Council Votes To Stay On Eastern War Time

Chelsea will remain on Eastern War Time as the result of definite action taken by the village council at their regular meeting on Monday night.

With Detroit and Ann Arbor retaining E. W. T., to change to slow time here would mean no end of confusion, as is the case throughout the state as the result of the law passed by the legislature recently, which permits any municipality to choose between the two times.

Some of the local industries would have operated on fast time regardless of any action taken by the council, as factories here are in almost constant contact with their Detroit plants or other war industries for which they are turning out work.

Another factor entering into the council's decision is the fact that the Michigan Central railroad and Greyhound buses would be operating on Eastern War Time, as would the local post office, regardless of the time adopted here.

Although the original change to Eastern War Time did not meet with the approval of many, now that such a time has been adopted on a national basis the few communities in Michigan which revert to Central Standard Time will be out of step with their nearby communities and with other parts of the state and nation.

In considering the entire situation as it would affect the everyday lives of the population in general, the council acted wisely in retaining the Eastern War Time. To have had the village divided within itself would have been a really confusing situation.

But don't forget—before you start on a trip to a neighboring town or city other than Ann Arbor or Detroit, you'd better telephone and find out what time it is there!

Group Meets To Discuss Day Care of Children

Miss Ann Welch of Lansing and Laverne Taylor of Ann Arbor met with a group of interested parents and representatives of the local industries and school on Monday afternoon in the high school to discuss the "Day Care of Children" under reimbursement from the Lanham Act.

A tentative committee was selected by Superintendent of Schools Albert C. Johnson, to make a study of the needs of the day care of children from the ages of two through 18 years of age. A community must have 60 children whose mothers are engaged in vital war industry who will take advantage of such a program before this can be set into operation. The Lanham Act finances this project 100 per cent with the exception of the cost of feeding the children. This fee is to be set up by the local committees.

The tentative committee, consisting of Mrs. Lloyd Heydlauff, representing Young Mothers' club; Mrs. D. J. Dancer, Eastern Star; Mrs. P. G. Schaible, Study Club; Mrs. W. Hinderer, Study Club; Mrs. George John, Federal Screw Works employees; Mrs. John Weber, Federal Screw employees; Margaret Heselschwerdt, secretary of the C. I. W. A. of the Federal Screw Works, and Miss Julia Davies, chairman of Chelsea public schools, met at the high school Tuesday evening, February 16 to make plans for surveying the local situation.

All parents who are interested in this project are asked to contact committee members for information.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED

At a tea given at the home of Mrs. Paul Belser on Saturday, Mrs. Grace Thayer of Dearborn announced the engagement of her daughter, Virginia, to Lawrence Dietle, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Dietle. The tea table was lovely with its centerpiece of spring flowers and tall white tapers in pink candle holders. Pink and white hearts atop individual cakes revealed the news. Out of town guests were Pat Jones of East Lansing, Marilyn Ford of Dearborn, Marjorie Johns and Jane Belser of Ann Arbor.

PICTURE DISPLAY A SUCCESS

The display of service men's pictures in the Merkel Bros. window is proving to be very popular, as more than 100 pictures have been taken to the store for the display, which is very attractively arranged. A special feature is the original picture of the local R. P. Carpenter G. A. R. Post, brought in by R. B. Waltrous, whose father was one of the group.

TAX ASSISTANT COMING

P. J. Hendricks, of the Michigan Department of Revenue, will be at the Chelsea State Bank on Wednesday, February 24 to assist and give information to taxpayers in the filing of their 1942 Intangible Tax returns.

GRADES TO START AT 8:30

Starting Monday morning, February 22, school in the lower grades from kindergarten through the 5th grade of the Chelsea public schools will start at 8:30 instead of 9:00 a. m.

BARBER SHOP REOPENS

The George Doe barber shop at 103 W. Middle street is now open for business, under new management.

War Book 2 Registration Starts Monday

Public Will Register At Schools In Village And Rural Areas

Registration for War Book No. 2 will be held at the Chelsea public schools on February 22, 23, 24 and 25. The registration hours are as follows:

Monday—1:00 to 5:30 p. m.

Tuesday—1:00 to 5:30 p. m. and 7:00 to 9:00 p. m.

Wednesday—1:00 to 5:30 p. m. and 7:00 to 9:00 p. m.

Thursday—1:00 to 5:30 p. m. and 7:00 to 9:00 p. m.

Bring your War Ration Book No. 1 and an inventory of commercial canned foods on hand.

Rural Registration

The time set aside in the Washtenaw county rural schools for registration of consumers and the issuance of War Ration Book Two is as follows:

1 to 6 p. m. on Monday, Feb. 22.
1 to 6 p. m. on Tuesday, Feb. 23.
1 to 9 p. m. on Wednesday, Feb. 24.
1 to 6 p. m. on Thursday, Feb. 25.

It is advisable for consumers to call the teacher of their district to ascertain whether the district is operating on Eastern or Central War Time.

Consumers living in districts in which the school is closed, and the pupils are transported to another district, should consult the director of the closed district as to the time and place of registration.

One Ticket Nominated For Village Election

With about one-half of one per cent of the population of Chelsea in attendance at the two village caucuses held Tuesday night at the town hall, it is evident that there is very little interest in village affairs.

However, the Independent party mustered a total strength of five men—the meeting was called to order by Ernest Adam, a secretary and tellers were appointed and a party committee consisting of Ernest Adam, Henry Ahnemiller and George Clark was named, and the meeting adjourned.

The People's party had a somewhat better representation, with eight men performing the duties of that caucus, with Sidney W. Schenk as chairman. A ticket was nominated for the village on March 8, as follows:

President—Alfred D. Mayer.
Clerk—Olen W. Hart.
Treasurer—Dale J. Claire.
Trustees—David A. Beach, John O'Hara, Lloyd Heydlauff.
Assessor—Sidney W. Schenk.
Library Board—Mrs. Jean Eaton, Henry C. Schneider.
Party Committee— D. A. Riker, John O'Hara, S. W. Schenk.

Sugar and Coffee

Industrial and institutional users of sugar and coffee may obtain both sugar and coffee certificates for one-half of their March allotment at the rationing office at 103 W. Middle St. any Wednesday or Friday afternoon from one until five o'clock on or before March 5, 1943. If at all possible, please apply for these certificates in February.

RATIONING AT A GLANCE

Coffee—Stamp 25 for one pound Feb. 8 through March 21.

Sugar—Stamp 11 for three pounds through March 15.

Gasoline—No. 4 stamps in A-book worth four gallons through March 21. B and C books worth four gallons for time period noted on top of books. Rationing boards will mail renewal applications on request for B, C, E and R ration holders some time before the rations expire.

Tires—B, C, and T book holders must have their tires inspected by Feb. 28, A book holders by March 31.

Fuel Oil—Coupon 3 for 11 gallons good through Feb. 22. Coupon 4 for 11 gallons good through April 17.

ANNOUNCE ENGAGEMENT

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Jarvis of Detroit have announced the engagement of their daughter, Leonora, to William F. Werner of Detroit, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Werner of Chelsea. No date has been set for the wedding.

TAX SALE SUPPLEMENT IN THIS ISSUE

This issue of The Standard contains a supplement of four pages which lists parcels of property in Washtenaw county which will be sold at the State Tax Sale to be held the first Tuesday in May, 1943.

Pfc. LaVerne Nichaus, stationed at Camp Perry, Ohio visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Nichaus, over the week-end.

Large Group To Leave Saturday for Induction

Leaving Saturday for induction into the service are the following from this vicinity:

D. S. Bull, a resident of Chelsea for the past three years, who was born April 28, 1919 in Luther, Lake county, Mich. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bull, and is a graduate of Luther high school. He has been employed at the Federal Screw Works. On Aug. 23, 1941 he was married to Gladys Harrison and they have a daughter, Catherine Ann, five months old.

Richard Arthur Wahl, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Wahl, was born in Sylvan township May 13, 1924. He was employed the past year at Merkel Bros. hardware.

Donald Walz was born Feb. 22, 1924 in Lima township. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard E. Walz and was employed at the Federal Screw Works. He married Opal Carpenter on June 22, 1942.

Oramel Schiller is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Schiller. He was born Feb. 19, 1923 in Lima township, graduated from Chelsea high school in 1940 and has since been employed in farm work with his father. On Friday evening several friends assembled at his home for a farewell party. An enjoyable time was spent with games and music, after which Mrs. Schiller served lunch.

William B. Birch, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Birch, was born in Chelsea on June 30, 1921. He is the second son of Mr. and Mrs. Birch to serve in the U. S. armed forces.

Cong'l Parsonage Scene Of Open House Sunday

The Congregational parsonage was the scene of pleasant gatherings on Sunday afternoon and evening when Rev. and Mrs. W. H. Skentelbury held open house. The arrangements were in charge of officers of the Ladies' Guild, of which Mrs. M. J. Baxter is president.

Refreshments were served, with Mrs. D. H. Wurster and Mrs. Wm. Davidson pouring in the afternoon, and Mrs. L. T. Freeman and Mrs. H. C. Schneider in the evening.

Since Rev. and Mrs. Skentelbury assumed the local pastorate last fall the Guild has spent about $700 for improvements in the parsonage. Besides new paint and paper throughout, a new lavatory has been installed downstairs, and the kitchen has been entirely remodeled.

This occasion afforded the congregation an opportunity to see the parsonage and meet the pastor and his wife in their home.

