Council Undecided On Time Change Locally

Discussion of the new time bill recently passed by the state legislature which permits municipalities to turn their clocks back one hour on February 15 if they so desire was the principal item of business before the council at their regular meeting on Monday night.

The council was about evenly divided on the desirability of turning the clocks back or going along with Detroit and Ann Arbor if they keep the present time, which from present indications they plan to do.

Realizing that whichever method is approved here will throw the community out of step with part of the state, and believing that the bill as passed by the legislature and signed by Governor Kelly has created a state of confusion throughout Michigan, the council sent a telegram to the governor asking that it be stated definitely which time is to be adopted in Michigan, rather than leaving it up to each community to decide for itself—which in the opinion of many is one of the most ill-advised pieces of legislation to come out of Lansing.

The telegram to Gov. Kelly follows:

Honorable Harry F. Kelly,
Governor, State of Michigan,
Capitol Building,
Lansing, Michigan.

Governor Kelly:

The Chelsea village authorities deem it impossible to carry on the normal functions of business without a uniform standard of time in the state of Michigan.

It is necessary that a uniform time be maintained in order that we may expend our maximum energy and resources in the necessary efforts to win the present war. If businesses, side by side, are to be maintained on different time schedules, there will be a great loss in time and energy, which will only aid our enemies.

We deem it advisable and highly desirable for the war effort that the proper state authorities determine a uniform standard of time for the state of Michigan prior to Feb. 15, 1943.

Trusting that you will give this matter your prompt and due consideration at once.

Very truly yours,
Village of Chelsea,
Alfred D. Mayer, President.

March of Dimes Drive Collection Hits $336

The local committee in charge of the March of Dimes drive to obtain funds for the fight against infantile paralysis reports that a total of $336.75 was collected in Chelsea during the campaign which ended Saturday.

Coin box collections were as follows: factories, $102.52; business places, $28.81; schools, $25.07; Methodist Home, $7.77; Sylvan Theatre, $57.78. The collection on the March of Dimes board in front of the Chelsea State Bank on Friday and Saturday was $114.20.

The committee extends its thanks to the school children for distributing cards, teachers of both schools for aiding with coin boxes in classrooms, the girls who collected in the theatre, and the ladies who worked on the March of Dimes board.

GEO. DOE INJURES SHOULDER
George Doe, local marshal, suffered a dislocated shoulder last Friday night when he slipped and fell on the icy steps at the rear of the post office while making an inspection tour about 7:30. He was taken to St. Joseph's Mercy hospital in Ann Arbor for X-rays, and was brought home on Saturday.

HONORED BY FRATERNITY
Paul W. Schneider, of 610 S. Main street, Chelsea, has just been elected vice-president of the Sigma Chi fraternity at Albion College. Schneider is a junior, majoring in business administration.

Action Will Be Demanded For Aid To Farmers

Public Convinced That Food Shortage Is Not Synthetic Propaganda

By Gene Alleman
Now that the consuming public is becoming gradually convinced that the reported shortage of food is genuine and is not synthetic propaganda concocted by fair-haired reformers at Washington for further regimentation of growers and consumers alike, the good old-fashioned American custom of "demanding action" is coming to the fore.

On the theory that the "squeaky wheel gets the oil," newspaper editors of Michigan attending the 75th convention of the Michigan Press association at Michigan State College, were vocal in their insistence that "something should be done."

They wanted to assist the farmer. So here is one of many news stories which you may read during the coming months of 1943. Hold on!

Before we get too far into the problem, consider with us first the basic matter of food as a military necessity.

We will quote dirt-farmer Claude Wickard, the Hoosier-born secretary of agriculture, from his annual report to President Roosevelt on Jan. 24:

"Military and lend-lease needs for food will be HALF again as great as they were in 1942; they will take ONE-FIFTH of our total food production."

"More than a FOURTH of our meat production, nearly a THIRD of our eggs and HALF of our output of canned vegetables will have military and lend-lease destination."

Next, the military use of food as an effective weapon to save lives.

Lives of American boys were saved in Africa—and these lads included sons of Michigan fathers and mothers—because American authorities could promise and deliver food to natives (Continued on page two)

Another Group Leaves To Enter War Service

Young men who are leaving Chelsea to engage in war service are:

Jack Russell Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Miller, who enlisted in the U. S. Navy on Monday. He was born in Chelsea on Nov. 12, 1924 and had recently been employed at the Central Fibre Products Co.

Ervin Slane, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. P. Slane, was born July 3, 1924 and was employed at the Chelsea Spring Co. He also enlisted in the U. S. Navy.

Ralph J. Dingle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Dingle of Detroit, was born Aug. 4, 1923. He graduated from Chelsea high school in 1941 and had since been employed at the Federal Screw Works.

Vincent L. Hafner, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Hafner, was born Nov. 17, 1923 and is an employee at the Federal Screw Works.

Gerald Hoover, son of Milton Hoover, was born May 10, 1923. He was employed at the Chelsea Spring Co.

Dingle, Hafner and Hoover will leave Ann Arbor on Saturday for Camp Grant, Ill.

Clarence W. Wood (incorrectly listed in last week's issue as Charles W. Wood), is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wood of Sylvan. He was born in Wayne on Jan. 16, 1923, graduating from Chelsea high school in 1941. Formerly employed at the Federal Screw Works, he left for Camp Grant, Ill. on Tuesday.

TAX SALE SUPPLEMENT

IN THIS ISSUE

This issue of The Standard contains a supplement of four pages which lists parcels of property in Washtenaw county which will be sold at the State Tax Sale to be held the first Tuesday in May, 1943.

Health Dept. Lecturer To Visit Public Schools

Problems of personal, mental and social health of Chelsea youth, with emphasis on wartime stresses and adjustments, will be discussed in the Chelsea high school on February 4, 5 and 8, when Miss Melita Hutzel, a Michigan Department of Health consultant-lecturer, will visit Chelsea at the invitation of local school and health officials.

Miss Hutzel's work in recent months has been almost exclusively in the crowded military and industrial areas of the state. Her talks in schools are prefaced and accompanied by conferences with health authorities and school administrators, and teacher, parent and other groups.

Challenging health and social problems faced by youth of today and adjustments which must be made by those who will enter the armed services or war industry will form the basis for Miss Hutzel's talks and the informal discussion periods with students which will follow. Parent responsibility in facing realistically the prospect of military or industrial service by their sons and daughters will be discussed by Miss Hutzel in talks with adult groups.

The program to be carried on in Chelsea is similar to those being conducted in other communities. Arrangements with the State Health Department for Miss Hutzel's services have been made by Dr. Otto K. Engelke, Washtenaw County Health Director, at the request of Supt. Johnson.

In addition to meeting with pupils and faculty members, Miss Hutzel will speak at the Kiwanis club ladies' night on Monday evening.

More Land Is Needed For Victory Gardens

More land is needed for the many victory vegetable gardens that will be planted this spring. Anyone having more garden land than will be required for his own use, should get in touch with Marshall Richards, vocational agriculture teacher at the high school, as soon as possible.

Within a few weeks all those who plan to have gardens will be asked to register. With this information available, more complete plans for plowing and fitting of gardens and purchase of seeds and fertilizers can be made.

The Chelsea F. F. A. club will continue its practice of ordering certified seed potatoes from Northern Michigan and proven garden seeds from the Michigan Farm Bureau. Many Chelsea residents may want to take advantage of this service.

Everyone planning a garden should have a copy of "The Home Vegetable Garden," published by the Agricultural Extension Division of Michigan State College. This bulletin may be obtained at the high school, from the county agricultural agent, or direct from the college.

ROBERT G. FOSTER ENLISTS
Robert G. Foster, who enlisted on January 2 in the U. S. Army, will report to Ann Arbor on Saturday, February 6. He will be sent to Camp Grant, Ill.

