MPA Enjoys Program By Prison Entertainers

One of the finest entertainments ever witnessed in this vicinity was enjoyed on Saturday by members of the Michigan Press Association, guests from Chelsea, and members of the Cassidy Lake Honor Camp when about fifty entertainers from the State Prison of Southern Michigan presented a program at the Honor Camp.

The entertainment was presented on an outdoor stage, under the direction of Prof. Elbie McFate, director of music at the prison. The highlight of the program was an exhibition by the Michigan State Zouaves, whose fast-stepping drill formations brought expressions of amazement from the appreciative audience. Musical numbers included novelty selections by the prison band, vocal and xylophone numbers, and several selections by the "Arkansas Ramblers," hill-billy quartet. Charles West, colored dancer, also entertained the group with a few fast-stepping numbers.

Preceding the outdoor program dinner was served the Michigan Press Association, guests, and members of the prison staff in the dining hall, following which short talks were given by Gene Allemen of Lansing, manager of the MPA, Lieut. Geo. F. Parish, Camp Director, Warden Harry H. Jackson, Gamett Heyns, Director of Corrections, and Henry Prin, Director of Vocational Education at the Camp. Warden Jackson and Director Heyns stressed the importance of the work being done at Cassidy Lake, and praised Lieut. Parish and Mr. Prin for the successful operation of the camp. Many young men who have been inmates there since the camp opened last October have been released and are now employed in industrial plants, and they are all making good, according to Warden Jackson. Director Heyns stated that great advancement has been made in penal procedure, changing the old method of strictly punishment to an attitude of helpfulness to those who show a willingness to be helped, thus trying to prepare them for an honorable place in society when they are released. Under the new system, according to Director Heyns, a much smaller percentage of the men released commit crimes which return them to prison.

Newspaper representatives present at the meeting greatly appreciated the efforts of Warden Jackson, Lieut. Parish and other members of the prison staff in arranging this fine meeting and program for their enjoyment.

RECEIVE JAP SOUVENIRS
During the past week Mr. and Mrs. Fred Barth received a box of Japanese souvenirs from their son, Sgt. Harold F. Barth in the Pacific, which are proving very interesting. The contents included gas mask, clothing, coins, cards, medical kits, dolls, etc., and clearly demonstrates the inferiority of Japanese supplies. Mr. and Mrs. Barth would like to contact someone in this vicinity who can read Japanese.

FARMERS' GUILD MEETS
Farmers' Guild, Local 254, met Tuesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ford Atchison, with a good attendance. Several new members were added and final arrangements were made for the Local's annual picnic to be held at Straub's grove, Clear Lake, on Sunday, August 20. Pot-luck dinner with free hot-dogs, buns, coffee and ice cream.

With Our Men In Service

Rev. and Mrs. M. W. Brueckner of Rogers Corners received the following letter from their son, Captain Moritz F. Brueckner:

Somewhere in Italy,
July 25, 1944.

Dear Mom, Dad and Irma:
I do believe that you folks know that all is well here because I've been sending cablegrams even though I don't have much time to write. Today is the first time in a long time that I've been in one place long enough to write more than a few lines. So far I've written to Podie, Bruno and the Olsen family and now you—not bad, even if I had a lot of time. I've been getting all of your letters and the packages too, but as I've said before, I just can't whip out an answer when I want to.

Naturally, I can't tell you what has been going on here but from what I can gather from the radio and old newspapers you people have been getting full coverage of the Italian front. Now that the Second Front has really started I suppose we over here are being pushed out of the headlines, and just so. If everything goes well and God willing it shouldn't be too long before we're all together again. Everything seems to be going along swell at home, which is what I like to hear. It's needless to say that I wish I were there because that is one thing which I believe is taken for granted by all of the parents and loved ones at home. By the sound of things and the looks of the news it doesn't seem as though the war could last much longer but the Germans are awfully good soldiers and very good scrappers so to become too optimistic at this stage of the game would be like taking "time-out" at third down with goal to go, so I guess it's on with the pushes no matter where they'll be until the mess is cleared up once and for all. I sincerely hope that the optimism which is so prevalent in our home newspapers isn't slowing down the war effort on the home front through too much merry-making because this war isn't over with yet by a long shot, and we'll need everything we can get to make a short and thorough job of it.

The unit commendation (published in The Standard last week) which I'm sending along with this letter, has been approved by the censor for reprinting and mailing. From the sound of this taken of appreciation you might think we are a pretty hot outfit. Well, to put it mildly so do we. A fellow has to have a certain (Continued on page eight)

St. Mary's School Will Open On September 7

The four R's—religion, reading, 'riting and 'rithmetic, will begin once again for approximately 85 students in Chelsea's only parochial school, on Thursday, September 7. St. Mary's school is part of the parochial system of the Archdiocese of Detroit that instructs over 95,000 children annually. Actual resumption of classes will be preceded by the formal opening of the school year with a Pontifical High Mass in Blessed Sacrament Cathedral, Detroit, on Wednesday, Sept. 6 at 10 a.m.

Archbishop Edward Mooney of Detroit will offer the Mass for all the teaching sisters of the archdiocese and preach the sermon. The Sisters attending the Mass will participate in the singing of the ordinary of the Mass, "De Angelis."

Flynn Co. Completes Work On Local Streets

An extensive job of street improvement in Chelsea was completed last week by the T. F. Flynn Co. of Detroit, under the direction of the village council.

Included in the project was the new surfacing of Wilkinson street, and resurfacing of Madison, McKinley, Van Buren, Congdon, North, Jackson and Grant streets. In addition to this work, Main street was given a seal-coat surfacing from the MCRR to Van Buren street, as well as the cement pavement on Middle and Park streets.

Sealcoating of Main street was done under supervision of the State Highway Department and 50 per cent of this cost is being paid by the state. Village officials have received some complaints about the dust on this street, but this nuisance will be eliminated when the loose pebbles are removed and there is a good rainfall. The pebbles were washed before being used, or the condition would be much worse, according to officials of the village.

Although the cost of the street work has not been definitely determined, it is estimated that the amount will be about $15,000.

Other improvements which are underway or are planned for this year include curbing on many of Chelsea's streets, including Van Buren, Garfield, Taylor, Chandler, Congdon, Lincoln, Washington and Wilkinson streets. There will also be some sidewalk improvements.

With the work which has been done on streets, and with the curbing and sidewalk improvements to be made, Chelsea's streets will be in good condition and will compare favorably with many towns of much larger population.

Local Policeman Nabs Escaped Prison Lifer

Norman Mundt, 28-year-old lifer at Southern Michigan Prison, who escaped from Cassidy Lake Honor Camp on Saturday while there with an entertainment group from the prison, was captured by George Doe, local police officer, Sunday afternoon.

Mr. Doe, accompanied by Sumner Oesterle, had joined the search for the escaped convict only a short time before he apprehended the man on a side road about two miles southeast of Waterloo. Doe saw the convict, dressed in blue overalls and a grey shirt splattered with brown paint, which coincided with the description given by state police, and after driving past the man to positively identify him, stopped his car and the man gave up without resistance. Although the convict insisted that he wasn't the escaped convict, he gave the officer one of the aliases which it was known he had used before. Mundt was taken to Cassidy Lake by Doe and Oesterle, and was returned to the prison by state police.

