

St. Ignace—This Michigan Marco Polo, after rambling about the Upper Peninsula for two weeks in a new cabin-on-wheels, has just about come to an unhappy conclusion. It hasn't a thing to do with the climate which has been delightful. The nights have been cool and we have slept under one and two wool blankets every evening. It hasn't a thing to do with the pros and cons of life in a 19-foot trailer. The misadventure I haven't had a fight yet.

But after ruining a six-month-old tire on the US-45 highway between Watermeet and Ontonagon and after visiting four state parks, we have reluctantly arrived at a hunch that has been growing steadily into a firm conviction. The Upper Peninsula, blessed with a delightful summer climate and rich in tourist potentials, is getting the run-around with respect to state roads and state parks.

● The US-45 highway, north of Watermeet to Ontonagon, is a direct route to the new Porcupine Mountain State park. It is also perhaps the worst neglected federal state highway in the state, at least to our knowledge. Ontonagon merchants told me that efforts to get this road fixed up have been in vain. The tire replacement rate is about double what it is in the average county south of the Straits.

● George A. Osborn, editor of the Sault Ste. Marie Evening News, recently charged editorially that "Northern Michigan has been the victim of discrimination."

"The condition of our secondary roads, torn to their raw corduroy bottoms by billions of revolutions of visitors' automobile tires, is certainly a challenge to every Upper Peninsula county," writes Mr. Osborn. "We have waited through a generation of road builders for good roads. We have waited in vain."

If you stick to concrete highways, you'll never experience the rocky, rough corduroy roads, some of which pose as state and federal highways.

● The four state parks which we visited were the Porcupine Mountain State park near Ontonagon, the Gogebic Lake State park, the Indian Lake State park, and the Straits State park at St. Ignace.

Although the tourist potentials of the Porcupine park are great and we have consistently publicized them, this park is sadly lacking in accommodations for travelers and Knox Jamison, superintendent, is the first one to admit it. The map shows a camp ground along Lake Superior with electricity; actually the land is under private ownership; there is no drinking water or electricity.

● The Gogebic Lake State park is about everything you would want to have, and we visited it at Mr. Jamison's recommendation. But we frankly can't say the same for the next two places visited—Indian Lake and St. Ignace. Indian Lake near Manistiquie is 25 years behind the times; it is wholly inadequate for postwar needs. The St. Ignace park is next to a disgrace, and it could well be turned over to the Mackinac Island Park Commission which has made such a success (and with fees, too) of the Mackinac Island State park. A good fire would threaten a disaster at the St. Ignace park. We were badly disappointed, as this place is far below the quality of well-run parks below the Straits.

● We do want to compliment the counties of the Upper Peninsula for sponsoring recreational parks of their own, most of which are open to traveling visitors. The local people are friendly. Joe Davis, a local railroad employee near Gulliver Lake, came over to a township park on Gulliver Lake where we were parked for the night, just to say that we were welcome to camp on his land nearby "as long as you wish and it won't cost you a cent, either!" When we expressed complete surprise, he said, "My wife and I enjoy company." You can't beat that for hospitality.

Mr. Newkirk has had considerable football experience having played on the Otsego High school and Albion college teams.

A large number of candidates are expected to try out for the team and keen competition is anticipated for some of the positions. A full schedule of nine games has been arranged, including seven Huron League games in addition to games with Dexter and Manchester. The opening game will be played against Dexter here on September 19. The complete schedule will appear in a later issue of The Standard.

Attend Golden Wedding at Mason

Warren and Miss Bertha Spaulding and Mr. and Mrs. Will Davidson were Chelsea members of the family who were present at the Golden Wedding Anniversary dinner given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ellsworth Fletcher, former Chelsea residents, in Mason on Sunday. Seventeen members of the immediate family were present.

Local Fire Dept. Answers Three Calls

Friday forenoon about 11 o'clock the fire department was called out because of a rubbish fire on the North Main street dump, and Sunday afternoon about 1:30 o'clock the department made a run to Sylvan Center where the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Jump was completely destroyed by a fire which reportedly was started by the explosion of an oil stove. The small house was not entirely finished on the inside but was occupied by the Jumps and David Joseph, a young boy who lives with them.

Tuesday afternoon, the department was called out to old US-12, just west of Wilkinson street where a house trailer was discovered to be on fire. No serious damage resulted.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence C. Dietrich are the parents of a son, David, Frederick, born Friday, August 15, at St. Joseph's Mercy hospital, Ann Arbor.

