First Book Published

GLENDON SWARTHOUT

Of interest to residents of Chelsea and vicinity is the announcement by the Thomas Y. Crowell Company, 432 Fourth Avenue, New York, that the first novel by Glendon Swarthout goes on sale in bookstores across the country this week. The novel is entitled "Willow Run".

Readers of The Standard will recall Mr. Swarthout as this paper's correspondent in the Caribbean and South America in the winter and spring of 1941-42. A native of Lowell, the author has lived in Ann Arbor the past few months, working in the gigantic Ford Bomber Plant and gathering material for a book about the men and women who worked beside him.

"Willow Run" is the first story of the American war worker to come out of the present war. Unusual in mood and setting, the novel packs a terrific wallop as it recreates a night in the lives of the men and women workers we all know, a night in "Willow Run".

Activities for Seniors Start With Reception

Chelsea high school seniors are planning a bigger and better Reception for the Seniors in spite of the wartime restrictions. They have contracted "Duke" Wallington's orchestra. There will be a banquet, followed by the dance, on May 28.

The Seniors are busy preparing for their trip, which will begin on June 3. They are scheduled to leave Detroit on this date, and will pass through the "Soo Locks", go to Mackinac Island, and arrive back in Detroit on June 6.

On the evening of June 8 the Baccalaureate services will be held at the Methodist church. Rev. P. H. Grabowski will give the Baccalaureate address.

The annual Class Night will be held on June 9. The usual awards and honors will be presented at this time.

Commencement exercises will take place on June 10. Every Senior is looking forward to this biggest night of his high school career. Rev. Marshall Reed of Detroit will give the address of the evening.

SPENDS FURLOUGH HERE

Lieut. Richard Hoelzer, recently of Rhyolite, Ark. has been spending a 10-day furlough at the home of his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Eder. On Wednesday evening Mrs. Eder entertained his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Hoelzer, of Clinton, and Miss Mary May at a dinner in his honor. Lieut. Hoelzer has been transferred to Washington state, leaving for his new duties on Monday.

Local Blackout Test Was Very Successful

Chelsea's test-blackout with the use of Michigan's new air raid warning signals was very successful last Friday night, with only a few violations being reported by air raid wardens.

Some confusion was caused by a statement Friday evening in a daily paper circulating in this area, that lights in the living quarters of homes could remain on during the "blue" period from 9:43 until 10 o'clock and could be turned on at 10:13 when the second "blue" signal sounded.

This misinformation caused a few arguments but for the most part local residents complied with the instructions issued by Donald S. Leonard, Director of the Civilian Defense Corps of Michigan, as published in The Standard last Thursday. These instructions state specifically that "all lights and illuminations outside or visible from the outside of any building, whether through doors, windows, skylights or otherwise, shall be put out and kept out during this (blue) period. Lights inside any building may be kept on or turned on ONLY where shielded through the use of shades, blinds, curtains, paper, blankets, screens, cardboard, or otherwise, so that no light is visible from the outside."

There may be a surprise test of these signals at any time, so keep in mind that when a "blue" warning is sounded turn off all your house lights if they show from the outside and leave them off until the all-clear sounds. According to present regulations, street lights and traffic lights remain on during the "blue" period and are turned off only during the "red" period, which starts with a three-minute fluctuating sounding of the siren. The "blue" signal is a two-minute steady blast, and the all-clear is a one-minute steady blast followed by two minutes of silence, another one-minute blast, two minutes of silence, and a final one-minute blast.

Called To The Colors

Vincent Edward (Jerry) Dorer, who enlisted in the Naval Reserves, reported for duty on Friday morning, Jerry, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. August Dorer, was born in Jackson on Aug. 14, 1920, but with the exception of one year he has made his home in Chelsea. He graduated from Chelsea high school in 1938 and the past two years was employed at the Federal Screw Works.

Others from this vicinity leaving Ann Arbor on Friday to report for Army service were Jimmie Salyer and Kendel Brown.

Quarantine In Effect But Dogs Still Roam

Although a dog quarantine is now in effect in Washtenaw county, there appears to be little inclination on the part of dog-owners to confine their dogs, and according to all reports no effort is being made to enforce the quarantine. A. W. Wilkinson reports that on Monday there was a procession of 15 dogs in one group which crossed his property—large dogs, small dogs, and medium-size dogs—and on Tuesday he sighted eight more. (We believe this story of Archie's we have also observed some pretty friendly gatherings of dogs recently.)

This village has always been blessed with a multitude of dogs which belong to people who don't think enough of them to give the animals any care, and they roam the streets and over private gardens and flower beds, tipping over garbage pails and otherwise making a nuisance of themselves. It is hoped that for once a quarantine will be enforced and that dogs will be tied or otherwise confined, or "liquidated" by enforcement officers.

LIMA TWP. LAND USE MEETING
There will be a Land Use Planning meeting at Lima Center Grange hall on Monday evening, May 17 for the purpose of planning the use of land in Lima township. It is hoped that a large attendance can be had to approve or disapprove the action of the Lima township committee.

FOOD SALE

All kinds of food, in addition to baked goods, will be on sale at Chelsea Hardware on Friday, May 14 at 3 o'clock. W. S. C. S. of the Methodist church are sponsors.

Mr. and Mrs. Warren Eisenbeiser are the parents of a daughter, born on Monday, May 10 at Foote hospital, Jackson.

