Employees of Central Fibre To Aid Farmers

In answer to the urgent appeal for emergency farm labor the Central Fibre Products Co. has organized an emergency volunteer corps among its workers, subject to call if application is made by farmers through the county agricultural agent.

At the present time 15 employees have volunteered, and the belief is expressed by company officials that this number will reach 25 within a short time. The company pays the wages of these employees while they are on emergency farm duty, the farmer being required to furnish only the meals. A plan of rotation has been worked out so that a man will not be required to go out more than one day at a time.

The plan went into action almost immediately, with a call coming last Friday for two men to assist a widow in the vicinity of Dexter who was unable to obtain help for potato planting. To start the ball rolling Harold Jones, general manager of Central Fibre, and Norman Phelps left early Saturday morning to try their hand at farming. They carried 60 bushels of potatoes from a basement, repaired a tank and treated the potatoes in preparation for planting. By that time other help had been sent to aid in planting (and believe it or not, both of these men were able to be on the job at the factory this week).

These volunteer employees of Central Fibre are to be congratulated for their spirit of cooperation, and with the critical labor shortage faced by farmers, along with adverse weather conditions which delay all farm work, their assistance should be of real value to many farmers during the current season. The company is also to be commended for the liberal policy in support of the program.

7th Graders Have Fine Record of Achievement

Thirty members of the seventh grade of the Chelsea public school are very proud of their year's work.

Early last fall, nearly all of the children learned to knit. Then they started making six-inch knit squares for a Red Cross afghan. They found yarn very expensive, so collected old sweaters, washed and unraveled them for yarn. They sold pencils to earn money for more yarn. By the year's end they had finished, with the aid of friends and families, five afghans, had nearly enough squares for a sixth one; they have purchased yarn and made plans for a seventh one to be entirely red, white, and blue. They are indebted to Mrs. Hopper for her help in sewing their afghans.

They joined the Junior Red Cross, presenting not only the afghans, but also seven humorous scrapbooks, one of which was donated by Mary Paul, three ambulance pillows, and one checkboard made by Clare Knickerbocker.

In shop class, several boys are making scale models of planes for use in the Navy's identification program.

Twenty-seven of the thirty families represented in the grade are having victory gardens, in which the children are pledged to help; in addition, twenty-two children plan to spend at least part of the summer on some farm, doing useful work.

During community scrap metal and paper and rubber drives, nearly all of the children helped.

The children sold each other over $553 worth of War Savings Stamps. In addition they staged a special effort for Pearl Harbor Day. They made and distributed over seventy posters, set up a booth in the school corridors and sold $418 worth of stamps and $2650 worth of bond pledges. Lyle Christwell obtained pledges for $750 worth. In the April bond drive, they invited the sixth grade to a stamp auction, at which they sold $687 worth of stamp and bond pledges. These figures are adjusted to avoid duplication in statistics, and do not include the purchases of the seventh grade.

They are proud of their achievement, and would like to know how they compare with other groups of seventh graders elsewhere.

We Are Individualists!

By Ruth Taylor

We are a nation of individualists. Those who would isolate us from the world urge us to stand upon that individualism, hoping thus to keep us from concerted action. Those on the other hand who believe in a collective society, whether it be under the rule of the State or of a Dictator—not that I have ever been able to see any distinction—condemn our individualism as archaic.

We as individualists will listen to neither critic. We have regard for the person and belief in the sanctity of the individual. We respect and defend the State because it represents the composite convictions of its individual citizens. We believe in the responsibilities as well as the rights of the individual. We also believe in the responsibility of the State both toward its citizens and toward those States who likewise join in the fellowship of nations.

It isn't always easy to be an individualist. There are many times when it would be much simpler to accept the mental rule of State or Dictator, to be told what to think, to have our minds ruled for us. We who have the heritage of free men must, however, do our own thinking day in and day out, in war as well as in peace.

Just now when attempts are being made from every side to push us this way and that, when the full forces of clever propaganda are unleashed upon us we must be clear and individual thinkers. The enemy propaganda has one aim in view, to divide and disrupt us—to turn us, from a nation of strong individuals working side by side without regard for birthplace, work and religious faith, to a collection of small, impotent groups, bickering and warring among ourselves, pushing for personal advantages, and allowing prejudice and bias to make us oblivious to the enemy whose aggressive tactics are always aimed first at the minds of those whom it wishes to conquer.

Let us therefore, in this hour of world travail, stand firm in our individual liberties, fighting and working together as one for the good of all. We know that if the rights of one are threatened, the rights of all are in danger, for no great country has ever been defeated from without that was not first defeated from within. Let us who wish to be free men, to maintain our individualism, stand firm on what we believe holding only that all men are created equal and avoiding all generalizations of our neighbor by his class, his creed or his color. Let us at all times preserve that unity of purpose which has made us a nation of individuals and which has given us freedom to live and to pass on a greater measure of freedom to each succeeding generation.

The second registration took those from 21 to 45. There were 5,795.

Soll Erosion Costly
Erosion has already ruined about 14 per cent of the land surface in the United States. At least 75 per cent of our cultivated area has a sufficient degree of slope to be classified as subject to erosion.

By Gene Alleman

If Michigan's Grenisse M. Brown can pull a rabbit out of the hat, he may be able to save the OPA system of price ceilings, rollbacks and other controls from a resounding Humpty Dumpty fall.

Resignation of Arthur Sarvis, the Flint banker, as state director is regarded as just another sign of impending trouble on the price front. Detroit received two complicated sets of ceiling prices in two weeks; two of the three daily papers refused to duplicate columns of space to publish the second listing. Sarvis said he had been given 48 hours' notice for the first release which was badly scrambled.