Mundt had stayed all night in the farm house of Carlton Engstrom, Detroit patrolman, located on the Clear Lake road south of Waterloo, and Engstrom, who had been doing some painting there, discovered the man in the morning. After the patrolman had refused to sell his shirt to Mundt for one dollar, the convict slugged him with a hammer and took the shirt, which helped in his identity by the Chelsea policeman. Engstrom was taken to a Jackson hospital for treatment.

James Clark Dies As Result of Auto Injuries

James A. Clark, 58 years old, former resident of this community, who was farm manager at the Odd Fellows' Home, Jackson, died at 4:30 Thursday morning, August 10, at Foote hospital, as the result of injuries received late Wednesday night when struck by a car as he was crossing W. Michigan Ave. at Brown St., in Jackson. The automobile, driven by Daniel McLean of the Percy Jones hospital, Battle Creek, was headed west. Clark received a fractured skull, a broken leg, and internal injuries.

A native of Lyndon township, he was born Sept. 6, 1885, son of the late John and Mary Clark. Before becoming a resident of Jackson a year ago, he had served as Lyndon township clerk. He was a member of St. Mary's church, Chelsea.

Surviving are three brothers: Dr. Thomas J. Clark, Jackson, Herbert A. Clark of Chicago, and Joseph, of Lyndon township, and a sister, Mrs. John O'Connor of Chelsea.

Funeral services were held Saturday morning at 10 o'clock at St. Mary's church, with Rev. Richard Cunningham of Hudson, a cousin of the deceased, officiating. Burial was in Mt. Olivet cemetery.

ATTEND LEGION CONVENTION
Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Rowe, Mr. and Mrs. Paul G. Maroney, Mr. and Mrs. Merle S. Barr, Mrs. Lyle Christwell and L. T. Thomas were in attendance at the American Legion convention in Grand Rapids from Friday until Sunday.

Drummond Island—On rocky Drummond Island, forgotten apparently by both federal and state governments and unmarked by even a simple historical tablet, are the crumbling ruins of old Fort Drummond, once garrisoned by 350 to 400 red-coated British troops for 13 years after the War of 1812.

This historic fort, on picturesque Whitney Bay at the southwestern promontory of Drummond Island, could readily become one of the Upper Peninsula's varied tourist attractions. At Copper Harbor, on near the end of Keweenaw peninsula, is Fort Wilkins, built just a century ago—May 28, 1844—as protection against the Indians. Sault Ste. Marie has its Fort Brady, established in 1822.

At the north end of Potagannissing Bay, just east of Drummond Island, is St. Joseph Island with its carefully marked and preserved ruins of old Fort St. Joseph. The ruins there are marked by the Canadian historical sites and monuments commission.

To the south and east, only 50 miles away, is the famous Fort Mackinac, the object of solicitous care by the Mackinac Island Park Commission. Even old Fort Michilimackinac, at the City of Mackinaw, has been reconstructed accurately by the state for education of young and old.

Because Drummond Island is off the beaten path accessible to travelers only by ferry from the village of De Tour, the British fort has been permitted through public indifference to become private property of summer resorters. When you visit the old ruins, you do so at their consent.

Drummond Island, next door to Canada, is where the St. Mary's river empties into the blue waters of Lake Huron.

Here is the "Straits country," much of it wild and rough.

For years we had hoped to be able to visit Drummond, but it was not until this August that we had the opportunity to do so. The state conservation department was sending a patrol boat into Potagannissing Bay. A Cheboygan fisherman was reported to be netting fish illegally. And since the bay has been closed to nets, the vigilant conservation department was interested in the violation.

The patrol boat's crew consisted of Alex MacLean, assistant district supervisor, and Frank Brenza, fire warden for Drummond Island. Among the traveling guests were C. A. Paquin of the Lansing office and Webb McCall, a newspaper publisher from Mt. Pleasant.

The day's trip had begun most auspiciously. The sky was deep blue and almost cloudless, while the temperature was in the lower 70's.

After a morning inspection cruise, we stopped at the village of Drummond—the only incorporated place on the island's 87,000 acres of land—for a luncheon at the Potagannissing Inn, operated by Miss Lelah Seaman. Miss Seaman is a spinster lady of about 65 and a descendant of the earliest settler, a Mormon minister who came to the island about the time the Mormons were driven from Beaver Island in 1857.

Here at the village is an old abandoned quarry where stones were obtained for the first canal locks at Sault Ste. Marie in the late 1870's.

Nearby are some 40 islands, both large and small. About half of them are inhabited by summer resorters. One island, 200 acres in size, was purchased in 1943 by an ex-Grand Rapids bootlegger for $500.

The owner knifed a hunter in a tavern brawl last fall, and was said to be in jail at the Soo awaiting trial.

The patrol boat intended to cruise near St. Joseph Island in Canada, and we prevailed upon the crew to stop a minute for an inspection of the ruins of Fort St. Joseph.

Running the boat up close to the shore, we all waded ashore, carrying shoes and socks, and proceeded to look over the stone walls and masonry that once marked the most westerly British fort on the North American continent. Raspberries and gooseberries were ripe—reminders of the once busy settlement from 1796 to 1812.

It was from this spot that Captain Charles Roberts organized the British expedition that took Fort Mackinac by surprise on July 17, 1812.

Fort St. Joseph was established by the British following the Revolutionary War. In July, 1796, they withdrew from Detroit. In August they evacuated Fort Mackinac. After the war of 1812 broke out, Americans raided the fort and burned it. And so, when the Treaty of Ghent had officially terminated the War of 1812, the British selected Whitney Bay on Drummond Island as being more accessible for the Indians. They made a poor guess, as Drummond Island, named in honor of Sir Gordon Drummond, the Canadian lieutenant governor, became American territory, while St. Joseph Island was included in Canada.

One of the interesting ruins of old Fort Drummond is its British military cemetery. Nailed to a tree is a plain wood board, upon which a resorter has painted the words, "British cemetery."

The burying ground was once fenced in by hand-hewn cedar posts, placed about four inches apart. A ditch was dug on all four sides, 100 by 150 feet in size.

Today there stands only six of the original cedar posts. The others, decaying, have been stacked in piles. Grave stones have fallen, and of the original wood markers, only one is left.

A summer resort owner has used the great chimney of a British officer's quarters as the chimney for his log cabin. Once the military settlement had its own park. Cabin lots were 60 by 150 feet. Eighteen buildings comprised the garrison itself which once housed from 350 to 400 men exclusive of Indians.

Nearby are the artillery road and the parade grounds. The quiet waters of Whitney Bay were once alive with Indian canoes. For 4,500 Indians and their families would gather at Drummond Island each spring to receive gifts of the British and to swap their furs for rum and other products.

Since 1823, when the British troops sailed for Penetanguishene on Georgian Bay, old Fort Drummond has been left to crumble in decay.

It awaits the enterprise of the state conservation department or some other interested agency to preserve it as a monument or a state park, a permanent shrine of the last British fort in Michigan and another milestone in our American history of the winning of the west. This opportunity has been neglected long enough.

Check Electric Fence To Prevent Tragedy

Take no chances with homemade electric fence equipment, warns D. E. Wiant, associate professor of agricultural engineering, Michigan State College.

An electric fence energized or "kept hot" by means of a device that supplies a continuous current is highly dangerous to human and animal life, he explains.

