Fourth Band Concert To Honor Labor Class

The fourth Saturday evening concert to be given by the Chelsea High School Band will be played as a tribute to the labor class, which has been one of the big reasons that the European war was drawn to a close so decisively. It is obvious that without the needed guns, bullets, bombs, planes, ships and food for the fighting men, that this war could not have been carried to a successful conclusion, and that is where Labor has so valiantly taken its place as one of the immortal forces during this war.

For the past four Saturday evenings, threats of rain have been evinced, but nothing short of a shower itself will prevent the staging of the concert. Members of the band in charge of equipment for the summer are Lyle Christwell, Danny Maroney and Raymond Steinbach. Their responsibility is to see that all chairs, music stands, and other equipment is transported to the corner designated for the concert. Eunice Lehman is the secretary of the band for the summer and she takes charge of the attendance, checking and notifying absentees.

These concerts have been made possible by the efforts of the Band Parents' association, of which Tom Smith is the president. Mrs. Christwell has been in charge of the committee which raised the funds for the concerts. In the next issue of The Standard more details concerning the raising of these funds will be made available.

Thirtieth Annual State 4-H Show To Be Sept. 3-5

Michigan's 30th annual State 4-H Club Show will be held at Michigan State college September 3, 4 and 5. A. G. Ketunen, state 4-H club leader announces.

Plans are now being completed for a show that will exceed all others in number of exhibits. The livestock section in particular will be larger this year, with additional tents and buildings secured to house the animals. Last year 1,123 head of livestock were shown.

This year's show starts the day following Labor Day, and will be compressed into three days instead of four, but this is not expected to detract from the interest.

The annual 4-H show is the feature event of the year for club members and leaders, climaxing their efforts of the preceding 12 months. It represents the work and achievement of approximately 50,000 boys and girls and more than 7,000 local leaders.

All phases of club work will be represented in the exhibits, which are selected in each county as being typical of the work of the several clubs. Included will be farm and home convenience articles, canning, clothing, baking, achievement booths, flowers, crops, garden exhibits, and livestock and poultry of all kinds.

Additional funds were appropriated during last year's legislative session to finance the event, with $18,000, or $2,000 more than in previous years, being provided. Of this sum $14,000 will go for premiums to exhibitors placing in the show.

The night program, scheduled for Tuesday night in the college stadium, and the sale of beef steers, fat lambs and market pigs the final day, will be highlights.

EXCITEMENT AT CAVANAUGH

Cavanaugh-Lake trailer park was the scene of considerable excitement on Sunday when six men from Jackson and Michigan Center became involved in an argument which ended in a free-for-all in which at least two of them were slashed by a 72-year-old man from Jackson. The injured men were hospitalized, and the wiper of the knife was taken to the county jail.

TO ATTEND TRAINING SCHOOL

Arthur Paul and David Longworth have been chosen by the local Rod and Gun club to attend the Conservation Training School to be held at Roscommon, on Higgins Lake, from August 6 to 11.

A new company, to be known as the Chelsea Implement Co., has been organized by Stanley Beal, local garage owner, and Dean Willis, of Grass Lake. This new company has the agency for the complete line of International Harvester Co. farm implements, tractors and trucks.

According to Mr. Beal, construction of a new building to house the business will start within the next two weeks on the three-acre tract of land recently purchased of Fred Hinderer, located about one mile south of Chelsea on M-92.

This building, of modernistic design, will be a cement block and steel structure, 66x90 ft., and will contain a display room, service shop, and a wash and paint room. In addition to the sales and service of the International line, all makes of tractors and implements will be serviced.

Fred Dieterle of Ypsilanti will be the general contractor in charge of construction, and will employ mostly local labor. It is planned to have the building ready for occupancy in November.

When completed this will be one of the finest farm implement outlets in the state, and should provide a real service to farmers in the Chelsea territory.

Mr. Beal is well known in this community, having operated the Buick and Oldsmobile service garage, Jackson street, for the past twelve years. He will have charge of the service branch in the new business, and Mr. Willis will be in charge of sales.

