Captain K. O. Beach Is Prisoner Of Japs

Mrs. D. Edward Beach, was overjoyed last Friday night when she received a War Department telegram stating that her son, Capt. Kenneth O. Beach, who had been officially listed as "missing in action" since the surrender of Corregidor, is a Japanese war prisoner, somewhere in the Philippines.

This is the first word Mrs. Beach has had of her son since last June 3, when she received official notice that he was listed as missing. The telegram, which arrived about 11:30 Friday night, March 12, stated that a letter with fuller details would follow shortly.

Honored On Golden Wedding Anniversary

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Van Valkenburg at 16167 Old US-12, Sylvan township, was the scene of a pleasant celebration on Sunday, given in honor of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Van Valkenburg, on the occasion of their 50th wedding anniversary. Another son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Ross Van Valkenburg, of Detroit, assisted as entertainers.

Open house was held in the afternoon from 3 to 5, and about 45 neighbors and friends called to extend congratulations and good wishes. Many flowers and gifts were presented to the honor guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Van Valkenburg are both 74 years of age. They were married March 17, 1893 and had resided in Northville until November 1941, when they moved to their present home in Sylvan township. Mr. Van Valkenburg is a past master of Northville Lodge, F. and A. M., of which he is a life member, and Mrs. Van Valkenburg is a life member of the Northville O. E. S.

License Money Provided For Liquor Control

85 Per Cent Returned To Communities For Enforcement of Laws

By Gene Allen
Are you, Mr. Taxpayer, getting your money's worth from the dollars returned by the State of Michigan to Washtenaw county for enforcement of liquor laws?

Here are some interesting facts: 1. Municipalities and townships in Washtenaw county received the sum of $13,378.20 last year from the State of Michigan for the purpose of enforcing liquor laws within the county. For the 88 counties—the allocations totaled $2,420,889.52.

Red Cross Collection Totals More Than $7000

With the liberal contribution of $2500 from Federal Sewer Works announced on Tuesday, the collection of the local committee for the Red Cross War Fund amounted to more than $7000, and with several reports yet to be made by canvassers it is believed the total for Chelsea will reach $7500 before the campaign closes on March 31.

Program for Children And Parents Planned

A children and parents' night is being planned, to be held at the Chelsea public schools on Monday evening, April 12. The general plan for the evening will be in the form of a pot-luck dinner followed by separate programs suitable for both the children and their parents.

Hoffmaster Outlines Proposed Program

As stated last week, P. J. Hoffmaster, Director, State Department of Conservation, agreed to issue a statement to the farmers in this vicinity regarding the proposed land acquisition program of his department. Following is his letter to the Standard:

March 12, 1943.
Mr. M. W. McClure,
Chelsea Standard,
Chelsea, Michigan.
Dear Mr. McClure:

It is not surprising that people in your locality are aroused over a newspaper report that the Conservation Commission plans to buy land in that part of the state at a maximum price of $25 per acre with the threat of condemnation of such land as owners refuse to sell for that price.

At its February meeting the Commission agreed that some contribution should be made from the Game and Fish Protection Fund, which is derived from hunting and fishing license fees, for the purchase of these lands since most of them will be open to hunting. In our discussion the statement was made that in the majority of cases the hunting values probably would not warrant the payment from the Game Fund of more than $25 per acre.

In the course of our telephone conversation you mentioned that some of your people were disturbed by the threat that their property might be condemned. We do have the power of condemnation, but in more than twenty years, during which we have bought thousands of acres of land for various purposes, it has been used only twice.

We have in mind buying suitable lands which the owners are willing to sell at prices which are mutually agreed upon. We do not believe in the "strong arm" methods we are charged with and feel that this project can succeed only if it can receive the sympathetic and wholehearted support of the local people.

I hope this letter will clear up some misunderstandings, and if you think it would help to run it in your paper I am willing that you do so. If further information is wanted I hope you will call on me.

Very truly yours,
P. J. Hoffmaster,
Director.

Money Provided For the Control of Liquor

its police officers to stay out of licensed places even for purpose of inspections, and yet gladly receive the allocation of license fees for purpose of law enforcement.

We're not arguing the point. But in the state law the burden of enforcement of the law (at least 85 per cent of it) is placed squarely upon local officials.

Let's look at the language: "The sheriffs of the several counties and their deputies and the village marshals, constables, officers or members of the village or city police and members of the department of state police, and inspectors of the state commission, are hereby empowered and it is hereby made their duty to see that the provisions of this act and the rules and regulations made or authorized by said commission are enforced within their respective jurisdictions."

Nothing vague about that. Furthermore, failure to enforce the law or even "willful neglect" makes the official subject to a fine not to exceed $500 or a jail sentence not more than 90 days or both.

This penalty is imposed by the state legislature, and the section of the law begins with these words: "The people of the State of Michigan enact."

Another weakness in the present system is the fact that while the sheriff is held responsible, he derives no part of the state's law enforcement funds. And that goes also for the prosecuting attorney.