Wiant cites three instances this summer in Michigan where persons met death through coming in contact with electric fences that were connected to a 110-volt lighting circuit. The farmers who were using these fences thought that the fences were safe because they had arranged to have the current flow through a light bulb of low wattage. Such fences are potentially deadly and should never be used, he warns. The effect of the continuous current is not to impart a warning sting but rather to give a paralyzing shock that may prevent a person or animal from pulling away from the wire.

Safe, commercially made electric fence energizers provide an interrupted current that gives a sharp sting to the person or animal touching the wire. Their reflexes immediately cause them to pull away involuntarily from the wire, unharmed, Wiant explains.

Electric fences of a safe type and properly installed have demonstrated their worth in efficient farm operation. To prevent needless tragedies or loss of valuable livestock that in time might cause laws curbing the use of electric fences to be enacted, it is imperative that farmers install only equipment that is known to be safe, Wiant urges.

HONORED ON BIRTHDAY

Mr. and Mrs. Mike Misalides gave a birthday supper recently in honor of their daughter Chrisoula's twenty-first birthday. Guests included the immediate family, George Jordan of Canton, Ohio, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Schultz, Liza Policht, and James Batistakis. A feature of the supper was a large birthday cake. Games were enjoyed by the group, and Chrisoula received many lovely gifts.

Brain Combines Double Images, Forms Only One

Because your eyes are set approximately two and one half inches apart, this gives a slightly different view of an object with each eye. The higher-visual centers in the brain combine these slightly differing images into one, thus producing "fusion" and a much improved sensation of reality by virtue of the impression of stereopsis. This faculty of depth perception is a vital factor in automobile driving and in hundreds of acts of our daily lives. Sometimes when the two eyes do not learn teamwork, to avoid seeing double (diplopia) the brain suppresses one of the visual images. As this habit grows, although both eyes are wide open and appear all right, one of them is doing practically all of the work and depth perception becomes a thing of the past. Without meaning to, many people are suppressing important facts about the object at which they are looking—seeing less than they should.

This reduction of the vision in one eye is called amblyopia. It is not uncommon to find one eye enjoying a little better sight than the other and this is usually evened up with the properly prescribed lenses, but where one eye is much poorer in vision than the other, visual training is now used with considerable success and usually good sight is restored to the dimmed eye. This tendency of one eye to become amblyopic, is just one of the concessions made by the visual mechanism when maintained visual tasks are required of a person and no outside help is secured. Most such concessions can be overcome and balanced seeing restored.

Good Spray Aid to Economizing on Material

W. C. Krueger, extension agricultural engineer at Rutgers university, reminds fruit growers that the best way to economize on spray materials is to have your equipment in such condition that you don't waste any.

"Leaky valves and pistons increase pumping costs and prevent high pressures necessary for perfect application," Krueger said. "Worn and enlarged nozzle disks are a common cause of poor coverage and waste."

"Pump valves should be given special attention. Valve seats which do not show a continuous bright contact surface should be re-faced and tested with a new ball valve. The seat contact should be narrow. Wide contact favors lodging of foreign materials and subsequent leakage. Ball valves showing any signs of scoring or ridging must be replaced."

"Test pressure control valves. If they need reconditioning, this is a job for your dealer mechanic. Check and recondition your hose. With the pressure that goes through the spray hose, it's dangerous to tolerate a weak one."

Glass Jewels

Tiny glass ring jewels, no bigger than the head of a pin, developed for certain aircraft instrument bearings, are now available for other applications. The jewels are listed in five sizes for use in precision measuring equipment, and other shapes and sizes are possible for such applications as thread guides, weighing scales, automobile and truck speedometers, and similar instruments and devices.

The glass ring jewels are an outgrowth of the work in developing glass "V" jewels, introduced recently by the company as the answer to the shortage of foreign-made sapphire bearings. The ring jewels, like the "V" jewels, are superior to sapphire in many respects according to the company and are available at approximately one-third the cost. The ring jewels are supplied ready to set at $120 per 1,000.

Accident Toll

Accidents in 1943 killed approximately 94,500 persons. About 9,700,000 were injured, including 420,000 cases in which the injury resulted in some permanent disability—an amputated finger, a stiffened joint, blindness.

Costs amounted to about $5,000,000, including wage loss and medical expense of $2,250,000,000, overhead costs of insurance of $500,000,000, fire loss of $380,000,000, motor vehicle property damage of $550,000,000, and the so-called "indirect" costs of occupational accidents of $1,300,000,000.

The above total represents a decrease of 1 1/2 per cent from the 1942 toll of 95,889. Compared to the 1938 all-time of 110,062, however, 1943 was down 14 per cent.

Refinishing Wood

To get best results in refinishing wood surfaces, first remove all the old finish. A sanding machine, a scraper or a solvent is used. Homemade solvents may be used but the commercial ones are safer for both the operator and the furniture.

When preparing for the new finish, first take out all dark surface stains and discolorations with a bleach. Then smooth the surface and fill the deep holes or cracks. If the original filler has been removed, use a filler to fill the pores of the wood to give a smooth, even surface. Then comes the finishing. Furniture may be finished with oil, varnish, seals, shellac, paint, enamel or wax.

For the ten year period, from 1910 to 1920, the village of Chelsea made a net gain of 315. The figures are: 1900—1635; 1910—1764; 1920—2079.

The marriage of Miss Winifred Bacon and Dr. Algernon A. Palmer took place Wednesday evening, Aug. 18, 1920 at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Wm. Bacon, Orchard St., with Rev. H. R. Beatty conducting the ceremony. Both are graduates of Chelsea high school. Dr. Palmer is a graduate of the medical department of the U. of M. Upon their return from an eastern auto trip they will occupy the residence of Mrs. A. N. Morton, on Jefferson St.

The village authorities have had Railroad street given a covering of gravel from the east village limits to McKinley street.

According to the weather records the month of July produced some of the coldest weather in the history of Michigan for that month.

A new company has taken over the cement plant and will expand about $80,000 in making changes. The system in use will be replaced with one that is up-to-date. Two new rotary kilns, 8x125 feet, will be installed, giving the plant a capacity of 1200 barrels a day. It is expected that a force of twenty-five or thirty men will be at work there in a short time.

Seymour Tyndall, for 67 years a resident of Sylvan, was born in New Jersey, Jan. 19, 1821 and died at his home, Thursday, Aug. 11. He purchased the farm on which he lived when he was 22 years of age, clearing most of the land of the growing timber and built the present buildings. He is survived by his wife and one daughter, Mrs. O. A. Burgess. Interment at Maple Grove cemetery, Sylvan Center, with Rev. F. I. Blanchard, Baptist minister, officiating.

John Mast, Jr., died at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John George Mast, Sr., Aug. 18. He was born in Chelsea on June 17, 1875 and was educated in the public schools. Mr. Mast has been in failing health for the past four years, and last June he was in a street car accident in Detroit, since which time he has fallen rapidly.

He was married to Miss Frances Taylor, June 19, 1901. He is survived by his wife, two sons, one daughter, his parents and sisters, Misses Lizzie and Mina. Funeral services were held from the home of his parents, with Rev. A. A. Schoen officiating. Interment in Oak Grove cemetery.

H. Stoffer and sons report killing more than 50 rattlesnakes or mas-saugers on their marsh in Lyndon while putting up some hay last week.