Those enlisting now may attend a week's camp training period at Grayling, from August 11 to 18, with pay. Troops called at any time for emergency duty are paid while serving.

Anyone interested in enlisting should contact members of Company G while they are in Chelsea on Saturday.

Special Vesper Service Held At Cassidy Camp

Vesper services at Cassidy Lake Camp were conducted Sunday by Paul F. (Jerry) Niehaus, assisted by Mrs. Niehaus. Mr. Niehaus, who is always popular with the men of the camp, provided Scripture readings, and in addition sang several solo selections. Mrs. Niehaus, at the piano, also obliged with a solo, and together with Mr. Niehaus sang duets.

While the group was smaller than usual, appreciation was high, and many men who found themselves unable to attend, expressed regret at having missed another opportunity to enjoy the presence of Mr. and Mrs. Niehaus.

Sunday Vesper services at Cassidy Lake are arranged by the Rev. W. H. Skentelbury of Chelsea, who provides for a speaker each Sunday, as well as special music on many occasions. The camp wishes to express appreciation to Rev. Skentelbury for his spirit of cooperation.

Glycerine Removes Stains

Professional spotters often use glycerine and water in removing some stains. Glycerine is what is known as a "lubricant" — that is,
it helps to loosen the stain from the fabric, thereby making complete removal easier. However, the professional's skill is in large measure responsible for the usefulness of this agent. Furthermore, here again it is a question of whether or not the garment will stand water.

By GENE ALLEMAN

The decision of Governor Harry F.
Kelly to retire from public service at the end of his second term, Dec. 31
of next year, is an indirect compliment to the courage and logic of Michigan's senior United States senator, Arthur H. Vandenberg.In 1941 Kelly was concluding his second term as secretary of state at Lansing. Prentiss M. Brown was finishing an elective term in the United States senate at Washington. A strong figure and an accepted leader of the Roosevelt administration, Brown had piloted the controversial price control bill through Congress and in so doing had incurred ill-will of the powerful farm bloc. Yet his independence had prompted him to vote against the administration on several occasions. He was a formidable opponent.Kelly wanted to become a candidate for the Senate.But he had not reckoned with the Michigan Republican party which was seeking a leader to vanquish the Vandenberg regime. Result: Kelly was "drafted" to oppose Van Wagoner,
and Homer Ferguson became the Republican nominee to battle Brown. At the November election, 1942, Kelly's plurality was 72,021; Ferguson's plurality was 28,087.The second possible opportunity for Kelly to serve in the U. S. Senate would be 1946 when the term of Vandenburg would terminate.One year ago the former Grand Rapids newspaper editor was confronted with the necessity of making an important decision. Should he straddle the fence on the issue of American participation in postwar security? Should he oppose such action? Should he advocate our membership in a world league whereby American troops might be dispatched abroad, at the call of the President, to dispell aggression at its beginning?Many politicians would have chosen the first of the three courses, and by so doing steered a middle course between the "isolationists" and the "internationalists" — to apply old labels of our pre-war thinking.It is matter of record that Vandenburg chose the most difficult course of the three. He switched his thinking completely, and instead of advocating insularity or isolationism, he proclaimed the need for American responsibility in world peace as the best way to safeguard the home front from another world war.Vandenberg's courage came from the following logic, as he presented it to colleagues in the United States senate only a few weeks ago following his return from San Francisco:"While I want a powerful Army and an invincible Navy to make our national defense as impregnable as possible, pending the time when mutual arms limitations can be made dependably effective, I believe that no nation can hereafter immunize itself by its own exclusive action.""I say again, as I said on January 10, that since Pearl Harbor, World War II has put the cruel science of mass murder into new and sinister perspective. I say again that the occurs have ceased to be moats which automatically protect our ramparts. I say again that flesh and blood now confronts us with winged steel.
"War has become an all-consuming juggernaut. I say again that if World War III ever unhappily arrives, it will open new laboratories of death too horrible to contemplate.
I say again that I propose to do ev-

She Wrote Swell Letters—But!

