Jr. Red Cross Articles On Display This Week

An exhibit of articles made by the Junior Red Cross in this area is on display this week in the first-floor corridor of the University high school, Ann Arbor. The exhibit, which is part of the Fifteenth Annual Educational Conference, sponsored by the University School of Education, has been arranged by Eldon W. Mason, Director of the Junior Red Cross of the Midwestern Area, and Mrs. Raleigh Schorling, chairman of the Washtenaw County Junior Red Cross. Mr. Mason led one of the round-table discussions of the Conference on July 24.

Since Pearl Harbor about 25 million comfort and recreational items have been produced by the Junior Red Cross, which now has a membership of approximately 18 million pupils from grade schools and high schools in the United States. Articles are made under the supervision of the school teachers, and include such items as men's bathrobes, cribbage boards, lap boards, writing portfolios, knitted afghans, utility bags, tray favors and menu covers.

"The Junior Red Cross, established in 1917, is a continuing curricular program, including among other subjects, first aid, accident prevention, nutrition and home nursing," said Mr. Mason. "However, since Pearl Harbor the major emphasis has been placed on the war effort," he pointed out.

The Washtenaw County Junior Red Cross, under the direction of Mrs. Schorling, has a membership of 12,000. During the past year they have made about 8,000 articles for Army and Navy camps and hospitals. The exhibit is open to the public.

J. E. McKune Taken By Death On Saturday

He was a lifelong resident of Chelsea, where he was born November 16, 1869, the son of Timothy and Agnes Welch McKune. On May 17, 1899 he was united in marriage to Catherine Staffan of Chelsea.

Mr. McKune had been active in local affairs, serving as president of the village for three years and as a member of the village council for 12 years. As a democrat he had held the office of township clerk and township treasurer. He was also assistant to Wm. F. Riemenschneider during his service as village postmaster.

Survivors include the widow and a brother, Herbert, both of Chelsea.

Funeral services were held at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning at St. Mary's church. Rev. Lee Laige officiated and burial was in Mt. Olivet cemetery.

Improvement of M-92 North Is Possibility

Blacktop Surfacing Is Recommended By Highway Engineer

Through the efforts of Supervisor Fred G. Broesamle, who has been persistent in his complaints about the condition of M-92 northwest of Chelsea, action has been taken by the State Highway Department which practically assures an improvement in this highway, with some of the work to be started in the near future and extending over a period of a year or two until the entire route from Chelsea to Stockbridge will be surfaced with blacktop.

In a letter to State Highway Commissioner Charles M. Ziegler last week Mr. Broesamle pointed out the dangers of a heavily-traveled highway in the condition of M-92 at the present time. He stated:

"Numerous complaints have been coming to me about the condition of this road. Most of the time it is rough and exceedingly dusty. As you know, much defense work is being done in Chelsea, and this road is traveled heavily every day. The dust is so heavy at times it is impossible to see other cars approaching; in fact, the condition of the highway is such that it is detrimental to the safety of those who travel it."

"Much work has been done on this road the past several years, but it has not been of any lasting value. It would seem that the only remedy for the situation would be to blacktop or pave it."

Mr. Ziegler immediately sent an acknowledgment to the complaint, stating that he would send A. L. Brown, Maintenance Engineer, to look over the situation and file a report with his department. Mr. Brown came on Monday and with Mr. Broesamle went over this highway carefully and admitted that there was great need for immediate improvement.

Mr. Brown stated that he would recommend that the entire route be stabilized immediately to eliminate the dust hazard; that the highway from Chelsea to Wixner Road (about two miles) be surfaced with blacktop this fall or early in the spring, and also from Lyndon Center to Stockbridge; that grading be started on the highway from Wixner Road to Lyndon Center so that portion could be surfaced within the next year or two; that he would urge the County Road Commission to surface Wixner Road from M-92 to North Territorial Road as soon as M-92 is surfaced from Chelsea to Wixner Road; that a new bridge be constructed at the north village limits as soon as such a project would be feasible.

Turning to the south, Mr. Brown stated that Manchester Road should be resurfaced with a full-width blacktop as soon as possible. The State Highway Department representative also conferred with village officials on Monday concerning the sealcoat surfacing which will be placed on the M-92 route through Chelsea, from the Michigan Central to the old D.U.R. crossing in the very near future. He recommended that another stoplight be added at the intersections where there are lights now, and stated that he would insist that the Michigan Central improve their Main street crossing.

