Seiss—molded the first empire of the world with this region as a center—how they ruled from India to Greece and from the Caucasus Mts. in the north to the Nile River in the south—how Cyrus conquered and overran the Babylonian Kingdom and released the Israelites from their captivity—how the same Cyrus took Daniel, the Biblical Prophet, into his court and later cast him to the lions—how Esther became the beloved wife and Queen of King Anasuerus and as a consequence saved the Persian Jewry from the projected program of the arch-villain Heman—how Alexander the Great marched triumphantly through this region 300 years before Christ was born and how one night, as a consequence of particularly hard drinking, he burned to the ground, the Noble Palaces that the Great Persian kings had created to stand as lasting memorials to the power and glory. Of these events you have only read, but to the evidence of these events I have access for the ruins of this once great civilization surround me.

At Sheesh—the ancient Seesa—is the tomb of Daniel, the site of the Queen Esther story and the remains of Alexander's occupation. There history can be traced 6000 years. At Persepolis are the great and still magnificent ruins of the Palaces of the Kings—at Hamadan is the tomb of Queen Esther and her loyal Uncle Merdechai. But more than the remains of things long dead, are the ever present reminders of a civilization destroyed long ago.

It has been my fortune to visit and see a few of these ever-present reminders and by describing the scenes in these places. I can't give a true enough picture, but I can try. You have no doubt seen "slums" in the States, and heard about the "Okies"—the poor Whites and Negroes in the South. I can honestly say that I have never seen nor had I expected to see filth and such degradation of the human race as I have seen since our arrival here. Going from town to town, what may seem to be a bundle of rags cast off by the side of the road will move and prove itself a human form. The poorer natives and they are the poorest of the poor—are merely chunks of flesh, covered with tatters, their features and their bodies marred by festering sores of every disease known to man. Disease flourishes here in all its vicious forms. Along with the festering sores—typhus, cholera, malaria, small-pox—all the diseases that are bred of filth, flourish right alongside. Not only are the natives dirty but they naturally contribute to the atmosphere of the city as well. Even if a soldier were blind, he could sense that he was in a Persian town by the smell. One couldn't describe that smell—it is a mixture of every disgusting and evil odor in the world. The brush of the natives against you in the "Bazaar" makes it necessary to bathe with a good strong soap or else carry the odor along with you. It is like a thick syrup that floats through the air, sticking to everything and contaminating all. Our unpleasant odors back in the States seem fresh and clean odors in comparison to the prevalent ones in the towns over here.

But there is beauty in Iran, more than that, even amidst all the filth and ugliness that exists here the people have an innate sense of beauty and an appreciation of the beautiful. One needs only to pass through the "Bazaar" to see this. The varied colors of the material—the merchants' stalls, the colorful paintings done with exquisite charm, craftsmanship, and as it seems to us broad-minded Americans; native. The silver work when it is done well can hardly be surpassed anywhere in the world. And you have heard of the famed Persian rugs. We have seen them and can only say that it is necessary to look upon them with your own eyes and feel them with your own fingers to really appreciate their beauty and delicacy. Each province of rug making—from Bakharra to Kermanshah to Tabris has its own characteristics—and each province produces fine pieces. Art and craftsmanship in Persia is not a passing fad—though it is a truth that there have been periods in the past when Persian art reached much higher peaks of excellence, the real art of Persia today is nothing to sneeze at.

Comparable to the beauty produced by the man is that which God has placed here. It is true that there are barren deserts almost as hot in the summer as "Hades" is said to be, and it is true that many of the once great forests have passed into building lumber and food for parasites. Yet, there remains the great ranges of mountains that almost completely encircle the central part of Iran, forming the great Iranian plateaus. These mountains viewed from the level of the desert are truly monarchs standing in all their dignity and power. Snow-capped the year around and with their steep-rising cliffs they guard the heart of the ancient kingdom.