Chain and independent food store operators have denounced the new roll-back ceilings, declaring that distribution of food was threatened with "complete demoralization" if not "annihilation."

Michigan business executives, who have recently visited Washington, have expressed privately their concern over present symptoms of runaway inflation. OPA's failure to hold price ceilings is just one factor. Another is the wobbly policy whereby the War Labor Board continues to pierce wage ceilings and whereby the 48-hour work week is being extended to more key industries.

Although the nation did oversubscribe the $13 billion second war loan by around $5 billions, the fact still remains according to public statements by William M. Robbins, chairman of the United States Treasury Department's war finance committee—that only 7 per cent of all bonds sold were "E" bonds. These bonds are popularly called "people's bonds" because of their low denomination. Who subscribed the other billions? Mostly the banks, insurance companies, trust companies, manufacturing concerns and governmental units.

On the political front, the visit of Wendell L. Wilkie to Michigan last Sunday occasioned new gossiping about the line-up of Michigan Republicans for the 1944 campaign. A powerful movement is under way among Michigan Republicans to support Thomas Dewey, New York's Owaso-born governor, for the presidential nomination. Secretary of State Dignam of Owosso is Dewey's bell-ringer here, but the Wilkie triumph at Michigan polls in 1940 is not forgotten among the politicians. The soaring popularity of his Gulliver's travels, "Our World", is boosting the Wilkie stock. Frank McKay, national committeeman, was prominent at the Wilkie reception in Detroit.

The labor shortage in Michigan, due to become worse in 90 days as fathers under the age of 38 are called to military duty, may be eased somewhat by the current cut-back of production in key war plants. Michigan's industrial capacity is near to the top. As the government revises schedules, labor is being released.

More airplanes and fewer tanks under this spring's schedules give rise to increasing belief that the United Nations may seek to knock-out Germany and Italy in 1943 by air attacks and limited invasions—Norway and Italy, for example—and leave the big continental attack to 1944. The grand invasion may possibly come earlier if Germany weakens internally under continued air assault.

Betting odds still favor President Roosevelt as the democratic presidential nominee in 1944. Churchill's masterful address in Washington increased the bet. The Lewis swing to AFL is regarded as a "best Roosevelt" move. Lewis favored Wilkie in 1940.

Continued rainy weather, accompanied by cold temperatures, hasn't improved the prospects of a good food crop in 1943. Michigan gardeners are urged to plant non-perishable vegetables which can be stored next winter and to overlook the traditional luxury items of lettuce, onions and radishes.

Strict liquor rationing for Michigan consumers is on the cards of the state liquor control commission, as soon as the present registration drive is completed. Arrangements are to be made later for visitors and service men.

On the walls of Governor Kelly's executive office is a huge chart showing the state's various administrative offices, commissions and agencies. Reason: Kelly is surveying governmental units with the thought of consolidations and simplification.

Despite gasoline rationing, the vacation resorts in the lower peninsula—especially those served by railroads and buses—anticipate a good season this summer. Demand is heavy for cottages.

Lieutenant Governor Eugene C. Keyes, who spent several years of his boyhood on an Ontario farm, recently inspected a farm near Howell. His idea: A good farm is a good investment.

Our Neighbors

PLYMOUTH—Hitler maybe is getting a tough break over in Germany, but not so in America. Akron's strikes in the rubber factories has hit the tire recapping business in Plymouth and unless the strike comes to an immediate end, there will be no tire recapping in this city for some time to come. Workers in the war industries in this vicinity are the chief patrons of Mr. Flusling's tire recapping service. If the strike is not ended within a few days, there will be large numbers of war workers who will be without transportation to their jobs, a great break for Hitler and Hirohito.—Mail.

BRIGHTON—Brighton is to be the home of two new war industries, the Toks Company, with Harry S. Toy, of Detroit, and Harry Sparks, of Jackson, as owners, and the Prosemo Company, with Robert W. Grant, of Detroit, as owner and manager. Both companies are located in the Lorimer Building, on Grand River Avenue.—Argus.

MUNITH—It is estimated that over 300 acres of onions have been destroyed by the high water in the Munith district. The cost of the seed and fertilizer is around $20,000, which does not include the expense of preparing the ground and plowing the crop. This is a serious loss to this community for the onions and potatoes have brought an annual business to this vicinity from a quarter to a half million dollars. Not only is it a loss to the grower, but several hundred workers are thrown out of employment. It is every one's loss when the buying power of these farmers and farm workers is curtailed.—Grass Lake News.

PINOKNEY—At a school board meeting Saturday night Supt. E. L. Hulce, head of the Pinckney school for the past five years, submitted his resignation. He gave as his reason inability to find a place to live in the house he lives in now will have to be vacated as the owner wants it himself. In his five years here he has moved three times. Mr. Hulce has accepted a position as instructor at the Ford Bomber plant and started work Monday. He will move to Chelsea, his former home.—Dispatch.

"Glad we ran into you, Judge. I was just tryin' to set Helen straight on this business about sugar. I wish you'd tell her what you told me last night down at lodge."

"Glad to, Jim. I told him, Helen, that there's not a single bit of truth to the rumor that the distillers use sugar in making whiskey. They make it exclusively from grain. Only bootleggers use sugar to make whiskey. I read an article in the paper just last week that goes to prove it. It told how a confessed bootlegger in a Federal court testified to the fact that another bootlegger, also on trial, had bought a million pounds of sugar a few years ago.

"As a matter of fact, Helen, no distiller is making whiskey today and hasn't for many months. All distillers are working night and day producing war alcohol for the government. And they make every drop of it exclusively from grain, too."

Good Care Will Cut Loss of Young Chicks

Average poultrymen lose 25 per cent of the baby chicks they hatch or purchase, good poultrymen with wise management lose only about 10 per cent of the young stock before it matures for meat or eggs, but the caretakers who don't take care may lose 50 per cent of his chicks.