Efforts have been made for years to have the State Highway Department improve M-92 to the north and it is hoped the present administration will carry out the recommendations of Mr. Brown in the matter as Chelsea has been ignored entirely too long by previous state highway officials. Many promises have been made but few of them kept—let us hope that Mr. Ziegler will be a man of action and not of words alone.

PROMOTED TO CAPTAIN

Veteran of campaigns in North Africa, Sicily, Salerno and the Anzio beachhead, and possessor of the Purple Heart, Moritz Brueckner, son of Rev. and Mrs. M. W. Brueckner of Rogers Corners, has been promoted to the rank of captain in Italy, where he serves as company commander with a tank destroyer battalion.

Leaving his studies at Western State Teachers' College, he entered the army in June, 1941. Before going overseas in April, 1943, he had received training at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo., Fort Sill, Okla., and Fort Edwards, Mass.

KILLED IN ACTION

Word has been received by Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Icenogle, Cavanaugh Lake Road, that their son, T-Sgt. Carl Icenogle, was killed somewhere in France on June 15. He had been in the army about three years. He was married in February, 1942, to Miss Jean Moffett of Detroit.

Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Moore are entertaining their nephews, John and Roy Elden, of Sylvan, Ohio as guests for the week.

Commissioned Second Lieutenant In Air Force

bombardier training at the Carlsbad (New Mexico) Army Air Field. Lieutenant Dietle now becomes one of the Army Air Forces new "triple-threat men"—airmen who have completed instruction in dead-reckoning navigation and aerial gunnery in addition to the regular bombardiering course.

As an officer in the Army Air Forces ready for active duty, his destination is not disclosed.

WACs Are Needed In Air Forces At Selfridge

Wacs are needed at Selfridge Field. Enlistments in the Women's Army Corps, to serve at Selfridge Field with the Army Air Forces, are now being accepted at local recruiting stations throughout Michigan.

Upon completion of six weeks basic training at Fort Oglethorpe, Ga., they will return to Selfridge for further training and assignment to the jobs they are best suited for.

Many vacancies now exist including such jobs as typist, control tower operator, communications technician, personnel work, photographer, entertainment special and a varied number of assignments that are suited for women with professional backgrounds. Further information may be obtained by writing or calling the U. S. Army Recruiting Station, Michigan and Jackson Sts., Jackson, Mich.

By GENE ALLEMAN

A reporter's word picture of Michigan in mid-July, 1944:Lake cottages and resort hotels are jammed to the limits. The 1944 vacation season in Northern Michigan, and many parts of the Upper Peninsula, promises to set an all-time record for attendance and expenditures. George Bishop of Marquette, manager of the Upper Peninsula Development Bureau, tells of visiting the Keweenaw high-way commission's park and cabins out at Copper Harbor on the week-end of June 24-25. "More than 200 travelers were there," he confided. "Don't ask me how they got to Copper Harbor which can be reached only by automobile. I don't know."

Michigan, the world's automobile center, is awaiting 1946 which now appears to be the earliest date when production of cars can be resumed. As contrasted to California and other states where aviation is predominant, Michigan has an estimated "backlog" of seven-billion-dollars-in-automobile manufacture. It should absorb much of the economic shock that will be inevitable when war plants are re-converted to peace-time utility.

The transportation situation isn't a bit good. The ODT estimates that 5,000 autos are getting junked per day. Automobiles are wearing out. Trucks are near to a serious deterioration point, especially heavy-duty trucks that haul freight inter-state. Railroad passenger trains are over-crowded, and travelers can expect continued discomfort, delays, poor service. Buses are filled; standing room only is common. Strangely enough, air travel is the only service on which improvement is in sight, as plane-space priorities will be abandoned around Sept. 1.

To get a close-up of how global war is affecting Michigan, just look around your own block, if you reside in a town or city. Or survey the neighbors along your rural route. Rare is the house that does not have a service flag in a window. Michigan has sent approximately 500,000 men to war. Nationally, there are more than 5,000,000 Yanks overseas and there will be more than 7,000,000 by the year's end.

Social unrest is shown by the number of realty transfers and railway travel. Labor turnover is still high. People are on the move. Theaters are thronged. Betting on horse races has reached dizzy heights. This craving for entertainment is a part of the war picture, an inevitable escape from war jitters. A good laugh is a good mental tonic. That's one reason the newspapers still continue the daily comic strips, despite stringent rationing of newsprint. People demand them.