Chelsea Nine Wins Over Messnard's, 5-4

By "Bill" Schatz
After the smoke had cleared Sunday, Chelsea had sweat out a 5 to 4 win over the fast stepping Messnard Ann Arbor team. Slim MacClanahan, hurling for our locals, did a fine job, allowing only 5 hits, striking out 11. L. Marsh, receiving, also doing a fine job at the backstop position.

Our locals had the game in the old sack going into the ninth 4 to 2, when what looked like a cinch double play ball, took a bad hop, rolling through to left center, allowing two runners to score, knocking up the game at 4 all. Such a thing shouldn't happen, even to a dog on such a hot day. And so, Mr. Perkins, it's a new game.

The tenth inning was uneventful for both sides went down in order. In our section of the eleventh frame, we pushed across another tally, which proved to be the winning run as Messnards were set down in order at their turn to bat. Our old friend, Lefty Barth, belted in the winning run after Ed Miller got on and was advanced to 2nd by Jack Miller. Barth then singled sharply through short, Ed making a fine sprint, carrying the mail from 2nd to score.

Chelsea—5 runs, 5 hits, 1 error. Messnards A. A.—4 runs, 5 hits, 2 errors.

As you will note, both pitchers were really laying them in, as only 10 hits were allowed both teams during the entire 11 innings.

Sunday, August 24, we play South Lyons on our local stamping ground. We have just two more games to go, and boys and girls, your locals are out in front. Let's make it a bumper turnout Sunday at 2:30 p.m. Chelsea High School Athletic Field. Meet your friends and neighbors at the "Old Ball Game." Thank you.

COUNTY PARK CLOSED OR IS IT?

Frankfort—Matter of closing the Benzie State Park by the State Department of Conservation became a very confusing issue last week when it was found that the Conservation Department had no record of the letter that to Benzie County informing them of the closing. In a letter to county clerk, Orville Ely, and signed by N. Jones, assistant chief of the parks division, he expressed his dismay at hearing the news of the closing of the Benzie Park. Since the citizens of Benzie county are very desirous of keeping their state park operating as such and since the Conservation Department claims no knowledge of the closing order, it would seem that the park will continue to operate for the present at least.

The Benzie County Patriot.

"Why, it's nothing but a phoney," he cried.

anywhere. Langdon greeted him with his most gracious smile.

"I want something in a two carat solitaire, the very best you have in the place. It is for my daughter, and I want it as a graduation present!"

Langdon hurried to the safe and brought out a tray of sparkling beauties. Mr. Blake gazed upon them carefully one by one and finally selected one.

Langdon went back and put the rest of the tray of rings in the safe. "Just let me run up to the hotel and get my check book. You keep this stone out till I get back."

Ten, 15, then 20 minutes elapsed and the customer had not returned to complete his purchase.

Just then the door of McLaughlin's office opened.

"Well, Jonathan," he began, "I presume you still think we do not need any insurance and that I should use that part of our budget towards giving you a raise?"

"Well, yes, I do think so really. You know my sales have almost doubled in the last year."

"That is true, Jonathan, and I appreciate it. Yet you must consider that in selling diamonds, the store is taking big chances. don't mean in a hold-up or a burglary. But, just suppose some smooth artist came in here and got away with a valuable diamond."

"Oh, but they couldn't do that with me," returned Langdon promptly. "I've been here 10 years and no crook has ever gotten away with it yet."

"That's what you think," smiled McLaughlin. "Now take that last customer. I watched everything from the start. You, of course, assume that everyone who comes in here is just as honest as you. That is why you left him standing there with a valuable diamond in his possession while you turned your back and put the rest of the tray in the safe. In the minute you were gone, he substituted a phoney diamond and walked right out with the genuine diamond."

"So you saw the whole thing, and let him get away with it! I don't understand."

"You can come in now, Blake!" called McLaughlin.

"Meet Mr. Blake, of the Dependable Insurance system," said the smiling McLaughlin.

"Sorry we had to make you the guinea pig, Buddy," Blake began, as he took a sparkling solitaire out of his pocket and placed it upon the desk. "But I just had to convince your boss here how essential it is to have the insurance."

"Take a look at that diamond on your desk, Mr. McLaughlin," said Langdon calmly.

"Why, it's nothing but a phoney," he cried.

