Geo. Winans Awarded Silver Wings Friday

George Winans, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Winans, was commissioned a Second Lieutenant as Pilot in the Army Air Forces and received his Silver Wings at graduation exercises held at Pampa Army Air Field, Texas, on Friday, January 7.

LIEUT. WINANS

Appointed a pilot training August 27, 1942, he received primary flight training at Cimarron Army Air Field, Oklahoma City, Okla., and basic flight training at Garden City Army Air Field, Garden City, Kansas.

More Women Needed For Surgical Dressings

The response to the appeal for volunteers to make surgical dressings was most welcome, but there still are not enough women to make the needed number.
Washtenaw county has to make 70,000 dressings during January, and Chelsea has been asked, and is pledged to make 3600 of these. There is an acute need for at least fifty more women workers a week.

During this January emergency the Surgical Dressing Station in the Home-Making Room will be open on Thursday nights in addition to Monday nights and Wednesday afternoons.
Women of Chelsea, will you not pledge yourselves to make dressings at least once a week and let no other thing prevent you from keeping this pledge?

The committee begs that all organizations, committees and other groups leave Monday nights open so that the regular workers can come with free minds to do this patriotic work which at present is certainly of supreme importance.

Streamlined OCD Will Be Placed In Effect

Plans for putting into effect Michigan's new streamlined civilian defense program under which the protective services will be maintained as now organized in critical cities and war production centers, modified in other communities and greatly curtailed in communities under 5,000 population and rural counties.

The program, unanimously approved at a state-wide conference of county and municipal defense council chairmen and local commanders of the U. S. Citizens Defense Corps, was proposed by Capt. Donald S. Leonard, State Director of Civilian Defense, who said it was designed to "adapt civilian defense to the present necessities of the war, and realign its policies in order to obtain the best possible benefits and utilize to the greatest advantage the services of OGD volunteers."

Capt. Leonard warned that there must be no relaxation in civilian defense and no succumbing to the temptation to "coast and be complacent."
Asserting that the hardest part of the war is still ahead, he said that "the enemy is possessed of enormous striking power and the possibility of air raids on key targets in the United States has not been eliminated. High military and civil authorities are in agreement that we are yet in danger, and civilian defense has not been released from its obligations to maintain air raid protective services."

In general, the new program takes into account the relative target values of the various communities in the state. It calls for the continuance of the protective services as established in priority cities, moderate changes in other cities of more than 5,000 population and urban counties, and the retention of only the air raid wardens, auxiliary firemen and auxiliary policemen in communities under 5,000 population and rural counties, except in instances where, in the judgment of local defense officials, other services also should be kept mobilized.

TRAINING AT BOMBER SCHOOL

Keesler Field, Biloxi, Miss. With his intensive Army Air Forces basic training already behind him, Pvt. Carl Lewis Haselswerdt, son of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Haselswerdt, Chelsea, Mich., has begun airplane mechanical training at Keesler Field's huge B-24 Liberator bomber school.

Pvt. Haselswerdt was selected for the course on the basis of his excellent marks received on the Army mechanical aptitude tests. The course at this unit of the Army Air Forces Training Command will extend over approximately 17 weeks and will include training in all phases of "first echelon" maintenance for B-24 Liberators.

The last phase of the course will place him in the open under simulated battle conditions where he will get his first taste of the job before him. Upon graduating, he will be ready for active line duty, maintaining the string of the Liberators by keeping them in good condition, or will be sent to a factory or gunnery school.

WILL MAKE MILK PAYMENTS

The Washtenaw county AAA committee will meet with the milk producers of Lima, Dexter, Lyndon and Sylvan townships, at Sylvan town hall on January 19 and 20, to make subsidy payments for November and December; also to those who did not get their October payment. License Plates Now On Sale In Chelsea

Michigan's 1944 automobile license plates which are being issued one to a vehicle are making their appearance on the streets of Chelsea this week. They went on sale at the local branch office of the Department of State on Monday. A. D. Mayer, local manager, states that his office will be open from 8:30 to 12 and from 1 to 5 daily for the issuance of license plates.

The new plate is made of 20 gauge steel which is slightly lighter than in previous years and was allowed the states by the War Production Board when it was shown that the 1942 plates which had been used through 1943 with a small tab used not last through another licensing year and because of the necessity from a law enforcing standpoint that tags bearing easily read numbers be on all cars.

