Called To The Colors

Frank M. Edgar, Jr. and Robert A. Edgar, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Frank M. Edgar of North Lake, have enlisted in the armed forces and will report for service in the near future.

Robert, who was born in Detroit on May 24, 1925, has resided in this vicinity for two and one-half years. He was a junior in Chelsea high school and was prominent in athletics. On his 18th birthday he enlisted in the Army Air Corps and will report on Friday, September 11, to the Basic Air Training School, Miami, Fla.

Frank, who is familiarly known as "Bud," was born in Detroit on June 6, 1918. He graduated from Howe Military School, Howe, Ind. in 1935, after which he attended the University of Michigan for one year and Purdue University, Lafayette, Ind. for three years. He has been employed in the office of the Federal Screw Works. He enlisted in the Army Engineers on June 24 and will report to Camp Claiborne, La. on September 13. Frank was married on January 1, 1943 to Mary Jane Evans of Detroit.

Celebrities Will Play In Donkey Baseball Game

Have you seen the rotund president of the village, Al Mayer, attempt to steer a mule around the base paths? Or have you seen stately Paul Schaible riding a bale of hay to catch a pop fly? Or Ferd Merkel carrying around a donkey? You will see all these things and many more at the donkey ball game at the athletic field Wednesday night, Sept. 8, beginning at 8:15 p.m.

The diamond-studded line-up of the East Side Merchants, captained by loquacious Russell McLaughlin, will oppose the West Side Merchants captained by the boastful Dr. A. L. Brock. Rumor has it that the East Side Merchants have been holding secret practice sessions on nearby farms. Dr. Brock's team must win or a number of people will be receiving free dental work.

The game will be played under floodlights furnished by the Panhandle Donkey Ball Company of Crescent, Oklahoma. An explanation and play by play account will be broadcast over a loud-speaker.

The East Side Merchants have contracted for riders: Bill Schatz, Kent Walworth, Carl Fletcher, Ferd Merkel, Emmett Hankerd and Jule Strieder. The West Side veterans include Tom Smith, Vincent Burg, George Seitz, Lloyd Heydlauff, John Fletcher, Dillon Wolverson and Paul Schaible.

This game features the original panhandle donkeys in America's funniest game. It's better than a rodeo. Funnier than a circus! Be sure and reserve Wednesday night, Sept. 8, to see these teams of business men and prominent citizens of Chelsea perform. See you at the game.

Local Drive Sends 7000 Packages of Cigarettes

Chelsea's drive to raise funds for the purchase of cigarettes for service men overseas terminated Monday with the result that a total of $325 was raised by placing jars in business places and factories for contributions.

This fund will purchase 130,000 cigarettes from the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company, and the company will give 10,000 cigarettes, making a total of 140,000 or 7,000 packages of cigarettes which will go to service men overseas, carrying the good wishes of Chelsea.

A label will be attached to each of the 7,000 packages, showing the donors—the name of each factory group which contributed being placed on the number of packages which they contributed, and the miscellaneous collection carrying the good wishes of the citizens of Chelsea. Each label will also show that the project was sponsored by the Kiwanis club of Chelsea.

According to C. L. Kraft, assistant division manager for the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company, who attended the Kiwanis club meeting on Monday evening, the local drive was the most successful of any sponsored in a town of this size by his company. Dillon Wolverson was chairman of the Kiwanis committee which had charge of the collection.

These cigarettes will be sent to service men in various parts of the world. Acknowledgment will first be received from the Special Service Section of the War Department, and an acknowledgment card goes in each carton of cigarettes, which will be sent to the local doctors by the service men who receive the smokes.

Members of the Kiwanis club wish to express their appreciation to all who contributed to this fund, thus helping to provide enjoyment for our boys in the armed forces.

It's An American Army

By RUTH TAYLOR

What makes an American Army American?

It is selection. The boys come from all ranks of life, from farm and factory, from village and city, from the work bench and the classroom. There is no question of class, no bar of national origin of the names they bear, no dispute as to their religion. They are chosen because they are physically fit and mentally able to do a hard job.