Robert is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry E. Foster. He was born in Chelsea on Feb. 19, 1913 and has lived here with the exception of seven years, when he resided in Detroit.

A graduate of Chelsea high school, Class of 1931, he also attended Michigan State Normal College. He served as clerk of Sylvan township in 1940 and 1941 and for the past several months had been employed as resident inspector of the Detroit Ordnance District of the Federal Screw Works. He was married Aug. 9, 1935 to Leona Weinberg.

On Sunday, Robert was honored with a family dinner at the home of his parents, the guests including Mr. and Mrs. LaVerne Foster and daughter Patricia of Detroit, and Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Foster and son Michael of Cavanaugh Lake.

FARMERS' MEETING

The Farmers' Guild, Local 254, is sponsoring a public meeting at St. Mary's hall on Thursday, Feb. 11 at 8 o'clock p. m. Mr. Edmonds of Ann Arbor will speak on "Employment for Farmers." Mr. Osler will also speak and show moving pictures. The public is invited. No admission charge. Free lunch.

THE HOME FRONT IN MICHIGAN

When War Ration Book Two is distributed late in February, the person registering for the family must state the excess number of cans of rationed goods of eight-ounce size and larger owned in the family. An eight-point stamp will be deducted for each can in excess of five cans per person, the Office of Price Administration has announced.

Whether many rural children attend school next fall depends largely on how well school bus drivers observe conservation policies now. Whenever possible it is recommended by ODT that in order to reduce mileage each bus should be stationed overnight near the point where the first pupil boards the bus in the morning and should be parked close to the school during school hours.

Two Michigan companies have been awarded sizeable contracts for the construction of 65-foot wooden tugs by the Maritime Commission. Love Construction and Engineering Co. of Mackegon will build six tugs at $31,500 each and the Traverse City Shipbuilding Co. of Traverse City will build the same number at $32,405 each.

Michigan will have a substantial portion of the 18 million Victory Gardens set as a goal for this year by the Department of Agriculture. Secretary Wickard urges every town, city and suburban family with a sufficient plot of ground to plant a Victory garden to aid the nation's food supply. He says special attention should be given to green, leafy and yellow vegetables and tomatoes.

Baseball fans will be glad to know that this year's baseballs will be as serviceable as ever. But they will be made with a scrap rubber-cushioned cork center. Results of mechanical and real-life tests of the new ball have convinced manufacturers that your favorite slugger will continue to knock them out of the ball park with his usual ease.

Knocking the pins out from under the Axis and bowling Hitler over with production are more important now than knocking down wooden pins in bowling alleys. New plastic balls are out for the duration—there'll be wooden ones. Pins call for well-seasoned maple of the kind used to make lasts in Army shoes. If new ones are made, they'll be of lower quality maple.

If any Michigan man between the ages of 18 and 45 isn't carrying Selective Service registration and classification cards, he had better see his draft board at once. The law provides severe penalties for willful violations.

HUNTERS PREFER 12-GAUGE
Saginaw—New figures for winter argument among sportsmen as to which is the best gun for pheasant hunting are supplied from a sample count by conservation department game men at Prairie Farm last season.

Of 836 hunters checked in the test of gun preference, 395 were using 12 gauge, 258 were using 16 gauge, 131 had 20 gauge, 50 had 410's and two had 10 gauge. Twelve-gauge users were not far short of a majority over all other sizes combined.

A similar check of the occupations of 1,234 hunters using the area showed 49 per cent of them to be factory workers. By actual count, the check ran: factory workers 605, skilled labor (non-factory) 146, students 70, business 62, housewives 57, unskilled labor (non-factory) 53, farmers 52, unemployed 47, clerical 41, professional 25, public service 18, army and navy 12, and unclassified 46.

Action Will Be Asked For Aid To Farmers

who were on the verge of starvation. This fact was revealed recently by the Office of War Information at Washington. In fact, it came from one of the OWI executives who flew to Africa to get the facts. Food is a powerful life-saving weapon in total war. Think that over!

Then there is the commonplace factor of weather. You can produce guns and shells whether the sun shines or not. But you can't produce corn and beans unless the weather is suitable.

Remember the wonderful growing season we had last summer? Of course you do. It was an important contribution to man's determination to produce bumper crops.

As for 1943, farmers are already worried. Unfavorable weather last fall prevented fall plowing in many instances, thus imposing further handicaps on farmers who are already beset by a shortage of labor and equipment. Unfavorable weather next summer could easily bring tragic results.

Next, the shortage of labor. It is critical.

It was critical last fall before Uncle Sam woke up and issued a directive to "freeze" labor on the farms and to defer farm labor from military duty.

More farm laborers went into war plants to earn fantastic wages than were called by selective service boards for military duty. Now the table is turned. Men in war plants are not exempt from military duty, although men on farms are.

During 1942 the farms of America lost more than 1,600,000 operators—family workers and year-round hired workers—to non-farm employment and to the armed forces. Sons of farmers are just as patriotic as other American lads; many of them volunteered for military service.

"All right," you may say, "I agree with all this but how about deferment of the farmers? Are the local boards deferring farm labor?"

Here is how farm labor is supposed to be deferred:

Each selective service board is asked to refer a farmer's questionnaire to the nearest "war board" of the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

This board, advisory only in function, is supposed to make recommendations to the selective service board as to the essentiality of the farmer.

If the draft board declines to defer the farmer, then the registrant or his employer may make an appeal in writing. This appeal is referred by the local draft board to the regional appeal board of which Michigan has nineteen.

If the regional appeal board upholds the local board in refusing deferment, an appeal may be sent to the state director at Lansing who may relay it to Washington, where the President himself has final authority to decide on its merits.

We happen to know that the state headquarters at Lansing is sympathetic with the plight of the farmer. Officials here insist that no injustice has been done to their knowledge.

It all boils down to this: If the farmer is working full-time on the farm, the employer (or the farmer himself) has a patriotic duty to appeal any induction order by any local draft board to the highest authority. The farmer is an essential "soldier" in this war, and don't let anyone tell you different!

One final "if," however. Slackers are going to be drafted.

The signing of the legislature's time bill by Governor Harry F. Kelly has added a good 5 to 10 per cent to Michigan's prospective food output for 1943.

Why? Again, because of the critical labor shortage whereby women, high school students, and even children may have to pitch in and get the crops planted and harvested this year. Every hour will help.

Legislators are delighted over the time change. Here are two statements typical of legislative thinking:

Rep. Maurice Post of Rockford (Kent county): "This is the only satisfactory conclusion in view of all evidence presented. I feel both sides of the question have been thoroughly explored and fairly judged. I commend the governor for his leadership and the legislators for their determination to see this thing through in a proper manner, commending all for acting with dispatch."

Senator Don VanderWerf, Fremont (Newaygo county): "It's over and everyone should be happy with the final determination of a highly controversial question. We all feel confidence that passage of the bill represents a question that followed the spirit as well as the letter of Governor Kelly's recommendation to the legislature. It is far better to have all available facts before final decision than to have acted impetuously and permit arguments to continue on."

More about the food problem will appear next week.

Niobe Legend
In Greek legend Niobe was queen of Thebes, wife of Amphion and daughter of Tantalus. She boasted of her 12 children, saying that Leto had only two. Apollo and Artemis, angered over this insult to their mother, killed all Niobe's children and Niobe was turned to a stone image which wept continually.

INCOME TAX FACTS

A single person, or a married person not living with husband or wife, is entitled to a personal exemption of $1200 for the year if he can qualify as head of a family. A head of family is "an individual who actually supports and maintains in one household one or more individuals who are closely connected with him by blood relationship, relationship by marriage or by adoption, and whose right to exercise family control and provide for these dependent individuals is based upon some moral or legal obligation."