Heavy Rainfall Floods Many Basements Here

Heavy rainfall Monday night and Tuesday morning caused more damage in Chelsea than has been experienced by water in many years. Although it had been raining almost constantly since Sunday, the bottom really dropped out of the clouds late Monday night and this torrential rainfall continued well into the forenoon on Tuesday until it abated somewhat, with a constant drizzle the rest of the day.

The result was that scores of home basements were flooded, as well as in a number of business places and factory buildings, and roofs leaked that had never leaked before. Water in basements ranged from a few inches in depth to five feet, according to reports, with considerable damage to heating plants and other basement equipment.

Most of the water came into basements when storm sewers were unable to carry the surplus water and it backed up. However, as the rainfall subsided the basement water disappeared, leaving plenty of work for the "clean-up squad."

Many farmers who have been unable to sow their oats state that with this additional rainfall it is doubtful if they will get any of this crop planted because of the lateness of the season. Oats which is up will no doubt be badly damaged by the continued wet weather and flooded condition of the land.

Canning Demonstration Will Be Held Tuesday

"Can those foods you are growing and eat well next winter" is what every patriotic homemaker is doing this year. To assist the person who has never canned and to help those who have canned to can wisely, a canning demonstration is being announced for Chelsea.

All people experienced or inexperienced in canning are invited to attend a food-preservation demonstration on Tuesday, May 18, at 2:00 p. m. in the Homemaking room of the Chelsea high school. A specialist from Michigan State College will be in charge of the demonstration.

Actual methods of canning fruits and vegetables will be shown. Other helps in methods of drying, storing, freezing and brining are also included in this complete review of the best methods of meeting the food needs of a family. A bulletin with full directions for canning both with the boiling water bath and by the use of the pressure cooker is to be available under the title of "Wartime Canning". This meeting is open to all.

Red Cross Makes Plea For Surgical Dressings

The Red Cross throughout the country is begging for women to make surgical dressings. The hospitals of the Army and Navy are running short and the Red Cross is millions of dressings behind schedule.

Both units of the Red Cross making surgical dressings in Chelsea are in great need of patriotic women who will give two hours of their time weekly to their country. These units have a few women who turn out to do this work just as faithfully as the women who are being paid for their war work. Won't you join one of these groups and do some work badly needed by your country for your men wounded in the war?

Both units meet Monday nights at seven—the Federal Screw Works group in the Agriculture Room, the American Legion Auxiliary group in the Homemaking Room at the high school.

NAMED AUX. POLICE CHIEF

Lyle Hurd of Ann Arbor has been named chief of Washtenaw county auxiliary police, Sheriff John L. Osborn, commander of the County Defense Corps, announced this week. He replaces Fred Sott, who resigned because of the urgency of his other duties as undersheriff. Under Chief Hurd's direction are the 550 auxiliary police who are assigned to the villages and rural areas of the county. Mr. Hurd expressed himself as pleased with the contribution made by his men to the success of last Friday night's blackout.

By Gene Allemen

Michigan will be in an enviable financial position by the end of 1944 to meet its post-war problems—soldiers' and sailors' bonus, state institutional building, welfare aid and other responsibilities—probably without recourse to a bond issue or new taxes.

Such is the belief of D. Hale Brake, Michigan's new state treasurer.

And since Brake thinks conservatively as a matter of long legal training, his conviction is encouraging news for taxpayers.

We interviewed the state treasurer a few days ago. He gave us the following picture:

"The voters of Michigan, back in 1921, approved a soldiers' bonus bond issue of $20,000,000, and a state highway bond issue of $50,000,000," said Mr. Brake.

"A sinking fund was created by the legislature to provide funds for retirement of bonds as they came due and to meet the interest annually. The bonus bonds imposed a load on the state's general fund of one to five million dollars annually. For the 1921-22 year the sinking fund was allocated $2,456,000. Varying amounts were deposited each year until the last payment of $1,750,000 was made last fall. All bonus bonds have been retired."

"The state highway bond issue, also authorized in 1921, has been liquidated through payments from gasoline taxes. This has averaged about $3,000,000 a year. The last of these bonds will be paid off by November, 1944, leaving the State of Michigan entirely free of bonded indebtedness. "But that isn't all."

As Treasurer Brake delved into the bookkeeping entanglements whereby millions of dollars have been set aside annually to retire the last post-war indebtedness of $80,000,000, two of his sons—Donald J., age six, and John R., age eleven ran into the office and started to interrupt their father.

Mr. Brake, schooled in discipline as president pro tempore of the State Senate and a prosecuting attorney of Montcalm county, told the lads to wait. They slid upon a davenport and promptly started to wrestle.

Brake continued: "Not only will the State of Michigan be out of bonded indebtedness for the first time in more than two decades, but it will have a post-war fund of $50,000,000 ready to meet the state's post-war problems."

"We have already allocated $20,000,000 to the special post-war fund which the state legislature established this spring, following the recommendation of Governor Kelly. When the state administrative board meets soon, another allocation of money from the state's surplus will undoubtedly be authorized. The fund will be increased to $50,000,000."

authorized. The fund will be increased to $50,000,000."

"Stating that this post-war fund was perhaps one of the most important accomplishments of 1943, Treasurer Brake paused to pay tribute to the legislature in which he served four terms."

"The state legislature is entitled to credit which they may not have received. Take 132 men from all parts of Michigan; gather them together for 90 days, have them subjected to pressure groups, and—at the same time—have a fat state surplus in the treasury available for appropriations—and you'll see what I mean. The legislature did mighty well."

