotted logs left from clearing the field. Curt and McInnis had perhaps a minute and a half—a minute. They tugged and hauled at one of the logs. Rains had sunk it into the ground, set it. They tried it loose and slung it across the tracks. The driver would see it, but not in time to stop.

Then came the car. Around the curve of mountain-side it sped. It hit the log, bounced from the rails, turned over. But not before a figure had snapped open the door and shot from it. A man rolled over and over, then scrambled to his feet. "Toenjes!" shouted Curt joyfully.

Toenjes it was—a wild man in the flare of the car's headlights which still worked, curiously enough, one of them slanting skyward. He had a gun in his hand but was helpless from both the glare of lights and the loss of his glasses.

Curt coolly put a bullet into the man's shoulder. "Explain that away, my fine friend," he grunted, "when the investigation breaks."

There were two others in the car. One was apparently pinned down, the other hurt and feebly trying to climb through a window. Neither was Ryden nor Lannestock.

Mich. Bell Urges Less Long Distance Calls

The Michigan Bell Telephone Company urges its customers to refrain from making social long distance calls on Thanksgiving Day to prevent possibly dangerous congestion of the circuits.

N. J. Prakkon, manager for the company, points out that the wires will be crowded with military and war men in the service.

He particularly urged users not to make social calls over transcontinental or interstate long distance lines involving distances of more than 300 miles, where the traffic normally is heaviest. He also suggested that a person having an urgent call to make, give the operator the number of the distant telephone if possible and keep the conversation short.

Use Luke-Warm Water

When re-using wool yarn from old sweaters, afghans, etc., wash the garment thoroughly first, by dousing it up and down gently in generous luke-warm suds. Rinse repeatedly in clear lukewarm water, and then dry flat, but without trying to reshape the garment. Ravel the wool and arrange it in loose hanks. Wash the hanks lightly in cool suds, to remove kinks as well as any signs of soil that may remain after the first washing. Dry by hanging one loop of the hank over a rod, then wind into balls for knitting.

King Turkey Prepares for Inevitable

For at least one day during the year the turkey supplants the eagle as America's national bird. The well-dressed turkey of 1942 will be no different than in the past—but his relatives will be shipped to all parts of the world to feed American soldiers, sailors and marines on the nation's traditional holiday. Pictured here, King Turkey looks on as members of his court receive their fattening rations. Several years ago 50 per cent of America's turkey crop found its way to the table on one day—Thanksgiving. Thirty-eight per cent was consumed at Christmas-time, and the other 12 per cent throughout the year. In recent years the latter percentage has increased appreciably.

Less Conversation—More Conservation!

By Ruth Taylor

So far in this war there has been too much conversation and too little conservation. We are still talking about what we want, rather than working to save what we have.

Our whole economy is in the throes of change. We can't catch up on lost time going on as usual. The tremendous resources of which we have so proudly boasted will avail us nothing unless we put them to work. But the change-over from peace-time to war-time production cannot be made this abruptly without the day-by-day cooperation of each and every one of us.

We can survive this test as a nation, only if we survive this test as individuals. If we plan intelligently, we can do our part in conserving and utilizing everything we possess, and thus save the materials which are so vitally needed for the conduct of the war.

We will need all of our ingenuity and our vaunted cleverness to do this, but we can accomplish it by eliminating waste and conserving our resources, not only of money and materials but of time and energy.

Conservation is the tank warfare of the home front. For by conserving all our materials for a common war fund, we can plow through obstacles, and smash through barriers with concentrated strength expended for the sole purpose of achieving victory in the shortest possible time.

There is a paragraph sent out by one of the government offices which we all ought to keep in front of us.

Nov. 20, at 8:00 o'clock.

Regular meeting of R. P. Carpenter
Corps, No. 210, will be held Tuesday,
Nov. 24, one p. m. sharp, at the Masonic Temple. Inspection—officers please wear white. Officers unable to attend meeting call 6675 before noon
Monday.

GIVEN SHOWER
A wedding shower was given Sunday afternoon in honor of Mrs. Edward Langowski by Miss Alda Rudd.
Bingo furnished entertainment for the eighteen guests. Refreshments were served and many beautiful gifts were received.

Fibers Lubricated
A special oil manufactured by a large oil company is used by the woolen industry to lubricate the fibers during the spinning process.
The tensile strength of the fibers is materially increased by the use of this lubricant.

Not Much Grain
Animal food such as insects forms nearly a sixth of the bobwhite quail's diet and while it eats grain its maintenance charge is negligible.

ORDER FOR PUBLICATION

Adoption
State of Michigan, The Probate Court
(for the County of Washtenaw).
At a session of said Court, held at the Probate Office in the City of Ann Arbor in said County, on the 16th day of November, A. D. 1942.

Present, Hon. Jay G. Pray, Judge of Probate.

In the Matter of the Estate of Fred
David Seidlitz, Minor.

Buford B. Hooks, and Mollie E.
Hooks having filed in said Court their Declaration of Adoption, praying that an order be made by said Court finding that Mollie E. Seidlitz Hooks is the sole parent having legal authority to make and execute said consent to adoption, for the reason that said parents are divorced and that Otto Fred Seidlitz the other parent who is legally liable for the support of said child, has not contributed to the maintenance of said child for a period of two years last preceding the date of filing this Declaration of Adoption and praying that an order be made by said Court that Buford B. Hooks and Mollie E. Hooks do stand in the place of parents to said child, and that the name of said child be changed to Frederick David Hooks.

It is Ordered, That the 17th day of December, A. D. 1942, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, at said Probate Office, be and is hereby appointed for hearing
said petition;

It is Further Ordered, That public notice thereof be given by publication of a copy of this order, for three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing, in the Chelsea Standard a newspaper printed and circulated in said County.

Jay G. Pray, Judge of Probate.
