State Agrees To Take Over Waterloo Area

Lansing.—Readiness to accept, in the name of the state, two parks worth nearly $900,000 in land and improvements has been expressed by the Michigan conservation commission which has agreed to take over, about July 1, the administration of Waterloo and the Yankee Springs recreation areas. Eventual transfer of these areas to the state has been discussed since the first land was acquired for them in 1934, but authority for the transfer on the part of the national government was granted only recently, and only recently also has the commission been able, financially, to accept the job of administering the two recreational areas.

The transfer will give the state title to about 8,300 acres in the Waterloo tract now managed under lease as a state game area; and to 3,700 more acres in Washtenaw and Jackson counties divided between a picnic and day use area on Big Portage lake, and land about the extensive group camp buildings. In the Yankee Springs area in Barry county the state will receive about 4,200 acres having group camp buildings, a beach and bath house and other park facilities.

Former Local Resident Drowns At Tecumseh

Harvey Proctor, Jr., 19-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Proctor, of Tecumseh, was drowned about 5:30 Sunday afternoon in the River Raisin mill pond, after a leaky rowboat sank beneath him and his companion, Donald Winters. The latter tried in vain to save him and when nearly exhausted was rescued by a Tecumseh resident who witnessed the tragedy and set out in a rowboat.

Harvey, who was born November 11, 1923 in Salem township, was a senior in Tecumseh high school. The Proctor family were residents of this vicinity from 1932 to 1935, when they occupied the Spaulding farm south of Chelsea on Manchester Rd.

Survivors include the parents; a grandmother, Mrs. Edwin Place of Canton Center; six brothers, Stanley and Russell of Northville, Kenneth of Chelsea, Floyd of Sharon township, Wesley of Manchester, and Lester, who is with the Army in North Africa; and four sisters, Mrs. Charles Barnsdale, Maybee, Mrs. William Stark and Mrs. Charles Dinius of Tecumseh and Mrs. Edwin Pidd, Dexter.

State Board To Grant Scholarship Awards

To encourage high school graduates to prepare for teaching in rural schools the State Board of Education will grant College of Education awards to approximately 400 superior candidates in Michigan. These awards will release the student from payment of the tuition fee to the selected College of Education.

A candidate accepting this rural elementary award is to enroll for the school year 1943-44 and 1944-45 and must pursue the prescribed two-year course of study leading to the State Limited Certificate.

It is possible for a student to enroll in this summer session and complete his requirements for a special certificate to teach in a rural school by the end of the 1944 summer session.

Application blanks for the awards may be secured from County School Commissioner Julius W. Haab. They may also be obtained from the Department of Public Instruction and the four teacher training institutions of Michigan.

Prospective applicants for these scholarships are urged to file their applications promptly, as the number of awards for each county is limited.

Canning Demonstration Held Here On Tuesday

A large group of ladies attended the special wartime canning demonstration held in the Home Ec room, Tuesday afternoon. The purpose of this demonstration was to acquaint homemakers with the best and safest methods of food preservation, and was held under the auspices of the nutrition committee. The demonstration talk was given by Miss Margaret Harris, extension specialist in nutrition for Michigan State college.

The talk accompanied a demonstration on canning green beans in a pressure cooker and rhubarb in a boiling water bath, emphasizing the importance of cooking vegetables and fruits before processing. Several reasons were given for this, namely: the saving of space by shrinking foods first; a shorter processing period and preserving of the vitamin content.

Included in the talk was information on different types of jars and covers available, canning of non-acid vegetables, dehydration, pressure cooker and boiling water bath methods versus cold-pack and open kettle methods.

Pressure cookers may be obtained by groups or families upon application to the farm rationing committee located at 201 East Liberty, Ann Arbor. These special permits will not be issued to individuals, unless it can be proved that several families will share the cooker.

Interested persons who were unable to attend this demonstration but would like the special "War-time Canning" bulletin and other food folders should contact the local nutrition chairman, Mrs. A. L. Brock.

SELECTED FOR SPECIAL COURSE

Camp Murphy, Fla.—Cpl. Wayne E. Van Orman, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Van Orman of Chelsea, Mich., has been enrolled in a special course of instruction at the Signal Corps school at Camp Murphy. Cpl. Van Orman was selected for this specialized training on the basis of his aptitude.

Seniors Are Looking Forward To Boat Trip

The Seniors of Chelsea high school are looking forward to their forthcoming trip this year, and it is no wonder because it really should be something to remember.

They will leave Detroit at 2:00 p. m. on Thursday, June 8 on the S. S. South American, along with many other Senior classes from this part of the country. Thursday evening will find all interest centered in the variety show and dancing party which should act as sort of a mixer for the various groups.

On Friday morning they will awaken to find themselves steaming up the beautiful St. Mary's River, from which they will be raised by the Soo Locks. There they will sail out onto the largest fresh water lake in the world—Lake Superior. They will cruise on Whitefish Bay until early evening, back through the Soo, be lowered to the St. Mary's River level, and then will find themselves bound for the historic point of interest, Mackinac Island.

At 8:00 a. m. Saturday they will dock at the "Bermuda of the North"—Mackinac Island, and will spend the whole forenoon sightseeing on that historic scenic spot. They will see such spots as Old Fort Mackinac, Fort Holmes, Skull Cave, Arch Rock, Look-Out Point, Cannon Range, and the Astor Fur Post.

At 1:30 p. m. they will leave on the last lap of their cruise—the trip back to Detroit. Saturday evening will find them all at the floor show and dancing party which will be the finale to a wonderful trip.

Sunday morning there will be both Catholic and Protestant services for those who wish to attend, and at 10 a. m. they dock at Detroit.