Not to be forgotten are the flower gardens that one can see almost anywhere. The Persians are great lovers of flowers—almost as great as their love for wine and rest. One can see that love is in the constant repetition of the flower-motifs in all forms of decoration. Flower gardens are a natural growth from that love of flowers in particular with no end of beauty in general. In these gardens, the flowers grown in a profusion of colors—orange marigolds and nasturtiums, combined with pink and purple petunias, with larkspur, asters, a ripe old age. I'm still hanging on. Now folks, I hope and trust you receive this and that I shall hear from some of the new gang as well as the old gang. I trust everything is going along swell and anytime the man is in doubt on something he seeks the advice of the old man who is everyday. For the past couple of weeks they would fast all day, then feast and revel at night. One day a year they settle their differences. They really beat hell out of one another yesterday. They do not eat pork and detest the pigs and boars. If you want to hurt what pride they have all you have to do is call them a "Son-of-a-pig." Bet I fooled some of you there—huh? Their costumes are quaint and hard for us to understand some of the meanings. The women folk of the natives do not have any privileges. They work hard and long, they walk while the men ride. Once in a while one sees the tables turned but not often. Women have no part in politics. They have many children who sometimes are cute but inherit the filth and disease which have preceded them. Pitiful, yes, but nothing one can do for them.

We all have a job to do and yours

Marriage customs take the cake. A boy has to be 18, the girl 16, but they can marry younger with the parents' consent. Just imagine and me a married man, but wait a minute, that's all taken care of—if a man can support two wives he can have them, providing the first wife consents. A wife cannot get a divorce but the husband can. All he has to do is take his wife, bag and baggage, take her by the hand and take her to some stream, pick up a rock, show it to his wife and tell her "Here you go." He then throws the rock so it skims along the water. He is then divorced from her. Simple, huh? Such a thing as the baby crying at night disturbs a man's sleep and this can't be, so the little wife has to keep baby quiet. Here's how she does it. She feeds the baby opium. You see, that's legal here for the natives. A large percentage of them are addicts to this drug and they start from baby days. I'm glad I'm an American. A new baby has two strikes on it, before it enters the world. If I remember the statistics right, three out of five die before they attain the age of seven. 27 or 28 is a ripe old age. I'm still hanging on.

Now folks, I hope and trust you receive this and that I shall hear from some of the new gang as well as the old gang. I trust everything is going along swell and anytime the man is in doubt on something he seeks the advice of the old man who is everyday. For the past couple of weeks they would fast all day, then feast and revel at night. One day a year they settle their differences. They really is just as vital as ours over here. If it were not for you over there we would be useless and helpless over here. Any job worth doing is worth doing well. We'll uphold our end here and I'm sure you'll more than do that over there 'cause—no woofn—we'll be a very happy bunch when we are back over there in the fold again. The best of everything to you and yours from all of us over here. So long for now. Cpl. Lloyd Alexander.

"Christmas Mailing Month" September 15 to October 15

Packages mailed during "Christmas Mailing Month" should reach their destination by Christmas Day.

Packages should weigh no more than five pounds and have combined length, width and depth of not more than 36 inches.

CAN you ever forget THAT Christmas... the candle-light shining through the "estamine" windows... the caissons creaking on the frozen, rutted roads, their horses steaming in the falling snow... a little voice that said, "Joyeux Noel, soldat Americain"... "Silent Night" alternating with "K-K-K-Katy" from the Y-hut... and over all, the great Star of Christmas shining clear above the fitful lightning that marked our lines up on the Somme—That was a Christmas far away—a Christmas "Somewhere in France." A time for memories as lonely boys thought of home.

This year once more our boys will spend Christmastime in the battered towns of France and elsewhere, sleeping in the same billets, perhaps walking the same roads their fathers trod. Like their dads in 1917, like their present-day buddies on forty different battlefronts, their hearts will ache for a tangible reminder of home... a letter, a gift sent with your love. Like their dads before them, they'll be hoping that NEXT Christmas will see them home again.