Michigan's new state treasurer brings to office a mind which has been trained to handle detailed work with great persistency and with acknowledged competency. For six years he was chairman of the senate judiciary committee. He worked hard, tirelessly, conscientiously.

He won oratorical medals at Fremont high school from which he was graduated in 1911. He was a member of the Albion college debating team for three successive years and was editor of the college paper during his senior year. After graduation, he became principal of a township high school at Greenland in Ontonagon county. Three years later he took his bride with him to the University of Michigan where he studied law. Brake is proud of the fact that his entire education, from the tenth grade on through law school, was financed entirely by his own savings.

Because of his success as judiciary chairman, Brake was singled out by many observers as potential timber for attorney general. In 1940 the Republican nomination went to Herbert J. Rushton, successful attorney at Escanaba, largely because of geographical considerations. (Rushton did not seek the nomination). Last summer Brake was an unsuccessful candidate for lieutenant governor. In the Republican state convention he was nominated for state treasurer.

Brake is no extrovert in personality. He is not a natural mixer. He has a shy reserve that is often mistaken for coldness. But he warms up with a genuine smile. His friends are staunch in praise of his Dickinson-like traits of abstinence, from alcohol and tobacco and his pride of owning a 486-acre cattle farm near Stanton, his home town. He was born on a New-ago-county farm.

And now for his accomplishments since Jan. 1:

"We have adopted a policy of not selling bonds below par except at public sale, thoroughly advertised in advance and with a right to reject any bids. Before purchasing any bonds other than federal, we require a legal opinion."

"When I came into office, I found $4,600,000 of state bonds in the vaults. The state was paying interest to itself. These bonds have been cancelled. The savings in insurance premiums was $3,800,000."

"We discontinued a custom whereby a few legislators and employees got cash loans from the treasury—I, O. L.'s, you might call them."

"When the auditor general and state superintendent of public instruction make their monthly audit, they do so without giving us advance notice. And for the first time in the entire country, we have one multiple insurance policy in which 21 companies are co-insurers and re-insurers. Premiums are payable annually at fixed amounts."

Treasurer Brake is as proud of his office staff as he is of his family or his farm. Frank Kronschof, deputy, was a "career man" in the banking department. Mildred Bappert, secretary, was formerly with Auditor General Vernon J. Brown—recommendation enough for her ability. Mary Stimson, chief securities clerk, is an office institution.

As he concluded the interview, the youngest of Brake's two sons in the office approached his father's desk.

Donald, age six, had listened to the talk about millions with obvious boredom.

"Dad," he asked, "may I have six cents?"

Brake smiled indulgently. "I guess you would call that reckless living. There is a candy counter downstairs, you know."

Val, the eldest son, is on duty with the army military police near Baltimore. Mr. Brake's wife, the former Marjorie Valentine of Albion, maintains the family home at Stanton to which Brake returns for week-ends.

The state treasurer of Michigan is about as typical an American as you will find anywhere. You can't get worried about democracy going to ruin as long as there are Hale Brakes available to help apply the brakes.

Don't Be a Land Pilot

By Ruth Taylor

One thing we know—the calls for more arms, more food, more bandages, more bonds—are the signs of pending offensive action on the part of the Allies. Such action will be costly, we know—costly in men, munitions and money—but wars are never won by defensive measures. We have to take the offensive and strike hard, fast and ruthlessly.

The fighting is up to the armed forces and to those who direct them, but there is one thing we can all do to help—stop hating those in authority who have the responsibility and the burden of making decisions and determining strategy. The enemy should be the only opponent about whom they should have to worry. Whether we agree or not with their decisions is unimportant. In a democracy and under a republican form of government it is up to both minority and majority to give loyal service both of lip and arm to those whom the people themselves have selected to lead them.

The success of the North African venture was largely due to the fact that it came as a surprise to the enemy. Its advantages or disadvantages were not hashed out in the press or over the air by self-styled experts. That is not the way wars can be fought and WON. Now is not the occasion for either land pilots or survival-chair generals. We have commanders trained and equipped to make the necessary decisions—so let's leave the job to them.

Two thousand, one hundred and seven years ago, Lucius Aemilius Paulus, a Roman general, stated the case in words which are just as applicable today:

"In every circle, and truly at every table, there are people who lead armies into Macedonia; who know where the camp ought to be placed, what posts ought to be occupied by troops; when and through what pass that territory should be entered; where magazines should be formed; how provisions should be conveyed by land and sea; and when it is proper to engage the enemy, when to lie quiet."

"What is my opinion? That commanders should be counselled, chiefly, by persons of known talent; by those who have made the art of war their particular study, and whose knowledge is derived from experience; from those who are present at the scene of action, who see the country, who see the enemy; who see the advantages that occasions offer, and who, like people embarked in the same ship, are sharers of the danger."

"If, therefore, anyone thinks himself qualified to give advice respecting the war which I am to conduct, which may prove advantageous to the public, let him not refuse his assistance to the state, but let him come with me into Macedonia. He shall be furnished with a ship, a horse, a tent; even his travelling charges shall be defrayed."

"But if he thinks this too much trouble, and prefers the repose of a city-life to the toils of war, let him not, on land, assume the office of a pilot. The city, in itself, furnishes abundance of topics for conversation; let it confine its passion for talking within its own precincts, and rest assured that we shall pay no attention to any councils but such as shall be framed within our camp."

The marriage of Miss Lydia A. Weithoff, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Weithoff, and Walter D. Henne of Ann Arbor took place at St. Paul's parsonage on May 5, with Rev. A. A. Schoen officiating. Mrs. Henne is well known, having been an efficient employee of the Freeman store for several years.