FIRST AID CLASS

A First Aid class will be started on Tuesday evening, February 23, at 7:30 at the high school. Kenneth Windgrove of Ann Arbor will be the instructor, and the class may be a mixed group if desired. For information call Mrs. Frank Edgar, 6471, or Mrs. Lloyd Smith, 2-1673.

GETS SHARPSHOOTING MEDAL

Word has been received from Pvt. Merle S. Barr, Jr. E. R. T. C., Fort Belvoir, Va. that he has been awarded a medal for sharpshooting. He is one of six to win this medal and received the highest score, which was 262 points out of a possible 300.

FOOD SALE

The American Legion Auxiliary will hold a cooked food sale on Saturday, Feb. 20 at 2 o'clock at Loeffler's Meat Market. Adv.

Kingship? Not For Washington Despite Offers

First President Offered Rule By Discontented Army Officers.

Few Americans know that our country today might be a monarchy but for an act of nobility performed by George Washington on May 22, 1782. The officers of the Revolutionary army had implored Washington to assume royal power, place himself at their head, and rule the country as a king. On May 22, more than a century and a half ago, General Washington refused this invitation in patriotic terms so strong that the idea was dropped.

This incident, which constitutes one of the critical moments in the destiny of America, occurred while General Washington and the Continental army were encamped at Newburgh, on the Hudson. The surrender of Cornwallis had virtually ended the Revolution, but nominally hostilities were still in effect, and Washington was determined to hold the army together against any surprise renewal of the war. As usual his soldiers were poorly clothed and fed, and congress was deeply in arrears in their pay. By then the war had dragged on for seven long years. The struggle had cost many of Washington's officers the loss of their personal fortunes, and the entire enlisted force faced a future of want on being released to civil life.

Discontent High.

Discontent rose to dangerous intensity in all ranks. At length, Col. Lewis Nicola, a respected character on friendly terms with the commander in chief, spoke for the officers as a body when he addressed to Washington a veiled proposal that he take over the government of the country, with the army behind him, and rule it as a king.

The late Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge, in his biography of Washington, states that on this occasion Washington was as truly tempted as Caesar, with an offer to make himself king or emperor. The stroke, moreover, would have been easy of accomplishment. The colonies were all beggared by the war. Their governments were slack and weak. The Revolutionary army was the one cohesive, national power in the land. To a man the soldiers worshiped Washington, and with their aid he could have taken over control of the nation. As near as that, at this stage of America's history, was the country to becoming a monarchy.

Not a Temptation.

And yet it was a great distance away. To George Washington the temptation of kingship was no temptation at all. On the contrary he put it aside with far greater and more sincere indignation than did Caesar wave aside the laurel crown. In a letter whose every word should be implanted in the mind of every school child in America, he declined Nicola's offer and rebuked the man who made it. Writing on May 22, 1782, he said:

"Sir—With a mixture of great surprise and astonishment, I have read with attention the sentiments you have submitted to my perusal. Be assured, Sir, no occurrence in the course of the war has given me more painful sensations, than your information of there being such ideas existing in the army, as you have expressed, and I must view with abhorrence and reprehend with severity.

"I am at a loss to conceive what part of my conduct could have given encouragement to an address, which to me seems big with the greatest mischiefs that can befall my Country. If I am not deceived in the knowledge of myself, you could not have found a person to whom your schemes are more disagreeable . . . Let me conjure you, then, if you have any regard for your Country, concern for yourself or posterity, or respect for me, to banish these thoughts from your mind, and never communicate, as from yourself or anyone else, a sentiment of the like nature."

INCOME TAX FACTS

When, Where, And How Taxes Are To Be Paid

Taxes due on a return filed for the calendar year 1942 may be paid in full at the time for the filing of the return on or before March 15, 1943. The tax may, at the option of the taxpayer, be paid in four equal installments instead of in a single payment, in which case the first installment is to be paid on or before March 15, the second on or before June 15, the third on or before September 15, and the fourth on or before December 15, 1943. If the taxpayer elects to pay his tax in four installments, each of the four installments must be equal in amount, but any installment may be paid, at the election of the taxpayer, prior to the time prescribed for its payment. If an installment is not paid in full on or before the date fixed for its payment, the whole amount of the tax remaining unpaid is required to be paid upon notice and demand from the collector.

The tax must be paid to the collector of internal revenue for the district in which the taxpayer's return is required to be filed—that is, to the collector for the district in which is located the taxpayer's legal residence or principal place of business, or if he has no legal residence or principal place of business in the United States, then to the collector of internal revenue at Baltimore, Maryland.

In the payment of taxes a fractional part of a cent is to be disregarded unless it amounts to one-half cent or more, in which case it shall be increased to one cent.

The tax due, if any, should be paid in cash at the collector's office, or by check or money order payable to "Collector of Internal Revenue." In the case of payment in cash, the taxpayer should in every instance require and the collector should furnish a receipt. In the case of payments made by check or money order, however, the canceled check or the money order receipt is usually a sufficient receipt.

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"How soon do you leave for camp, Bob?"

"Next Tuesday, Judge. Bill and George are leaving the same time. We're hoping to wind up in a tank outfit."

"Well, the way I've seen you handle a tractor, Bob, you ought to be right at home in one of those tanks. You're going to like the service—they're a great bunch of fellows. Just last week I went down to camp to see a young nephew of mine and he introduced me to some of his buddies. Fine fellows—real he-men just like you and Bill and George—from good American homes. Handle themselves well, too.

"You know, I've been checking up on it, Bob, and I've found out that the American army today is healthier, better disciplined, better trained, better taken care of than it has ever been in its history. And you can take my word for it, Mary, he'll come back to you a fine man in great shape. Best of luck to you, Bob."

Gas Is Doing a Tremendous War Job

Use It Wisely in the Home

Whole battleship turrets are cooked at one time in gas ovens as big as a five-room house. Steel for shells is heated by gas to such a fine point that it can be forced through molding holes like spaghetti dough.

The heat used in pressing steel ingots into strips or plates is furnished by gas. Gas is used as a raw material in making synthetic rubber. In a thousand industrial uses, gas is speeding the war effort.

So great are the requirements for gas in war that the government needs the co-operation of householders in economizing on its use in the home.

1—Do not use the oven of your gas range for room heating.

2—Keep the room temperatures as low as possible. Do not heat unused rooms.

3—Insulate your home and install storm windows so that less gas will be needed for heating.

4—Use no more hot water than necessary. Repair leaky faucets. Insulate hot water tanks and pipes.

WEDDINGS

Nohren-Forner

Miss Wanda Lee Nohren, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Nohren of Shelbyville, Ill., became the bride of Robert L. Forner, son of Mrs. Leo Forner of Chelsea, at a ceremony which took place on Thursday evening, February 11, at St. Mary's rectory. Rev. Lee Laige read the marriage service. Attending the couple were Miss Mary Forner, sister of the groom, and his cousin, Charles Forner of Ann Arbor. A reception at the home of the groom's mother followed the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Forner are residing in the Gilson apartments at 515 East St.

On Saturday, February 20, Robert will leave for Fort Custer, to be inducted into army service. He was born March 14, 1920 in Sharon township and has lived in Chelsea for 19 years. He has been employed at the Hankerd Service Station.

Truthful

As the nation pauses on February 22 to mark the 211th anniversary of the birth of George Washington, traditional observances will be held throughout the country. Those traditions include the raising of state flags at the Washington monument in the capital, exercises by the army and pilgrimages to Mount Vernon. Above: At annual exercises in New York, two children receive an award for their truthfulness as a feature of Washington's birthday. Edgar Widman and Roberta Straus are shown receiving the 1942 award from Newbold Morris, president of the city council, for being "the most truthful boy and girl in New York city."

Councils Lead In State Drive To Enlist WAACS

Lansing—The Michigan Council of Defense is cooperating with the U. S. Army in a recruiting campaign to enlist 3,145 Michigan women in the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps. A Presidential order has authorized recruitment of the WAACS to full strength of 150,000.

All county and local councils of defense have been asked to assist in organizing the campaign and selecting committees of local women to set the program in motion. Women's organizations and Neighborhood War Clubs are carrying the principal part of the drive under supervision of the Council's Civilian War Service Division, headed by Don C. Weeks.

Army recruiting stations and other established information centers have been supplemented in many communities by additional centers staffed by civilian volunteers to provide applicants with complete information regarding enlistment in the WAACS. An Army mobile recruiting service unit is being sent to each county to give intelligence and aptitude tests to enrollees.

No effort is being made to enlist women now employed in war production plants and it is expected that much of Michigan's quota will be drawn from non-industrial communities. Women between the ages of 21 and 44 with no dependents are eligible for enlistment. They will be assigned to non-combatant jobs to release soldiers for front line duty, but they may be sent on foreign service. They will be under Army discipline and will receive regulation Army pay.

Promote Victory Gardens

All civilian defense facilities will be used to promote the growing of Victory Gardens in Michigan this year, according to Paul R. Krone, recently appointed by Gov. Harry F. Kelly as Director of Victory Gardens. As such he heads the Victory Garden Section, Civilian War Service Division, of the Michigan Council of Defense.

Krone's plans call for appointment of Victory Garden chairmen by all county and local councils of defense. These chairmen will have the assistance of committees made up of representatives of government and private agencies interested in gardening. He plans to make full use of Neighborhood War Clubs established by county and local councils, and of rural War Clubs sponsored by the U. S. Department of Agriculture in Victory Garden promotion and education.

Local leaders who are experienced gardeners, qualified to teach the less experienced how to grow successful gardens, are expected to be developed by local committees.

Sport Clubs To Help

Michigan sportsmen are prepared to contribute to the defense effort by helping protect the State's forests from fire, according to Durward Robson, State Coordinator of the Forest Fire Fighters Service and chief of fire fighting forces of the State Department of Conservation.

