Water Gushes from Shallow Drain Ditch

Several Wells Go Dry as Underground Reservoir Tapped

Fred Kennedy and his neighbor, Walter Kuhl, got the surprise of their lives last week when they began digging what they thought was "a little drainage ditch" and ended up with a stream of water that poured out an estimated two million gallons of water in seven days.

Kennedy, who has done extensive ditching and drainage work in the community, said he had never had such an experience before. He began the ditching to drain a low spot where his farm joins the Kuhl farm and about 1000 feet west of Peckens road. He had intended to dig the ditch with a four-foot bottom and while thus engaged struck the stream of water which immediately gushed forth flowing 20 feet wide across the fields, washing out a solid gravel driveway and carrying drain tiles toward the creek on the farm "as if they were toothpicks," Kennedy said. A 16-inch culvert was dynamited out to facilitate the flow of water to the creek. The flow continued at the same rapid pace for four days and then slowed down to about one third of its original speed.

By this time reports were coming in of wells going dry at widely scattered spots, one as far away as near Ann Arbor. Kuhl's well and one of Kennedy's also went dry.

Dumbfounded by the phenomenon, Kennedy said, he sought information of Professor Arthur Boak, of Ann Arbor, and he and Horace Clark, head of lake and stream improvement with the fish division of the Michigan Conservation Department visited the farm Friday.

Kennedy said Clark told him he had evidently struck a spring, fed by a reservoir of water that had been accumulating for years. The spring, he explained, was probably what is known as a volume spring and not a pressure type. Following Clark's advice, Kennedy said, an open reservoir has been formed by putting a dam across to control the flow. Kennedy said the flow has now slowed to such an extent that the water has risen only about an inch overnight. It is believed the water has now reached its standard level.

The Kennedy farm is located on the Chelsea-Manchester road about half-way between here and Manchester.

The 1952 state election is sure to be a lively one. The CIO and AFL are seeking to it by whipping up interest in the gasoline tax referendum for which the CIO is circulating petitions while the AFL is pushing a constitutional amendment of apportionment.

Every year apportionment which is a complex plan to give community representation on a new population basis—hits the table, is handed about violently for several weeks and then allowed to die of malnutrition in a well covered pigeon-hole.

With the prediction of a fine apple crop again this year, orchard operators are wondering if they'll face last year's problem. In 1950 the fruit couldn't afford to have the fruit picked until a government subsidy overnight raised the price. In some circles this is known as a false economy.

Michigan residents this year contributed $993,366 to help police victims. Last year they gave only $801,463.

Construction contracts in Michigan in May totaled $63,450,000, or nine per cent more than April—but 80 per cent below May a year ago. Total for the first five months of 1951 was $313,790,000, a nine per cent drop over 1950.

The new $5,000,000 state office building has been officially approved by Washington. Occupants will move on the site, immediately west of the capitol building, have been notified to vacate and bids for construction will be taken June 30.

THE PETS THEY LEAVE BEHIND

Youth Drowned in Clear Lake Last Wednesday

James L. Bendall, of Pontiac, drowned at Clear Lake about 4 p.m. on the Fourth of July, after he had tumbled from a motor-driven rowboat about 600 yards from the shore at the northeast end of the lake. He had been visiting at the lake with relatives. Several others were with him in the boat when he suddenly fell into the water. He was said to be an excellent swimmer and reportedly talked to members of the party while he was in the water, assuring them he was all right. Before they could reach him, however, after he appeared to be calling for help, he sank. Repeated diving by others of the party failed to locate him. Draining operations were carried on until Saturday when his body rose to the surface near the spot where he went down. It was reported.

Funeral services were held at 8 p.m. Monday in Jackson and burial took place there.

A. Bendall, of Pontiac, the drowned victim was 21 years old. Survivors include several brothers and sisters including Thomas Bendall, of Chelsea, an employee at the Federal Screw Works and Mrs. Aileen Ishraef, of Clear Lake.

Sgt. Gerald Wenk

Seeing Action as Driver of Tank

With the Third Infantry Division in Korea—Sergeant Gerald R. Wenk, of Chelsea, is driver of the tank "Viking 15," which returned safely after the crew killed approximately 300 Chinese during a recent two-hour battle.

Sergeant Wenk, whose mother, Mrs. Eleanor Wenk, lives at 136 Lincoln street, is a member of the 7th Infantry Regiment.