Glenn Dunn, chairman of the state commission by appointment of Governor Harry F. Kelly, informs us that he personally favors a change in the law whereby 35 per cent of local license revenues would be returned to the county government and earmarked by the county treasurer for use by the sheriff and prosecuting attorney for the specific purpose of enforcing liquor laws.

A three-man committee, comprising the prosecutor, sheriff and the chairman of the finance committee of the county board of supervisors, would be given power to allocate the 35 per cent fund and see that it was expended efficiently.

In many counties this 35 per cent fund (figure it out yourself from your county's total share) would make possible the employment of special deputies and an assistant prosecutor whose main duties would be to keep conditions clean in the rural roadside taverns and hot-spots.

Take Marquette county as an example. The county has 88 taverns or places where alcoholic beverages are consumed.

Last year the county received $29,

918. Under Mr. Dunn's plan the county treasurer would earmark $12,318 to finance the costs of special deputies and an assistant prosecutor. Transcripts of all cases would be sent to Lansing.

Maybe this plan isn't the best in the world. But it does possess obvious merit of having law enforcement by local officials who should know local conditions. If you leave the job to the state, then you must expect a hit-and-miss kind of law enforcement. State inspectors make a flying visit, often catch the more decent operators in an occasional violation, and then the citizenry howls about the results.

Dancing at rural taverns should be abolished outright, at least in the judgment of state inspectors. Minors are attracted to these places of entertainment. Violations occur. But here again the home community has a social obligation.

As one state official put it: "If small towns would assume some responsibility for providing recreation for their young people, they would have less difficulty on this score. Sturgis has a night club for high school youngsters run by a creamery. We never have trouble there. In some towns, the Legion post opens its hall several nights a week to young people."

Do you agree with him? And if so, what is your town doing about it?

Penalties are also an important factor in law enforcement. If penalties are stiff, licensees are apt to be more careful. The new state commission, headed by Chairman Dunn, is imposing heavier penalties than did the former commission, and it is interesting to note that the former commission got progressively tougher the longer it stayed in office. Yes, the trend is definitely toward stiffer penalties.

This liquor problem is as old as the hills. We have only touched upon a few aspects of it. We might sum up our observations as follows, and if you disagree, your local newspaper will gladly print your views:

Enforcement of liquor laws is chiefly a home rule responsibility. By the glass licensees MUST get approval of township, village or city boards before the state will issue a license, and the state MUST revoke any license if the local board requests such action.

State control of the liquor business is to be preferred to a return to bootlegging, speakeasies, Al Capone gangsterism and other evils. In other words, we concur with majority opinion. Our home town is bone dry. We prefer that, also.

But state control means just that—CONTROL. And here we get right back to you, Mr. Taxpayer. Are you getting your money's worth?

HOLD FAREWELL PARTY
About 25 neighbors and friends assembled at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. G. Luick on Tuesday evening, March 9, to honor Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Loeffler, who have sold their farm on the Dancer road in Lima township and expect to move in the near future. With progressive euchre furnishing the diversion, Carl Peterson and Mrs. Clarence Nicolai won high prizes, and Carl Gross and Kathryn Lindauer received the consolations. Gifts were presented Mr. and Mrs. Loeffler and refreshments were served.

Governor Sets Victory
Garden Week In State

Lansing—Gov. Harry F. Kelly has issued a proclamation designating the week of March 21-27 as Victory Garden Week in Michigan. Recognizing that the production of food on home garden plots is one of the most important of civilian war efforts, the Governor has called upon citizens to make plans for planting home gardens and to assist in the effort to enlist as many of their neighbors as possible in the Victory Garden army.

Paul R. Krone, Director of Victory Gardens for the Michigan Council of Defense, announces that the Council's garden program is making excellent progress throughout the state. In many communities garden committees have completely organized their territory. Local contests have been arranged and newspapers are planning cooperation by devoting much space to garden information. A number of the cities have arranged to set aside vacant city property for use as Victory Gardens.

Thousands of Victory Garden folders have been prepared for distribution by the Michigan Council of Defense. Information thus made available should be of value in eliminating waste effort by inexperienced gardeners.

During Victory Garden Week stores will feature Victory Garden window displays and libraries, schools and other centers have planned special exhibits.

The State Department of Public Instruction and the State Board of Control for Vocational Education are cooperating in encouraging the planting of school gardens. Food grown will be an important item in next year's school lunch program.

Launch Farm Scrap Drive

The campaign for collection of heavy metal scrap from Michigan farms was launched at a meeting in Lansing on March 9, attended by representatives of farm implement dealers, farm organizations and salvage committees. The drive for farm scrap will be held during the week of April 4 in the southern area of Lower Michigan. In northern Michigan and the Upper Peninsula the drive has been set for April 25. District meetings for discussion of campaign plans will be held during the last two weeks in March.

The seriousness of the need for heavy farm scrap was impressed upon those attending the Lansing meeting by W. R. Taibot of Washington, chief of the General Salvage Branch of the Salvage Division of the War Production Board.

