

'MYSTERY PROJECT' IS REVEALED TO BE CHRYSLER CORP. AUTO PROVING GROUND

AERIAL VIEW OF CHRYSLER SITE— Taken from a point near the junction of Old US-12 and new US-12 just north of Sylvan Center looking south, the above aerial photo shows a portion of the rolling, partially wooded terrain which Chrysler Corp. announced last Friday they had purchased. The entire tract, composing 3,800 acres was acquired by Detroit Realtor John Hanna during the last four years under a cloak of top secrecy and an apparently unlimited check-book. —Photo Courtesy Jackson Citizen Patriot.

Brief Confirmation Ends Five Years of Rumor, Speculation

Official announcement by the Chrysler Corporation Friday that the "mystery project" south and west of Chelsea was to be used by the company as a proving ground verified rumors to that effect which have been circulating in the community for more than two years.

More recently, information regarded as authentic by Washtenaw County Planning Commission members, seemed to indicate that vast industrial construction with resultant large numbers of employees, was to take place on the site.

Because the Chrysler company had continuously refrained from verifying the proving-ground theory while not definitely denying it, that theory remained the most popular of the many rumors in regard to the project during the past five years since purchase of the vast acreage first began. John Hanna, Detroit realtor, who purchased the land for the company, had steadfastly refused to divulge for whom he was acting.

The Quigley farm, almost in the center of the area, was one of the first of the parcels purchased. Other tracts include the Wolfgang, Maroney, Wahl, Van Riper and Pritchard properties on Fritchard road, Juerckel and Webster farms on Curtis road, the Wortley and Piske homesteads and the Simon Weber place on Warthley road; Regner's and the old Boyd farm on Sylvan road; two farms of Joe Merkel's on Decker road, as well as Weinkauf's farm, the old Schaeble farm and the Baldwin farm on the same road. The latter had remained in the Baldwin family since it was homesteaded from the government more than 100 years ago.

There were also the Heim road farms of Melvin Lesser, Louis Heim and Frank Wright, and portions of the Brooks, Lesser, Graub and Merkel farms on Manchester road, and others. According to the official release made by the Chrysler company on Friday, the project covers 3,800 acres. The E. J. Foster farm on Sylvan road was one of the last pieces of property acquired. The official announcement, as received here at noon Friday, reads as follows:

"The Chrysler Corporation announced today that it had purchased 3,800 acres of land in Washtenaw county about 13 miles west of Ann Arbor and approximately two miles south of Chelsea, which it plans to use as a proving ground for its passenger cars and trucks. Construction will get underway soon for the few buildings required for such an operation. The fencing of most of the property is almost completed. For some time Chrysler Corporation has sought an adequate proving ground and this area seems to fit its purpose well. The company is looking forward to operating this activity in Washtenaw county. Secrecy has had to be maintained for obvious practical reasons until the desired property had been secured."

Although the Sylvan township "mystery project" has turned out to be something that now appears to be no problem of controlling alarm as to provisions for adequate housing, Earl H. Cress, chairman of the Washtenaw county Planning Commission, said yesterday that the concern felt here for some time over possible uses of the land should serve as a warning of what can happen in a community when there is no control over use of the land. He said that he believes zoning is the only way to protect Sylvan township in the years ahead, from ill housing and other evils that often result in the wake of industrial expansion.

Mr. Cress stated that he firmly believes Chelsea and the township will be making a grave mistake if serious consideration is not given to the problem of controlling the development and use of the land in this area. George D. Hurrell, director of the Planning Commission, said he was in perfect agreement with everything Cress said. He said he believed it would be much better to be prepared for anything rather than to wait for something to happen before taking action. Hurrell said that in talking with other members of the Planning Commission, he finds that there is much interest shown in having county zoning enacted, not only for residential purposes but also for industrial and commercial enterprises. While the announcement about the use of the Sylvan township "mystery project" now seems to point to a normal rate of growth in this part of the county, Hurrell said census figures show that normal growth in the area as well as in the rural areas of the entire county has shown considerable increase in the past 10 years.