Because they are tough enough to take it—and to hand it out.

It is leadership. With only a small standing army, war found us with too few men trained to lead. But that never stopped an American army. The boys in the ranks were culled by their officers and if they showed any qualities of leadership, they were pushed into officers' training camps, there to earn their ratings. Gossip mongers to the contrary, practically none of our officers were selected because of their "friends." Most have come up from the ranks through sheer ability and hard work. Our leaders know the men they are leading because in the ranks are men they know, who come from the same kind of homes, were taught in the same kind of schools the same beliefs in democracy. The men obey because they know "why." The officers lead because they know "how."

It is devotion. In our ranks are men whose ancestors crossed the seas generations ago—and those who came in the last immigration; those whose only language seems to be American slang, those who talk with a "Harvard" accent, and those who still have a foreign accent; those who are Americans by birth, and those who are Americans by choice. But there is a common bond which ties them together—a bond of devotion to a flag which stands for a devotion to the free land that is America.

It is consecration. Alike the men who are American are consecrated to an ideal set forth in the Declaration of Independence. "We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal; that all men are Americans by birth, and those who are Americans by choice. But there is a common bond which ties them together—a bond of devotion to a flag which stands for a devotion to the free land that is America."

we look forward to a world founded upon four essential freedoms." Selection, leadership, devotion and consecration—that is what makes an American army American. That is what will carry an American Army on to victory.

Alarm Clock Loses First Round

Even the brassy voice of the alarm clock doesn't carry enough authority to arouse this youngster, all too comfortable in her nice, warm bed. But her younger sister is determined that neither of them will be late for the first day of school. Teacher wouldn't like it. Scenes like this will be common from now on with the resumption of school work throughout the area.

Your Victory Garden

By PAUL R. KRONE

Chief, Victory Garden Section, Michigan Office of Civilian Defense

An inspection of hundreds of gardens throughout Michigan emphasizes that most folks have grown just the most common vegetables—the things they've learned to like, usually because they could be bought in the neighborhood grocery.

But there are a lot of delicious vegetables that are quite common, yet we found them in very few gardens. It is true that some of these crops, like cauliflower, brussels sprouts and perhaps lima beans, require too much space for the amount of food they produce to be recommended for the small garden. However, I believe that next year most Victory Gardeners will have considerably larger gardens so they can try some of these crops.

Gardeners should make a list now of the varieties to plant next year. Eggplant should definitely be included. Five or six plants, which will take about 18 feet of row, will be plenty for the average family. The plants need to be started indoors six to eight weeks before setting out. They are tender and should not be set out until danger of frost is over. The fruits should be used while the outside is still highly glossy. When the skin turns dull the plant is over-mature.

Kale, sometimes called the "Georgia Collard" and closely related to the wild cabbage of Europe, is a non-heading type of green which does best either in early spring or in the fall. It's easy to grow and requires about 50 days to mature. It is grown in much the same way as cabbage and is prepared in the same manner. Some of our friends can't and others freeze it in lockers, preferring it to any other green. In harvesting, either the entire plant is cut off or the lower leaves stripped off to allow the center to mature.

Collards, a standard crop seen in every southern garden are slowly gaining popularity in Michigan. They belong to the cabbage family and look something like a tall growing Kale but do not form a head. They are very high in food value. The seed can be sown inside three to four weeks before planting out in the spring for an early crop. For later crops the seeds are sown in rows in the garden, then sown to stand four to five inches apart in the row. They are thinned further as they grow to stand 16 to 20 inches apart for the final crop.

Collards can be eaten at any stage of growth, therefore the ones that are eliminated in the thinning can be cooked. In harvesting, either the entire stalk can be cut off below the crown when the plant is 8 to 14 inches high, or you can cut off only the mature head, or strip off lower leaves for use, leaving the center to develop further.

As to methods of cooking, one man from the south told us they "put collards in a large kettle with enough water to partially cover, add a good big chunk of ham, then put on a lid and run quickly and lock the doors so they won't get company for at least two hours while enjoying this delicacy."