Poultry in Michigan contributes so much to the war effort that chicks saved represent both economy and patriotism, comments J. M. Moore, extension poultryman at Michigan State College.

He endorses a 22-point program. With Michigan's hatcheries still turning out baby chicks and many potential flocks still in the young chick stage, the pointers offer ways to reduce mortality, reduce labor and add to the war effort.

First bit of advice is that poultrymen purchase quality chicks from pulperum-tested stock. Prepare for arrival of chicks by having equipment and houses cleaned, disinfected. Move brooder house to clean ground. Pro-

Thinning of Fruit Will Increase Size

To thin or not to thin is a decision that the fruit grower must make nearly every year and it should be made on the basis of heaviness of set and anticipated market conditions.

Sound clean fruit of almost any size probably will be in demand in 1943 and perhaps the smaller sizes will be in good enough demand to pay for their cost. The medium and larger sizes, however, will be in greater demand and bring higher prices. Thinning will likely yield good dividends. Certainly the apple and pear grower should thin severely enough to produce 2 1/2 inch or larger fruits in the case of most standard varieties; peaches and plums should be thinned to yield sizes that for them correspond to 2 1/2 inch apples.

No thinning should be done until after the June drop. The sooner it is done after the June drop the greater will be the increase in size derived from it.

Experimental studies at the Michigan Experiment Station have shown that in thinning apples and pears, spacing should depend on stockiness of wood. Fruits that are spaced only 4 to 5 inches apart on thick stocky wood will normally attain good size; fruits on slender or "thin" wood in the same trees must be spaced twice as far apart, or even more, to attain similar size.

Therefore the spacing should be wider in the lower and interior portions of the trees than on the outside and in the top where the bearing wood is thicker and stockier. This is because the leaves on the thicker wood are larger and closer spaced than on the thin wood and it takes a certain amount of leaf area near each fruit to bring it up to a certain minimum size.

For peaches and plums, the development of any individual fruit is not so completely dependent on the leaves close to it; it draws its food supply from leaves farther away as well as from those close at hand. For this reason there is no advantage in spacing peaches and plums much wider on slender than on stocky wood. These fruits, however, should always be spaced far enough so that no two are touching each other as they ripen and for large size they must be spaced wider still.

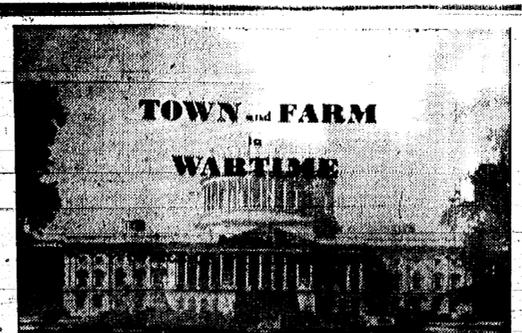

More Canned Food for Civilians

Civilians will gain 80 million cases of canned fruits and vegetables as a result of reduced Government requirements, the War Food Administration has announced. The reductions are mainly for corn, peas, spinach, tomatoes, snap beans, fruit cocktail, sweet cherries, peaches, pineapple, and pineapple juice. Since the 1943 production is not known, current point values for these items will not be immediately affected.

Householders may use their oil cooking stoves this summer regardless of the availability of coal or wood-fired stoves, OPA has announced. The present restriction denying fuel oil rations for domestic cooking and water heating if adequate "stand-by" equipment is available has been lifted because of the shortage of all fuels.

A serviceman on a leave or furlough of at least three days hereafter will be provided with a complete application form for obtaining rationed food before he leaves camp. He will give the application to the person who provides his meals, who will submit it to the local board for food certificates within fifteen days after the furlough ends.

By December, 1943, one-third of the female population of working age—17.4 million women—will be required for the civilian labor force and the armed forces, said WMC Chairman

At least two million women must be added to the labor force in 1943.

Sugar Supply for 1943

On the basis of prospective 1943 supplies of sugar, the current level of consumption in this country probably can be maintained, the War Food Administration has announced. The allocation of the prospective supply will be as follows: 1,153,000 tons for the armed forces, lend-lease, and other exports, and 4,600,000 tons for civilian uses. The civilian uses include an estimated 2,258,000 tons for household use and home canning, and 2,342,000 tons for industrial and institutional sugar users.

Lumber for Farms

To relieve lumber shortages on farms for all repairs except those to farm dwellings, WPB has set aside a total of 500 million board feet of lumber for delivery on an AA-2 preference rating during June, July, August and September. Farmers who cannot obtain lumber with present ratings, should apply to the County Farm Rationing Committee for certificates to purchase lumber for maintenance, repair, and new construction necessary to the food production program.

Long Service

Senator Robert M. LaFollette of Wisconsin celebrated his 48th birthday recently, and his 13th year in congress. And in his case, it probably would not be inappropriate to inquire to what he attributes his longevity.

Fats for Glycerine

If every housewife in the United States saved four ounces of waste cooking-fat in a week, it would produce enough glycerine for the requirements of 13 million pounds of double-base powder, used as a high explosive.

Nature has provided an ideal for military clothing experts to aim at—by endowing the duck with an all-weather protective covering, of ideal warmth yet light weight, thoroughly ventilated and impervious to moisture.

Essential Garden Crops Should Be Planted Now

Housewives who look to the farm or city Victory Garden to put more adequate food reserves on the pantry shelves may find some benefit out of the late, wet spring in Michigan.

According to home economics extension specialists at Michigan State College, the weather has permitted a wise choice of garden crops and extra time to figure out what are garden luxuries and what are necessities.