Constance Vigilance
And Bicycle Safety

The following bulletin was sent by H. E. Miller, chairman, committee on health and safety to Scouts and Cubs of the Boy Scouts of America, urging their promotion of bicycle safety among their companions.

In order to protect the lives of scouts and of other people, we all need to be very careful in the use of bicycles. In order that we may fully understand the precautions for bicycle safety the following important points have been listed by the Health and Safety committee:

1. One Person on One Bicycle—It is not only unlawful but unsafe to carry another person on the handle bar or frame of your bicycle. Violation of this regulation causes many accidents.
2. Never Hook onto Moving Vehicles—It is both foolish and unlawful to attach your bicycle, coaster, sled, roller skates, or yourself to any moving vehicle upon any street or highway.
3. Lights Are Required—Front and rear lights are required by law and by the dictates of safety practice.
4. Obey Street and Highway Regulations—When riding a bicycle on the street, bicyclists are required to stop at stop lights and follow the identical regulations which automobile drivers are required to follow.
5. Bicycles Must Never Be Ridden More Than Two abreast—When riding on the sidewalk, ride in single file.

We've Got Good Roads
—Let's Keep Them!

GOOD ROADS
don't just happen. Michigan highways are the best in the nation today because they were planned by able men who knew how to build them—how to maintain them.

Knows the Job!
Lloyd Reid, present State Highway Commissioner, has made a career of building good roads for Michigan. His ten-year experience up through the ranks of the highway department is your assurance that he knows the job—that he will continue to give the same fine highway service that you have a right to expect.

CONTINUE

when meeting or passing vehicles or being passed, ride in single file. There are too many serious and fatal accidents to bicycle riders!

All group leaders are asked to read this bulletin to the boys under their guidance, to dramatize safety practices, and to make the needs for care in handling bicycles as real as possible. Also, please post this on your bulletin board.

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"A lot of strokes here in town are worry about being able to get help these days. Judge Men are mighty scarce and gettin' more so all the time."

"I know. Even the big companies are having quite a job getting them. Yes, and they need 'em too. Take the beverage distilling companies for example...they need a lot of manpower. Though they're not making whiskey any more, they're doing a 24-hour-a-day job of turning out alcohol for gun powder and synthetic rubber for the government."

"Makes me think back in the days before repeat when a powerful number of people were making liquor. No...only they were a bunch of law-flouting criminals doing it behind closed doors. And the government wasn't collecting a billion dollar excise tax either. Ever stop to wonder where the government could get all its war alcohol today if it weren't for the beverage distillers?"

PLYMOUTH—The Plymouth Board of Education at its meeting Monday night decided that because of crowded conditions in the high school, that freshmen students from four schools in the district outside of Plymouth could not be accepted beginning with the next school year. The board feels that its first duty is to the resident pupils. Students already enrolled in the Plymouth high school from these four schools will be permitted to continue their school work here if they so desire. It was pointed out that 300 freshmen were enrolled in the high school last fall, of which 170 were from outside the Plymouth district. DON'T BLAME THE WAR

Last Thursday and Friday perhaps every student in school listened to more than one lecture on his ability to do better school work. It has been rumored that many pupils may fail in one or more courses. Likely much of this is due to the war which causes many students, both boys and girls, to take jobs after school and, sometimes during school. In some of these cases it is very necessary that these pupils should spend at least a part of that time on their studies.

However, the war can't be blamed for everything so perhaps an even greater reason for this is just plain laziness. Many students feel that because the school year is better than half over they will slide through no matter how much work they do.

The war is not an excuse for students doing poor school work for now more than ever, the nation has a great need for bright, well-trained individuals to win this war and carry the country through the difficulties which usually follow.

Band News

The "Victory Concert" presented recently by the Chelsea high school band was in every way a real musical attainment. In spite of the fact that food rationing was being carried on in addition to various other conflicting activities, the attendance at the concert was entirely satisfactory. The net profit on the concert was $31.84; the total attendance was 140. A substantial amount of this money will be used to purchase new drum equipment.

The High School Band provides for a classification of its members through different groups of musicianship. These groups are the apprentice musician, first class musician, master musician and artist musician. Band members are required to pass a test of the apprentice class before they are eligible to work toward advanced classes. No award is given to the apprentice musician since he is considered to be the beginning student. A bronze medal is awarded to the student passing the test for the first class musician; a silver medal to the master musician, and a gold medal to the artist musician.

Last year first class medals were awarded to Larry Dietle, Dick Richards, and this year only one member has completed his first class musician requirements. This student currently leading the first trumpet section is Tom Smith. Other students will soon be eligible for a new classification.

Gardeners who plan to plant potatoes this spring should make arrangements for seed as soon as possible. The F. F. A. annual order of two tons of seed potatoes was sent to the Michigan Potato Growers' Exchange in Cadillac early in February. A week later their check was returned with the statement that they could not fill the order.

However, both certified and non-certified stock are still available from local stores and farmers. 100-pound bags of certified potatoes sell for about $4.80. Ordinary potatoes can be bought for from $1.75 to $2.00 per bushel.

