Chelsea Volunteers To Provide Farm Labor

Realizing that the plight of farmers in this vicinity is reaching a critical stage because of labor shortages and adverse weather conditions, an organization to be known as the Farm Volunteer Corps was formed at the regular meeting of the Kiwanis club at the Tower Cafe on Monday night.

G. C. Edmonds, in charge of the Emergency Farm Labor Placement office in Ann Arbor, and H. S. Oster, county agricultural agent, addressed the Kiwanians, emphasizing the critical situation faced by farmers in their efforts to produce the food that is needed for our armed forces, lend-lease and home consumption. Stating that the army comes first, lend-lease second, and the home front consumers last, Mr. Edmonds pointed out the need for volunteers from every walk of life to aid to whatever extent they can in helping to produce the food and save the crops which are so vital a part in this country's war effort.

Mr. Edmonds stated that just as food was an important factor in winning the first world war, it will play a major role in the winning of the present conflict. Mr. Oster also urged that emergency labor be provided in this crisis, in a sincere effort to bolster the production of crops.

Kiwanis President Lloyd Heydlauff appointed a committee consisting of Marshall F. Richards, chairman, Harold Jones and M. W. McClure, to work out plans for the registration of volunteer workers who will be subject to call when farmers in this area find that they are facing an emergency in planting or saving their crops.

Central Fibre Products Co. started such a project here about two weeks ago when a number of their employees volunteered for emergency work of this nature. So far several calls have been received by this company and they have cooperated by sending employees to help on farms. The men are paid their regular wages by the company, the farmer being required to furnish only the meals.

However, Central Fibre has been operating through the Ann Arbor office of the Emergency Farm Labor Placement, and it is believed that with a local clearing house for volunteers (Continued on page four)

Called To The Colors

Richard D. Schmidt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman H. Schmidt, reported to Detroit on Monday for induction into the U. S. Navy, and was sent to the training school at Great Lakes, Ill. Richard was born in Ann Arbor on March 6, 1925, but has spent nearly his whole life in Chelsea, graduating from the local high school in 1942. He has been employed at the Central Fibre Products Co.

On Sunday, several relatives and friends called at the Schmidt home to extend farewell wishes, including Mr. and Mrs. Fred Taylor of Grass Lake, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Ashfall of Dexter, Mrs. LaRue Shaver of Detroit, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Ashfall and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kalmbach of Chelsea. Mrs. Schmidt entertained as supper guests, Lawton Schable, Arthur Schiller and Charles Lane. Richard was presented with several gifts.

Eighth Grade Graduates Honored At St. Mary's

On Tuesday evening, June 8 at six o'clock the seventh grade of St. Mary's school entertained the eighth grade graduating class at a banquet given in the school hall. Decorations were carried out in the class colors, blue and white.

Later in the evening the Class Prophecy was read by Jack Merkel and the Class Will by Jerome Burg. Reverend Lee Laige was guest of honor on this occasion.

The graduation exercises will be held Thursday evening, June 10 at 7:30 in St. Mary's church. Those who will receive diplomas are: Margaret Zeeb, Helen Hanker, Jerome Burg, Jack Merkel, Genevieve Hafner and Mary Alice Markwardt.

After conferring the diplomas, Father Laige will address the graduates with a few inspiring words. This will be followed by Benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament.

Parking, Mister?

With parallel parking now in effect in Chelsea, motorists who cannot find a place to park are still hesitant about using the fine municipal parking lot provided by the village for their convenience.

It has been suggested that as a special inducement to motorists the village provide a free car wash to every motorist who uses the lot, or perhaps better still, set up a stand and furnish free hot dogs to the motorist and his family if he will only consent to park his car in the lot while he does his shopping. Another suggestion is that the village employ a pretty blonde attendant at the lot, which certainly should be an inducement to some motorists.

Just why this parking lot is not used more is a puzzle. The same people who criticize the village administration for the shortage of parking space drive to nearby cities, place their cars in parking lots and walk several blocks during a shopping expedition, but in Chelsea they complain because they have to park and walk to their destination, which could not possibly be more than the equivalent of one block.

