April Bond Purchases Reach Total of $350,000

When the Federal Government set thirteen billion dollars as the nation's quota for War Bond purchases in April, even the most optimistic wondered whether this could be done. People were thinking of the income taxes just paid and also of the unprecedented total of billions purchased last December.

Of this thirteen billion, Chelsea's quota was set at $235,000. Knowing what was expected of them, the people of Chelsea got right down to business and when the month was over and the totals compiled, it was found that Chelsea had purchased $350,000 worth of bonds, or $115,000 more than their quota.

The people of Chelsea deserve the full credit for this wonderful showing, and they can be very proud of the results.

There is always a certain amount of organization needed in making such a canvass, and it is fitting to list the persons directly responsible for making the contacts. These persons worked hard and that they deserve and have the thanks of the community is evidenced by their reports that complete and willing cooperation was found in every contact. This helped a great deal to make their work so effective.

The following composed the canvassing committee:

Miss Ella Grumback, Mrs. W. R. Daniels, Mrs. Ben Hutz, Miss Margaret Heschelwerdt, Mrs. P. Olin, Mrs. June McKelvie, Mrs. A. A. Palmer, Miss Martha E. Yost, Dr. A. L. Brock, John Fletcher, Walter Harper, Lewis Haselwerdt, Lloyd Heydlauff, Dudley Holmes, John Keusch, Alfred Mayer, F. W. Merkel, Russell McLaughlin, M. W. McClure, James Park, Paul Schable, J. N. Strieter, H. D. Witherell.

Thank you, Chelsea!

Victory Gardeners Are Requested To Register

An intensive drive has been started to register every Victory Garden in Michigan. In addition, many will want to also enroll in the State garden contest and compete for one of the many valuable prizes offered. Registration cards, garden bulletins, and other materials may be obtained at Merkel Bros. Hardware or from any boy or girl in school.

Each area in the State will be assigned its quota of gardens. Farm gardens, as well as those in towns and cities, should be registered. Food supplies for the nation and the rest of the world can be produced only when there is an accurate knowledge of plans being made. The work of carrying on the Victory Garden movement in this area is entirely voluntary and is being done as a patriotic duty. Please do your part by registering your garden promptly.

Softball League Will Consist of Four Teams

A softball league is assured for Chelsea this year as the result of a meeting held at the Tower Cafe on Monday night. At least four teams will be entered in the league, with games to start about May 17. It was decided to use the 14-inch ball, with loft pitch, so that older men can be included in the team line-ups. In fact, it was stated that men between the ages of 15 and 81 are eligible. Teams so far entered in the league include Chelsea Spring, Federal Screw, Central Fibre and Cassidy Lake.

Another meeting will be held at the Tower Cafe next Monday night at 7:30 and anyone interested in playing is invited to attend. Definite plans for a schedule will be made at that time.

GIVE BANDAGES TO VILLAGE

At their meeting on Monday night the village council was presented an emergency first aid kit by the Chelsea Study club. The kit contains about 1000 sterilized bandages. The council has turned the kit over to the Chelsea Council of Defense and they will keep it in the local control center. The village council and defense council are grateful to the Study club for this gift which may prove to be very useful in event of an emergency due to an air raid or other calamity.

Forty-Minute Blackout Test To Take Place Here Friday Night

First Signal Will Be Sounded At 9:43, With The
All-Clear Sounding At 10:25; Seven Counties
Will Take Part In Testing New System

Michigan's new air raid warning signals which became effective on May 1 will be given their first trial in this community on Friday night of this week when a forty-minute blackout period will be observed in seven counties in Southeastern Michigan, including Washtenaw, Wayne, Oakland, St. Clair, Macomb, Monroe and Genesee.

According to an order issued by Donald Leonard, State Director of Civilian Defense, the blackout is to start at 9:43 on Friday night, when the "Blue" signal will be given. This warning will be a two-minute steady blast of the siren, which is a signal for mobilization of all civilian defense forces and the extinguishing of all lights and illuminations outside or visible from the outside of buildings, whether through doors, windows, skylights or otherwise. Lights inside buildings may be kept on only if shielded in a manner that no light is visible from the outside. Street lights

DON'T FORGET!

During Friday's Blackout—

When the siren sounds at 9:43 on Friday night turn off all lights in your home and do not turn them on until 10:25 when the all-clear signal is sounded. This also applies to all lights inside or outside of buildings (with the exception of war industries).

If you are driving your car turn your lights on low beam at the sound of the first signal and proceed at a slow rate of speed.

When the fluctuating signal is sounded at 10:00 o'clock stop your car at the side of the street or highway and extinguish all lights.

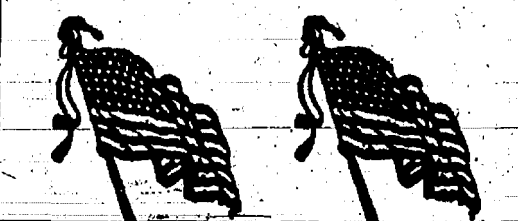

When the blue signal sounds at 10:13 you may proceed with your car in the same manner as when the first warning was sounded.

At 10:25 the all-clear signal sounds and the test is over.

NOTICE

Members of Civilian Defense

All local air raid wardens, auxiliary police and auxiliary firemen are requested to meet at the public school at 8:30 on Friday night for final instructions on their duties during the test, blackout later that night.

Streamlining of Michigan's public educational system, whereby 6,300 legally organized school districts would be sharply reduced in number, is to be recommended to the 1944 session of the Michigan legislature by a state public education study commission of which Dr. Eugene B. Elliott is chairman.

This interesting fact is found in a "statement of policy" made public this week by the commission, which was appointed last September by Governor Murray D. Van Wagoner. Three new members were appointed by Governor Harry P. Kelly in January and February.

In March, the legislature increased school aid from $44,500,000 to $50,000,000, an all-time peak. On April 6, Dr. Elliott was re-elected for his fifth term as state superintendent of public instruction.

The educational picture, as Governor Van Wagoner saw it last September, is portrayed in a frank declaration of the need, purpose and scope of a study commission. Here are some expressive highlights:

"There is much waste, unsound business practices, questionable group pressures, and far too much sentimental attachment to the outmoded and inefficient small-district school system."