Kohlrabi is another of the cabbage group that should be better known. We like it raw or prepared like cabbage. It produces an enlarged root something like a round turnip just about the ground. Be sure to peel it before eating. It matures in about 65 days from seed and thrives especially in cool weather. Seed can be sown indoors three to four weeks before planting out, then another lot of seed sown directly in the garden as soon as the garden can be planted. A fall crop can be sown directly in the garden about August 1. The plants that are thinned out can be replanted in another part of the garden. Kohlrabi is another plant that takes a lot of space for what you get out of it.

Proclamation

TO THE PEOPLE OF THE UNITED STATES

Proclamation

RECOGNIZING THE FACT that in carrying the war into enemy territory, we shall need greater amounts of money than any nation has ever asked from its citizens in all history, I, FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT, President of the United States of America, do officially proclaim that on Thursday, the ninth of September, 1943, the Third War Loan shall be launched.

As Commander-in-Chief, I hereby invoke every citizen to give all possible aid and support to this Third War Loan drive, not only so that our financial goal may be reached, but to encourage and inspire those of our husbands and fathers and sons who are under fire on a dozen fronts all over the world. It is my earnest hope that every American will realize that in buying War Bonds in this Third War Loan he has an opportunity to express voluntarily and under the guidance of his conscience, the extent to which he will "back the attack."

The American people supported well the first and second War Loan drives and in fact did even more than was asked of them. Our need for money now is greater than ever, and will continue to grow until the very day that Victory is won; so we must ask far more sacrifice, far more cooperation than ever before.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States of America to be affixed.

DONE at the City of Washington, this twenty-sixth day of July, in the year of our Lord nineteen hundred and forty-three, and of the Independence of the United States of America the one hundred and sixty-eighth.

By the President:
CORDELL HULL
Secretary of State.

County Unit Meets With Local Red Cross Chapter

A "Good Neighbor" policy was expressed on Thursday evening, August 26, when a representative group of the Ann Arbor Red Cross unit visited Chelsea to meet with the local chapter.

A general report of activities and accomplishments for the past year was given, followed by individual reports by those chairmen who were present to give such information. Departments and training classes functioning during the past year were: Nutrition, under Mrs. A. L. Brock; Canteen, supervised by Mrs. E. C. Maroney; Surgical Dressing, directed by Mrs. E. W. Eaton; Sewing, Knitting, from Mrs. J. E. McKune; Motor Mechanics and Advanced First Aid, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Frank Edgar; Home Care of the Sick, with Mrs. Doris Rogers as chairman.

An extra activity supported through separate planning was the day room which was equipped for use of the soldiers at Fort Custer. $349 were raised for furnishings, and equipment including magazines, games, etc.—this to be known as the "Chelsea Room." These are always enthusiastically utilized by the men in service.

Mrs. Charles Sink of Ann Arbor enlarged upon the new phase of activity which is being promoted in states of this area. Recently a group from Washtenaw county was sent to Wisconsin to take a well defined training in the Aquatic School, promoting the topic "Accident Prevention in the Home and Farm." The nation, by areas, is offering this very valuable course and Chelsea is fortunate in having Miss Elizabeth McDonald of the high school faculty who was chosen as a representative to be instructed in the essentials of this course. Her information will in turn be relayed to volunteer groups in this vicinity. It will be your privilege to receive the benefits of her training in the near future.

Among other topics of interest, Ann Arbor reported on their very excellent swimming "set-up," not only through equipping persons to be able to swim, but to combat various obstacles which may be encountered through varied experiences.

Mrs. Maddock modestly told of the periodical which she is editing for Red Cross to bring to the county units anything of interest and value that the various chapters may offer as news. This edition comes out once a month and if you could go to the luncheons and "chats" on the last Friday of the month in Ann Arbor you would be able to obtain one of these informative sheets—or send your name and address to Red Cross headquarters in Ann Arbor and a copy will be mailed to you.

The Canteen Corps Unit from the St. Paul's church completed the evening by serving punch and wafers to the Chelsea group and guests.