However, everyone must admit that parallel parking is a great improvement so far as local traffic conditions are concerned, and with the parking lot so accessible to the business district it is believed that the public will soon become accustomed to its use and wonder why the village administration waited so long in making this advancement in safety conditions within the village. Although there may be some tenders scratched while motorists are learning to back into the parallel parking spaces, there certainly will be less rear-end collisions than was the case with diagonal parking. Furthermore, a motorist can now drive down the street without the danger of snagging the right side of his car on the rear end of a truck extending almost half way across the street.

Let's admit that parallel parking is an improvement and quit complaining about a few personal inconveniences!

THE LESSON

By Ruth Taylor. Most people talk about the last war as though nothing came out of it. They forget that there was time before the First World War, and that that sanguinary struggle changed their lives completely.

a man will fight more zealously for his faith than for his possession. We have learned that we are not the only people, that there are no Herven-volk except in their own eyes, that the aristocracy among nations consists of those who are willing to take responsibility for protecting the rights of the weak.

We have learned that we can't solve a problem by ignoring it, that what menaces the freedom of some menaces the freedom of all.

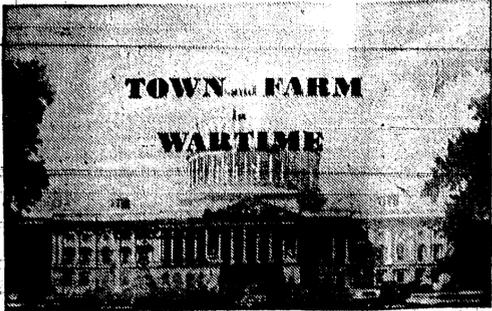

We have learned that more powerful than "invading armies" is the power of hope for the future. We won the battle behind the lines with the Fourteen Points. That we did not win the peace was due not to the cleverness of others but to our own stupidity.

We have learned that no nation liveth unto itself alone—that because we tried to live alone, walking out on the world, we had to pass through a period of distress before we could again have a chance to help establish the kind of world in which we want to live.

A lesson came out of the last war. We have been long in learning it and our education has been costly—but we can at last say, in the words of Kipling after another war, "Let us admit it fairly as a business people should. We have had no end of a lesson. It will do us no end of good."

CARD OF THANKS. We wish in this way to express our sincere appreciation of the friends, neighbors and relatives for their many acts of kindness during our recent bereavement; and especially Rev. Edg for his comforting words.

34 Years Ago Thursday, June 10, 1909 In the list of graduates from the University School of Music, Ann Arbor, are the names of the Misses Helene and Emilie Steinbach. Miss Helene graduates from the piano department and Miss Emilie from two departments, the vocal and public school music.

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS... I can't think of anything else you'll need for your Victory garden, Judge... you've got pretty nearly everything. "I think so, too, John. Ever get your asparagus patch going?" "I gave that up last year, Judge. Tried it six years in a row with no luck. Just haven't got the right soil, I guess?" "Well, I think you're wise, John. no use keeping on trying things you know won't work. Just like prohibition. State-wide prohibition has been tried in this country seventy-two times in the last ninety years. It has been adopted forty-seven times in the past thirty-three years and discarded everywhere except in three states. Same thing was tried in eight provinces in Canada and in Norway, Sweden, Finland and Russia but it was an admitted failure and universally abandoned. "The reason is prohibition does not prohibit. All you get is bootleg liquor instead of legal liquor, plus no end of crime and corruption."

No alarm clock needed! You have a faithful servant in your home which requires no alarm clock to get it up in the morning—NATURAL GAS. Silent and invisible, it is always on the alert every hour of the day and night to do your bidding. The clean blue flame responds instantly with any volume and intensity of heat desired. In the homes of Chelsea, this silent, invisible servant adds much to the comfort of living, by heating the house, doing the cooking, operating the silent refrigerator, and supplying hot water. On the industrial front, too, in war plants throughout the nation, Natural Gas is proving a vital fuel in speeding the output of essential material for the combat zones. PLYMOUTH—A lightning storm last Tuesday night, which brought with it much unneeded rain, put 800 telephones out of service in the Plymouth area, it was reported by the Bell Telephone company. Lightning striking wires and burning out important connections caused most of the damage.—Mail.