"We have created a condition which requires action on these long overdue reforms."

"Good teachers are fundamental to a good educational system. Yet today Michigan faces a shortage of 2,000 teachers, because low teacher salaries cannot compete with private opportunities. Especially in rural areas, teachers never have been paid on a scale attractive enough to secure rural pupils equal educational opportunities with urban children."

"The state pays nearly half of the cost of public education in Michigan. It is indefensible, then, for the state to take no interest in good education for all children. . . . We have over 6,000 school districts in Michigan. Some of them have as few as two pupils. Supervisory officials in many districts outnumber the entire teaching staff and school population."

"Some 1,500 districts have 15 pupils or less. Certain villages have two districts, each with its own high school, its dual teaching and building and supervisory and maintenance and fuel budgets—and all within walking distance of each other."

The governor's statement goes on to recite how school bus routes overlap, how districts compete for the state subsidies that come with outside pupils, and how . . .

ing huge amounts in debt service for buildings they could not afford.

The commission's initial report, just made public, contains a recommendation that Michigan's present system of 6,300 separate districts should be modernized into "school communities" by the legislature in 1944.

Here is a sample excerpt: "It is impossible to provide for equality of educational opportunity in Michigan under the existing district system, designed for the frontier and a pioneer economy. The majority of the 6,300 legally organized school districts are incapable of providing a complete instructional program for the children under their jurisdiction, even in times of great prosperity, except at an expense so large as to be practically prohibitive."

The report points out the need for "instructional specialization," which requires employment of highly skilled teachers and which in turn, calls for large classes of pupils. Laboratories and shops are prohibitive in cost, unless there is a sufficiently large number of students to use them efficiently.

Michigan's network of 6,300 school districts, of which 1,400 have less than 10 pupils, is founded on a territorial law in 1827 whereby township schools were authorized and the voters were permitted to divide the township district into small school districts. Three trustees were to govern each school district.

The legislative council of the territory, of which Detroit was the capital, used the Massachusetts school law of 1789 as a pattern for the district system.

In 1836 the Congress of the United States provided that every sixteen-section of public land in a township would be reserved for public schools. From sale of such lands, the State of Michigan started a primary school fund. As this fund was not sufficient to maintain free schools, the legislature then authorized districts to levy a general property tax.

Today, the State pays approximately one-half of the cost of public education which is estimated, approximately at $100,000,000 a year.

Members of the study commission include persons who are prominently identified with rural interests in Michigan: W. C. Armstrong of the State Grange, and Clark C. Brody of the Michigan Farm Bureau. It includes such educators as Dr. Elliott, state superintendent of public instruction; Dr. Arthur B. Moehman, University of Michigan, and Dr. John F. Thaden, Michigan State college.

Members of the legislature include John P. Esapie, Eagle; Rep. Edson V. Root, Paw Paw, and Rep. Jos. E. Nagel, Detroit, members of the house education committee; and Senators Harold Saur, Kent City; Stanley Nowak, Detroit; and James T. Milliken, Traverse City.

Other members: Edward R. Butler, Detroit board of education; Arthur Elder, executive secretary, Michigan Federation of Teachers; John R. Francis, Sanilac county school superintendent; Frank Marquart, CIO education director, Detroit; Chester F. Miller, Saginaw school superintendent; Stephen S. Nisbet, president, Michigan Education association; and Mrs. J. C. Parker, president, Michigan Parent-Teachers association.

24 Years Ago

Thursday, May 1, 1919

The sixth annual conference of the older boys of Washtenaw county was held here last Friday and Saturday under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. Sessions were held in the high school auditorium. Officers were elected and Glenn Brooks, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Brooks, was chosen president. A new law is under consideration that would require every person who drives an automobile in Michigan to procure a license. Under this Act no person under 16 can be given a license. The price of the license will be 50c and will be good as long as the licensee has a clean record.

Geo. Walworth, who has been overseas for several months, arrived at Camp Hill, Va., Sunday.

Those from Chelsea who took the teachers' examinations at Ann Arbor last Thursday and Friday were Mrs. E. R. Dancer, Misses Emma Lewick, Jessie Clark, Flora Schanz and Marian Schmidt. School commissioner Essery predicts that there will be a big shortage of qualified teachers for the coming year.

Geo. Haefner, who has been with the A. E. F. in France, arrived in Boston Monday, according to a telegram received by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Haefner.

Paul Niehaus, who is employed on the night shift at the Chelsea Roller Mills, accidentally stepped on a spike last Friday night. The spike was driven nearly through his right foot, and when he lifted his foot the piece of plank in which the spike had been driven cleaved to his foot and it required considerable effort to remove it.

34 Years Ago

Thursday, May 6, 1909

Charles Kellogg, a life long resident of Sylvan, died at his home April 24, 1909, at the age of 69 years, 6 months. Interment was at Maple Grove cemetery, Sylvan Center.

At the school election the proposition to bond for $50,000 for the purpose of remodeling the school house was lost. The board have called another election to vote on a proposition to bond for $35,000 for the same purpose. The consensus of opinion is that $20,000 would be enough to spend for repairing and remodeling the old building.

Joseph Liebeck had a barn raising Saturday, May 2. Nearly enough snow for sleighing fell Saturday night and Sunday morning.

Miss Addie Orthing and Ernest Fitzmaurice were married at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. Orthing, Wednesday, April 28, with Rev. G. Eisen officiating. No doubt Mr. and Mrs. Fitzmaurice will long remember their wedding day, as many of the guests had to remain all night on account of the snow storm. Mail carrier Foster made his first trip around the route with his automobile Wednesday.

Our Neighbors

DEXTER—Decoration Day in Dexter this year will be featured by the unveiling of the Dexter Roll of Honor that will bear the names of more than 140 Dexter men who have gone into the armed services of the country. The roll of honor will be constructed of wood. The names will be inscribed by Carl Swickerath of Chelsea.—Leader.