Both Senators Townsend and Newberry are said to favor the daylight saving plan now in operation and are ready to oppose any attempt to repeal it in the next session of Congress.

Roy Harris is having his residence on McKinley street remodeled. The lower half of the building will be finished with pebble dash and the upper part covered with asbestos shingles.

The council has authorized the E. L. & W. Works Commission to have water meters installed for every water meter in the village. It is hoped by this means to conserve the supply of water. It will not be used all summer to keep the butter and milk cool, the hose will not lay hidden in the garden and the water running all night, and some of the streets will not be as muddy as heretofore.

hot water

Everyone realizes that frequent baths help to keep one healthy and feeling tip-top.

In the present emergency however it is important to remember not to prolong the shower or use more hot water than necessary, because the natural gas used in heating water is also vitally needed in the manufacture of war materials.

The Government urges every household to use gas wisely. Here are ways to economize on the use of gas:

1. Repair leaky faucets.
2. Insulate hot water tanks and pipes.
3. Do not keep hot water running while washing hands or washing dishes.

Insurance for Soldiers

All soldiers can get financial protection through the National Service Life Insurance program, if they act before midnight of August 10, the War Department has announced. Maximum policy is $10,000. The payments will be made to beneficiaries only in monthly installments.

Tobacco Can Be Sent To Prisoners

U. S. war prisoners and civilian internees held by Germany and Italy can receive cigarettes, cigars, smoking tobacco, or chewing tobacco sent by relatives and friends under a program worked out by several Government agencies and the American Red Cross. The plan will be extended to include persons held by Japan when facilities are available for routing the products to them. Under the program, the next-of-kin of each identified United States war prisoner and civilian internee will receive (without taking for it) two tobacco labels every six days. These are to be forwarded, with a money order, to a tobacco manufacturer, who will send the tobacco. No postage or Federal excise tax need be paid. Each label is good for three cartons of cigarettes, or twelve packages of one carton of two-ounce packages of smoking tobacco, 100 cigars, or approximately 24 ounces of chewing tobacco. Smaller amounts or mixed packages cannot be ordered.

Maximum Prices On Poultry

Poultry raisers who sell live birds at their farms must observe the maximum prices OPA has set for the nearest city, town, or village. Ceiling prices for 56 representative cities were recently issued. For broilers, fryers, roasters, and light capons the prices range from 27.5 cents per pound for Chicago, to 29.5 cents per pound for Miami, Florida.

Coal Supply Is Low

Stocks of bituminous coal are not large enough to tide the nation over a prolonged suspension of mining.

solid fuels administrator Harold L. Ickes said recently, as he urged all users to conserve coal. Regarding the nation's "insecure fuel position," administrator Ickes said, "it is essential that every consumer conserve every pound of coal possible so that the maximum amount of coal will be available in the event the coal emergency continues."

Help Stop Thefts and Forgeries

To safeguard dependents and others who regularly receive Government checks the following procedure is urged by the U. S. Secret Service to help stop thieves and forgers—(1) some member of the family should always be at home when checks are due to be delivered; (2) all mail boxes should be equipped with a lock and the individual's name should be printed clearly on the outside of the box; (3) checks should be cashed in the same place each month, making identification easier; (4) checks should not be endorsed until you are in the presence of the person who is to cash it.

Soldiers Get Lots of Mail

United States soldiers overseas receive over 20,000,000 pieces of mail a week, or an average of fourteen pieces per soldier. This is four times as much as the A. E. F. got at the peak of the world war. Twenty per cent of the mail sent overseas is V-mail.

Sewage Facilities for Homes

Home owners can now obtain sewage facilities by having their municipal authority write a letter to WPB. The letter must certify that the work is properly authorized; that it will require less than $1,500 for underground, and less than $500 for above-ground construction. The letter itself constitutes an authorization to connect sewage facilities.

AAA COMMITTEEMAN SPEAKS

At a meeting at the public school last Thursday night, sponsored by the local Farmers' Guild, Floyd B. Hines, State AAA committeeman, spoke of the general organization of the AAA from the national on down through to the township committee, and on how parity prices had been reached, and even above parity on certain commodities, such as livestock, especially cows sold for beef at present. He also spoke on the soil conservation phase of the AAA. After the conclusion of Mr. Hines' talk many questions were asked.

Harry Atchinson of Salem, State president of the Michigan Farmers' Guild, also was present and gave a short talk and raised the question of whether the present war was not more responsible for the present prosperity than the AAA.

The question was also raised that during the time of the AAA with its soil conservation program it may have improved the condition of the soil but the buildings, fences and farm machinery had deteriorated severely. It was plainly demonstrated that those present did not favor the AAA too much.

'Old Woollen Bonnet'

Like so many other French-Canadian towns, La Tuque in Quebec province receives its name from a picturesque landscape feature—wear by. This is a great rock shaped like an old woollen bonnet (or tuque) of the type worn by habitant trappers and farmers.

DEATHS

Russell T. Wheelock

Russell T. Wheelock, lifelong resident of Washtenaw county, died Wednesday, May 5 at Washtenaw hospital, after a long illness.

The son of John and Mary Wheelock, he was born July 18, 1859 in Dexter township and in early life was engaged in farming, from which he retired in 1921. His wife, formerly Ora Belle Perry, died in 1911.

He is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Edmund Miller of Chelsea; two sons, Warren Wheelock of Wayne, and George of Ypsilanti; a sister, Mrs. Mary Spencer of De Motte, Ind., and six grandchildren.