In a press release, Herman H. Dignan, Secretary of State, calls attention to the fact that the one 1944 plate must be attached to the rear of the car or truck and that no plate, either new or old, is to be displayed at the front. He asks that both old plates be removed and surrendered at the license plate office for scrap and reuse.

Wayward Minors To Be Trained at Cassidy Lake

An appropriation of $30,000 has been recommended by the youth guidance committee of the state corrections department for the treatment of wayward minors—those between 17 and 21 years of age, who will be sent to the Cassidy Lake camp, which was taken over from the NYA for a vocational training school for young prison inmates.

Garret Heyns, state corrections director, said he hoped the camp would serve both youthful prison inmates and wayward minors, but if not, the wayward minors would be given priority. There is no official estimate as to the number of wayward minors who might be assigned to the department.

Heyns stated that classes of about 25 inmates at a time will be given training in foundry and pattern-making, as part of a program to fit them for post-prison life.

Sylvan Woman Injured When Car Hits Tractor

Mrs. Harold Clark, Sylvan township, was injured early Saturday evening when the car which she was driving hit the rear of a farm tractor on old US-12 a mile east of Grass Lake.

Mrs. Clark suffered a fractured right pelvis, a cut nose and a fractured right kneecap. Fred Schoening, Jr., of RFD, Grass Lake, driver of the tractor, was thrown from the machine by the impact but was unhurt.
The Schoenings were moving a corn shredder, which became loosened from the tractor, sliding off the pavement, leaving the tractor on the highway with no rear light.

Mrs. Clark is in Mercy hospital, Jackson.

INTERPRETING THE NEWS

By GENE ALLEMAN

Is local government more efficient than state or federal government?

Ask State Treasurer D. Hale Brake, and you'll receive a prompt and emphatic reply: "Yes!"

So deep rooted in his conviction that government must be near to the people if it is to attain effectiveness, Brake has been quietly working for months in preliminary spadework organizing the officials of all local governments—county, township and municipal—into a "Michigan Institute of Local Government." The name is tentative at present. The institute would function as a state clearing house for research studies of governmental problems and for cooperative action.

This Thursday (Jan. 6) the executive committee is meeting at Lansing.

A constitution and by-laws are being drafted, and presiding as godfather over non-state officials will be State Treasurer Brake! This fact, being unusual, merits an explanation.

Whenever a state official hands together the key men of influential interests, politicians sniff the air suspiciously and newspapermen sharpen their pencils.

The power of township supervisors has been utilized for years by Mel McPherson, former chairman of the state tax commission. His affiliation with the supervisors was recognized generally as a political asset that served to bulwark a long and successful career in the public taxation field.

It is inevitable that the state treasurer's zeal in behalf of local governments, which he sincerely believes to be superior to either state or federal public administration, should be interpreted by others in varying ways.

Is Brake trying to build a "political machine?" Is he looking ahead to the governorship? Here is the story, as he relates it.

"For years I have believed that long distance control in government is always expensive control, and today I am more convinced of this fact than ever," he said. "County governments, as I have known them in upstate Michigan, are more efficient than state government, and they certainly are far more effective than our federal government."

"State government, for example, is just too big to be as efficient. It is too far away from the people back home. Craft and waste of public funds may exist in a state government for a long time before they are uncovered by a grand jury investigation. Back home, practices of this kind don't survive very long."

"I should explain that my observations of local government are based, for the most part, on counties in upstate Michigan. I have limited knowledge about Wayne county (Detroit)."

"The state institute is not a partisan movement, and I have no political axe to grind. William Dowling of Detroit, president of the state association of prosecuting attorneys, is active on the executive committee, and Dowling, as you know, is a Democrat. We are inviting the president of each affiliating organization to name four or five delegates, and we may open a limited membership by invitation to laymen who are interested in good government. That's all there is to it."

Affiliating organizations, all statewide in their scope, represent the following public officials:

County—Clerks, treasurers, sheriffs, prosecutors, register of deeds, probate judges, circuit court judges, drain commissioners, county school commissioners, road commissioners and welfare commissioners.

Municipal—All officials represented through the Michigan Municipal League.