NORTHVILLE—An announcement made by the pastor of the Baptist church at the Easter service revealed that the Board of Trustees had invested in $3000 worth of war bonds for the Baptist church. The investment was made from a fund bequeathed to the church by the will of the late Daniel Rodgers, and was made to insure future freedom of worship.—Record.

HOLLY—Mr. and Mrs. James Chesnut celebrated their 67th wedding anniversary last Tuesday. They were married in Springfield on April 27, 1876. Mr. Chesnut is 90 years old, born December 6, 1852. Mrs. Chesnut is 87, born August 19, 1855. Theirs is certainly a most unusual record of wedded life. We believe this is the only couple in Oakland county who have been married that long.—Herald.

BRIGHTON—The storm of late Tuesday afternoon, which brought to Brighton and vicinity a welcome spring rain, assumed tornadic proportions in the vicinity of Howell, destroying several barns and silos, bringing down electric and telephone wires and keeping highway and public utilities men busy repairing damages until far into the night. Roads in the vicinity of the storm area were rendered impassable due to fallen trees and tangled wires, a tree obstructing traffic on US-16. It is reported that a live wire fell across a car, rendering its occupants helpless to proceed until help came.—Argus.

STOCKBRIDGE—Teachers, pupils, directors and the public intend to show Fred E. Searl, county school commissioner, that his 55 years of tireless service to Ingham county schools are appreciated. On Friday night, May 7, from 8:30 to 10:30, there will be a reception honoring the long service of the commissioner, a sort of an informal farewell to mark the close of 32 years as school commissioner and many years as a successful teacher of district and graded schools. On July 1, Mr. Searl will retire as commissioner. He will be succeeded by Alton J. Stroud of Stockbridge, elected commissioner without opposition on April 5. Mr. Searl was not a candidate at the nominating convention. He asked to be permitted to retire.—Brief-Sun.

"Quite a stack of newspapers I left you yesterday, Judge. Aren't you in the newspaper business, are you?"

"No, I just enjoy reading different papers, so my nephew George sends them to me whenever he takes a business trip. I got a big kick out of some he sent me from several counties where they still have prohibition. Particularly from some headlines that read 'Drunk Driving Arrests Rise'."

"Bootleggers must post Ceiling Prices," "Federal Agents seize 'Trick' Liquor Truck," "Doesn't that go to prove, Joe, that prohibition does not prohibit?"

"I watched conditions pretty carefully during our 13 years of prohibition in this country. The only thing I could see we got out of it was bootleg liquor instead of legal liquor, plus the worst crime and corruption this country has ever known."

Michigan Sets Record In Yields of Salvage

Michigan leads the nation in the salvage of any state in household waste collections, according to a report submitted by Kenneth M. Burns, chairman of the State Salvage Committee, to Capt. Donald S. Leonard, Director of Civilian Defense.

Since the report was compiled, however, state collections have shown a sharp decline and a new appeal has been issued for this vital war material.

Michigan salvage committees collected 1,751 tons of tin cans in March, with Wayne county contributing 1,609 tons. Outstate counties showed increases ranging from 50 to 200 per cent.

Preliminary figures for March show household waste collections of more than 412,000 pounds, compared with 408,889 pounds in February and 289,185 pounds in January. The February total was 50.6 per cent of the state quota of 806,500 pounds a month. This percentage was the best in the nation.

Michigan was fourth among the states in the total of discarded silk and nylon stockings contributed between Nov. 16 and March 15. Collections for that period in the state were 83,277 pounds. Pennsylvania was first, New York second and California third.

Michigan also won high rank in the collection of scrap iron and steel. During the last six months of 1942, Michigan collected 1,044,849 tons of scrap, 54.9 per cent of its quota of 1,901,000 tons; the third best record among the states having quotas of more than 1,000,000 tons for the period.

"V" for Hush

Placing the first and second fingers in a "V" shape and pressing them against the lips is suggested by Capt. Donald S. Leonard, Director of Civilian Defense, as a possible polite way of silencing loose war talkers without making an argument.

With growing concern being expressed over the amount of important military information reaching enemy hands, Capt. Leonard said some device was being sought "to let citizens warn others that they are being overheard without subjecting them to criticism for busybody interference."

Many bits of gossip which the enemy pieces into complete patterns of information are being picked up in taverns, Capt. Leonard said, with service men or their relatives and war production workers exchanging too much conversation, harmless as it may seem, about their activities or the nature of their work.

The Young Mothers' Child Study Club will entertain the Grass Lake Child Study Club next Tuesday evening, May 11, at 8 o'clock in the auditorium of the Chelsea high school. A party by five members of the local club, entitled "Mrs. Knows' Busy Day," several dance numbers by pupils of Mr. Payne's dancing class; and several selections by the chorus of the high school, under the direction of Mr. Ross Laudenslager, will be the program for entertaining the group from Grass Lake.

Gas for Victory Gardeners

Victory gardeners planning to cultivate plots away from their homes will be eligible for extra rations of gasoline this summer, if they can show need for extra mileage, the OPA has announced. Mileage rationing regulations are amended to provide up to 300 miles for six months for Victory Gardeners, if the car owner: (1) Is regularly cultivating a tract of vegetables of 1500 square feet or more; (2) Cannot get to his garden any other way and shows his labor is necessary to it; (3) Arranges, if possible, to share his car with other gardeners.

War Expenditures—1918 and 1943

In 1918, American war expenditures were only 18 1/2 billion dollars—in 1943 they will exceed 100 billion dollars. These figures show sharply the difference in cost between the last war and this one. There were four Liberty and one Victory Loan drives in the last war, with a total goal of less than 10 billion dollars; but to finance the present war, the people of the United States must raise about 70 billion dollars before the end of this year. In that war, our task was chiefly to fortify a line of trenches in France—in this war, we must equip and supply our armies on all the far-flung battle-fields of the world.

Change in Tire Ration

Effective May 1, passenger car drivers with mileage rations exceeding 240 monthly are eligible for any grade of new tire when their present casings are not recappable. Formerly, Grade I casings were reserved principally for drivers with mileage rations over 560 monthly.