DEXTER—Beginning next Monday there will be a Dally Vacation Church School in Dexter. The school will meet Monday through Friday from 9:00 to 11:30 for two weeks. Boys and girls four years old and those who were in the kindergarten, first, second and third grades this past year will go to the Methodist church. Boys and girls in fourth, fifth, sixth, seventh, eighth, ninth and tenth grades this past year will go to St. Andrew's church.—Leader.

BRIGHTON—The deer herd in Livingston county has increased to such an extent that it has become a nuisance and farmers in this vicinity have reported damage to crops. The State Department of Conservation is very interested in this herd and with the idea in mind of keeping the deer under control, has requested the Livingston Conservation and Sports Association to make a survey of sentiment in regard to a hunting season on deer.—Argus.

DEXTER—Rev. A. A. Schoen was honored Sunday morning at the services at St. Andrew's church when members of the congregation and friends joined him in celebrating the 50th anniversary of his ordination in the ministry. The entire service had been planned as a surprise to both Rev. and Mrs. Schoen. Letters of congratulation were read from members of Rev. Schoen's former congregations at Bainbridge, Manchester and Farlington, and a beautiful bouquet of roses was presented from St. Paul's church, Chelsea, commemorating his successful work in that community. St. Andrew's congregation presented Rev. Schoen with a gift in appreciation of the fruitful years spent as its spiritual leader. Following the service all were invited to the Parish Hall where about 110 participated in a delicious pot-luck dinner, after which all enjoyed Rev. Schoen's "Reminiscences." With this service, Mrs. Schoen terminated her work as organist of St. Andrew's, a position she has faithfully held since 1932.—Leader.

ST. PAUL'S LADIES' AID The June meeting of St. Paul's Ladies' Aid Society, held at the church hall on Friday afternoon was attended by 12 members and two guests. Scripture and prayer by Rev. P. H. Grabowski was followed by consideration of the topic, "The World Council of Churches", on which a reading was given by Mrs. Fred Seitz. Readings, "The Sharecroppers" by Mrs. Philip Seitz, and "Bible Palace", by Mrs. Carl Mayer, were features of the program. Lunch was served by Mrs. Waldo Kusterer and Mrs. August Hillinger. GRADUATION The time for another graduating class to leave our school has arrived. With the handing out of diplomas to-night the class departs from the school, never again to assemble as a class. Certain groups within the class may gather occasionally but as a class their assembly tonight marks the end. What then? What kind of a program is there in store for a high school graduate?

A few years ago many graduates were wondering what the future held in store for them. Jobs and money were not too plentiful and in many cases plans for the future were rather indefinite. Not so today. The seniors graduating this year, particularly the boys, are not wondering what their plans for the immediate future will be. Nearly every boy has his program planned for him in one of two broad fields. Either he will be a member of the armed forces or he will be pursuing some civilian occupation considered essential by the War Manpower Commission. They have no other choice. They are graduating, not away from something, but rather into the biggest job they will ever have to face. Pathetic as it may seem there is no alternative.

The girls too are not concerned about finding something to occupy their time. They plan to find their places in the war effort. Some plan to work through the summer and enroll in the colleges in the fall. Others will continue working through the year.

I'm sure we join in wishing these graduates success. We hope their connections and work with the school has given them help to face the many struggles that may be ahead. It has been a joy to work with the seniors and it is our hope that each will be successful in his own field. Supt. A. C. Johnson.

OFFICE NEWS The commencement program is to be held at 8 o'clock tonight. The speaker will be Rev. Marshall Reed of Detroit. Report cards will be issued at 9:00 o'clock tomorrow morning.