Cooperation of the Michigan United Conservation Clubs was offered by Harry Gaines, of Grand Rapids, executive secretary, who said he believed all associated clubs would receive the suggestion with enthusiasm.

It is estimated that two-thirds of the clubs' membership of 30,000 are ready to volunteer. While many of the urban members would be available for service only during periods they are in the woods, many live near the forest regions and their woodcraft experience would be most valuable.

PAST NOBLE GRANDS MEET

A meeting of the Past Noble Grands was held on Wednesday evening of last week at the home of Mrs. Elsie Noyess. Gladys Breitenwischer was winner in bingo, also receiving the mystery prize, and Veva Munro received the consolation. The guests honored Alice Krumm on the occasion of her birthday anniversary and the hostess served lunch.

ENTERTAINS CHAT 'N SEAU

The Chat 'N Seau was entertained at the home of Mrs. Ed. Frymuth on Tuesday evening. Refreshments were served. The assisting hostesses were Mrs. Lyle Chriswell and Mrs. Mary Huston.

Local Defense Topics

At a press conference held in Detroit Wednesday morning, Captain Doris Epperson of Chicago, WAAC director for the Sixth Service Command, who was in Detroit to help stimulate WAAC recruiting, again emphasized the need for women to bring this war to a successful conclusion.

"To fill the quota given us by Washington, we must recruit 200 WAACs every week in the Detroit area," said Capt. Epperson. "The situation for all of us is very serious. We must have more women immediately to release men for active service."

The Detroit area includes Port Huron, Saginaw Valley, and all of Wayne and Washtenaw counties. Previous to this week, applications for WAAC membership filed in Washtenaw county had been fewer than anticipated, but this week applications have been doubled and six recruits have been called to Detroit for physical examination.

Age limits for WAACs are still 21 to 44, but there is some talk of lowering this to 20.

Not only does the WAAC offer an opportunity to aid in the war effort, but it also offers opportunities for study and training in every field. One month of basic training is given each recruit after which a classification officer suggests avenues of study for each individual. There is at present an imperative need for accountants, cashiers, clerical workers of all types, cooks, cryptographers, dental assistants, drivers, hospital and laboratory assistants, library aides, messengers, linguists, musicians, pharmacists, printers, radio operators, technicians, secretaries, statisticians, stenographers, telegraph, telephone and teletype operators, typists, and X-ray operators.

Race, color, or creed are of no importance in the matter of winning the war. Negro women so far have made a great success of their training, and the WAAC is anxious for more negro applicants. Two new centers have been opened especially to disperse WAAC information, at the Dunbar Center and at the Ypsilanti Colored Center. Miss Esther Harper of Ann Arbor, has been appointed to represent all colored people.

Representatives of the WAACs will take registrations at the Civilian Defense office at 223 E. Ann street, Ann Arbor. Any information may be obtained at that Center.

Francisco

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Gardner were in Jackson Monday on business.

Owing to the extreme cold, several defense workers did not go to their jobs Saturday, Sunday and Monday.

Sheldon H. Frey of Detroit accompanied Deforest Dorr to Francisco Saturday afternoon, while Mr. Dorr spent the week-end with his mother, Mrs. Rex Dorr, in Grass Lake. Mr. Frey spent the week-end with his mother, Mrs. James Cadwell.

Mrs. Cecil Taylor accompanied Deforest Dorr to Detroit Monday, on business.

Edward Willy, who rented the Cadwell apartment, asked for the cancellation of his agreement, which was granted. Mr. and Mrs. Willy will occupy the Earl Walz cottage, vacated by Mr. Giffin, who has been transferred from Grass Lake duties at the depot to another assignment on the Michigan Central railroad.

ATTENDS FUNERAL

Mrs. Donovan Sweeny was in Lyons, Ohio on Tuesday afternoon to attend the funeral of her grandmother, Mrs. Philinda Richardson. Mrs. Richardson was 91 years old and is survived by seven daughters, two sons, 51 grandchildren, 100 great-grandchildren and three great-great-grandchildren.

SURPRISE PARTY

Mrs. Dennis Guinan entertained 14 little guests at a surprise party on Valentine day in honor of Robie, Mary Margaret and Dickie Dull. The party celebrated their birthdays, all of which are in February. They played games, including bingo, and enjoyed a lovely lunch.

Farmers of Michigan Meet War's Challenge

Wartime service to Michigan agriculture, and with it recognition awards to nearly 2,200 outstanding Michigan farmers for their individual efforts in 1942 featured the 28th annual Farmers' Week at Michigan State College.

Shortcuts to production needed in 1943 dominated the departmental exhibits and programs. Nationally known speakers gave further war impetus to the state's agriculture in the three-day streamlined program Feb. 2, 3, 4. Attendance, said E. L. Anthony, dean of agriculture, was satisfactory in view of weather and wartime travel restrictions. Total for the three days was approximately 17,000.

Governor Harold Stassen of Minnesota appeared on the final day's program to laud the pioneering spirit of the state's farmers. Despite state's fame as a center of tools and machinery, the farm effort is just as essential in war, he asserted.

In the background were four all-time production records made in Michigan in 1942. Navy beans filled 6,406,000 hundred-pound bags. Corn grown for grain yielded 69,703,000 bushels. Cows yielded 5,320,000,000 pounds of milk and chickens laid 120,100,000 dozen eggs.

That much and more, farmers have been told, is needed from Michigan farms in 1943. With less labor and little new machinery, the college's background of nearly a century of science has been made available in the emergency.

Out of the Farmers' Week crowds emerged the champions. From field production records, the tablestocks potato crown of 1942 is shared by Robert and Howard Butler of Crystal Falls with 634 bushels an acre. Certified seed king is J. D. Robinson of Pellston, 622 bushels.

Onion king of 1943, based on 1942 production, is S. J. Hering, Fremont, 1035 bushels an acre. In the Farmers' Week potato show, Alphonse Verschure, Manistique, won sweepstakes on a bushel lot of certified seed and John Delongchamp, Champion, sweepstakes on a certified peck sample.

Banner Brothers of Mendon showed the champion hog carcass, the champion pen and individual champion in the fat barrow classes. Hendron Brothers of Webberville exhibited the grand champion fat steer auctioned off for 50½ cents for its 1040 pounds of Angus on the hoof. Mr. and Mrs. Kermit Carey of Flint had the champion, a Percheron filly, in the colt development project.

Notten Road

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Heydlauff, Marlene and George, called on Mr. and Mrs. Fred Notten on Sunday.

Miss Eunice Schweinfurth, who has been employed at Jackson, is home with a bad case of mumps.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Young, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Bidwell of Jackson, Mr. and Mrs. John Hamp of Nashville and Mr. and Mrs. Donald Rank and son David of Plymouth were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Rank and Mrs. M. Rank on Sunday.

The Y. W. S. C. S. met with Betty Jean Kalmbach on Monday night. Mrs. John Beal, who has been their leader, was presented with a gift in appreciation for her work with them. Mrs. Beal has resigned because they will move to Sharon.

Mr. and Mrs. Dorr Whitaker spent Sunday with his sisters in Wayne.

The Father and Son banquet will be held at the church Friday night, Feb. 26. Rev. Bert Ede will be the guest speaker.

Canada's Park System

The inception of Canada's national parks system goes back to 1885, when 10 square miles, surrounding the hot mineral springs at Banff, Alberta, were reserved for park purposes.

From this Canada's chain of national parks has grown to a vast domain. Today the chain consists of 20 individual parks, with a combined area of 12,525 square miles.

DEATHS

KILLED IN ACTION

Word has been received that First Lieutenant Kenneth Crawford, Jr., 23, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth F. Crawford of Owosso and fiance of Miss Vivian Kalmbach, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Max Kalmbach of Gregory, was killed in action in Africa on Dec. 21. It is believed he was in Algeria, where some of the heaviest fighting of the African campaign occurred. Lieut. Crawford had written a letter to his parents, also one to Miss Kalmbach, on December 15, only six days before he was killed, in which he revealed that he was in temporary command of the headquarters field artillery battery. He wrote that he had seen hard action and that while he was writing 12 huge Flying Fortresses went over. Lieut. Crawford was born in Ovid on Dec. 27, 1919. He graduated from Owosso high school and from Michigan State College, where he had four years of R. O. T. C. work. Commissioned a second lieutenant, he served at several camps before going overseas in August, 1942.

TRAINING AT GREAT LAKES

Great Lakes, Ill.—Just "boots" now, but soon to be moulded into fighting Bluejackets, two Chelsea men have reported to the world's largest Naval Training Station here to begin their basic training.

Here they will receive several weeks of vigorous physical conditioning and be indoctrinated in the fundamentals of seamanship and Naval procedure. As an important part of their program, they will take a series of aptitude tests designed to aid in assigning them to the type of work for which they are best qualified.

Upon completing recruit training the Bluejackets will be granted a nine-day leave, at which time they probably will be home.

The Chelsea recruits here are Jack R. Miller, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Miller, 615 North Main St., and Irvin L. Slane, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Slane, 206 North St.

Charter Received By Waterloo Youth Hostel

Rev. Edgar Schade, chairman of the committee sponsoring the Waterloo Youth Hostel, has received the official AYH Charter for the current year from the national headquarters of American Youth Hostels at Northfield, Mass. Members of the committee, on whose behalf Rev. Schade received the charter are Mrs. Hattie Gorton and Woodrow Artz.