We know there is no need to tell you to remember your soldier or sailor with a gift for Christmas, wherever he may be. This is just to remind you that December 25th is just around the corner for our men overseas. And so we urge you to do your shopping now, choosing each gift with loving care and sending it off to its destination as quickly as possible because it may take a long time to get there.

Organize For Food—Agriculture

An international authority that would provide international agricultural credit is one of the proposals of the United Nations Interim Commission on food and agriculture in its report recommending that a food and agriculture organization of the United Nations be set up. The FAO, proposed to 44 Governments for their acceptance, grew out of the United Nations Food Conference in June, 1943. Other functions the FAO would include are—to collect, interpret and disseminate information relating to food, nutrition and agriculture, to recommend action with regard to research, education, administration, conservation, agricultural production, processing, marketing and distribution of agricultural products to furnish Governments with requested technical assistance.

Davis Asks Tools for Fighters

Speaking by radio from Honolulu, Hawaii, after his return from Saipan and Guam, Elmer Davis, Director of the Office of War Information, cautioned the American people that while American Generals and Admirals "have out-thought the Japs as our rank and file have out-fought them afloat and ashore and in the air—our fighting men need stuff to fight with, stuff we must go on producing at home in ample quantity no matter what may happen elsewhere, no matter how we might like to get back to the familiar ways of peace—our fighting men out here have written a record of which every American ought to be proud. Give them tools and see that the tools get to them over thousands of miles of land and sea and they'll finish the job."

McNutt-Nelson On Reconversion

In a joint statement on the reconversion from War Production to Civilian Production, Donald M. Nelson, Chairman of the War Production Board, and Paul V. McNutt, Chairman of the War Manpower Commission, declared that "wherever labor and material are available which are not needed in, or cannot be made available for, War Production they should be employed in civilian production" and that planning "should go forward so that, as employment in War Production ends, jobs in civilian production can be readily found."

Plan School Lunch Program Now

Before school opens communities should plan their school lunch program, the War Food Administration says. First step is to organize parents, teachers and representatives of civic organizations to discuss the number of children to participate and facilities and financial assistance available. If the group finds the community is unable to act or is without financial assistance, the official sponsor, usually the board of education or the State Department of Education, may appeal to WFA's Office of Distribution. A federal fund of 50 million dollars is available for the school lunch program during the 1944-45 school year, funds to be used exclusively for food purchases.

HONORED AT FAREWELL

Mrs. Anna Storms entertained twenty-six guests at a farewell surprise at her home on Saturday evening, honoring Mr. and Mrs. Everett Heaton, who plan to move to Detroit in the near future. Dinner was served at seven o'clock, all the guests being seated at one long table which was covered with a lace cloth and decorated with attractive arrangements of yellow daisies and white phlox.

Following the dinner a piano solo was rendered by Mrs. P. M. Broesamle, and Rev. E. R. Major favored with two vocal solos. A gift from the group was presented to Mr. and Mrs. Heaton by Rev. Major.

Out of town guests were Mrs. Robert Darnison and son Roger, Max and David Davey, and Helen Lord, all of Detroit.

Mr. and Mrs. Heaton moved from Detroit to the Grabbill farm about a year and a half ago. They sold the farm to Mr. and Mrs. E. I. Gaunt and the house will be occupied by Mr. and Mrs. John A. Glick and family.

GUILD PICNIC A SUCCESS

The picnic held Sunday, August 20 at Strub's grove, Clear Lake, by Sylvan and Lima Local 254, Michigan Farmers' Guild, was a big success. With ideal picnic weather, approximately 150 members and friends were seated at a basket dinner, served cafeteria style, with others coming later to spend the afternoon.

Following the dinner a short talk was given by Prof. A. E. Boak of the University of Michigan on "The History of the Farmer" and the relation the prosperity of the farmer had on the prosperity of the nation. Harry Atchinson of Salem, state president of the Guild, commented an approval on the remarks made by Prof. Boak and spoke on the steady growth of the Guild.

The sports committee provided several contests for young and old, with prizes for the winners, followed by a game of softball, and swimming.