The Michigan Mirror forecast Dec. 30, 1943, that the Nazis would surrender unconditionally by late autumn of 1944, still stands. If our American troops continue to receive a sufficient flow of munitions and supplies, and American industry—labor and management in a team—will not fail them, it's better than an even bet that the German war will be over before the Michigan landscape is covered with snow again. This is the time to deliver the goods! Shortening the duration of the war against Germany may save the life, or limb, of that kid next door—or perhaps your own son! Stay on your job and buy another bond!

Shortage of manpower for the army and factories, shortage of oil and other vital supplies, and inability to overcome the Allied superiority in arms and airplanes due to the terrific punishment given to German arms plants by Allied bombings—these are the things that are pinching Germany most at present.

Hence, the urgency for more increased production in American armament, for more manpower controls, for driving ahead to fight both wars at once. Gen. George C. Marshall, Gen. Henry H. Arnold, and Adm. Ernest J. King recently signed a joint statement warning against optimism over early military victory and urging war workers to stay on their jobs. They reported that successful battles, such as the Normandy landings, involved heavy equipment loss which must be replaced by American industry and that slackening of production will delay victory.

The WPB reports that over-all war production was 1 per cent below schedule in May, with the principal lag being in ammunition, motor vehicles and radio and radar equipment. Material and labor shortages are blamed. It is not generally known that the serious shortage of motor trucks compelled the government to recondition used trucks for shipment to our troops overseas. In June the airplane output slumped to 8,042 units from May's total of 8,902, although heavy bomber production exceeded quotas.

The July 11 primary produced two significant results: The victory of Auditor General Vernon J. Brown of Mason over Dr. Eugene C. Keyes of Dearborn for the Republican nomination of lieutenant governor, and the triumph of Edward J. Fry over two opponents, William J. Cody of Detroit and Earnest Brooks of Holland, for the Democratic nomination of governor. The two-to-one vote of Republicans over Democrats has been interpreted widely as a sign of a continued trend of Michigan voters to Republicanism. Marquis Child, newspaper columnist visiting Detroit, reported a Michigan swing to Dewey, a native son.

Democrats will center their efforts to re-elect President Roosevelt as a wartime "commander-in-chief." This is smart strategy especially so since the Republican nominee was born in 1902 and hence is a "young man" of 42. Edward J. Fry, Democrats' standard-bearer in Michigan, is expected to rely heavily on the urban vote in industrial centers—such as Detroit and Flint. Fry is an independent who differed with Governors Frank Murphy and Murray D. Van Wagoner and declined to go along with the state committee's selection of Brooks as a tentative nominee. He conducted a vigorous campaign and may produce a surprise or two on the stump before election day. It's Roosevelt and Fry—any resemblance of humor being purely accidental!

Mrs. Elizabeth A. Hoover was born in Sylvan township, August 28, 1841 and died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. H. W. Hall, in Detroit, July 26, 1920. She was the daughter of Daniel and Elizabeth Tichenor, pioneer residents of Michigan. She is survived by two children, Mrs. Hall and Orrin T. Hoover of Chelsea.

The Washtenaw County Road Commission is ready to begin laying concrete on the Territorial road. They expect to be able to lay 500 feet of pavement a day. The work will be started at the east end of the bridge between the Weinberg and Geo. Ward farms. The gravel will be drawn from the Bareis pit in Lima on a narrow gauge railroad.

Oliver Cushman met with a very painful accident while unloading a truck for the road commission at the cement plant. He will lose a portion of his thumb on the right hand.

Battle-zone shaves are apt to be rough and tough, so don't frown down the wishful thinking of this stubble-chinned private as he uses the cold-water, scrape-and-pull method.

He's thinking now of the civilized comforts of his own Home of Tomorrow and the magical conveniences that will be his from that little blue economy-flame,—GAS!

High up on the list of his dreams-to-come true is that happy time when hot-water will speed his "once-over-lightly"... when hot tub-soaks will revitalize tired nerves and muscles... when K. P. will be but a memory... and a clean shirt will not be an event.

G. I. Johnny's home comforts will be many but none more welcome than the quick-flowing, always-hot water he'll get from his post-war Ruud Automatic Gas Water Heater that keeps hot water pure and rust-free in a long-lasting tank of solid Monel.