Funeral services were held at 2:00 o'clock on Saturday afternoon at the Miller funeral home. Rev. Bert Ede officiated and burial was in Oak Grove cemetery.

Mrs. Fred Grover

Mrs. Fred Grover, 91, died Thursday, May 6, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. T. Kent Walworth, at 176 Orchard St.

Formerly Jennie M. Templeton, she was born June 8, 1851 in Ayr, Scotland, the daughter of David and Margaret Templeton.

In 1858 she came to this country with her parents and older brother, William, settling in the vicinity of Otisville, Mich. She taught school in Wayne and Macomb counties from 1867 until 1890, when she was married to Dr. Fred Grover. They made their home in Fraser until his death in 1924, and she had since resided with her daughter, Mrs. Walworth, in Chelsea.

Besides the daughter she is survived by a grandson, Thomas K. Walworth, and a great-granddaughter, Elizabeth Jean Walworth, of Fort Wayne, Ind.; and two sisters, Miss Margaret Templeton of Pleasant Ridge and Mrs. John Hunter of Winter Park, Fla.

Funeral services were held at one o'clock Saturday afternoon at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Walworth. Rev. W. H. Skentelbury officiated, and burial was in Clinton Grove cemetery, Mt. Clemens.

Bordentown, N. J.

Bordentown of historical mien, was settled in 1832 by an English Quaker named Thomas Farnsworth and at first was known as Farnsworth's Landing. The convergence of Crosswicks creek with the Delaware made it a bustling shipping center and within a half-century it had a stage line and packet service. This was established by Joseph Borden for whom the town was soon re-named.

This lovely town became the summer retreat of many fashionable Philadelphians and in 1816 became the site of a 1,500-acre estate of Joseph Bonaparte, exiled king of Spain and brother of Napoleon. His "kingdom" here won for the state the name of New Spain.

Long Distance calling

AS Michigan's war industry hits full stride, more and more long distance calls have to be made—war calls vital to victory.

The burden of calls on many long distance lines has reached a critical stage. Central office equipment, fully manned with operators, is being used to capacity. At times, each unimportant call, regardless of its destination, affects the speed with which all other calls can be handled. Many calls are delayed—some for hours. And materials to expand the system cannot be had.

Yet, war calls must go through promptly! So it is necessary that we all curtail both our personal and our business use of long distance. Therefore, please—

1. Make fewer long distance calls—and keep them short.
2. Give the operator the number of the telephone you are calling, if possible.
3. If your call can't go through at once, stay near the telephone ready to talk when the operator notifies you.

1 If week-end jams you'd help unravel—Then pick a mid-week day to travel

Tuesdays, Wednesdays, Thursdays are the best wartime travel times—and you'll leave more seats for the armed forces on week-ends.

2 Don't wait until mid-summer's here—Go now before the crowds appear

You'll help "balance-up" wartime transportation by going before or after July and August when travel is always heaviest.

3 Now when you take a trip some place Please travel light and save some space

"Budget" your baggage when you travel now—days—take along less luggage than usual, to save extra handling and extra space.

4 You can't afford to take a chance—Get information in advance

Make a call to Greyhound before you make your plans—get advance information on schedules, fares and bus connections.

5 Please take your Greyhound agent's tips—On which are the least crowded trips

Your Greyhound agent can suggest the right departure times—when more seats are usually available and travel is more convenient.

6 Advice that's good these hectic days—Avoid like sin all Holidays!

There's no place like home on holidays—by avoiding travel at such rush periods you'll avoid overcrowding wartime transportation.

Plus one extra thought—Remember transportation for the men and women in the armed forces, in war plants and on civilian furloughs comes first—so avoid unnecessary trips!

Farmers Must Supply Scrap for War Weapons

In the first six months of 1943, 3,000,000 tons of scrap metals are being sought from American farmers by the Salvage Division, WPB, at the request of Chairman Donald M. Nelson. This means that every farm in the United States must collect and turn in an average of 1000 pounds before July first.

Chairman Nelson has thus announced to the nation's farmers that there is still a critical need for an adequate backlog of scrap piles in communities throughout the country despite any rumors to the contrary.

Reports from many of the nation's steel producing centers indicate that many mill inventories are dropping rapidly. Another crucial scrap shortage is expected despite the improvement in the over-all situation during the latter part of 1942. The 1942 campaign skimmed the cream of the farm and home scrap crop, but the farmers of the nation must dig much deeper in 1943 to assure capacity steel mill operation.

The American farmer, second only to industry as a source of heavy scrap, is being counted on for a large portion of this year's scrap supplies. Every ton of farm scrap is needed in order to enable the war production program to meet the President's demand for more arms and equipment for the United Nations' war machine.

Mr. Nelson asks editors to push the drive for farm scrap and to use their influence to hasten the activities of the thousands of volunteer salvage committees.

Among those groups who have pledged their cooperation are the Boy Scouts, the Future Farmers of America, the Farm Press, 4-H Clubs, Farm Implement Dealers, Rural Electrification Administration, American Farm Bureau Federation, National Grange, Farmers' Union, County U. S. D. A. War Boards, County Agents and others. All of these groups are participating in the salvage program and their national organizations are active in the scrap campaign.

In order to accomplish the 3,000,000 ton farm scrap goal by July first all participating groups must formulate plans at once that can be put into immediate operation.

