School Lunch Program
Available for 1943-44

School lunches will be available this school year to approximately five million American children—many of whom have mothers working in war plants—under a lunch program designed to maintain their wartime diets at an adequate level, the War Food Administration has announced.

The 1943-44 program is aimed at protecting children's health despite dislocations in home life necessitated by the war and shortages of some foods. While Federal funds will finance a substantial part of the program, lunch projects are basically a community undertaking, relying on local initiative, administration, and sponsorship.

Local sponsors will organize the lunch program, purchase the food from local merchants and farmers, and be reimbursed by FDA—up to specified amounts—for the cost of the foods thus served. A wide variety of nutritious products are on the "reimbursable list," including fruit, vegetables, milk, and meat.

This differs from the school lunch program in which the Department of Agriculture has cooperated since 1935. In previous years foods were purchased directly by the Department and distributed to schools through state welfare agencies. The buying this year will be done locally by the sponsors, primarily to simplify the program and to conserve transportation and storage facilities that are required under the centralized distribution plan. The new plan for purchasing has been in effect in almost all states since last January, when it was first authorized. Experience gained by FDA during these months has set the pattern to be followed as this type of program begins operation on a larger scale.

In the immediate period ahead when we are facing shortages of some foods, we need to make doubly sure that children are not overlooked," said Roy F. Hendrickson, director of the Food Distribution Administration. "The health of the nation's children is a resource which warrants special protection, and we can best provide this protection by making sure that children's nutritional needs are met," he said. Mr. Hendrickson explained that Congress recognized this when it authorized the expenditure of up to fifty million dollars to carry on the school lunch program during the coming school year.

While under the new plan the Government will pay approximately 80 per cent of the food cost, the equipment, labor, and supervision must be furnished by state and local agencies or civic groups.

TRAINING AS CADET PILOT

Courtland, Ala.—Aviation Cadet Lester H. Harrison, son of Mrs. Edna Faulkner of Chelsea, Mich., has reported here to the Army Air Forces Basic Flying School for the third stage of training as a cadet pilot.

This air base, only until recently the site of flourishing cotton fields, is alive today with the roar of Uncle Sam's planes flying overhead.

The BT-13 which a cadet learns to handle here is a faster and heavier plane than the one which he flew at Primary School and, therefore, requires a wider knowledge of all aerial sciences. His varied course of training includes instrument flying, night soloing, and a thorough study and application of aerial navigation.

The Army Air Forces Basic Flying School at Courtland, Alabama, is one of the newest in the Southeast Training Center. Night and day they "Keep 'em Flying" for victory.

SCOUTS WILL USHER

Michigan State, Notre Dame, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Ohio State, Indiana—big names on the football horizon, mean more than ever to Scouts of Chelsea this year because the Scouts of Washtenaw and Livingston counties will handle the football ushering in the huge University of Michigan stadium practically unaided from other Scout Councils in the state. Before gas rationing large numbers of Scouts came from Toledo, Detroit, Flint, Grand Rapids, etc. to help.

Chelsea Scout leaders have been invited to attend an ushering planning meeting to be held at the Michigan Union in Ann Arbor on Tuesday evening, September 14 at 7:30. The meeting is being called by Dr. Ross L. Allen, chairman of the ushering committee of the Washtenaw-Livingston Boy Scout Council.

BALL GAME SUNDAY

The Chelsea All Stars softball team will play Camp Boytown on Sunday at 2:30 at the local athletic field. There is no admission so let's have a big crowd to see a good ball game.

The Atlantic Charter

The President of the United States of America and the Prime Minister, Mr. Churchill, representing His Majesty's Government in the United Kingdom, being met together, deem it right to make known certain common principles in the national policies of their respective countries on which they base their hopes for a better future for the world.

1 They countries seek no aggrandizement, territorial or other.

2 They desire to see no territorial changes that do not accord with the freely expressed wishes of the peoples concerned.

3 They respect the right of all peoples to choose the form of government under which they will live; and they wish to see sovereign rights and self-government restored to those who have been forcibly deprived of them.

4 They will endeavor, with due respect for their existing obligations, to further the enjoyment by all States, great or small, victor or vanquished, of access, on equal terms, to the trade and to the raw materials of the world which are needed for their economic prosperity.

5 They desire to bring about the fullest collaboration between all nations in the economic field with the object of securing, for all, improved labor standards, economic advancement and social security.

6 After the final destruction of the Nazi tyranny, they hope to see established a peace which will afford to all nations the means of dwelling in safety within their own boundaries, and which will afford assurance that all the men in all the lands may live out their lives in freedom from fear and want.

7 Such a peace should enable all men to traverse the high seas and oceans without hindrance.

8 They believe that all of the nations of the world, for realistic as well as spiritual reasons, must come to the abandonment of the use of force. Since no future peace can be maintained if land, sea or air armaments continue to be employed by nations which threaten, or may threaten, aggression outside of their frontiers, they believe, pending the establishment of a wider and permanent system of general security, that the disarmament of such nations is essential. They will likewise aid and encourage all other practicable measures which will lighten for peace-loving peoples the crushing burden of armaments.

PLAN SCHOOL PHYSICAL CHECK

Intensive check-ups of physical condition of older high school boys will be repeated in many Michigan towns and cities with the opening of the full term next month, the state health department reports. The examinations were instituted a year ago at the height of health science groups which were concerned about percentages of under-par youths reported by Selective Service medical boards.

Until last year such examinations, with few exceptions, had not been given except in the case of participants in strenuous athletic events.

Full-time county and district health departments will again work out details of examinations in areas they serve. The bureau of local health services of the Michigan Department of Health is the coordinating agency. Defects uncovered during examinations will be called to the attention of parents.

DO WE BELIEVE?

By RUTH TAYLOR

Do we believe in Democracy?
I know what the answer would be from any one. "Of course we do. What are we fighting for, if not for the right to follow the democratic way of life?"