Most of the houses in the area were sold and moved to other locations. In at least two instances the owners of farm homes had them moved to new locations for their own or their families' use. These were the Sylvester Weber house and barn, moved some time ago to the present farm on Scio Church road, and the Harrison West house recently moved to a new location across Old US-12 from its former site. Roads throughout the project area were closed last year after two public hearings were held, one at the Red School on Aug. 26, 1949, and another on Dec. 9, 1949, in the Sylvan Town Hall. The late George Burke, of Ann Arbor, appeared as Hanna's attorney at the latter meeting and assured questioners that the project would prove beneficial to the community. When the construction of a wire fence began late last fall many people in the community believed the announcement of the land's ultimate use would be made soon.

Demands of county officials and school officials for information to help them in formulating future plans for housing and schools is believed to have carried some influence also, in bringing about disclosure of the plans kept secret for so long. Hanna, last week accepted an invitation to be a guest at the Feb. 20 meeting of the Chelsea Chamber of Commerce. The invitation was extended in the hope that Hanna would answer questions of C. C. members about the advisability of backing a movement for the establishment of zoning in the Chelsea area.

Reaction of local residents up and down Main street seems to be a unanimous feeling of relief in the knowledge at last that "the project" was really to be a proving ground and not something which would seriously disrupt the entire community. There is also a feeling of not being able to quite understand the reason for such complete secrecy if a proving ground is to be the sole purpose. Expressed or implied, nearly everyone has the thought that "if that is all there is to it why didn't they let us know long ago?"

High School PTA Plans Open Meeting for Next Monday

Mrs. Stephen Slane, president of the High School PTA said yesterday that in answer to requests from a number of the members of the organization the next regular meeting, scheduled for Monday evening, Feb. 26, will be an open meeting. There is to be a discussion of the subject of possible diversion of funds for high school facilities from the amount now designated to be used only for an elementary school. Those who are pressing for such a discussion are hopeful that a resolution to that effect will be passed by the PTA for presentation to the Board of Education. The meeting will open at 7:30 p.m. instead of the usual hour and will be held at the High School.

Michigan sits stunned yet over its tremendous loss in the fire which licked through the state office building in Lansing. Cause of the blaze was easy to dig up—now comes the task of scraping up money to rebuild the structure.

As a result of the loss of office space, plans for the new office building, scheduled to be built behind the capitol building, have been stepped up. Plans now are arranged to exceed not over $12 million dollars. A. N. Langius, head of the state building department, says it can't be built for that amount.

From whence is to come the money? That is the question staring state legislators in the face in the next few years. In the meantime it will cost 2 1/2 millions (and 6-8 months) to get the old water soaked office building back into operation. Top two floors will be lopped off, of course, since both are total losses.

Additional monies will be dug up when legislators begin considering the state of the capitol building itself. Long labeled a fire trap, it is expected that measures will be taken to make the old building more fireproof. Currently it is listed as "slow burning." The state office building was "fireproof."

This fire, costly as it was and will be, however, has served as an object lesson to every state in the union. Most observers expect to see a modernization program soon in every state where buildings still sit as fair game to any good blaze. And county governments are awakening too. Most of the county courthouses were constructed near the turn of the century and are veritable firetraps in that they are lacking in sprinkler systems, are overcrowded and are poorly arranged for escape exits.

Sidelight to the fire: The state office building was insured out of the state insurance fund which has assets of only $1,800,000. The state's liquor supply is insured by private firms, assets unlimited.

But, for the time being, news from Korea is encouraging. That means domestic news worsens. The psychological letdown is apparent. Once again, people are primarily concerned with getting their own jobs done, laying in inventories to get a big profit if prices rise, buying now to avoid scarcities later.

Manufacturer's inventories have been rising fast and are at a record high. The proposal to boost the manufacturers' excise tax on autos from seven to 20 per cent along with similar jumps in taxes of other "non-essentials" has helped to set off a buying rush.

Michigan pays $4.79 of every $100 the federal government spends. And so if Sen. Harry Byrd's economy ideas prevail in Congress, state taxpayers will be saved some $436,890,000.

A citizen advisory committee has recommended the consolidation of 16 independent professional and trade licensing boards in one agency. The new department would handle licensing for occupations ranging from accounting to embalmers, chiropractors and plumbers.

Beetles may not be vital as bullets, but in the national budget is a request for $487,000 to study Japanese beetles. First recorded in Michigan was in 1932. Total catch: Eight beetles.

Upon request of the department of defense, Michigan State College will go back on a wartime full-year academic schedule. Objective is to make college graduates available for military service or work in defense industries a year earlier.