The committee will present the charter for the seventh time to the Waterloo Youth Hostel; the house parents are Mr. and Mrs. Gorton Riethmiller. They are preparing for a busy season, for it is recalled that last year 7,149 overnights were registered in the Great Lakes Region.

Hostelers come by bike or on foot (less frequently by horseback, canoe or on skiis) from neighboring hostels at Manchester and Mason. They travel for fun, for health, and for a knowledge of the country (its people, its agriculture, its industries) which cannot be learned in the school room.

Open the year round, the hostel has accommodations for 10 girls and 10 boys in separate bunkrooms. Cooking is provided for with an ample supply of pots and pans as well as a cookstove. An outside fireplace, with picnic table and benches, make outdoor cooking and eating popular in good weather.

There are 253 chartered Youth Hostels in 23 states from Maine to California, available to all holders of AYH passes (obtainable at any hostel or at Northfield, Mass.) for 25 cents an overnight. Hikers, bikers, skiers, horseback riders, boaters—all who travel under their own power—are welcome at youth hostels, which are generally situated about 15 miles apart along hiking or biking trails and waterways. Each hosteler carries a regulation sheet sleeping sack and his own eating utensils, while the hostel provides separate bunkrooms and washrooms for girls and boys and a common kitchen and recreation room, all under the supervision of resident house parents. Hostelers, who usually budget a dollar a day for food and overnights, do their own cooking as well as keep the hostels clean and tidy. In 1942 there were 50,622 overnights registered in these 253 communities which sponsor Youth Hostels.

In 1943 the American Youth Hostels are expanding. This is due to three reasons: (1) People are having to curtail the use of their automobiles and are taking to their bicycles. (2) People are finding the need of relaxation, recreation and inexpensive vacations in this war year; therefore, they will hostel more. (3) The nation is aware of its need for physical well-being. Hosteling headquarters claims it can improve the average citizen's health one-third by a vacation hosteling. The National office of Civilian Defense has said, "It is our purpose to create enthusiasm for Hostels throughout the Nation." "Keep fit by hosteling" is one of the mottos of the American Youth Hostels this year.

KIWANIS NEWS

The program on Monday night was in honor of the local Boy Scouts, with 21 members of the troop as guests of the club. Following the dinner in the Tower Cafe dining room, the Scouts gave an exhibition of their regular meeting opening, in charge of James Gaken. Scoutmaster H. T. Moore presented seven tenderfoot badges and eight aircraft merit badges to members of the troop.

Kenneth Cramer of Dexter, Assistant Scout Executive for the Washtenaw-Livingston Council, addressed the group, outlining the value of Scout training to the men in the armed forces, and telling of the part Scouts are playing in the war effort on the home front.

Farm Boys To Complete Specialized Training

Farmers in Michigan experiencing labor shortage will get some relief this spring when an initial group of 53 farm boys complete a specialized farm training course, March 15, at Michigan State College, according to Ernest L. Anthony, dean of agriculture at the college.

After that date 100 or more enrollees, 16 to 20 years old, are expected every six weeks. During this period they receive an agricultural training designed to improve their skills in tilling the soil, feeding livestock, operating machinery, harvesting, and numerous other activities.

The plan for providing skilled training to farm youth, who come chiefly from the northern counties of Michigan, was devised by the Farm Security administration of the United States Department of Agriculture, who sought cooperation from Michigan State College. The college provides its entire facilities to these boys, including faculty, housing, physical examinations and health service.

In commenting upon the plan Dean Anthony stated it was one of the most sensible things yet devised to handle the critical labor situation. "These boys," said Dean Anthony, "know how to work. They have been born and reared on farms, and are now getting the training that will familiarize them with the more modern methods of agriculture." Farmers needing assistance should contact Dean Anthony or Roswell Carr, Farm Security administration.

Boys recruited by Farm Security are chosen on the basis of their desire to make a definite contribution to the war effort. They are expected to remain in agricultural pursuits for the duration. Under these conditions the state selective service has assured the Farm Security administration that these boys will be draft exempt when they are sent to the farms to relieve the farm labor shortage.

SOUTH LYON—The Victory-Vu Kit, all-transparent lunch box developed by the V. W. Busch Mfg. Co. of Rushton is catching the fancy of the entire country in a manner which leaves Vern Busch bewildered. During the past two weeks, as the result of some publicity given to the box by about fifteen national magazines, inquiries and orders for the transparent lunch box have come from all over the United States, from Maine to California, and even Canada and South America. One distributing firm on the west coast inquired about a 100,000 order.—Herald.

MILAN—Confirmation of the appointment of a local representative of the Secretary of State in Milan was received here Wednesday. The local representative of Herman I. Dignan, Secretary of State, will be Everett DeRyke, and the office will be combined with the Milan Leader for the present at least. It is expected that arrangement will be completed late this week for the opening of the automobile license bureau in The Leader office and the sale of the 1943 plates will begin about Tuesday or Wednesday of next week. Several weeks have elapsed in working out the details of the new appointment. The matter was called to the attention of Mr. Dignan, when the gasoline rationing orders went into effect, and the mileage conservation program of the OPA made travel difficult. —Leader.

Chelsea Ties U. High

By Bob Strieter

Last Friday evening, Chelsea played University High of Ann Arbor for the championship of the Western Division of the Huron League. The game failed to decide the champion, however, for it ended in a tie, 28-28. This will necessitate another game to be played later.

The game started very fast, with both teams racing up and down the floor. The high scorer in previous games for U. High lived up to his reputation by scoring two field goals in the first quarter. However, Bob Edgar matched this by scoring two also. The first quarter ended 10-6 in favor of Chelsea. The second quarter opened with Chelsea having the upper hand completely and taking a commanding 12-6 lead. Then U. High put on the pressure and slowly closed the gap. The score at halftime was again tie at 16-16.

The second half was slower but more thrilling, as U. High took the lead 21-16. Then Chelsea staged a comeback to lead at the end of the third quarter, 23-22. Both teams were tight and the players were not relaxed. The gym was in bedlam as shot after shot was taken, only to be missed. Finally with one minute to play, Chelsea scored to go into the lead 28-26. With U. High pressing dangerously, Bedford sunk a field goal with 30 seconds to go to tie the game up at 28-28. The gun then sounded, ending the most thrilling game of the season. Kusterer and Edgar were high point men for Chelsea with 8 points apiece. Paton and Baker led U. High with 9 points each.

The Chelsea second team won by a score of 28-17. Our boys completely outplayed their opponents. Ortbring was high point man with 14 points.

The Huron League does not permit tie games to be played off in the overtime period. Instead one point is given to each team. (Two points are given to the team that wins). Thus Chelsea and U. High are still tied for the league lead with 7 points each. The game will have to be played again, probably on a neutral court.

Chelsea undoubtedly had the better team but was playing at a disadvantage on the big U. High court. Had the game been played on the home court, the outcome might have been different.

Tomorrow night Chelsea plays Dexter on our own court. Dexter is one of the two teams which have defeated Chelsea this year. However, they only won by a 32-30 score, so anything can happen. Let's everybody come out and cheer the boys on to victory.

V

U. High Defeats Girls

Eighteen Chelsea girls went to Ann Arbor on Friday, February 12 to play U. High girls. The team was defeated 19-18 in a close hard fought game. The starting line up was Lyons, Lucht, and Schweinfurth, at forward, and Grabowski, Harper and Spaulding at guard. Substituting at forward was Perkins, Lehman and Loeffler, and at guard, Feldkamp and Schmidt.

At half time Chelsea was trailing by a 13-11 score but at the opening of third quarter Chelsea led 18-13 and kept the lead until the last minute of play.

The U. High girls will probably play a return game with Chelsea in the near future and the Chelsea girls are sure that with the support of the student body they can go out there and win the game.

The Victory Concert

The Chelsea Band is proceeding wits its announced "Victory Concert" on Tuesday, Feb. 23 at 8 p. m. in the high school auditorium. Under the direction of Mr. Laudenslager, the band plans to present to the Chelsea public an unusual musical program, supplemented by elaborate and carefully selected decorations. The program that will be presented is as follows:

Star Spangled Banner (with ceremony)—Smith.

Young America—March—Goldman.

Westward Ho!—Descriptive Overture—Thomas.

Booster March—Klein.

Anchors Aweigh—Navy Song—Zimmerman.

Lightning Fingers—Clarinet solo (band acc.)—Dick Richards.

Beautiful Lady—Waltz—Lehar; Miami Show—Waltz—Lehar. Trumpet quartette: Dick Umstead, Tom Smith, Jr. Niehaus, Dean Schweinfurth.

Army Air Corps—March — Crawford.

Victory—Patriotic Overture—Yoder.

This program is by far the most ambitious one that the Chelsea Band has attempted in recent times. The band musicians are working earnestly to produce the kind of music the community of Chelsea wishes to hear and remember. The members of the band are confident that the concert on Feb. 23 will be one that every citizen in Chelsea cannot afford to miss.

The High School Band will sponsor a half hour pre-concert assembly program to the high school on Friday morning, Feb 19. The band will play a brief program of selected numbers that will be presented at the concert on February 23.

The High School Pep Band furnished entertainment during the Milan basketball game and performed in a pre-game pep meeting last Friday a. m. for the University High game in Ann Arbor.

Latin Club

Monday, February 8, another meeting was held by the Latin Club. During the business meeting many plans to raise money for the service bag, were discussed. Some of the plans were having a large party, collecting money, having a matinee dance, or an assembly. Leota Kohsman was to inquire about these. The meeting was closed.