Township—Township supervisors.

Schools—Michigan Education association and its membership.

If and when the voters of Michigan are asked to consider proposed changes to the Michigan state constitution, the new "Michigan Institute of Local Government" would become a logical channel by which the case of home governments against "unjust" criticism and attack as well as united opposition to the "unnecessary" removal of any local government function to state and national level. The qualifying words, you will note, are "unjust" and "unnecessary."

Formation of the clearing house (critics will probably tag it a "lobby") is further proof of a current trend, accelerated by war regimentation, to decentralize public administration. Washington has discovered it was becoming too heavy with bureaucracy and red tape. Many offices have been transferred elsewhere.

Now a Michigan state official, custodian of many millions of public funds, advocates openly the defense of home rule as a protection against further encroachment of centralized state government and as the taxpayer's best insurance for economy.

If the institute becomes solely a defensive weapon to resist the new and to perpetuate the old, it will become an overnight target of reformers who regard local governmental machinery as "obsolete" and who place upon it the old-fashioned tag of "horse-and-buggy."

State Treasurer Brake, six years chairman of the senate judiciary committee, is not swayed by the modernize pleas of the political science professors. He agrees that changes should be made, but he is inclined to keep, for the most part, what we already have and seek to improve the quality of office-holders rather than scrap machinery itself and adopt a substitute.

This attitude is predicted on a belief, as we analyze it, that good government depends more upon the ability and honesty of office-holders than upon the form of government itself. Thus, a county commission form would probably bring no substantial improvement over the present system of county boards of supervisors unless members of the commission, as chosen by the people at the ballot box, were men of MORE ability, more industry and more integrity. It's the man, not the office, that makes government good or bad.

And back of the man in public office is the voter—you and I—who get pretty much what we deserve through our sponsorship of good candidates at the polls. When we fail in our responsibilities at the grass roots of democracy, the chickens of bad government come home to roost right on our front steps. That's where they belong. The only trouble is that in the case of state and federal governments, the chickens have to go farther to get there; sometimes it takes a grand jury to make them move.

Life everywhere in Finland is close to water. Canals link the lakes with each other and with the Gulf of Finland, between Finland and Estonia, to the south. Farm Guild Sponsors Conservation Meeting

By Alfred Lindauer

At the meeting sponsored by Sylvan and Lima Local, 254, Michigan Farmers' Guild on Thursday evening, January 6 at the high school, the Michigan Department of Conservation was represented by Lawrence O'Neill and E. C. Sackler.

Pictures were shown, showing how improper farming methods with heavy rainfall cause sloping land to gully, and how the top soil was washed away, and the necessity of keeping humus in the soil. Mr. O'Neill gave a short talk, giving the pictures more explanation, urging contour plowing and strip farming.

The meeting then developed into an open forum discussion from the floor. It was pointed out by Guild members that too low farm prices were largely responsible for the neglect on the part of the farmer for not taking better care of the soil; the farm income having been too low to hire help to overcome these obstacles of nature along with the obstacles created by man, such as ever-increasing taxes, increased cost of machinery, labor, repairs to buildings, etc. It was suggested that if this cause was removed it would go a long way toward a cure.

It was also emphasized that Michigan State College had failed so far to even come out with figures giving the cost of production of milk. County Agricultural Agent Oster stated he had asked the college for figures but had not received any to date.

In a bulletin on how Conservation Districts are organized, it states: "Question. Can the directors levy taxes or issue bonds. Answer: No. The principle sources of funds available to soil conservation districts are from the State, Federal, and local agencies. In a number of cases the county board of supervisors and township boards have helped develop programs and contributed funds."

This caused some discussion from the floor on the grounds that tax money was used to improve private property.

The subsidy issue was also raised to the effect that subsidies are paid out of the Federal treasury, which is already heavily overdrawn, thereby asking our boys in service on $50.00 per month to help pay the grocery bill for those back home who are receiving wages highest in our history.

The AAA was also given some discussion. Harry Atchinson, State President of the Farmers' Guild, commented on President Roosevelt's abandoning the New Deal slogan, to adopt "Dr. Win the War."

It was a worthwhile meeting, conducted in a language that could be understood, with a feeling that free speech has not entirely vanished. The only regret was that more were not present—that if we lost our American rights it was our own fault by staying at home.