Two of the best garden crops for family health and nutrition are still timely for planting. These might be snap beans and tomatoes. If there is any restriction on gardening because of lack of time or garden space, then these crops should get first-choice for available garden space.

Luxury crops in wartime gardening are those that take up space, take seed, fertilizer and sweat, and yet fail to produce the vitamins, the volume or the type of crop that can be canned or stored for winter use.

Under the luxury heading are such garden favorites as sweet corn, cucumbers, peas, parsnips and radishes. For a garden of average size, the college recommendations suggest 11 of the most essential vegetables. In addition to the tomatoes and the snap beans, beets, broccoli and cabbage are three others that belong on the list because of the volume and value produced for the space and time required for the production.

Another must is carrots for storage and for summer use. Lettuce for use fresh, onions, turnips, spinach especially for canning and winter squash complete the list.

Thanks to YOU! The Red Cross, USO, Army Relief and Navy Relief recently shared equally a gift of $2,453,183.20—the proceeds of the Petroleum Industry Scrap Rubber Drive of last summer, which also gave America its present war tires and recap rubber. We are proud that Standard Oil Company (Indiana) through its dealers and agents, collected more scrap rubber than any other single company in the country and, consequently, turned in the greatest individual amount toward this gift.

Conservation Clubs To Convene On June 19-20

Representatives of the 140 Michigan sportsmen's organizations federated in Michigan United Conservation Clubs will tackle hunters' and fishermen's wartime problems in a brief 1943 convention at Ionia on June 19 and 20, according to state MUCC officers. Wartime travel conditions forced abandonment of a planned meeting in Bellaire.

At Ionia representative will discuss the question, "Can gasoline be used to go fishing." The effect of the war on the state fish program will be related by F. A. Westerman, chief of the conservation department's fish division, and its effect on game and hunting will be discussed by H. D. Ruhl, chief of the department's game division.

Outstanding conservation controversies of the year will be reviewed: deer feeding, dealers' percentage of hunting and fishing fees, the Bond Falls case, Sunday hunting laws, and granting the conservation commission discretionary authority over season dates and creel and bag limits.

There will be regular reports on progress of pollution control, FEFS emplacements, protection and control of dogs, Great Lakes fisheries, junior conservation education, and predator control. Lloyd Eagan of the Detroit Sportsmen's Congress will report on work of the National Wildlife Federation. Gunners are advised to bring their own ammunition for trap, skeet and rifle matches.

Sir Walter Raleigh drank his beer Before he started out for here.

'Twas made all in an open pot, And dust got in it, like as not.

The Indians, too, made beer from maize; It aged in open vats for days.

Although the taste was odd enough, Sir Walter seemed to like the stuff.

It took us quite a bit of doing To find a better way of brewing.

We might say that it all began One day right here in Michigan.

When Altes tightly sealed its brews, That really made historic news!

And that's how Altes won its favor— From first to last it keeps its flavor!

Make yourself an Altes trial— Boy—it's better by a mile!

ALTES Lager

AGED-IN SEALED-IN FLAVOR!

If Mother Nature had brewed a fine beer, its flavor would have been aged-in and sealed-in just like it is with fruits and nuts. That's why we protect the delicious flavor of purest malt and hops used in brewing Altes Lager by the exclusive Aged-In, Sealed-In Altes brewing process. Air and impurities cannot get to Altes—so we say... no other beer can offer you so much.

To High School Graduates:

ROBERT M. HUTCHINS

Your generation is taking its place in the world in much the same circumstances as mine did. Our elders gave us a world of war we are passing on to you a world engaged in a conflict of even greater dimensions which will have even more drastic repercussions on your lives. If civilization is not to move blindly from one catastrophe to another your generation must succeed where mine has failed. Not the least of your handicaps will be the interruption of your education by the war. Most of the young men, and many of the young women, will enter the armed forces. These exist to win a war, and the education they provide, even for those they send to training programs in the colleges and the universities, is intended to produce effective fighters. But the education which will be needed after the war to preserve and keep the freedom which you have defended is liberal education. You cannot preserve your freedom, you cannot use it well, unless you know what freedom is and what to do with it. Only liberal education can so enlighten you. Without it you cannot replace our concern with materialism with the moral and spiritual reformation which alone can create a world concerned with the highest good of man and society. Your part in winning the war is only the beginning of what you must undertake. After the war you must see to it that you get a liberal education.

Miss Palmer Becomes Bride of Lieut. Gies

Before a background of huckleberry greens and white flower arrangements, Miss Winifred Palmer, daughter of Captain and Mrs. A. A. Palmer, became the bride of Lieut. Lehman Raymond J. Gies, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond J. Gies of Detroit. The services were read in the Wesleyan Room of the Methodist church in Ann Arbor by Dr. Charles Brahares at two o'clock in the afternoon on June 1st. Miss Palmer, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a dress of white chiffon designed with a tight hip-line bodice buttoned down the front and finished at the neckline with a dainty collar beaded in white. This full skirt fell to the floor over a foundation of folds to shoulder length. Flowers of cream shaded roses, gardenias, white snapdragons and larkspur made up the bride's bouquet. Attending as maid of honor, Lois Palmer, sister of the bride, was attractive in a simple dress of shell pink with a tight fitting bodice of faille completed with a floor-length skirt of marquisette over taffeta. Her bouquet of Johanna Hill roses was tied with ivory ribbon and designed in colonial fashion. Her headdress was of matching flowers. Miss Janet Stickney of Birmingham and Miss Louise Whipple of Evanston, Ill., both sorority sisters of the bride, were dressed alike in dresses similar to that of the maid of honor. The bridesmaids wore of light blue silk Jersey, while the full skirts were of the same shade of marquisette over taffeta, dotted with flowers in pink and rose shades. Little caps of dutch design to match the dresses in color completed the ensemble. Briceliff roses tied with shell pink bows were arranged in the same colonial pattern. The groom chose his father as his best man, while Dr. Robert Root of Ann Arbor and Roland De Martin of Flint acted as ushers. As a musical prelude and for the wedding music Reuben Kempf and Miss Betty Ivanhoff of Ann Arbor, organist and violinist respectively, were most effectively a background for the service. The reception immediately following the ceremony took place in the Michigan League Garden, where white stock and pink peonies were used in all vases in front of the portico. Lieutenant and Mrs. Gies left for Baltimore, Maryland, where the former will report for service in the Dental Corps of the Army. For traveling Mrs. Gies chose an ensemble of black sheer crepe with a peasant vest of scarlet. With this she used black accessories. The bride attended Mary Washington College in Fredericksburg, Virginia, later entering the school of Dental Hygiene at the University of Michigan where she was a member of Delta Gamma Sorority. She graduated in May. Lieutenant Gies attended Albion College and last February graduated from the Dental College at the University, where he was a member of Delta Sigma Delta Fraternity. Preceding the wedding, Mrs. Geo. O. Leonard of Detroit was hostess to the wedding party for the rehearsal dinner at the Michigan League on Monday evening, May the thirty-first.