Color-Blindness

Excessive use of tobacco and alcohol may sometimes cause color blindness, says the Better Vision Institute. Difficulty in distinguishing green is first encountered, and later confusion in red colors may result.

He's thinking now of the civilized comforts of his own Home of Tomorrow and the magical conveniences that will be his from that little blue economy-flame,—GAS!

High up on the list of his dreams-to-come-true is that happy time when hot-water will speed his "once-over-lightly" . . . when hot tub-soaks will revitalize tired nerves and muscles . . . when K.P. will be but a memory . . . and a clean shirt will not be an event.

G. I. Johnny's home comforts will be many but none more welcome than the quick-flowing, always-hot water he'll get from his post-war Ruud Automatic Gas Water Heater that keeps hot water pure and rust-free in a long-lasting tank of solid Monel.

It's worth planning for!

Your Committee of Three

This is your post-war planning committee for your hot water supply in your own Home of Tomorrow. All three,—Gas, Monel and Ruud,—are now in their country's service, but at the war's end you'll find them together again, working to a common purpose—to give you a perfect, low-cost hot water service.

4-H State Show Will Be Held At M.S.C. Sept. 5-8

Plans were being completed this week for the 29th annual state 4-H show to be held on the Michigan State college campus at East Lansing, Tuesday through Friday, Sept. 5-8.

At this show will be exhibited the best of the 1944 projects conducted by Michigan's more than 50,000 boys and girls enrolled in club work. This year's program again supplants the annual 4-H fair formerly held at the Detroit fairgrounds. Total premium money made available by the State Department of Agriculture totals $18,000.

Exhibits and 4-H members participating will arrive on the campus on Tuesday for registration. The next day's program, which is not open to the public, will include the judging of all exhibits except livestock and an evening assembly for club members and leaders only. The first two of the judging contests for 4-H club members, dairy cattle and general livestock, will also be held on Wednesday.

The program for Thursday, which is also annual Farmers' Day, will include judging contests for members in vegetables, poultry and home economics; the regular judging of club exhibits in swine, market lambs, beef cattle, and colts. An auction sale of fat steers, lambs and hogs will be held at 4 p.m. in the stadium. That evening a livestock parade will precede the state 4-H dress review and citizenship ceremony to be held in the stadium.

Judging contests for members on Friday will include crops, handicraft, and the rest of the home economics projects not included Thursday. Also Friday will be the judging of the classes of breeding sheep, and dairy cattle. At 4 p.m. will be held a ram and boar sale in Demonstration Hall. Exhibits will include livestock, poultry, eggs, corn, potatoes, beans, vegetables, flowers, handicraft, farm labor-saving devices, farm electrification, wood identification, forestry, canning, food preparation, baking, school lunches, clothing, girls' room arrangements, and achievement booths.

This is the peak of the season for drownings, as now is the time we are all relaxing and getting careless about swimming practices around the beaches, swimming pools, and swimming holes.

To protect your children, make it your duty to see that they can swim; that they wait two hours after eating before going into the water; that they do not dive into swimming holes without first exploring them to determine their depth and the absence of stumps and rocks; that they never swim when overheated.

Let them go swimming only at supervised beaches or pools where someone is always on guard for their safety.

Rapid Acceleration

Rapid acceleration of your car on slippery roads should be avoided. When one or both of the driving wheels start to spin the vehicle is likely to slide over against the curb, against another vehicle, or off the road.

SALVAGE COMMITTEE ACTIVE
The Washtenaw County Salvage Committee has been actively engaged in the saving of waste materials since July 1, 1942, and for the period of two years ending with June 30, 1944 has made the following collections:

Metal—41,838,000 pounds.
Rubber—1,159,569 pounds.
Paper—9,564,000 pounds.
Rags—564,424 pounds.

Since January 1, 1943, 570,000 pounds of tin cans and about 225,000 pounds of household fats have been collected. At the moment, the heaviest demand is for waste paper and tin cans.

The War Production Board is recommending a school waste paper salvage campaign in all parts of the country and particularly for Washtenaw county that each school in the county participate, and are offering certificates of merit for schools meeting their quota and in addition a certificate of merit for the pupils who do outstanding work in the campaign.

There will be more information about this when the schools assemble for their fall term.

Tough Initiation
The knocking out of boys' teeth as a test of endurance during initiation ceremonies is a fairly common practice among tribesmen, especially in Australia.

DEATHS

Earl F. Van Riper

Earl F. Van Riper, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alva Faber of 1810 Fair St., Ann Arbor, died Thursday, August 10, at the Michigan State Sanitarium, Howell, following a brief illness.

He was born June 10, 1926 in Bridgewater township and resided in Chelsea before moving to Ann Arbor. He is survived by his parents and by his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Van Riper, of Manchester.

Funeral services were held at 2:00 o'clock Sunday afternoon at the St. Paul-Hildinger funeral home, Ann Arbor and burial was in Bridgewater township cemetery.

Extension Groups In Session At North Lake

Approximately 60 women from extension groups throughout the county have enrolled for the five-day session which opened at North Lake Christmas Seal Camp, beginning on Wednesday afternoon, according to Miss Francis Wilson, Washtenaw County Home Demonstration agent. This meeting, which has been an annual affair since 1924, is held for both recreation and instruction. "The program this year," Miss Wilson said, "will include instruction in refinishing furniture, illustrated lectures and sewing for the Red Cross."

On Thursday, Mrs. Merle T. Mallin, executive secretary of the Washtenaw County Red Cross; Mrs. William Frayer, chairman of Volunteer Special Services, and Mrs. Josselyn Van Tyne, chairman of the Production Corps, will bring Red Cross sewing material to the camp. The members of the group will furnish their own sewing machines. The Red Cross representatives will give brief talks on the local Red Cross work. "The extension groups regularly devote a great deal of time to Red Cross sewing," Miss Wilson explained, "and many of them will want to sew during their leisure hours at the camp."

Other features on the program will be a lecture by Miss Rachael Markwell, State Extension Leader, who will visit the camp for two days, and an illustrated lecture by Miss Pearl Hairt, County Health Nurse. Miss Jessie Marion, of Michigan State College will conduct the furniture refinishing classes. In addition, there will be an illustrated travel lecture by Frank Lennox, of Ann Arbor. On Sunday morning services will be conducted in the outdoor chapel by the Rev. William Hainsworth of Dexter. Members of the camp committee include Mrs. Paul Feldkamp of Manchester, camp chairman; Mrs. Earl Quackenbush of Dixboro, co-chairman; Mrs. Wayne Teachout of Lodi town, ship, secretary; Mrs. Homer Stofa of Chelsea, Mrs. Fred Klager of Dexter and Mrs. Ed. Wise of Gregory, county extension chairman.

The camp opened on Wednesday, August 16 and will close Sunday noon, August 20.

Home Sewers Turning Attention To Smart Apparel for Autumn

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

TO BE able to sew and to design pretty clothes for yourself is a real asset in one's life. Enthusiasm for "making your own" is spreading among women everywhere these days.

It was fun and really a happy pastime to sew with dainty wash materials during midsummer. Even the amateur covered herself with glory in fashioning the easy-to-sew summery cottons and rayon weaves that seemed to be lovelier this year than ever before. Comes now, however, the time when homesewers are thinking in terms of good-looking apparel that will prove the perfect choice to bridge the gap between summer and fall and then to carry on through the late autumn days worn under a chic topcoat.