WILL CONDUCT SERVICES HERE
Rev. O. R. Gilligan, who is pastor of the newly organized Mennonite Brethren in Christ church at Ypsilanti, and has been connected with the Ford Motor Company for more than twenty years, will conduct special services at the Chelsea high school auditorium each Sunday afternoon.

Because he has worked in a supervisory capacity, he is able to understand and cope with the problems of both management and labor. Although he handles all departmental transfer cases, his primary purpose is to build up the morale of the factory plant workers.

New Food Price Adjustments

To allow food processors upward adjustments of their maximum prices because of wage increases, the Office of Price Administration has amended food regulations covering canned fruits and vegetables, frozen fruits, berries and vegetables, jams, jellies, pickles, and pickled products, and apple products. OPA estimated that increases at retail will not run more than one cent a can or in the case of frozen fruits, one cent a pound. There will be no increases in prices civilians pay for tomatoes, peas, snap beans, corn, peaches, and pears.

Tightens Rationing Regulations

As a further move to stamp out the Black Market in gasoline, OPA has ruled that any local board or special hearing officer, after a proper hearing and a finding that the tire or gasoline regulations have been violated, may not only revoke a gasoline ration, but also may prohibit the use of gasoline in the violator's possession which was obtained as part of the ration.

Civilian Meat Supply

About two-thirds (67 per cent) of the United States supplies of meat available for all needs in 1944 has been allocated to U. S. civilians according to the War Food Administration. This allocation will allow about the same per capita civilian meat consumption in 1944 as in 1943. On a dressed weight basis, it is equivalent to approximately 132 pounds per capita for the year compared with the pre-war 1935-39 average of about 126 pounds.

Pork and Beans Released

About 440,000 cases (approximately 20 million pounds) of canned pork and beans will be released to civilian consumers within the next few weeks.

Price Rise in '43 Was Small

At the end of 1943, the general level of prices in wholesale markets was two per cent higher than at the close of 1942, and the prices of staples that families buy in retail markets for everyday living were up by about three and one-half per cent. This price rise was smaller than in any year since 1940, according to Frances Perkins, Secretary of Labor.

Opportunity for Veterans

Returning war veterans may enter virtually any of the 80,207 apprentice training programs in the United States. Age restrictions and other limitations have been especially lifted for veterans in many apprenticeship standards so they may obtain training for skilled work according to the War Manpower Commission.

More Tea for Civilians

About 76 million pounds of tea will be available to civilian consumers in 1944—wartime limitations on shipping space permitting. This is about 16 million pounds more than civilians got in 1943.

Lend-Leased Farm Machinery

Less than 3 per cent of the United States production of farm machinery went for Lend-Lease between March 11, 1941 and November 1, 1943, according to the President's thirteenth report to Congress on Lend-Lease operations. Allied need for farm machinery was increased because of military demands. American flying fortresses now use airfields which four years ago were among Britain's best farms, thus necessitating reclamation of marshes and rough hill land for farm acreages. When Australia was threatened by Japanese invasion early in 1942, thousands of Australian farm tractors were conscripted for construction of military roads and airfields. Moreover, British and Australian farm machinery manufacturing facilities early in the war had

Lt. Winans is on furlough after recently receiving his "wings." Midshipman Blecker, who has been accepted for officers' training by the Navy, gave a very interesting talk of his experiences in the various combat zones and favorably commented on the job the civilian population has played in the present conflict.

Club President Lowell Davison called a joint board of directors and committee chairmen meeting for Tuesday evening.

Mrs. Caroline Kraft, who had been spending several months with her son-in-law and daughter, Rev. and Mrs. P. H. Grabowski, left on Wednesday for her home in St. Louis, Mo.

A Serviceman Gives Views On His America

NOTE: Harrie Blecker, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Blecker of Ann Arbor, former Chelsea resident, coming home on leave on delayed orders to report to school, has his first extended leave in over two years, and writes this letter to his best friend still in the Southwest Pacific.

Harrie graduated from Chelsea high school, Class of 1937. He has visited here several times during his leave, and addressed the Kiwanis club Monday evening.