TRUCK CRASHES INTO CARS
When Harold Hanchett of Clare parked his truck loaded with cattle at the corner of South Main and Summit last Tuesday night the brakes failed to hold and the truck started on a rampage. It struck a glancing blow at the car parked just in front of it belonging to Esther Usher of Stockbridge, then traveled across the street to crash into a car belonging to John Wireman of Chelsea. Both cars were considerably damaged.

Wheat Came From Asia
Wheat, the source of our daily bread, had its origin in Asia.

Michigan Millers Urge Farmers to Plant Wheat

C. L. Athanson, secretary Michigan State Millers Association, also secretary Chelsea Milling Company, urges the planting of more wheat than usual this year by farmers. Athanson points out that former restrictions by government agencies in limiting wheat acreage have been removed and that considerable land was allowed to summer fallow because of unfavorable spring planting conditions.

Flour made from wheat, Athanson points out, is one of the key items to which both Mr. Byrnes referred to in a recent speech and also as one of the items referred to by the President as "necessities of life." Every farmer therefore should take advantage of this opportunity to increase next year's food production as not only this nation's but the world's demands will be great.

Farmers planting wheat this year will be contributing directly to the war effort as well as helping themselves. Caution must be used, however, in buying good seed wheat, certified if possible, fertilize your land and in this way you can be assured of excellent milling quality wheat.

Hershey Shows Order of Induction

"The selection of men needed for the armed forces and the deferment of men required for agriculture, war production and war supporting activities are much more difficult than in the days when we had ample men from which to choose," said Major General Lewis B. Hershey, Director of Selective Service, in a recent letter to local boards. He said, "Available men will be called for induction in the following order: (1) single men without dependents—(2) single men with collateral dependents—(3) married men without children—(4) men with children (nondeferable activities and occupations)—(5) men with children."

Small Engines To Farmers

Distribution of about 37,000 air and liquid-cooled internal combustion engines of 20-horsepower and under will be controlled by county farm rationing committees. Preference rating certificates will be issued to farmers or operators of farm machinery for hire, based on the need for the engine in essential production of crops, livestock and livestock products, poultry and eggs, and bees. When the farmer receives such a preference rating certificate, he can take it to his local dealer and buy the engine.

Drops Bombs—Gathers Corn

When the B-24 Liberator Bomber, "Lemon Drop," of the U. S. Army, Ninth Air Force came back from its mission of bombing Rumanian oil refineries at Ploesti, corn stalks were clinging to its bomb bay doors. The bombardier, Captain Herbert Light, Ames, Iowa, observed, "Why, back in Iowa you'd have to fly 25 feet off the ground to get above the corn tops. No risks involved in that. But when you're heading for a target in the Rumanian oil and corn country, you've got to fly about six feet off the ground to skim the corn tops."

Some Boots Are Ration-Free

Certain kinds of rubber boots useful in farming and similar work but no longer being manufactured for general use have been released from rationing by a recent OPA amendment. All olive drab, clay, or khaki colored rubber boots, all over-the-shoe rubber boots and all light-weight ankle-fitting rubber boots which depend upon stretch at the ankle for fitting are included in the order. However, quantities will be small because dealers do not have complete stocks on hand.

"Standing Room Only" On Trains

If you are planning to take a train trip over Labor Day, you probably will have to stand in the aisles, OPA officials say. Passenger trains throughout the U. S. continue to run heavily loaded, with standing in the aisles occurring frequently on some trains, particularly at week-ends.

Tax Reports Due September 15

Many farmers will be among the 15 million Americans who are required to file a declaration of estimated income for 1943 and make a payment on that basis under the "pay-as-you-go" plan which became effective July 1, this year. September 15 is the date for filing declarations, except that farmers, if they wish, may wait until December 15, since they receive the bulk of their income in the fall. Generally speaking, all single persons earning more than $2,700 a year from wages subject to withholding and all married couples earning more than $3,500 will be required to file declarations. In addition, individuals or couples with an income of $100 or more from sources other than wages are required to file, if their total income is such that they must pay an income tax. Individuals who were required to file an income tax return for 1942 and whose wages subject to withholding in 1943 will be less, must also file.