The tank was on the line when nearly three enemy divisions charged into our forces," Sergeant Wenk said. "They were all around us like flies when we got two artillery hits."

The explosions, which almost deafened Sergeant Wenk, blew off a sprocket on a track and barely missed crippling the tank. Then loader, Private First Class Joseph O'Gorman, of Lansford, Pa., saw a Chinese crawling up on the tank. Private First Class Robert Carroll, of Lockburg, Ark., opened his hatch and threw a hand grenade at the enemy, blowing him off the vehicle.

Several infantrymen who had been wounded were placed on the deck of the tank and lay there while the big cannon and the automatic weapons fired over them. None were further injured and the tank returned safely.

Rummage Sale To Be This Week

Committees of the Chelsea Kiwanis club have been busy for some time accumulating a great variety of used merchandise which is to be sold at a gigantic rummage sale at the Chrysler Town Hall Friday and Saturday of this week. Spokenmen for the club said bargain prices will prevail on all items.

Kiwanians hope to realize enough money from the project to help the club finance its many civic projects, such as sponsoring the Boy Scouts locally, sending a delegate to the American Legion's Boy State each year, helping Boy Scouts with camping expenses, the annual Halloween party for all youngsters in Chelsea and contributing to all worthy causes.

Electors Turn Down Proposal To Increase Board Members' Pay

William G. Kolb was re-elected for a three-year term as trustee on the Chelsea Agricultural Schools Board of Education at Monday's annual school election.

The proposal to revise the salary schedule for the secretary and treasurer of the Board lost by 20 votes. Only taxpayers could vote on the proposition. The proposal provided for keeping the present salaries of the two officials at the same level but proposed paying them $5 for each meeting they attended over a maximum of 20 meetings per fiscal year. Remaining trustees on the Board are paid for each meeting they attend throughout the year. The vote on the proposition was 153 no and 133 yes. Of the 286 ballots cast, seven were void.

Mrs. Ruth Walker was a stickler candidate for the office of trustee and received 79 votes. James Allan, whose candidacy had been announced previously, received 63 votes while Kolb polled 178 votes. A total of 328 ballots were cast with eight being void.

After the election results were made known the Board of Education met and organized for the coming year.

All officers were re-elected as follows: Russell McLaughlin, president; Harold Widmayer, secretary and William Kolb, treasurer. The retiring members of the Board are Trustees Earl Beeman and Willard Pearson.

Registrations Lag for Tooth Treatment

The deadline for registration for fluoride dental treatment for Chelsea children is tomorrow, Friday, July 13. Registrations may be made with Mrs. Dale Claire at the high school office between 8:30 a.m. and 3:30 p.m. and evenings and Saturdays with Mrs. Donald Fogg.

Only 22 children had been registered by yesterday morning. Unless there are at least 75 children to take the treatment the project can not be carried through, according to Miss Belle McKinney, county health officer.

These programs of treatment to fight dental decay in children are made possible through the cooperation of the Michigan State Dental Society, the Michigan State Board of Dentistry and the Michigan Department of Health.

The program is sponsored locally by the Chelsea Health Council. The treatment, which includes a cleansing and four applications of fluoride, will reduce the numbers of new cavities by 40 per cent in a group of children. The clinic will be held in the Chelsea High school.

Treatment will be given by Robert Morrow, a junior dental student who is a resident of Ann Arbor and the fee will be four dollars, payable preferably at time of registration.

The program is planned to begin here July 23 and parents who wish to have their children take the treatment should register them immediately.

AMID a tension of peace rumors in Korea, the log-jammed 82nd Congress passed the end of the fiscal year without any appropriation measures reaching the desk of President Truman. As the deadline neared, President Truman called administration leaders on Capitol Hill to the White House and included among them was Senator Walter George, chairman of the Senate Finance committee which is now considering the house-passed tax bill. Senator George has indicated he would pass over the tax bill for the time being until after a long look at government appropriations. The President, however, seeks fast action before any recess or adjournment.

Also as the deadline neared, it appeared extension of the present Defense Act for a few weeks was likely, with such changes as the Congress might make coming later on.