Dear Bouch:
Hi there, kid—sorry to have neglected writing but since I arrived home I've wanted to give you a fair report about everything 'State-side', and if I had written sooner, I would have been so vulgar that the letter would be destroyed by spontaneous combustion as soon as it hit the tropical zone. I leave home to go to Chicago in four days and the last twenty-eight days I have tasted, seen, or experienced many of the 'lovely' State-side things.

Some of them were just perfect; see a show at the "Rialto" with my girl, dancing until two at the Green Mill, a drink of "Northern Neighbor" at Tony's, and most important, HOME with my family, and with friends dropping in for liberal portions of cheer and conversation, a chance to be completely alone with my conscience to think things and reaffirm my fundamental ideals, all these and many more were just wonderful. But I felt nauseated by some things and you know I have a searing stomach.

Remember my telling you about one of my best boys out at Camp Newkirk by the name of Johnny Wilson? Well, I saw him—in court. He had been arrested for contributing to the moral delinquency of a girl. You know that even if he was released he'd have three strikes on him to start a new life. Well, I'll spare you the gory details, but a thumbnail version of the whole mess would be this: his father works at a local war plant on irregular hours, his brother is in the Sea-Bees, his sister is married and lives on the West Coast and his mother feels that her place is in the factory, rather than in the home, so she carries a torch at Willow Run.

You can see that Johnny was left to shift for himself, although the school tried to keep him in check. He would need his high school diploma when he registered for Selective Service in another year. However, he quit school without any parental objection. The Church tried valiantly to make up for the lack of fatherly advice and motherly love but received no encouragement from his folks and subsequently were handicapped to the point of being helpless.

Good ol' Mac, who was my skipper for four years at camp and had Johnny as one of his patrol leaders back in '38, tried to stem the tide but he was so busy and didn't have enough capable volunteer leaders to help out that he couldn't snap Johnny out of his moral, educational, and spiritual slump. Consequently, Johnny had no one to rely on except his friends. Ordinarily he had a swell bunch of normal and well-balanced friends but they were all in the service. You know, Bouch, he was like you and me in a whole of older fellows for buddies. He started to work in a stinkin' joint that paid good money in tips and the rest goes according to formula—no moral guidance—plus fast company equals one ruined buddy. We've seen it happen outside the States but that's why I am mad as hell about the whole rotten mess.

The principles that you and your friends have been fighting to preserve center around the American Home-right? Right—and yet thousands of homes are being destroyed as completely as if a block-buster had gone down the chimney. WHY? I can only offer my humble opinion but I do know that if the people here at home would realize the importance of the home and work to strengthen their own home and if their house is in order, volunteer for Boys' Clubs, Girls' Clubs, including Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Campfire Girls, Y.M. and Y.W.C.A., and Cadet Nursing, Civilian Defense, American Red Cross, USO activities of all kinds and a dozen other worthwhile causes.

Many fine people are doing just that and buying War Bonds and giving blood until it hurts and I've already thanked them for all of us—but there are a lot of people like Mrs. Rich Bouch who smugly says, "I'm so sorry that I don't have time for the Red Cross and the rest but I can't handle the job of president of the Westchester Bridge Club and other equally significant positions and still have time for anything else." My God, Ken, when I think of the hundreds of thousands, even millions, of Army, Navy, Marine and Coast Guard men and women who stand watches of four hours on duty, then four off for months without a break—I get so damn mad I almost melt the keys on my typewriter so'd better stop a second and take five for a cigarette. Okay, feel better now—well—I'm still burned up but feeling rational again. You see eye to eye with me on this but I'll bring it out in the open rather than let it smolder. You know, I'm gripped for your sake and millions like you that are fighting this war with blood, sweat, and tears. You, yourself, have fought on the North Atlantic, the Mediterranean Sea, or rather through the tundra of Attu, and recently in the jungles of Bougainville, Makin, and Tawara.

You've been fighting for one of two reasons and I might say that you have both. Ideals and esprit de corps.

Robert Sherrod, a Time man, put it so aptly in his report to America after returning from the Battle of Tawara when he said: "I think men fight for two reasons and I can prove my point with the true story about a Sarge and his immediate superior Lieutenant G. The shavetail ordered the Sergeant to make a squad and go over there and knock out Jap machine-gun nest. The Sergeant just stared. His mouth was open. He was horrified. He had been in the Army two years; now all of a sudden he was told to go out and risk his life. In disgust the officer said, 'All right, Sergeant, you just sit here. If any of you guys have got the guts, follow me. A lot of our men are getting killed by that machine gun'."