By GENE ALLEMAN

"Of surpassing interest, scarcely second to that of Mackinac itself." As voiced by Harry H. Whiteley, chairman of the Michigan state conservation commission and publisher of the Dowagiac Daily News at Dowagiac, such is the historical significance of old Fort Drummond on Drummond island, the topic of last week's Michigan-Mirror in this newspaper. The British fort, which was manned by 350 to 400 red-coated soldiers for 18 years after the War of 1812, has been shamefully neglected for 116 years by both federal and state governments. Its location is unmarked today by even a simple historical tablet, in sharp contrast to the care given by the Dominion of Canada to old Fort St. Joseph on St. Joseph Island nearby. A summer resorter had nailed a board to a tree to indicate the British military cemetery at Fort Drummond!

BONDS OVER AMERICA

Children by the hundreds have climbed on to the knees of the Bard, and roamed the English Garden. Lincoln Park is the setting for this likeness. William Orndway Partridge was the sculptor.

Shakespeare in Chicago

England, a children's hospital was recently the blind target of Nazi robot bombs—bombs propelled to cause terror and confusion.

For the Future—Buy War Bonds

These facts, recorded bluntly here last week, were the result of an incidental visit to Drummond island by the president and manager of the Michigan Press association.

They brought an instant response from Mr. Whiteley of the state conservation commission who wrote:

"I am glad the Michigan Press association is reviving this Drummond island restoration project. At various times during the past years many persons, including our department, have tried to interest the public in it. It is an important matter to me. I have written and spoken on it many times. I am intimately acquainted with the history of this post and find it of surpassing interest, scarcely second to that of Mackinac itself.

"Any groups that underwrite this restoration will be entitled to the undying gratitude of those who cherish the history and traditions of their country. The department will be only too happy to be an agency in any such effort."

Dr. Madison Kuhn, East Lansing, president of the State Historical Society of Michigan, declared that the newspapers of the state had started something. "I hope they will succeed," he concluded. We quote from his letter:

"The description of your visit to Drummond island accelerated my plans to visit the ground that the British thought was theirs. The State Historical Society still expects to hold one of its meetings on Drummond. The war's curtailment of travel forced the postponement of that inspection.

"The fort and its surroundings should not continue unkept and unmarked. Its remains must be saved, its debris must be removed, and its significance must be explained.

"Drummond island has been off the beaten path but the coming expansion of air travel should make it an accessible monument. The State Aeronautical Board contemplates a Class 2 airport. The state conservation commission is engaged in the restoration of just such relics. The Michigan Historical society will renew its erection of commemorative markers when bronze is again available."

Dr. Kuhn expressed a hope that the state conservation department could be provided with sufficient funds to acquire the land and to restore the old Fort as Fort Mackinac and Fort Wilkins have been preserved and restored. Fort Mackinac is maintained by a state park commission, while Fort Wilkins is preserved by the conservation department as an adjunct to its state park at Copper Harbor.

Mid-way between Drummond island and the village of DeTour, on the mainland, is the DeTour reef lighthouse, a tall concrete-steel "isle" rising 74 feet above the level of Lake Huron. This lighthouse is maintained by the U. S. Coast Guard as a beacon and guide for the long ore boats which travel up and down the St. Mary's River in an endless procession from early spring until early winter.

Charles Jones, coast guard civilian employee since 1922, is its "proud keeper."

Climbing up a steel ladder along a 20-foot concrete wall, we greeted Jones and for 30 minutes the place was "ours." We ascended to the top and marveled at an intricately-made French prism in a revolving beacon, powered by only a 500-watt bulb, which reflects a finger of light visible 19 miles away.

We shook-hands with Jones' helpers—Tom Brander, John Schrader and Bernard Rozmarynowski. The place was as spick and span as a Dutch housewife's kitchen.

Running a lighthouse is a steady chore. You are on duty four hours, off duty four hours, throughout the day and night. You are allowed five days' liberty each month. Uncle Sam throws in the air-conditioning free, for there's always a fine breeze and rarely a mosquito, although plenty of flies and spiders.