Final poll card returns show some 60 per cent fewer deer were bagged in Michigan than in 1949. Computation show 2,186 deer were bagged in Western Michigan by 12,204 hunters as compared to 4,157 deer taken by 15,193 hunters the first season in 1949.

One Party Slate Named

The Independent party caucus failed to name any candidates for village offices to be filled at the spring elections. The caucus was to be held at 7:30 p.m. Monday in the Municipal building. Called to order by William G. Kolb, the caucus was immediately adjourned upon motion of Ernest Adam. The People's party, meeting at 7:45 p.m. named the following candidates: Warren Daniels, president; Robert Devine, clerk; David Strieter, treasurer; Lynn Kern, Dahue Riker and Lowell Davison, trustees for 2 years; Geraldine Wolverton, assessor; Mabel Fox and Marjorie Fischer, Library Board members for two years; A. D. Mayer, George Atkinson and Charles Williams, party committee. M. W. McClure, who has been village president the past four years declined to be a candidate this year. The village election will be held March 12.

Weight Limits Placed in Effect on Highways

Weight restrictions on all state trunk lines went into effect at noon Tuesday and county officials immediately imposed the same restrictions on all county roads.

Supt. Mgr. K. L. Hallenbeck, of the Washtenaw county Road Commission, said that active cooperation of everyone in the county could eliminate much of the damage to roads at this time of the year. He said the weight restrictions apply to all heavy vehicles whether these are the huge trucks and trailers commonly associated with the thought of weight restriction or whether the vehicles are milk trucks, school buses, farmers' trucks or delivery trucks. On secondary roads, Hallenbeck said, it was found last year that local people did much of the damage to their roads themselves by thoughtlessly traveling over them with loads of grain, etc. Milk trucks traveling on the secondary roads to pick up farmers' milk supplies daily have caused much damage to the roads during the spring break-ups and drivers' cooperation in lessening loads of their own accord when they begin to notice the need would go a long way toward helping to keep roads in better condition, Hallenbeck said. He made the same suggestion for farmers using the roads, as well as for school buses and any other vehicles traveling the roads. Hallenbeck suggested that drivers of all vehicles use good judgment in the use of the roads, especially at this time of the year. He concluded by saying "Don't wait for official announcement of weight restrictions when you can see for yourself that the time for your restriction is here. Voluntary weight restriction would be an exhibition of real cooperation in efforts to keep road damage at a minimum."

Early Edition Due to Thursday Holiday

There will be no mail delivery Thursday, Feb. 22, because of Washington's birthday, a legal holiday. The lobby of the post-office will be open from 8 a.m. until 12 noon and mail will be dispatched on the morning train. Neither rural or village carriers will serve their routes. Because of this holiday, The Standard is printed one day earlier than usual this week in order that delivery may be made Wednesday.

Girl Scouts Honor Dads at Banquet

Fathers and daughters numbering 104 were present for the Girl Scouts and Brownies father and daughter banquet held Thursday evening in the social center of the Methodist church. Ladies of the church served the meal. Table decorations were in keeping with the badge work the various groups were engaged in. Cut-out figures of Brownies and Girl Scouts in brown and green respectively added an interesting note and the speakers' table was centered with an arrangement of daffodils, narcissus and iris.

Andrew Leland, chairman of the Boy Scout executive committee, attended the dinner with his daughter, Eleanor, and was one of the main speakers. He advised leaders to demand the best work of those in their charge and to be careful not to make things too easy for the girls. He told Girl Scouts and Brownies to honor their uniforms by never doing anything that would reflect on their Scout training. He also gave a resume of what benefits he hoped his daughter would gain from her affiliation with Girl Scout activities. Fayetta Whitaker, one of the Girl Scouts, spoke, relating the main benefits she believed she had received from Scouting. Her ability to "get along" with other girls was gained through Girl Scout work, she said, and she also felt she was learning ways to help people and more particularly "to serve."

Station Driveways Not To Be Used as Thoroughfares

Complaints have been received by Chelsea police that an increasing number of drivers are using gas station driveways as short-cuts for turning corners or as a convenient place to drive through when they wish to turn around. This practice has become a nuisance, especially to Main street motorists. Drivers are warned by police that gas station driveways are not public thoroughfares and should not be used as such.