It's worth planning for!

Your Committee of Three

This is your post-war planning committee for your hot water supply in your own Home of Tomorrow. All three—Gas, Monel and Ruud—are now in this country's service, but at the war's end you'll find them together again, working to a common purpose—to give you a perfect, low-cost hot water service.

These Federal Security Administration Loans are enabling Veterans of the present war to lease or buy farm land and to obtain all the necessary equipment and facilities needed to start their farm operations.

Food Allotments for Farm Help
Farms, ranches and other non-institutional employers of seasonal workers may now apply for allotments of rationed foods to feed workers hired for 60 days or less, the Office of Price Administration announces. Previously, allotments were granted for 30 days or less. Farm workers employed for more than 60 days must continue to turn in their ration points to their employer for food served that required points.

Many State Roads Need Repairs
Many state highways will be in need of repairs and rebuilding by the end of the war, according to an Office of War Information report, based on data from the public roads administration and state and private agencies. At present, the most impressive immediate program calls for improving 34,000 miles of rural and urban highways as recommended by the National Interregional Highway Committee. Final action by Congress is pending.

Electric Irons Coming in Fall
Of the 2,037,838 electric irons already authorized for civilian production, about 99 per cent will be household models, mostly automatic, and the remainder, commercial models, WPB says. The irons will not be rationed and some of them are expected to be available in the fall.

The following column was written by Walter Winchell in 1943, shortly after the release of the book, "Kane Your Hay Fever" by Drs. F. P. Sparling and A. B. Kormanik. The material was selected from the book.

HAY fever is now a national problem. It ranks first in prevalence among the non-fatal diseases in the U. S. today. Two hundred million man hours are lost yearly to defense industry through it. There are over 10,000,000 hay fever cases in N. Y. City and 5,000,000 throughout the nation, with over 10,000 new cases added yearly. The most critical days are still ahead this September. The hayfeverites, judging by the way the official pollen counts are running.

The underlying causes of hay fever are unknown, other than that certain forms of pollen and dusts, and blown pollen (the male fertilizing element for the flowers of trees, weeds and grasses) affect those people who have inherited a tendency to be allergic to them due to something in their blood chemistry which is sensitive to the pollen. This sensitivity manifests itself by inflammation of the membranes of the eyes, nose, mouth, sinuses, throats and discomfort in many bodily organs.

The sneeze is the badge of the hayfeverite. Outstanding pollen counts sneeze often to many times non-stop.

It requires a sturdy of the imagination to appreciate how a hayfeverite suffers. Only the doctor, your mother, wife or sweet heart thinks you're an incorrigible crank. Others consider you a hypochondriac, a nervous, sickly, dynamic, twisted and generally misadjusted.

It is scientifically established that once a person inherits an allergy to pollen he will be allergic to many other things. Food, dust, things he smells or inhales, house dust, spores, fabrics and other types of pollen grains. Even his wife's (or girl's) face-powder.

Decorative, perfume flowers are little trouble to hayfeverites because they are insect pollinated.

Research shows that hayfeverites never lose their hay fever. Ten per cent of those who take moderate treatments build up enough tolerance to the pollen to lose their sensitivity. In those to twenty years, the other ninety per cent who take treatments continue to have it yearly. The worst after effect of hay fever is that thirty per cent of the untreated cases develop asthma.

People travel to high altitudes in the mistaken belief that they can escape pollen, but many hay fever plants grow at high altitudes. With the aid of boats and airplanes, pollen grains have been noted 200 miles out to sea and 9,000 feet in the air.

There is no escape from hay fever at the seashore, winds blowing from inland carry pollen grains. But when moving from the ocean will be less troublesome, unless islands are nearby.

All people wearing dark glasses are not necessarily incognito. Hayfeverites find them effective for overcoming photophobia or sensitivity to light that bothers them.

GIVES BIRTHDAY DINNER
Mrs. William R. Guest entertained at a birthday dinner on Sunday, July 23, at their cottage at Clear Lake in honor of her husband's and son's birthdays. A special feature of the dinner was the two birthday cakes. The guests were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Klumpp, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Grady and Mrs. Coleman, all of Detroit. The host guests were presented with gifts.