Highway Dept. Placing 1000 Roadside Tables

Lansing.—Approximately 1000 roadside picnic tables are being set up along state trunklines this week, according to State Highway Commissioner Charles M. Ziegler.

This represents a 65 per cent decrease in the number of tables used last summer but travel, likewise, in recreation areas has dropped sharply.

"Most of the tables are being placed near towns and other easily accessible locations to accommodate more people closer to home," Ziegler explained. "Some will be located on the more heavily traveled highways but the important consideration is gasoline rationing, which will curtail extensive driving," he added.

The 50 sites throughout the state designated as roadside parks will be equipped with tables as in the past. All parks will be opened for public use during the next two weeks.

Preparatory operations which include cleaning up the grounds, painting guard-rail and structures, refilling signs and stoves, seeding and caring for trees and shrubs are now being completed.

CROQUET LEAGUE PLANNED

To capitalize on the great interest shown in croquet in this community, a league will be formed. The Chelsea Recreation Council has ordered a number of croquet sets, which will be placed at the athletic field and at other points throughout the community. It is planned that these sets will be at the field on Sunday afternoon for your enjoyment. All those who are interested, both men and women, meet at the Chelsea high school on Monday evening, May 24, at 7:45.

POPULAR PARTY

The Savage School club will hold a popular party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Rowe on Saturday, May 22 at 8:30 p. m. Free lunch. 20 games for 35c. Adv.

Keep America American

By Ruth Taylor

Ever since I first heard Father Boland use the trenchant phrase which is my text, I have felt that in those three words, properly understood, lies the hope of unity, the expression of that for which we are fighting and the way to achieve the Victory for which we all hope.

Keep America American—this is the defiant challenge of the finest idealism the world has known. It is a clarion call to action in the fight between the forces that would destroy and those which would build man up to his proper stature.

Keep America American—this is no creed of isolationism, no shutting of the gates of the spirit to the problems of the world, no selfish hoarding of our resources of brain and body for the use and comfort alone of those already within our nation.

Keep America American—this does not mean a yardstick of nationality by which to measure our fellow citizens. The yardstick we must use is that of the spirit—an unselfed devotion to the credo that all men are created equal. We are the first self-created people in the world—not segregated by race or creed or color but bound together by a common bond of belief that we are ALL entitled to the rights and responsibilities of freedom.

Keep America American—let us never forget that this nation was founded on unity, and that to achieve unity men must act for the good of all, not as self-seeking groups of individuals.

Keep America American—let us preserve our rights by careful usage of them. This country is the land of liberty, not license. Any change must come under the orderly processes of our own laws, not under the sudden whim of any dictator.

Keep America American—let us not disunity appear among us. Let us keep the old ideals of opportunity for all, not favors for a privileged few. Let us grant to our neighbor the same rights we claim for ourselves. Let us remember that the cornerstone of the nation is religious liberty, and let us not discriminate against our neighbor because of the faith, the class or the party to which he belongs.

Keep America American—let us stand together and face the world as a united nation, dedicated to the protection and preservation for all men of the self-same freedoms of speech and religion, from want and fear, which we intend to keep for ourselves.

"TOWN AND FARM IN WARTIME"

A weekly news digest from the Rural Press Section of the Office of War Information News Section

Farm Meat Regulations

New meat-rationing regulations provide that a farmer and his family may consume meat raised on any farm he owns or operates, and may transfer meat from one of his farms to another to provide food for members of the household, without giving up ration points, even if the meat is not slaughtered on his farm. However, if the farm owner does not live on a farm, he must give up ration points for any meat he consumes elsewhere. Under the original regulations, a farmer who brought his own cattle to a custom slaughtering plant had to surrender red-point stamps for the meat, while if he killed and dressed the animal himself, the meat was "ration-free". A farm or ranch employer who feeds his employees in a bunkhouse or dining hall may now use meat and other rationed food raised on his farm on the same basis as if the employees were fed in the household.

Must Carry Draft Cards

Selective Service registrants who were 18 years old on or before November 13, 1942 must have their local board classification cards (Selective Service Form 57) as well as their registration certificate (Form 2), in their personal possession after May 13. Men without both cards are liable to fine and imprisonment. Selective Service headquarters warned.

Ceilings Set on Market Basket Foods

Maximum prices now being established by OPA for the market areas of about 130 cities are expected to cover 80 per cent of the foods in the family market basket by June 1. These maximums will be top prices in each principal city and its "market area" which the district offices of the OPA have defined. By June, the OPA expects to complete prices for the first 160 cities and then undertake the same job for other localities. Community-wide top prices are intended to simplify regulations for the storekeeper and the housewife and to make the consumer a partner in the enforcement of wartime price ceilings.

Packages may now be mailed to a soldier overseas if a request is received from the soldier and the envelope bearing the APO cancellation mark is presented at the time of mailing. Formerly, the approval of the commanding officer was required. Current restrictions as to weight and size of packages remain in effect.

Farm Machinery Rationing

At their discretion, state war boards can now cancel county quotas on any or all types of farm machinery according to revised farm machinery rationing order issued by the War Food Administration. If a state board exercises this authority, farmers will be required to locate the machinery they want to buy before they are given a purchase certificate. Furthermore, county farm rationing committees may set the expiration date of purchase certificates any time between 10 and 60 days after issuance, or may cancel the certificate after the holder has had a reasonable time to buy the specified machinery.

Sugar Allowed for Canning

Sugar for home canning will be limited to one pound for each four quarts (or eight pounds) of the finished product and may be secured on written application to the housewife's local board. Each person is allowed not more than 25 pounds. Any family can apply for sugar to put up jams, jellies, and preserves at the rate of five pounds per person. Last year, sugar for preserves was limited to one pound per person.