Job Records of H. S. Students

To help high school students find their proper place in the army (or in war industry), each one will soon be asked to make a card record of his school and job history. These "educational experience summary record" cards will contain such information as a student's academic standing and achievement, vocational and pre-induction preparation, wage earning experience, aptitudes, significant hobbies and Social Security number.

More Mileage for Workers

Seven hundred twenty miles a month will be allowed hereafter for in-course-of-work driving outside the eastern shortage area instead of the 470 miles previously allowed. This does not change the mileage allowed for driving between home and work. A car owner formerly eligible for a "B" ration book only may qualify for additional gasoline if he (1) shows he needs it for course-of-work travel; (2) meets regular car-sharing requirements; (3) shows he is not already allowed as much as 720 miles a month.

Fuel Oil Ration

Householders in the 33 fuel oil rationed states and the District of Columbia will receive their next season's ration coupons for heating oil through the mails. Approximately one-third of next season's coupons may be used beginning July 1 so tanks may be filled during the summer season. Rations for smaller homes may be increased.

New Ceilings on Beef and Lamb

Retail ceiling prices for beef and lamb will be reduced one to three cents a pound below the ceilings originally scheduled to take effect April 15. The new prices become effective May 17 and will be uniform throughout the country for stores of the same type.

"I Am An American"

"I Am An American Day" will be celebrated throughout the nation on Sunday, May 16, in honor of new citizens. Arrangements for celebrations are in the hands of local communities.

Many Valuable Prizes In Gardening Contests

With hundreds of Chelsea families having decided to raise Victory Gardens to assure themselves a plentiful supply of fresh and canned vegetables, emphasis will now be placed on encouraging registration in the State and Washtenaw county gardening contests, according to Marshall Richards, chairman of the Chelsea Victory Garden committee.

Ten classifications of gardens offer an opportunity for all to compete for the many valuable State prizes, it is explained by Paul R. Krone, Chief of the Victory Garden Section of the Michigan Office of Civilian Defense. He stressed that amateurs need not be timorous about signing up, for their gardens will have just as good a chance as the next fellow's providing they give them proper care and attention.

"Deciding to have a garden is one thing," Krone said. "Taking care of the garden after the enthusiasm of having started it has worn off is another—and it's the hardest part. But the contests should furnish this incentive, for there's a great satisfaction in having won an award for producing from the soil. Sponsors of these contests would not have undertaken them were it not for their belief that the garden program is a truly necessary project and a patriotic one, too."

"The registration of gardens also will help to indicate the success of the program throughout the State."

The State contest is sponsored by the Michigan Horticultural Society in cooperation with all other horticultural organizations, newspapers, the State Department of Agriculture and the Office of Civilian Defense.

The best urban garden in the State will receive a $500 war bond and the best farm vegetable garden a $250 bond. A number of other prizes in bonds and war stamps are also offered, including awards for school, junior class and 4-H club member gardens and even for a trailer camp garden. There also are awards for second and third places and for runners-up.

Don't Kill Rabbits If They Raid Gardens

Lansing—Victory gardeners whose tender crops are raided by rabbits and pheasants are advised by state conservation department officials to consult the local conservation officers about their troubles, as there is no general relaxation of the law protecting game animals, even in wartime.

Local officers may advise preventive remedies, recommend live traps, or, in exceptional cases, grant shooting permits. But unless the conservation officer has first been consulted, the gardener will do well to confine his counter-offensive to moles, field mice and similar small pests.

The conservation department's game division is issuing to interested gardeners a brief pamphlet on control of animal pests that includes plans for a rabbit box trap. Experiments are being made, also, to determine which of three methods best limits corn pulling by pheasants—treating the seed with a preparation known to be distasteful to crows, scattering ear corn along borders of newly planted fields, or sowing corn so thickly around the field edges the birds will find enough to eat without invading the field proper.

Mother'll Understand

If you don't call her on Long Distance this Sunday

Mothers are understanding and patriotic. They know that under the steadily increasing burden of war-created calls, long distance telephone equipment is seriously overloaded.

Of course, they like to be remembered on Mother's Day, but they'd rather be sure the lines are kept clear for vital war messages.

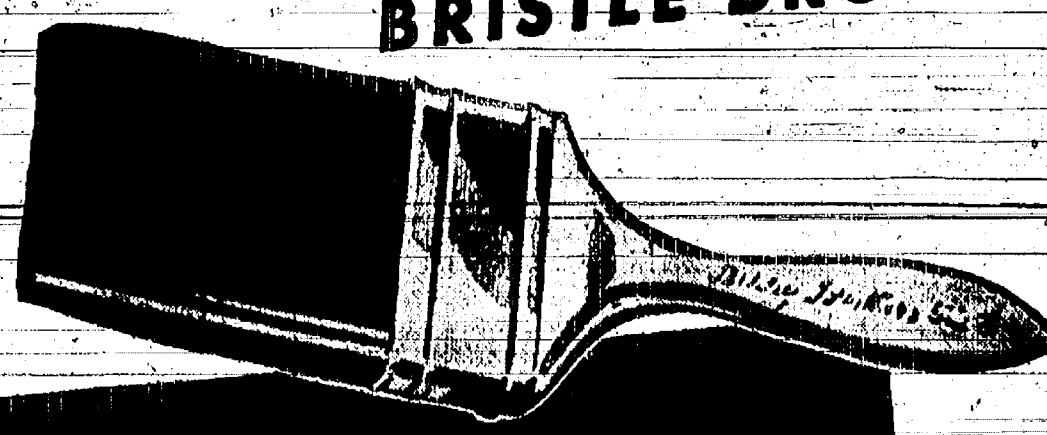

This year, send your love in a letter. And if you'd like to give your mother a present, she will truly appreciate a U. S. War Bond—a gift of fighting dollars to back our boys overseas.

Don't make any long distance call this Mother's Day unless it is extremely urgent.

Hog Pasture Supplies Protein Supplement

War puts increased emphasis on pasture for pigs, since protein feeds have become scarce. Pasture can supply about half of the needs of pigs for protein supplement feed with corn or wheat and even more than half the supplement needed with barley or oats. The pasture also furnishes vitamins and some minerals besides keeping the pigs out under more healthful growing conditions, especially for growing out breeding stock.