But how are we proving our belief? We let democracy become endangered because we give it only lip service. We did not give it the fanaticism of the Nazi, the devotion of the Communist, the ardor of the Fascist. If we had, Democracy would have swept the world and men would today be living in a brotherhood of nations.

We say Democracy is the rule of the majority. But how often have we tried to get around a ruling in which we did not believe?

We say Democracy is a way of equal opportunity for all, but how often have we, with smug satisfaction in our own group, looked upon all other groups in our country with suspicion, generalizing upon them, and condemning wholesale because of the actions of a few?

We say that Democracy is built upon a belief in God—upon the right to religious freedom. Yet, all too often, we scorn our neighbor because his belief is not like ours. We do not even follow our own creeds, though we would fight for the right to believe in them. We should remember that Germany fell when the German people forgot God.

We say we believe in Democracy. Now we have a chance to prove its worth, for in these days we can show once and for all whether freedom of speech and expression have incited a desire for true speech and expression; whether free education has taught us how to think; whether freedom of assembly has taught us how to work together in cooperation; whether freedom of enterprise has fostered individual growth; whether freedom of government has built up the capabilities of the self-governed; and whether, under freedom of religion, our faith has blossomed forth into a mighty tree that can protect us from the storm.

Do we believe in Democracy? Only you can give the answer.

PARATROOPER TELLS OF SICILY
An article published recently in the Ingham County News at Mason tells of the landing in Sicily by Pfc. Wayne Dalton of Dansville, grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Sager of Chelsea. The item follows:

Wayne Dalton, private first-class in an army paratroop detachment, was with the first group of Allied soldiers to step foot in Europe. His paratroop unit led the attack and young Dalton, the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Dalton of Dansville, came through without a scratch. His parents received a letter from their son at the Sicilian front Wednesday. It was mailed July 19.

"I've had some thrilling experience," the boy wrote, "but I didn't get scratched. My feet are getting blistered, though, trying to catch up with the leading Italians. They give up easily. The Germans are good soldiers and they fight to the last ditch. You probably know more about the invasion from reading the papers than we do here. We are on the move continuously, and know only just what we have seen."

The letter was just a brief note but it was a great relief to Mrs. Dalton. She said she had been certain for two weeks that her son was in Sicily.

Young Dalton is a graduate of Dansville high school and was a leader in E. A. and 4-H club activities while in school. He got quick action in the paratroopers. He entered the army last September.

The barn on the farm of John Doll of Dexter township was struck by lightning about 9 o'clock Monday night and with nearly all of the contents was burned. The contents of the barn were the joint property of Mr. Doll and Ed Finnell.

Mrs. Adelbert Baldwin passed away at 1:00 o'clock Wednesday morning, Aug. 6, 1919, of paralysis of the heart. She was united in marriage with Mr. Baldwin April 11, 1897, and for the past five years they had resided in Chelsea. She is survived by her husband; two daughters, Mrs. Fred Osterle and Mrs. A. D. Baldwin, and two sons, John and Percy McDaid.

Mrs. Anna Katherine Sager was born in Wurttemberg, Germany, Oct. 12, 1845 and died Aug. 6, 1919. She was united in marriage with Fred Sager in 1867. Mr. Sager died several years ago. She is survived by two sons, Fred and Gottlieb of Sylvan, three daughters and a number of grandchildren.

M. J. Baxter has installed a Hoffman steam pressing outfit in his establishment.

Dr. H. H. Avery, who established a dental business here about twenty-eight years ago, has sold his equipment and interest in the Palmer and Avery building on East Middle street to Dr. A. L. Brock.

The Wm. Bacon-Holmes Co. have the trenches dug and some of the material on the ground for a cement warehouse, 32x36, which they will erect at the west end of the Chelsea Roller Mills.

Paper in War Effort

Paper is used in every phase of the war effort. About two million pounds were required for the first draft registration alone. More than 900 forms are used in the army. In the 1941 maneuvers in Louisiana over 20,000,000 paper bags were required for soldiers' lunches. Government bonds now outstanding would weigh four million pounds. About 30,000 pounds of blueprint paper are required in the building of a battleship.

ration stamps are collected for all gifts exceeding that number. The stamps should be turned in to your local ration boards.

Budget Report

Government budgetary estimates for the fiscal year 1944 estimate total expenditures for the year, exclusive of Retirement and Trust Fund disbursements, at 106 billion dollars, and net receipts at 33 billion dollars. The expected deficit of 68 billion dollars will bring the public debt above 200 billion dollars by next June 30. In the fiscal year just ended, actual expenditures were 80 billion dollars, actual receipts 22 billion dollars, or a deficit of 58 billion dollars. A hundred billion dollars will be needed for war expenditures during the fiscal year 1944, compared with 75 billion dollars actually spent for war in 1943. The war department now is expected to spend less, and the navy department and other agencies are expected to spend more for war than was estimated in January.

More Butter for Civilians

Approximately 16 million pounds of butter, in addition to the amount scheduled for August, will be available to civilians this month, the War Food Administration has announced. Previously, 40 per cent of production was to be set aside for government purchase. This has been reduced to 30 per cent.

Honorable Discharge Buttons

An honorable discharge from the army during the present war will be signified by a lapel button, the War Department has announced. Both men and women, whether officers or enlisted personnel, will be eligible to wear the button if they hold an honorable discharge.

Rule for Poultry Truckers

Truckers hauling poultry must post within their trucks the name and address of the persons to whom it is being shipped, the place from which the items were shipped, their quantities, types, grades and weight classes, and the number of head of each, the OPA has ruled.