Oil—Coal—or Wood

A householder no longer has to prove that his oil-burning furnace cannot be converted to coal or wood to get supplementary fuel oil rations. Formerly, extra rations were denied unless this proof was presented, although basic rations have been provided regardless of convertibility. There will be no change in basic rations procedure. It is still necessary that other than household users convert to coal or wood whenever possible.

The ropes and chains managed to break often enough to delay the launching until Wednesday morning, when it slipped off the ways and entered the water with a mighty splash. Comic and Tragic: "The world is a comedy to those that think, a tragedy to those who feel."—Horace Walpole.

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"Our men in the service in this war have pretty definite ideas about what they're fighting for and the way they want to find our country when they come back...don't you think so, Judge?"

"I certainly do, George. Just a week or so ago I was reading in a national magazine the results of a poll taken among our soldiers. Each man was given a questionnaire containing twenty-five 'assignments' for the folks at home. He was asked to check the first five in order of importance to him.

"Out of thousands of replies the first 'assignment' to the folks back home was 'Make sure I'll have a job in my chosen field of work when I get back'. Number 5 was 'Make sure that Prohibition isn't put over on us again.'

"When the men in the last war came home and found prohibition had been put over on them behind their backs they were sore as boils. You can see from what I just told you how they feel about it this time, too."

A YARDSTICK TO MEASURE

THE NUTRITION VALUE OF YOUR MEALS

A Guide to Energy Lunch Boxes

This Nutrition Yardstick, which includes fruits, vegetables, dairy products, breads, meats, poultry, fish and eggs, will prove helpful in planning well-balanced meals for your family.

The special importance of including plenty of energy foods in the lunch boxes you pack for your war-workers needs to be stressed. Men doing heavy physical labor in war plants need sturdy mid-day meals to carry them through a strenuous afternoon.

Mere bulk and savor are not enough. A war worker must have the fuel-foods that nourish his strength. Meat, eggs, fish, fowl and cheese may be used either in sandwiches or salads, and vegetables, cut in strips or wedges, should be included. Fruits—fresh, stewed, dried or baked in tarts or puddings—make wholesome desserts, and milk may be chilled and carried in the thermos or sent along as milk shakes, hot cocoa or cream soups.

By Gene Alleman

Quoting Governor Harry E. Kelly: "The vast European continent remains a Nazi stronghold, ringed with steel, bleeding and helpless and starving, the conquered countries are yet to hear the tread of friendly marching feet."

"Across the world, the Rising Sun of Japan arrogantly flutters over Guam and Wake and the islands of the Philippines. There is only darkness in Burma and Singapore and the Dutch East Indies, Australia is threatened."

"Nor is that all. Just last week, the Navy Department admitted that the United Nations lost more shipping tonnage in 1942 than they built—a figure in excess of a million gross tons more!"

These words were uttered by Michigan's chief executive, not in darkness of despair, but in celebration of the Allied triumph in Africa and Michigan's generous response to the Second War Loan drive.

They recalled to our memory a conference which we attended in Washington several weeks ago at the war department's gigantic Pentagon building across from the Potomac river in Virginia. A number of newspaper association executives—including the president and a vice-president of the Michigan Press Association—listened to a review of press problems presented by Col. R. Ernest Dupuy, chief of the news division, war department bureau of public relations.

The army colonel referred to the presence of only four American army divisions on the Tunisian front, and the snap judgment of many Americans on the home front that the war will be over soon. He admitted—and so did we—the difficulty of getting true perspective of military values through condensed newspaper headlines.

The resultant conservatism veered to the idea of having the war department issue confidential memos to newspaper editors. Colonel Dupuy and his staff replied that Congress would accuse the military of seeking to influence the press. We were reminded that the United States is a democracy.

And yet the readers of Michigan newspapers are getting today the most complete coverage of war news in the history of world journalism.

Correspondents of the Associated Press, United Press and International News Service, as well as writers of leading newspapers, are accorded every facility by the American government to obtain and transmit information. Of all the nations of the world, we permit a voluntary censorship. And it is still possible for editors to criticize freely.

Hanson W. Baldwin, military commentator of the New York Times and Pulitzer winner for his brilliant analyses, has just returned from a 22,000 mile trip to Africa to report—without censorship—that the Allied victory in Tunisia was won chiefly by the British; that Germany is still strong and far from being near defeat and that American troops are still green and inexperienced in modern warfare.

As Colonel Dupuy phrased it in a radio talk May 9, "we are one step forward on the long march to victory." But it is only one step. American troops have yet to land on the continent of Europe.

We Americans like to gossip. Probably not one of you has not heard reports of over-production of tanks and trucks and other war materials at Michigan war plants; that vast fields are filled with equipment that cannot be shipped overseas because of lack of shipping, and so on.

Lieut. General Brehon B. Somervell, chief of the army services of supply, visited Michigan last summer. Recently he declared that the U. S. army will not be completely equipped until late in 1944. Only in the field of ammunition is there a reserve. Rumors of over-production were called the work of fifth-columnists.

Secretary of Navy Frank Knox revealed to the Truman Committee at Washington that the net loss in gross tons of shipping in 1942 was "in the neighborhood of something over a million tons". Submarines have been sinking ships faster than we could build them.

The newspapers bring these facts to your home. Only a democracy can afford such freedom of information!

We hope and pray for early victory, yet it is folly for citizens on the home front to relax one moment their efforts for winning of the war.

Michigan rates first in per capita sale of war bonds.