About the best pasture for pigs is alfalfa. It continues to grow during the dry season, is relished by the pigs, and will produce more pounds of pork per acre than any other pasture in an average year, says V. A. Freeman, Michigan State College animal husbandry professor. If rainfall is well distributed, red clover is almost as good. Mixed pastures, including any legume, are somewhat superior to the grasses although the grasses and even wheat or rye pasture are very satisfactory during the period when there is rapid growth of the leaves. Any single pasture or combination of crops that will furnish a continuous fresh growth, relished by the pigs, will be especially valuable this year.

The principal disadvantage of alfalfa or clover is that they must be seeded one year or more previous to the time they are to be pastured. Some of the crops that may still be seeded to pasture this year would be a mixture of oats, rape and sweet clover, seeded as soon as the ground is ready to work; Dwarf Essex rape, sown about the rate of five pounds per acre, about corn-planting time; Sudan grass, sown about the same time; or soy beans. The combination of oats, rape and sweet clover will give perhaps the longest pasture season, starting somewhat earlier than rape will thrive alone. The Dwarf Essex rape will produce almost as much pork per acre as the clover or alfalfa, but has the disadvantage that it makes white pigs susceptible to sunburn. Sudan grass has a large carrying capacity for a few months during the dry season of the summer and is especially good for supplementing blue-grass or timothy pastures. Soy beans produce the largest amount of pork per acre if allowed to mature to the point where there are some beans in the pods when the pigs are turned in. This makes them a late summer and fall pasture.

If one plans to hog down corn, it is worthwhile to seed some soy beans with the corn or along the side of the field, or else sow some rape seed in the corn at the last cultivation. A clover or alfalfa field adjoining the corn will serve the same purpose, but heavy market hogs will not travel far for their pasture.

M. H. McGaffigan, Sr. of Detroit spent from Saturday until Tuesday with Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Palmer and other friends here.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

The Navy is making a plea to civilians to turn in their binoculars for military use during the war. The Army and Navy both need binoculars for navigation and scouting purposes. Depending on the power of the lenses, they cost from $50 to $80 each.

If you have a set of 6 x 30 up to 7 x 50-power lenses binoculars loan them to the Army or Navy. If not, your purchase of War Bonds and Stamps will help buy this equipment for our fighting forces. At least ten percent of your income in War Bonds every payday will do the job... and provide the "eyes" through which a scouting pilot may spot an enemy battleship.

Spraying Equipment Needs Spring Tune-up

Modern spraying rigs are one of the more expensive farm machines. They are used only a short time each year, standing idle the rest of the time. Chemicals in the spray material act on the metal parts, causing rust and corrosion, asserts A. J. Bell, Michigan State College specialist in agricultural engineering.

At this time of year it is good economy to give a machine needed attention so it will be ready to operate efficiently during the spraying season. Bell suggests owners should examine the valves, plungers, gears, bearings, strainer, chains and all other wearing parts, replacing all worn or broken parts.

Generally speaking nearly all spray or trouble results in either loss of pressure or in a drop in pressure. When there is no pressure there may be a leak in the suction line, a clogged filter, cracked pump or intake pipe, worn valves, air lock in valves or plungers dry.

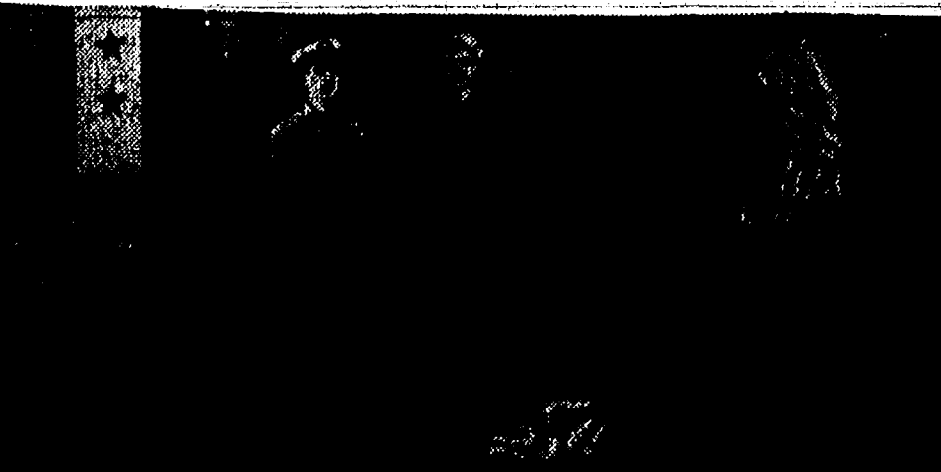

When the pressure comes up and then drops when the nozzles are opened, look at the overflow back into the tank. If this flow continues, the trouble is between the pump and the discharge nozzle. Either there is dirt under the regulator valve, the top valve is worn, the regulator stem is set too high or the boom and nozzles are plugged.

If there is little or no overflow back to the pump the trouble is usually between the tank and the pressure regulator. The exception would be holes too large in the discharge nozzle. If the holes in the disks are correct, look for a leaking release valve on overflow pipe, clogged suction line, clogged filter, worn plunger packing, worn valves or engine not running up to speed.

Instruction books are furnished with each sprayer. Time and money can be saved, according to Bell, by reading them and making adjustments accordingly.

PORTRAIT OF MOTHER

By ANNE CAMPBELL

Her voice has lost the melody
Of youth. It quavers and is weak,
But when her sons come home from sea,
How firmly she will speak!

Her eyes are dim, but when her boys
Come marching home, they will be done,
With many long remembered joys,
For gladness she will weep.

Her hair is white, but in the sun,
Like a bright halo it will shine,
When to her arms tired children run,
Restoring home's design.

Her step is slow, but when her fall
Boys lift the latch, with eager pace
She will run down the spacious hall,
A light upon her face!