F. F. A.

Everything indicates that Chelsea will have its full quota of Victory Gardens. Some seeds have been ordered, and arrangements are being made for the rental or use of suitable garden land. It is expected that many people will want to take advantage of the service offered by the F. F. A. garden committee. The location of at least one of the community garden tracts will be announced in the Chelsea Standard one week from today. This land will be plowed and fitted and rented to gardeners in 25x100 ft. plots. Special consideration will be given anyone wanting larger areas for potatoes, corn, and other vegetables.

The garden committee has been enlarged, and now includes the following: General chairman, Harold Balmer; assistant, Ed. Beissel; Farm Bureau seeds chairman, Dick Richards; assistant, Dean Schweinfurth; garden tractor chairman, Jack Weir; assistant, Dick Kern.

Hi-Y News

Reports from the Christmas card sales show a sizeable profit.

In the past the Hi-Y club and Athletic Board have shared the expense for the lunches after the basketball games. It was suggested that the Athletic Board take over the whole expense and that the Hi-Y should continue to do the work of purchasing and serving.

Improvements in the Hi-Y room were discussed and it was decided that a meeting should be held Monday evening, Feb. 15 to fix up the room.

Mr. Tolman, State Secretary of the Y. M. C. A., talked at a luncheon Wednesday noon.

Chorus

Chelsea Band Freezes

Wanted—Small stove and boy to take care of it. The band members have almost decided to put this advertisement in the paper. Why Well, when you see people sitting in band with their coats on and playing their instruments with mittens on, its about time to take notice. It was so cold in the gym the other day that even Mr. Laudenslager asked for a pair of mittens. Please, wouldn't you take pity on us and give us just a little heat?

V

Must Be Gremlins!

What has happened to the pep meetings lately Can't someone come through with an original idea and add a little variety to the meetings?

The band intends to have a concert soon, maybe that's why the music (?) sounds better lately.

The moron jokes have been steadily dying down. Wonder what's the matter—must be them gremlins!

Various members (feminine) of the faculty are still preparing their meals in the Homemaking room. Could it have been that they burned something? Some very peculiar odors come from there every so often.

Come, come, Mr. Richards, did them gremlins get you down too?

MORTGAGE SALE

Whereas, default has been made in the payment of money secured by a mortgage dated the 8th day of June, A. D. 1942, executed by Clair D. Reason and Mary E. Reason, husband and wife, of the City of Detroit, County of Wayne and State of Michigan, to The First National Bank in Plymouth, a National Banking Corporation, of Plymouth, Michigan, which said mortgage was duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds for Washtenaw County, Michigan, in Liber 234 of Mortgages, on Page 331, at 12:15 o'clock P. M.

And Whereas, by the terms of said mortgage, it is provided that in case default be made in the payment of any installment of principal or of the interest, taxes, assessments or insurance or any part thereof on any day whereon the same is made payable, and should the same remain due and unpaid for the space of 30 days, thenceforth, the principal sum of said mortgage, together with all interest, taxes, assessments and insurance paid, shall at the option of the mortgagee, become and be due and payable forthwith, and default having been made in the payment of the interest and taxes provided in said mortgage, which default has continued for more than thirty days, the said mortgagee doth hereby exercise its option to declare the principal sum of said mortgage and all arrearages of interest and taxes due and payable.

And Whereas, the amount claimed to be due on said mortgage at the date hereof is the sum of $6091.59 principal and interest of $220.30 to date, and the further sum of $35.00 as an attorney fee stipulated for in said mortgage and the whole amount claimed to be unpaid on said mortgage is the sum of $6311.89, and no suit or proceeding having been instituted at law to recover the debt now remaining secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof, whereby the power of sale contained in said mortgage has become operative.

Now Therefore, Notice is hereby given that by virtue of the said power of sale, and in pursuance of the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises therein described, at public auction, to the highest bidder at the south front door of the courthouse in the city of Ann Arbor, in the County of Washtenaw, that being the place of holding the Circuit Court for said county, on the 16th day of April, A. ### REGISTRATION NOTICE
VILLAGE ELECTION
MONDAY, MARCH 8, 1943

To the Qualified Electors of the Village of Chelsea, State of Michigan.

Notice is hereby given that in conformity with the "Michigan Election Law", I, the undersigned, Village Clark, will, upon any day, except Sunday and a legal holiday, the day of any regular or special election or primary election, receive for registration the name of any legal voter in said Township or City not already registered who may apply to me personally for such registration. Provided, however, that I can receive no names for registration during the time intervening between the 20th day preceding any such election or primary election and the day of such election or primary election.

The last day for General Registration does not apply to persons who vote under the Absent Voters' Law. (See Registration by Affidavit).

Notice is hereby given that I will be at Sylvan Town Hall, on TUESDAY, FEB. 16, 1943

—the twentieth day preceding said election, as provided by Sec. 1, Chapter 3, Part 2, Michigan Election Law—Revision of 1941, from 8 o'clock a. m. until 8 o'clock p. m., for the purpose of Reviewing the Registration and Registering such of the qualified electors in said Village as shall properly apply therefor.

(In any village in which the clerk does not maintain regular daily office hours, the village council of such village may require that the clerk of such village shall be at his office or other designated place for the purpose of receiving applications for registration, on such other days as it shall designate prior to the last day for registration, not exceeding five days in all).

Notice is hereby further given that I will be at Sylvan Town Hall on Saturday, February 20, 1943, and on Saturday, February 27, 1943, from 8 o'clock a. m. to 8 o'clock p. m.

The name of no person but an actual resident of the precinct at the time of said registration, and entitled under the Constitution, if remaining such resident, to vote at the next election, shall be entered in the registration book.

Registration By Affidavit

Sec. 19. Registering of Electors. Any absent voter, as defined in this act, whose name is not registered and who shall claim the right to vote by absent voter's ballot at any election or primary election, may at the time of making application for absent voter's ballot, present to the village clerk an affidavit for registration which shall be in substantially the following form:

Affidavit for Registration

State of Michigan, County of Washtenaw, ss.

I..... being duly sworn, depose and say that I am a citizen and duly qualified elector of the village of .....in the county of..... and State of Michigan; that my post-office address is No. ..... street..... or R. F. D. No..... P. O..... ; that I am not now registered as an elector therein and that I am voting by absent voter's ballot at the election (or primary election) to be held upon the.... day of .....19..., the application for which ballot accompanies this application; that I make this affidavit for the purpose of procuring my registration as an elector in accordance with the statute; that I make the following statements in compliance with the Michigan Election Law: Age....; Race.....; Birthplace.....; date of Naturalization..... I further swear or affirm that the answers given to the questions concerning my qualifications as an elector are true and correct to the best of my knowledge and belief.

Signed.....

Taken, subscribed and sworn to before me this.... day of.....19... .....Notary Public in and for said County, State of Michigan. My commission expires.....19...

Upon receipt of such affidavit in the time specified herein, the clerk shall write in the registration book the name of the applicant together with the other information required by this chapter and such applicant shall thereupon be deemed to be duly and properly registered.

Registration of Absentee by Oath

If any person whose name is not registered shall offer and claim the right to vote at any election or primary election, and shall, under oath, state that he is a resident of such precinct and has resided in the township, village or city 20 days next preceding such election, designating particularly the place of his residence, and that he possesses the other qualifications of an elector under the constitution, and that, owing to the sickness or bodily infirmity of himself or of some member of his family, or owing to his absence from the township, village or city on public business or his own business, and without intent to avoid or delay his registration, he was unable to make application for registration on the last 2 days provided by law for the registering of electors preceding such election or primary election, then the name of such person shall be registered, and he shall then be permitted to vote at such election or primary election. If such applicant shall, in said matter, wilfully make any false statement, he shall be deemed guilty of perjury: Provided, That any city may provide by its charter or by resolution approved by a majority of the members of its legislative body for the registration of such sick and absent voters on the last Saturday preceding any election or primary election at the places of voting in the several voting districts of such city, instead of on election or primary election day.

All the provisions relative to registration in Townships and Cities shall apply and be in force as to registration in Villages.

Dated this 8th day of February, 1943.

OLEN HART,
Feb11-25 Clerk of said Village.

VILLAGE ELECTION

Notice is hereby given to the Qualified Electors of the Village of Chelsea, State of Michigan, that the next ensuing Village Election will be held at Sylvan Town Hall, within said Village, on

MONDAY, MARCH 8

A. D. 1943, at which election the following Village Officers are to be elected, viz:

1 Village President, 1 Village Clerk, 1 Village Treasurer, 3 Trustees for 2 years, 1 Assessor, 2 Village Library Board members for 3 years.

Relative to Opening and Closing of the Polls

Election Revision of 1931—No. 410—Chapter VIII

Section 1. On the day of any election polls shall be opened at seven o'clock in the forenoon, and shall be continued open until six o'clock in the afternoon and no longer: Provided, That in townships the board of inspectors of election may, in its discretion, adjourn the polls at twelve o'clock noon, for one hour, and that the township board in townships and the legislative body in cities and villages may, by resolution, provide that the polls shall be opened at six o'clock in the forenoon and may also provide that the polls shall be kept open not later than eight o'clock in the evening of the same day. Every qualified elector present and in line at the polls at the hour prescribed for the closing thereof shall be allowed to vote.

The polls of said election will open at 7 o'clock a. m., or as soon thereafter as may be, and will remain open until six o'clock p. m., Eastern War Time, on said day of election.

Dated this 15th day of February, A. D. 1943.

We had a Valentine party last week. It turned out very nice. We want to thank the committees. The play we had was given to the 3rd, 4th and 5th grades, and of course the sixth grade too.

Each one in our grade drew names and we had to write up Valentines to the person we drew names of. We had a lot of fun doing that.