It is truly the "arsenal of democracy" with more than eleven billion dollars in war contracts already awarded to Michigan industries.

Yet this is no time for celebration. On the basis of contracts already awarded, Michigan will need 200,000 more workers before the end of 1943.

As Governor Kelly explained in Washington recently, "Michigan is producing one-tenth of all the armaments with which our nation is waging war against the Axis." Yet we cannot afford the luxury of one labor dispute which halts production.

The hour of destiny is nearing when American troops will land on the fortified continent of Europe—many hundreds of miles from the borders of Germany itself. Many thousands of lives is the price which we must pay.

Compared with the price of life itself, the investment of dollars from the citizen soldiers on the home front is a puny sacrifice.

In the last war the OWI reports that "only 241 tanks were used by Americans in combat areas. Only one American-made airplane reached the fighting front in the first year of the war."

In the last war 4,800,000 Yanks were under arms; today at least 10,000,000 are certain to be in uniform. Yanks must be equipped to stand the humidity of jungle warfare, wintry blasts of the Aleutians, desert heat of North Africa.

In 1918 the American war expenditures were only 18 1/2 billion dollars. This coming fiscal year calls for more than 100 billion dollars!

We must continue to produce more arms, to buy more bonds, to grow more food.

As the war department colonel put it tersely, the victory in Tunisia is only "one step forward on the long march to victory." For us on the Michigan home front the unified command must be: "Let's get on with the war!"

What So Proudly We Hail

Old Glory, with the flags of our Allies, England, Russia and China, waves proudly on many battle fronts these war-scarred days. It carries its message of hope and freedom to the humblest souls of the oppressed peoples in the conquered lands and definitely warns the aggressor that the day of reckoning is at hand. In the history of our nation the flag has had a notable series of traditions to endure it to the hearts of Americans. The battlefields of this war will add to its great glory. The bravery of America's fighting men recalls the words of Oliver Wendell Holmes: "One flag, one land, one heart, one hand, one Nation, evermore!"

Tractor Lights Will Speed Farm Work

One of the wartime time-saving hints, especially valuable in 1943 when spring farm work has been delayed by the weather, would be to use lights on tractors at night and get double duty out of machines during planting time.

The suggestion comes from the agricultural engineering department of Michigan State College. Few tractors of the thousands in the state are equipped with lights. Many of the late models have fittings on which lights can be mounted.

But any tractor can be rigged with lights, says W. H. Sheldon of the college staff. A storage battery will supply energy and can be charged by a tractor generator or charged when not in use. Regular spotlights or lights salvaged from a wrecked car or truck can be used, with any automotive wiring.

A spotlight on a swivel mounting is especially useful on the rear of the tractor to watch equipment and how it is operating. One or two lights on the front are sufficient for lighting the way ahead.

Batteries mounted on the tractor can be borrowed temporarily from the family car or truck, Sheldon points out. Such a battery with a capacity of 80 to 120 ampere-hours of energy, would supply electricity for three lights burning a total of 10 amperes for a total of eight to 12 hours.

If batteries are recharged by operation of the tractor itself the generator can be mounted to drive off the fan belt from an additional pulley, or from a pulley mounted on the front end of the crankshaft. The generator should turn 1,500 to 2,000 revolutions per minute. Bulbs in lights would be from 21 to 32 candlepower.

HOLD LAND USE MEETING

Lima township held its second land use meeting at Lima Center Grange hall on Monday evening, May 17. George D. Hurrell spoke of the necessity of land use planning for the future, after which a general discussion on the matter was held. Reddeman, that Lima township committee make no recommendation or classification as to land use planning but retain the township committee and belong to the county committee. Carried.

Epidemic of Measles Is Spreading In Michigan

A measles epidemic that was predicted weeks ago by the state health department is spreading from cities into rural areas, with nearly 1200 cases reported in one day recently. Influx of workers from other states to Michigan war production centers is held responsible. "Ordinarily, we would not have expected an above-normal measles rate this year," says Dr. H. Allen Moyer, State Health Commissioner. "The next epidemic year" should have been 1944 on the basis of past experience, the usual three-year measles cycle being due to reach its peak then. However, the war has caused an upset. "Measles makes gains when there are increases in numbers of individuals who are susceptible to the disease. Usually these individuals are children. Because of the war, however, large numbers of persons from other states—previously exposed to the disease—have come here. The epidemic is the result." Commissioner Moyer warns parents that measles in children can be most serious and that it is wise to call a physician early if there is reason to suspect that a child is developing the disease. A suspected case should be isolated until diagnosis is made. Measles also can be a cause of death among the aged.

More than 6000 cases of measles have been reported to the state health department so far this month. The normal figure for the period is under 1000.

PREPARE FOR CAMPOREE

It is expected that several hundred scouts and their leaders will gather at Camp Newkirk on Friday afternoon and evening to participate in the Camporee which begins on May 21.

The headline of the Saturday morning program will be Uncle Otto, of Detroit, and the noon meal which will be served at twelve o'clock to all registered participants. Sandwiches, baked beans, ice cream and milk will make up the menu.

O. E. Roszel, general chairman of the event, has announced that Dr. Ross Allen and George MacDougall will be in charge of the Camporee.

The annual circus will begin at two o'clock on Saturday afternoon, and is in charge of Clarence Munn. Public Asked To Curtail Use of Long Distance

The Michigan Bell Telephone company today renewed its appeal that the public sharply curtail its use of long distance service.

Citing a heavy increase in the volume of long distance calls over a year ago, George M. Welch, president of the company, said the situation has become critical. Should the present rate of increase continue, he pointed out, the already overburdened toll lines would be called upon to handle nearly 47,000,000 calls this year, an increase of 12,000,000 over 1942, and double the peacetime traffic of 1939. A great proportion of the calls being handled are what he termed "the progress of the war, although civilian use of the service also has increased greatly."