Wool Supplies About Same

The supply of wool for civilian wearing apparel is approximately the same as last season. To meet military demands and equip civilians, existing wool facilities will be operated to the limit of capacity. Manufacturers are reducing the variety of colors and counts of their yarns; weavers are dropping some of the non-essential numbers from their lines. Materials produced will be familiar, popular, and practical types. No colors are prohibited.

NUTRITION TIPS

(Civilian Defense Volunteer Office Release)

Sweet Corn Is Table Treat Now

Sweet corn is in season now, eagerly welcomed by Americans. The Washtenaw County Nutrition committee urges us to use every single ear and kernel this year in our summer menus and by canning, drying, freezing, or brining for winter meals.

For serving at the table, the quicker corn goes into the pot after it is brought from the garden, the better the flavor. Do not cook too long—six to ten minutes is sufficient. All that is not eaten at one meal should be cut from the cob and stored in the ice box ready for use in stewed tomatoes, corn pudding, corn fritters, or in a vegetable salad.

Select the best corn from the garden for canning. Time element is valuable: two hours from the garden to the jar. Husk, remove silk and cut kernels from the cob. Cut deep if you want whole kernel corn; cut top and scrape for cream style. Add one teaspoon of salt to each quart of corn and half as much water as corn, by weight. Heat to boiling and pack into hot containers at once. Leave at least one inch head space in each jar and adjust jar lids, carefully following the directions on the lid box, especially if you are using new wartime jar tops. Process immediately.

In a pressure cooker, pint jars should be processed for 60 minutes and quart jars for 70 minutes at 10 pounds pressure. If a boiling water bath is used, the processing time is 8½ hours for either pints or quarts. If you use the boiling water bath method remember that when the corn is taken from the jars it must be boiled for 10 minutes, covered with liquid, before serving. Do this before testing.

After processing, complete the seal unless already done. Set jars upright and cool as quickly as possible but protected from drafts.

Dried corn is delicious and fortunately the home drying process is easy. Here, as in canning, speed is desirable. Select any good table variety that is at the milk stage, husk, remove silk, and pre-cook until the milk is set, 15 to 20 minutes. Drain and cut from the cob. If you use an oven for drying spread the corn one-half to three-fourths inches deep on trays or racks made to fit the oven. Stir frequently. The bottom of the tray or rack should be made of a single thickness of cotton curtain netting. Drying time is 7 to 8 hours at 130 to 150 degrees. When completed the kernels should be dark yellow and translucent.

Corn may also be preserved for winter use by brining or by freezing, if you have a locker in a frozen food plant. The Washtenaw County Nutrition committee suggests that directions for freezing be obtained from the locker when the corn is to be stored.

Chelsea Markets—The Chelsea buyers quoted the following prices today: wheat, red, 98c; wheat, white, 95c; rye, 88c; oats, 45c; corn, 35c; steers, heavy, $4.00 to $4.50; stockers, $3.50 to $4.50; cows, $2.50 to $3.00; veal calves, $4.50 to $7.00; hogs, $7.00 to $7.25; sheep, $3.50 to $4.00; chickens, spring, 15c lb.; fowls, 10c; butter, 20c; eggs, 21c; potatoes, 45c; cabbage, per doz., solid, 50c; huckleberries, $2.25 per bu.

The new game law prohibits the killing of quail until the fall of 1914, and by giving these birds five years protection it is thought that the numbers will increase largely.

A prominent farmer said recently that he had not a single calf from sheep dogs in his flock for fifty years past, and his preventive was to get a small, cheap bell and tie it on one sheep.

Men in our fighting forces are taught two essential things in warfare:

1. Kill the enemy.
2. Stay alive.

You can help in killing the enemy called "Accident," and you can stay alive by being a safe driver, a safe pedestrian, and a safe home owner.

When you walk on the highway on the right-hand side of the road, you put your life in the hands of every driver who is going your way.

You owe it to the driver and to yourself to share the job of keeping yourself alive.

Here is the right way to walk on the highway:

WALK ON THE LEFT SIDE OF THE ROAD FACING THE TRAFFIC ON THAT SIDE.

Then you will see the cars, and the drivers see you. This makes sense—and it's safe.

"IT ISN'T OFTEN I HAND THE LITTLE LADY A COMPLIMENT!"

"I DON'T LIKE to spoil her. But this time I had to break down. It all started a couple of months before the war. We were looking over the new refrigerators."

"Bill," she said, "why don't we get the one that's sure to last—the one with no moving parts—the Servel? It's silent and—"

"Well, you know how women are. That's exactly what we bought, a Servel. And, friend, are we glad!"

"No moving parts in its freezing system to wear. Low operating cost. Quiet as can be. We know it will see us through."

"Why am I crowing like this? No, not just to show off. It's because refrigerators are sure to come back some day. And I just wanted to tell you how downright pleased we've been with our Servel—and why I handed the little lady a compliment."

Life-giving serum is just one of many drugs and foods supplied our armed forces that need the protection of constant, dependable refrigeration. Servels are providing this protection for military supplies in all parts of the world, wherever our fighting forces are taking the field.

Did your call keep him off the wire?

Did you put through a casual long distance call the other night—not thinking it might keep this boy from calling home?

Won't you try to make none but urgent long distance calls—from 7 to 10 o'clock each night? That is about the only time he can get off to call.

THE BEER OF BALANCED FLAVOR

By GENE ALLEMAN

Few Americans know the Upper Peninsula of Michigan as well as Chase S. Osborn.

That is why the former governor's new book "Schoolcraft—Longfellow—Hiawatha," written in collaboration with Stellanora Osborn, is destined to occupy a permanent niche in American history.

It is the record of the Ojibways, the native Indians who inhabited this region before the coming of the white men. It is the biography of Henry Rowe Schoolcraft, a man who was America's greatest authority on Indians, the leading literature of his frontier day, and the living inspiration for Longfellow's "Song of Hiawatha." More than that, it is an historical account of the Lake Superior region which is today known as "The Hiawatha Country," land of Gitchie Gumee.