Today the first consideration in wardrobe planning from a practical point of view is how much is needed to look well dressed, and how about the "stretching" possibilities of one's wardrobe. It is the many-purpose wear of one's clothes that dominates in the general scheme of costume designs for the duration period. If you want to look fashion-right and yet keep within bounds of a strict wartime budget, you'll be wise in making a dual-personality bolero suit your immediate choice. For capricious summer-into-fall weather, a youthful, simple to make bolero-and-skirt costume is the ideal choice. With different blouses and interchangeable accessories it stands ready for any event, every day of the week.

It doesn't matter much whether you ever tackled a suit-making project before because you can get expert help in latest dressmaker tricks and sewing short-cuts at your local sewing center and many important stores throughout the country now conduct sewing classes in connection with their fabric department. Among other things you will be taught to make easy adjustments to your figure with the aid of a dress form of plastic materials molded individually to your own contours.

You'll get a lot of pleasurable wear out of a gay cardigan bolero version that contrasts skirt and jacket as shown to the right in the illustration. Fuchsia wool is used for this bolero, navy wool for the skirt.

Pink Chiffon Blouse

This stunning dinner blouse is of blush pink chiffon with black, green and rose colored paillettes worked in star motifs. Emphasis on the luxury blouse is noted throughout the fall showings. Either they are handsewn or hand-painted, or they are made of handsome rich fabrics such as brocades, lame or satin-striped materials. Very smart are the new blouses of gleaming slipper satin.

The sleeves are bracelet length to team with the new longer length gloves. The hat and bag to match is another sewing achievement that can be yours for the trying in that patterns are so easily available for all types of stunning accessory sets.

You may prefer the bolero style that takes on a classic notched collar and revers with straight long sleeves as shown to the left. Make it in a pastel woolen, for color is going rampant throughout the new fall style program. Restrained fullness is achieved with cluster gathers at the front of the column-slim skirt.

The ingenious sewer is given something new to think about in way of decorative button and buttonhole technique that is enhancing so many of the newer costumes. You can achieve smart individuality for the garment you are making if you avail yourself of the button-making and fabric-covered button service and plastic button collections offered at the notion counters of local sewing centers. The pen-and-ink sketches to the left illustrate some of the new and fascinating button and buttonhole maneuvering that is going on at present. Note the cunning use of handmade embroidered leaves, which together with gay fabric-covered buttons, add a decorative touch to the jacket sketched at the top.

A most exciting touch of individuality that sewing center experts recommend is made-to-order monogrammed buttons. You can make each button a standout by centering it against a diamond shaped piece of fabric as shown in the center sketch. The fabric diamond shaped motifs are easy to apply on the jacket closing if you use the zig-zagger attachment on your machine. The tiny fabric squares with pinked edges done on the sewing machine pinker attachment are centered with clever buttons for the jacket pictured last in the panel sketches.

Dickies and Vestees Can Be Worn Formally

Halting dickies which can double for a bareback evening gown top are beautifully colorful, snapping up all the important dress and suit shades for fall. These are detailed with tiny pleatings, intricate embroidery and exquisite appliques and cutouts. Many quite formal pieces are shown in way of dickies, vestees and vests, such as the pink crepe halter with starfish embroidery of black sequins, or a high-necked pink metallic ribbon brocade gilet worked in narrow stripes. There are also lovely embroidered net poplin dickies shown. With a collection of these charming fantasies one can rejuvenate one's costumes on hand until they look right up to the moment in style distinction and loveliness.

Jodhpurs for Youngsters—Something new has been added to the little folks' clothes program in way of jodhpurs that are now being sold for kindergarten wear and as practical utility garments for toddlers. These diminutive jodhpurs are made with swaggy pockets and correctly pegged and taped silhouettes. They are designed to replace overalls and leggings.

Gold-Color Fleece Coats—Style trends point to gold color for the popular fleece coats that are being shown for fall. Merchants regard it as the number one color and show a marked preference in being shown for this radiant autumn hue. Camel tan is still a favorite. Brown and green are the next in choice.

WRC HOLDS PARTY—The party given by the WRC on Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. C. Dreyer, Cedar Lake, was attended by about 25 members and friends. Following a potluck dinner, games were enjoyed.

Red Cross Will Help In Obtaining Furloughs

Families of servicemen who anticipate asking for help from the Red Cross Home Service Committee were urged this week by John B. Mellott,

Chairman of the Washtenaw County Committee, to inform the Red Cross of their needs as soon as they can do so, in order to avoid unnecessary delay. "For example," said Mr. Mellott, "in those situations where a family is requesting an emergency furlough for a serviceman, particularly in maternity cases, the information should be given in advance, so that it can be verified, and arrangements made with the serviceman's commanding officer."

During the past three months, 252 veterans have received various types of assistance from the Home Service Committee, according to Mr. Mellott. Significant on the list of services that the local Red Cross chapter offers the veteran is assistance in filing claims for government benefits to which he may be entitled. During the period while a claim is pending, the Red Cross chapter may, if necessary, extend financial aid to the disabled veteran and his dependents.

"But not all the problems of the serviceman are financial," Mr. Mellott pointed out. "Social and occupational adjustments are as important as financial security."

The Washtenaw County Red Cross chapter has outlined a broad program of counseling and guidance for servicemen and their families. "Red Cross Home Service is established to handle the problems raised by a man's military service, and these problems affect his family as well as him," Mr. Mellott states. "The Home Service Department of this chapter is ready at all times to help wives, mothers and children of servicemen," he continued, "and we are on duty 24 hours a day, since important messages must be acted upon immediately regardless of time or inconvenience."

The Home Service Night Corps is under the chairmanship of Miss Gertrude Bogert. Members of the corps are volunteers from the Washtenaw County Chapter of the American Association of Social Workers. The telephone number of the volunteer on duty after 5 p.m. may be received without delay by calling Western Union or the Nursing Bureau, in Ann Arbor.

In Chelsea, the Home Service Volunteer worker is Mrs. Deane Rogers.

Roll call: Yeas all. Motion carried.

Moved by Harris, supported by Wolverton that the Kiwanis club of Chelsea be given permission to hold a circus on the village lots situated on North Main St. on July 28, 1944.

Roll call: Yeas all. Motion carried.

The following resolution was read to the Council:

Whereas, under authority of State law and by virtue of resolutions formally adopted by the governing body, the Village of Chelsea hereby agrees to participate in the cost of maintenance and operation of traffic signals located on highway M-92 (Main and Park Sts.) and (Main and Middle Sts.) on the basis of the division of costs as determined by the provisions of applicable statutes; in this case more specifically being as follows:

State Highway Department (%) 38.47

Village of Chelsea (%) 61.53

Total (%) 100.00

It is further agreed that the agency responsible for the signal maintenance shall be the Village of Chelsea.

Moved by Wolverton, supported by Heydlauff that the above resolution be adopted and that the "Maintenance Cost Agreement for Traffic Signal Control" be signed by an authorized official of the governing body.

Roll call: Yeas all. Motion carried.

The following resolution was read to the Council:

Whereas, in the best interests of public safety, the Village Council deems it necessary and expedient to have an additional traffic signal placed on the southeast corner of Main and Park Sts. and on the southwest corner of Main and Middle Sts., and that it is also deemed necessary and expedient to have a new bridge on North Main St. over Lett's Creek,

Now Therefore Be It Resolved, that the Village of Chelsea petition the Michigan State Highway Department to place the above mentioned signals and to construct the above mentioned bridge.