Holds Soil Together
If you can incorporate straw in the soil without any damage to cropping, it will be a tremendous benefit. It would be the means of restoring fiber material which helps hold the soil together and lessens the loss from soil blowing and washing. Soil fiber or humus content can only be maintained or increased by addition of nitrogen to the soil. There are some conditions under which some of the stubble must be burned, but you should make every attempt to plow under just as much of it as the rainfall and soil will decompose within a reasonable time.

Cook Faster
Two small cakes cook more quickly than one big one. Individual puddings made in small basins or even teacups take far less time to steam or boil than one large pudding.

Bone Meat
Women who work in the boning department of packing plants are most proficient in removing bones from various cuts so as to make the most economical use of the meat for canning or packing into sausages.

Wallpaper Cleaner Can Be Bought or Made at Home

Homeowners who want to brighten on rooms without repapering them can get good results with wallpaper cleaner, either commercial brands which have been tested on a large scale or a homemade cleaner recommended by extension specialists in home management of Ohio State University.

An efficient wallpaper cleaner can be made by using 4 cups flour, 2 cups warm water, 4 tablespoons kerosene, 4 tablespoons ammonia, and 4 tablespoons salt. The materials are mixed and beaten until smooth and then soaked until the material softens. It will be lumpy but should not be difficult.

After soaking, the cleaner should be kneaded and made into balls. These should be stored in a tight container for several days to permit the cleaner to cure so it will not crumble while being used. The mixture given will make enough cleaner for an average size room.

In cleaning wallpaper, all airbubbles first should be removed with a wall brush or soft wood strip without damaging the brush as much as touching the wall if the paper is sticky. Some streaks brushed into wallpaper are very difficult to remove. Cleaning should start at the bottom of the paper, the dirt being removed by short, even overlapping strokes of the cleaner. The soiled part of the cleaner should be worked into the interior of the ball after each few strokes.

Housewives Should Know Grades for Wise Shopping

The thrifty housewife should know food grades. This was pointed out no time to buy a "pig in a poke." When shopping for the family's food, it is very important that she know as much as possible about groceries.

One way to know what you are buying is to get foods with U. S. government grades whenever possible. Government grades are accurate. By purchasing such graded foods you can get what you want at the price you want to pay. If you get the grade-labeled can, the label tells you whether the food is of A, B or C quality. The growers consider size, ripeness, freedom from blemishes, tenderness and uniformity in making up the grades.

Grade C canned goods are of good quality but they are not as carefully selected as the first two grades. However, they may have the advantage in food value because the fruit or vegetable may have been more mature when harvested. You don't need high-cost, Grade A peaches, if you are going to eat them for a salad or cobble.

Buying the grade that suits your use is a simple way of cutting down on the food budget. It is the thrifty buyer who buys the lower grades, which are less expensive, when the fruits and vegetables are to be cut up or combined with other foods.

'Contour' Farming
This is the time to plan those simple soil conservation practices which will increase the production of food without increasing costs for labor and overhead, says Lindsey G. Cook, extension soil conservationist. Many of these simple soil conserving practices not only raise the yield of farm grown food products, but they also save fertilizing elements and reduce the wear and tear on farm machinery.

Cook explains that contour farming means simply farming "on the level." When contour farming is practiced, tractors are not forced to go up and down hill to carry out farm operations and therefore do not wear out so rapidly nor use so much fuel. On most farms, tillage can be on the contour without causing more frequent turning, he says.

"Crop yields are consistently increased from 10 to 20 per cent by contour farming because the moisture is kept on the field where the plants can use it and because the topsoil and fertility are not carried away by erosion," Cook points out. "Reports of the New Jersey Experiment station show that even the slightest sheet erosion on gently sloping land removes in one season enough nitrate to equal that found in 200 pounds of nitrate of soda."

Develop Strong Glass
A new type of tough, bullet-resistant plate glass which has lately been adapted for use in warplanes is being utilized to afford additional protection for pilots and other crew members of America's bombing planes.

Although this glass is somewhat heavier than many of the transparent plastics used in the noses of fighting planes, the weight differential is justified by the fact that the plate not only resists bullets but also protects the pilot from the danger of having his windshield smashed through hitting birds in flight—a serious hazard in the past.

Garden Care
Rose bushes, fruit trees and diseased shrubs should be sprayed with lime-sulphur. Trees, shrubs and lawn should be fertilized with manure and perhaps some phosphate. Pruning should be done so as to preserve the natural shape of the plant to be pruned. Flowering plants that bloom before July should not be pruned. Trees and shrubs should not be allowed to rock around in the wind and wear a hole in the soil around their base. Anchor them with string and stake and keep the soil packed around the roots.