everything within my power to keep those laboratories closed for keeps;
and, Mr. President, they must be kept closed all round the earth because neither time nor space any longer promises to shield the victims of treacherous attack. We must have collective security to stop the next war, if possible, before it starts; andwe must have collective action to crush it swiftly if it starts in spite of our organized precautions."With the Michigan casualty lists still long and many stars on Michigan
service flags already turned to golden, Vandenberg's logic has the force of atidal wave. It is running too strong even for Governor Kelly.We do not imply that Kelly's decision was predicated solely on the new strength of the Michigan senior senator, for such would be an injustice and oversimplification of a complicated situation. But it was an important factor.Highway Commissioner Charles S.
Ziegler's latest tilt with the state civil service commission gives him a current victory in a long-fought contest with Andrew Coleman, former state ferry captain at St. Ignace. Because Coleman is said to have left his boat
without permission, Ziegler fired him;
Coleman appealed to the state supreme court. The court also ordered Ziegler to put the captain back to work, but Ziegler asked the court to review its decision. The court's latest decision reverses itself, holding that the civil service commission's hearing was faulty as to the record and hence the court had nothing on which to base its judgment. Where is Coleman now? Still waiting to get his job back!"A Car Traveling People." That's the title of a social study just released by the Automobile Manufacturers' Association, Detroit. Highlights:An automobile was second on the list of family priorities in the $2,500 to $3,000 income bracket surveyed by the U. S. department of agriculture in 1935-36. Food was first. "If we were to say that the average American family spends $10 out of every $100 on his automobile, we wouldn't be far off."In 1925 the average retail price of all cars was $1,007 at the factory, including Federal taxes and standard equipment. By 1940, it was $778. In the meanwhile, horsepower had increased from 32 to 86 and new features included all-steel bodies, safety glass, and balloon tires.It's safe to forecast that nearly every American home wants a new automobile. Michigan's postwar pros-perity will depend, to a large degree, on its automobile industry.Welfare Consolidation. As a result of action taken by the state legislature last spring, one staff of field workers is now servicing the needs of social security and direct relief bureaus under the state department of social welfare. Fedele F. Fauri, state welfare director, effected the consoli-dation which will save money for Michigan taxpayers.Telephone Trends. Be patient with the telephone girl. Local calls per day in Michigan totaled 3,640,000 in 1939; boomed to 5,586,000 in 1944.
Long distance calls in Michigan averaged 74,000 in 1939; they jumped to 136,000 in 1944. (From annual report

WEDDINGS

Whipple-Hepburn

On Saturday evening, July 28, at 7:30 o'clock, Miss Marjorie R. Whipple, daughter of Edward Whipple and the late Mrs. Whipple, formerly of Chelsea, became the bride of Max G. Hepburn, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Hepburn of Dexter.

The simple but impressive candle-light ceremony was performed at the First Congregational Church in Chelsea with the Rev. W. H. Skentelbury officiating at the ring service. About seventy-five guests, including relatives and friends of the bride and groom were in attendance. Out-of-town guests came from Dexter, Manchester, Homer, Flint, Grand Blanc and Detroit, and out of state guests from Toledo and Maumee, Ohio, and San Diego, California.

White slipper satin was chosen by the bride for her wedding gown which was fashioned with a fitted basque waist with lace yoke and V-neckline and pointed wrist length sleeves. The widely flaring skirt with circular train was inset with full length bands of fine lace to match the yoke. Matching lace edging outlined the figure. The veil which was confined to her head with a band of lace. Her arm bouquet was of white roses, gardenias, and baby's breath. Her only ornament was a double strand of pearls, the gift of the groom. She was given in marriage by Dart W. Hooker, of Chelsea.

Attending the bride were Miss Peggy Hooker of Chelsea, who served as maid-of-honor, and Miss Marie Hooker of Detroit, who acted as bridesmaid. Both were attired in floor-length pink brocaded taffeta gowns made with gathered waist with sweetheart neckline and very full shirred puff sleeves. The full skirt had deep ruffles of matching pink net. Each attendant wore a single strand of pearls and carried arm bouquets of pink and blue larkspur. Halo veils of larkspur blue net with headbands of matching blue flowers and elbow length gloves of larkspur blue completed their costumes.