Milan-Chelsea Tilt Saturday Decides Title

Will Play Game in Yost Fieldhouse To Accommodate Fans

By DWIGHT GADD

Fifteen in a row and the big one to go! That's Chelsea's story after the Bulldogs ripped Dundee's Vikings apart, 66-28, last Friday night at Dundee, while Milan kept pace with a 61-39 conquest of Lincoln, to set the stage for the climactic showdown battle between the two court titans at Yost Fieldhouse Saturday night.

Paced by the "big three" in scoring—Crocker netted 25, Knickerbocker 23, and Tobin 11—the Bulldogs started with their typical slow first half and then exploded in the last half to turn the game into a rout.

Crocker personally carried the scoring lead in the first half as he netted 16 of the team's 21 points in an eye-opening display of shooting that had even the Dundee crowd talking at the half. The Bulldogs trailed 8-7 at the first quarter mark, but in the second quarter Crocker's hook and jump shots counted 10 points to lead the Bulldogs' 14-point output which gave them a 21-15 bulge at the half.

After the intermission another Bulldog staged quite a show. This time it was Knickerbocker as he whipped in 14 points in the third quarter to pace the Bulldogs' 21-point spree to put the game on ice, 42-24, at the end of the third quarter.

In the last quarter, instead of slacking off as has been their usual habit after a big quarter, Chelsea netted 24 more points, of Dundee's four, to make the final read 66-28.

The "Pups" also triumphed again, 49-35 this time, to give Chelsea a clean sweep for the night. Joe Greenwood paced the winners with 13 points. With both Chelsea and Milan owning 6-0 league records, the battle Saturday night is a schedule-maker's dream—a natural. Comparative scores mean little, but Chelsea has triumphed by much larger margins over most of their common foes. And, the (Continued on page four)

THE RINGING CHALLENGE of General of the Armies Dwight Eisenhower and the effects of the price and wage control orders were the highlights of the busy week in Washington.

General Eisenhower confounded some of the dissenters to the participation of the country in the defense of North Atlantic nations when he thoroughly and wholeheartedly supported the administration program and declared that the preservation of free America requires our participation in the defense of western Europe, and he refused to be placed in a straight-jacket of predicting just what that defense requires.

Pointing to a rejuvenation of the fighting spirit in the nations of Europe, General Eisenhower urged Americans to "match the courage and self-sacrifice of the ragged, freezing members of Washington's army at Valley Forge" and said, "if each of us proves himself worthy of his countrymen fighting and dying in Korea, then success is sure, a glorious success that will bring us security, confidence and peace."

Michael V. DiSalle, director of the office of price stabilization, is running the game of criticism, beating and just plain every day grumbling as a result of the general price freeze he ordered on January 17.

GIRL-SCOUT NEWS The Girl Scouts had their business meeting. We elected a new treasurer, which is Janet Bernath.

Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Satterthwaite and sons and Mrs. Ernest Fitzmier spent Sunday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. Albert E. Schenk at their home in Freedom township.

A good political leader must know ahead of several crowds, each going in a different direction.

DiSalle said he saw in the near future, some astounding results in price rollbacks when final equitable and tailored regulations for each industry are completed.

"I cannot subscribe to the theory of the view that controls will slow down production. We froze prices at the highest point in history and if people need some incentive besides the incentive of self-preservation, and the preservation of the nation, they certainly have the incentive of high prices under our order."

"We saw a red light. We applied the brakes. That does not mean we automatically came to a halt. But we have slowed it down and we may have some time lag before we do come to a halt and achieve our objective, just as a car speeding at 60 miles an hour does not automatically halt when brakes are applied, but travels on some distance before coming to a full stop."

Mobile X-ray Unit To Visit School Next Wednesday

Anyone desiring a miniature chest X-ray may secure one when the X-ray unit of the Michigan Department of Health visits the Chelsea High school on the afternoon of Wednesday, Feb. 23, to X-ray junior and senior students. Each person receiving such an X-ray should report to the school on the afternoon scheduled. He or she will fill out two cards. One is a self-addressed post card which will be returned to the person, if the chest is negative, within four or five weeks. Both cards are provided by the Michigan Department of Health. Secretarial help in completing the cards will be provided at the school at the time the X-ray is taken.

The family physician and County Health Department will be notified in cases where lung disease or chest disease is suspected. Notification will then be relayed by the County Health Department to the person, who will receive further instructions.