Well, about ten men followed the officer. That machine gun didn't kill any more Americans. That afternoon the Sergeant went to the second lieutenant and said, "Sir, I am ashamed of myself. Give me another chance." There was another machine gun nest to be knocked out by then. So the officer ordered the Sergeant to take a squad and knock it out. The Sergeant did just that. In fact, he knocked it out personally. The necessity for risking his life had finally been demonstrated to him.

I'll change his next statement, with apologies to him, to include all the fighting men. The men and women who have seen battle will do a much better job next time because they know now what war is like. They know that men and women get killed. My frank opinion is that when all of us, civilians and 'warriors' alike, realize that we have to make sacrifices to win even if we lose our lives—then we'll win the war and what is more important we, the Allies, will win the peace that follows.

Then, all of us can settle down to rebuild a new, a richer, better, and more effective America and a world full of happiness. I'll close now, Bouch—now that I've had my say. Best of luck to you, and give my regards to Father O'Brien, Drewno, and Lt. Clark.

H. L. Blecker, U.S. Navy.

The Washtenaw District M.E.A. meeting for teachers is to be held at Manchester on Wednesday, January 19.

The basketball teams play at Saline tomorrow night, and the Manchester teams play here Tuesday, Jan. 18.

The seniors will present their annual play entitled "My Mother-in-Law" on Saturday evening, Jan. 22.

A District Boy Scout committee meeting was held at the school last night.

The rural school teachers in this area are meeting at the school this afternoon.

SENIOR CLASS NEWS

Tickets for the Senior play, "My Mother-in-Law," will go on sale soon. The play will be given on the evening of January 22.

CLASS NEWS

Junior Class

The Junior class has picked Joyce Hoffman, Marie Winter and Tom McClear to look over some plays. At their next meeting they hope to select the play they plan to have.

Sophomore

The Sophomores are ordering their rings at this time. They are also making plans for the next pep meeting on January 18.

CLASS OF '44

On a snowy day in January, 1927, Eleanor Marie Harper made her appearance. Eleanor has dark brown hair and brown eyes. She plans to carry her 118 pounds and her height of 5 ft. 4 1/2 in. to college with her next year.

To sit down to a delicious hamburger is Mary's delight. She loves the color of red and her high school subject is mathematics. Eleanor is the treasurer of our class.

Frances Eva Harris was gifted unto Chelsea on the twenty-second day of March in the year nineteen twenty-five. Believe it or not, her favorite subject is typing, although she plans to go into the field of industry when she graduates.

Eva has light brown hair and blue eyes. Even though her favorite food is scalloped potatoes, she still only weighs 99 pounds and is 5 ft. 1 in. tall.

Reserves Win, 27-10

Chelsea lost their first game of the season to a strong Alumni squad Friday night by the score of 27 to 20. The high school boys led at the half way mark, 13 to 10. The game was fast and rough all the way with many fouls being called. The Alumni, after stopping Chelsea's fast break by different methods, had little trouble in gaining their victory.

The Reserves won from a determined but outplayed seventh and eighth grade squad, 27-10. The Reserves led at half time, 7-6.

Bulldogs Have Busy Week
Last Tuesday Chelsea played at Dexter and tomorrow night they end their busy week by playing Saline in a Huron League game at Saline.

Saline, who opened their Huron League season last Friday, dropped their first game to a strong U. High squad. So this will be a very good ball game to watch.

V-for-Victory. See you at the game.

On the Alumnae team were: forwards, Wilma Schmalz (captain), Marilyn Lyons and Peg Almond; guards, Helen Grubbs and Margaret Feldkamp; and Pat Richards. For the high school: forwards, June Vail (acting captain), Helen Loeffler, Jean Eisenbeler, Barbara O'Hara and Donna Perkins; guards, Rhea Clark, Leola Kohman, Virginia Spaulding and Joan Shutes. Even though a good many players were missing on the teams it was a good game.

Girls' games are scheduled as follows:
Jan. 21, with U. High, there.
Feb. 4, with U. High, here.