Scrap dealers who played such an important part in processing and moving the huge quantities of scrap collected in 1942 are beginning to show anxiety over 1943 prospects. They fear that smaller tonnages will be forthcoming because of the erroneous general feeling that plenty of scrap was accumulated in 1942 campaigns.

Some idea of the terrific rate at which scrap is being consumed is indicated by the fact that steel mills need approximately 1,000,000 tons of scrap per week in order to operate at capacity.

This tremendous consuming figure shows how little in relation to the need the farmer is asked to produce in the first six months of 1943.

The task of collecting scrap is far from finished. Until our fighting forces are victorious it will be necessary to continue to support them with mountains of scrap.

Crops Get Late Start Due To Wet Weather

Crop production in Michigan got off to an unfortunate start in 1943 in contrast to exceptionally favorable weather in April a year ago. In 1942 East Lansing temperatures in April were like those of central Ohio, in 1943 more like normal temperatures at East Jordan.

Planting of substantial acreages of oats and barley has been seriously delayed by wet weather. In 1942 high yields of those crops were in part the result of planting on time.

If Michigan farmers should still succeed in planting as many acres of oats and barley as in 1942, says H. C. Rather, head of the Michigan State College farm crops department, and if only normal yields should prevail, Michigan likely would have 22,000,000 less bushels of oats and 2,000,000 less bushels of barley than in 1942, a serious reduction in livestock feed supplies.

Rather suggests farmers might profit from planting on time those crops normally planted in May and June, if short of help, rather than delay such crops in attempting to complete a late sowing of oats and barley for which the most desirable planting season has passed.

On farms where labor is adequate he suggests using increased acreages of corn and soybeans in southern Michigan to offset prospects of reduced supplies of oats and barley.

There still is time, according to Professor Rather, to put in increased acreages of major cash crops such as sugar beets, potatoes and field beans, all needed in wartime by civilians and armed forces.

Care Is Necessary In Home Canning of Food

Michigan's 1943 program of home canning gets under way with asparagus and rhubarb, but not ahead of a wartime program designed to instruct housewives so that canned foods will not spoil.

Demonstrations are scheduled in each of the state's 83 counties. A wartime canning guide will be available through county extension offices of Michigan State College or direct from Home Economics Extension, Michigan State College, East Lansing.

Pressure cookers, the specialists report, give the safest method for canning meats and all non-acid vegetables. But not all families have such equipment. A proper time table for the hot water bath method of preservation tells housewives the safest methods of canning string beans, corn, greens and peas.

To safeguard families using this hot water bath process, a definite safety rule is being stressed. Occasionally such foods develop botulinus bacteria. The toxin from such bacteria is deadly. Vegetables canned with the bath method should be boiled at least 10 minutes on opening before even tasting.

Alternate methods of preserving foods are being stressed for use of fresh foods after the 1943 growing season. Storing, brining, pickling and freezing are other processes.

In the 83 counties, the college extension service is cooperating with schools, civic organizations, the office of civilian defense and other organized groups. Material with specific instructions and suggestions will be distributed in part through Home Front chairmen in each of the 2100 organized extension groups that dot the 83 counties.

I AM AN American Day

Presidents of the past interpret meaning of national ideals for citizens of the present.

BEING an American means many things to many people. But to every citizen it represents a distinction obtainable nowhere else in the world. This is true today as never before in history. On May 16, when the nation observes "I Am an American Day," that fact will be forcefully brought home.

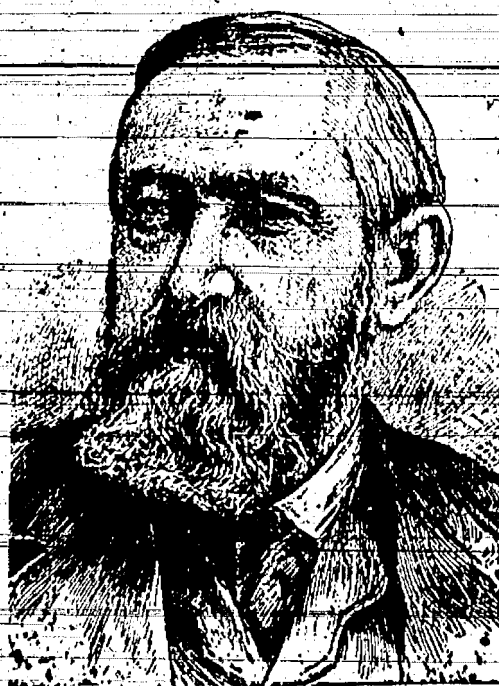

In past generations eminent Americans have interpreted the meaning of citizenship and national ideals in words that sound strangely familiar today. This fact is glowing proof that the present generation is true to the principles of its forebears.

"What has America done for the world?" someone asked John Quincy Adams, sixth President of the United States. He replied: "America has proclaimed to mankind the inextinguishable rights of human nature as the only lawful foundation of government."

The martyred President James A. Garfield epitomized the meaning of American citizenship when he said: "When our fathers announced as self-evident truths the declaration that all men are created equal and the only just power of government is derived from the consent of the governed, they uttered a doctrine that no other nation had ever adopted, that no one kingdom on earth then believed. Yet to our fathers it was so plain that they would not debate it. They announced it as a truth 'self evident.'"

Answering a query, "What is our country?" President Benjamin Harrison said: "Our country is the flag and what it stands for. It is its glorious history. Our country is the freeds and the home—the high thoughts that are in the heart of the fathers, the martyrs of liberty. In these things is that quality we love and call our country—rather than anything that can be touched or handled."