The services of the mobile X-ray unit are tax supported. No charge is made for the miniature film. The expenses of any further check up required will have to be born by the individual patient, unless other arrangements are made.

Report from Washington

By Congressman George Meader

Washington, D.C., Feb. 21—Because I spent the week beginning February 12 in the Second District, where I made a Lincoln Club speech at Monroe and attended the Republican State Convention in Detroit, this report is of a different character than my previous ones, which have been based on the events of the preceding week in Washington.

I have had in mind for some time discussing the subject "Writing your Congressman." I believe there are some thoughts on this matter, even on the basis of the writer's six weeks' experience. I have had as your Congressman, which might be beneficial, both to you and to the accomplishment of the job I am trying to do for you in Washington.

I am in favor of your writing letters to your Congressman. The primary benefit of these communications is to maintain close touch at all times between the Congressman on national policies and the people he represents, so that he may know the views, the sentiments, the emotions, the criticisms, the comments and the attitudes of the citizens who, after all, are the sovereigns under our system of government.

Many of the letters of thoughtful citizens contain factual information, on national policies, frequent, too, there are letters which appear to be the result of a constituent just wanting to get something off his chest about the affairs of his national government, and I think even this type of expression is a healthy one.

It would be most helpful to receive letters from those who had spent some time considering the events they read about in the newspapers, or matters on which they have had some special information.

In other words, if a Congressman's constituents could compose themselves into an agency for supplying factual information and logical reasoning on issues of the day, this could not help but achieve an improvement in the quality of legislation.

The individual Congressman cannot know too much about the proposals for which he must take responsibility. He regards the communications from his constituents as one of the most important sources of the information, which is so necessary to intelligent decisions.

I think I should mention, too, the rather human side of receiving letters from constituents; namely, that it is always nice to get letters from home, and it is gratifying to know that your friends are conscious of your activities and to hear what they think about them. This is true of letters which are critical, as well as those which approve what your Congressman has done or has said.

There is still another aspect of writing to your Congressman. I refer to those citizens whose business or activities—in one way or another—have come under federal controls or regulations.

The period we now face is one of extraordinary controls, which already have affected and in a more stringent way, will continue to affect the conduct of manufacturing enterprises and merchandising operations in the Second District of Michigan during the period of conversion from peacetime to a wartime economy.

Your Congressman is your natural liaison with your Federal Government. He may be the only person you know in Washington, and you naturally turn to him with the problems you have with your Government.

I say this is useful to the Congressman because, if he attempts to assist his constituents in these problems, he inevitably learns more about the operations of the executive branch of the Government. If, for example, you have problems with the National Production Authority regarding materials for your business, the inquiry made by your Congressman serves to educate him in the methods and programs of the NPA so that his knowledge of the Government is improved. This increased knowledge eventually reflects itself in the quality of legislation with respect to the activities of the executive branch of the government.

In my own case, this is particularly so, because of my service on the Committee on Expenditures in the Executive Departments, and my assignment to the subcommittee having the duty of studying the operations of the Government at all levels with a view to determining its economy and efficiency.

I know that this Committee can act best when people who have information concerning the conduct of public affairs, in a way which is not proper or is not in the public interest, call such instances to the attention of the Committee. Then the Committee, using its inquiries, can run down these representations or complaints and determine whether they are well founded.

So I say, if the spirit moves you, write your Congressman. Write a letter which contains serious thought on the subject which has aroused your concern. Let me have your gripes. And even if your gripes involve my conduct in my own office, I still invite your comments and your criticism.

When you do write to me, however, please do not expect me to reply with a long, detailed discussion of my views or position on the matter involved, particularly on matters of pending legislation.

I do not mean to say that I have any hesitancy about expressing my views on any subject on which I have obtained sufficient information to reach what I regard as an intelligent conclusion. However, it will be my general policy to reserve final judgment on all matters of legislation until the bills involved have been reported to the House of Representatives, after study by the appropriate Committee, so that the facts pertaining to all sides of the question are available.

Even after proposed legislation is on the floor of the House, the debate on the floor and the amendments introduced there may alter the pending measure and open up entirely new avenues of thought and study.

Consider the position I would be in if I pledge myself to the support of a bill, as introduced by a Member of the House, and then—in the committee or on the floor of the House—it was so amended and modified as to accomplish the opposite purpose from that stated in the bill, as originally introduced. I could then be accused, if I failed to vote for that measure, of having broken faith with the constituent to whom I had communicated by my position in favor of the bill, as originally introduced, which he may have identified by number only.