She carried a shower bouquet of white carnations and blue Chinese iris. ## W. S. C. S. MEETS

A group of members and friends of the W. S. C. S. of the Methodist church met in the church parlors last Thursday afternoon to hear Mrs. Faye Wolfe, of Albion, relate her experiences as a missionary in Latin America. Her talk was principally about Mexico and its progress in protestantism. In referring to how much the individual can do to further Latin-American relations, it is interesting to note (quote) As Dwight W. Morrow, Ambassador to Mexico, so deeply felt, "Mexico and the United States, South America and North America, each needs the other to be to it an honest friend. They can in mutual friendship each aid the other in being true to the best elements in its heritage. If this service is to be rendered it will in large part be the service of individuals." (unquote)

In the business session which preceded the talk, the meeting was called to order by Mrs. Chas. Cameron. After devotions and committee reports, Mrs. Philip Allen explained the work of the local church activities and the progress made toward the annual church fair to be held in the fall. All the ladies of the church are asked to share in this work. Each month a different article is made, these articles to be turned in to the circle chairman or to the society. The last two projects have been towels and aprons. The next will be anything that could be used in a kitchen. Let's make this year's fair the best we've ever had. Committee.

The schedule for the graduation activities is as follows: Junior-Senior Reception, May 28; Baccalaureate, June 6; Class Night, June 9; Commencement, June 10.

ABSENTEEISM

For the past school year the Principal has put much stress on not being absent from school. In his opinion no one should be given an excused absence slip unless he is absent for sickness. Many rules have been made regarding absenteeism at school. For example, all pupils wanting to be excused from school for work must make up their work before leaving.

I believe this is a good idea for from things I have read and heard I understand the shops and factories are having much trouble with absenteeism. Many persons who work in factories are there only for the money and not because they feel they should be doing their part towards winning this war. They work until they have a little money and then take a day off to shop or have a good time.

I believe that if these people would have learned in school to regard absenteeism as being serious, the shops and factories would not have the troubles they are having now.

REPORT CARDS

Report cards were given to the students last Wednesday after school. Some were anxious to receive them and then others weren't so glad to get them.

If a student comes home with a low mark the parent usually asks "Why such low marks?" The student will probably reply "I just can't understand that subject" and no more is said about it. Low marks go together with too much tardiness and being absent from school. On those days there might be an important test or discussion and then the student never gets around to make his work up.

You parents have noticed by now those numbers by the marks on the report card and what they mean. The student is marked according to his attitude, conduct and application of his work in his classes and study halls.

In this last six weeks let's try and do away with all absences and tardiness and bring up all of our marks!

After playing an interesting and musically concert last Tuesday night to a large group of band parents, the band is now making ready to meet the almost staggering number of engagements until the end of the year.

The next appearance will be on Wednesday night's F. F. A. program at the high school. The band will furnish excellent entertainment in addition to the main program. The Trumpet Quartette will perform at a Kiwanis dinner in honor of National Music Week on Monday night, May 10 at the Tower Cafe.

Gutter spouts will sag and that is what causes rust. The water collects and stands in these low places. A cheap and effective way to prevent this is to pour hot pitch from the high point of the gutter until the low spots are leveled off with this rust preventive coating.

Getting the Most from your Victory Garden

HOW TO SOW VEGETABLE SEEDS
 "Knowing the proper depths and distances for sowing seeds is a wonderful help in giving a Victory Garden the right start," says Dexter M. Ferry of the Ferry-Morse Seed Co.

Too deep planting is worse than too shallow planting, Mr. Ferry warns. In general, depth of planting should be only about four times the diameter of the seed. This means one to two inches for large seeds such as beans, peas, sweet corn, and squash. Seeds of the size of best should be covered about half an inch. Small seeds such as lettuce, carrot, and turnip should be planted no deeper than a quarter of an inch.

"This year especially when Uncle Sam frowns on waste of any kind," Mr. Ferry goes on to explain, "it is smart to make a packet of seed go as far as possible. If seeds are sown too thickly, some of the young plants will probably have to be pulled up to give the rest a fair chance to grow. If sown too thinly, there may be gaps in the row, and the yield will be disappointing. Knowing the proper distances to plant will help to avoid either extreme."

"Large seeds, when planted in rows, should be spaced three to four inches apart in the row. Sweet corn and squash, when planted in hills should have six or eight seeds to a hill, the hills being spaced three to four feet apart."

"It is sometimes difficult to sow thin seeds thinly enough so that the plants don't come up either as thick as the proverbial 'hair on a dog's back,' or unevenly in bunches. One simple plan by which even children can plant small seeds properly is to mix the seeds with a quantity of dry sand or fine soil. Measure out three or four times as much sand as seeds and do a thorough job of mixing. Then, plant from the hand, letting seed and sand fall together into the shallow garden trench which has previously been made to receive them."

John L. Fletcher, guardian of Vincent Arthur Merkel, a minor, executed a release in part of one parcel of the mortgaged premises described in said mortgage to Ida Selbeck dated January 15, 1943, and recorded in the office of Register of Deeds, Washtenaw County, Michigan, on January 15, 1943, in Liber 32 of Mortgage Releases, page 502.

MURDER at PIRATE'S HEAD

By ISABEL WAITT

CHAPTER XIII

Even Bessie Norcross regained enough energy to tag along with poor Thaddeus Quincy rolling himself down the bumpy path, last of all. Aunt Nella was the only one who stayed on the job at the inn.

I could see Victor passing the steps of the Church as I came along—side of the gruesome body in the charred place where the fish house had been. He wasn't going to the basement then. Now, he was making for the ledge above Pirate's Mouth. I could see him throwing himself at full length. Two others lay down beside him. They got up and the rest of them lay down. What had they found? What had they found?

I came up to where Potter and the minister and Hugh were still lying on the ground, as Victor turned and saw me.

"So you've seen it? She knew it was there. She thinks you put it there!"

"What, in heaven's name?" The others came scrambling to their feet. "Say that again, Judy," Hugh said. "You mean Miss Kendall thought Quade put something down there?"

Gosh, he was mad. Hugh pulled me away and stood back himself, as if he expected Victor to push one of us over the cliff. I saw I had pulled another boner—and against Victor Quade, the one person I trusted!

He smiled faintly. "Let's have it, Judy. Say just what you did before. She knew it was there? What?"