Basketball News

A couple of weeks ago, March 2 to be exact, Chelsea played a basketball game with Pinckney. However, that was the same week as the championship game with Lincoln, so it was lost in the shuffle. Chelsea defeated Pinckney that night, 36-35.

The starting team was composed of Eor, Alber, Gaken, Edgar and Kuster. The game was even the first quarter, but Pinckney surged into a half-time lead of 23-13. However, in the third quarter, Policht and Modack entered the game and promptly put in 10 points. The score at the end of this quarter was 32-29. In the last quarter, Kern put in a couple buckets to put Chelsea in the lead. The game ended 36-35 in favor of Chelsea.

The Pinckney team had a lead of 12 points in the beginning of the third period, but at that point the Chelsea regulars took over and poured on the power. Policht, Kern and Edgar were the high point men with 6 points each. The second team continued on its winning ways by trouncing the Pinckney seconds, 41-20. Orthing and Bahnmiller led the scoring with 15 and 14 points respectively. The boys exploded in the third quarter, gathering 10 points in 2 minutes. This was enough to put the game on ice, but they kept right on. The final score read 41-20.

Tomorrow night, Chelsea journeys to Michigan Center to meet Manchester in the area tournaments. Both teams won one contest so this will be the rubber game. Our rivalry with Manchester is so torrid that anything can and does happen. The game starts at 9:00, so let's see as many loyal supporters there as possible.

District Tournaments

Friday night Chelsea plays Manchester at 9:00 at Michigan Center in the District Tournaments. The first game will be played at 7:30 between Napoleon and Michigan Center.

Class Tournaments

If you had been in the hall of the Chelsea high school last Thursday after school you would have expected the school to fall in any minute. It was just the class tournaments for girls but to the students it was a very important event.

The result of the game between the Sophomores and Juniors was 10-2 in favor of the Juniors. The starting lineup for the Sophomores was: Forwards, I. Loeffler, R. Paul, E. Geddes; guards, M. Winters, J. Pierce and R. Schenk; substitutes, J. Hoffman, V. Yeakum, P. Hopper, S. Fletcher and W. Lantis. The Juniors came up with this starting line up: Forwards, V. Lucht, I. Brueckner, V. Miller; guards, E. Harper, V. Spaulding, E. Schmidt; substituting, R. Clark, L. Kohman and L. Schlosser.

The second game between the Seniors and Freshmen was won by the Seniors, 7-2. The starting lineup for the Freshmen were: Forwards, J. Vail, L. Lyons, D. Perkins; guards, J. Shutes, J. Eisenbeiser and J. Moore. (Continued on page seven)

Remember, concrete is fireproof, termite-proof, easy to work with, low in first cost, needs little upkeep, endures for generations—and it requires a minimum of critical war materials.

NATURE'S COLORS IN LASTING BEAUTY

Can't Fight With Duds!

• In the Solomons, in Africa, over Europe, the ceaseless rat-a-tat-tat of U. S. heavy calibre machine guns strikes the fear of death and death itself, into the hearts of our Axis foes. They know that American bullets are live bullets. No duds!

In wartime, a railroad might well be compared to a machine gun.

Call the track the barrel. Picture freight cars, passenger cars as cartridges. Imagine the freight load of war material, the passenger load of troops and civilians traveling on essential business as the bullets and powder charges... all aimed at the heart of the enemy.

And then you can see how important it is that on America's railroads... mobilized for war, united for victory... there must be full utilization of every freight car—every passenger car—no duds!

Thanks to the whole-hearted cooperation of shippers, Army, Navy, the Office of Defense Transportation and other governmental agencies, America's railroads are moving double the freight they carried in 1939, and with little new equipment! The successful performance of this double task is an example of what can be done by conservation, by better utilization of space and equipment, by getting the most out of what you have.

And the same is true in passenger service. Here again, the railroads are called upon to carry double the volume they carried in 1939. Yet, more can still be done to get the most out of existing passenger space... to avoid peak loading on weekends... to prevent waste of seats or berths.

By considering a seat or a berth as a perishable commodity... by cancelling your reservations immediately when your plans change, so someone else may take your place... by going during the week instead of the weekend... you will help conserve space, time and equipment... you will help America's railroads get the most out of what they have.

And you will aid them greatly in their double-barrelled job of keeping troops and essential wartime travelers rolling on to Victory!

Girl Scouts Observe 31st Anniversary

The Chelsea Girl Scouts are joining sister scouts all over the nation in celebrating the thirty-first anniversary of the Girl Scout movement.

Mrs. Juliette Gordon Low brought from England her inspiration for forming a scouting movement and on March 12, 1912 organized the first troop in Savannah, Ga., her home city.

More than a half million girls in all parts of the United States have become members and voluntarily pledged "On my honor, I will try to do my duty to God and to my country, to help other people at all times, and obey the Girl Scout Laws."

This is the official Girl Scout Promise, assumed by each member of the organization. The laws specify honor, usefulness, loyalty, friendliness, courtesy, cheerfulness, thrift and cleanliness of thought, word and deed.