STUDENT COUNCIL Most of the discussion at the last meeting was concerning the use of the record player during the summer. A contract which will bring in money and also insure proper care of the machine was drawn up. Work was started on a new Constitution which will be drafted next year. This constitution will be submitted to the vote of the students. There is a possibility that the Student Council will be enlarged next year, and it will take a more active part in school activities as it should.

DEFENSE COUNCIL The Defense Council held its last meeting for the year. The following were elected to the offices: President, Ileen Loeffler; treasurer, Robert Trinkle; secretary, Barbara Eaton. The duties of these officers were defined. The president appoints members to fill her place in case of absence; she has charge of all meetings unless she is absent; and she acts on all committees. The secretary keeps accurate reports of all minutes written and read; she has charge of all letter writing. The treasurer handles all money, but has nothing to do with selling defense stamps. The Defense Council has been very active this year, and it hopes to do better next year.

MRS. DANCER RETIRES Mrs. E. R. Dancer, who has taught 25 years in the Chelsea public schools, is retiring this year. Mrs. Dancer has taught in both the high school and lower elementary grades. Most people who have attended Chelsea school in the last 25 years have had Mrs. Dancer for a teacher at sometime or another. A party was held recently in her honor, with the entire faculty in attendance. Mrs. Dancer has also been chosen to help pass out diplomas to the graduating class. The faculty and the student body heartily wish Mrs. Dancer health and happiness in the future.

IN MEMORY Reynolds Walz, who enlisted in the Navy last summer, died suddenly and was buried at sea on May 27. The students and faculty of Chelsea high school, deeply grieved by the report of his death, observed a minute of silent prayer in his memory. The first gold star among the 158 stars on our Service Flag has been exchanged for the blue one which originally marked his place.

F. F. A. NEWS The F. F. A. boys are planning to use the potato duster for their potatoes this year. The materials for this have been mixed. This will be available for use by any of the F. F. A. boys.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION The past year has shown great progress in the athletic programs at Chelsea high school. On the opening of the school year, a large percentage of the boys were enrolled in a physical fitness class.

They have since, however, been enlarged to include all high school boys. The programs have consisted of highly recommended callisthenics which are conducted under strict supervision by the school's athletic coaches. The thoroughness of the activities was recognized by an army officer who visited the school during one of these sessions. Callisthenics have also played a large part in the girls' gym classes. In addition to the one held after school, another program was organized early in the year. They are unable as yet to accommodate all high school girls, though plans may be arranged so that all girls will be able to take part next year. Along with this type of training has also come a large amount of participation in football, basketball, baseball, and tennis. These provide good exercise, and at the same time arouse a great enthusiasm for physical training among the students. Thus all will agree that the school has had a grand beginning in this kind of education and by next year the standards will undoubtedly reach an even higher peak.

SEVENTH GRADE Our stamp and bond sale last Thursday brought us $101.30, making our yearly total $969.60. Our picnic was Tuesday. We are hoping that we may all go to the eighth grade next year.

THE SERVICE FLAG During the year the Latin Club started the Service Flag project. When the club put up the flag they had one hundred and twenty-seven stars on it; now there are one hundred and fifty-six stars on it, one of which is gold. Each star represents some boy who at one time or another has attended the Chelsea public school.

JOURNALISM CLUB The Journalism club has seventeen members, all girls. During the past year the club has written the news for the Hi-Light in The Chelsea Standard. The club has also written news letters to the boys in the service. Every two weeks the news from school and town is sent to over eighty boys in the armed forces. The club has received fifty letters from the boys, who report that they appreciate the letters very much. Some of the alumnae have promised to continue the letters during the summer.