BLITZ BACTERIA BATTALIONS BY FOLLOWING SIMPLE RULES

Victory on the home-canning front is easily won by those who understand the ruthless nature of the enemies—yeasts, molds, and bacteria—that sneak into jars of food to cause spoilage. Usually they go into the jar on the food. Decayed spots and crevices or broken places in the skin of fruits and vegetables serve as their favorite foxholes.

Sometimes they float in on the air and at others steal a ride on a spoon or dirty dish cloth. A small battalion is easier to destroy than a large one so the first thing to consider is how to keep a jar of food from being occupied by a huge army of these detestable, microscopic organisms.

The soil of the earth, and fruits and vegetables which are stale, or bruised, or broken, or decayed, or dirty, or decayed, serve as headquarters for yeasts and molds and bacteria. That is why sound, strictly fresh, home-grown produce must be chosen for canning.

Bacteria, the hardest-to-kill of the enemy group, multiply rapidly in vegetables, such as corn, peas, lima, and other shell-legume beans, and are hard to kill only if they are established, because the vegetables contain no natural acid to help make it easier for heat to destroy the bacteria.

Gladys Kimbrough, Home Service Director for Ball Brothers Company, gives 13 rules which, if followed in every detail, will insure victory for the home canner all along the line. They are:

1. Use jars made for home-canning purposes. All home-canning jars have a name molded in the side. Jars with names or letters on the bottom only are intended as one-trip containers for factory-packed foods. They are made as thin as possible in order to hold down shipping costs. Because of this, their use is doubtful economy.
2. Examine every jar, cap, lid, and rubber before using. True, these are inspected before they leave the factory but many things can happen to them before (and after) they reach the home kitchen.

3. Remember that people who make things know more about them than anybody else; so use jars, caps, lids, and rubbers by the manufacturer's instructions.

4. Unless vegetables grow in your own garden or can be bought from a grower who will gather them early in the morning of the day they are to be canned, forget about canning them. Vegetables that have had a night out of the garden are not in fit condition for canning.

5. Don't expect good results unless the vegetables are right for canning.

6. Every vegetable should be washed clean before its skin is broken. Washing away particles of dust and soil also washes away bacteria, yeasts, and molds. Green beans and okra require special attention because the short thick nap or fuzz on them holds dust. The blossom end of okra may hold both dust and insects.

7. All non-acid vegetables should be precooked and packed hot for processing.

8. Vegetables should be packed in jars loosely enough to permit the liquid to circulate between the pieces. Food values are higher when vegetables are canned with the water in which they were precooked, provided the water is not wasted when the food is used, but the flavor and possibly the keeping qualities, of some foods is better when they are canned in fresh boiling water.

9. Vegetables usually have better flavor if a small amount of salt is added at the time of canning, but they keep as well without it.

10. Remember that every minute wasted between the steps of preparing, packing, and processing is a minute in which bacteria grow stronger. This is particularly true of the bacteria which cause flat-sour. Flat-soured food may look good but tastes bad and often smells that way. Flat-sour can and does begin before processing if the vegetables are stale or over-ripe, or left standing two or three hours in a hot kitchen, or if the food is not cleaned, prepared, and packed right.

11. When possible, use a steam pressure cooker for processing all vegetables except tomatoes, and even use it for tomatoes if you like. But the use of a pressure cooker will not guarantee success unless it is in good condition and operated according to the manufacturer's instructions.

12. If you have no pressure cooker, process vegetables by boiling in a water-bath canner. Yes, the vegetables will keep if all rules are kept, and they will be safe to eat if they are boiled for fifteen minutes before they are tasted.

13. Never taste canned vegetables, regardless of how processed, until they have been boiled fifteen minutes. There is one type of bacterium that may get into the jar and cause spoilage which is odorless, tasteless, and dangerous. It is destroyed by the fifteen minutes boiling. The boiling doesn't necessarily destroy the bacteria that cause the toxin; so left-over canned vegetables should be reheated before serving.

Use Plenty of Water For Garden Irrigation

Sprinkling the vegetable garden for a short time every evening or so may provide recreation for the gardener but it does more harm than good to the growing crops, says Keith C. Barrons, associate professor of horticulture, Michigan State college.