The organization is non-sectarian, non-political and non-profit-making. It is open to girls of all races and creeds from the seven-year-old Brownie to the Senior Girl Scouts who are from 15 to 18.

A national staff provides standards, studies new activities and administers a flexible program that can be adapted to meet the needs of the girls in any community. Scouting is recognized as a year-time work and the efforts of any adult who can give time to assist in this worthwhile organization will find it well worth her time and interest.

Leaders need assistants in the group activities and the number of scouts who can serve is in direct ratio to the number of adults who are willing to give of their time and effort to this movement.

MURDER AT PIRATE'S HEAD

By Isabel Waitt
Released by WNU

CHAPTER IX

"Told me he had permission to stay in that shack long as he liked. Didn't ask him who from. None of my business. Old shed ain't been used since bootleggin' days, when the police rounded up a cache of liquor."

"Hush, Wylie. That ain't got nothing to do with this. You only saw the poor old feller once after that, didn't you?"

"Time he was fishing off the rocks, you mean. Funny thing about that, my uncle ruminated about that day, and he was over near the Pirate's Mouth. I was afraid he might fall in. There's a path, but it's mighty dangerous. I yelled at him, and by thunder—maybe 'twas a coincidence—but he looked around and saw me. Then he disappeared. I tore after him, but he wasn't in the Pirate's Mouth. Climbed up the other side, I guess. Anyway, I saw his light time I got back."

"Do you mean that old man got back to his shack before you did? Beat you to it?" Victor asked incredulously.

"Not exactly. It was cloudy and dark, the way it suddenly does when it's fixin' up to thunder, but I could see he wasn't in the Pirate's Mouth, nor sloshing around in the waters below. I wanted to take a look at the church, knowing about the auction and all. Nella—Mrs. Gerry's always hankered after that location. I was wonderin' if I would pay to turn the building into a bungalow, and sell the inn. Nella ain't so spunky as—"

"Why, Wylie Gerry!" my aunt blazed at him. "This is the first I've heard you agree with me about the bungalow. This house has been in our family for generations. I thought you were so set on it you wouldn't leave it for the world."

Did she want to make things difficult for him? Did she have to fight him everything he said?

"I don't see—" Bessie Norcross got no farther.

"The police will see plenty," Victor said. "Mr. Gerry, you'll certainly give them much to think about. Thank you for telling us about this mysterious Mr. Brown, who's neither short nor tall, wears thick glasses, uses an earphone, but turns when he's unexpectedly yelled at, comes from nowhere just before things begin to occur on the Head, is old and apparently feeble, yet could climb into and out of that Pirate's Mouth so rapidly that he'd disappeared by the time you reached the spot, though you tore after him. H'm'm, very interesting, don't you think, Mr. Quincy?"

"Beats the way I manage without my chair."

Lily's bracelet let go a lapis strand. "Oh, shucks!" she cried, grabbing at the tangent beads. "I think it's real, mean to talk that way about the poor feller when he's lying down there, done to a turn." A nervous giggle escaped her as she added, "That corpse looked right to me. I wouldn't say it was a turn."

Everybody began to chatter again, but they didn't agree. Some said the charred torso was just Lane's size, others that it was too large, and must be Old Man Brown. Some held it could be either.

I was having a connection over what Uncle Wylie had said about buying the church. It was ridiculous to suppose he'd sent me the money. At least he'd get $500 without my wife's knowledge. I mean? And I couldn't remember that he'd done any bidding at the auction himself that day, while Aunt Nella had bid up to a hundred and fifty.

I leaned over and whispered into Uncle Wylie's ear. "Did you send me that mazuma?"

"Huh?"

I repeated the question, only substituting the word money. He acted dumb as anything, and started fishing in his pocket, and drew out some change.

"How much you want? Only got 73 cents."

I excused myself and ran into the house. It was high time I told Victor about that letter. He could do stunts with it, make them all write their names and compare the penmanship or something.

The rooms were a mess. We'd have to quit this business and clean up the inn and start lunch, pretty soon. Some of the beds had been tossed together in my busy search for Roddy's diamond ring, but that was all. My own room didn't even have the clothes airing. I flung them back in a heap and ran to the bureau.

The letter was gone! I couldn't believe it. Maybe it wasn't the top drawer, where I stuck it under the paper lining. I tried the others, knowing the futility. Then I went back to the top one again, tossing my belongings helter-skelter. There was no doubt about it. The mysterious letter had been taken. Why? Was the writer after the rest of the bills still hidden in my stock-

"Keep the difference, and oblige," my mysterious friend had written. I'd read that letter so often I knew it almost by heart. Still $500 is quite a lot of change. He or she may have thought there wouldn't be more than, say—fifty.

I got down on my hands and knees and looked under the bureau. I even moved it from the wall. No dice. What a sap I'd been to leave it in my room. Well, anyway, I could repeat the contents. But now there'd be no way to get a slant on the writing. I recalled how sprawling it had been, backhanded and every which way, in the attempt to disguise it. There could no longer be doubt about that.