On Friday we also had a Geography test and a music test, so it was worth a party.

Everyone was glad to see that Gerry is back to school after staying with his aunt and uncle in Clinton.

Six out of every ten calls to "Information" are for numbers that are listed in the Telephone Directory. Those needless calls increase the load on Michigan's war-busy Telephone System by 1,450 hours of operators' and equipment time each day.

The Telephone System is a vital tool of war production, but it can't be expanded substantially because the required materials have gone to the battle-front.

So please look in the directory first. If the number is not listed and you must call "Information," write it down so you won't have to ask for it again.

Three Veterans of Solomons Battle To Demonstrate 20 mm Gun Here

Gunner Tells Dramatic Story Of Sinking Of The Lexington

By Warrant Gunner James R. Schafer, U. S. N.

(Warrant Gunner Schafer will assist in demonstrating how the Navy 20 millimeter anti-aircraft gun is used, when the gun is exhibited to the workers of Federal Screw Works on Wednesday, February 24).

The sinking of the aircraft carrier USS Lexington in the battle of the Coral Sea is the most dramatic incident I witnessed in the war so far.

She was a real lady, proud and defiant to the end. I was in the task force with her, and my destroyer was at her stern as a guard against planes and submarines.

During the battle, Jap subs sank five torpedoes into one of her sides while bombers dropped several of their "eggs" on her, causing still further damage.

She was badly hurt but bravely carried on. She took on all of her planes after the attack was over and with her head high, wounded as she was, that good ship steamed away from the scene at 20 knots per hour.

My destroyer stayed with her, and four hours after the Lexington had been hit by the torpedoes and bombs, an internal explosion took place, setting off gasoline in her hold. She lurched and lunged but still sought to carry on, to hold her place among the fighting ships. But, she was no longer able to fight.

The order came to sink her, so she would not fall into enemy hands. That was one order that really was hard for the men to carry out. But the order had to be obeyed. Three torpedoes were fired into her undamaged side and two more into the side hit by the five Jap "tin fish."

That finished her. With aching hearts we watched her settle gracefully beneath the waves, a fine fighting ship to the end.

Other ships of the task force had steamed on ahead while we did the unpleasant job. We then set out to catch up with them. When we were at a point about 1,300 yards from where the Lexington went under, a terrific explosion occurred. I was sure we had been torpedoed. The destroyer staggered and, incredible as it may seem, a sheet of flame shot under the water beneath our bow and beyond it. Flames also rose from the point we had seen the Lexington disappear beneath the waves.

As a final protest against her treatment, the Lexington had blown up far beneath the surface of the water. That explosion was felt by our ships in the task force, 20 miles away. And I still feel it in my heart.

Young Men Offered V-5 Flight Training

17-year-old young men of this district are now offered the U. S. Navy's much-publicized V-5 flight training, leading to wings of gold and commissions as ensigns in the Naval Reserve or second lieutenants in the Marine Corps Reserve, it was announced this week by the Naval Aviation Cadet Selection Board, Detroit, Michigan.

The announcement brings to high school seniors and graduates the same opportunity previously offered to young men 18 to 26, if they can meet certain requirements. High schools and colleges are being given the details of the plan and interested 17-year-olds should consult their school authorities.

The 17-year group will not be called to active training until they have completed the minimum educational requirement of high school graduation. Some may then be placed in a college program before beginning actual flying.

Present plans call for those accepted to be given at least the full $27,000 training course previously offered to cadets 18 to 26. This training takes about 16 months under the ablest instructors in the service and includes piloting, navigation, gunnery, aerology, radio operation and associated sciences.

Pay as aviation cadets is $75 per month. When commissioned, Navy and Marine fliers receive $245 and upwards per month.

Our fighting men are doing their share. Here at home the least we can do is put 10% of our income in War Bonds for our share in America.

Veteran Tells Of Jap Attack In Coral Sea

Gunner Batchelor Has Spent Half Of His Life In The Navy

"What is war like? It's so horrible that I'd rather not think about it". Those are the words of Chief Gunner's Mate John Batchelor, 35, of Kirvin, Texas, who has spent half of his life in the Navy and who fought in the battle of the Coral Sea. He also participated in the first American attack on Tulagi Harbor in May of 1942. Later, his ship was attacked by submarines while it was tied up in the harbor at Sidney, Australia.

Batchelor has seen the real thing in the Pacific war. He knows what it means to look death in the eye and keep pounding away at the enemy. He knows how it feels to have his hair stand on end on the nape of his neck for it happened when an enemy torpedo narrowly missed his ship in a surprise attack while his ship was tied up in harbor.

He knows what a 20 millimeter anti-aircraft gun will do to enemy planes that come within range, knows it from actual experience. That is why he was chosen, along with two other veteran anti-aircraft gunners of the Pacific campaign, Warrant Gunner James R. Schafer and Chief Gunner's Mate Leslie H. Vories, to demonstrate the United States Navy's 20 millimeter anti-aircraft gun in a nation-wide tour. They will demonstrate how the weapon is used when they exhibit the gun at the Federal Screw Works on Wednesday, February 24.

Batchelor and his two shipmates will visit more than 100 plants that are engaged in the manufacture of parts or ammunition for the weapon. They will tell of their experiences during battles that demonstrated the gun's effectiveness, and will show the workers how the gun operates. The weapon is mounted on a Navy truck. The tour was planned by the Navy Incentive Division after a suggestion by Rear Admiral William H. P. Blandy, USN, Chief of the Bureau of Ordnance.

Batchelor was persuaded to relate a few of his experiences in the war against the Japs.

He said, "I was aboard a destroyer in a task force in the Coral Sea battle. We were screening an aircraft carrier and I saw plenty of excitement before that was over. The Nips are a determined group. They spotted us and made three sustained air attacks in one day.

"Not an enemy plane was able to get through the wall of steel our anti-aircraft batteries threw up during the first two attacks. I hoped they would call it a day and leave us alone, but not the Japs. Back they came with nine torpedo bombers and 21 high level bombers.

"I was below deck when the alarm sounded. I was at my station in nothing flat, just in time to see the nine torpedo planes come over the horizon. They blinked their lights at us and I thought they were our planes. At that same moment the guns let go. Two of the planes blew up. I thought we had shot down our own planes but at that moment the Rising Sun insignia became visible.

"It was really a thrill to see those two bombers knocked out with the first salvo. They came in fast and the boys at the anti-aircraft guns let them have plenty of hot lead. Down came another, another, and another.

OFFICIAL U. S. NAVY PHOTOGRAPH

OFFICIAL U. S. NAVY PHOTOGRAPH

MESSENGERS OF DEATH—This 20-millimeter anti-aircraft gun is one of the most potent weapons of its kind in action today. Rapid firing and maneuverable, it is capable of knocking down enemy dive bombers that come within range and keeping others at a respectable height. This gun is mounted on a PT boat.

Naval Men Are Making Tour Of 125 Industrial Plants To Exhibit Weapon

Three veterans of the Pacific war campaigns with a combined service record of more than 45 years in the United States Navy comprise the gun crew of the Navy's deadly 20 millimeter anti-aircraft gun which will be demonstrated to workers at Federal Screw Works on Wednesday, February 24. They are Warrant Gunner James R. Schafer, and Chief Gunner's Mates Leslie H. Vories and John Batchelor.

Mounted on a blue Navy truck, the gun exhibit is making a nationwide tour of more than 125 industrial plants that manufacture parts of the weapon or ammunition fired by it. The purpose of the tour, which began in Washington, D. C., January 8, is to stimulate the production of the gun and its ammunition. In addition to giving a practical demonstration of the weapon, the three veteran seamen will relate some of their war experiences, and will explain fully to the workers the part their product plays in the operation of the gun in combat.

Schafer, who is 31 years old, has been in the Navy for 15 years. He was born at Tacoma, Washington, and enlisted while still a high school student. Promotions eventually raised him to the rating of Chief Fire Controlman. Then came the attack on Pearl Harbor.

Schafer was aboard a destroyer which was undergoing minor repairs at the Pearl Harbor Naval Base when the Japs struck. The destroyer succeeded in getting out to open sea without being hit by the deluge of bombs. Later he was aboard a destroyer and fought in the battles of the Coral Sea and Midway Island and in the first phase of the Solomon Islands campaign. He then returned to America, and was recently promoted to the rank of Warrant Gunner.

Schafer is married, his wife and daughter residing at Seattle, Washington. Since joining the Navy he has served on the destroyers USS McDougal, Moffett, Worden, Patterson and Phelps, and on the battleships USS Maryland, New Mexico and Idaho.

Vories, 29 years old, was born in Sparta, Ky., later moving to Newport, Ky. He enlisted in the Navy 13 years ago while a student in school. He had attained the rating of Chief Gunner's Mate when America entered the war.

He, too, was aboard a destroyer when the Japs attacked Pearl Harbor. His ship escaped to open sea and he later fought in the battles of the Coral Sea, Midway Island and in the first part of the Solomon Islands battle. Previously Vories had served in the second Nicaraguan campaign and the Yangtze patrol in China. He has served aboard the destroyers USS Aylwin, Worden and Smith Thompson, and also on the gunboat USS Asheville.

Batchelor, who is 35 years old, has been in the Navy for 17½ years. He was born at Kirvin, Texas, later moving to Teague, Texas. Promotions had elevated him to the rating of Chief Gunner's Mate when the Japs made their sneak attack on Pearl Harbor.