"I don't know. Something—something she thought you knew was there—but for reasons of your own, perfectly good reasons, of course, kept still about it. Was I making it worse?"

"I guess this pretty near clears things up, doesn't it, folks?" Hugh said again. Then catching sight of his sister, "Bessie, go back to the house. No woman is safe outside it."

"You mean she—"

"I went over to the rock and lay down and got a look at what I can never forget to my dying day. Poor Lily Kendall lay sprawled in the far cleft of the Pirate's Mouth. Even I, who have heretofore seen practically no death at close range, knew she was gone. Her eyes stared sightlessly at the deep blue sky. Her body, too large to slide through the hideous rocky maw, had stuck grotesquely. But the horrible thing—I A wave of nausea crept over me as I realized that the scarf around Lily's milk-white neck was blue!"

Above me—I could hear Hugh's voice grow strident, accusing Victor. Others chimed in. Victor himself dragged me to my feet.

"Go back, dear. Go with Bessie. We've got to get past you." He turned around and cried, "Here, Norcross, make yourself useful. Take these two girls back to the inn and keep 'em there."

"And give you a chance to destroy some evidence! I guess not. You tied that scarf around her throat and you know it."

"What scarf?" Bessie's haunted eyes sought mine.

I shook my head. "It's blue. A sort of French blue."

Bessie turned and ran. She didn't stop even when Mr. Quincy poked at her with his cane, as she passed his oncoming chair.

The men were already making their way into the Pirate's Mouth, all of them, except the minister, who kept mumbling beside me: "God have mercy on us! God have mercy on us!"

Victor, Uncle Wylie, Hugh and Potter were all on that narrow shelf. I lay down on the rock and watched. The nausea had gone, but I returned a moment later when Mr. Quincy's wheels hit my feet.

"What the hell's going on down there?" he demanded, thumping the rock. "It must have been terrible for him not to be able to get out and see for himself, but there wasn't a thing for him to cling to, but the clergyman, shaking like jelly."

"It's Miss Kendall. She fell over!" De Witt's voice no longer boomed. It fairly trembled.

"Judy, get up!" commanded Mr. Quincy. "Get up this minute!" Automatically I got to my feet, catching at his chair and nearly rolling us both over the boulder.

"Keep by me, child," Quincy said, shaking his head at De Witt. "Don't get near the edge again—with anybody." He'd whispered the last two words, but the minister wasn't paying any attention.

I saw him hold down a hand, and presently Uncle Wylie's head appeared. Hugh came next, then Potter and Quade, the last without his coat.

The questions Thaddeus Quincy hurled at those silent men! "Did she fall? How did it happen? Speak, man, can't you?"

the world—a place where one could commune alone with nature in all her beauty, secure in the sheltered rocky shelf, provided one was careful, with the wild Atlantic sending up its feathery white spume-crested waves in muted rhythm. But now—oh, poor, kind Lily Kendall! What had she done to deserve such a fate? Forevermore I shall shudder with horror at the very mention of the Pirate's Mouth.

Let the others answer questions. Victor walked with me. "Now, we've got to do something. Break in the Lane boat house, I'd suggest."

"There's an idea," Potter quaked. Uncle Wylie, for all his lean years, kept well ahead of everybody. He was hurrying to find a second suitable covering for the body, but he paused to call over his shoulder: "Judy, better come along with me. This ain't no fitten comp'ny for a young girl."

"He's right," Hugh dropped back a step and shouted, "I'll stay with her, Mr. Gerry!" Then he noticed Bessie wasn't with us. "Where's my sister?" he cried, his face full of terror.

"Keep your shirt on," Quincy answered. "Got too thick for her. She took it on the lam back to the inn."

Hugh grabbed me by the arm and held me back while the others went on. I didn't like it. I wanted to hear everything, and also, I'm not ashamed to confess, to keep with the crowd. If Lily Kendall could be killed for nothing by this—this maniac, how much more might he wish to get rid of me, who'd seen his handwriting, still had five hundred of his dollars and the diamond ring, for all he knew. I began to puzzle about Lily's death—her suspicions of Victor Quade. He did have the ring. He had told me to put the money back in the drawer. He was, after all, a stranger. And now the title on his typewriter came flashing across my anguished brain—Murder on the Bluff! Was that just a coincidence? Or was he, really a killer, so daring that he even herded his crimes?

All the while Hugh was talking to me, while the men went in a body across to the Castle drive. Hugh and I kept on behind them, and once I quickened my pace to catch up.

"Judy, you don't think that scarf being tied around her throat means that I strangled the poor woman. You know me better than that, don't you?"

"I'll stay with her, Mr. Gerry."

"You? I couldn't bear it if—I suspected that—"

"He found difficulty in going on; his face was in torment. 'I swear that scarf—the spot on my sister's coat—the fact that my golf club was found—'

The men had broken into the boat house easily enough, via the pane De Witt had smashed with Hugh's club that night on the lawn. All they had to do was reach in and unlock the garage window. But once inside the connecting door was quickly thrown open to reveal two rowboats and a canoe—all with worse holes in them than Uncle Wylie's!

"Well, gentlemen, does this tell you anything?" Victor asked the lot of us as we gazed, horrified, at the holes in the boats and canoe.

"Looks like there's a crazy man hidden around here somewhere," De Witt said, picking up a doorstop. "I think we ought to arm ourselves and continue our search."

"You mean—the Castle, too?" Potter's head twisted nervously. Then he began hunting around for a weapon, finally tugging at an oar. A paint brush suited him better.

Some of them picked up rocks from outside. The minister opened a vicious-looking jackknife. I didn't feel too badly when Victor asked if Mr. Quincy and I would watch the exits. There were only the driveway and the sea ahead, but what should we do if a madman came leaping at us?

"You needn't fear," Victor said, divining my thoughts, as he so often had, during this mutual experience of murder. "I'm sure we'll find no one."

"Queer how you should be sure," Hugh lunged at him. "I'm not forgetting you knew where to find that poor woman."

"Better not say too much, Norcross," Victor's teeth gleamed in a half smile. Why, they might have been exchanging pleasantries! "Wasn't my scarf around her neck. Did your sister ever find that blue one of yours?"