I began suddenly to be terribly afraid. I did the person who tried to use me have any connection with the foul deeds which followed? Was I dealing with a killer? A murderer who knew I still had half a thousand dollars of his in my possession? Why the Old Harry should a perfect stranger wish to present me with a tearoom, anyway?

Not Aunt Nella. She'd never let anybody do her bidding, nor pass on a sum like that. Uncle Wylie I discarded. Roddy Lane? But why should he want the old church? He did, I knew, because he'd said so. He'd also said he was planning to bid at the auction. "Prepare for some lively bidding," he'd said that night at supper. "Would he make me cash and then bid, too? Not likely. Not unless—could he be that subtle? Could he have chosen this method for reasons of his own, and be hiding around the Head? In which case, he'd climb up the bridge and killed Brown. The fire might have been an accident, but the hand I'd seen in the sea chest wasn't. There's something about a dead hand—Ugh!

I could feel little chills creeping up and down my spine. Any minute I expected to hear a voice demand back its $500. I ran into the hall, and, as the old stairs creaked behind me, I paced down, nearly losing my balance, and screaming as I went.

The whole piazza rose in a mass and came running to meet me.

"Judy!" Aunt Nella cried.

"What's the matter, Judy?" Hugh met me at the stairs and caught me to him. "Are you all right?"

"Sure she's all right," Bessie got between her brother and me.

"I'm nervous, I guess," I faltered, looking down on the stairs.

"It's nothing, really. Go—go on with your—your—"

"See anyone upstairs?" Lily wanted to know.

"Of course, not." Goodness, I mustn't give away like that. "I don't know why I screamed. Got to thinking of—of what I saw in the chest."

"We're all pretty much keyed up," Auntie said. "Judy, you come out to the kitchen and help me start the chowder."

But I wouldn't. I signaled to Victor Quade, and when he came over to my side I whispered: "Just you. Come."

I went on into my little office, and he scattered the rest. Didn't they all want a breathing space? Why not go in a body down to look at the Pirate's Mouth, and also at the golf club, to see if someone had borrowed Mr. Norcross? Would they wait for him? Meet at the steps in ten minutes?

They would. Unanimously.

"Well, Miss Judy, what's bothering you?" Victor sat down in the old Morris chair where Uncle Wylie often retreated with his pipe when things got too warm for him in the kitchen.

I closed the door. When I turned and saw Victor Quade's glowing eyes boring darkly into mine, I was struck again by his odd resemblance to Roddy Lane. If Lane had had a brother—I! But I knew better. And when he smiled at me, how different from the Lane leer. Such magnificent teeth! I sighed faintly, thinking for a moment how handsome the man was. Then I plunged into the strange incident of the letter.

"An anonymous letter, you say?"

"It was merely signed—'A Friend.' Inclosed were forty twenty-dollar bills."

"May I see this epistle?"

"I felt full of confusion. What an idiot I'd been to leave it in a bureau drawer—the first place anyone would look. I had to admit I'd been a chump; that the letter was gone.

Victor began to rock backward and forward in a gawky old chair, as if the swaying movement helped him think. He shook his head slowly and smiled at me: "You couldn't know, of course, but I'm afraid you did pull a boner."

"But he said, 'Don't tell a soul. Oh, I'm not excusing myself. I know it was stupid. The sentimental reasons' got me. And that's another thing—before the auction, when we, the guests, I mean, were all discussing bidding in the Rev. Jonas De Witt used those very words."

"What words?"

"Sentimental reasons," he'd like, he said, to own the old Quaker church for sentimental reasons."

"Used to hold services there, didn't he?"

"Said so. Not since my time, though he had the Rockville congregation."

"Victor stopped me with a gesture. 'I know. We want to get going with the rest of the crew. We can investigate the minister and his prison record later. Think you could remember most of that letter? Where was it postmarked? Notice the date?'"

Three questions. The postmark had been Boston. The date was blurred, but I'd found it in the letterbox the day before the auction, which was, as he knew, July 3. "Good heavens! Was it only yesterday?"

Victor nodded, prompting: "So the letter came in the regular mail, July 2? Who has come to the inn since then?"

"Nobody but you," I said. "Roddy came at suppertime that night."

"H'm-m-m," Victor considered, his strong white hands patting noisily together. "Quite a coincidence. You get the wherewithal to buy the church from an unknown. Roddy Lane arrives. There's rumor he's hidden bank funds somewhere on the Head. Lane disappears, though his car is still here. An old recluse is burned to death, who may have discovered Lane's secret horde, or seen him uncovering it."

"But—but you're forgetting the diamond ring!" I cried. "Roddy'd never leave that. Mr. Quincy noticed it that night and said it was a very valuable stone, remember?"

"Judy, before you do anything else, let down the letter. I'll go along out now. You might tear out the page of signatures in your inn register. Copy that, couldn't you? Maybe the writing of one of them would give you a clue."

I began to shake. "You think one of our guests did it—a double murder?"

"Don't go jumping to conclusions like that. We've only one corpus delicti. There may be another in the sea. If ever we get into communication with the mainland, we may find out."