A COMMUNICATION

Grass Lake, Mich., Aug. 27.

The Chelsea Standard, Chelsea, Michigan.

Dear Editor:

It is said that "strange things will happen." When my wife and I and two little girls, five and three years of age, moved from Sterling, Ill. to Michigan on a farm that I had bought previously at Caledonia, a small town west of Grand Rapids, we never expected to live near Chelsea. My wife ordered an oil stove from Montgomery Ward, Chicago, and when it arrived it was billed out from the "Glazier Stove Works," Chelsea, Mich. We looked on the map and found the location in Washtenaw county. After residing at Caledonia seven years I had a chance to sell out for a good profit and by accident discovered this 500-acre farm in Sharon, where we have resided 33 years with profitable success, and we figure we are fortunate to live within driving distance of Chelsea, where we can do our trading.

It is safe to say that Chelsea is the very best town of its size in the state. We have found where we are able to purchase anything we want in the many well-stocked stores, including groceries, hardware, drugs, clothing, boots and shoes, and a safe and dependable bank that always favored me. The business men are all friendly—also the citizens. Hundreds of Chelsea people came here to our dances during the six years the hall was open.

I've been thinking of setting the farm but if I am unable to do so for what it is worth and have to reside here the chances are favorable that I will build another dance pavilion, and the finest in the state. I've got to do something to keep me from growing older. Thousands of people have come to this farm from cities, towns and country in the radius of 30 miles around, and we can pull them again. I will beautify the yards in general and make the old Hitchcock ranch a show place of flowers and beauty.

If I am able to locate a publishing company that would accept a true story of my life from the beginning, where I was born in a poverty-stricken home in Oswego county, New York, 75 years ago, I will make a vigorous attempt to write the book this winter. It will read something like a sensational novel, only based on absolute truth. I've had a wide experience so far in life by living in three different states and meeting hundreds and hundreds of different types of humanity. I was one of the founders of the National Manufacturing Co. of Sterling, Ill., which has become famous and very wealthy in the line of builders' hardware.

Ben Washburne.

LABOR DAY (September 6, 1943)

● In paying a heartfelt tribute to labor, America is all-inclusive. The farmer, the engineer, the clerk and the thousands of other workers are playing vital important roles in the winning of the war.

Without foods, wars could never be won. Despite the many handicaps resulting from war, the American farmer has redoubled his efforts to increase production.

Age is no handicap to many a wartime job. And thousands of mothers and grandmothers—in the factory, in the office and on the farm—are doing their part to insure complete victory.

The skill and ingenuity of American working men is a decisive factor in hastening an inevitable victory. The loud roar of our industry is now reaching its crescendo.

The housewife has an important job—and she is getting it done. Through volunteer work with civilian defense, Red Cross or community projects, she is contributing directly to the war effort.

Many youngsters with little or no previous training are stepping into jobs on farms and in factories. They are doing a man's work and are shouldering responsibilities beyond their years.

"Sis asked me to tell you!"

"My kid sister's a long distance telephone operator. She says there are so many calls these days that lots of the lines are 'overloaded.'"

"At the base I just left down in the South Pacific, we knew about 'overloads.' We had a lot of doctors and nurses and beds, but sometimes after a big scrap, there'd be so many to take care of at one time that some of those boys would just have to wait their turn."

"Sis says the telephone's like that, too; that your long distance call today may delay another call that is even more urgent than your own."

Long distance lines to war-busy centers are particularly congested. Therefore, please . . .

1. Make only the most necessary calls to war-active areas.
2. If the operator asks you to limit your call to 5 minutes, please co-operate... her request means others are waiting.

Happy Children Await First Day of School

These jubilant, smiling youngsters finally have reached the day they've been waiting for since last spring—the first day of school. Their sparkling eyes are evidence of their complete happiness at being able to resume their quest of knowledge. Too bad that there are vacation periods, to ruin such bliss. It is obvious that the students are gleeful over the fact that they no longer will have to spend their time at the swimming hole or fishing pond.