SERVICE LETTERS

The Journalism club has been writing letters to the boys in service now for about two years, and during that period of time they have received letters from the boys.

George Prinaugh wrote a very nice letter in which he told about the country where he is at present. He gave a good picture of Italy's clear sunny weather, which he says is of the liquid type.

He described, along with kinds of fruit and vegetables. George had read in the paper about our Recreation Program last year and about its success and was sure this year's would even be more successful. He like the other boys who receive the club letters, is anxious for more to come and also letters from anyone.

Another nice long letter was received from Bill Rademacher, who is now going to Georgia Teachers' College. Bill told many interesting facts about his studies, tests, and also things about the college itself.

The college at one time was all girls, but at the present time there are 300 soldiers and 1200 girls attending classes. Bill says this is not wonderful since their Major has established a "hands off" policy. The Major is so strict that the sidewalk separating the two groups is jokingly known as the "Maginot Line" by the men there.

When any trainee is caught not abiding by the rules, the "Line" moves closer to the boys' quarters. Bill says his course is complex, but he still likes the army. Thus ends this very nice letter.

Still another letter was received from Dave Stetter, in the Navy. Dave, like the other boys, doesn't have much time to write but enjoys receiving letters from the club and from anyone. He says he likes the club letters since they contain news about the school, and he does remember most of the kids that he reads about, although there are new names too.

A card was received from Dwight Gadd and letters from Carl Heeselschwerdt and Don Ewald.

The Journalism club's mailing list is available to anyone wishing to know the address of a boy. From time to time it is included in the letters sent out.

DANCE AFTER GAME

A dance followed the Alumni game Friday night. It was sponsored by the Hi-Y club. The evening's dancing lasted until midnight. Everyone enjoyed the friendly get-together.

WAR COUNCIL

Andy Modack and Marjorie Whipple attended the last War Council meeting as representatives of the Student Council. It was definitely decided by the War Council that they did not want the money received from the report cards. The box social has been postponed until a date for it has been found. The council appointed Andy Modack to see about getting one.

ELEMENTARY NEWS

Third Grade
Lloyd Dyer from Jackson has entered the third grade.

We are making a library corner in our room.

We sold twenty-five dollars worth of defense stamps in our room last week.

Sixth Grade

(Dorothy Howard)
Our last meeting was held Thursday, Jan. 6. Last week we made snow patterns and put them up in back of the room. So even though it isn't snowing outside it is snowing in our room. We drew pictures of the coal age and the age of fishes. We had some very interesting pictures. Our stamp sale was $3.50.

Seventh Grade

(Ellen Jane Geddes)
Our stamp sale this week is $32.15 and the percentage is 22%.

We are very happy that Miss Davies, who has been ill, is back at school again.

We are waiting for our first semester tests and dread them very much.

We have had many assignments lately in geography, language, reading and arithmetic. In geography we had to make a report on travel, transportation or communication. In language we are writing our fourth theme and third book report. In reading we've been making oral reports on the stories, and in arithmetic we have been studying squares, degrees, equal angles, and so on.

We are helping the seniors sell their basketball pencils. We have been doing quite well, too.

We received the Junior high school certificate, including the sixth grade, that the eighth grade offered for buying the most stamps and bonds on December 7, 1943. We are very proud of it.

We decided at our class meeting to spend $10.00 more for yarn for our afghan. It should arrive soon.

Chinese Migrate
Ever since the Tang dynasty (A.D. 618-906) the Chinese have been migrating abroad, first to the South Sea Islands, then to the Western world. Even today the Chinese in the Malay peninsula and the East Indies proudly call themselves the "people of the Great Tang."

Peanut Native to South America
Sometimes called a goober in the United States, the peanut, a source of scores of by-products vital to mankind, had its origin in South America. Yet, because of the attention demanded by more exportable crops, Brazil did not fully develop its peanut resources.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALION

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

WHAT AMERICA FACES

WASHINGTON—The official headlines have cheered us with almost daily victories through 1943, but any sober contemplation of 1944 must make us look behind them at the reality of our war effort.

In Italy, the Pacific islands and New Guinea, we have been engaged in costly, brave but token-scale fighting. A very small fraction of our massive army has even now—six months more than two years after the war started—seen the enemy. There have been official estimates that 2,500,000 (possibly about a third of our preparing army) will be overseas by New Year's Day.