Welch asked that long distance be used only when really urgent, or when mails or other forms of communication cannot serve the purpose, and that users be brief in their calls.

He also urged such time-saving practices as holding the line after placing a call unless the operator requests otherwise, making "station" rather than "person" calls, giving the operator the number of the called telephone, and refraining from asking for reports on the progress of delayed calls.

"The burden of calls on many long distance lines has reached a critical stage," Welch said. "Central office equipment, fully manned with operators, is being used to capacity. The important call, regardless of its destination, affects the speed with which all other calls can be handled. Over some routes, many calls are delayed—some of them for hours. And the materials needed with which to expand the telephone system can't be had."

KIWANIS NEWS

Ashley Clague of Ann Arbor, Kiwanis Lieutenant Governor, was the speaker at the regular meeting of the local club on Monday night. Mr. Clague spoke on the subject of child delinquency, which has been increasing at a rapid rate in this country due to the influx of war workers and the resultant overcrowded conditions. Parents are to blame for this delinquency, according to Mr. Clague, as many of them assume no responsibility so far as their children are concerned.

APPOINTEE HEALTH OFFICER

At the regular meeting of the village council on Monday night, President A. D. Mayer appointed Dr. Otto Engelke, county health director, as village health officer, and Olen W. Hart as deputy. Mayer also appointed E. B. Hammond and Fred Klingler as the board of review. The council voted to purchase 300 Norway maple and flowering crab trees for planting along the streets in various parts of the village. These trees, which are about 6 feet in height, will be planted under the supervision of the newly-created Park and Recreation committee of the council. Property owners along whose frontage the trees are planted will be asked to keep them properly watered in order to give them a good start.

LOCAL BOWLERS WIN

The local Federal Screw Works "All-Star" bowling team defeated a select group from the Detroit Federal Screw plant in a three-game series at the 20th Century alleys, Ann Arbor, on Sunday. Allowing the Detroit boys a handicap of 75 pins, the local stars made a score of 2517 pins, compared to 2457 for their guests. Individual scores of the local team were: Johnson, captain, 537, Ford 497, Munro 493, McMannis 501, Shaw 487. For Detroit—Kain, captain, 451, Selden 526, Cebulski 480, Bechtel 469, Bahensky 456.

Several members of South Sylvan Extension club, North Lake Extension club and Lima Center Extension club attended the Achievement day program held on Thursday at Masonic Temple, Ann Arbor.

PLENTY OF RAINFALL! Almost continuous rainfall during the past week has made it impossible for farmers to work their land, and Victory Gardeners are finding it difficult to get any planting done. There was sunshine on Sunday, but high winds did some damage to trees and roofs in this vicinity. A portion of a large tree was blown down on East Middle street Sunday afternoon, narrowly missing a pedestrian and some cars. Early Monday morning the familiar sound of rainfall again greeted the ears of light sleepers, and it continued until Tuesday noon.

HEADS STUDENT COUNCIL

Tom McClellan was elected president of the Student Council for next year at the annual election of officers held on Wednesday, May 12. Donald Aber was his only opponent. Elaine McClellan, his sister, defeated Irma Brueckner and Joan Pierce for the office of vice-president. The other officers of the Council are appointed.

STUDENT COUNCIL

Two members of the U. High Student Council, the president of next year and this year's secretary visited the Student Council meeting last Tuesday. They gave reports on how their school was run. Their system of cleaning the school building and grounds was of particular interest. The students and the faculty were given a day off in which to clean up the building. After this, committees were chosen to take care of cleaning up the building.

The Student Council decided to have a Record Dance on Friday, May 14. The admission was ten cents plus a record, or twenty-five cents without one. The person who brought in the most records received a prize. The Freshmen were in charge of entertainment; the Sophomores, refreshments; and the Juniors, tickets and clean-up. As this was the Seniors' last All-High party it was decided not to give them anything to do.

CHELSEA LOSES TO ANN ARBOR

Chester lost to Ann Arbor last Thursday, 21-0. The local lads were held to only one hit. Dutch Policht got a scratch single. Bob Edgar started for Chelsea and had some hard luck working the first four innings. Chelsea used three pitchers. Ann Arbor, a Class A school, had too much power for Chelsea.

Next Wednesday, Pinckney comes to Chelsea for a game. Chelsea was defeated by Pinckney before by 6-3 in 9 innings. This ought to be quite a ball game so let's have a good crowd out to watch the final home game of the season.

HOMEMAKING CLASS NEWS

The home projects are being turned in to complete fifty hours of work done in the home by each Homemaker girl. These projects have been carried on along with the school work this year instead of during the summer. In order to receive credit for Homemaking the girls are required to do one project in foods, one in clothing and one in any other area of Homemaking. House cleaning, painting of furniture and porches, construction of draperies, working in part time employment in restaurants, care of children, and large quantity cooking are examples of projects carried on this year. Approximately one hundred and fifty garments were made outside of class by the girls this year.

This work is supervised by the Homemaker teacher through conferences and home visits. About sixty per cent of the homes have been visited this year. Transportation difficulties and mothers working have made it impossible for all the homes to be reached. A report of this work is being prepared and is to be sent to the State Board of Vocational Education.

WHAT WOULD HAPPEN IF—

Miss Fox didn't do all the talking for her first hour history class on Monday morning.

Everyone did their own experiments in chemistry lab.

Dick Foor got up in time Monday morning to get to school.