OFFICE NEWS

A representative from the Michigan Education Association met with the teachers last night.

The Junior-Senior Reception is scheduled for the evening of Friday, May 28.

SCHOOLS AND THE WAR

"It is essential," says a statement approved by the War Manpower Commission and signed by Paul V. McNutt, "that young people have the fullest possible opportunity consistent with the war effort to complete their education."

While it is necessary that many young persons under eighteen will be needed to replace men and women who have left their peacetime occupations to join the armed services, entrance of young people into the nation's labor force must be hedged with careful provisions which consider the nation's future.

In most cases youth under eighteen can contribute best to the war program by continuing in school, and when their services are required, accepting vacation and part-time employment.

The statement also emphasized that school attendance laws and child-labor standards should be maintained, and that no one under fourteen should be employed as part of the hired labor force, and that youth under eighteen should be employed only under conditions suitable to their ages.

The part which is important to us is that the War Manpower Commission believes that the most patriotic service which can be performed by the youth of less than eighteen is the continuation of his education. His store of information, techniques, his capacities will be much more valuable to his country when developed to the fullest extent. In short, Uncle Sam wants trained, comprehending, thinking citizens, not only for war service, but in the more important post-war period.

STUDENT COUNCIL

Student Council election of officers was held yesterday during activity period.

Members of the University high school Student Council visited our school Monday.

SENIOR NEWS

The Senior magazine campaign ends this week-end. If you haven't received a subscription you still have an opportunity to do so. Any Senior has the order blanks. The money raised by this campaign will pay for the transportation to Detroit and back for our boat trip.

Mr. Holmes, from the Department of Psychology in the University of Michigan gave some more aptitude tests to seven Seniors last Wednesday.

GRADUATES OF '43 (?)

Margaret Feldkamp has been a very busy Senior the past few weeks, for it was her important office of Assistant Editor of that super publication, "The Senior Reminder of '43." Margaret is 17 years young. She was born in that cold month of January, which is a decided contrast to her warm friendly personality. Margaret has a real hobby—she collects salt and pepper shakers. Here are some statistics on Faldy (that's her nickname): She is 5 ft. 10½ inches tall, weighs 133 lbs., she has dark hair and blue-green eyes; her favorite food is chili con carne, and her favorite show is "Keeper of the Flame."

CLASS NEWS

Junior

Don Alber and Irma Brueckner were elected to run for president and vice-president in the election of officers for Student Council this fall.

The menu committee for the reception has reported the menu to be complete.

Sophomore

Jim Gaken was chosen as the campaign manager for the Sophomore representatives in the Student Council election.

The Sophomores have received word that they will be unable to have their class rings this month, but they will receive them in the fall.

A committee has been appointed to plan a party for the class at the end of the year.

LATIN CLUB

The Latin Club members are collecting pictures of all of the boys who are represented on our Service Flag.

The pictures are being mounted on a bulletin board at present, that is located at the main entrance of the high school building. The pictures will be displayed in a glass-enclosed case when the collection has been completed.

The members of the club would like the cooperation of every student in helping them to secure pictures of all the boys who are in the service of their country.

SHOP

The shop classes have decided to do away with all their projects and take up Blue Print Reading for the remainder of the year. They think this experience will help in obtaining a position in factories this summer.

Because of the weather the girls have been unable to play baseball so they have been meeting in the gym.

Last Thursday each class had to plan a skit and present it to the others. It was decided that the Seniors was the best.

Last Wednesday after school all those girls interested in playing tennis and never had played, had their first meeting and learned the fundamentals of tennis. It is hoped that in the near future the girls will have a tennis team.

DEFENSE COUNCIL

The Defense Council is working on their War Scrap Book and expects to send it to Detroit very shortly.

The new members have not been elected for next year but will be elected this week yet.

The council will be ready to do their duty all summer if called upon.

HOMEMAKING CLUB

The Homemaking club girls nominated a committee consisting of Madeline Rowe, Anna Marie Armstrong, Rosemary Lyons and Terese Lyons, who announced the following home-making candidates for the club offices next year. Running for president are Joanne Moore and Barbara O'Hara; vice-president, Shirley Platt and Marilyn Schooley; and for secretary, Terese Lyons and Jane Downer. Elections will be held on May 13. The scrapbook keeping committee will be selected from next year's Freshman class. The State Home Economics Association is holding the annual election of officers, and balloting from the club was completed this week.

Miss Halst will meet with the girls during the next two weeks on Thursdays, during which she will demonstrate some of the essentials in home nursing.

WHAT WOULD HAPPEN IF—

Mr. Richards didn't have to sit in study hall for three hours each afternoon.

Miss Crumback didn't always say "supposin'" when she is giving an example in bookkeeping class.

Miss McDonald had a lot of volunteers in second year Latin class.

Mr. Chandler used incorrect English.

Mr. Miller didn't have to walk up three flights of stairs to get to blue print reading class.

Miss Davies' fourth hour students were in their seats at 12:35 instead of lingering in study hall.

Miss Fox' first hour history class ever read their history.

Mr. Johnson didn't open the door in room 25 several times during 5th hour to see what time it is.

Mr. Cameron didn't wear his hat at a peculiar angle.

Mr. Laudenslager gave an easy chemistry test.

F. F. A.

Arrangements have been made with Mr. Meservia to plant about an acre of hybrid corn on the city-owned property at the sewage disposal plant. About a third of the 3-acre community garden plot on McKinley street will also be planted to corn unless it is needed for late gardens. In the fall the corn will be sold or used to fatten some of the F. F. A. pigs.