"Sure," remarked Langdon quietly. "You don't suppose I'd leave diamonds around for strangers to pick up, do you? I made the switch before I put the tray away in the safe. Now, Mr. McLaughlin, do I get my raise or don't I?"

SHORT STORY

Best Insurance By HENRY SUTER

JONATHAN LANGDON waited patiently behind the diamond counter in McLaughlin's jewelry store. He was one of the store's oldest clerks, quiet, dependable, efficient. He was pondering over something this morning and his fellow clerk, Philip Smart, in charge of the watch repair section, speedily observed it.

"I'm wondering about the old man," began Langdon. "For the life of me I don't see why he had to take out that insurance. We've managed without it all the years I've been here and nothing has been taken yet. Burglar insurance, of course. But why spend money to protect yourself against theft out of the store when he must realize what a smart bunch he has toiling for him? Why couldn't he put that money to better usage by allying me the raise I asked for?"

"I guess it was that glib insurance salesman he fell for," replied Philip.

"Sure enough, still I think the old man is wasting good money."

The interruption was caused by the entrance of a customer.

Bronze Tablet at Kalamazoo Recalls Red Man's Honor

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the third in a series of stories about historical spots and monuments in Michigan, based on information from the Michigan Historical Collections at the University of Michigan.

Indian honor and white man's trickery lie behind the history of a treaty commemorated by a bronze tablet on the Michigan Central depot at Kalamazoo.

The treaty notes that Kalamazoo is one of a number of Michigan cities in the region affected by the signing of the Chicago Treaty of 1821. The agreement was between the United States and the Indians of the Ottawa, Chippewa and Pottawatomi nations from what is now Michigan, Indiana, Illinois and Canada.

The Michigan Historical Collections at the University of Michigan indicate formal negotiations began at Fort Dearborn, Chicago, August 21, 1821. The U. S. wished to take over the Indian lands but wanted to grant certain concessions to the Indians.

No definite results were reached in 1821. It wasn't until 1823 that the Pottawatomi agreed, and it was 1833 before the other two Indian nations signed.

Pottawatomi chiefs didn't actually sign the treaty. But with Indian honor they fulfilled its terms after it had been fraudulently signed by unauthorized Pottawatomi warriors. And with typical Indian justice, the chiefs killed the warriors who betrayed them.

Indian honor was in sharp contrast to events which occurred within 12 years after the treaty was concluded. For the Historical Collections state that in that time a number of white settlers and squatters obtained through whiskey and trickery, a considerable part of the land, thus depriving the Indians of its use.

It was one of the treaty agreements that the Indians have hunting privileges as long as the land remained U. S. property. The U. S. also granted the Ottawas $1,000 annually forever, and the Pottawatomes $6,000 annually for 25 years. Each nation was to receive $1,000 yearly for 15 years for the support of a blacksmith, a teacher, and an agriculturist.

The Indians saw that the treaty negotiations marked the turning point in their domination of that region. For the tablet says that many hundreds of them, after the first week of negotiations, gathered up their belongings and began to move to the west and the freedom that might be found there.

Among the cities now in the region concerned in the treaty besides

Kalamazoo are: Grand Rapids, Jackson, Albion, Coldwater, Adrian, Allegan, St. Joseph, Benton Harbor, Battle Creek, Niles, Three Rivers, Hillsdale, and Elkhart and South Bend, Indiana. The treaty embraced the Michigan counties of Berrien, Cass, St. Joseph, Branch, Hillsdale, Van Buren and parts of Ottawa, Kent Barry Kalamazoo, Calhoun and Jackson.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Gage of Ann Arbor, at St. Joseph's Mercy hospital, Ann Arbor, a son, Paul Ernest, on Monday, August 18.

New Rules for 1947 Hunting Season Are Made Public

A 12-day pheasant hunting season with the season bag out from eight to six; a 30-day duck season with the daily bag out from seven to four; and the opening of additional deer hunting territory, are the major new rules for the 1947 hunting season, approved by the conservation commission at its August meeting in the Higgins Lake conservation training school.

Michigan shares the nationwide slump in pheasant numbers, and the 10-day shorter season, October 15 to October 26, is expected to reduce the illegal kill of hens. Summer reports of game men and conservation officers have indicated fewer pheasants than there were a year ago.