Irwin Nothnagel, of Chelsea, served as best man. The groom, his attendant and Mr. Hooker wore boutonnières of carnations. Lawrence Durrett, of Dexter, brother-in-law of the bride and Charles Ritter of Chelsea, seated the guests.

The organ prelude by Mrs. Lawrence Wacker, included "Evening Star" from Tannhauser, "Love's Old Sweet Song", "I Love You Truly", "Barcarolle" from Tales of Hoffman, "When the Organ Played at Twilight" and "Oh Promise Me", concluding with the beautiful processional from Lohengrin as the bridal party entered the church and proceeded down the aisle. Tall candelabra holding many candles, flanked the altar which was adorned with numbers of large basket bouquets of pink and white gladioli and white lilies, combining with the soft glow of the lighted tapers to form a charming background for the nuptial rites.

Following the ceremony, a reception which was attended by a large number of guests, was held in the church parlors which were attractively decorated with group arrangements of flowers and pink, blue and white bands of crepe.

A three-tiered bride's cake surmounted with a miniature bride and groom, and a beautifully decorated groom's cake flanked with crystal candelabra carrying tall white candles, were served from a lace covered table by Mrs. Lawrence Durrett, of Dexter, sister of the bride. Punch was served from a side table by Mrs. Charles Stamper, of Chelsea; Miss Frances G. White, of Flint, and Nancy M. Swan, of Detroit.

Following the reception, the bridal pair left on a wedding trip to Mackinac Island and points in Canada. For her going-away costume, the bride wore a powder blue gabardine suit with all white accessories and corsage of white gardenias.

The young couple will reside in the Nothnagel apartment in Chelsea and will be at home to their friends after August 6.

The Fibre boys just had too much for the Federal gang as they pounded out an easy 18-5 victory to remain in a tie for second place.

Good hitting and some poor fielding by the losers made an easy night of it for the Fibre plant.

Spring 6—Glick's 5
The Fibre boys surprised everyone including themselves when they pulled an upset by downing the first place Bulldogs 6 to 5. Playing with only nine men the Spring Co. took advantage of every scoring chance for the win.

Cassidy 13—Bowser 3
The boys from Cassidy Lake moved into a tie for first place by downing Bowser for an easy 13 to 3 victory. Too much hitting and some smart ball playing by Cassidy put them in a tie for the league.

Don't forget August 18 for the two big ball games and also the Chelsea Band.

Aiken-Weir

Ethel M. Aiken, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis E. Aiken of Manchester, became the bride of Richard J. Weir, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clive Weir of Chelsea, Saturday evening, July 28. The double ring ceremony took place before a rose arbor in the garden at the home of Gilbert Aiken, Cement City, brother of the bride, with Rev. Ambler of Brooklyn officiating.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, chose a gown of blue silk marquisette, fashioned with fitted bodice, and full floor length skirt. She wore a matching hat and carried an arm bouquet of gladioli and roses.

Lillian Aiken attended her sister as maid of honor. She wore a gown of pastel pink with matching hat and carried a bouquet of gladioli. The bridesmaids were Eleanor Harris and Elaine Huber, who wore long, full-skirted gowns of blue with matching hats and corsages of rose and white asters, and Myrtle Aiken and Janis Weir, who were gowned in white with matching hats and corsages of asters. Stanley Weir served his brother as best man.

Donna Jean Pittman, niece of the bride, was flower girl and was dressed in a pastel green gown and scattered pink and white petals from her pink basket. Richard Aiken was his aunt's ring bearer and carried the rings on a pink satin pillow. Patricia Aiken, dressed in pale green, and Keith Harris held the white satin ribbons that formed an aisle to the rose arbor for the bride party.

Preceding the ceremony, Mr. Truman of Manchester sang "Oh Promise Me" and "I Love You Truly." Mrs. Church of Cement City played the wedding march.