Michigan continues to surprise the newcomer who delves occasionally into its history. And there is no chapter of the state's history more romantic than the account of what the Osborns call "one of the most interesting, beautiful and wholesome regions of earth"—the Lake Superior region and its many grandeur.

As all Michigan travelers will testify who have responded to the lure of our north peninsula, the Hiawatha country is unexcelled for friendliness and hospitality of its inhabitants.

Its climate is invigorating and bracing, much like that of the Alps. Schoolcraft himself wrote: "The air itself is of the purest and most inspiring kind. To visit such a scene is to draw health from its purest sources, and while the eye revels in intellectual delights, the soul is filled with the liveliest symbols of God, and the most striking evidences of his creative power."

Lake Superior itself is the greatest body of fresh water in the world, 450 miles long and 176 miles wide with a maximum depth of 1,400 feet. The Osborns compared Superior with Lake Victoria Nyanza, source of the Nile, in Africa with its greatest depth of 270 feet, and the Siberian Lake Baikal which is 397 miles long, only 45 miles wide, and has a recorded sounding of 4,725 feet—deepest lake in the world.

To the authors the air of Hiawatha country "is the clearest, and most vitalizing on earth, for it is as invigorating as that of the Alps without the danger and discomfort attendant on high altitude. Especially tired man is born anew."

The existence of native copper on Isle Royale and the Keweenaw peninsula was known centuries ago to the Indians, and the Osborns report "there is evidence on Isle Royale and other places that early Norsemen may have discovered and worked this metal."

Surely the copper objects, found in hundreds of Indian mounds and graves from Illinois to Florida, must have had their origin in the Upper Peninsula for only in the Upper Peninsula, of all places in North America, has copper ever been found in pure native form.

Schoolcraft, as geologist for Governor Lewis Cass' expedition, took a large specimen of native copper back East. Secretary of War John Calhoun presented pieces of it to foreign ministers at Washington—actual proof of the wealth of the new western country.

The presence of minerals in the Upper Peninsula is well known, but the Osborns remind us of the presence of gold and precious stones such as chlorastrolites and amethysts and agates. Here was the home of white pine without a knot; spruce, balsam, poplar, hemlock, tamaracks, mahogany, birch, beech, basswood, ash, elm, sugar and birdseye maple.

You of hunting inclinations, imagine the sight of 2400 moose on Manitoulin Island! That many moose were snared by a band of Chippewas in the winter of 1870-71.

Here was the home also of the buffalo, elk, caribou, panther and wolf.

Baron La Hontan, who visited the straits in 1688, wrote: "You can scarcely believe what vast shoals of whitefish are seen about the middle of the channel, between the continent and the Isle of Missilimakinac." It was the abundance of whitefish that prompted Father Marquette to establish his mission at Point St. Ignace in 1671.

In fact, it was a custom for the Chippewa to carry their surplus whitefish to Mackinac where they sold it at a high price to both the French and Indians. Whitefish is still the choice piece of resistance for northern Michigan men.

It was Schoolcraft who wrote "Alic Researches" containing research into customs of the Indians, from which Henry Wadsworth Longfellow wrote the immortal epic "Hiawatha."

Schoolcraft's career as a glass manufacturer, mineralogist, explorer, artist, litterateur, scholar and member of the first Board of Regents of the reorganized University of Michigan is portrayed by the Osborns with painstaking and sympathetic detail. The authors close with this prediction: "Some day a sculptor of genius shall immortalize the epic triad—Schoolcraft—Longfellow—Hiawatha."

And when this sculptor of genius finishes his creation, he will have recreated in art the spirit of the Upper Peninsula—its blue waters, forests, mineral ranges and friendly people—the Michigan land of Hiawatha.

Even Best Cow Needs Her Period of Rest

Even the best cow in the herd needs and earns a vacation of 30 to 60 days a year from the chore of eating feed, turning out milk and bearing a calf annually, claims A. C. Baltzer, extension dairyman at Michigan State College.

But during that vacation, that cow need not go on a reducing diet. Baltzer warns that high milk production comes from a healthy animal getting plenty of good feed.

Dairy herd improvement association records, which the college supervises, indicate the best rest period for a cow ranges around six weeks. Cows in heavy production are able to store only small amounts of minerals. If milked without a rest before birth of a new calf, the succeeding lactation period may be poor in comparison with a period just ended.

Bright, sun-cured hay, preferably alfalfa or clover, should be fed in large quantities. Silage in the rest period should be cut some in volume. Grain should be what the herd normally gets and can consist of equal parts of corn, oats, bran and soybean oilmeal. Corn is high in total digestive nutrients. Oats also have high "TDN" plus mineral values. Bran is high in minerals. Soybean oilmeal gives extra protein which builds muscles and repairs body tissues.

One method of conserving feed, according to Baltzer, is to get weal calves to market without extended feeding, unless it is on pasture. The producing herd needs the grain feeds, getting scarce, and livestock markets are eager for the calves for slaughtering.

Along with my head and mind and etc. For 2 thirds of vacation has went swiftly by and I haddnt thot nothing about the near approach of school and the dum kids I meets at same. But I will be a thinking of it plenty from now till the fatle day arrives. and I feet a lot of the joy is a going to go out of my yung life. It are the hr. of fate approach and they is no getting away from same.

Lumber Production In State Shows Decrease

Lansing—Alarmed by a 45 per cent drop in Michigan lumber production this year resulting from a shortage of 3,500 lumberjacks and mill workers, six governmental agencies have launched a cooperative effort to untangle the maze of governmental regulations that is holding down Michigan timber production.

Asserting that "wood is now almost as scarce as copper and tin," S. G. Fontanna, deputy state conservation director, disclosed that the campaign is aimed primarily at aiding small independent woods and sawmill operators, hampered by a labor shortage, inability to obtain equipment replacements, unsatisfactory prices, and lack of coordination among various governmental agencies.