Moved by Harris, supported by Hinderer that the above resolution be adopted.

Roll call: Yeas all. Motion carried.

Moved by Beach, supported by Wolverton that the bid submitted by T. P. Flynn & Co. to sealcoat Main St., approximately 8,500 sq. yds., at a total estimated cost of $1,145.00, be approved by the Council and be submitted to the Michigan State Highway Department for their approval.

Roll call: Yeas all. Motion carried.

Moved by Beach, supported by Harris that the Village of Chelsea contribute $100.00 to the Chelsea Recreation Council.

Roll call: Yeas all. Motion carried.

Meeting adjourned at 12:15 a.m.

Approved August 7, 1944.

Walter D. Mohrlock, President, John J. Ford, Clerk.

HOME CANNED PEACHES DELICIOUS WHETHER CLING OR FREE-STONE

Clingstone peaches are excellent, but a great many persons prefer the flavor of freestone fruit and also find it somewhat less troublesome to prepare for canning. Whether cling or freestone, good raw peaches make good canned ones, provided they are canned right, but right canning can do nothing for greenish, bitterish, poorly flavored fruit.

Gladys Kimbrough, Home Service Director for Ball Brothers Company, advises those who can peaches for the first time, and those whose canned peaches are below par, to select tree-ripened fruit, when possible, and sort it for size, color, and condition before washing and peeling it.

Skins may be stripped from some well-ripened peaches after they have been scalded in boiling water about a minute and then dipped in cold water, but the general run of them require other methods of peeling. The lye method, while practical when a large quantity is to be canned, requires skill. To lye peel, put four tablespoons concentrated lye in an enamel or granite kettle. Add two gallons water and heat to boiling. Put peaches in a basket and hold in the boiling lye from thirty to sixty seconds; then wash immediately in cold water. Rub through several waters to remove all skins and all traces of lye. The fruit will darken if left in lye too long or if not well rinsed.

Usually, paring with a knife is the most practical way of peeling. The peaches should be washed clean and drained before peeling. After peeling, the fruit should be cut in half, and the stones discarded. Freestone fruit has better flavor and nicer, cleaner appearance if the red fibers are cut or scraped from the cavities.

Dropping the peeled peaches into weak salt-vinegar water (one tablespoon each to one gallon of water) helps prevent discoloring. They should not be left in the water longer than thirty or forty minutes and must be well-rinsed before canning.

Clingstone peaches are prepared for canning by removing the skins by one of the methods described above. Clings may be halved (before peeling) by cutting around the peach with a sharp knife, beginning at the stem end and following the crease. After cutting, hold the peach with both hands and twist in opposite directions. This pulls one side away from the stone. Use a regular peeler, putting upon a teaspoon or a knife to remove the stone from the other half of the peach. Peel the halves by scalding, by the lye method, or by paring with knife. If preferred, the peach may be peeled and then halved by cutting around the stone with knife. The easiest way to remove the flesh from the stone is to cut it in wedge-shaped slices.

Miss Kimbrough recommends hot packing and processing in a hot-water bath canner. Here are her two favorite recipes: (Use the longer cooking and processing time for elings and other very fine peaches.) Method I. Make a sirup of 1 or 2 parts sugar to 1 of water, depending upon the amount liked and the amount available. Add peaches, a few at a time, and simmer until hot through (4 to 10 minutes). Pack into hot jars, layers overlapping, cavity side down. Cover with sirup in which peaches were cooked. Process (cook in jar) 10 to 20 minutes in hot-water bath. Can left-over sirup for pudding or ice cream sauce.

Method II. Add from 1 to 1½ cup sugar and one cup boiling water to one gallon prepared peaches. Cook gently until peaches are hot through and sugar dissolved (10 to 20 minutes). Pack and process as instructed above. If there isn't enough liquid to cover peaches in jar, add boiling water after they are packed.

If one is short of sugar, a sirup may be made by boiling two cups white corn sirup, two cups sugar, one cup water, and one-eighth teaspoon salt together five minutes. Honey may be used instead of sugar but it changes the flavor, and sometimes the color, of the fruit. From three-quarters to one cup sirup is usually needed for one quart of peaches. The fruit should be well covered with liquid. (If one runs out of sugar, peaches may be canned with plain boiling water. They keep just as well that way but do not have as good flavor.)

Once fine fruit is selected, carefully prepared and processed right, canning success is assured if jars and caps are used according to the manufacturers' instructions. These instructions will be found on printed leaflets packed in every carton.

Military Has Severe Shortages

"Production has dropped off slightly in the face of increased demands," from overseas, Gen. Bronson B. Somervell, of the Army Service Forces, said in citing some specific shortages suffered in various military theaters of war. Some examples cited were: One General had to call off 100 air missions because of lack of the right type of bombs; another General said he had to abandon 8,500 heavy trucks, which have to be replaced; rate of fire for artillery has more than doubled above estimates, thus increasing demands for new guns, replacement linings and ammunition. Heavy artillery rather than air power broke deadlocks at Anzio, Cassino and in Normandy, General Somervell said.

"Bravery Alone Is Not Enough"

"Bravery alone is not enough to win battles," declared General A. A. Vandergift, Commandant of the Marine Corps in urging youths of pre-military age to return to high school this fall. "To have bravery without knowledge is to be only half prepared. If you have been employed in the factory or on the farm this summer . . . you should plan to go back to high school this fall. We in the Marine Corps feel you can best serve your nation and your fellow men at school, now, building the sound mind in the sound body."

OPA Changes Point Values

No more ration points for utility grades of beef and lamb will be required through September 2, and for the same period point values have been restored on pork loins, pork hams and canned fish, the Office of Price Administration has announced. Cheeses were increased from two to four points a pound and farm or country butter from eight to 12 points a pound.

Laundry Stoves Unrationed

Rationing restrictions have been removed from coal-wood laundry stoves and gas ranges with non-metallic outside back or side panels, OPA reports. The adequate supply of the small, flat-top laundry stoves, usually made of cast iron and used in many homes for laundry and auxiliary heating, made possible removal of rationing restrictions on these stoves.

Your Motor "Plings" for Victory

If your motor-car engine "plings" a bit when you go up a hill or accelerate rapidly, just remember that the tetrathyl lead you and other civilians might have had in your gasoline is helping to produce each month an extra 210 million gallons of 100-octane aviation gasoline for military use, according to the Petroleum Administration for War.

"Christmas Mailing Month"

September 15 to October 15 has been named "Christmas Mailing Month" by the Army and Navy, which this year have 33,000 uniformed men and women in their postal services to handle an estimated 70 million Christmas presents—three times as many as last year, the Office of War Information says. Packages mailed during "Christmas Mailing Month" should reach their destination by Christmas Day. Packages should weigh no more than five pounds and have combined length, width and depth of not more than 36 inches.

Francisco

Mrs. John Kingsley of Jackson called on Francisco friends recently.

Miss Phyllis Kalmbach returned Sunday from Washington lake where she spent a week with the Camp Fire Girls.