Examples of head of family status would be a widower or widow who maintained a home for a dependent child, or a son who supported and maintained a household for a dependent father or mother. In order to meet the test of actual support and maintenance as head of a family, the benefactor must furnish more than one-half of the support and maintenance.

The term "in one household" ordinarily means under one roof, but if a father is absent on business or a child or other dependent is away at school, or on a visit, the common home being still maintained, the head of family exemption would still apply. Where a parent is obliged to maintain his dependent children with relatives or in a boarding house while he lives elsewhere, the additional exemption may still apply. If, however, without necessity, the dependent continuously makes his home elsewhere, his benefactor is not the head of a family irrespective of the question of support.

The term "closely connected by blood relationship" applies to a person's progenitors and lineal descendants, to his brothers or sisters, whether by the whole or half blood, and to his uncles, aunts, nephews, and nieces. Irrespective of any legal obligation of the taxpayer to support such dependent relatives, a moral obligation to do so exists, and if the individual is actually supporting and maintaining in one household relatives of this degree he is entitled to head of family exemption.

A taxpayer is considered to be "closely connected by marriage" with his step-sisters and step-brothers, but whether his right to exercise family control and provide for these individuals is based upon some moral or legal obligation must be decided upon the facts in the particular case. The same considerations apply to the status of a taxpayer because of support furnished to his father-in-law, mother-in-law, brother-in-law, and sister-in-law. First cousins by blood, and cousins of lesser degree, are not regarded as so "closely connected by blood relationship" as to give rise to a head of family exemption.

A legal guardian who may maintain and support in his home a dependent ward is not entitled to the personal exemption as head of a family if the ward was not connected with him by relationship of blood, marriage or adoption; nor is a taxpayer entitled to exemption as head of a family by virtue of maintenance and support of a child not legally adopted.

ENROLLS AT CASSIDY LAKE
William Ingram of 201 Buchanan street, Chelsea, has been accepted for enrollment in the War Production Training Shops of the Cassidy Lake Resident Center near Chelsea. He will be one of the 200 young men receiving training in aircraft sheet metal, arc and acetylene welding, machine shop operations, radio building and repair, etc. at the Cassidy Lake project.

As soon as they finish their NYA training, these boys will be eligible for placement in one of the scores of war industries throughout the middle-west, cooperating with the NYA War Training Program.

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"I couldn't help overhearing you, Mary, when you asked Jim here why they let the liquor companies use sugar to make whiskey when all the rest of us have to cut down on it. I happen to know the answer to that. You see, the fact of the matter is, the industry never has used a single pound of sugar to make whiskey. The bootleggers were the only ones who used sugar to make whiskey. On top of that, there's not a single large distillery in the country making whiskey any more. They're all working day and night making war alcohol for the government for gunpowder, synthetic rubber, chemicals, and medical supplies.

"Just as I told Ed down at the courthouse this morning, the government simply wouldn't be able to get all this alcohol it needs in time if we didn't have these distilleries available and on the job."

Use Gas Wisely In the Home

For the same reasons that you cook with natural gas, because of its intense and instant heat, its flexibility and economy, it is being used in enormous quantities in the manufacture of war materials.

So vital is natural gas to the war effort that the Government is requesting all homes to use it wisely. Here are ways to economize on its use:

- 1—Do not use the oven of your gas range for room heating.
- 2—Keep room temperatures as low as possible. Do not heat unused rooms.
- 3—Insulate your home and install storm windows so that less gas will be needed for heating.
- 4—Use no more hot water than necessary. Repair leaky faucets. Insulate hot water tanks and pipes.

Our Present-Day Education

In many ways children are fortunate in being brought up in a small community. There are not quite so many demands on their time and energy, nor quite so many temptations that bring about the problems of delinquency that we read about today in centers of greater population. However, the stress and strain and the uncertainty of the times are reflected in our young people.

It is understandable that boys and girls of high school age, and even in the grades, feel that they, too, should be helping in the war effort. Consequently, some have left school; others work part-time outside of the home; there are still others who are helping at home in order that their parents may work in some war industry.

Now where does all of this fit in with what we are trying to do in our schools today? How can we best prepare our high school people for their jobs of tomorrow? We all realize that the war has brought on an emergency. How long will it last? No one knows. But, when we look far enough ahead, can't we see that the never-changing aim of education should be to help people lead better and happier lives?

If this is our aim, it seems that we should not throw overboard, as some suggest, the subjects that will pay us dividends later on. Nor should we lose sight of the importance of discipline and good manners. Discipline, of course, is not the unreasonable obedience to commands, but the willingness to cooperate in the furtherance of the social niceties; that which teaches us tolerance and unselfishness in our dealings with our fellow men, honesty, and fair play. The school should not relax their efforts along these lines—war or no war. And the war will soon be over; and will it not be our greatest satisfaction to know that "there are such things" — and have been right along?

Physical fitness for both boys and girls is always important, and we should consider this in our broad picture of present and future education. Then, too, there are the mechanical and home-making skills which are so important for the boys and girls who are not planning to take college work. But for all, there should be, the subjects that teach the "humanities", as John Kieran, the educated gentleman of "Information Please", points out.

Mr. Kieran says: "Surely the Humanities, the classics, the liberal arts, the amenities of civilized life are among and not the least of the great causes for which we are fighting."

—Carl C. Chandler.

Office News

Miss Hutzel of the State Health Department will be in our school today, tomorrow, and Monday.

A new program for the high school students to be instituted during Activity Period was begun Monday. Boys who were unable to attend one of the other physical fitness classes will now attend one during this hour. It also gives the girls an opportunity to enroll in a class of Blueprint Reading or in a Home Nursing class.

Milan plays here tomorrow night, with the first game starting at 7:15.

Last Thursday, January 28, there was a farmers' meeting in the Ag. room of the high school. The next meeting will be held February 18 at 1:30 p.m. and the subject matter will be on "Dairy and Crops". Everyone is invited to attend these meetings.

Shop

Charles Downer is making a garden tractor out of wood, to be used in the Victory gardens this coming summer. Dean Schweinfurth brought a gasoline engine to class. Many of the boys are studying, learning to repair the engine.

Change In Schedule

Starting Monday, February 1 the Activity Period was changed to seventh hour instead of fifth. The time of dismissal was also changed from 8:30 to 8:55. These changes will make it possible to have a physical fitness class of at least forty minutes a day, five days a week, for every boy in school.

In addition it will also be possible to include classes more directly connected with the war effort such as home nursing, blueprint reading, use of precision tools and lathe operation.

"Food for Victory"

Thursday, January 28—Live Stock and Soils. 1:30 p.m. Chelsea high school.

Last Thursday there was held the first of four meetings scheduled to be presented by the experts of the Agricultural Extension Office in Lansing on "Food For Victory".

The first of these meetings was entitled "Live Stock and Soils" and was attended by only three people, two of whom were adults. As a consequence the two high school Ag. classes were invited.

Everyone is invited to these programs and it is believed the fourth of these meetings is to be the most interesting.

The remaining programs to be held will be as follows:
Thursday, February 18—Dairy and Crops. 1:30 p.m. Chelsea high school, in the Ag. room.

Thursday, March 4—Agricultural Engineering and Poultry. 1:30 p.m. Chelsea high school, in the Ag. room.

Thursday, March 19—Family Food Supply. 1:30 p.m. Chelsea high school, in the Ag. room.

Graduates of '43 (?)

Albert Doll, Jr. was born on January 11, 1926 in Chelsea. Al has dark blonde hair and blue eyes. To say nothing of Al's smile which is flashing every minute would indeed be a crime. He is 5 ft. 11 in. tall and weighs 150 lbs. Every inch of him is a threat to the poor, defenseless pheasants during hunting season, because Al really is a dead shot. The minute he gets his diploma from high school Al's going to tuck it under his arm, march to Detroit and join the Navy!