Michigan, he revealed, has been divided into 35 areas, each supervised by a field agent of one of the six co-operating agencies, the conservation department, United States Forest service, Farm Forestry organization, Michigan State College, University of Michigan, and the Soil Conservation service.

The immediate aim, Fontanna declared, is to assist the United States employment service to obtain an accurate picture of the woods labor shortage, so that federal agencies may take steps to relieve the situation. Higher wages, bans on "pirating" of workers, job-freeze orders, and more intensive recruiting of labor are the solutions being suggested.

Fontanna said that the field agents also are helping lumber operators to persuade local draft boards that their workers are essential to prosecution of the war, in order to relieve the serious drain on northern woods crews by the army and military construction forces.

Fontanna reported that suggestions are being studied for using Jamaican and Mexican imported labor, aliens, war prisoners and inmates of Michigan prisons in the woods, but that few from such sources have sufficient skill to perform the jobs.

Scores: Fibre 8, Spring 7; Spring 5, All Stars 4. Fibre vs. All Stars, weather.

Central defeated Spring in a high scoring game on Monday, 8-7. This was a game where most anything might happen and it did. Fibre finally won out to remain in first.

The Fibre vs. All Stars game scheduled for Tuesday was called off.

Then on Thursday night came the game of all games between Spring and All Stars. The All Stars missed a golden chance to score in the first. Gadd singled and was out stealing, then McClellan hit a triple but failed to touch second and was called out.

Spring then went on to get two in the second, and another in the third. But the All Stars picked up two in their half of the third to get back in the ball game.

Spring then picked up one more in the fourth, and the All Stars got one more in the sixth. Then the fireworks started.

Schupp, first-up, hit a double but when he tried for three was out. The argument lasted for about five minutes, and before the inning was over there were more arguments with the All Stars tying the score. But the All Stars gave Spring a five-four victory by walking in the final run.

The schedule for next week is as follows: Spring vs. All Stars, Aug. 17; Spring vs. Fibre, Aug. 19.

On Sunday at 2:30 the All Stars will engage in a softball game with Boytown Camp, Mill Lake, at the local field. This ought to be a good game, so be out and see it.

Coast Guard Officer Describes Operations

The giant fleet of ships which launched the invasion of Sicily was unloaded with such skill and persistence in the face of enemy fire that the operations were successful from the start, Lieutenant Blair Walliser, Coast Guard Reserve officer who has returned to Washington from Sicily, relates.

Lieut. Walliser, who makes his home at 2912 Commonwealth Avenue, Chicago, was a senior duty officer aboard a Coast Guard-manned transport which participated in the invasion.

Coast Guardsmen and Navy personnel who landed the troops and supplies worked without rest to keep their moving in at a pace that staggered the Axis defenders, Lieut. Walliser said.

The unloading operations chalked up a new record for amphibious warfare, he related. Despite the fact that some landing craft were damaged, supplies and troops kept pouring onto the beaches. His own Coast Guard unit landed American soldiers and supplies at Gela, Sicily, where the enemy defenses were concentrated heavily. Damaged landing craft were hauled out of the water and repaired as quickly as they were hit.

Coast Guard Chief Boatswain's Mate William G. Lawrence of Fair Haven, New Jersey, in charge of a damage repair group, alone put many landing boats back in action after they had been damaged by enemy shell fire or bombs.

Chief Boatswain's Mate Lawrence used a salvage boat invented by Captain Roger G. Heimer of San Diego, Calif., Commanding Officer of the Coast Guard transport on which Lieut. Walliser served.

Captain Heimer also coined a motto which became the working formula of all Coast Guardsmen participating in the landing. Referring to damaged boats, the Captain's standing order was: "Pull them up, patch them up, pump them out, put them back, keep them running."

And the Coast Guardsmen did. Lieut. Walliser said that it was impossible to get the Coast Guard crews out of their landing boats, many of them even sleeping in them at night and refusing to leave them for meals.

He mentioned one landing craft which surprised Army men ashore by shooting down into the sea a German Messerschmitt that had appeared over a dune to strafe our troops on the beach.

The boat was stuck on a sandbar and was trying to free itself, when the plane was sighted. The crew was composed of Coast Guardsmen Byron Dannison, of South Haven, Mich., Thomas Miller of Philadelphia, Pa., and Robert Ward of Bridgeport, Conn.

The boats first went in under cover of total darkness, but soon enemy searchlights on shore picked them out for gun targets. A cruiser promptly lobbed some shells into the searchlights and shore gun crews, and the invasion craft went on. The first wave from Lieut. Walliser's ship sent up flares as soon as they landed. They were under the command of Ensign Bernard R. Blauhut, of the Coast Guard, whose home is in Washington, D.C.

The Coast Guard officer reported that landing parties that went in after the initial attack were seriously hampered by booby-traps set by the enemy, who even mined the bodies of their own dead and Allied dead.

On the follow-up landing of vehicles, Lieut. Walliser reported that they were so packed in the Coast Guard lighters that there wasn't a wasted inch of space in any craft which went in.

In commenting upon the swiftness with which landing craft were repaired after being hit by the enemy, the officer said that craft carried ready-made plugs to be put in bullet holes. The boat repair crews of his unit were under the charge of Lieut. Ivett L. Logan of Athens, Ga.

The average time for repairing a boat that had to be taken out of the water was only an hour and five minutes. Then the repaired boats were pressed back into immediate service.

When talking with Italian prisoners taken during the engagements along the Sicily shore, Lieut. Walliser discovered that the size of the Allied fleet literally terrified them. One prisoner declared that he was scared to death when the Coast Guard and Navy first sent in waves of landing craft. "It was like a tidal wave," he said, referring to the dreaded "marubbio" of the Mediterranean.