Everyone had translated their English into Latin story last Friday. Miss McDonald would have fainted for sure.

The band members in Mr. Chandler's sixth hour English class got there on time.

The decoration committee for the Reception could make up their minds once and for all.

First hour Latin class didn't have a vocabulary test.

Someone would be kind enough to write up the baseball games for journalism.

LATIN CLUB

The Latin club is collecting pictures of men in the armed forces who have attended or graduated from this school. The club has collected fourteen pictures so far which are being placed on the bulletin board inside the north entrance of the school. Later they will be placed in a case. If you have any pictures of service men please bring or send them to school.

CLUB OFFICERS ELECTED

Election for Homemaker club officers was held last week. The following people will hold office next year: President—Barbara O'Hara. Vice Pres.—Shirley Platt. Secretary—Jane Downer. The office of scrapbook keeper will be filled in the fall from the freshman class.

HOMEMAKING CLUB

Barbara O'Hara, chairman of the program for May, is making plans to entertain the mothers of the club girls. Garments and home projects made by the Homemaker girls will be modeled and light refreshments will be served.

ALL-HI PARTY

The All-Hi party held last Friday evening was sponsored by the entire high school, with each grade, except the Seniors, having a specific job to do.

The Freshmen had charge of the entertainment; the Sophomores furnished the refreshments, and the Juniors had charge of clean-up and they took tickets at the door.

Dancing began about 8:30, after which the Freshmen presented their entertainment which consisted of a musical quiz. The Juniors, true to tradition, won.

About 10:00 the Sophs served refreshments of green spot and two kinds of cup cakes. Dancing was resumed until 11:00.

Because this was the Seniors' last All-Hi party they were not given a task to perform. We wish the Seniors lots of luck in their future work.

'Sick Man of Europe'

The Ottoman Empire was a name for the former Turkish Empire. Osman (Othman) I was the traditional founder of the dynasty to which his name was given. The empire which was organized in the 13th century expanded until at its height in the 16th century it reached Vienna. After the 16th century parts of it were dismembered, following every war until before the World War the nation itself came to be known as the "Sick Man of Europe."

MSC Builds Plan for Obtaining Farm Labor

Virtually all the costs necessary to aid Michigan farmers in their search for sufficient labor to produce wartime foods and feeds in 1943 have been drawn into a pattern by the extension service of Michigan state college.

Under authority of R. J. Baldwin, college director of extension, four major appointments of MSC specialists have been made. These include naming A. B. Love, state emergency farm labor supervisor; C. B. Dibble, assistant state emergency farm labor supervisor in charge of Victory Farm Volunteers; Miss Ruth Peck, assistant state emergency farm labor supervisor in charge of the Women's Land Army; and H. P. Gaston, district state emergency farm labor assistant for the fruit areas. An assistant state farm labor supervisor in charge of transportation and housing is to be appointed.

Within Michigan the program gains momentum, following the signing of the congressional grant of funds recently by President Roosevelt. Funds allotted to Michigan to be used by the federal-state extension service in agriculture and home economics will provide for a general program throughout the state. Already county agricultural agents serving the 83 counties have been making contacts with farmers, recruiting labor and establishing county and community labor placement centers and committees.

To enable these county and community placement centers to function, the extension director's office has approved a general plan for personnel and operations to be directed by Mr. Love and his staff.

For the general program of recruiting, training and supervision there will be 40 emergency farm labor assistants appointed for six months to work "in the field" and a similar group to work in as many offices of county agricultural agents, located in major agricultural areas of Michigan. In nine other counties there will be a total of nine appointed as assistants in the field for two months and nine others as assistants in offices for two months. In two counties where the labor problem is not as critical there will be assistants in office work for six months.

In the Women's Land Army program to be supervised by Miss Peck in the state there are to be 11 emergency farm labor assistants appointed for four months to serve as a mobile force as needed in various counties for training and supervision.

For the Victory Farm Volunteers supervised by Mr. Dibble, the state program calls for the appointment of 22 emergency farm labor assistants for four-month periods as a mobile force for training and supervision.

Accidents are crippling the war effort. I am not going to bother you with a great many statistics and figures dealing with lost-time accidents in industry, lost-time accidents due to highway mishaps, accidents in the home and elsewhere, except to tell you that the accident toll is steadily going up. A death list of more than 100,000 is the tremendous total forecast for 1943.

This total can be reduced. All the work and effort that is put into the accident prevention program on the public highways, in industry, and in the home will keep war workers on the job to furnish arms, equipment, and fighting material to our fighting forces.

We cannot let our fighting men down; and therefore, we must stay up. Be safe—don't take chances.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

The 50-caliber Browning machine gun is one of the most efficient short range weapons used by U. S. Fighting forces. It is effective at ranges up to 2,000 yards and fires about 600 forty-five caliber bullets per minute.

One of these guns costs about $1,500, while a thirty-caliber machine gun costs approximately $800. Our fighting forces need thousands of these rapid-fire guns. Even a small town or community can buy many of them by uniting in the purchase of War Bonds. At least ten percent of your income in War Bonds every pay day will do the trick.

MURDER at PIRATE'S HEAD

By ISABEL WAITT

"Please, won't somebody help me down the ramp!" I heard Mr. Quincy holler again, but this time I did not turn around.

"Let him quit," Victor said, resuming the letter.

"To make this horrible story short, I'll say that my motive was vengeance. Five years ago Roddy Lane killed me after a summer's courtship in this very place. My brother was just a boy, but he saw we had a nervous breakdown and vowed he'd get even with Lane some day. I'd reserved that same pleasure for myself. I take the Rockyville paper just to keep track of Roddy. When the auction of the church was advertised I hoped he might show up. Got Hugh to vacation here, ostensibly to prove I could again visit the scene of my broken heart and show him the wound didn't bleed any more. Hugh fell for it. He's been a good brother to me. I told him the sight of the Castle, where I'd laughed and danced and had my romance, didn't give me a pang any longer. It wasn't true.