"If we had some mush we'd have some mush and milk if we had some milk."

"Exactly. Meanwhile, whether Lane killed Brown and swam the gut, or vice versa; or whether one of the inn crowd did them both in and is still with us, the fact remains your letter is probably connected with it. The police will tear the church to pieces. Dig up the basement. Blast the cliff. You get that letter down, and suppose—"

He checked himself, staring at me in a frowning way that made me wonder where I'd failed until he said:

"The rest of that money. Five hundred? Judy, he may want it back. That keep-the-change stuff might not go for so large a sum."

(My very thought.) "Have you a safe here?"

I laughed at the idea. "We're poor," I reminded him. "Taking boarders!"

"Well, don't keep it on your person. Were they new bills? In sequence?"

"In sequence? The numbers? I didn't think to look at them very closely. They weren't new. Old, I'd say. Not in order as you might get them from a bank."

"They wouldn't be. Whoever sent them is far too clever. Put them back in your drawer. Might be a good idea to tell everybody about the letter you received, its loss, and that whoever took it would find the cash in the same place. I don't want you to go away by yourself after this. Keep with somebody you can trust all the time—like your aunt or your uncle."

It was then I confessed Aunt Nella was really no relative of mine, nor her husband, either.

I could trust him, Victor said, and the way he glanced at me made me blush till I was afraid he'd see it. I reached for the register to hide my confusion, and opened it at the blotter.

"Mr. Quade, look! All the signatures have been torn out!"

We examined the torn ledger, hunting fruitlessly in the waste-basket.

Victor's eyes gleamed. "That's where he made a boner. Did—did Lane register that night?"

"No, I put his name down, though—see, back here. He was only a meal. 'One supper—75 cents.' There it is."

"And I suppose everybody's been in here to telephone."

"Uh-huh. Even you—when you found the wires were cut."

He inquired then when I'd missed the letter, and I had to admit I'd only just discovered it wasn't there when I went up to get it to show to him. I hadn't looked at it since I hid it under the paper lining in my bureau drawer.

Somebody wasn't taking any chances of having his or her signature compared with the letter-writing. Maybe he was afraid of not disguising some peculiarity enough.

Experts can tell every time. But now there's only the contents, as you remember them, to go by."

"Then how did he make a boner?"

"Just this: If Old Man Brown came in there he'd have been seen by one of the guests. Mr. Quincy is usually on the piazza. That Kendall woman is ubiquitous. No, Brown didn't get in. I doubt if Lane did. His handwriting wasn't there, you say. But somebody's was. Somebody who was sparring for time till he found and destroyed the letter he'd sent you."

Heim and Julia Heim, his wife, all of the Township of Washtenaw, County of Washtenaw, State of Michigan, to The Kemps Commercial and Savings Bank, a corporation organized under the banking laws of the State of Michigan, located at Chelsea, Michigan, dated December 31, 1935, and recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds for Washtenaw County, Michigan, on January 3, 1936, in book 114 of mortgages, on page 250, at 11 o'clock A. M.

Whereas, Emma N. McLaren survived D. C. McLaren, and by virtue of her survivorship became the owner and lawful holder of the aforesaid mortgage, and upon the demise of Emma N. McLaren, also known as Emma Newkirk McLaren, said mortgage was duly assigned by an order assigning residue in the estate of Emma N. McLaren, also known as Emma Newkirk McLaren, deceased, by the Probate Court, Washtenaw County, Michigan, in accordance with the will of decedent, to Wirt S. McLaren. Said order assigning residue dated March 25, 1939, was recorded in the office of Register of Deeds, Washtenaw County, Michigan, on May 11, 1939, in book 320 of deeds, on page 51, at 9:30 o'clock A. M.

Whereas said mortgage was duly assigned by Wirt S. McLaren, of Jackson County, Michigan, to John L. Fletcher, guardian for Vincent Arthur Markel, a minor, of the Village of Chelsea, Washtenaw County, Michigan, by assignment of mortgage, dated November 16, 1937, and recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds for Washtenaw County, Michigan, on May 3, 1940, in book 26 of assignments on page 330, at 8:50 o'clock A. M.

Whereas John L. Fletcher, guardian of Vincent Arthur Markel, a minor, executed a release in part of one part of the mortgage premises described in said mortgage to Ida Selick dated January 15, 1943, and recorded in the office of Register of Deeds, Washtenaw County, Michigan, on January 15, 1943, in book 82 of Mortgage Releases, on page 502.

And whereas by the terms of said mortgage it is provided that in case default be made in the payment of any installment of principal, or of interest, taxes, assessments, or insurance, or any part thereof on any day, then the same shall be made payable, and should the same remain due and unpaid for the space of thirty days, then the principal sum of said mortgage together with all interest, taxes, assessments, and insurance paid shall at the option of the mortgagee be his assignee, become and be due and payable forthwith, and default being made in the payment of the interest, principal, and taxes provided in said mortgage, which default has continued for more than thirty days, said assignee of the mortgage doth hereby exercise his option to declare the principal sum of said mortgage and all arrearsages of interest and taxes due and payable.