Official pronouncements disclose that we had four divisions in action in Tunisia, five in Sicily, and four or five in Italy—about 60,000 to 75,000 men fighting at a time.

About half these divisions have carried on through, so that only half of them may be assumed to be additional troops. These considerations would furnish an estimate that a little over 100,000 men had yet seen action on this front.

On Guadalcanal and in the Solomons, three different divisions have been mentioned. In New Guinea, elements of two more have been officially declared. A division is supposed to have been involved at Attu.

This in the Pacific, the estimate could be safely placed at around 90,000 in action, plus the 19,000 regulars who fought for the Philippines. Certainly far more than 200,000 troops—one-tenth of the land force supposed to be overseas now and only an infinitesimal 2 1/2 per cent of the army we have been raising and training to beat the Axis—have yet been turned upon the enemy.

This does not mean their fighting has not been great and historic. Valor and greatness in combat do not rest on numbers. Nor will any future action of this war be more important than the work they had to do. The only point of this cold truth is we are still in the preparatory phase of this war now more than two years after its start.

REASONS FOR FORGETTING
That none of us has fully appreciated these facts, however, is due to several natural reasons.
In the first place, collapse of the German war machine was anticipated because of a shortage of oil and raw materials, and this proved unjustified.
Secondly, the air corps expected bombings of German cities to bring a possible capitulation due to the same reasons, and this may come any day, but it has not come yet.

Furthermore, it was wise and necessary for us to make the Nazis continue to believe new invasions of Europe were imminent, in order to keep as many Germans as possible away from the Russian front.

Finally, the profound extent of Nazi stubbornness in continued resistance to the Russians has been truly amazing. Only a nation which wants suicide could continue to face what Germany faces with the new year.

The end of the war in Europe is surely to be expected this coming year. Fuller use of our great power is practically promised officially, not on far scattered attests but in concentrated power. Places where the blows are to be launched have almost officially been suggested.

Disappointments cannot continue to delay the inevitable. Yet if we continue only to plod along remote sandy island by island in the Pacific, and mountain by mountain in Italy, with no more than 200,000 men in action on land, anyone can see this war could last interminably (the long hard years originally forecast).

My best guess is Germany will yet crack, and quickly, that the war in Europe will certainly end in the first six months of 1944, probably the first quarter, and that Japan will last less than a year longer.

GETTING ELECTED AND TAX VOTING
A young lawyer friend of mine in the Southwest decided to enter politics as a career. He started the right way, at the bottom, getting himself elected to a county board of supervisors.

At once, however, he raised the tax levy on all real estate in the county, caused an increase in the valuations and just about doubled the tax bill on all the people. I thought that would nip his political career practically in embryo.

But, immediately he ran for the state legislature, and was elected almost unanimously.

Both he and I found that not a single taxpayer-resented or remembered his permanent doubling of their cost of living in his community, but a small group of individuals whose lands were benefited by building a sewer through their property, thereby increasing its value, and certain farmers who obtained county roads through their property, clearly remembered his work in their interests. "development of the county." I suppose they would call it—and they whooped up almost unanimous sentiment for him. His actions paid off.

Let Hay Wilt

To make a high quality hay rich in vitamins, the crop should be mowed, allowed to wilt, and raked by hand. Hay should not be left in the swath overnight, and cocks of hay should be small to dry quickly. The early-cut hay can be spread on the mow floor about a foot deep for final curing and turned once or twice a day. The poultry hay should be piled in a part of the mow where it can be reached easily during the winter, and where it will not be exposed to bright sunlight. A covering of ordinary hay will protect it from bleaching.

Tea Substitute

A substitute for tea in Belgium has been made from a mixture of finely chopped leaves of the strawberry plant, hazel tree, raspberry bush, mulberry tree, and a variety of blueberry plant.

Dry Homes for Chicks

Even the best feed will not make hens lay their best if the poultry house itself is damp or poorly ventilated. Poultry authorities lay stress on protection against cold, rain and drafts.

Mineral Paints Last Ages

Paints made with mineral pigment mixed with animal fat in prehistoric times still hold their color in the painting of a bull discovered in 1879 in a Spanish cave.