By GENE ALLEMAN
Cents and sentiment do mix.
Take Henry Ford of Dearborn, for instance.

He is the central figure of this tale about two lumber villages in Michigan, now being revived for war work. Here is Michigan's most astute manufacturer, a genius of mass production and the inventor of the famed Model T "tin lizzy" whose very name has been a household word in American homes for nearly two generations. Here is the doctrine of "more and cheaper goods," the industrialist who established a $5 minimum daily wage in 1912, and who until the recent advent of the U.A.M.-C.I.O., fixed wages and working conditions on a basis of "take it or leave it" with ever increasing prosperity for himself and ever mounting wages for his employees.

Henry Ford at 80 is again the millionaire commander-in-chief of a war industry whose self-sustained operations extend far and whose size is breathlessly gargantuan. Here also is probably Michigan's outstanding sentimentalist, a man whose devotion to the old-fashioned simple living was the inspiration for his Edison Museum and Greenfield collection of Americana, a devotion which is only exceeded by his fondness for children.

We became convinced of the latter distinction recently when we visited a little lumber village of Pequaung, five miles north of L'Anse au Loup, where Henry Ford has been spending his 1943 vacation. Thanks to Henry Ford, a few remaining families at Pequaung and Alberta are smiling. Homes are being re-opened. Children will go to school again. And smoke will pour from the mill stacks.

The historic town of L'Anse, whose site was a campground 200 years ago for French explorers and missionaries, has two satellite villages—Pequaung and Alberta.

Alberta is better known to travelers, for it was created by Ford in 1936 amid a heavy hardwood forest 10 miles east of L'Anse as an industrial experiment. Those of you who motored in pre-war days over U. S. 41 between Marquette and L'Anse will remember your surprise and pleasure when you turned a curve in the scenic road and beheld a picturesque modern community—white-painted sawmills, neat and trim cottages, a schoolhouse and firehouse, and all this with boulevard lights and fine drinking water and even sewage disposal.

We say "pre-war" days because one dark winter morning, after Pearl Harbor, an order arrived from Dearborn to cease operations. Overnight the town became deserted. Windows of the cottages were boarded up.

When we visited Pequaung the other day, men were cutting hay along the streets and on the lawns of unoccupied homes and the closed school. Pequaung is an Indian word for wooded peninsula, and such it actually is, a mushroom-like jutting of land, swept by breezes from Keweenaw Bay.

Henry Ford had been there the week before. Unaccompanied by company executives, except for his personal chauffeur, the head of the industrial empire talked with the caretaker and a few of the remaining townspeople. Only 12 out of 74 dwellings were occupied.

He was told that the Pequaung school, which had been a source of considerable pride and satisfaction to him because of its unique rustic furniture, was only a shell of walls and floors. The rustic furniture had been sold to company executives from Iron Mountain and elsewhere. Ford declined to enter the building, saying that he preferred to remember it as it was with the sound of children's voices.

Oscar Olson, his prize fiddler who plays for old-time square dances, was in L'Anse when the industrialist arrived unheralded from his Huron Mountain summer lodge where he spends August each year. We met Olson at the steps of the village postoffice. He was smoking a pipe, stolidly. He spoke affectionately of the founder of Pequaung, Charles Hebard.

"Yes, I worked for Yarley Hebard," he said, referring to the Englishman lumberman who laid out the community with wide streets and oak trees, like an English suburban town. "The gov'nor was mighty good to us. He allus had a job."

Olson related how the "gov'nor" who ruled the town benevolently like a feudal lord, provided rent-free homes and free water and light and would even "stake" a hard-pressed family with food from his general store until the mill resumed operations or logging work started again. Hebard erected the Union church building, added Gothic lines, and he attended worship services with the mill hands.