"When Roddy walked into the dining room at Gerry's, all the old bitter-sweet love came back again. And he didn't even pretend to recognize me! I'd never wronged him. I don't have to bare my heart any more. The old adage about a woman scorned is enough. I determined to go through with it. He'd never live to break another trusting heart.

"I left the table, passing but not speaking to him. I couldn't bear it if he greeted me like an old friend, in that casual, sneering way of his, which was the way he treated his past lovers. I'd studied his career and found it full of things he'd neglected to mention—such as his wife. I'd never dreamed he was already married while making love to me.

"I picked up the club Mr. De Witt had been using on the lawn and went for a stroll. Everybody, nearly, had gone to town, so I thought. Hugh was in his room. I saw Roddy coming down the Castle drive. He wanted to talk to me, he said, to tell me how miserable he'd been—the mistake we'd made of our lives. Could we ever forgive ourselves? And begin again!

"I had to steel myself against his passion. All the old feeling came rushing back. I was beginning to melt like sugar. He had to get some thing out of the church, he said, before it was auctioned off, he said. I asked him if he'd meant it when he said at supper he was going to buy it. "Buy it? What for?" he said. "Only come to the Head because I knew you were down here." I knew that was a lie. Hugh and I had only just arrived the week before, quite unheralded. We went into the church—the door was unlocked—and he told me to wait—but I followed him. Roddy, are you asking me to marry you again?" I said. He took me in his arms and kissed me. For a minute I was happy. Then he said: "No more wedding bells for me. Sort of companionate, maybe, darling." We were standing at the top of the basement stairs. I was so mad I gave him a push away from me. He fell down the stairs and must have struck his head on the granite floor. Ugh! I can see him now—all smashed. I dragged him to the chest and somehow got him in. I forgot about the golf club, which must have fallen down into the pool of blood. I heard somebody on the steps—Miss Kendall, or maybe it was Judy and Mr. Quincy. Any way, I ran out the basement door and home. Judy will remember she heard the door squeak, so I must have not quite closed it. I didn't know what to do. I considered jumping into the sea but hadn't the courage.

"Poor Bessie!" I murmured. Victor turned the last page. "I never intended Lily Kendall any harm. She was a bore and a pest, always bragging about her niece—that Gloria Lovelace, and trotting out her pictures. Gloria was her whole life, but I hadn't come to the Massachusetts coast to hear about her. Hugh and I couldn't take a walk but it was Gloria all the way. I knew Lily had seen me earlier that fatal evening when she'd gone to watch the sunset, but before reaching the church, of course. I knew she'd seen me wearing Hugh's blue scarf around my head. I'd lost the scarf while I was with Roddy. When you all went to the bridge to connect with the milkman, Lily didn't go. Neither did I. We took a walk together toward the sea. She told me she'd picked up my scarf and thrown it into the ocean, but the wind had blown it back into the Pirate's Mouth. She accused me openly of killing Roddy. I got her to show me where, and gave her a little push, too. She fell toward the slit in the rock, where she struck. The handkerchief was there, all right—but I didn't tie it around her neck. It slipped out of my fingers beyond reach into the cravice. I had no time to fish it out with, and hoped when the tide turned it might be washed away. But some wretch lied you forgetting your Uncle Wylie knew Miss Kendall hadn't been strangled, at a glance. He was right, it happens, but personally I had to make an examination, to be sure."

"Now, who's crazy? Maybe he made an examination, too!" I rushed up the steps in high dudgeon. Perhaps I'd better take Thaddeus Quincy's advice. Victor Quade seemed to say things like that every little while, which forced me to suspect the suspicion. Wylie Gerry? Bash in his boat? Kill Old Brown? Or even Roddy—over a few dollars and a boundary line? Let one of his wife's boarders, who could have throttled him with one hand, I could still see the dot of his figure down at the broken bridge. Victor made me furious.

Hugh Norcross was coming down the stairs. He came directly toward me. "Bessie says she gave you a letter for me. I don't know what's gotten into her. She won't speak to me. Locked herself in."

Was she afraid of him? I was glad I could see the man across the road and hear my aunt's movements in the kitchen. Then Bessie's despair made me forget my own fear. "You didn't give her any more of that sleeping medicine?"

"I'll say I didn't. She takes far too much of the stuff. Why, an overdose—"

"Exactly. Don't let her have it. You'll understand when you—I nearly said when I read the letter, which would have been an admission that I'd done so myself."

"You're sweet, Judy. My sister's nerves are an awful care. Go up and see if you can get her to quiet down, will you? I wish she was out of this mess. And you, too. When it's over there's something I want to say to you. Just now all I dare say or think of is—be careful." He was squeezing my hand till it hurt. "Where's the letter?"

"Mr. Quade has it. He's with the others at the barn. He told me to find you. It's important, Hugh." He took a few steps forward.

"You tell Bessie I'll be back soon, will you?"

"Sure," I said, glad to escape the devious gaze of his haggard eyes. I knocked on Bessie's door. She was crying.

"Hughie? I can't sleep! I can't sleep!"

"It's Judy. Want me to get you a cup of tea?"

"No, thank you. Did you give my brother the letter?"

"He has it now."

"I heard a scuffling off the bed. 'Did he give you the my medicine?'"

"No. Said you couldn't have any more till night. Do let me in, Bessie—Miss Norcross. I'll rub your head if it aches so badly."