At that time he was stationed aboard a destroyer attached to the Asiatic fleet. The ship then was attached to the Anzac squadron, comprised of United Nations war vessels, which was commanded by an Australian admiral. He fought in the battles of the Coral Sea and Tulagi Harbor, and was aboard a destroyer in the Sidney, Australia harbor at the time four Japanese submarines made an unsuccessful attack upon warships there. He saw previous service in Panama and at China Stations.

He served aboard the battleship USS California, the submarines S-30 and S-32, the minelayer USS Ogiala, the tender USS Argonne, the oil tanker USS Ramapo, the heavy cruiser USS Astoria, and the destroyers USS Elliott, Roe and Perkins.

Attempt To Bottleneck Fleet Failed

Navy Gunner Tells How His Destroyer Escaped From Japs

Workers in plants producing weapons and supplies for the Navy Department have heard much concerning "bottlenecks" in production but the tops in such stories comes from Warrant Gunner James R. Schafer, a veteran of the Pearl Harbor attack and the battles of Coral Sea, Midway Island and the Solomon Islands.

Gunner Schafer's story tells of the escape of his destroyer from Pearl Harbor that fateful December morning in 1941. He is a member of the Navy's 20 millimeter anti-aircraft gun crew which is touring the country and which will visit more than 125 industrial plants which manufacture parts of the weapon or the ammunition fired by it. Demonstrations of the gun are given at the plants as a stimulus to production. Accompanying him are two other veterans of the Pacific naval campaign. They will demonstrate how the weapon is used when they exhibit the gun at the Federal Screw Works next week.

"Our destroyer," Schafer said, "was in for repairs. The steam fittings were disconnected and the boilers were cold when the treacherous attack came. Bombs were bursting all around us. We lay there helpless as the bombing went on, but luckily we were not hit.

"No time was lost getting those steam pipes back in place, and a head of steam was up in record time after the job was completed. Then is when the real trouble started.

"The battleship USS Utah was damaged and partially blocking the channel leading out to sea while the battleship USS Nevada had gone around and partially blocked the other side of the channel, making the passage very narrow.

"As we approached this point the Jap bombers spied us and concentrated their attack on our ship in an effort to sink it in the narrow channel and thereby create a 'bottleneck' which would trap the other ships in the harbor. I saw 12 to 15 dive bombers head for my ship. It looked like the jig was up. Bombs rained from the skies but missed us. The destroyer seemed to lead a charmed life. I saw bombs skim by the sides of the vessel and the spray from the near misses covered the deck.

"The men at the guns never slowed up. They maintained a hail of fire, bringing down two of the Jap bombers. The ship sprang numerous leaks from the near misses but we kept moving forward. After what seemed an eternity we cleared the channel and headed for the open sea in search of enemy surface ships.

"If the Japs had sunk us in that channel," Gunner Schafer said, "it would have been too bad for the ships behind us. Their only avenue of escape would have been closed. The men realized this and their determination not to become a 'bottleneck' carried them through what appeared to be an impossible situation. If we had just had more anti-aircraft guns on the destroyer there would have been fewer Jap bombers returning home after the battle."

Of all battles in which he took part, the most inspiring incident took place in the battle of Midway, Schafer said.

"Our destroyer was part of a task force going out to meet the enemy which had not yet been sighted but our planes had made contact. I was listening to the ship-to-plane radio during the heat of the plane attack and heard a pilot say, 'Come on, Tojo, send the rest of your fleet over here and we'll sink that too.' Another

Shown above is the Navy's deadly 20-millimeter anti-aircraft gun exhibit and its gun crew. This exhibit is making a tour of industrial plants throughout the nation which manufacture parts or ammunition for the weapon for the purpose of stimulating production. Members of the gun crew, left to right, are Chief Gunner's Mate Leslie H. Vories, of Sparta, Ky., Warrant Gunner James R. Schafer, of Tacoma, Wash., and Chief Gunner's Mate John Batchelor, of Kirvin, Texas. All three are veterans of the Naval war in the Pacific. Vories was at Pearl Harbor at the time of the Jap stab in the back and later took part in the battles of Coral Sea, Midway Island and Guadalcanal. Schafer also was at Pearl Harbor, Coral Sea and Midway Island. Batchelor was in the Coral Sea fight and the American attack upon Tulagi Harbor last May.

MURDER at PIRATE'S HEAD

By ISABEL WAITT

W·N·U RELEASE

SYNOPSIS

CHAPTER I—Judy Jason, who is spending her vacation at Pirate's Head, receives an anonymous letter enclosing $800 and asking her to bid for an abandoned church to be auctioned the next day. She suspects, in turn, each of the guests at the inn where she is also staying. They are the Reverend Jonas De Witt, Lily Kendall, Thaddeus Quincy, Albion Potter, Hugh Norcross and his sister, Bessie. Other possible suspects are Uncle Wylie and Aunt Nella Gerry, who operate the inn. But the sender of the letter is still unknown when Judy bids for the church and gets it. That night she finds a hand protruding from an old sea-chest in the basement of the church. By a ring she recognizes it as Roddy Lane's. Roddy is, or was, the son of an unscrupulous banker who once owned the bleak promontory called Pirate's Head.

CHAPTER II—When Judy returns to the inn she finds a new guest, Victor Quade, who has parked his trailer nearby and who will take his meals at the inn. The telephone wires are cut.

Chapter III—The party at the inn is further isolated when the bridge from the "Head" to the mainland is blown up. Now Aunt Nella's piercing scream has just been heard from the direction of the sea.

CHAPTER IV—A delegation sent to the church to investigate finds the chest empty.

CHAPTER V—Later Victor tells Judy that he found a blood-stained golf club near the chest.

CHAPTER VI

It was the artist who took thought for the trees in line with the wind. The men, thankful for something constructive to do, bent their efforts to saving them. Soon they made a fire line, chopping and burning scrub, while the women helped with pails of water, but mostly, I'm ashamed to say, with useless advice.

Nobody could longer mistake this for a harmless celebration bonfire.

Why didn't the Rockville Fire Department respond without being notified? Several asked this question. Surely the flames would be visible. But they'd forgotten the density of the fog, which didn't lift till long after daybreak when the fire was all out. Even if they had come, they couldn't have crossed the bridge and might, themselves, have had a dreadful accident.

Toward dawn the shed was just a sputtering heap of cinders. And what would they find? What would they find!

We were all running around trying to help. I'd encountered, as I remembered afterward, everybody except Uncle Wylie, still sleeping it off in his room, and, of course, Thaddeus Quincy, wrapped in a blanket, watching the fire from his chair. He'd managed to wheel himself onto the porch. But none of us had found a trace of Old Man Brown until my foot slipped.

Ugh! I can feel it now—like a bony snake. It threw me off balance so that I barged into the Reverend's stomach, and he let out a word which any senior would most certainly delete. I picked up the thing which had tripped me to discover it was a large, old-fashioned ear trumpet—the kind you used to see years ago, in plays, when a deaf person would hold one up to your nose and shout "Hey?" Well, poor old Mr. Brown would never again use this one. I took it once to Victor.

"Add to unsolved mystery: One trumpet, saved by person who couldn't save himself. Threw it out of the window, didn't he, maybe?"

"Maybe. You say this Brown was stone deaf? Very interesting. Very."

"Well, one thing's sure. It proves he's dead. Otherwise he'd be clinging to it."

"Oh, yes! Never talked in it myself, but my husband has," said Aunt Nella.

"Mrs. Gerry, what time does your milkman arrive? Any earlier holidays?"

"Later. But we've enough cream saved for breakfast. Around noon. The Head's the last place he calls."

Victor sighed. "Hear that, folks? Doesn't that beat the dickens? We've had an explosion nobody heard at the bridge. Nobody from Rockville, I mean. Another, followed by a fire nobody saw. Now we've got to wait till 12 o'clock before the milkman can get here."

"We could meet him," Potter suggested.

"We'll appoint a committee," boomed De Witt.

"Well, there's certainly nothing more to do here. The trees are safe. The fire's over. Why don't we go back and get dressed and have some toast and coffee, if Mrs. Gerry can manage it? Perhaps some of you ladies—"

"Of course, we will," my aunt and Lily both cried.

"Me, too," added Bessie Norcross. "Come along, Hugh." You'd have thought she had him on a leash!

I waited for Victor, who told me to go with the others. He'd be along pretty soon. He was leaning over the hot embers, searching with the flashlight I'd given him.

It was barely light by now and I could see the outline of my Quaker church looming through the fog. How Whistleresque and peaceful it looked shrouded in mist by the sea. Yet what grisly secret could it tell? Almost I could have persuaded myself I had imagined the whole business about that hope chest. Could Roddy have stuck out his hand as a hoax to scare me, and then burned the shed for some unknown reason before he got away? But had he escaped? His car was still in the garage. But if he were anywhere at the Head, wouldn't he have shown up at the fire?

Victor Quade called me back. "Judy"—even he was calling me by my first name now, common danger having bred familiarity. I loved it—"does your Uncle Wylie smoke a pipe?"

Did Uncle Wylie smoke a pipe! Why, one never saw him without it—a smudged little old briar that smelled to heaven.

"Yes; why?"

"Keep it under your hat. Take a squint at this."

I took a squint in the faint morning light. Looked like my uncle's pipe, all right.

"But, good land, Mr. Quade, that was hours ago—if he dropped it."

"Exactly. Maybe he didn't drop it. If I'd found it written in one of my books I'd say it was a plant."

"In one of your books? But I thought you were just beginning to write. You said—"

"Come along, Judy. We might as well have coffee, too." He smiled down at me rather grimly, I thought. "Don't give me away, will you? Quade is my real name. If I told you my pen name you'd see me mobbed with pink teas and autograph hounds. I needed a rest to get away from all that. No one ever heard of Victor Quade. I may have to tell them myself. That Quincy fellow suspects me."