Continuous Rainfall Causes Much Damage

The Food-Freedom campaign is getting continuous setbacks in this section due to the heavy rainfall which is so much in evidence almost every day. As usual, there has been little sunshine during the past week, and there was heavy rainfall on Saturday night; on Sunday evening and night there was a torrential downpour which again flooded basements and factory buildings in the village. There was some let-up until Tuesday afternoon when a heavy storm again struck, bringing plenty of rain and wind which did some damage. A severe electrical storm about 2:00 o'clock on Wednesday morning brought another deluge—we stop reporting there, but the weather continues to get worse. Most lowlands are flooded and it has been necessary to close some of the highways to traffic because of the flooded conditions. Farmers are unable to work their land, and it is doubtful if there will be much corn planted, as many prospective corn fields are almost entirely under water. Victory gardeners, as well as farmers, are justified in their discouragement over this season's crop prospects.

Governor Makes Appeal For More Farm Labor

An emergency in respect to the planting of Michigan crops exists in 25 southeastern counties of the state according to a report given to Governor Kelly by the Agricultural Advisory Committee of the Office of Civilian Defense, augmented by the Executive Committee of the Michigan Farm Labor Committee. This committee appraised the agricultural situation brought about by unseasonable spring weather and found that the area most affected extends from Bay and Midland counties southward through the Saginaw valley, the Thumb district and southeastern Michigan as far west as Branch county. Governor Kelly was advised that Michigan's Food-Freedom production program was hanging in the balance; that continuous rains in important agricultural counties have sharply curtailed the planting of spring grains, corn, and sugar beets; that feed crops which support Michigan's vast dairy, poultry, and livestock production have been so seriously delayed that estimates based on reports from county agricultural agents, farmers, and crop specialists, indicate a likelihood that the average of these crops will be reduced 80 per cent. With delayed farm work doubling up with planting, labor on the farm has become a prime factor in utilizing all available land for crops that can still be planted, the committee pointed out. The Governor was asked to make an appeal to non-farm people to lend a hand in this emergency which threatens Michigan's food supply. The mayors of all cities and the president of all villages in the affected areas are being requested by the Governor to cooperate with their local Defense Councils in forming a clearing house to assist the farmers in getting sufficient part-time help to plant crops without a moment's unnecessary delay. All residents of cities and villages in the affected area, who have any knowledge of farm work, are urged to contact farmer acquaintances and offer their services in this campaign to salvage every possible acre of production. Each day of delay in corn planting after May 25 means a reduction in yield of about one bushel to the acre, the committee reported. However, early June plantings of corn, soy beans, and sugar beets are very much worthwhile. Corn can do much to make up for the shortage of oats and barley if planted the first half of June, while soybeans and sugar beets planted up to June 15 or 20 may produce nearly normal yields if summer and fall conditions are favorable. The extreme importance of immediate planting was stressed by the committee. "If we do not plant, we do not harvest, and what we do not harvest, we do not eat," Kelly said.

BETHEL LADIES' AID SOCIETY TO OBSERVE 50TH ANNIVERSARY

The 50th anniversary of the founding of the Ladies' Aid Society of Bethel Evangelical church, Freedom township, will be observed with special services on Sunday, June 6. The Golden Jubilee service will be held at 10:30 a. m. with sermon by Rev. H. S. von Reque of Manchester. A social hour for members of the Ladies' Aid and their families will be held in the church parlors at 7:30 p. m. Rev. W. F. Bahmann, pastor of the church, extends a cordial welcome to all to attend the jubilee service.

Poultrymen Are Urged To Produce More Eggs

Washtenaw county poultrymen are asked by the government to produce approximately 2,864,000 dozen eggs this year, 3.4 per cent more than in 1942, as their share in the Food for Victory program, the National Poultry Defense committee estimates. This county goal, which is based on the percentage increase suggested for Michigan by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, can be reached if adequate supplies of labor and feed are available, declared Committee Chairman Hobart Creighton. "Poultry farmers are now working harder than ever in all-out war production," Creighton said, "continuing the fine job they did in this county last year by producing approximately 2,781,000 dozen eggs to help supply civilian, military and lend-lease needs. Also, two developments during last year have resulted in larger laying flocks on most farms today. "First, egg prices as shown by purchases of a large company which last year paid $124,364 in Michigan for 676,860 dozen, were so favorable that farmers saved an unusually large proportion of potential layers. Second, conditions in 1942 were good for raising pullets, as fall weather was generally mild and the average hatching date was early. "These factors point to increased egg production," Creighton explained, "if an improvement can be made in the farm skilled labor situation and if farmers can get enough protein feeds. There are critical shortages of protein ingredients because imports have been cut so drastically. Even soybean oil meal is not being processed fast enough to meet demands. These are major problems facing the industry." Michigan poultrymen, who produced a total of 118,600,000 dozen eggs in 1942 are asked for 122,538,000 dozen this year as their share of the national egg goal of 4,280,000,000 dozen.