A more laconic Italian engaged the Coast Guard officer in talk about the Brooklyn Dodgers. He said that he worked one summer in Brooklyn and had become a Dodger rooter. His first question was: "How are the Dodgers doing?" As soon as Lieut. Walliser assured him that they were doing better than the Axis, the Italian changed the subject, exclaiming: "What a war! I'm going to New York, and you fellows are going to Rome."

Food for Allies
Since March, 1941, the U. S. has delivered for shipment to the Allies about four million tons of food-stuffs, at a cost of about $1,250,000,000.

Nitrogen in Air
In the air over every acre of land and water there are approximately 36,000 tons of pure nitrogen which, if in usable form, would be worth $7,300,000.

Can You Picture
MICHIGAN
without Highways?

A strange place it would be—this State of ours—if our splendid 8000-mile network of surfaced highways suddenly ceased to exist.

A great many communities inside of Michigan's 2,300-mile long shoreline would be isolated. Others would find it infinitely more difficult to carry on even the most ordinary daily activities—with no trucks on the move, no cars or buses taking workers to war plants and farms, soldiers to camp and home on furlough, business travelers to nearby communities, children to school.

We in Michigan are apt to take for granted the convenience of our excellent roads—but these highways didn't just grow. Building and maintaining them is a tremendous job and for achieving this successfully we can thank past and present administrations and particularly the Michigan State Highway Department.

That isn't the whole story, however. Transforming these lifeless ribbons of concrete and macadam into live, active arteries of public transportation has been the accomplishment of the Michigan Public Service Commission. They've given our State a transportation system that compares favorably with any other in the country.

As fellow citizens of Michigan, the Greyhound Lines have made a very large contribution in the form of license, fuel and operating taxes—but we feel that our greatest service is in putting the highways to work making near neighbors and good neighbors of all the communities we serve throughout the State.

Next time you're sore at the Nazis or Japs, just sit down for a minute. And if there's a pencil handy, do a little figuring—something like this . . . :

Sure, taxes are higher. You're paying more than you used to. And the cost of living hasn't gone down any either. That's costing you more. But . . .

Chances are, you're making more, too. And maybe somebody else in the family's working. Maybe one of the girls is bringing home a pay envelope every week—and pretty good pay at that. Chances are, there's more cash coming into your home right now than there has been for a long, long time. What's more . . .

Maybe you were going to get a new bus this year. Every year, you know, millions of people did get new ones. Or radios. Or refrigerators. Anyway, it's a cinch you'd have spent some money this year on things you can't buy now.

So what?

So maybe you can put more of your family earnings into War Bonds! Not 10% or 12% or 15% or 20%—but all you can! If you and every other American who has an income will sharpen up your pencils and figure out how you can save an extra dollar here and another there that can go into War Bonds — if you'll keep on figuring and saving — you'll provide a weight of metal that will snap the Axis' spine like a rotten stick!

Let's pour it on! And keep pouring it on till the murderous fools who have defiled our soil, butchered our sons, broken up our homes—who have refused to let us live and work in peace—are smashed utterly to dust!

Standardize Vitamins Shortly after the establishment of the United States Pharmacopoeia undertook to provide standards and assay methods. At first the United States Pharmacopoeia was confined to individual vitamins; when the U. S. P. XII appeared in 1928 their employment in combination was similar to those found in foods so thoroughly accepted by medical authorities that the Pharmacopoeia found it advisable to provide recognition and standardization for an increasingly large number of these substances.

WOMEN AT WAR

Rosebud
Rosebud is eight, and the most beautiful shade of caramel-fudge; she is known as approximately alternate days, as "Angel" and "Y-devil child." It was on her devil child days that Rosebud tied the knots in the shirts that Mammy had taken in for washing, and poured the whole of the vanilla bottle into the lamb-stew just, she said later through bitter tears, to "flavor it up some."

On her angel days Rosebud is equally imaginative even if a more restful occupant of the little shack down on Vinegar Hill. Once when Mammy was out
doing day work,
Rosebud wave of cleaning fever and scowled
every pot and pan
in the kitchen so that they literally glistened. Another day, left alone,
she tied up Mammy's and Pappy's room to such a point of apple-pie order that it was a week before Pappy could find an undershirt.

Rosebud is a great reader of the newspapers. Mammy and Pappy don't talk one, but there are plenty of perfectly good newspapers blowing round Vinegar Hill. It was out of one of them that Rosebud got her idea for spending the ten cents the Bunny had put under her pillow the night her tooth came out. After breakfast Rosebud disappeared down the hill and reappeared soon after with a beautiful ten-cent War Stamp pasted firmly into a brand-new notebook with neat little squares for more stamps. She displayed her investment to Mammy. "I declare you're an angel child," Mammy said. Rose-bud went on sitting on the kitchen floor staring with large brown eyes at the empty squares in her book.
From time to time she took hold of one or another of her teeth and wiggled it, gently.

Mammy was engrossed in a particularly big washing. Rosebud was as quiet as a mouse and Mammy forgot about her until, coming in for about tea until, coming in from the yard with her armful of dry sheets, she encountered her child with a large hammer in her hand.
Scenting the devil in her angel child, Mammy shouted at her, "Rosebud!
Come here with that hammer! What you planning on doing?"

But what was done was done. In Rosebud's other hand was another stamp. Her mouth was stretched in a broad if slightly bloody smile. "I ain't doing nothing," Mammy said.
"I'm just filling up my stamp book."

HOUSEHOLD MEMOS... by Lynn Chambers

Use a Water-Bath for Canning Tomatoes, Fruits
(See Recipe Below)

Try Canning!
Many homemakers who have never done so before will be hard at work doing some old-fashioned "putting up" this summer. Not only will it be economical to put up your own Victory
garden's surplus,
but also it will be a vital step in stretching those precious points next winter.