Each man in this lighthouse cooks his own meals. Radio reception is good, as the station serves as a radio beacon for lake shipping and the government has installed super-super equipment, the best that money can buy.

During fogs an air-compressed horn moans incessantly. "But you get used to it," opined Jones, the keeper, "although it does get a bit monotonous after a day or two."

We had just left old Fort Drummond, once teeming with activity of some 350 to 400 red-coated British soldiers from 1815 to 1828. In their first winter there, following evacuation of Fort Mackinac to the Americans, many soldiers died from scurvy due to improper diet.

A week's rations in the winter of 1815-16 consisted of four pounds of salt pork, six ounces of rice, six ounces of butter (usually rancid because of its age), seven pounds of flour and three pints of dried peas. Hardly a vitamin in the batch!

Little wonder then that Lt. Col. McDonall, British commanding officer, dispatched an appeal to Fort Mackinac for food and medical supplies. The Americans responded with generosity, sending along an army surgeon for good measure.

Gazing out upon blue Lake Huron, we recalled how over these same waters once traveled the birch-bark canoes of Indians to Fort Drummond. Today the long slender ore boats—some of them valued at $2,000,000 each—set their course up and down the DeTour passage of the St. Mary's river by the radio beacon, revolving light and fog horn of the DeTour lighthouse.

Thus the new follows the old—like life itself.

Yet the new acquires additional value and significance when it is contrasted with the old. Such is the simple lesson taught by history.

Old Fort Drummond, now disappearing into the earth, should be acquired by the State of Michigan and restored to its original glory. The last British fort in Michigan during the days when two nations were struggling for supremacy of the Indian fur trade of the Great Lakes.

CELEBRATE 25TH ANNIVERSARY Celebrating the twenty-fifth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Truman Lehmann of Francisco, a dinner was served on Sunday at 1:30 in the basement of Salem Grove church. Covers were laid for 60 relatives from Detroit, Jackson, Grass Lake, Waterloo and Chelsea.

Bands of silver formed appropriate table decorations, while crystal candlesticks held white tapers tied with silver bells.

"Blest Be the Tie That Binds" and "Let Me Call You Sweetheart" were sung by the assembly in opening the afternoon program, which was rendered as follows:

Reading—"The Wedding" — Mrs. William Henry Lehmann. Reading—"A Hubby's Housework" — Mrs. Walter Bohne. Remarks—Rev. Lewis Green. Reading—"Old Fashioned Parents" — Mrs. Clarence Lehmann. Reading—"Perpetual Motion" — Herbert Harvey.

Duet—"When I Grow Too Old To Dream"—Mrs. Walter Bohne, Mrs. Wilbur Beeman. Remarks of appreciation by Mr. and Mrs. Lehmann.

Yesterday
Although full many years have flown,
It seems like yesterday,
As retrospective glance is thrown,
On living sad and gay.
The days way back in district school,
The days upon the farm.
For moment now they memory rule,
In recollection warm.
The father-mother-and the home,
The old familiar place.
The evenings in the dusky gloom,
Time never can erase.
The days when preparations o'er,
You stepped into the world,
To face the battle's din and roar,
With banner bright unfurled.
The failures and the triumphs strong,
Which you met on the way.
The sadness and the joyous song—
It seems like yesterday.
The thought of romance fresh and sweet,
That came along your path.
Of her you were destined to meet,
No finer memory hath.
They all come crowding back again,
As old lights 'round them play—
So bright it seems that they have been Brought out of yesterday.