And whereas, the amount claimed to be due on said mortgage at the date of default is the sum of $2000.00 principal and interest of $617.67 to date, and the further sum of $35.00 as an attorney fee, stipulated for in said mortgage, and the whole amount claimed to be unpaid on said mortgage is the sum of $2652.67, and no suit or proceedings having been instituted at law to recover the debt now remaining secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof, whereby the power of sale contained in said mortgage has become operative.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given that by virtue of the said power of sale, and in pursuance of the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the remaining premises therein described, and not heretofore released, at public auction, to the highest bidder at the south door of the Court House in the City of Ann Arbor, in the County of Washtenaw, State of Michigan, that being the place of holding the Circuit Court for said County, on the 24th day of May, A. THE HI-LIGHT

The starting lineup for the Seniors: Forwards, M. Lyons, W. Schweinfurth, E. Lehman; guards, H. Grabowski, J. May and M. Feldkamp.

"Miss Jimmy"

Theatre-goers will have an opportunity to change their regular diet of amusements from the usual movies to a real flesh and blood play on Friday, March 26, when the Senior class presents under the capable direction of Mr. Chandler the three-act comedy, "Miss Jimmy", at the high school gym at 8:00 o'clock.

The action of the play begins when Jimmy (Tom Lyons) is forced by his fraternity brothers to enter the girls' dormitory in search of a girl's dress to wear in an initiation stunt. At the same time the girls are finding it difficult to get dates for their big dance of the year with anyone but their brothers, cousins and uncles and when they capture Jimmy they decide to make his fraternity brothers escort them to the prom by holding Jimmy for ransom. Do you want to know how they keep the Dean from finding him? Come and find out!

Surely you can't miss seeing Droopy, the colored janitor, who moves about as fast as a snail that is not in a hurry. The only thing that interests him is his chicken farm which hatches full grown chickens by night.

You can purchase your tickets from any Senior or you may get them at the door. Don't forget March 26.

Attendance

A new attendance contest is being conducted for this six weeks marking period. The aim of this contest is to cut down on the tardiness and absence of the students. The class with the lowest percentage of absence and tardiness will be rewarded with a prize.

Chorus

Because of a change in the basketball schedule the Chorus had to cancel their All-Hi party scheduled for March 26. The Senior play will be given on that date instead. Our party will be held the first part of April and more details will be given next week.

Defeat Pinckney

(By Bob Daniels and C. Colquhoun)

The Chelsea Junior basketball team defeated Pinckney in the final game of the year. Throughout the season the boys have gone undefeated, traveling to Dexter, Manchester and Pinckney.

This week Pinckney played a return game. Our boys played much better ball than was played last week. Knickerbocker, although not up to his standard of 10 or 12 points, was playing very good ball. Colquhoun was high point man with 12 points. Jimmy Miller has played good ball although not getting much credit, he has been one of the most valuable players we have had.

The line-up was as follows: Knickerbocker, 6 points, Miller, 0 points, at guard; Colquhoun at center, with 12 points; forwards were Munro, 4 pts., Elsiele substituting for Daniels at forward, 2 pts., Holbrook and Vogel, substitutes, with 4 and 2 points.

HI-Y News

Last Thursday at the Hi-Y meeting social relationships between boys and girls were discussed.

It was decided that the completion of the Hi-Y club room should be postponed until next year.

A cabinet meeting was planned and that meeting was the following day. In that cabinet meeting plans for future meetings were discussed. The cabinet members also decided to have one of the local doctors at one of the meetings for discussion with the boys.

In our meeting Thursday we elected new officers: Doria Gilson, president; Helen Jarvis, vice-president; Joyce Hughes, secretary; Gerald Fausner, treasurer; and assistant treasurer, Helen Wellhoff.

Patty Smith moved away to Grass Lake.

Our boys played the seventh grade boys in basketball. The score was 6-4 in favor of the seventh grade.

Joyce Crawford took a trip up north. She visited her cousin who is in the Marines.

Our history lessons this year have been about the Middle Ages. So we decided to build the model of a Feudal Castle and Serf's Village. Now that they are done, we would like to have our parents, and other people who would like to come, see it.

Every six weeks we elect new class officers. The following people were elected Thursdays:

Merilyn Johnson, president; Bill Ennerman, vice-pres.; Geraldine Hale, secretary; Phyllis Stoll, treasurer.

Nancy White and Peggy Schabitz both had birthdays recently and each gave us a little party.

In History Miss Brown has just finished reading Robin Hood Stories to us. Jean McClure brought some Robin Hood records for us to hear. Now we are going to study about the Crusades.

We had a male cocropia moth come out of a cocoon this week.

Our defense stamp sale for the past week was $7.95.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish in this way to express our sincere gratitude to our friends, neighbors and relatives for their many acts of kindness and expressions of sympathy during our sad bereavement; especially Rev. Grabowski for his comforting words, and Mrs. Osterle for the songs.

Chris. Koch and family.