Canning's simpler today and much of the spoilage that occurred formerly can be prevented if the homemaker checks the causes of spoilage. There's a reason for every type of spoilage, and what's more important, every one of them can be prevented if she's careful.

First, it's not smart to use leftover produce that you wouldn't eat at the table. Select only prime fruit and vegetables in perfect condition.
Best quality goes into commercial canning, and so it should for home canning. Get out into the garden early in the morning to get vegetables and fruits and can immediately, or if you market, tie a bandanna on your hair and go out early in the morning to get your produce while it's still fresh.

Cleanliness is another important factor. Remember that food spoils for other reasons than that the jar is not air-tight. More spoilage than you ever dreamed of can result from not washing the food properly and discarding bruised or imperfect vegetables and fruits. Be sure to peel the food, if it is to be peeled, so that no dirt and the bacteria that lurk in it get rubbed in the product as it is peeled.

Work as quickly as possible with the food once it's started on its way to the can. Flat sour, which occurs in vegetables, can often develop in vegetables, for example, if the jars in which the processed food is placed stand too long before processing. Too much delay in handling food from one step to the other may cause a great loss of vitamins and minerals.

Do as much preparation ahead of time as possible like checking equipment and getting together jars which are examined for imperfec-tions and nicks. Wash all jars and caps in soapy suds (not in cold dish-water after the breakfast dishes!) and scald or sterilize them.

Select Day for Canning.
If there's a huge quantity of food to be canned, it would be a good idea to round up as many friends and neighbors to help, and to do the canning on a community basis. In many towns, pressure cookers which

Lynn Says
Successful Canning-It is easy to do the right thing with foods to be put up in cans if you know the principles and follow directions.
Follow the slogan, "Two hours from garden to kettle." Use only fresh, firm, ripe rather than over-ripe produce. Wash all foods carefully before attempting any preparation.

Check jars, rubbers if used, and caps along with equipment before you start canning. Work at the range as much as possible to save time between steps. Have steve jars on one side of range, fill them from kettle on stove (or from colander near stove, if using fruit which is not pre-cooked), and place immediately in water bath or pressure cooker or oven.
Jars should be washed in a pan of soapy suds and scalded, inverted on a clean towel until used.

Beets.
Use small, uniform beets. Wash carefully. Leave the roots and stems long. Boil 15 minutes. Plunge into cold water, remove the skins and pack into clean jars. Add 2 ta-spoons of salt and sugar mixture to each quart jar if desired. Fill to within 1/2 inch of top, with boiling water. Put on cap, screwing band firmly tight. Process in hot-water bath 120 minutes or in pressure cooker 40 minutes at 40 pounds.

Coconuts Supply Many Needs of Island Natives

Coconut trees can supply practically all needs of natives on the thousands of coral islands dotting the South Seas war zone, and almost alone make the islands habitable, says the National Geographic society. For centuries coconut palms have provided native food, drink, clothing and shelter.

The edible part of the coconut, the copra of commerce, is well-known.
Natives also eat the green nut. Its meat is like the white of a soft-boiled egg. The pulp of young coconuts is fed native babies.

Out of unopened leaves in the crown of the coconut palm islanders make a salad. Early New England whalers called it "sailor's cabbage." It can be obtained only by killing the tree, and is now known as "Mil-lonaire's salad" because trees now are valued at $25 and up.

Native fowls and pigs in the South Seas thrive on coconut meat. In the United States, where thousands of tons of the meat are used in making oil, the residue is fed to cattle, pigs, sheep and poultry.

Solar Energy for Day Is 75 Trillion Kilowatts

The solar energy arriving at the outside of the earth's atmosphere on a plane perpendicular to the sun's rays is about 1.1 kilowatt for every square yard. Of this only about .43 per cent, or about a half-kilowatt per square yard, reaches the earth's surface.

The total solar energy arriving at the earth's surface is at the rate of 75 trillion kilowatts.

To give some meaning to this astronomical figure, compare it with the heat of combustion of all the petroleum which has been deposited in the earth's crust. A liberal estimate, making allowance for future discoveries, indicates that the volume of this petroleum is certainly less than one trillion barrels. If all this were burned, the heat from it would be about equal to the solar energy arriving at the earth's crust in half a day. And the heat of combustion of all the coal in the earth's crust is equivalent to the solar energy arriving at the earth's surface in less than six months.

Salvage Sweaters

Before discarding a sweater because it has stretched out of shape and shape make an attempt to repair it. If the yoke has stretched, put in a lining, correct in size, across the shoulders and the front chest. Fine brussels net or sheer silk or crepe may be used and the material need not be new, if it is firm and in good condition. Use running stitches to put the lining in the sweater and fasten it at the neckline, shoulder seams and about two or three inches down on the armhole seams. Extra length in sleeves or at the bottom of the sweater may be raveled out and the edges refinished with crochet.

Sometimes sweaters that are too small can be made wearable through clever use of ribbon in matching or contrasting color to increase size or length. If width through the body of the garment is needed, use the ribbon at the front and around the neckline, cardigan fashion, or around the collar. Buttonholes may be worked in the ribbon or loops may be made at the edge of the ribbon. This plan may also be used to add length to the sleeves. Or length may be added to both sweater and sleeves by means of a knitted or crocheted ribbed section at the lower edge.

Drying Sweaters

Rinse sweaters in clear lukewarm water; squeeze gently to remove as much moisture as possible, then roll or pat in a turkish towel to remove further moisture. After this, lay out flat to dry fitting to measurements taken before washing. A dry towel or cloth underneath will encourage drying by absorbing the moisture from the bottom. Quick drying is always important, but particularly so when two or more colors are combined in one garment.
Select a warm, airy place for drying sweaters, but do not expose to direct heat by placing on a hot radiator or too close to a heater.