*Recipe Given
A platter with corn on the cob and fresh, sliced tomatoes.
English Baked Squash. (Serves 6)
1 quart peeled, thinly sliced Hubbard squash
1/2 teaspoon salt
4 tablespoons sugar
1/2 cup rich cream
1 teaspoon cinnamon
Place squash in well-greased baking dish. Sprinkle with salt and sugar. Add cream and sprinkle with cinnamon. Bake covered in a slow (325-degree) oven for about 60 minutes.
Another vegetable comes in for honors—and very different but delicious is this dish, too!
Sour Cream Cabbage. (Serves 5 to 6)
1 head of cabbage
2 tablespoons butter
1 clove garlic
1/2 cup sour cream
1 tablespoon vinegar
1 tablespoon sugar
1 teaspoon salt
1 egg
Shred the head of cabbage medium fine. Heat the butter in skillet and cook in it slowly the clove of garlic, minced fine. Add cabbage and 1/2 cup water. Cover lightly. Bring to a quick steam, reduce heat and cook for 10 more minutes. Just before removing from range, add sour cream sauce made by mixing together the sour cream, vinegar, sugar, salt and egg beaten light.
Four over cabbage and bring to a quick boil. Serve at once.
Here's a spaghetti dish that has a fall tang to it, and is excellent served with fried eggplant and apricot upside-down cake.
Sausages and Spaghetti. (Serves 6)
8 link sausages
1 small onion, sliced
1 green pepper, chopped
1 1/2 teaspoons salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
2 tablespoons flour
2 1/2 cups tomatoes
1 1/2 cups spaghetti, cooked
Cut sausages in inch lengths; fry until golden brown. Add onion and green pepper and brown lightly. Add seasonings and flour and blend. Add tomatoes and spaghetti. Bake in a greased baking dish in moderate (350-degree) oven 30 minutes.
*Caramel Cinnamon Muffins. (Makes 1 1/2 dozen 2-inch muffins)
2 cups sifted flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon salt
1 egg
3 tablespoons light corn syrup or honey
1 cup milk
3 tablespoons melted shortening
Sift together flour, baking powder, cinnamon and salt. Beat egg, add syrup, milk and shortening. Blend thoroughly and add to flour mixture. Stir only until flour is moistened. Bake in a moderately hot oven (425 degrees) 20 minutes. Prepare muffin pans as follows for these muffins: Into each muffin cup, put 1/2 teaspoon butter or margarine and 1 teaspoon corn syrup. Fill with batter 1/2 of an inch full.

Harvest Foods
Late summer is the truck gardener's paradise, and this summer we might well say the Victory gardener's paradise, for there are many gay and attractive foods ripening now which may make a truly appetizing appearance on your table.
There's also golden-eared, tender sweet corn, at its best when picked, not more than half an hour before eating. And one of the most dramatic vegetables to do justice to fall dinners is the eggplant—smooth, deep purple and shiny in appearance.
Most of you are undoubtedly familiar with eggplant served sliced and fried—and there's no doubt it's good that way. But for a change, try it baked with a savory stuffing and make it a main-dish feature of your dinner. The total cooking time for preparing it in this new way is only 35 minutes—10 minutes for boiling the eggplant in rapidly boiling water, and then 25 minutes baking in a moderate oven.
*Stuffed Eggplant. (Serves 6 to 8)
1 eggplant
1 cup bread croutons
4 strips bacon, cut in squares
1 tablespoon onion, minced
1 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1 egg
Cook whole eggplant in boiling water for 10 minutes. Cut lengthwise, slice from top of eggplant.
Remove pulp with a spoon, leaving a substantial shell. Chop pulp. Add croutons. Fry bacon. Brown onion in bacon fat. Add to eggplant pulp. Add the egg and season with salt and pepper. Fill eggplant shell with the mixture and top with the following:
Corn Flake Crumb Topping.
2 cups corn flakes
1 egg yolk
1/2 teaspoon dry mustard
1 teaspoon lemon juice
1/4 teaspoon salt
Paprika
Butter
Roll corn flakes to fine crumbs, combine with egg yolk, mustard, lemon juice and salt. Cover stuffed eggplant with crumb mixture, dot with butter and sprinkle with paprika. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for 25 minutes. Serve on
Lynn Says:
Color in Your Meals: Do you realize that your eyes eat that food before you actually eat it yourself? If food looks dull and unattractive, your appetite lags and the food, if eaten is consumed without much relish.
The eye wants contrast. Pick foods that go well together. You can serve several green vegetables for one meal, but not several all-white vegetables or all-red.
Combine meat and vegetables on one platter to get a design and save plates besides! Use garnishes with care and give them an opportunity to bring out the most in your foods.
Sprinkle beets with a little lemon juice to make them a more intense red. Cook green vegetables only until done to assure them of being crisp, green.
A dash of lemon juice on apples, pears or other fresh fruit will prevent it from darkening.