I couldn't speak. One second I puffed with pride to be in the confidence of an author famous enough to be mobbed; the next, my hopes fell. I mustn't let myself like him. He'd never give me a thought. Probably he was married anyway. Astonishingly, I heard myself say, "Lucky you didn't bring Mrs. Quade."

"Mother? She'd never ride with a trailer. Or did you mean—? Why, you artful little devil. Just like that! And I've spent years wondering how to do that little thing on my typewriter. Judy Jason, you're going to be a great help to me."

I felt all happy again. Nothing pleases a woman so much as to be told she's a help.

I ran on ahead to help Aunt Nella. She was the quickest thing you ever saw in her kitchen. Already coffee was percolating. Lily Kendall was turning toast. She'd poured too much cream into the cups. I halved it from cup to cup and set her to getting plates and spoons.

Such a hubbub in that dining room! Auntie and I decided we might as well boil eggs, too, and let them fix their own oranges. If we didn't we'd just have to give them a regular breakfast in an hour. Murder and explosions and fires can work up awful appetites. The Rev. Mr. De Witt consumed five three-minute eggs!

"Give 'em all they want," Aunt Nella said. "They'll be leavin' soon." Auntie hadn't stopped to change her clothes. She looked like the Witch of Endor. I told her she'd better fly, because when the police came all our pictures might get into the Rockville Gazette. She just sat at the kitchen table, weeping into her coffee. If Wylie's pipe had set the fire she didn't care what happened, she said. It wasn't in his pocket when she undressed him.

I hadn't mentioned the finding of that pipe. But it wasn't on the kitchen shelf where he always put it at night, just before going to bed.

Though it made more work for me, I was glad our hen-chooler had gone home right after doing the dishes last night. At least she was out of this mess. I carried in Mr. Quincy's cereal, cooked with hot milk, as he liked it.

"—killed Roddy Lane, burned his house and jumped into the sea," Hugh Norcross was saying.

"You've got it twisted, my boy," boomed the minister. "Roddy killed Brown, more likely. The fire was his funeral pyre. Then Lane disappeared from the Head."

Lily tittered, twiddling a string of pearls. "How, please? I didn't hear no airplane."

Thaddeus Quincy thumped his cane. "Listen, folks. This is a lot of fun, I know, conjecturing about murders. But you're all wrong. The whole business is a series of odd coincidences. Very odd. First, Judy has the jitters and imagines she sees something. Well, we proved there was nothing there, didn't we? Then the bridge broke down at the same time a car backfired, and we assumed it was blown up. I'll wager the police won't think so. Next that fish shed burns. Spontaneous combustion, probably. Place wasn't fit to live in anyway. Just a shack full of tar paper and oily ropes and old tarpaulin. A wonder anyone would sleep in the dump, but someone did, Judy and I saw the light through the one window. Couldn't see in. Too dirty and cobwebby. Had a paper curtain over it, too, didn't it, Judy? I just remember slits of light." I nodded and he continued. "Old man may have been smoking. But it was an accident, pure and simple. Lane didn't kill anybody. He's a mean skunk, but he's far away by now. As to how, Miss Kendall, he came in a car and left the same way."

Victor Quade stood up and Mr. Quincy stopped abruptly. "You're wrong, too, unfortunately," Victor said quietly. "Lane's car is still in the castle garage. It's now," he glanced at his watch, "not quite 5. Mrs. Gerry says the Head is the last place on the trade people's route. Milk not until noon. Being a holiday, there'll be no mail. Market man tomorrow. You can see we have quite a little time before the first person along that empty stretch of road you call the Neck discovers the broken bridge and summons aid. Funny Rockville didn't see the fire, but remember the fog was mighty dense and we project nearly five miles out to sea. Take it for a bonfire to honor the Fourth if they chanced to see it."

"So what?" Bessie interrupted.

"Just this, my friends. Your Roddy Lane did not leave the Head. His car is still in the garage. Saw it last night when we searched. I had the flashlight. It's my belief Judy was right, but now it's daylight and I propose further search.

"Mr. De Witt and Mr. Potter, you take another look in the garage. See if you can get into the Lane castle. Break a window if necessary. Here are the keys to my trailer. Scout around. But especially scan the rocks."

Bessie began to cry, and Hugh said resentfully, "I think you might consider the ladies. My sister—"

"Of course. You girls help Mrs. Gerry. Poor woman, she needs it."

Bessie left the room, but Lily and I sat tight, while Victor continued his directions. Lily begged to be allowed to join the hunt.

"All right, Miss Kendall, you and Mr. Hugh. What's your name, take the church end and the woods. Scour the shore. Yours is the quieter side toward the cove. You might find something. Anyway, if Brown or Lane is in those woods, come quietly back. The Head is so tiny you all ought to search it in no time. But don't touch anything you may find. I wouldn't go into the church basement again till the police come."

Mr. Quincy folded his hands, his lips working pitifully. I could have squeezed Victor when he said, "Quincy and I will look at the fire ruins." And he seized the invalid's chair, while I ran to hold open the door.

I didn't like to be left behind, but they'd virtually dismissed me, so I had no choice. Anyway, they'd soon be back. I fixed a tray for Uncle Wylie, which Aunt Nella took up. Bessie wiped and I washed the dishes. Every other minute one of us would race to the door, and as soon as we were through I ran down to where the other men were gradually collecting around the ruins of the fish shed.

Bessie Norcross stood clinging to the porch rail. She wouldn't budge till her brother came for her, she said. And of course my aunt and uncle were in their room at the time.

"Don't come any closer," Victor cautioned. "Don't touch a thing."

"Glory be—they've found something. Ain't it excitin'?" Lily burst her pearls down poor Mr. Q.'s neck as he leaned forward, pointing with his cane.

"See it? That, girls and boys," Thaddeus shouted, "is the corpus delicti, without which there can be no murder. Now all we need is to find out if it's Brown or Lane."

"Or both of them," Potter said, shuddering.

"You girls go back," Victor said, taking the shawl Mr. Q. handed him from his shoulders and covering the charred torso lying in the midst of ashes and debris. I won't describe it here; it's too horrible. I'd never before seen a body burned and blackened beyond recognition. What little there was left might have been anybody. Could experts tell whether the remains were of an old man or a middle-aged? I wondered.

"Of course it was Old Man Brown," Mr. Q. said, "or we'd have found Lane's diamond ring. Diamonds will burn under pressure, being allotropic forms of carbon, but not in a fire like this. Well, there wasn't any ring we could find, was there, Quade?"

"No, only don't tell the police we poked."

"That leaves us just where we were before," Lily Kendall said. "Mr. Norcross and I didn't see anybody in the woods."

Hugh agreed. "That's right. Lane skipped, and this was an accident. How do you know Lane didn't walk to town?"

"Bless you, I don't. He may have," Victor agreed. "But is it logical to suppose he did—a man with a car?"

"And the car's still over there," the minister thundered. "Strange. Passing strange."

"There wasn't a thing wrong with the trailer," Albion Potter added.

"Did you go into the castle?"

"No, we didn't," De Witt said. "Breaking and entering—I thought we'd better wait for the police. But Potter here shinnied up on to a balcony and saw that one room had been used all right. Suitcase on the bed wasn't there, Potter, and clothes strewn about?"

Albion nodded. "Couldn't see much, but the bed didn't look as if it had been slept in."

"A man's clothes? You—you couldn't be sure they were Lane's?"

"How could I? But a man's, all right. Helter - skelter pajamas, shirts, tumbled out of an open suitcase."

"It's beginning to make sense," Victor Quade said. "How about it, you people? We can do a lot to clear up this business for the police, and the more we find out the more we'll be saved afterward. What do you say we take a good look at the bridge first, post a sentry in case anybody should happen along the Neck bright and early, and then have a general co-operative get-together and clear up what we can?"

Coral Sea Battle

The boys had the range and were making the most of it. Eight of those nine torpedo bombers were knocked down by the withering fire. The other went over the horizon belching smoke. That baby never got back to its nest. It was badly hit.

"Meanwhile, the high level bombers rained bombs all over the area covered by the ships of our task force. Their aim was poor and not a hit was scored. They must have seen what happened to the torpedo bombers because they were wise enough to stay out of range of our fire.

"The torpedo bombers came in at about 300 feet altitude. When they were hit they burst into flames and were consumed before they plunged into the ocean."

'Bottleneck' Effort Fails

pilot reported: 'There's a perfectly good Jap cruiser back there' and the first pilot answered, 'I'll drop back and take a look.' A few minutes later he called back that he had loosed his bombs and said, 'There's no perfectly good cruiser back there now.' That is the spirit the men have when they meet the enemy. They have a job to do and allow nothing to stand in their way."

During the Coral Sea battle Schafer was aboard a destroyer which was sent to rescue from the sea a torpedo gunner of one of it's planes. Telling of the incident, Schafer said, "He was only a kid, about 19 years old. When he was pulled from the water I saw that he had been wounded several times and his right arm was badly mangled. We got him aboard and not once did he complain, despite the fact that he was badly hurt. He smiled and asked for a smoke, which he got. He was given emergency medical treatment and was then transferred to another ship for hospitalization. As the transfer was being made the youngster smiled and said, 'You'll be fishing me out of the water again in a couple of weeks'.

"That remark did something to the officers and men of my ship. To the last man we wanted to get a crack at the enemy to even the score for that kid. And more than that, every man became determined to fight just a little harder until Victory is won."