Hebard's son carried on the work for a while, but in 1922 the Ford Motor Company located at L'Anse and the next year it acquired Pequaung along with approximately 500,000 acres of timber land in Baraga county. Big business had arrived. For many years the Pequaung folk looked to "Governor" Hebard for security of employment. Then a big corporation, backed by multi-millions, became their employer. The workmen thought they had steady jobs for the remainder of their useful days. In old-age a retired worker could always fish and trap and grow a few vegetables while enterprising, God-fearing sons and daughters kept the home fires burning.

The shingle-siden cottages resounded with laughter of children, and the modern school had its square dance music led by Oscar Olson, a "superior of music," thank you, who now composed his own fiddling numbers. The children delighted Henry Ford on many an occasion by their skill of intricate dance steps.

All this was changed when efficiency experts at Dearborn, influenced perhaps by a few heartless and ruthless executives, decided last year to close down Pequaung and Alberta. The workers could hardly believe the news, but they knew new things might be expected because of the war.

Veteran employees, who enjoyed high seniority rights, were transferred to L'Anse. Confusion was inevitable, but strangely enough, the Pequaung and Alberta families blamed "company politics" for their troubles, and they clung to a strange and abiding faith in their former boss, Mr. Ford. Fiddling Oscar Olson, typical of these, said proudly that Ford had "asked" about him on his recent August visit. And the mill superintendent at Pequaung beamed with happiness as he told us how Ford had extended his hand for a friendly greeting. "I never thought I would shake hands with Henry Ford," he said.

The town newspaper editor, M. G. Menge of the L'Anse Sentinel, is merely "Bill" when Henry Ford of Dearborn comes to town. Henry is that way to people whom he likes. To the Swedes and Norwegians and Finns of Pequaung and Alberta, the flivver king is still their friend. After he visited Alberta, a town which was entirely his own creation, Ford instructed his new Upper Peninsula superintendent, Leo Gannon from Big Bay, to re-open the mill at once. Telegrams were sent that same day to families, some of them living in Detroit, urging them to return north. Pequaung is next for re-opening.

And when the families do return, as they will of course, it will be solely because Henry Ford is a person of old-fashioned sentiment. He is a man of his word, and the Pequaung and Alberta workers know it.

COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS
Council Rooms, Aug. 16, 1943.
Regular Session.

The meeting was called to order by President Mayer at 7:45 p.m. Roll call: Trustees Beach, Staffan, Heydlauff, Spiegelberg and Riker were present. The minutes of the Regular Session held August 2, 1943 were read and approved as amended. The following accounts were submitted to the Council:

Record Seen for 4-H Show On September 6

Nearly 900 head of livestock exhibited by 4-H club boys and girls from all sections of the state will set a new record for annual competition in the combined state show and Farmers' Day scheduled at Michigan State College on Monday, Sept. 6.

The livestock and other exhibits will constitute the college version of a state fair, usually held in Detroit but canceled in 1942 and 1943 because of the war.

Trees of the campus, noted for its beauty, will serve as canopies for family and group basket lunches as the judging progresses during the day. In the evening the Macklin football field will be the setting of a colorful citizenship ceremony involving Gov. H. F. Kelly and John A. Hannah, college president. Army Air Force cadets in training at the college will open the evening program at 7 o'clock with a band concert.

R. J. Baldwin, director of the college extension work, will present achievement awards to the two boys and two girls with the most outstanding records. A. G. Kettunen, state club leader, and Ralph May, assistant state leader, will serve as announcers as a parade of 4-H members and livestock circles the inside of the stadium. Estimates for the exhibits indicate 215 head of hogs, 310 dairy animals, 110 beef animals, 230 head of sheep and 24 colts will be brought to the campus by club members. Judging of livestock opens at 8:30 a.m. A board and ran sale is scheduled in the riding ring of Demonstration Hall at 4 p.m. At 4:30 p.m. an auction of 65 steers, 25 fat lambs and 60 fat market pigs will be run off at the north end of Macklin field.

Visitors during the day will be able to scan samples of other 4-H club wartime production in exhibits set up in the Demonstration Hall ballroom. Eight achievement-booth contestants include Ruth Hanson, Paynesville, in Ontonagon county; Albert Vadnais, Chassell in Houghton county; Betty Warren, Twining in Arenac county; J. W. Hoffman, Marshall in Calhoun county; Stanley Preston, Quincy in Branch county; William McCalla, Ann Arbor; Lois Gessert, Birmingham in Oakland county; and Mary Lesser, Dexter.