Wm. E. Hartman's health is not improving as his friends wish it might. Earl Wals was in Toledo, Ohio the fore part of the week to bring back peaches and tomatoes for his trade. It is reported that T-Sgt. Austin Artz has embarked for overseas duty. Mr. and Mrs. Carl Asfahl of Dexter spent Sunday afternoon at the Albert Wals home.

Howard Kaiser and family of Paterson lake spent Sunday at the home of his brother, John Kaiser and sister, Mrs. Ezra Heit.

Wilbert Willy and family of Jackson spent the week-end at the Willy family home.

Who Lives Next Door?

By RUTH TAYLOR

How many of you see The Community News of Merchantsville, New Jersey? Its very able editor recently wrote an editorial which was thought-provoking, to say the least. "Who lives next door—or are you the fellow?"

There is something in that sentence which appeals to the imagination. Each one who reads it will follow through according to his own line of thought. Here is what it meant to me.

Who lives next door? Is it the Murphys, the Smiths, the Slezaks, the Antonios, the Cohens, the Kozwalskis, the Sanchess? This is America, and it may be any one of them. But really it is you, too—for you are part of America, and America means men and women of all faiths, races, religions and colors, working side by side to make of this a better and a greater nation.

This is a big world. Likewise we are a big country. The world is built upon competition. So is our country. But unfortunately, our country is so large—both mentally and physically—that there is room for all of us, provided our motives are sincere.

We, as Americans, do not want dictation from any group. Therefore we must not dictate to any one. Equally so is the fact that we must not be indifferent to the needs of any one. It was George Bernard Shaw who said: "The worst sin toward our fellow creatures is not to hate them, but to be indifferent to them; that is the essence of inhumanity."

Who lives next door? Whose job is it to make the best of America? His or yours—for to someone else you are the fellow next door.

We cannot have a superior without an inferior—so the insecure try to manufacture inferiors upon whom to look down. You can get a pain in the neck from looking down as much as from craning up. Free men should look AT each other—for they are neighbors. Who lives next door? It is you and me and every last American of us. We are neighbors all—and until and unless we assume a neighborly spirit of cooperation, we are not living up to the best that is America.

What we need to do is to look around at our fellow-Americans drawn from every rank of life, from every nation, from every religion, and say: "Thank God for America—where we can all work together, fight together—and win together! Let's get to it! Together nobody can beat us!"

City Planning
City planning, according to Aristotle, the ancient Greek philosopher, "should protect the inhabitants and make them happy."

Cranberry Uses
Although the most common use of the cranberry is in sauce or jelly, it has been used in salads, cooling summer drinks—and strangely, as a tenderizer for tough cuts of meat. A cupful of berries tossed into a simmering stew or pot roast flavors and tenderizes.

Dry Fast

Foods dry out rapidly at the humidities usually prevailing at high temperatures, as is evidenced by the ready wilting of many vegetables and fruits. Drying is ordinarily slower at the chillroom temperatures of 33 to 40 degrees, but even within that range, stored foods will shrink unless the surrounding air is kept relatively moist. The evaporation of ice from foods stored in freezers is slower than that of water from unfrozen products but the drying continues even at zero or below. The dried, pithy, outer layers of some stored frozen lean meats and other foods is called "freezer burn." Uniform temperatures in properly designed freezers will decrease the rate at which frozen products lose moisture, but only by wrapping or packaging foods in moisture-proof coverings can the relatively dry freezer air be prevented from robbing stored foods of water.

Press Seams

Success or failure in making a garment often depends on the way it is pressed during the making as well as after completion. Always test temperature of iron on scrap of fabric before pressing.

Press seams immediately after stitching. Do not wait until dress is completed. Never rest iron on fabric. Keep it moving constantly to avoid marking fabrics.

Press all seams up from bottom or in towards center of garment. Press darts on light fabrics to one side, either up or towards center. On heavy fabrics slash darts and press open. Lift gathers while working point of iron into them.

While pressing, always smooth garment into correct shape so that fabric is not stretched. Continue smoothing fabric before passing iron over it to avoid pressing creases into it.

Care of Honey

To liquefy honey that has granulated or solidified place the container in a bowl of warm water—not warmer than the hand can bear—until all crystals are melted.

To store honey, keep liquid honey in a warm dry place where the temperature is 75 degrees F. or over, or in a cold place where the temperature is below 55 degrees F. Freezing does not injure the color or flavor but may hasten granulation.

Avoid damp places for storage because honey has the property of absorbing and retaining moisture. Do not put comb honey in the refrigerator. It is better kept at room temperature.

Dusting Time

The best time for dusting row crops is when the air is still, so that dust does not drift away from the plants, and also to prevent poisons from being distributed on leafy crops growing nearby, which may be ready for harvest.

Dusting in the evening or early morning, when the dew has formed on the plants, usually makes the dust stick well to the plants and gives them good protection. Beans, however, should not be dusted when wet, as any handling spreads some diseases to many healthy plants.

Ancient Instrument

The astrolabe is the most ancient of all navigational instruments. Columbus carried one. Few if any living persons could now operate this device; a skilled shipmaster once used it to take observations of many heavenly objects. Movable discs and pointers made it possible to tell time, compute latitude and perform many other problems with the astrolabe. The instrument hung vertically from the finger of the observer while he was taking his sights.

Steel Statistics

Iron and steel statistics, indicators of the nation's economic welfare in peace or war, prosperity or depression, have been compiled and made public by the American Iron and Steel Institute and its predecessor associations since before the Civil war. One series—the annual production of rails—goes back 95 years to form an unbroken series beginning with 1849, when production of 24,318 tons of iron rails was reported. In 1943 close to 2,000,000 tons of rails were rolled.

HOUSEHOLD MEMOS... by Lynn Chambers

You Can Stretch Meats and Have Delicious Meals

Leftovers need not recline on the refrigerator shelf when you can make them into delicious meat pies like this, simply and easily. Use leftovers from a roast with a few fresh vegetables and gravy to tuck inside the flaky piecrust.

Short on red points at the end of the week? There are several answers to the problem and I'm devoting the column to those suggestions today.

It's a good idea to be smart in your use of leftovers, and this is particularly true if you've splurged at the beginning of the week by purchasing a roast. After using the roast twice, you still have a bit of meat left on the bones, and if you fix it with an eye to camouflage, you can have a savory meal out of it.

Best way of extending meat when there's little enough of that is by using vegetables generously. Cut off what pieces of meat you can find on the bone and combine these with some lovely, fresh-cooked vegetables such as carrots, peas, onions, potatoes and perhaps a few strips of green pepper for flavor. Combine all together with some of your favorite seasonings and tuck the whole mixture into these individual meat pies. In this way, your leftovers won't languish in the refrigerator.

Making Meat Pies. Sift together 2 cups all-purpose flour and 1/4 teaspoon salt. Cut into this 1/2 cup lard with spatula and work until the particles are the size of a small pea. Sprinkle 4 tablespoons water over the mixture, working it lightly with a fork until all the particles are moistened and in small lumps. Press dough into a ball, handling as little as possible. Flour board lightly. Divide pastry in half, roll lightly to an eighth-inch thickness. Using a 3 1/2-inch pie plate, cut circles from pastry.

Cut 1/2-inch wedge from circle to insure better fit into muffin tins. Press the pastry lightly to fit tins and lap over wedge. Fill with meat-vegetable mixture. Roll out remaining dough. Press edges of crust together. Bake in a hot oven (400 degrees) 35 minutes. Remove from tins and serve hot.