The Woman's Relief Corps held a regular meeting Monday evening, Feb. 19, in the F.O.E. Hall with 13 members present. Highlight of the evening was the presentation of a 25-year pin to Mrs. John Schieferstein and a five-year bar to Mrs. Nellie Whitmer. The five-year bar is to add to her 25-year pin she received five years ago.

The relief committee reported that lap robes are being made for hospitalized service men and that the committee has made and sold one quilt and has pieces ready for two more.

A letter of thanks was read for cards the Relief Corps sent to Puerto Rico.

The next regular meeting will be held March 19 at the F.O.E. Hall.

A social meeting of the Corps was held last Friday evening at the home of Mrs. Winifred Coffron. Mrs. Helen Kilmer and Mrs. Nellie Whitmer were co-hostesses. Games were the evening's entertainment.

BASKETBALL

Bulldog should have more of an incentive in this impending game which gives them a chance to even up with the Big Reds for a couple of mailings in the past two seasons. As sophomores this same team absorbed a 68-34 drubbing from Milan, and last year bowed 46-30, so it should be time to begin balancing the records. Chelsea is giving up the advantage of their home floor but all concerned feel that this won't make too much difference. Last week the Bulldogs dumped Ann Arbor, High Class A. Pioneers, 77-67, on the Yost floor in a regulation game length scrimmage so they know their way around down there. Now, to those of you planning to attend the game Saturday night—and we hope that will be every-ably some who don't know how to reach Yost Fieldhouse which is situated on South State street. One can go straight into Ann Arbor on Huron street to State (8th Traffic light) turn right and go about 12 blocks to the Fieldhouse. Or, take the cutoff, Stadium, around to Main street, turn north to Hoover, turn right and followed to end, then turn right again on State. Or, again, continue on Stadium past the Stadium over the bridge, turn a 180 degree left turn and turn right on State. Let's have a huge turnout. Game times are the same. Reserve at 7:00 p.m. and Varsity follows immediately. In the District tournament which opens next Wednesday evening at Michigan Center, Chelsea's first game will be played Thursday evening at 9 o'clock, with Michigan Center. Napoleon tangles with Hanover Wednesday evening at 9 and the winners of these two games will battle it out Saturday, March 3, for the District class C title. See you all at game time!

THANK YOU

I wish in this way to thank all of my friends, relatives, and neighbors, the St. Paul's Women's Guild, the Limaceers, and Lafayette Grange, for the gifts, flowers, fruit and candy, and the many cards sent to me during my stay at the hospital, and since my return home. Mrs. Walter Beutler.

Rochester—After logging 400,000 air miles of travel in less than three years, "Wolf," a German shepherd leader-dog, for the blind, came home to Detroit on an honorable discharge from service and a retirement "surprise party" at the Rochester Leader-Dog Training School.

Wolf has flown with and guided his blind master, Paul Knowles, throughout the nation. Knowles is Field Director for the Reader-Dog League for the Blind.

Mr. Knowles, blind from birth, brought Wolf out to the school at two o'clock on Saturday afternoon. Capital Airlines presented Wolf with a scroll acknowledging his air mileage and a pilot's hat. These were surprise packages for Wolf to open including a monogrammed six-foot cushion on which to rest his loyal bones, special treats for his kennel, and a come-one, come-all banquet spread for all his canine friends.

After a well-deserved rest, Wolf will work on the school grounds, helping blind students to regain their confidence and again feel their way to happiness.—Rochester Clarion.

Northville—Three women and one man were arrested last Wednesday in connection with the robbery of Northville Men's Shop on East Main Street. Six suits and three sport coats were taken from the store.

George Rathbun, Men's Shop employee, was waiting on the man, Thomas Ellis of Hamtramck, while the three women, Myrtle Allen, Delores Williams and Ruth Harris, all of Detroit, were browsing about the store. The women are reported to have picked up the merchandise and hid it under their coats.

Discovering the merchandise missing, Maurice Lapham, proprietor, called the state police post at Five Points who ordered a road blockade set up. Following a four-mile chase, the culprits were caught at Middlebelt Road and Chicago avenue in Livonia, with the merchandise in the car. The four have been turned over to the State Police for investigation and a trial is pending.—Northville Record.