Following the ceremony a reception was held and refreshments served to fifty guests. The bride's table was centered by a three-tiered wedding cake topped by a miniature. Navy groom and bride. The young couple left on a short wedding trip.

The bride attended school at Napoleon and has until recently been an employee of the Ford Motor Company at Brooklyn.

The groom graduated from Chelsea high school with the class of '43. He entered the Navy in September of that year and has served as armed guard on convoys in the Atlantic for the past eighteen months. He returns to his base at New Orleans Sunday for further orders.

Mr. and Mrs. Clive Weir and family, Mr. and Mrs. Garnet Weir and family of Chelsea, and Mrs. Beatrice Graves of Ann Arbor were out of town guests at the wedding.

Girl Scout News

Girl Scout Group Camp for Girl Scouts of Washtenaw county and surrounding area has been conducted at Cedar Lake this summer. Unfortunately the Chelsea Girl Scout group was not informed of this plan until after our week of camp. Some members of the troop committee visited this camp recently and found excellent camping facilities and a fine Girl Scout staff conducting this summer camp.

The following letter has been received by the troop committee. It is hoped there will be some Girl Scouts who wish another week of camping, and avail themselves of this fine opportunity.

The offer to Girl Scout leaders and business and professional women of Chelsea is an unusual opportunity for our local women.

If the persons interested in the Girl Scout leadership training camp will get in touch with the Chelsea Girl Scout troop committee, arrangements will be made to pay a portion of the camp expenses.

The letter:

"Since Girl Scout Camp Cedar Lake has a few vacancies for the remainder of the camp season the camp would like to invite any Girl Scouts from Chelsea to take advantage of these vacancies and come to camp for a week. The camp fee is $15 per week.

"An interesting program of swimming, boating, crafts, outdoor cooking, hiking, dramatics, singing, and other activities are included each week. A well-trained staff supervises all activities.

"For further information, write Miss Gladys Guyton, Girl Scout Camp Cedar Lake, Chelsea, Mich.

"On August 26 the Girl Scout camp for girls will close. Between August 26 and 31 there will be a training course for Girl Scout leaders in one unit. In the other two units which accommodate 45 people there will be an "as you like it week" for any business and professional girls who might like a week's vacation. Swimming and boating will be available a few hours each day with Red Cross instructors on duty. Other available activities will include crafts, dancing, dramatics, and cook-outs. Girls vacationing in camp at this time may or may not participate in these activities. Excellent cooks will be on duty and meals will be served in the mess hall. If there are any Girl Scout leaders in Chelsea who would like to enroll for this training course or if there are any business and professional women who would like a week's vacation at Cedar Lake they should communicate with Miss Gladys Guyton, Girl Scout Camp Cedar Lake, Chelsea, at once."

THE city editor tossed me a piece of telegraph copy. "Write me a follow on this," he said. It was a story from an advance base in the Solomons. "Burke Hennessey killed six Japs with a tommy-gun," it began.

The clatter of the city room faded and, instead of the murky walls, I saw the scene in which I first met Hells Bells Hennessey a dozen years before.

It was a cold night. The north wind drifted down from the hills and through the valley. A little run-down shack was in flames, and there was a sharp odor of burning pine. The pitiful belongings of a stricken family had been carried into the bare sandy yard, and the old folks and children were standing around shivering in their night clothes. Hennessey began talking to one of the youngsters, a boy about seven years old, trying to hold six squirming puppies in his arms. "You like those pups pretty good?" Hennessey inquired grinning.

There was a light in Benny's eyes that wasn't a reflection from the fire. "Yes, sir," he said.

George Wilson, the relief worker, came along and gave Hennessey a

"Don't ever get in my way when I'm after a story."

shove. "Leave them alone, can't you?" he grumbled.

Hennessey placed a neat left hook expertly on Wilson's chin. Wilson went down. He stayed there, rubbing his jaw for a minute, then started yelling for the cops. The reporter yanked him to his feet and slapped him across the face. "Go on and attend to your business," he said quietly. "But remember—don't ever get in my way when I'm after a story."