Here's a salad that's rich in proteins and can be used to pitch in for the main dish when points are on the slim side:

Green Lima and Bacon Salad. (Serves 5 to 8)

2 cups cooked green lima beans

2 hard-cooked eggs

1/2 cup salted peanuts, chopped

2 teaspoons onion juice

Combine ingredients, add salt and mayonnaise. Serve on crisp lettuce with bits of bacon.

Have you discovered that cold sausage and meat loaves are low in point value and that they go further than the same quantity of fresh meat? And, if you really like a hot dish for a meal, that the cold meats are equally delicious when served hot? You'll like these suggestions:

Bologna Spaghetti.

(Serves 4)

1/2 pound bologna

1/2 cup onion, sliced

1 tablespoon bacon drippings

1 teaspoon salt

1/2 teaspoon allspice

1/2 teaspoon cloves

1/2 teaspoon pepper

1 1/2 cups tomato juice

3 cups cooked spaghetti

Dice 2 slices of bologna in skillet and brown with onion and bacon drippings. Add to this seasonings and tomato juice and simmer until thickened. Add cooked spaghetti and heat thoroughly. Serve with several slices of pan-fried bologna.

*Broiled Liver Sausage and Tomatoes (Serves 4).

1/2 pound liver sausage, sliced

4 large tomatoes, cut in half

8 slices of onion

Cut liver sausage into slices about 1/4 inch thick. Remove casing. Place the slice of liver sausage on the broiling pan with tomatoes that have been cut in salt and brushed with butter, seasoned with salt and pepper. Broil for about 8 minutes. Liver sausage need not be turned. As soon as 4 tomatoes have broiled for about 4 minutes, top them with onion slices, if desired.

Frankfurters With Potato Salad.

(Serves 4 to 6)

1/2 cup bacon drippings

1/4 cup vinegar

1 beaten egg

1 teaspoon salt

1/2 teaspoon pepper

1/2 teaspoon sugar

4 cups cubed, cooked potatoes

1/2 cup chopped green pepper

1/2 cup chopped onion

1/2 pound frankfurters

Heat bacon drippings and add vinegar, egg, salt, pepper, sugar, potatoes, green pepper and onion. Stir until thick. Cover frankfurters with boiling water and allow to stand 7 to 8 minutes. Arrange frankfurters on top of potato salad for serving.

Here's a lovely, luscious dessert that will go with any of the above main dish suggestions. It's easy to make and very nutritious:

Apricot Whip.

(Serves 6 to 8)

1 No. 2 1/2 can apricots

2 cups milk

2 eggs

1/4 cup sugar

1/2 teaspoon salt

1 teaspoon vanilla

Drain apricots. Mash with spoon. Chill. Scald milk. Beat eggs slightly, then add sugar and salt. Add milk slowly, mixing well. Cook in double boiler stirring constantly until mixture coats metal spoon. Take from fire, add vanilla and chill. When ready to serve, fold in chilled, mashed apricots.

Prospective Inductees To Receive Information

A pre-induction informational meeting sponsored by local draft boards and the Office of Civilian Defense will be held Tuesday, August 22 at 7:30 p.m. at the Ann Arbor USO headquarters, Mrs. Sayde H. Power, committee chairman, said in announcing details of a program which is expected to assist prospective inductees and their families to adjust themselves to altered conditions brought about by military service.

Representatives of the Army, Navy, Red Cross, and the University are among the experts who will assist in clarifying problems of military and family relationships. Each expert will be prepared to explain any questions directed to his organization, and everyone who attends will be permitted to ask questions of personal interest. These questions may be prepared in advance and submitted in writing or may be asked from the floor during the question period.

Moving pictures will include the War Department film, "Classification of Enlisted Men," and "Prelude to War," a war-action film of actual battle scenes.

The importance of attendance at pre-induction meetings by men awaiting their call to service was emphasized recently by Lt. General Brehon Somervell, Commanding General, Army Services Forces. "Every prospective soldier," the General said, "should understand the cause for which he is fighting, know what happens at the induction station, reception center, and replacement training center, and be familiar with the opportunities and advantages offered by the Army. With such a background the inductee enters the Army in the right frame of mind, and the job of training him is less difficult."

Approval is also given to the pre-induction information program by the Navy. Of it, Rear Admiral Randall Jacobs, Chief of Navy Personnel, says: "The conditions of this war demand that Navy recruits be trained for sea duty with a maximum of speed and efficiency. Any program which helps to familiarize them with the nature of Navy life and Navy discipline in advance of induction is a valuable contribution to the Navy's war effort."

Clean Babushka

One babushka can be made to last all winter if it is given an occasional wash. As most of them are made of soft wool, either woven or knitted, they should be laundered gently. A few dunks in lukewarm suds, a couple of rinses, and the job is done. The knit headgear should be dried flat. The triangles and squares of woven material may be hung on a line or rod. Press lightly when dry.

Sedimentary Rock
Composed chiefly of carbon, coal is a sedimentary rock formed from decayed vegetable matter. It generally is believed that coal originated in swamps similar to present peat bogs, near the sea level and subject to repeated submergence. In decomposing it became peat; oxygen and hydrogen were eliminated to a greater extent than carbon. Metamorphosis or a change of form which was due in some extent to pressure, resulted in lignite and coal.

Seriously, though, this battalion has done right well by itself without too many casualties, which is something to be thankful for. Guess I told you about my getting the purple heart and bronze star medal. Well, I've added an oak leaf cluster to the first one recently. Got a nick in the neck when I led my bunch into Rome. No, nothing serious; as a matter of fact, I didn't pay too much attention to it. So far, so good.

I hate to repeat things over and over in various letters so I won't go into the story of my trailer home. I told Bruno all about it so I'm sure he'll pass it on. It's really some story and you'd get a bang out of it, I'm sure. I managed to pick up a good camera while in Rome and think I'll be able to make pretty good use of it. It's a Voigtlander, made in Germany.

You might keep in mind that I am planning on buying a home somewhere in Michigan after the war. Now I've really written more than I thought I would this time. Funny how you can ramble on at times isn't it? Consequently I've run out of things to say and must bid you adieu much as I hate to. So, take care of yourselves, say hello to all of the boys and the people back home, and God bless you all.

Lots of love,

Announcements
Loyalty Chapter will meet Aug. 31 at the home of Mrs. Leon Chapman for a picnic luncheon at one o'clock. All ladies of the church are invited. Rolls and winners will be furnished. Bring dish to pass and table service. If transportation is desired, call Mrs. Wm. Geddes or Mrs. A. D. Baldwin. The WRC will hold their monthly meeting on Monday, August 21. Please bring package for a soldier. Remember the Notten reunion at Clear Lake on Saturday, August 26. Dinner at noon.

Avoid Congestion
The driver can do a lot to increase safety by exercising some choice and judgment concerning his trip if that is permitted. If he knows that the employees going to and from a large industrial plant will be crowding the street in a certain location, he can avoid that place at a very closely controlled schedule.

Grows Profusely
The carnauba is one of numerous palm trees which grow by countless millions in the tropical, semi-arid reaches of northeastern Brazil. The graceful, straight-trunked palm grows slowly, attaining an average height of 25 to 35 feet. It has a rough, scaly bark. Fan-shaped leaves spread out to give the crown of the palm a pinwheel appearance.