"Damn you, Quade! Leave my sister out of this. Do you think she strangled the Kendall woman?"

"I think nothing. I'm only telling you to keep quiet—better for you in the end, the less you say."

"Why damn your dirty insinuation!" Victor came out of the boat house and entered the garage. I wheeled Mr. Quincy close to the door, beside where Hugh stood scowling and sullen, but he forgot his anger as the men examined Roddy Lane's car.

"Not a drop of gas in her!" De Witt discovered.

"Bet Lane had some when he drove in. Knew there wasn't a filling station this side of Rockville," Potter added.

"Remember how the fire burned last night?" Victor asked. "No wonder we heard the combustion. But that wouldn't account for the bridge."

"You think the killer drained the tank and threw the gasoline on the fish house?"

"Not on the fish house," De Witt. "On the body inside."

Uncle Wylie stuck his head in the door. He had a piece of sailcloth under his arm. "Mrs. Gerry says to tell you lunch is ready," he said.

Nobody moved. "Well, I've told you, so it ain't my fault if everything's cold. This do for down yonder?"

Victor nodded, and my uncle started off.

"Here, wait! Don't go alone, Uncle Wylie!" I shouted.

"He'll be O. K., Judy. Go with him if you wish," Mr. Quincy said, holding up his cane. "I've got this."

"Will he be all right—alone, Mr. Quade?"

"I don't see why not. Just left there, didn't we? He'll be a lot safer than we will." To see the glance Victor gave our crew made me shake in my boots.

They emerged from the garage and closed the door behind them. The Lane stables, perhaps I ought to have explained, were fairly new, having been built on the site of the old barn, the boat house and garage adjoining forming a rambling three-in-one structure which considerably annoyed Aunt Nella, as it hid part of the picturesque stone castle from the inn.

I began wheeling Mr. Quincy slowly up and down the drive, one eye on my Uncle Wylie approaching the perilous Pirate's Mouth, the other on the castle doors.

Quincy talked a blue streak, his tired old eyes searching the seascape.

"Don't see why somebody doesn't turn up," he said, pointing his cane toward town.

"We're off the beaten path."

"But tourists—holiday well-bent over; no attractions that bring the mob, like Nantasket and Revere. Bathing's no good here, either. Rockville's the place. Got a fair beach along there. Ours," I indicated the tiny strip from the foot of the bluff to the woods back of our old barn, "too rocky—even with bathing shoes."

"Suppose lots of folks are sleeping off after the wild night before the Fourth. Never saw such a quiet place."

"Don't make me laugh! Did you say quiet, sir? Perhaps it's because so few people know there is a Pirate's Head. No houses on the Neck. Natives never come here except to sell milk and truck."

There wasn't a sign from the Castle, save occasionally a form at a window, which we decided was one of our party. Uncle Wylie disappeared from sight, and I closed my eyes and silently said a little prayer for him. In no time I saw him climbing back again, coming toward us.

I turned the wheelchair down the drive to meet him.

"Your Aunt Nella's gonna be hop-pin' mad," he grinned. He rested a moment to learn what the men were doing. His kind old face sobered as he scratched his grizzled head, a gesture he indulged when upset.

"What you think, Mr. Quincy?" he asked. "Who is this Quade fellow, anyhow, Judy?"

We both tried to answer. "I think Roddy Lane did it," Mr. Quincy said. "And blew the bridge up after him."

"No, you don't. He couldn't have strangled poor Lily," I said. Uncle Wylie looked at me in surprise. "Who said she was strangled? Hit on the head, she was. That scarf didn't do no damage."

I clutched at him. "Are you sure?"

"Sartin, I'm sure. He lit his pipe, offering tobacco to Mr. Quincy, who never smoked. 'Bump on her head big as an egg."

"Then maybe Norcross didn't do it."

"Norcross? Nope. That sister of his wouldn't leave him be long enough."

Somehow I felt a load lifted. I didn't want to think Bessie's brother guilty of all those hideous things. "His club," Quincy reminded us. "Gerry, how come there's no boats on the cove coming over here, no picnicers?"

Uncle Wylie looked longingly at the Castle. I knew he was dying to join the search, but with a sigh he set his feet toward home. "Nothing doing here on the Fourth. Never is. Fireworks at Rockville tonight, though. Promised to take my wife. Better leave this business to the others and trail along, hadn't you, Judy?"

I knew I should go with him. What was I being paid for? But curiously it more compelling than clam-chowder. Besides, there came one of our guests. It was Albion Potter. He seemed relieved and said so.

Four Types of Alaskans

The native Alaskans can be divided roughly into four groups: the Indians of southeastern Alaska, the Indians of the interior, the Aleuts and the Eskimos.

The Eskimos of the southeast inhabit all of that section except Annette Island and the south end of Prince of Wales Island. The Indians of the interior—the Athapascans—live on the south coast and in the interior from Cook Inlet on the west to the Canadian border on the east and north to the watersheds of the Yukon and the Arctic ocean.

The Aleuts, who live principally on the Aleutian Islands, are related to the Eskimos but distinguished from them by language and customs.

State's 4-H'ers Work On Peacetime Projects

Despite a heavy schedule of work to help increase production of foods and conserve vital materials to meet wartime needs, 4-H club boys and girls in Michigan and throughout the nation are determined to improve their home surroundings with natural beauty for the duration and for the peace to follow.

Their well-laid plans of beautifying home grounds include planting trees, shrubs, and flowers, removing unsightly old buildings, repairing fences, repainting houses and barns, and placing wind breaks to prevent soil erosion.

The rural youth will enter their records of achievements in the 1943 National 4-H Home Grounds Beautification activity to compete for awards provided by Mrs. Charles R. Walgreen, Chicago horticultural enthusiast. These recognitions of outstanding accomplishments are based upon county, state, and national levels, and include medals, gold watches, and all-expense trips to the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago, respectively.

This activity will be conducted, along with other 4-H wartime projects of production and conservation, by the Extension Service of State Agricultural Colleges and the U. S. Department of Agriculture cooperating. Full details are obtainable from county extension agents.