BAND The High School Band will again present a series of summer concerts free of charge to the community of Chelsea. Seven, and possibly eight concerts will be given. One rehearsal each week will be required. Busy as we may be with various activities we must not lose sight of the importance of music during wartime. The High School Band will need every one of its members this summer for all rehearsals and concerts if the program is to be successful. Parents' cooperation should be given in keeping their boy's or girl's attendance record perfect. It will be impossible to obtain outside players to fill in the places of absentees this summer. A plan for awarding prizes for perfect attendance and less perfect attendance has been worked out and will be announced before school closes. The rehearsals will be held every Tuesday night at 7:30 in the gymnasium of the high school. The concerts will be given on Saturday night beginning at 8:00. The band will lead Inaugural Parade on Monday night, June 21, proceeding to the athletic field. The first concert will be given the following Saturday night, June 26. One concert each Saturday night following will be given at various downtown sites.

During the coming summer, for eight weeks, there will be classes for both beginners and advanced students who play band instruments. The beginners will meet twice each week and the advanced students once. Classes will start Tuesday, June 22, with the following schedule: 9:00-9:45—Drums, Advanced Clarinets. 9:45-10:30—Beginners, Beginners. 10:30-11:15—Clarinet-Flutes; Cornets-Baritone-Horns. 11:15-12:00—Trombones-Basses. These classes are a part of the Summer Recreation Program, and there will be no expenses except for instrument and instruction book. The summer instrumental music classes will be taught by Marshall F. Richards, high school principal.

Second, if the county is held to a high standard of maintenance, it affects all road work done by the county department. County roads are benefited.

But we do insist upon constant supervision of county maintenance, and thus we do not relinquish responsibility in the least. As far as we are concerned, the county contract is just another contract over which we maintain control in the same manner as construction work.

What is his program? "Most of our construction work this year will be on access roads," said Mr. Ziegler. "These include essential access roads to important war industries. Only such access roads will be approved by the War Production Board."

"Some of our leading highway arteries are getting severe punishment from war traffic. Number 16, Muskegon to Detroit, is being pounded day and night by heavy trucks carrying vital war supplies. The maintenance problem is critical today, and we know it. As a war measure, we are insisting upon a high type of intensive maintenance which may cost three or four times the normal amount for the section of road."

"Our post-war building program will be to spread needed construction work throughout the state to help create employment for Michigan boys back home from the war. As for highway tourist parks, they are in the luxury class at present and will probably continue to be for a while. Accidents in the United States kill approximately 100,000 annually. The victims of these accidents are killed workers in war industries, military personnel at Army posts, and thousands upon thousands of American people who may not consider themselves important, but who collectively make up the man power that is so precious at this time to our nation.

Every citizen should help in the safety movement in the plant in which he works, in the city, the country, the state, and locality in which he lives to prevent this needless toll of accidents.

MOSQUITOES ARE PLENTIFUL! The numerous ponds and puddles resulting from the recent heavy rains are the cause of an excessive amount of mosquitoes this summer. Certain types of mosquitoes are carriers of malaria and yellow fever. These diseases are not very prevalent in Michigan although a few cases of malaria are reported by health authorities each year.

These pests breed in the shallow waters of ponds, swamps, improperly drained fields, wheel ruts, and tin cans. Contrary to general belief, the mosquitoes do not lay their eggs in tall wet grass although they do hide in the grass as all picnickers and fishermen know.

The best way to eliminate the mosquito is to drain the ponds where it breeds. Mud holes and small ponds should be drained or filled wherever possible. Tin cans and similar receptacles should be flattened so that water will not collect in them. Where drainage or filling is impractical gilling or treatment with Paris green is most effective. A solution of 50 per cent kerosene oil and 50 per cent kerosene sprayed over the water surface will destroy mosquito larvae; repeat every ten days. A mixture of one part of Paris green to one hundred parts of fine sawdust, ashes or some similar fine dusty material spread over the water surface will act as a good mosquito killer.

11,037 Lakes In State, Says Conservation Man

Even without counting the overgrown puddles that now dot southern Michigan because of recent excessive rains, the state has 11,037 lakes, twice the number with which it usually is credited, according to C. J. D. Brown of the conservation department's institute for fisheries research.