Report Says Farm Land Sales Set Record In 1943
"More farm land changed hands in Michigan in 1943 than in any previous year on record," the Michigan Planning commission was informed Friday, Aug. 19, in a report presented by Dean E. L. Anthony, Michigan State College; P. J. Hoffmaster, director, Michigan state department of conservation, and Howard Nugent, speaker of the Michigan house of representatives, members of the commission's agricultural committee.
The agricultural committee recommended appointment of a special advisory committee to make a further study of farm land prices and to recommend possible legislative controls.
"About half of the land was purchased by city buyers," the report added. "Farm land prices are rising more rapidly now than at any time during World War I. Many farms are now being sold at prices higher than their long-time earning power justifies."
In the opinion of the agricultural committee Michigan needed "effective measures to control land speculation and prevent further inflation of land values."
Present farm prices are only 13 per cent less than the peak established in 1920, the committee warned. One of the reasons for the land boom is the present high level of farm commodities prices, 50 per cent higher than the 1910-39 average, while net farm income in the United States last year was two and one-half times the 1910-39 average. The high income of city workers also has increased the demand for land.
Other recommendations of the committee dealt with disposal by the federal government of surplus war property including tractors, bulldozers, jeeps and other equipment useable in clearing land and drainage, and also the payment by the federal government of revenues to local governmental units to offset loss of tax revenues from forest and rural lands acquired by federal agencies.
Six Rules for Writing
Edward Everett Hale, famed author of "The Man Without a Country," had six rules for writing, which would be hard to improve:
1. Know what you want to say.
2. Say it.
3. Use your own language.
4. Leave out all the fine passages.
5. A short word is better than a long one.
6. The fewer words the better.
Increase Insurance
American families increased their aggregate holdings of life insurance by $9,700,000,000 during 1943, the largest gain in family protection ever recorded for a single year.

Seed Production
For maximum seed production from the second crop, the first cutting of red clover hay should be made early.
Life Insurance
The 68,000,000 policyholders of the United States now own $139,000,000,000 of life insurance.

Here is the chance to start and work up in the postal service. Under wartime regulations any appointment made now will necessarily be for the duration and six months thereafter, after which the conventional civil service examination must be passed by a grade sufficiently high to include the incumbent within the three highest standings at that time in order to obtain a permanent classified civil service position.

THANK YOU
I wish to express my sincere thanks to the neighbors, friends and relatives for their many acts of kindness while I was a patient in the hospital and since my return home.

Cooking Eggs
Never cook eggs in boiling water. Bring the water to a boil and use a low or moderate temperature whether the eggs are to be soft, medium or firm.

Safetygrams
Always, Mr. Motorist, pay attention to emergency warning signals. Do you know what they are? If you do, do you heed them?
The red flare or pot torch, set in the road warns you that a driver is in trouble. It is a caution to you to reduce your speed and drive carefully as you pass him. Construction workers also use these flares or torches to warn of road repairs and road crews who need protection.
Another emergency warning signal is the siren. Whenever you hear a siren, drive your car to the curb or to the shoulder of the road immediately, so that you will not block the roadway.

Many times I have seen drivers ignore the warning of the siren on a fire truck, ambulance, or police car. They seemed more interested in "racing" the emergency vehicle to the scene of the fire or accident, instead of allowing it free passage.
Observe these warning signals. Protect your own life as well as the lives of others.