Band News

The High School Band at the present time consists of 40 members, which in comparison to other school bands of comparable size has now grown into a good sized band. At the present, the band's membership includes twenty first-year players, most of which come from the seventh, eighth and ninth grades.

In addition to the 40 members of the Senior Band, the Chelsea school has a Junior Band consisting of twelve members with various other anxious boys and girls awaiting an opportunity to procure instruments to start band work also. Again, most of these beginning players are joining from the ranks of the junior high grades. In interpreting these facts it becomes evident that the size of the band should remain fairly stable for some time to come, making it possible for an experienced band to be assembled and expanded in the future.

Since such a large percentage of the present band (almost 50 per cent) is composed of young inexperienced players, it is to be noted that the band played remarkably good and difficult music at its theatre program on last December 4 in a musicianly manner. These band members have a lot of talent and given really enthusiastic support of their parents and the rest of the community will give Chelsea a much talked-of Community Band—merely a High School Band!

The Band is now working hard on much new music which the public will be invited to hear in the future. The music is very ambitious for the usual average band to attempt. Yet, the band means to master it and play it in a musicianly way. This band activity is leading to a future event that this column is tagging as unusual and something that no person of the Chelsea community will want to miss! Stay tuned to this column for future announcements about this landmark event that will be sponsored by the Chelsea High School Band!

On Saturday night, the Band Brass Quartette—Dick Umstead, Tom Smith, Jr. Niehaus and Dean Schweinfurth, performed two numbers between acts of the Junior Play. The Clarinet Quartette furnished music before the play. This group was composed of Dick Richards, Mr. Richards, Donna Perkins, Ruth Paul and Marceline Hinderer.

The Junior Play

The annual Junior play was held last Saturday in the high school gymnasium.

Between the acts music was furnished by the high school's clarinet and cornet quartettes.

Leota Kohsman gave a tap dance to "Sweet Sue."

The play was under the able direction of Miss Crumback and her assistant, Marjorie Whipple.

The Juniors want to thank the public for their wonderful patronage and cooperation in making their play such a memorable event.

Stop Me If You've Heard This One - -

Ruth G.: "I can hold 'do three minutes."

Rosie W.: "Poof, I can hold 'it' for five minutes."

Leota: "That's nothing, Henry held 'mi' (me) for two hours last night."

Eather R.: "I want a peck of apples."

Luther E.: "Do you want Baldwins?"

Eather: "Sure, did you think I wanted some with hair on 'em?"

Life is a joke and all things show it—Look at the Juniors and then you'll know it.

Miss Fox: "Name a parasite."

LeRoy: "Me?"

Miss Fox: "Yes, but name another one."

Mrs. Richards: "Is your husband a loud dresser?"

Mrs. Cameron: "Is he! You should hear him hunting for his collar buttons."

Dwight G.: "Do you think you could learn to care for me?"

Irma: "Oh yes, I'm studying to be a nurse."

Helen G.: "He put his arms around me five times last night."

Jeanette: "My, but 'He' must have long arms."

Chorus

The Chorus announces that the date March 12 has been set aside for the All-Hi party. The plans are all ready underway, so set that date aside right now for it's an extra-special occasion. The committees are as follows:

Programs—Theresa Lyons, chairman; Marjorie Gilson, Evelyn Lehman.

Refreshments—Madelyn Rowe, Ruth Gracey.

Posters and advertising—Eleanor Harper, Bob Edgar.

Clean-up—Everyone.

Girls' Athletics

The girls' basketball team has made arrangements to play University-High at Ann Arbor on February 12. This is the same day the boys will play there, so the girls may see this game if they stay long enough.

Last year Chelsea won one game from University-High and tied in another, so the coming game is expected to be very interesting.

Lose To Dexter

By Robert Strieter

The Chelsea high school basketball team suffered its second defeat of the current season last Friday, when Dexter staged a last period rally to come from behind to win. The second team lost its first game by a score of 29-25.

The first quarter was very even with both teams matching each other basket for basket. The score at the end of this period was 10-9 in favor of Chelsea. The second quarter was slower with each team making four points. The half ended with the score 14-13 in Chelsea's favor.

The third period saw Chelsea forge well into the lead by out-scoring the opponents 13 points to 9. Kusterer with 6 and Kern with 5 carried the brunt of the attack. With Chelsea leading 27-22 Dexter staged a tremendous rally and surged ahead 32-28. During this quarter, both Gadd and Policht were fouled out for Chelsea while Dexter lost Mast on personals. With Chelsea trying desperately to regain the ball again, the gun sounded ending the game. The final score was 32-30. Kusterer was high point man with 8 points and Fox gathered 10 for Dexter.

The second team, which hadn't been beaten yet this season, lost its first game by a score of 29-25. Dexter employed a fast break and was well schooled in the fundamentals. The boys had a lead of 8-3 at the end of the first quarter but the Dexter pace was too much as they went ahead 17-16 at the half. The game ended 29-25 in favor of Dexter. Orbring and Bahnmler were high point men with 8 and 7 points respectively.

Chelsea plays Milan here tomorrow night. Let's all go out and support the boys. Other towns support their teams, so why can't Chelsea support theirs? The crowds so far have been rather small. Let's all turn out this Friday and make up for the other games.

New Schedule

"What are you going to take?" "Oh, we have to take Gym." Those were the shouts heard around school beginning last Thursday. The former coming from the girls while the latter were the groans of the boys. You see the boys have only one choice while the girls? Well, don't they usually have more than one choice? (Anyway that's what the boys say.)

What were they talking about? Nothing else but the new afternoon schedule which went into effect Monday. As usual there were those who always have something to gripe about but also there were those few supposedly ambitious souls who would like to soak up everything new just because one or more of their friends happen to mention the idea.

Poor Mr. Miller, he will be affected most by this sudden change of schedule. Why? At least 80 per cent of the girls want to take the course in lathe operation and blueprint reading. It will be quite a change won't it Mr. Miller, after teaching all boys—with one or two exceptions—to find all at once that his precious shop is being invaded by a bunch of gabbling, gossiping females. Well, as they always say, "That's the way it goes, you know."

F. F. A.

All the members of the F. F. A. club attended the "Food for Victory" meeting, January 28. Three extension specialists from the University of Michigan were in charge of the program. Plans were made to help increase the nation's food supply.

SIXTH GRADE
Joyce Crawford and Elden Moore. The other day in our room we elected officers for our club. The president was Bobby Barlow; vice-president, Joyce Crawford; treasurer, Delores Eisenmann; secretary, Elden Moore.

We discussed some new ideas for the Red Cross. Some of the things we discussed were covers for books. We also talked about a play which we would like to put on. If we do, it will take place on Valentine's Day.

The president of our club, Robert Barlow, appointed three girls to make a Valentine box, they are Mary Palmer, Doris Gilson and Joyce Hughes.

February first a new girl came to our room. Her name was Ione Bick. She has been with us in previous years and we are glad to have her back.

Last Monday we started new hours. We have to come to school ten minutes earlier at noon.

Last week was an expensive week with a paid program on Monday, the Junior play on Thursday, a stamp sale (we sold $6.70) and collections for the infantile paralysis fund, to which we gave $2.01 of the $20.76 raised in the whole school.

Many of our boys have been moved to basement lockers to relieve crowding.

DEXTER—Edward Potter, 25 years old, of Dexter, lost his life in a fire early Monday morning, when the house which he occupied burned to the ground.—Leader.

BRIGHTON—Will Miller, of North Brighton, sends in the news that he saw a flock of 100 wild geese flying north last week. This proves just what "geese" geese can be, going north in such weather as this. But, maybe they had a tip to the effect that rent ceilings were to be lifted in the spring and thought they would get apartments early. Maybe it means an early spring. We surely hope so.—Argus.