Michigan's last published lake directory listed 6,484 "named" lakes, but by careful check of all recently corrected state and county maps, Brown arrived at the 11,037 figure. And he warns against under-rating the smaller bodies of water. "Acre for acre," he says, "they will produce a greater quantity of fish than large lakes."

Their wide distribution provides local folk with more fishing than is generally realized, he declares, and he recommends consideration of small lakes in the state's frontage purchase program.

Only two Michigan counties, Sanilac and Saginaw, were found to be entirely without inland lakes. Arenac, Bay, Midland, Huron, St. Clair and Monroe each has less than 10; Emmet, Macomb, Missaukee, Tuscola and Wayne each has less than 25. Seven counties have more than 300 lakes each: Marquette, 835; Luce, 571; Iron 528; Gogebic 488; Oakland 447; Schoolcraft 340 and Barry 327. Washtenaw county has 156 lakes.

Half of Michigan's lakes are less than 10 acres in surface area, only 19 cover more than 5,000 acres, and the average size for all Michigan lakes is about 66 acres. There are 41 artificial lakes over 200 acres in area, 182 of less than 200 acres. The other 10,814 are natural lakes.

No Second Chance... No Other Choice

FOR THOSE WHO FALL and freeze on the lime-covered floors of the cattle cars that carry them to German labor camps—there is no other choice.

For the little children of Tepelini and Salonika and Athens who wait with swollen stomachs for the food ship that never arrives, there is nothing else to do—but wait.

For the Russian peasant with no choice but to burn his home before the Nazis reached it; for the Chinese of Nanking who suffered the terrorism of the Jap; for all of those in nameless graves and numberless cells—for all of them—there was no second chance, no other choice.

But for you—a choice still remains. For you—among all the peoples of the world, the road to freedom is still clear.

Never before have we been able to measure the price of freedom for ourselves and our children in such tangible terms. Will you help to keep the road to freedom open? Will you invest—all you can—in War Bonds?

It's not so much to ask. Many of us are making more money than we have for years. The things we'd like to buy with that money are scarce—or unavailable. So, we're asked to loan money at an interest—$4 for every $3 when the Bonds mature. Money to help pay for the war—keep prices down, provide peacetime jobs and peacetime goods and a generally decent world for all of us when the war is won.

Chances are you're already in the Payroll Savings Plan—buying War Bonds—doing your bit. But do stop there. Raise your sights! Do your best!