The next day Hennessey was booked for fighting, but his editor bailed him out and the paper carried his account at the top of Page One. It told a lot about those people whose home had burned. How they battled for existence and how, some way, they found things that made life good—things like love for a half-dozen straggly puppies.

But Hennessey got fired. The editor told me about it. "Happened on account of the publisher's wife," he said. "She's a big nanny in this welfare society that hires George Wilson. The old dame put her foot down. So her old man sent in a memo, and there you are."

Hennessey moved around a good bit, then. He was always being kicked out, but when I went to Bluffview he was there, working on the morning sheet.

A couple of years after that Hennessey came into the office of the newspaper I was on at New Bradfield. He had about him the look by which you can always identify a tramp.

He started bragging about how well he was doing. But just at the moment he was broke, and was there anything he could do to earn a few dollars. I told him I didn't know of anything.

"Well, how about letting me have a couple of bucks 'til I can get something to eat and a place to sleep?" he asked.

I let him have the money, for old times' sake. About that time the old man came in and Hennessey hit him up for a job.

"I'd like to give you a break, Hennessey," the boss said, "but frankly I'd be scared to. First thing I'd know, you'd jump on me, and I don't care about fighting except when a couple of other guys are doing it."

After that he'd drop in once in a while, mooch a dollar or two and move on. Once in a while he'd get work, but he never lasted long. Most guys spoke of him in the past tense, whenever there was any occasion to mention his name. "He could have been a good newspaper man," they'd say.

He dropped out of sight and nobody heard of him for a long time. Then—this yarn from the Solomons. I read the rest of it.

"Hennessey, a Marine Corps combat correspondent, was assigned to accompany a patrol group and report its activities," the wire said. "He became separated from his men and, when he attempted to rejoin them, found his way barred by six of the enemy. He shot them down, completed his assignment and wrote his story, which is presented here—"

Salads Make the Meal Much More Refreshing

In the summer time meals should be cool, colorful and refreshing. To meet these requirements, to lure the eye and whet a waning appetite, Norma M. Giess, supervisor of the Union cafeteria at Michigan State college, puts the emphasis on salads. For a family luncheon or for guests, salads can make the meal. The four salad factors that can make or break that meal, however, are appearance, eating quality due to texture and temperature, garnishes and appropriate dressings.

Attractiveness in salads is largely a matter of arrangement. Miss Giess' arrangement pointers begin with the plate, the rim of which should be considered a frame for a picture. Lettuce should be placed so that the outer edges are just within the rim, never hanging over the edge. To make a continuous edge, the broken end of a leaf of lettuce should be covered with a small leaf. Foods of harmonizing color, interesting garnishes and varied food textures will complete the salad picture.

To preserve the crisp, fresh appearance of garden vegetables in salads, have them thoroughly chilled. Miss Giess advises preparing foods for salads the day before serving and keeping them in the refrigerator over night. For texture contrast, just remember to combine something crisp with anything soft. Examples: Use celery in fish, egg and vegetable salads—use shredded cabbage or lettuce in shrimp, vegetable or fruit salads.

When adding garnishes to salads, consider the color harmony and suitability. Tomato slices or wedges, parsley, watercress, sliced cucumber, lemon, grapes, pickles or ripe or green olives are excellent on fish salads. Fruit salads become more colorful with halves of strawberries, cherries, fresh mint, cubes of red jelly, grapes or nuts. Pen up vegetable salads with aspic, cheese or a sprig of parsley.

The final factor, dressing, is ticklish right now, Mayonnaise, when it's available, is best with fish, egg, meat and vegetable salads. On lighter salads, like tossed vegetable salads, vinegar or lemon juice adds sparkle to the flavor. For the delicate flavor ideal with fruit salads, Miss Giess suggests orange, lemon, grapefruit or pineapple juice.

Save Your Plants From Menace of Squash Bugs

According to E. I. McDaniels, Michigan State College Research Entomologist, squash bugs are working in many gardens at this time of year, and steps need to be taken to hold them in check.

So that these garden criminals can be apprehended, here is their description: they are brownish, black stink bugs about three-fourths of an inch long; their mouthparts are formed for sucking and they feed by removing sap from vines.