Government Will Use Less Canned Supplies

The War Food Administration has sharply reduced the quantities of canned fruits and vegetables that canners must set aside from 1943 production for government requirements. These reductions amount to approximately 7 million cases of canned fruits and juices, and 23 million cases of canned vegetables. The reductions principally are for corn, peas, spinach, tomatoes, snap beans, fruit cocktail, sweet cherries, peaches, pineapple, and pineapple juice. Officials pointed out the reduction in the quantities to be set aside for the government will mean a net gain for civilians of 80 million cases above what they otherwise would have received from the 1943 pack. Current point values for canned fruits, vegetables and juices are not immediately affected by the change in government requirements. Changes in the set-aside percentages were effected through the issuing of Food Distribution Order 22.4, which combines and supersedes Food Distribution Orders 22.1, 22.2, and 22.3. This new order specifies the quantities of each canned fruit and vegetable product that must be reserved from 1943 production. Smaller set-aside percentages were possible in view of other types of processed foods not available in 1942 but which will be available in 1943. These include frozen and dehydrated vegetables and the fresh and processed foods which will be produced at overseas points. Also the fact that 1942 packs were larger than estimated February 19 when the order was originally issued enabled the percentages to be decreased in some cases.

RECEPTION

The annual Junior-Senior Reception was held last Friday. About 142 attended the banquet which started promptly at 6:30 with Rev. Grabowski saying grace. The delicious dinner served by Sophomores consisted of creamed chicken or tuna fish, mashed potatoes, biscuits, asparagus, and relish plates.

After the desert of ice cream and cake was served, Tom Rademacher, toastmaster, started the program by introducing Mr. Laudenslager, who led in group singing. Virginia Spaulding, Junior class president, welcomed the Seniors; Wilma Schweinfurth, Senior class president, responded. Mrs. Laudenslager then played Mardi Gras. Mr. Miller, guest speaker, spoke concerning the effects of the war on youths. Mrs. Laudenslager played another selection, and the program was closed by Tom asking all to attend the dance.

The orchestra arrived on time, and the dance started at 9:15. The music was especially good. The gym was decorated in a Hawaiian scheme. The ceiling was a dark blue sky with white stars. Brown stripes of paper, representing grass, were strung from this ceiling to the floor. Some were drawn back to form little alcoves in which card tables and floor lamps were set. Potted palms and vases of lilacs were placed here and there. Those who didn't dance played cards or just listened and watched.

All those present had much fun. The Seniors really enjoyed the evening, and the Juniors felt duly repaid for all their hard work to make the reception a success.

HERE AND THERE DURING THE YEAR

Remember when some of the football boys made their appearance in those flashy yellow sweaters.

Remember when we were wearing boots for snow, and we're wearing them for the rainy weather.

We beat U. High and won the western division of the Huron League.

Do you boys remember when a new freshman girl came here to school? The girls do, I'm sure.

Remember when Mr. Johnson came to school all smiles? Of course, they were all for his new son.

Now we are studying for those final exams as we did for those mid-year tests that many had in their classes.

The last days of chemistry lab caused quite a commotion around here with the fire that broke out in lab.

The Journalism Club started writing letters to the service boys.

The Latin Club took up a collection for a service flag, which now has 156 stars on it. The club also collects the pictures of the service boys.

The Senior boys took Army and Navy tests, with several of them getting notices they passed them.

Mr. Bust left for the Army (he was seen in town last Saturday).

The Bond Auctions held during the year, with Bob S. and Luther K. the auctioneers, were successful.

No one recognized Al Doll in the bush hair he had.

The G. A. A. ordered basketball sweaters ages ago and they still haven't come.

After the Reception, kids went just everywhere, and I don't particularly mean home.

F. F. A.

Tomato plants have been started in the Ag room for distribution to F. F. A. members. A special early variety was planted so the members can compare this variety with the common variety.

Plans have been made to expand the F. F. A. pig project. Each boy who wishes to start a pig project is given an 8 week pig right now.

after farrowing time he returns the pig so another boy can start a project. When the project was started several years ago the club chose the Duroc Jersey breed.

DEFENSE COUNCIL

The defense council members looked through and discussed some articles in a "Schools at War" booklet.

They also took apart the war stamp corsage and totaled the value of all unsold stamps.

Two new members were appointed for next year from the Sophomore class. They are Joan Pierce and Dick Richards.

Save Heels

With shoe rationing, scuffless heels have become a more important factor than ever in shoe choice. For a shabby heel makes the whole shoe look shabby. Many an otherwise trim and new looking oxford or pump has been spoiled by curb-stones, street gratings, cinders, car driving or bicycle pedaling, which may quickly ruin leather-covered heels. To keep well-groomed with the fewest possible pairs of shoes, scuffless heels are a "must"—whether for factory, office or general wear.

Edison Bought Filament

In his experiments to develop the incandescent light Thomas A. Edison tried cardboard and the whisker of a man's beard for filaments.

Lice and Mange Retard The Fattening Of Hogs

Michigan hogs are taking too much time out from their wartime fattening. But it's the fault of lice and mange and not their lack of appetite. The slowdown in the fattening process makes gains cost more, a fact which leads to some recommendations from V. A. Freeman of the Michigan State College animal husbandry department.