But evidently she'd flung herself on the bed again, for muffled sobbing was heard only. I gave it up, finally, tiptoeing past poor Lily Kendall's room and on up into my own.

The picture of the now hateful old church stood in a corner of the hall near my door, where Victor had moved it when he'd gone to see if the $500 was still there. It stood on a newspaper, where Albin Potter had thoughtfully placed it to save the floor. I didn't pick it up until I came sure about the money. It was still there I'd left it! Certain peculiarities in the letter came to my mind, and it occurred to me at least Bessie had given me some hand-writing to compare, only I hadn't examined it closely. I'd go down and try to take a look. But first I picked up the picture to put it into my room.

A wet-painting isn't easy to handle, but when it's wet on both sides it is really difficult. Potter had painted the entire back of the canvases an apple green, which was even wetter than parts of the picture itself. I, too, got it on my hands, and just when I placed the thing under one of the windows to dry, it fell over. I made a grab, fearing it would be spoiled and smooched, and caught it, doing more damage probably than as if I'd let it go. Now my hands and a bit of floor beyond the newspaper were a horrid sight. I seized the paper and tried to wipe off the place where my hand had been, mending the back miserably. Then I stood the picture up again and raced downstairs to wash my hands. Never heard of painting a canvas on both sides before. Perhaps the artists did it that way now, or maybe Potter had painted on the back of another picture. It didn't matter. The thing was not to miss anything outside.

I could see Mr. Quincy still waving his red banner at the dots in the harbor. The men were hammering at the bottom of the Eleanor. The boat, they called to me, was virtually water tight, they hoped. The thing was to get it to the shore. Would I go get Wylie Gerry to tell them how? It was too heavy to carry, and they were afraid they'd scrape the patch off if they just dragged it along. Weren't there any rollers?

"Uncle Wylie'll show you. He's at the bridge." If De Witt or Potter thought I was much mistaken, I shouldered over where Victor was standing beside Hugh, who had just finished reading his sister's letter. Now he held it out to Quade.

"For God's sake, what shall I do?"

"You could destroy it."

"You read it?"

Victor nodded. "You all invited me to sort of take charge. I'll help any way I can, Norcross."

"But surely you don't think—"

"You could destroy it."

"You read it?"

"Keep your trap shut, young feller, me lad. Iffen you did kill Lane I guess we'll all back you up. It was self-defense, wasn't it?"

"And Miss Kendall?"

The men gathered around the boat, shaking their heads and murmuring to themselves. They might be good witnesses as far as Lane was concerned, but the others—

Uncle Wylie screamed in a high falsetto, the way he did whenever he wanted anything. "Nella!"

Auntie came running. "Where'd you hide the Eleanor's rollers?"

"Hide 'em? How should I know? Up in the barn chamber, ain't they?" She stood, a trim whisker of a woman in a neat checked bib apron, her gnarled hands on her hips. Then, catching sight of Hugh, "You sick, Mr. Norcross?"

Hugh raised haggard eyes and said nothing.

"I declare I feel a spell comin' on, too. Want some of my elderberry wine?" Her eye fell on the patch on the boat. "Land sakes! I'd rather put to sea in a barrel, 'tain't safe, is it, Wylie?"

Uncle Wylie was examining the patch. He looked at it outside and in, then he scratched his head. "Never git across the gap. Cove neither. Course we can roll her down and see. Me, I'd tear that thing off and do it right."

"Why don't you do it then?" his wife asked tartly.

"Take too long. Let's see if she'll hold water."

"Oh, what the heck!" Hugh sprang up to help get a log under the Eleanor. "Let's get going. I want the police to come. I want to be arrested before my sister comes down."

Thaddeus Quincy wheeled himself out of the way. De Witt stood with closed eyes, praying again. I thought, Potter and Uncle Wylie took hold of the boat.

Aunt Nella came down the steps and I went to meet her. She shot a querulous glance at Hugh and asked me what he'd meant. I tried to tell her in a breath.

WHAT A FARMER THINKS OF THE DOG QUARANTINE

Being a personal friend of Archie's I do not question his story as to the number (15) of dogs that crossed his property. We only know, had there been more (16) he would have said so, but could it be proven, I would bet a new hat that there was not a farmer's dog among that army of canines.

It isn't the dogs from the country that are tipping over garbage containers and ruining gardens, so why should farmers be asked to either confine or dispose of our dogs? A dog on a farm today is a very essential asset. The factories have taken our manpower, the Government our tools and machinery, and now the sheriff's department threatens to take the only help we have left—our dog. It seems unfair under existing circumstances.

Most dogs on our farms today are Collies, or have enough Collie blood in them that they are intelligent. Did you ever hear of a Collie becoming a tramp, or a sheep killer?

It is the unfed, homeless town dog that becomes an outlaw. It's their owner, or rather dog-owner, who is to blame—not the dog. A dog "tied" is of no use to a farmer. A Collie's sensitive nature rebels at confinement. He loses all faith in his master. He feels that he is being punished for something—but for what?

Let us keep the only help we have left—we need our dog now more than ever before.

—A Farmer.

Salty Lake Texcoco

Extraction of salt by rays of the sun from dry lake Texcoco near Mexico City has met with complete success, it has been announced by the Mexican ministry of agriculture.

About 77,000 tons valued at the equivalent of $4,000,000 has been gathered in tanks at an experimental station. The salt was obtained by a special system of evaporation with an apparatus which concentrated the sun's rays. The success of this enterprise was held to assure the Federal District, which includes Mexico City and important near-by communities, ample salt and perhaps to make them independent of the coastal salt mines.