Visitors also will be able to watch 50 demonstration teams vie for honors in rooms 12 and 13 in Demonstration Hall during the day. Sheep alone show a decrease in entries, according to Kettunen. In vegetable exhibits, twice the space allotted in 1942 has been given for 1943 entries. In addition to the $11,000 in premiums made available by the State Department of Agriculture, some of the awards will be enhanced by other honors. The state 4-H dress revue winner will be eligible for a trip to the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago. Two boys and two girls of the eight to be interviewed by Director Baldwin and C. V. Ballard, state leader of county agricultural agents, will be awarded trips in 1944 to the American Youth Foundation leadership training school at Camp Minnawakee near Shells, Mich.

Farm and home convenience gadgets built by boys in handicraft projects will be a feature of one new type exhibit. Two other educational exhibits will include conservation projects and war activities. Other exhibits will show top samples of clothing, canning, flowers, vegetables, potatoes, corn, beans and eggs produced by various club members as part of their community club projects. As the judging of club exhibits progresses, farmers will also have access to the annual open house of the agricultural division. All departments of the division will not only be ready to answer questions, but research in progress on the farms and in the barns and laboratories will be explained to visitors. Departments offering this aid to wartime production include those of farm crops, soils, horticulture, forestry, agricultural engineering, animal husbandry, farm and home, poultry, and dairy farm management, entomology and the short course department. Staff members will gather with visitors on experimental plots at 2:30 p.m.

Members of the Michigan Cattle Feeders' association will meet in the Horticulture building at 7:30 p.m. Sept. 6 to discuss feed and market prospects and new marketing regulations.

Mexico Irrigates Land

Nearly 1,000,000 acres of arid land have been made productive in Mexico during the past two years by long range irrigation projects, and by 1948 an additional 1,500,000 acres will be placed in cultivation. The land will be used to produce cotton, wheat and other products for the United Nations' war effort.

Wares Raise Prices

During the first 40 months of both wars, farm prices in the United States rose about 80 per cent. However, that does not mean that each product rose 80 per cent since the war started. Some rose more, such as hogs and potatoes, and some less, such as eggs and butter.

Coccidiosis is a disease that kills an estimated 100 million chicks in this country annually.

CAN VITAMINS CHANGE GRAY HAIR?

Read the amazing experience of gray-haired people in Calcium Pantothenate tests sponsored by Good Housekeeping magazine. According to this report:

Age did not seem to affect results. The earliest response occurred in a 50 year old; the latest in a 23 year old.

Color began to appear near the roots of the hair. The color may not appear all over the head at the same time. Symmetrical areas, perhaps on the temples or back of the head, may show traces of color first, after which the color will spread to other parts of the head.

Time—varied from 1 month to 6 months.

Results—85% of those tested had positive evidence of return of some hair color.

Now thousands use GRAYVITA, which contains 10 mm. of Calcium Pantothenate (the same amount used in tests above) PLUS 450 U. S. P. units of B₁₂, the vitamin necessary to healthy nerve. Try GRAYVITA. Here Come the Lumberjills

The lumber industries report almost 26,000 women workers today as compared with around 8,000 just before the war. They are working at all sorts of sawmill and planing mill jobs, formerly held only by men, handling timber as large as six feet in diameter.

Trellises Require Protection

With lumber now one of the scarce materials, garden stakes, trellises and garden furniture are becoming increasingly valuable assets of the home gardener. Due to moisture usually present in gardens, equipment of this kind is especially subject to rot or rust and should be thoroughly protected to enable it to last for the duration. All garden equipment made of wood should be thoroughly painted or varnished while clean and dry. Any metal equipment should be thoroughly cleaned, with any rust spots sandpapered or scraped down to the bright metal, and then thoroughly painted. Green and white are largely used as colors for garden equipment.

Calories From Meat