Lice, he says, are easy to see and have been prevalent on livestock throughout the state for many years. Mange produces intense itching, causes a rough skin, lowers the market value of the hog and has been on the increase in the state in the past 10 years.

Either can be controlled by the use of oil. This can be applied by sprinkling, dipping, putting oil on the surface of the wallow-holes or keeping fresh oil on a rubbing post. Crude oil is recommended when available, but most any kind of oil will turn the trick, even to used crank-case oil from a tractor or automobile.

Many farmers prefer lime and sulphur for the treatment of livestock mange. The pigs can be sprinkled with a mixture of one part of liquid lime and sulphur to 20 parts of water, or they may be dipped in a solution of 1 to 25. Holding in the dip at body temperature for two minutes is the most effective treatment. However, splendid results have been obtained by herding the pigs into a corner and just sprinkling the pigs with the solution. The liquid smarts their eyes and causes them to jump over one another with the result that a few minutes of sprinkling will wet the pigs practically all over.

When both lice and mange are present, a good combination treatment is made by stirring one-fourth pound of dry lime and sulphur into three gallons of oil and then applying this mixture as described above.

The subject of taxes is not a very pleasant one. All of us have been paying increased taxes and we are paying them willingly because they are for a good cause—the defense of our American way of life.

Have you ever figured out what accidents are costing the people of the United States even in these times? The money that is spent for accidents isn't spent for a cause, because every cent of it is wasted. Accidents can be prevented and therefore any money spent because of accidents is money thrown away.

Here is our accident tax bill for last year as announced by the National Safety Council:

$118 per second.
$3,500,000 per day.
$3,500,000,000 for the year.

What is your share of this tax bill? What have you done to contribute and what effort have you made in the reduction of this tax bill by driving safely, working safely, and living safely? Think it over.

TO: The American People FROM: The Secretary of the Treasury

A report on the most tremendous financing task in history - - - the Second War Loan

DURING the three weeks between April 12 and May 1, the American people tackled the biggest job of financing in the history of the world.

In these three weeks it was proposed to raise the sum of 13 billion dollars, or more than half as much as was raised by five drives in the first world war.

It was obvious that the task was hopeless unless the people of the nation were desperately in earnest about the war. And it was equally obvious that here was, so to speak, a thermometer by which the fervor of the people could be measured with reasonable accuracy.

This is why we believe you, as an American citizen, can take pride in this report. For it was written solely by you, the people.

The result, in dollars

Our goal was 13 billion dollars. Actually, the American people subscribed 18 billion, 500 million dollars.

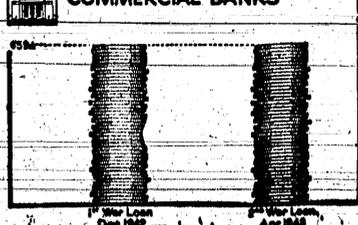

This was 90% as much as was raised in all five drives of the first world war combined.

It was, I think, as much a victory for America and the free American democracy as any military triumph.

Where did the money come from? You will be interested in where this 18½ billion dollars came from—for every dollar invested in War Bonds is more than a purchase; it is a demonstration of faith.

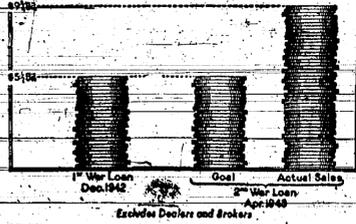

The chart below shows the portion of the 18½ billion that came from commercial banks. They were eager to buy more, but were limited to set amounts:

COMMERCIAL BANKS

Insurance Companies and other Corporations know that there is no sounder investment than a U. S. Bond. The chart (top of next column) shows their purchases:

INSURANCE COMPANIES AND CORPORATIONS

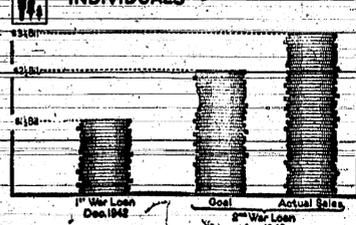

Naturally, it was your money that bought the bonds in the two groups above—for you are the people who put your money in banks and invest in insurance.

But how about what might be called your "personal" money.

That is a very important question, for it is vital that Americans, as individuals, buy War Bonds with all they can spare.

Our goal, here, was 2½ billion dollars. The chart below tells the story:

INDIVIDUALS

50 million bondholders

To review your record to date, almost half our entire population own at least one bond—including infants, children, the lame, the halt and the blind.

Or, to look at it in terms of those best able to buy bonds, see the chart below:

5/6 Of all the people earning money HAVE BOUGHT BONDS

Who gets the credit?
The credit for the 2nd War Loan goes to the people.

It goes to the children who put dimes and quarters into war stamps. To everyone who bought a bond. To thousands of patriotic banking people. To advertising people who donated their creative talents. To patriotic merchants and companies who paid the bill for war bond messages. To radio stations, newspapers, movies, outdoor advertising companies, and publications.

But chiefly, perhaps, to those who turned voluntary bond salesmen—a loyal legion of patriots.

What lies ahead?
Yes, America's record is good. But we cannot become complacent—for our biggest financing job lies ahead.

In the first 4 months of this year, we raised 25 billion dollars. During the balance of this year we must raise 45 billion dollars more.

The war is costing us 100 billion dollars this year. Part of this will come from taxes, and the balance must come from War Loans.

You, as an American, can take pride in what you have done. You have shown the Axis that Americans on the home front, like Americans on the battle front, will do all that is required of them—and more.

But our need is great. Dig as deeply as you possibly can and invest it in War Bonds now—either through the Payroll Savings Plan or through special purchases. Don't wait for "drives."

We must win this war with bayonets—and with dollars. We who stay home in safety must provide the dollars—all that are needed. It is the very least we can do.