Deer hunters have had their territory increased by roughly one of counties, as the southern boundary of the open zone has been moved southward to highway M-50 from Lake Michigan to Grand Rapids to highway M-13 east of Owosso and north along highways M-13, US-23 and M-47 to Saginaw bay, excluding the Thumb. Expansion of the deer herd and resultant damage to agricultural crops prompted the boundary extension.

Deer hunting regulations are otherwise unchanged, except as the legislature authorized bow and arrow hunting for "one deer" — buck, doe or fawn — October 11-November 5, in 17 counties besides Allegan:

Gogebic, Roscommon, Montmorency, Crawford, Newaygo, Alpena, Benzie, Leelanau, Iosco, Montcalm, Ionia, Oscoda, Ontonagon, Iron, Schoolcraft, Mackinac and Lapeer.

Michigan's waterfowl hunting regulations, drawn up in conformity with federal rules, permit hunting October 7 to November 5, from sunrise to one hour before sunset, except on opening day when shooting starts at noon. This is an hour less shooting daily than hunters had last year. The daily bag limit is four ducks, of which one may be a wood duck, the possession limit is eight, of which still only one may be a wood duck. Permissible bag and possession limit for geese is four, which may include one Canada or one white-fronted goose. The bag limit for coots is 25. All state regulations on duck blinds have been abolished.

Regulations for hunting ruffed grouse, prairie chickens, sharp-tailed grouse, fox squirrels and gray squirrels, bears, and raccoons, and for trapping muskrats, were approved by the commission exactly as they were a year ago.

Quick Meals To Help Save Mother's Time

Quick meals are the ambition of every homemaker who is busy with her family, and with canning, and who doesn't want to spend all her time in the kitchen these hot days.

Frances E. Wilson, home demonstration agent, says there are many ways to save time when preparing meals. There are one dish meals, oven meals, whole meals cooked in pressure cookers, buffet suppers and many other ideas.

Quick meals should not be unplanned snacks without regard to calories, vitamins and your family's health. It is not necessary to have a lot of different dishes to meet nutrition requirements.

Young members of your family might like to help you with a meal and save your time. Even ten-year-olds will be happy to plan and cook rather than always having to set the table or wash the dishes.

If you would like some menu suggestions for quick meals and some new recipes to use for them, get a copy of the Michigan State College bulletin, "Quick Meals." It is available from your county extension office, or from the Bulletin Office, Michigan State college, East Lansing, Michigan.

Replant Iris Now for More Vigor Next Year

If you'll divide and replant your iris plants sometime in August, you'll find that next year's display of blooms is improved because the plants have more room and the number of perennial weeds in the beds is reduced.

That is the advice of Paul Krohn, Michigan State college specialist in horticulture. He points out that irises should be dug and divided every four or five years.

Irises grow from a large fleshy root that lies in a horizontal position with small roots growing down and from the sides. These roots should be replanted at or near the surface of the soil in the same position that they originally grew in. In heavy soils, root rot is possible if the roots are planted too deeply. Sandy loams are best for irises, but they will grow in almost any kind of soil. For an extra "boost" for the new plants, apply some bonemeal or superphosphate around them at the rate of three pounds per 100 square feet.

Feed Trials

Feeding trials with dairy cows indicate that ground Korean lespedeza seed may be satisfactorily substituted for cottonseed meal and soybean oil meal as a high protein supplement.

Proper Cooling Is Needed for Milk

Cooling milk properly and keeping it at a cold temperature is one of the most important factors in producing quality milk, says Donald L. Murray, extension dairyman at Michigan State college.

He points out that bacteria will grow in spite of cleanliness in production if the milk is not cooled correctly. The state law requires that milk must arrive at the dairy plant at a temperature not higher than 60 degrees F. A lower temperature is still more desirable since bacteria grow at a slower rate at colder temperatures.

An experiment conducted to show the effect of temperature on bacteria count produced some interesting results. One sample of milk was produced under clean conditions and the bacteria count of the fresh milk was 3,200. After 12 hours at 60 degrees F, the count had increased to 4,000. Another portion of this same milk stored at 70 degrees F showed a count of 19,800 after 12 hours. While this milk was produced under clean conditions and had a low count, Murray points out that the experiment shows the value of cooling milk to below 60 degrees F.

Change Garden Spot
Many farm gardeners need to change the position of the garden spot. Soil wears out in garden spots just as anywhere else. Trees that were small enough not to have harmed grandmother's garden may have grown so much and their roots spread so far that they are robbing your garden of moisture if you happen to be still using the same land that grandmother did.