MURDER at PIRATES' HEAD
By ISABEL WAITT

"Prints. Fingerprints. We have three—probably more—but three that will count. The fellow who parked that evidence in Judy's compartment."
"But it was only a head!"
"Bless you, yeal! Brilliant rainbow, square cut, worth a small fortune. The killer may have wiped your golf club clean of prints, Norcross, but he pulled a boner when he left his finger touch Judy's powder."
"And this thing which you saw on the rocks near the Pirate's Mouth," Potter's tone was scathing. "Where is it now?"
De Witt spoke from the doorway. "I'd like to know, too. Why all the mystery, Mr. Quade?"
"It's the detective story writer running away with himself," Potter sneered. "Whatever it is, he claims he saw."
"You know what he means. That weapon—too bad it wasn't thrown far enough out to sea. Poor Miss Kendall, she had the misfortune to see it. That's why she was murdered."
"What kind of a weapon?" asked several voices.
"The police will tell you," Victor said. "Let's go meet them."
"Let's," Albion Potter tore down the steps, taking the path toward the woods by the barn, but suddenly he stopped short and veered for the wharf. He leaped into the Eleanor and pushed off before the crowd realized what was happening. "I'll meet them!" he cried, rowing for dear life in the leaky boat.
By the time the men reached the rickety wharf, the Eleanor, carrying Potter, was out of reach.
"Man, you'll sink!" called my Uncle Wylie, and at that I didn't bother with the quest of the willow stump but tore after the others.
Aunt Nella came trotting along, too. "Is he crazy! Leak like a sieve!"
Indeed, the water covered several inches above the boat's bottom.
"Come on back," Victor cried. "You'll never reach the police."
Potter glanced over his shoulder, though he kept tugging at the oars, putting more distance between him and the wharf. He made little progress, but enough so that no one had he desired, could leap aboard. The other boat was getting bigger and bigger. Only the matter of a few minutes.
The screen door banged behind us. Bessie Norcross came running down to where her brother was standing.
"Hughie, darling! There's a launch coming. Stay with me till it's over." Then she was among us, asking questions and clinging to her brother.
Hugh told her to be quiet. "Shall I swim out to him, Quade?"
Victor shook his head. "He'd only fight you."
"You bet I would!" Potter said grimly, bracing his feet as the water seeped over his shoes. "I missed when I threw Lane's revolver over the cliff and it landed in a crevice of the rocks, but I'm going to make it this time. You've got a stupendous mystery to write, Victor Quade. Make a colossal picture. Wish I might have the directing of it. Anything you'd like me to clear up? You'll have to talk fast."
"Yes, sir. Where's the body of Roddy Lane? In the sea?" De Witt asked.
Albion grimaced, pointing an ear at the ruins of the shed. "That's Lane!"
"Then where's Old Man Brown?" yelled Uncle Wylie.
"Let me please," Victor said. "She's filling fast. You, of course, were Old Man Brown, Mr. Parker? You came here and established yourself in that old shack as a recluse, for the sole purpose of taking vengeance on Lane, whom you knew was coming to the Head. That right?"
"God, yes! I adored my wife. She—she wanted to go on with her career as a magazine illustrator. I let her. She did movie stars for covers of movie periodicals, mostly. Among others, several paintings of Gloria Lovelace. Lane," Potter cried bitterly, "was always hanging around Hollywood actresses—lavishing money he'd stolen on them. Kept my wife strapped, after the first infatuation had worn off. Played her for a sucker, though I didn't know it till she came home, broken-hearted, after he'd cast her aside for a new pretty face. Arlene was found in her car in the garage. Monoxide. Paper said it was an accident, but I knew better."
"You knew where Lane kept his misbegotten funds? He'd told your wife he would repay her loans—that right?"
Parker, or Potter as I thought of him, leaned on the oars and bowed his head. "Let it out to Arlene, just as he did to Quincy's daughter, he had a big web hidden in the basement of the church. I dug it up. It's now—what's left of it, about $200,000—deposited in a bank of Boston. Discovered it the day before Lane came, while I was ostensibly fishing off the rocks. Hope at least pected his son was responsible for everything. About ruined me. I dropped the Smith from my name when I finally was allowed to preach again."

He hadn't, Potter said, found any books or other papers. Only cash and negotiable securities.

Check Mowers Before Haying Time Comes
Wartime and a season of extra spring moisture indicate this is no year to have the mower in poor shape when haying time rolls around.
That hay crop may be valuable if grain crops fail to fill farm bins, points out A. J. Ball, extension specialist in agricultural engineering at Michigan State College.
"Luckily a mower is a comparatively simple machine," Engineer Ball suggests the three features that need checking and possible adjustment. These are the lead, the shear and the register.
When the machine leaves the factory, the outer end of the cutter bar is set ahead of the inner end one-quarter inch for each 12 inches of length of the bar. Wear of connections often causes the outer end to lag back of a straight line instead of being ahead as it was when new. The results are heavy drag, ragged cutting and breakage of the knife head.
Cutter bars serve as multiple sets of scissors with the knife acting as one blade and the guard plates as other blades. The knife and guard plates must be sharp to get good cutting action. Ball points out. Wear plates must not be worn and the knife must be held down on the guard plate.
Section points should stop in the center of the guards at the end of each stroke of the pitman. If the wrong length pitman is used or if the length of the drag bar has been changed, section points may stop between the guards. The results include frequent breaking of the knife, heavy pulling and a ragged cutting job.
A bulletin giving detailed instructions for adjustments can be obtained from offices of county agricultural agents or by writing the Agricultural Engineering Department, Michigan State College, East Lansing.