Such watering merely wets the surface of the ground, causing subsequent harm to the plants by inducing the development of a shallow root system, Barrons explains.

If the gardener deems it necessary to supplement rainfall, not less than the equivalent of one inch of rain should be applied each time, preferably with a rotating-type sprinkler, suggests Barrons. The simplest way to learn if one has applied sufficient water is to place several shallow, flat pans, such as pie tins, in the area covered by the sprinkler. It is possible then to estimate the amount of water applied by its depth in the pans.

A victory garden 30 by 50 feet in size would require irrigation for about five hours with the sprinkler delivering three gallons per minute, Barrons estimates. Even though one measure how much water is being applied per minute, sudden increase in use elsewhere will cause the pressure to decrease, necessitating a longer sprinkling period.

Watering is best done in the evening or after the hottest part of the day because of excessive loss of moisture due to evaporation, Barrons states.

Apple Sauce for Tanks

In the coming year Australia will make, for American troops, 6,000,000 pounds of apple sauce and 12,500,000 pounds of apple butter, as well as 7,000,000 pounds of canned sweet corn. In 1944 also there will be made 5,000 tons of tropical butter spread for the American troops.

Detect Poison Ivy By Its Alternate Leaves

Poison ivy sprouts may look like young boxelder trees to one who is pulling weeds, but there's a world of difference in what may happen if the weed-puller is careless, asserts Dr. E. A. Bessey, head of the botany department, Michigan State college.

A Michigan woman recently reported to Dr. Bessey her experiences in confusing the two plants. Lest other persons make similar mistakes, Dr. Bessey explains how one can distinguish between poison ivy and boxelder sprouts.

Poison ivy comes in two forms. One type is a vine which grows on fences or other support, while the other type, if there is no support near, grows as a low shrub. The young ivy plants may be confused for boxelder plants because at this stage both plants have leaves which separate into three leaflets. The best way to distinguish between them, Dr. Bessey suggests, is to note how the leaves grow from the main stem. In the case of poison ivy, the leaves appear alternately; boxelder leaves appear opposite each other.

The best way to kill poison ivy is to spray the leaves with a solution of Ammate, according to Dr. Bessey. Supplies of this chemical, unlike those of other materials useful for weed-eradication, are available in most farm supplies stores. The spray solution should be made in accordance with directions given by the manufacturer and applied in the form of a fine spray. Care should be taken to contact only the leaves of the ivy plant, because the liquid is harmful to other plants. It will not harm, however, the trunk of a mature tree. Because the chemical kills the poison ivy by penetrating the pores of the leaves, and then traveling down the stems into the roots, care should be taken to spray as many leaves as possible.

Detailed directions for poison ivy eradication, as well as that of many other common weeds are contained in Special Bulletin S-804, "Some Important Michigan Weeds." A copy will be sent free to Michigan residents. Address requests to the Michigan State College Bulletin Office, East Lansing.

What Do You Know For Sure?

By RUTH TAYLOR

"Do you know it for sure?" Remember that phrase from your childhood—and how important it was? It differentiated between the things we glibly said or repeated and those things which we knew from actual first-hand knowledge.

I wish we needn't have let politeness cause us to drop the phrase as we grew up. I wish it were still possible to say "Do you know it for sure?" to those people who are so prompt and definite about every and all situations.

Yes, I admit it—I've been listening to the radio again. But I've also been reading columnists and modern essayists—and I've been listening to people talk in trains, in buses, in restaurants and homes. And it's been all I could do to keep from saying "Do you know it for sure?"

There are the people who know all about when the war will be over, and what Eisenhower's plans are and where the State Department is wrong and what is going to happen a week from next Tuesday. (The Gestapo smiles on them).

There are the people who know all the motives back of everyone's actions, who tell you glibly just what self-interest prompts each act, who must have X-ray minds, for they see what goes on before it happens. (Goebbels' friends they are).

There are the people who know all the bad news, who can and do talk of the cost of battles, the mistakes of commanders, the waste in lives, dollars and supplies, who can tell all the details of the chaos to follow. (Goering finds them useful).

There are the people who sow dissension by setting group against groups, exaggerating Labor's short comings, pouncing on Industry's misdeeds, accusing the farmer of selfishness, stirring up racial and religious hatreds by rank generalizations. Judging the group by the sins of apostate members, preaching anti-Catholicism and anti-Semitism wholesale. (Herr Hitler has a special decoration for these).