Grass Lake—Final preparations for Farmers' Night Feb. 22 at 7:30 p.m., were completed Wednesday night at the regular meeting of the Booster Club at the home of two hundred and fifty-seven farmers are expected to be at the meeting while 75 members of the Booster Club will act as hosts for the dinner and speech to be given by Governor G. Mennen Williams.—Grass Lake News.

Northville—Radio programs without a sound.

That's the system now at Sessions Hospital in Northville. The installation of 25 bedside radios will permit patients to listen to radio programs of their choice yet create no sound audible to a patient in the next bed.

The radios feature receivers which are placed under the patient's pillow, eliminating reception of the program by other patients. The coin operated radios, mounted on a swivel at the side of the bed, swing in to eliminate stretching or straining to operate and swing back out of the way to permit full freedom for medical care.—Northville Record.

"I REMEMBER" BY THE OLD TIMERS

From Mrs. Mary Garbarini, Cortland, N.Y.: I remember when the beds we had at home consisted of a straw tick and a feather bed. When we thrashed in the fall, mother would lay aside some of the old straw and wash and fill with the new straw. The straw tick was placed on slats and the feather bed on that. One had to climb up to get in bed at night, but we would sink far down into the new fluffy beds. To make them up, we would turn the feather bed back, reach in and shake the straw from both sides. It was quite a trick in those days to have a nice smooth bed, believe me.

From Mrs. E. C. Phinney, Milwaukee, Wis.: I remember when I was a small girl in Mt. Horeb, Wis., my mother would send me up to Hoff's butcher shop for a quarter's worth of bologna. The butcher would come out of the back room with three rings hanging on his arm. Besides giving us three rings for a quarter, he would give me an additional big piece of bologna to eat on the way home.

From Mrs. Mary Stewart, Chicago: I remember when babies were weaned with bitter aloes. What a struggle! Tears, perseverance and the nasty dope did the trick.

From E. E. Meredith, Fairmont, W. Va.: I remember when pound packages of Arbuckle's coffee contained cards with information about the various states and districts traded with the hope of getting every state.

From Estelle C. Laughlin, Gering, Neb.: I remember when a girl who dared ride her horse astride was called "a bold hussy."

Mill Lake Camp Plan Explained to Kiwanians

Henry Dykema, who is with the older youth project at Mill Lake Camp, was the speaker at the Kiwanis club meeting Monday evening.

The camp is sponsored jointly by the Department of Public Instruction and the Department of Conservation and is supported by the Kellogg Foundation.

Dykema told Kiwanians there are 61 boys at the camp, 20 each from Dearborn and Bay City and 21 from Ann Arbor. They are boys who have dropped out of high school and their work at the camp earns them credits toward high school diplomas.

He quoted statistics showing that 67 per cent of boys entering high schools in the nation drop out before graduation.

The percentage of drop-outs in Michigan, he said, was 47 per cent. The Mill Lake Camp project is for the benefit of these drop-outs. The camp started February 5 and will continue until the middle of June.

During the business session Alfred Meyer was appointed chairman of the coming Kiwanis box social.

George Heydlauff of the senior class at Chelsea High school, was a guest at the meeting which was held in the social center of the Methodist church.

CIVIL DEFENSE

Volunteer Army of Civilians Will Guard Us From Disaster

By Walter A. Sheard

(This is the first of five articles on civil defense.)

A TALL, LEAN, SQUARE-JAWED, broad-shouldered man sits in a temporary office in one of the many converted government buildings, a short two blocks from the White House. His name is destined to become well known to millions of Americans. He is Millard F. Caldwell, former governor of Florida, who has been handed the tremendous responsibility of the nation's civil defense and who will lead up a volunteer army of civilian Americans which will total some 20,000,000 men and women in every state of the union.

His immediate job is to weld together a small force of approximately 3,000 paid employees, approximately 1,000 of whom will be administrative workers here in Washington, the rest field officers in various states and strategic areas.

At the same time, he must start from scratch to train these people who will in turn train his 20-million-man army in an entirely new field of warfare—a type warfare new to civilization in which the mode of defense is largely over pioneer and untrod paths, and in which men, women and children, untrained, without knowledge of possible defense—may be helplessly slaughtered by the thousands.