MURDER at PIRATE'S HEAD
By ISABEL WAITT

I started to open my closet door and saw I'd have to move the church picture again. Oh dear, more paint! But this time I was careful and turned it farther along the wall, taking hold of one corner and reversing the painting. Suddenly I sat back on my heels and stared. As plain as day the face of a funny little monkey showed through the place where I'd wiped it with a newspaper a little while ago. The only monkey I knew of as a pet belonged to Gloria Lovelace—Lily Kendall's niece! I began to wonder what the rest of the picture looked like.

The paint was still wet. As I swiped at it with paper a portrait emerged dubiously. Nothing distinct—but a young woman with oodles of curls holding a monkey. If I could get some linseed oil or even kerosene, maybe I'd have a portrait. Two initials came to view—A. P., down in one corner. Albion Potter, of course.

I recalled a picture of Lily's niece—the movie star—and a monkey. I knew I shouldn't, but I deliberately went into Miss Kendall's room. And the first thing I saw was a photograph I'd often noticed before of a pretty girl with lots of hair holding up a pet monkey. That was queer enough. Had Lily given Albion Potter a commission to do a portrait of her niece right from the photograph? That must be it. Yes; there it was. A little linseed oil and anyone could see the subjects were the same. The painting, what I could see of it, looked very good. Why should Potter green it out just to do that old church, which wasn't painted nearly as well? Didn't he think it good enough to submit?

I went up and put on my dotted voile and joined the others before the police came. "That was a swell portrait you did of Miss Kendall's niece, Mr. Potter," I smiled at him. "Only I wish you hadn't painted over it."

"Why, why, I never did a portrait of her niece in my life!"

"But your initials are on it," I persisted. "On the back of the picture of the church you gave me."

CHAPTER XVIII

I could see the whole group had stopped to listen. And also that the sailboat had completely disappeared. Victor bent over Mr. Quincy's chair and whispered to him.

"With a monkey," I went on. "A cute little monkey looking at itself in a vanity mirror."

"Arlene Parker," I overheard Quincy whisper to Victor. Evidently he heard what I was telling Potter, too. "Did you say she had a monkey in her arms?"

"Yes, why?"

"Oh, nothing. Just a coincidence, I suppose. But Arlene Parker did a magazine cover a while ago of some movie star holding a monkey. 'Movie Beauties' it was. Just wondered if it might have been this niece of Miss Kendall's—what's her name?"

"Gloria Lovelace. Know her, Potter?"

His wide eyes held Victor's as he shook his head. "Never been West," he said.

"Judy, I'd like to see that portrait, if you'll get it," Victor said. "Perhaps Mr. Quincy can tell if it's this Gloria Lovelace."

"Oh, it is," I said quickly. "It's on her bureau now. I just compared it."

"Get the painting."

"I don't see what my poor little church has to do with all this," Potter was sputtering, as I banged the screen door.

I brought down the double picture and they all gathered around to look at first one side and then the other.

"There, you see?" Albion pointed. "The initials prove I didn't paint the portrait, just as I said." Anyone could see he was telling the truth, for the letters were blunt print on the church side and sort of hieroglyphics on the other; but both distinctly A. P.

"Same as the cover, all right. How'd you get hold of it, Potter?"

For a moment I thought he seemed a little confused. "Picked it up in a second-hand store in Boston. Liked the monkey. Why should I have to tell you people I couldn't afford a lot of canvas? Didn't hurt the portrait to paint on the back of it. Any more questions?"

Thaddeus Quincy played with his cane. "Too bad you daubed that green paint on. Think you could get it all off some way? Arlene's husband would pay you a fat price for that picture."

"You know him?" Victor asked.

"Know of him? Who doesn't? Albert Parker—the famous movie director. He nearly went nuts when his wife ran away with Lane, but it wasn't until after she came home again to die that he began collecting her work. Paid a thousand dollars for some picture or other she did. People who had 'em knew how he

USE VEGETABLES AT THEIR BEST
Learn the proper time to gather and eat your Victory Garden vegetables if you want to rate with your family and friends as belonging to the master gardener class.

"Pick 'em young!" advise specialists at the Ferry-Morse Seed Breeding Station who realize that many home gardeners foster the mistaken idea that vegetables must mature before being eaten.

Snap beans are at their snappiest just before the beans inside the pods have begun to form. This is also the best stage for canning. Pods of green peas should be smooth, rounded, and fresh green in color. If pods are flat, let them grow a few days longer; it is wasteful to pick them when peas don't fill the pod. On the other hand, if pods have turned slightly whitish and wrinkled, the peas are too old and will not cook tender and tasty.

When you have eaten carrots at a half to three-quarters inch in diameter, you will never again hanker for larger roots. Kohl-rabi-globes should be allowed to get no bigger than an inch across before popping them into pot or skillet. At two inches they are of far stronger flavor and usually woody and tough.

Straightneck summer squash is fast becoming a favorite, but the tendency is to let the fruits grow too large. Slice them with skin and seeds intact when four to five inches long and boil or saute for just a few minutes. All the delicate flavor and nutritive values are saved, and summer squash becomes epicurean instead of a tasteless mass. Down South the slender pods of okra are gathered and used before they are three inches long. At this size they are a real delicacy and less "gluey," either as a vegetable alone or in soups and stews. Try slicing young cucumbers for the table when they, too, are no more than four inches long—the richer, fresher flavor is amazing.

The time to pick or not to pick an ear of sweet corn sometimes stumps the experts. Experience says the silk should be brown and somewhat dry, and the ear plump to the touch through the green husk. As a double-check, however, seasoned gardeners usually strip down a bit of husk while the ear is still on the stalk. If kernels are deep, close together, and milky, they are ready. If undeveloped, cover them quickly and tightly with husk, and let the ear alone for several days.