There are the people who talk too freely, who boast of how they "got around" regulations, who try to outwit the censor, who brag of "inside knowledge," who tell of production, troop movements, ship sailings, betraying their own for the chance of appearing smart. (The bells ring in Berlin over the deaths they cause).

To all of them—to you—to myself—I say, "Do you know it for sure?"

Grease Ways

Greasing the ways to permit thousands of tons of steel to slide smoothly into the water requires about 45 tons of a special grease, compounded for that express purpose—if the ship is a battleship. Once when a surplus of overripe bananas were a disposal problem in one port, they were used to grease the ways—and worked excellently, too.

Roller Shades

In using some cupboards, it is necessary to remove articles on the work surface to open or shut the doors above it. Substitution of roller shades for such doors eliminates this difficulty.

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"Mary and I were just saying, Judge, how lucky we are here in America that we have so many natural resources to help win the war."
"That's right, Jim. When war broke out we had oil, we had steel, we had food, lumber, aluminum...practically everything we needed. There's one thing we didn't have...rubber. The enemy had that."
"But that didn't bother us for long. Soon American brains and industry had synthetic rubber by the tons rolling out of plants. That filled a critical need...you can't win a war without rubber."

"I was very much interested the other day in reading a statement made by a high government official on synthetic rubber. In it he said 'It is fair to regard the rubber manufactured to date as being almost solely the product of the beverage distilling industry.'"
"He also said that, in his estimation, the tremendous contribution of distillers' industrial alcohol to the synthetic rubber program had not received the recognition which it deserves."
"We certainly learned something today, didn't we Mary?"

The proudest title in the Army

IT CONSISTS of two simple words.

Yet every soldier who's worth his salt covets it.

This title is simply:

"Good Soldier."

It isn't just happenstance that so many women in the WAC have earned this title—the proudest in the Army.

For wherever Wacs are working, both here and overseas, there you find a job well done. And done with a spirit so gallant and fine that high-Army officers everywhere say of the WAC...

"They're soldiers. Good soldiers!"

One carburetor setting is not suitable for all the jobs the tractor does. When the tractor is doing heavy work such as plowing, the carburetor should be adjusted to give a slightly rich mixture. When the tractor is doing light work such as mowing and cultivating, the carburetor should be adjusted to give a slightly lean mixture.

Announcements

The WSCS pot-luck luncheon previously scheduled for Friday, July 28 has been postponed to Friday, Aug. 4. It will be held at the lake home of Mrs. Leigh Palmer at 1 o'clock in the afternoon. Meet at the church at 12:30 if you should need transportation. Bring your own table service, sandwiches, one lemon and a dish to pass. For a good time, join us in our "Cavanaugh Capers."

Cavanaugh Lake Grange will meet on Tuesday evening, August 1 for a pot-luck picnic supper at 7 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Allmendinger, Crooked Lake.

The North Sylvan Grange will meet at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Ives at Cavanaugh Lake, on Tuesday evening, Aug. 1. Roll call: A farm or household safety hint.

It is very amusing to me to have motorists comment on the very dangerous work of circus performers. Recently I heard a man say that he would not be a trapeze performer for all the money in the world.

Immediately I recalled some of the daredevil stunts he had taken with his car. And what's more, he not only risked his own life but the lives of his family when he took these dangerous and foolish chances.

We can take a lesson from the man on the flying trapeze. His skill is the result of painstaking care and practice. His constant alertness to every detail of his performance is the mark of the true artist.

While the trapeze performer may fly through the air with the greatest of ease, yet he is conscious at all times of his every step and every movement. His eyes are constantly on that trapeze instead of the audience.

We can learn much from the trapeze artist which can be applied to careful and safe driving practices.

Think it over! Safety pays!

Wash Hands
A precaution the girl workers should take is to avoid touching her face with gritty, sooty hands. Hands have a habit of giving infectious germs a hitch-hike. They may cause small pimples or make them become more noticeable and harder to clear up. To avoid this, wash hands thoroughly, and be particularly careful to clean under the nails.

REWARD for wearing Wolverine Shell Horsehoes is amazing freedom from ordinary work shoe discomforts. They give you virtually maximum comfort while you work—months and miles of extra wear to cut work shoe costs to the bone. Get 'em from Quality Shoe Repair.

FOR SALE—5-tooth hand garden cultivator. Phone 2-3913.