Japanese Beetles

Only two of the crops included in most gardens, sweet corn and snap beans, are likely to be attacked by Japanese beetle pests. They sometimes feed on the silk of sweet corn to such an extent that pollination may be seriously affected. Hydrated lime dusted on the silk serves as a repellent and deters the beetles from feeding, but it does not interfere with pollination.

Japanese beetles feed avidly on bean foliage but they are readily controlled by the application of rotenone or pyrethrum dusts or sprays.

Measure Blood Flow

Flow of blood corpuscles in the capillaries has been measured from shadows of the blood cells moving through the retina. These shadows sometimes can be seen by a person who gazes at the sky. Minute clear and dark spots move in definite paths in front of the eye. They move faster if the pulse increases.
Using a special lighting arrangement to project the shadows on a screen, it has been possible to estimate the capillary circulation in man.

Your Victory Garden

By PAUL R. KRONE
Chief, Victory Garden Section
Michigan Office of Civilian Defense

If you are allowing your tomatoes to sprawl over the ground rather than staking them, a much of straw or grass clippings at this time will materially improve the crop.

A mulch does several things. It keeps the soil uniformly moist and retains much of the moisture that is already there. It will help quite materially to reduce blossom end rot, the dry rot which forms on the blossom end of the fruit. This so-called disease is in reality a physiological trouble that can be largely prevented by keeping the ground evenly moist.

The mulch also will protect the fruits on the under sides of the vines which so frequently rot if they come in contact with the soil. It also keeps them nice and clean. If you haven't straw available and use grass clippings, do not apply them too thickly if they are fresh, as a heavy application may heat in the course of decomposition and cause injury to the plants.

We are frequently asked regarding the advisability of removing the suckers or thinning out sweet corn. If the corn is too thick, this thinning out process will materially improve the quality of the corn that you get and there will be a better yield. However, experiments indicate that if the corn is properly spaced, there is no value in removing the suckers. If the plan is to be done, it should be done early —that is, before the corn tassels out.

A late planting of beets for storage can be put in at this time in the southern part of the state. This large planting will produce a nice small beet which will be suitable for fall and winter use and is excellent for canning. Turnips can also be sown at this time for fall storage. Chinese cabbage can be planted and, among other things, plantings of lettuce, spinach, radishes and even green beans can still be made. The crop from a bean planting made at this time will, of course, depend upon the fall weather.

In order to hasten development of late crops, apply some of the special Victory Garden fertilizer along both sides of the row at the time of sowing the seeds. We prefer to place this fertilizer in a trench about two inches deep on either side of the row of seeds and spaced about two inches out from the seed row. Apply it at the rate of one pound to thirty feet of row.

Be on the lookout for squash borers and squash bugs. The borers penetrate the stem and cause the plants to wilt and die. At the first sign of borer injury, examine the stems for the entry hole and run a wire into it to kill the borer before it strikes at

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

Mosquito Bar

Among the casualties returning to the United States from the Solomons are men who have lost their hearing, not from injury, not from shock, but from attack by insects upon men who have been without mosquito bar protection.

We'll never know how many lives this mosquito bar has saved and you probably never will know just how much good your purchases of War Bonds have done, but you should know that regular and increasing purchases are necessary.

U. S. Treasury Department

The good parts of the plant. Then the soil over the joints of the stems to prevent rot, which would kill the plant.

Squash bugs are present in rather large quantities this year. It is very difficult to kill the old ones, but the young bugs can be destroyed by contact spray. Watch for the eggs and remove them from the undersides of the leaves. Trap the old bugs by placing shingles or other light boards between the rows in the evening and picking the bugs early in the morning.

Watch those late-crop plantings as well as broccoli and cauliflower for cabbage worms. They are especially bad this year but can be easily controlled. Rotenone in dust form is the easiest method of control at this stage and also the safest. Do not use cel-cium arsenate or lead arsenate on broccoli or cauliflower.

Denver Has Surplus

Denver closed its books for the 1942 fiscal year with a surplus of $436,000, the surplus the result of an excess of actual revenues over estimated revenues of about $165,000. Moreover, the city auditor predicts that in 1943 the city will have about $110,000 more to spend than had been anticipated when the annual budget was adopted in December.

Sophia

Mrs. Kimball and Mrs. Worthington, dressed soberly and wearing their best black gloves, walked along the stony country road back toward Sophia Hardy's farm, to pay their visit of condolence.

"How do you reckon she'll be bearing up?" Mrs. Kimball asked Mrs. Worthington. Both ladies wore their most solemn, funeral expressions.

"A mighty severe blow," Mrs. Worthington said. "My dear, severe. To lose your only son, the mainstay of your declining years. And such a dreadful death, too—to go down with a ship. Mercy!"

"The first of our boys from Hand County to go, too," Mrs. Kimball said, mournfully.

"I wouldn't blame Sophia Hardy for feeling right bitter."

They stood on the simple stone doorstep, with downcast eyes, gazing at the sea.

"It's nice of you to come," Sophia said. "Do sit down."

"We came," Mrs. Kimball said almost reprovingly. "To tell you that our hearts are bleeding for you in your great loss."

"We know how lonely you must be out here," Mrs. Worthington said. "With nothing to take your mind off of."

"Oh, I keep busy," Sophia said. "I've just finished applying for the Government insurance on Tom's life."

"The visiting ladies could not resist a shocked glance at one another."

"I want to get it right away," Sophia said. "So I can put it into War Bonds. My boy hasn't finished fighting yet, not by a long shot."

The ladies were so occupied with feeling horrified, so inflamed by this callous behavior, in a bereaved mother—that neither of them noticed Sophia's hands. Under the folds of her clean print dress, against the seat of her chair, they were tightly clenched.

(Story from an actual report in the files of the Treasury Department.)

Carry on for mothers like Sophia. Buy War Bonds till it hurts.