Governor Caldwell must come up with the answers to these questions: What can I do to protect myself and my neighbors if an atomic bomb is dropped in or near my home? What about a hydrogen bomb? What protection do I have in case a bacteriological bomb or balloon is loosed in my community? What defense is there against radiological warfare? Or the dropping of insect pests or plant disease to destroy crops and animals?

Governor Caldwell believes that it is entirely within the realm of possibility that the American people face one or all of these terrible methods of modern warfare if the nation should get into a full-scale war with Russia. The extent would depend only upon the enemy's ability to pierce our air defenses, our sea defenses and just how far the Russians were determined to go. So a well-trained civilian army is essential to the nation's defense as a well-trained and equipped military force is just as essential, and possibly more so in saving the lives of American civilians and, without civilian all-out production our military cannot move.

There are defenses to atomic bombs, to attacks against health and crops and animals. But every citizen must be as well educated in these defenses, as acutely aware of the danger, and as alertly conscious of just what action to take as he is of any chore of his daily life; for it is possible we shall be living with these dangers for many years to come if we live at all.

So the job of the civilian defense administration is to educate the people to organize defenses, to set up this volunteer army, to see that state legislatures pass such enabling legislation and appropriations as are necessary, and to train men and women in scores of facets incidental to a catastrophe such as certainly will happen if a bomb is dropped in their midst.

These include, not only protection against the bomb itself to minimize loss of life and injury, but efficient first-aid, fire-fighting, evacuation, health facilities, water supply, medical attention, food supply, social services, warning signals, and an efficient organization for any contingency, which spreads from the cities into the small towns and rural sections of every area in the nation.

The help of every organization in the nation and of every individual will be enlisted not only to join in the civil defense, but to help make the masses of the people bomb-conscious, to prevent fear and hysteria so that a major catastrophe may be averted.

The government has been for months making detailed studies of the bombing of European cities in World War II, of the effects of the atomic bombs at Nagasaki and Hiroshima. They have worked out patterns and effects and defenses. The public health service and the American Red Cross have worked out detailed plans for health protection. The bureau of animal husbandry and the bureau of plant industry of the department of agriculture have a plan of action for defense against release of gases, pests and plant disease aimed at animal and crop destruction.

Flash pasteurization spurs Michigan apple juice industry

In 1950, half a million bushels of Michigan apples, which otherwise would have been a loss to their owners, were converted to top-quality apple juice, thanks to efforts of the Michigan State College Agricultural Experiment Station. Flash pasteurization at packing time was found to preserve both color and flavor of the juice, making it available for year-round use.

Mrs. Simon Weber, who lived most of her lifetime in this community, died Monday night at the home of a daughter, Mrs. J. E. Seckinger at Clark Lake, where she had made her home the past three years. She was 91 years old. She had been ill the past two weeks and suffered a stroke a week ago Saturday.

Born near Dundas, Ontario, Canada, June 18, 1859, she was the former Frances Lammers, a daughter of Henry and Frances Michels Lammers. She came with her parents to the Grass Lake area when she was two years old.

She was married Nov. 15, 1882 in St. Mary's church to Simon Weber, and they made their home for 50 years on the Weber farm on Burris road, now a part of the Chrysler proving ground area.

They moved in 1922 to the home on West Summit street where they lived for nine years. Mr. Weber died Nov. 10, 1941. Since then Mrs. Weber had made her home with her children, spending most of her time with a son, Herman, in Ann Arbor, and the daughter at Clark Lake at whose home she died.

Mrs. Weber was a member of St. Mary's church, St. Mary's Altar Society and the Third Dominican Order.

Survivors include four daughters, Sister Mary Francis, O. P., of Adrian, Sister Mary Genevieve, O. P., of New Baltimore, Mrs. J. E. Seckinger of Clark Lake, and Mrs. Bertha Forman of Chelsea; four sons, Herman and Arthur, of Ann Arbor, Theodore, of Ypsilanti, and Sylvester, of Sylvan township; 21 grandchildren and 23 great-grandchildren.

Polio Fund Tops 1950 Total by $200

Chelsea's total for the March of Dimes fund is now $1,483. Mrs. Walter Mohrlock, local chairman, reported yesterday. An additional contribution of $100 was received from the Central Fibre company this week, and Chelsea Spring company employees turned in a contribution of $100. The Fibre company had previously contributed $100 from the management and $72 from the employees.

This year's total is almost $200 more than the $1,290 raised here in 1950 for the polio fund.