LANSING

Veterans Are Warned

Against Transferring Bonds

Veterans are warned that they should not sell their terminal leave bonds or turn them over to someone as collateral and then apply to the Treasury department at Washington for a duplicate bond. Such an action would be considered as perjury and would render them liable for legal action as such.

The law just passed by the 80th Congress, authorizing the cashing of terminal leave bonds after September 1, 1947, stipulates that the veteran in whose name the bond is issued must present the bond in person to secure payment and thus any bond given to a third party as security or for any other reason will be valueless unless the veteran presents it himself for cash.

The Treasury department has no jurisdiction over recovery of bonds held by other than veterans, so it will be necessary to contact local law enforcement authorities if it is desired to recover bonds committed to another person. All veterans are accordingly urged to keep their bonds in their own possession and not let them get into the hands of "loan sharks" or other parties who will attempt to profit off them at the veterans' expense.

Our Neighbors

Stockbridge—The Legionnaires have named committees for the Labor Day celebration. Combined efforts of the local American Legion Post and the Dexter Horse Club, are bringing entertainment here in Stockbridge, Labor Day, Monday, Sept. 1.—The Stockbridge Brief-Sun.

Milan—John Daniel Bruckner, 17-year old Milan High school athlete star who was found dead July 24 from no apparent cause, probably was accidentally electrocuted while working on the wiring of a truck, according to a coroner's official finding.—The Milan Leader.

Grass Lake—In a close race for first place, Marilyn Klumpp edged out Barbara Stoker for the title of Queen of V-J Day. The judges announced the results last evening at the County Park to a crowd of friends and relatives of the contestants. Third place winner is Betsy Huttenlocher, and runners-up were Louise Jones and Carolyn Rutherford.—The Grass Lake News.

Saline—A recent act of the legislature makes Saline's city manager eligible to sit on the board of supervisors, and at a meeting of the supervisors, Tuesday, Glenn Hart was given a seat in that body. The addition of Hart increases the membership of the board to 34, and the city is now represented by two members, Hart and Mayor Gross.—The Saline Observer.

Manchester—A new model lathe will soon be in production at Double A Products Co. here. The new machine, an important version of the 12-inch lathe they have been building, embodies several improvements. Some retooling is necessary to produce the model; but no major changeover in the plant will be necessary.—The Manchester Enterprise.

Frankfort—Several people residing at their cottages on Lower Herring Lake reported seeing an odd disturbance of the water last Sunday evening around 9 p.m. The disturbance, somewhat resembling a boiling action, took place in the approximate center of the lake. Several waves went out from the middle and they created the illusion of a large spinning wagon wheel with the hub and evenly spaced spokes. The center of the wheel appeared to be the point of the most violent action as the water appeared to boil up in that spot.—The Benzie County Patriot.

Williamston—A rating as one of Michigan's best five chapters for 1947 was given to the Williamston Chapter of Future Farmers of America. The announcement of the "Gold Award" rating was received this week by C. W. Overholt, superintendent of schools, in a letter from H. E. Nesman, state advisor. This marks the fifth year during the past seven that the Williamston F.F.A. Chapter has achieved this high award.—Williamston Enterprise.

Milan—It was reported in the Ann Arbor News and in Milan that there was a case of diphtheria. It was Miss Doris Jacobs, daughter of Mrs. Grace Jacobs. She was taken to the U. of M. hospital Sunday and placed in quarantine. Monday the case was reported and Dr. Engle phoned the Milan Leader and asked that persons who had been in contact with Doris be warned and the necessary precautions taken. County health nurses were in Milan Monday. However, on Wednesday morning, the diagnosis was changed and it was reversed, stating it as a case of strep throat, several severe cases being suffered in this and surrounding communities at the present time.—The Milan Leader.

Am. Legion Auxiliary Members Urged To Bring Christmas Gifts

Members of the American Legion Auxiliary please remember to bring your articles for the gift shop to the regular September meeting. This project is doubly important this year, as it is also being conducted in the Veterans' Facility at Dearborn, as well as in Battle Creek Hospital No. 100. Each article must have a value of not less than one dollar, must be absolutely new, boxed and include Christmas wrapping.

Keep in mind that each hospitalized veteran is permitted to choose, free of cost, a Christmas gift for every member of his family, probably his father, mother, wife, son or daughter.

Let us all be generous and do not fail to help carry on this program. For suggestions or further information call your rehabilitation committee.