HOWELL—Two different sets of "bobs" among the few to escape the recent zealous scrap-drive, appeared on our streets last Saturday. Youngsters, who never heard the expression "catching on bobs" or know of that all winter long pastime of 50 years ago, probably looked upon them as something new and wondered where they came from. What innocent, healthful fun the boys and girls of today have missed.—County Press.

CAVANAUGH LAKE GRANGE

The February meeting of Cavanaugh Lake Grange will be held Tuesday, February 9 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. G. Riemenschneider. The members will assemble for a pot-luck dinner at noon, after which the following program will be given:

Song—Battle Hymn of the Republic.

Roll call—Lincoln and Washington quotations.

Lincoln's Gettysburg Address—Chester Notten.

Solo—Mrs. Kenneth Proctor.

Discussion—Better Marketing Methods Needed More Than Better Production Methods—Led by Walter Riemenschneider.

Reading—Mrs. Albert Schweinfurth.

"Hiya, Sarge."

What's Cookin'?"

Night comes down fast on the desert. And the wind dies for a while—and the dust settles.

But off to the north there's the dull, deep thunder of the howitzers pounding the defenses of Bizerte.

Out of the darkness—into the faint light around the field kitchen—steps a soldier.

His face is hard and drawn and called with desert dust.

Across his shoulders are slung two extra helmets—a German rifle—won on patrol.

As the warm, satisfying aroma of hot Irish stew meets him...

his face lights up—his eyes are suddenly younger, brighter.

"Hiya, Sarge. What's cookin'?"

To see that our men in uniform have the food they need to make them the hardest, toughest fighting men on earth is a gigantic task.

Moving that mountain of food to camp and pier, for our own troops, and for our Allies, is primarily a railroad job.

And while the railroads are performing this vital task—they must also continue to carry the great bulk of all food for civilians.

beef from the Texas and Wyoming plains—vegetables from the South and Midwest.

In the first year of this war, your railroads hauled nearly twice as much freight as in 1939—and 2½ times the volume of passenger traffic.

And with a large proportion of all passenger cars on the railroads now constantly engaged in the movement of our armed forces in active service...

is it any wonder that, at times, civilian passenger service is limited—that seats and berths are scarce—that dining cars are crowded—that trains are sometimes late?

You are cheerfully sharing limited supplies of food with our men in uniform.

By accepting occasional inconvenience in travel—by sharing the limited available passenger accommodations—

you are helping immeasurably in one of America's biggest war-time jobs:

To keep our armed forces and essential war supplies on the move.

4-H Clubs Mobilizing For Huge War Effort

Fifty-five thousand members of the 6,500 Michigan 4-H boys and girls clubs put together a wartime contribution of materials worth an estimated $1,879,500 in 1942. Now they are mobilizing to do twice as much towards winning the war in 1943.

Nationwide is the 4-H Mobilization Week of February 6-14. Nationally the 1,600,000 members of the 4-H organization are receiving high compliment from President Roosevelt who expresses faith in their ability to render a great service.

Proof that Michigan farm youngsters are war conscious appears in a compilation obtained by A. G. Kettunen, state leader at Michigan State College.

More than four tons of beef were marketed by four brothers on a farm near Blissfield in Lenawee county. Junior, Robert, James and Emerson Bliesner, whose ages range from 12 to 17, bought eight steers, fed them out with unusual parental cooperation, and sold them recently for $1,350.

Girls had a hand in unusual wartime effort. Eulene Stirling, 13, who lives near the Soo in Chippewa county, gardened 96½ hours, had expenses of $8.96, produced more than 50 bushels of vegetables valued at $102.56. Her private war with the Axis was against insect pests.

Another girl canned 757 quarts of fruits, vegetables, jellies and jams, soups and juices, pickles and meats. That was the work of Mildred B. Rieger, 16, Swan Creek Road in Saginaw county. The addition to the home food supply was valued at $279.43, at a cost of $188.93.

Further proof of the practical knowledge gained in 4-H club work appears in the 10-year record of Donald Corwin, of Coldwater in Branch county. He is now 21, a freshman at Michigan State College. In his projects of poultry, beef, potatoes and handicraft he obtained a total of $6,113. Home consumption took $750 of this total. In 1942 he had 1800 chickens, raised an acre of potatoes and two beef animals.

Other figures obtained from State Leader Kettunen's summary for 1942 indicate 12,000 boys and girls were in crops projects from which they added to war production foods worth $440,000.

Six hundred beef calf club members fed out 300 tons of beef worth $96,000.

Four thousand dairy calf club members were on the job producing dairy animals and dairy products worth $450,000.

Eight hundred pig club members produced 400,000 pounds of pork worth $60,000.

Sheep club members numbered 1000, produced 40,000 pounds of wool and 360,000 pounds of mutton valued at $80,000.

Handicraft occupied part of the time of 13,000 club members who made articles worth $25,000 for home use.

Canning club members numbering 4,500 canned 300,000 quarts of food valued at $75,000. Clothing project members, 17,000 girls, made their own clothing valued at $26,000.

Six thousand club members helped in preparation of hot lunches with the aid of 500 food preparation members. The lunch effort was valued at $10,000.

That's a considerable effort to increase in 1943, admits Kettunen, but in wartime he expresses confidence in the Michigan slogan of "Double Our Service."

FARM HOUSE BURNS

The farm home of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Wengren on old US-12 in Lima township was destroyed by fire last Thursday night. Mr. Wengren discovered the fire about 10:30, when he noticed flames on the roof, evidently caused by sparks from the chimney. The Chelsea fire department was called and helped in saving most of the contents, also the kitchen and woodhouse. The loss, which is estimated at $4000.00, is covered by insurance. Mr. and Mrs. Wengren purchased the farm from Alfred Lindauer and moved from Homer to their new home in December. Since the fire they are living in a tourist cabin at the Marilyn Inn.

BOY SCOUTS MEAN BUSINESS

"Toughen up, Buckle down, and Carry on to Victory," is the Boy Scout major task this year. Their 1,570,000 members are in the conflict to the home front, doing everything boys of Scout age can do to help win the war speedily and a just peace permanently.

TAKES OVER DENTAL OFFICE

Dr. Russell Huber of Ann Arbor will resume the dental practice of the late Dr. Payne Palmer, having made arrangements to take over the office on Friday, February 5.

Dr. Huber is a graduate of the University of Michigan, class of 1932, following which he served a two-year internship as resident dental surgeon at Miami Valley Hospital at Dayton, Ohio. He then had a general dental practice in Dayton before coming to Ann Arbor in 1941 to enter the graduate department of orthodontics at the U. of M.

At present Dr. and Mrs. Huber are making their home in Ann Arbor.

FIRE DAMAGES GAUNT HOUSE

Fire was discovered about 5:30 Sunday morning in the basement at the Edwin I. Gaunt residence on M-92, Sylvan township, believed to have started from defective electric wiring. The blaze, which was mostly confined to the basement, went up through the partition to the second floor and both floors were considerably damaged by smoke. Chemicals were used by the local fire department, but no water was available.

KIWANIS NEWS

The Kiwanis club held their regular meeting at the Tower Cafe on Monday evening. The program consisted of a one-act play by the Speech Class of Chelsea high school, under the direction of Carl Chandler. Characters in the play, "By Special Request", were Margaret Feldkamp, Caroline Breitenwischer, Virginia Sullivan, Bob Strieter and Jack Weir. The Kiwanians will entertain their ladies next Monday night, when Miss Hutzel, from the State Health Department, will speak.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our friends and neighbors for the many kindnesses shown us during our bereavement; Rev. Grabowski for his comforting words; Mrs. Oesterle and Mrs. Flintoff for the songs; and the people who drove their cars.

Grass Lake Farmer Perishes In Flames

Fred Wollpert, 75-year-old Grass Lake farmer, who resided on the God-fredson Rd., two miles east of the village, burned to death early Monday morning as his home was destroyed by fire, when he re-entered the burning house to obtain $500 in money which he had in a bureau drawer.