HOMEMAKING CLASS NEWS

In Homemaking I all cotton dresses were completed on Wednesday.

The girls in Homemaking II have finished a basic study of Arts, and are now studying home decorations.

CHORUS

The Chorus presented their Annual Spring Concert last Tuesday evening, May 4. The concert was by far the most successful one yet given by the organization, both musically and financially speaking.

The stage was decorated with flags of the United Nations and in the center was a huge figure of the Statue of Liberty, made by Joe Hale. Music of four of the Allied Nations was sung by the Chorus during the evening. A special feature of the program was the soloist, Miss Jean Martin, of Albion College, who sang two groups of well known numbers, accompanied by Miss Margaret Harp.

The audience of approximately two hundred was most appreciative of the work of both chorus and soloist and the group may well be proud of their achievement.

ELEMENTARY NEWS

Seventh Grade

(Donald Baldwin)

Our sale of stamps last week amounted to $30.40.

Last Thursday the Safety Patrol met in room fifteen to discuss matters relating to their work. Purposes and techniques of safety work were considered. The girls met in the sixth grade room, and decided to do something about the writing on the walls that has been appearing in the girls' basement. Thirty girls removed a multitude of scribbles in a short time.

Spring house-cleaning seems in the air. Patty Hopper and Mary Belle Lantis volunteered to wash our desk tops for us, and John Walz asked permission to wash our windows. The place is very clean now.

Patsy Mohrlock brought a bouquet, and Ruth Fox brought a potted African violet for the room.

Sixth and seventh grade boys play baseball regularly, taking turns at winning.

Patty and Mrs. Hopper finished our fifth afghan in time for Junior Red Cross collection Tuesday. We have decided to make a red, white and blue one next fall.

Sixth Grade

(M. K. Palmer)

The boys played the seventh grade boys in baseball. We won by the score of 10 to 9.

Our stamp sale for this week was $9.55.

Our class has been making food charts. For certain foods we eat, we get a few points. The perfect score is 100. The food charts were kept a week and the teacher averaged up the scores. The average was only 80 so we are keeping them another week to see if the scores will be higher.

There has been a penalty made in our room if you don't have your dues in on time. The penalty is for the girls to wash all the woodwork and the boys to wash the windows inside and out.

it up and said: "Did you say—police?"

"That's what I said. Have they come yet?"

"No," I said, backing away, as a feeling of horror came over me.

"Well, they will! And they'll keep me awake hours asking questions, questions, questions! I've got to sleep, and the medicine won't work." She was fairly raving at me.

"Hugh took the rest of it away. Oh, Judy, beg him to give you just one of those veronal—damn him!"

"I was already heading for the stairs. 'Til try!" But I had no intention of getting veronal or anything else. What kind of a person was she to help trap her own brother?—I never heard of anything so cold-blooded in my life. Her tone, when she said Hugh had taken her dope stuff, had been full of hate. He was such a good brother to her, and now, in his necessity, she not only locked herself in but helped the police.

I threw the red tablecloth at the astonished invalid waiting on the porch and ran down to the barn after Victor.

"Come here, quick! Bessie Norcross thinks her brother's guilty! Look, she's written to the police."

Victor—shushed—me when I told him about Bessie's letter. "Bless you! Want the crew upon us?" He wagged his dark head at the men who were standing around trying to figure how to get the boat out of the barn loft.

Without a moment's hesitation Victor tore open Bessie's letter. I was tickled mauve that he dared, yet I couldn't help wondering why he didn't let Hugh do it. A fleeting suspicion crossed his mind. If Hugh were right and Victor guilty—

"End justifies the means, Judy." He began to stroll away from the barn, while from the piazza Thaddeus Quincy waved a red cloth from the end of his cane and yelled at me.

"Just a minute!" I yelled back at him. "Oh, please, Mr. Quade! Does she say he did it?" I said to Quade.

Victor gave a low whistle. "This beats the Dutch! Listen, Judy. It's a confession."

"Not Bessie!"

"Bessie." Victor made a quick survey to be sure he wasn't overheard and then commenced to read in a low tone:

"I, Elizabeth Norcross, being of sane mind, do hereby of my own accord, on this Fourth of July, confess to the murder of Rodney Lane Jr., and Lily Kendall. But I did not have anything to do with the death of that poor old man recluse, they call Brown, whom I never even saw, nor the burning of his shack, nor the explosion at the bridge. I feel sure, though, there were no fireworks at the Head the night before the Fourth, both were accidents. The bridge may have collapsed; I don't know.

He fell down the stairs and must have struck his head on the granite floor.

"But my brother, Hugh, did not have a hand in any of this murder business, nor know that I had. He is entirely innocent in every way, although several things might look suspicious. I can account for all three: The initialed golf club, the blue scarf and his being seen before the crime of Roddy's death—in the vicinity, I mean, by Judith Jason and Thaddeus Quincy. He told one lie to save me. He said, when he went out, having missed me, last night, about the time Judy spoke to a shadow—that he saw my light come on in my room, so he knew I was all right. He couldn't have. My room is on the other side of the house. Go look for yourselves. He did it to protect me."

We glanced at the inn bedroom and saw she was telling the truth. Then continued: "Now, about the spot on my coat. It's blood, Hugh tried to save me there, also. He didn't borrow any turpentine from Mr. Potter. I did. I tried to clean off the blood, but made it worse, I guess. Mr. Potter's door was open a crack. He'd gone to town. I took the bottle from his table."