The bugs cause the plants to wilt and die. In addition to the damage they cause from feeding, the insects carry wilt from sick to healthy plants.

Squash bugs are always more of a problem in small gardens than in fields, because the over-wintering quarters are better around gardens and the attack is concentrated on fewer plants.

The most efficient method of control on small plantings is by hand picking, removal of egg masses, or by trapping the bugs under boards scattered under the vines. Visit the boards in the morning before the temperature rises and drop the captured bugs into a pail of water containing a little kerosene.

Plants can be sprayed with a 40-percent nicotine sulphate solution, 1 ounce to 6 gallons of warm water containing soap. Only the individual bugs hit will be killed.

At the end of the growing season all plants should be buried or placed in the compost heap. This will deplete the number of squash bugs that would otherwise live over and attack next year's crop.

THANK YOU

I wish to extend my sincere thanks and gratitude to all my relatives, neighbors and friends who so kindly remembered me in my illness.

Developed Machine Gun
The machine gun used by Americans in World War I were developed by John M. Browning of Utah.

Age at Transplanting
Tomato and pepper plants should be from 50 to 70 days old at the time of transplanting and should be put into the garden not less than a week following the last average spring frost in the locality. Pot grown transplants are best and it has been found at the Montana agricultural experiment station that it pays to use liberal quantities of well rotted manure in the soil in which the transplants are grown. It also helps to add ammoniated phosphate at the rate of 1 ounce to each 10 pots.

Clay Aids Soil
Mixed with clay, compost improves the condition of the soil so greatly that cultivation during the growing season is much lighter. As a result the gardener gains by not having to do so much work or such hard work cultivating in summer heat. Added to sandy soils compost improves the water-holding capacity, checks leaching of fertilizer, and lightens the labor of providing water for the crops.

VETERANEWS

from the
OFFICE OF VETERANS' AFFAIRS
Lansing

Civil Service Forms
Many veterans are seeking positions in federal and state Civil Service. Calls have been made upon veteran counselors for assistance in filling out civil service blanks.

Realizing that the material submitted on application carries some weight in determining minimum qualifications, and at the same time believing that every assistance should be given to a veteran in making the best possible presentation of his qualifications, training and experience to either the state or federal Civil Service Commission, the Office of Veterans' Affairs cleared with both commissions as to the matter of propriety in rendering such assistance.

The Office of Veterans' Affairs has been advised by both federal civil service and the state civil service that such assistance in filling out civil service papers for veterans is entirely ethical and that no objections will be made by the commissions.

All counselors of local councils of veterans' affairs have been advised that such assistance should be rendered upon request and that every effort should be made by the counselor to see that the veteran presents his qualifications in the best possible manner.

Pine Lake School
Veterans who receive no allotments other than disability benefits (pensions) are not charged for subsistence at the Michigan Veterans' Vocational School at Pine Lake.

Veterans receiving $50. per month for subsistence under the G. I. bill are charged $25 per month, which leaves half of their allotment for personal use.

Full information about the school is available at local counseling centers.

Employment
As demobilization proceeds and as cut-backs and layoffs increase, veteran employment will become a problem of major importance. Only mobilization of community resources and careful planning will enable local councils to meet the problem.

All community agencies are urged to cooperate with the local counselor and employment committees in planning now for the coming months.

Misinformation
Confusion results when uninformed persons attempt to advise or counsel a veteran on any problem. He may have.

Agencies and services have been established either federally, by the state, or by private organizations to render assistance to a veteran regardless of his needs. These are specialized services and are administered by experts in the various fields.

Ancient Ruins
No one knows how old prehistoric ruins located near Tucson, Ariz., are but 2,000 years is the estimate of archeologists who think it was the base of a lookout tower.

Paper-Cored Car Wheels
For many years wheels with paper cores were used on passenger cars because it was thought that they would have several advantages over those made of steel. The paper core would expand and contract with changing temperatures and it would also deaden the sound of the cars while in motion. Such wheels were abandoned some years ago in favor of those made of steel.