The Wollperts were aroused at 2 a. m. by the crackling of flames, and with Mr. Wollpert assisting, they were able to save some of the household goods. His absence was not discovered until after the arrival of the fire department and the county pumper. A search was made for him by sheriff's officers and his body was found late Monday morning.

Mr. Wollpert was the brother of Miss Amanda Wollpert of Chelsea.

Funeral services were held at 2:00 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at the Stormont funeral home, Grass Lake, with burial in Oakwood cemetery.

ENTERTAIN HUSBANDS

Members of the Past Noble Grands entertained their husbands on Friday evening at I. O. O. F. hall, serving a pot-luck dinner at 6:30 with covers for 30. Several tables of progressive events were in play, in which high prizes were won by Lynn Kern and Mrs. Hazen Lehman, with Lawrence McDonald and Mrs. Emerson Lesser receiving the consolations. Mrs. Lawrence Fowler was the winner in buncos, Mrs. Clifford Wolfe holding low score.

LIBRARY NEWS

Some of the Most Popular Non-Fiction Books

Faith For The Living—Lewis Mumford.

This book seeks to answer what beliefs and hopes will give the survivors the courage to resist the scourge of the present war of barbarism. American Industry In The War—Bernard Baruch.

"A report of the War Industries Board, including a reprint of the report of War Industries Board of World War No. 1. Mr. Baruch's own program for total mobilization, and current material on priorities and price fixings."

They Were Expendable—William Lindsay White.

The first book to receive the "I" award bestowed by the Council of Books In War Time. This award is given to such books as are considered imperative reading in wartime. The story is of Motor Torpedo Boat Squadron 8—dodging bombs, sinking Japanese destroyers, shooting down dive bombers, evacuating General MacArthur and Pres. Quezon as told by four of the survivors.

Van Loon's Lives—Hendrik Willem Van Loon.

Chatty stories of the lives, background and achievements of 44 famous men and women.

The Raft—Robert Trumbull.

This is the first complete telling of the feat of three American naval aviators who drifted 34 days on a rubber life raft. A book-of-the-month selection.

See Here, Private Hargrove.

This is World War II's best book to date about U. S. Army life. It's funny and alive.

Popular Fiction

Three Bamboos—Robert Standish.

A novel which portrays not only the story of one family, but rather the story of the Japanese race, whose leaders have for generations laid plans for world conquest.

We Took to the Woods—Loise Dickinson Rich.

The author and her husband have a cabin in the Rangely Lake Region of Maine. The book is an account of their life in the wilderness. Not fiction but it reads like a novel.

Turning Leaves—Ellen Proctor.

The first novel written by the author and winning the $10,000 Prize Novel competition. Two older sisters in a small Minnesota town dominate the story of devotion that for a time holds off the inevitable clash of their natures. A relief from war stories.

The Robe—Lloyd C. Douglas.

One of the most popular books of the moment. An enthralling story of the man who tossed for Christ's robe and won. Incidents amazingly similar to problems of today.

The Valley of Decision—Marcia Davenport.

A story of an American family of three generations of steel.

Crescent Carnival—Frances Parkinson-Keyes.

A fascinating New Orleans novel of the present and bygone day of carnival brilliancy. The romance involves three generations. Tense love affairs, political corruption and tragedy.

U.S. Treasury Department

It Takes Both, War Bonds and Taxes, to Win—Victory Tax Special Direct Levy Asked to Help Meet Heavy War Costs

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Approximately 50,000,000 American workers began to make an added contribution to the War cost this month in the form of a 5% Victory tax.

For many millions of Americans the Victory tax and the 1943 income tax are the first direct levies to be made by the Government to meet the staggering War costs. And it will take both taxes and War Bonds . . . to provide the supplies and materials to win the War and the peace afterwards.

The Treasury Department estimates that the Victory tax will raise approximately $2,000,000,000. Every person receiving more than $12 per week must pay the Victory tax upon that part of his income over and above the $12. For example, a married man with a salary of $50 per week, with two dependents, would make only a net payment of $1.06 per week after allowance for post-war credit.

The Government has made every effort to make the impact of the new tax as light as possible. The law, in effect, provides that in the case of married persons whose sole income is from wages or salary, 40 percent of the Victory tax paid (up to a maximum of $1,000) plus 2 percent for each dependent (up to a maximum of $100) may be used as a credit against whatever Federal income taxes the individual may owe at the end of the year—provided he has purchased certain War Bonds or paid old debts or paid life insurance premiums equal to the amount of this credit. In the case of single persons this credit will be 25 percent of the Victory tax paid (up to a maximum of $500). Should the Victory tax credit exceed the individual's Federal income tax, the unused portion of the credit may be refundable to the taxpayer.

Even with the Victory tax, the 1943 income tax, and all other taxes paid by individuals, the average American will have more money with which to buy War Bonds than he has ever had before. Here are the statistics which explain that statement:

In 1940 the total income payments made to the American people amounted to about 76 billion dollars. In that same year the total personal income taxes paid, Federal, State and local, were roughly 2.5 billion dollars, leaving 73.5 billion dollars of disposable income. During 1943 total income payments are expected to rise to 125 billion dollars and total personal taxes under existing revenue legislation will be 15 billion dollars—leaving 110 billion dollars of income at our disposal as against only 73.5 billion dollars in 1940.

In 1943 Mr. Average American will still be carrying a much lighter tax load than his Canadian or English brothers-in-arms. In Great Britain total national and local taxes paid by individuals at present amount to 31 percent of the national income. In Canada, total individual taxes amount to 25 percent of the national income. In the United States, total personal taxes, Federal, State and local, will amount in 1943 to 18 percent of national income. Our English allies invest an additional 10 percent of national income in War savings. Our Canadian allies invest an additional 11 percent of national income in War savings. We Americans, to match the record of our Canadian neighbors, would have to invest this year 20 percent of our national income in War savings. To match the English record we would have to invest 23 percent of national income in War savings.

Joseph C. Grew Warns

Half-Effort Will Not Defeat Japan

By JOSEPH C. GREW

United States Ambassador to Japan until the outbreak of war, and author of "Report From Tokyo."

(Written for the Treasury Department in connection with the "Victory Tax" campaign to complete the nation's financial picture.)

WASHINGTON, D. C.—In describing one of the big air battles over Guadalcanal a recent newspaper account tells of an American flyer who parachuted from his crippled plane to the waters of Lunga Bay. The Navy craft which picked him up next went to the rescue of a Japanese pilot seen struggling in the water nearby. As the rescue boat reached the Japanese flyer he suddenly pulled out his revolver, aimed it at the drenched American pilot and pulled the trigger. The cartridge failed to explode. Then the Japanese officer turned the gun on himself with suicidal intent. Again he pulled the trigger and again his revolver failed him. At this point an American sailor knocked him out with a light hook and pulled him aboard the American craft a prisoner.

Almost daily one reads eye-witness stories such as this one, and all of them clearly demonstrate that war with our enemy in the Pacific cannot end in compromise.

For ten years I lived in Japan. The truth as I know it from close observation is this: Nothing less than the exertion of our maximum capacities, individually and collectively, in a war of offense will bring our beloved country safely to the longed-for haven of victorious peace.

The Japanese are pawns of a senseless but mighty militarism—a warrior caste which is ruthless and cruel beyond comprehension.

JOSEPH C. GREW
Says It's Fight to Finish

From the flood of eye witness accounts of atrocity and bestiality one fact shines clear. We must utterly crush that machine, and caste and system. If, however, we Americans think that collectively and individually we can continue to lend our normal lives, leaving the spirit of self-sacrifice to our soldiers and sailors, we shall unquestionably run the risk of a stalemate with Japan. I do not have the slightest doubt of our eventual victory. But I do not wish to see the period of our blood sweat and tears indefinitely and unnecessarily prolonged. We must not fail to realize that we are up against a powerful fighting machine, a people whose morale cannot be broken even by successive defeats and untold economic hardship, a people who gladly sacrifice their lives for their Emperor and their nation. We must also remember that Japan did not start this war without carefully laid military plans for victory over the United States and a peace dictated by their war lords at the White House.

This is a total war, the only answer to which is a total American victory. It is a war in which half measures of any kind mean incredible waste of material, energy and human life. In this sense a half-filled War Savings Stamp album is symbolic of a half effort. There are, I am told, roughly 100 million partially complete War Stamp albums now in circulation. These uncompleted Stamp albums are, in a measure, like a 100 million threats to a speedy and victorious peace. On the other hand, for every War Savings album completed and cashed in for a Bond, you the owner have helped some soldier or sailor take a forward step on the uphill road to total victory.

MURDER at PIRATES' HEAD

By ISABEL WAITT

SYNOPSIS

CHAPTER I—Judy Jason, who is spending her vacation at Pirate's Head, receives an anonymous letter enclosing $800 and asking her to bid for an abandoned church to be auctioned the next day. She suspects, in turn, each of the guests at the inn where she is also staying. They are the Reverend Jonas De Witt, Lily Kendall, Thaddeus Quincy, Albin Potter, Hugh Norcross and his sister, Bessie. Other possible suspects are Uncle Wylie and Aunt Nella Gerry, who operate the inn. But the sender of the letter is still unknown when Judy bids for the church and gets it. That night she finds a hand protruding from an old sea chest in the basement of the church. By a ring she recognizes it as Roddy Lane's. Roddy is, or was, the son of an unscrupulous banker who once owned the bleak promontory called Pirate's Head.

CHAPTER II—When Judy returns to the inn she finds a new guest: Victor Quade, who has parked his trailer nearby and who will take his meals at the inn. The telephone wires are cut.

CHAPTER III—The party at the inn is further isolated when the bridge from the "Head" to the mainland is blown up. Now Aunt Nella's piercing scream has just been heard from the direction of the sea.

CHAPTER IV—A delegation sent to the church to investigate finds the chest empty.

CHAPTER V

"Why, several of the guests. Hugh Norcross and the minister. I don't think Mr. Potter does anything but paint, but Bessie Norcross sometimes plays. You don't mean—?" Again the picture of Mr. De Witt saying what he'd like to do to Roddy as he made his vicious stroke on the lawn came to my mind. "You didn't see a golf club in the basement, near the chest, I mean, did you?"

"Nothing but that hand with the ring—flashing horribly." I hid my face in my hands and shuddered. "I'm a brute," Victor said. "We won't talk about it any more."

"We will, too," I flared. "There wasn't any golf club there when I examined the chest after the auction. I'm sure of that, because I hunted around for something to pry up the lid with, and had to use a bobby pin. Why? Did you see one down there tonight, Mr. Quade?"

"I did," he said, "but I didn't mention the fact to the others. It was back of the chest, and there was a dark stain on it that looked like blood."

"Blood!" I repeated, horrified, when Victor said a stained golf club was in the church basement.

"Positively. And in the chest, too. Not much, but a stain at one end. I made De Witt and Potter stay on the stairs while I investigated with a flash. Hard work, I tell you. That minister was bound to walk all over the place, despite what I told him about footprints for the police. I believed you from the first, Miss Jason."

"So you went ahead—?" "And opened the chest—it was unlocked to find it empty. Then I asked the others to scout around the cliff path, beyond the basement door to see if friend Lane was staggering along wounded. But I knew better. I wanted to get rid of them and have time to examine the chest and shut it up again."

I was shaking all over, yet enjoying it in a way—not the murder, of course; but the mystery, the excitement, being mixed up in the middle of it with such a hotpotter as Victor Quade. Suddenly I was filled with terror. "Could his body have been in the chest when I was trying to open it after the auction?"

"Undoubtedly. The killer had put it there for safekeeping, but something made him decide he'd better get rid of it. Anybody know about that old chest?"

"Everybody. All our guests. They knew I'd bought the church and I bragged quite openly about using the old sea box for a hope chest."

"Just when was that?"

"I don't know. Supper time, when I was serving, I think. They all congratulated me."

Victor Quade's dark eyes glinted. "You'll never want it for a hope chest now. Tell me, why did you buy the church?"

"Should I tell him? I wanted to, but the $500 still hidden in my stocking and the silence imposed by my anonymous friend bade me wait. 'Oh, for a lending library or a tea-room,' I took the defensive. 'I'm really a teacher, stranded without a school. This hostess business is just a vacation affair.'"

"But a lending library—so far from town?"

I could see he didn't believe me, though I looked him straight in the eye. "Well, if you want to write mystery stories, here's one ready-made. All you have to do is fill in the gaps."

"It's perfect. Couldn't have asked anything better."

"Even if you had constructed it yourself? Did you?"

He laughed quietly. "We're all suspects. When I plan a killing, I shan't come in a trailer and park for the summer, leaving the getaway car five miles back in Rockville. "You might if you were very, very clever."

"The girl has a criminal instinct. Miss Jason, you must go to bed. Tomorrow'll be a lullaploosa. But if you get a minute, will you jot down anything unusual that occurs to you about this business? Help me work it out? We've quite a head start on the police."

It was after midnight. I promised and said goodnight. But though he sent me to bed, Mr. Quade seemed reluctant to let me go. It would be easy enough to check up whose mashe was missing, he said, but the police would be leery of a murder with no body. The bridge was different. Time bomb, he decided. He hoped something definite would be washed ashore. Just one more question, and he'd let me go. Why should Lane want that wretched little church enough to come just for the auction, wherever he'd come from?

"Somewhere out West," I told him. "Los Angeles, I think, or San Francisco. I don't know why he should want the church, either, or how he knew about the auction. The castle has the most scenic position on the Head but he never goes there any more. Been trying to sell it."

"Probably takes the local Rockville papers. That's how he knew about the auction. Good night," he smiled at me and I liked him.

"Don't worry."

"Good night."

I turned on the dimmer in the hallway and started upstairs. Halfway up I felt, rather than saw, someone staring down at me. Petrified, I forced myself to look up. Bessie Norcross was leaning over the banisters.

"Oh, I'm so glad it's you, Judy," she said. "I heard voices and hoped you hadn't come up yet. Did you get around without his chair. Nor that I'd called to the man we'd heard running near our path and he hadn't answered. Hugh said he didn't hear us. Maybe it wasn't Hugh, then. And the light in the fish shed. Brown might know something. He could, at least, see. The only window in the old shed took in the Quaker church. Yes, I must see Victor to quiz Brown. Victor! Already I was calling Mr. Quade to myself. Well, why not? Everybody called me Judy. Mr. Norcross told me to call him Hugh, after our short walk together the week he arrived. He made no secret of liking me, perhaps because there weren't any girls at the inn except his sister and me.

The old house settled down to a stillness like the night before Christmas. If creatures were stirring, they were mighty quiet about it. I tried to keep the horrible thing I'd seen at the church out of my mind. The church. Poor place for a tea-room or lending library. Victor was right. Tomorrow I'd show him the queer letter. Tell him the whole strange—Uncle Wylie's snoring was worse than the pounding of the sea. But it put me to sleep in a semior of way.

I vow I wasn't sound. Like Jack and Jill, Hugh and I had just gone up a hill to fetch a pail of kerosene when the whole hill exploded and I sat straight up in bed.

Such a pounding and shouting and running of feet. Then my door flew open and Aunt Nella screamed: "The house is afire!"

My little front window was a glare of light. For a second I hugged the bed clothes around me and held my breath. The house must be afire; there were the flames. But I didn't smell any smoke. I ran to the window, sensing that the Neck shed was still dark, so it couldn't yet be daylight.

From the front I saw what looked like a blazing oil well. Was it my little church? My tearoom?

Aunt Nella thought so, too. "All that money," she puffed, "gone up in smoke!"

"But it looks nearer, Auntie."

"So it does. Lucky the wind's the other way."

"It's the fish shed. Who'd have thought it would make such a blaze? Oh, that poor old man—I! I grabbed my shoes and a robe."

"An' him deaf, so's he couldn't hear the crackle. They'll never get him out," Aunt Nella clenched her gnarled hands. "Suppose somebody set it?"

We were both remembering Uncle Wylie had wandered down there a few hours ago and that he'd threatened to burn the fish shed many times.

Aunt Nella began to cry. "Poor Wylie. I'd a-been a widow if—if he hadn't found him on that bench asleep."

If Uncle Wylie had dropped, say, his lighted pipe—and set fire to the old shed and burned up Old Man Brown she might still be a widow. Would they electrocute him or give him life?

"Get some clothes on, Auntie."

"I put my shoes on the wrong feet and had to take them off again. My aunt was wrestling with a child-sized old-fashioned gown and union suit, sent over her head and arms in the legs. I had to extricate her. Below, doors banged. Cries of fire arose. I could hear Bessie Norcross screaming hysterically. Why didn't the fire whistle from Rockville blow? Surely someone must have telephoned by now. With a sharp horror I realized the wires had been cut. And now, wouldn't Rockville mistake it for a night-before-the-Fourth bonfire?

I had on my terry-cloth bathrobe and raced downstairs. Heads popped out of doors shouting questions, giving information. "Call the fire department!" "The church is afire!" "No, it's the castle!" "The whole Head's ablaze!"

It seemed as if the entire household had run down to the front hall in utter terror; and not much else. Lily Kendall looked like a bowl of shimmering jelly in her apricot satin nightgown.

"Come on," I cried. "There's an old man—stone deaf—in that blazing shed. Oh, I hope it's not too late!"

We raced down in a body, apparently everybody. At a time like that one doesn't stop to count. But I saw two figures silhouetted against the flames, which turned out to be Victor Quade and the Rev. De Witt.

"Can't we do something?" Hugh Norcross called to them. I hadn't noticed Hugh before, but down there it was so light I could even see that his robe was green.

"Not much. Death to try," a voice said.

"But, good heavens, man! There's a human being in there. We've got to try to get him out!" boomed the minister.

"How?"

"Bucket brigade, or something."

We all knew the futility, as even De Witt's voice faltered.

"Wouldn't be any use," somebody said. "If he's still in there he's past help."

"Doesn't look like an ordinary fire. Did you ever see anything blaze so? And I thought I heard another explosion."

We were all shouting. I couldn't tell who said what, but all agreed as to a second muffled explosion, not so loud as the first, just before they'd rushed to see flames. They began searching, calling for Brown.

"Don't believe they'll find him," Victor Quade said, drawing me away from the heat. "If he'd discovered the building on fire in time to get out, he'd have gone straight to the inn for help, wouldn't he? But let them try."

"I'm going to hunt, too. Down by the church."

Hugh Norcross grabbed my arm. "Young lady, you aren't going alone. Bessie and I—"

"Don't be silly, Hugh. I'm not going in. But suppose he staggered out, confused, and went in that direction. You and Bessie take the route to the castle. Here, Mr. Potter, you come along with me."

To my surprise the artist hung back. "I'll go if another man will go, Quade or somebody. You see, Judy, you don't know it, but from the way that fire burns I can't help wondering if my turpentine wasn't poured on it. Someone stole it last night from my room." And he added sententiously: "Must have been while I was up to Rockville. I remember deciding I had plenty and leaving the bottle right there on the table with my palette and brushes."

I left him to tell Victor about the turpentine.

"Turpentine! I'll bet that shed was full of tar paper and oiled ropes and stuff. Your Uncle Wylie would know. Used gasoline, too, I'll bet. No wonder there was an explosion. Judy Jason," he whispered, "keep with the crowd!"

Well, it was terrible. There we stood, a group of able-bodied human beings helplessly watching the conflagration burn itself down and knowing another human being was probably being roasted.

When the clergyman came puffing down the path with Aunt Nella's scrub pail full of water which he gallantly threw on the fire, only apparently to augment the flames, I began to laugh and cry—just like Bessie Norcross.

"Lane did this. Roddy Lane. A final gesture. Hoped the inn would catch fire. Blew up the bridge and skipped." Bessie seemed sure of it.

Nobody paid any attention to her. Her sequence of events was slightly off, but then she'd been under sleeping medicine when the first explosion had taken place. Hugh was trying to persuade her to go back to bed.

MORTGAGE SALE

Whereas, default has been made in the payment of money secured by a mortgage dated the 8th day of June, A. D. 1942, executed by Clair D. Reason and Mary E. Reason, husband and wife, of the City of Detroit, County of Wayne and State of Michigan, to The First National Bank in Plymouth, Michigan, which said mortgage was duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds for Washtenaw County, Michigan, in Liber 234 of Mortgages, on Page 331, at 12:15 o'clock P. M.

And Whereas, by the terms of said mortgage, it is provided that in case default be made in the payment of any installment of principal or of the interest, taxes, assessments or insurance or any part thereof on any day whereon the same is made payable, and should the same remain due and unpaid for the space of 30 days, then and thereupon, the principal sum of said mortgage, together with all interest, taxes, assessments and insurance paid, shall at the option of the mortgagee, become and be due and payable forthwith, and default having been made in the payment of the interest and taxes provided in said mortgage, which default has continued for more than thirty days, the said mortgagee do hereby exercise its option to declare the principal sum of said mortgage and all arrearages of interest and taxes due and payable.

And Whereas, the amount claimed to be due on said mortgage at the date hereof is the sum of $6091.59 principal and interest of $220.30 to date, and the further sum of $35.00 as an attorney fee stipulated for in said mortgage and the whole amount claimed to be unpaid on said mortgage is the sum of $6311.89, and no suit or proceeding having been instituted at law to recover the debt now remaining secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof, whereby the power of sale contained in said mortgage has become operative.

Now Therefore, Notice is hereby given that by virtue of the said power of sale, and in pursuance of the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises therein described, at public auction, to the highest bidder at the south front door of the courthouse in the city of Ann Arbor, in the County of Washtenaw, Michigan, being the place of holding the Circuit Court for said county, on the 16th day of April, A. D. 1943, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of said day; which said premises are described in said mortgage as all that certain piece or parcel of land situate and being in the Township of Superior, County of Washtenaw and State of Michigan, to-wit:

The west half of the northeast quarter of section seven, except the west twenty nine acres thereof; also a parcel of land four chains and seventy eight links in width lying north of the Cowan Road and in the northwest corner of the east half of the north east quarter of said section seven; also all that part of the east half of the northeast quarter of said section seven lying south of said Cowan Road, all being in town two south, range seven east, Township of Superior, County of Washtenaw and State of Michigan, to-wit:

RED CROSS DRIVE PLANNED

Plans for the Red Cross War Fund Campaign in Washtenaw county are being completed by Charles R. Henderson, chairman of the drive.

Washtenaw county's quota in the nation-wide campaign is $53,000. Mr. Henderson reports that the national goal has been fixed at $125,000,000, of which $80,000,000 will be spent on national and international needs. The remainder, $45,000,000, will be retained by the various local chapters of the Red Cross to finance their many activities.

Solicitation of the Red Cross war funds will be in charge of the local chapters in each of the towns and cities of the county.

Mr. Henderson announces, while the campaign in the townships will be under the direction of Mrs. James Beach, of Ann Arbor. It is hoped that when the plans for the war fund drive are completed that the members of organized labor will give their much needed aid.