The peace proposal made by the Russian delegate to the United Nations was viewed warily by official Washington. President Truman promptly replied from Tullahoma, Tenn., where he made a foreign relations speech that now as always we held the door open for peace in Korea, providing it was a real settlement, calling for an end to aggression and restoring peace and security in the area and to the Korean people. First reaction from the state department was contained in a brief statement which said: "If Mr. Malik's broadcast means that the communists are now willing to end the aggression in Korea, we are, as we have always been, ready to play our part in bringing an end to hostilities and, in assisting against their resumption. But the tenor of Mr. Malik's speech again raises the question as to whether this is more than propaganda. It is more than propaganda, adequate means for discussing an end to the conflict are available."

A so-called "economy wave" has come over Congress. But from the vantage point of old observers here these economy-cuts are more or less "tactical" and for public consumption, and are "padding" in comparison to the over-all budget picture. For instance great stress has been laid on firing some government chancellors, cutting annual leave of government workers, in slashing some personnel from government payroll, particularly in some of the publicity and information sections of agencies and other like action. . . . all of which will amount to a very few million dollars when the slashes, if they are economically sound, should be made in the billions. Another one of those blanket cuts, which penalize the economic government agencies and places a premium on extravagance in others, has been voted in the Senate—a ten per cent cut. In commenting on this lax method of cutting expenditures, Senator Allen Ellender, Louisiana, said: "I am unconvinced as to the wisdom of blanket over-all cuts in appropriations which has conscientiously pared its operating expenses to the minimum. . . . will be penalized, while another department whose budget estimates are purposefully high will still have, in spite of the cut, ample funds."

These observers declare this method of slashing appropriations forces all agencies to pad their budgets and penalize those actually trying to do a good job.

Congress and the Senate particularly, was again given a chastisement from three sources during the past week. Harold Ickes, former Secretary of Interior, was the old curmudgeon himself, having lost none of his colorful flair for expression when he was called before Senator Douglas' committee on ethics in government. Ickes, blamed congress for much of the so-called laxness in government and for any lack of confidence in government by the people. Payroll hickbacks by some congressmen, lobbying by former congressmen, and Senators, who even have the run of the floor in both house and senate, impart and character assassinate from the floor of both bodies, undue influence of members of congress with government agencies, such as the RFC, influence of pressure groups on congress . . . all were pointed to by Ickes as part of the blame for lack of ethics in government. "In all my experience," Ickes said, "I never heard of a government official bribing himself."

Safeguarding the Home
Genesis 27:6-7; 15:20; Matthew 19:3-9; 1 Corinthians 13:4-7
Memory Selection: 1 Corinthians 13:7

THE home of Isaac and Rebekah was a home divided, with Isaac showing a preference for Esau and Rebekah favoring Jacob. That Rebekah was a better judge of character does not excuse the deceit she worked upon her husband through Jacob, to secure Jacob the birthright. She dressed the neck and arms and hands of Jacob with skins that he might resemble the hairy Esau. And the blind Isaac was deceived and he gave the blessing of the birthright to Jacob.

The teaching of Jesus concerning divorce is very plain—there is only one cause recognized as being sufficient to give one a divorce—that is adultery. The innocent party has the right to secure a divorce from an adulterous husband or wife. And whoever marrieth one who is put away for any cause other than adultery causeth that one to commit adultery. If it would be a whole-some thing if all over the country there could be developed a mighty respect for the teachings of Jesus, that there might be fewer broken homes and a lesser number of children with blighted lives.

But first of all there is needed the blessed experience of the love of Christ to hold the home together. It is the love that is implanted in the heart through faith in Jesus. This is the love that it is needed to hold the home together, and this is only another way of saying that the presence of Christ in the home is necessary to its stability and happiness.

State Safety Drive Stresses Dangers in Excessive Auto Speeds

Chief George Doe emphasizes the dangers of speed in support of the State Safety Commission's July program of public education for traffic safety which is being sponsored in cooperation with the National Safety Council and points out that, "Basically, the failure to recognize the difference between a calculated risk and a needless, foolish risk is the factor that contributes to the death of thousands of motorists every year."

The motorist who travels at high speeds, either feels that he is running no risk at all, or feels that the risk is negligible. Both ideas are false.

"At Bonneville, Utah, John R. Cobb, in 1947, attained a new land speed record—403 miles an hour. The dangers involved in driving a vehicle at a greater-than-six-miles per minute almost stagger the imagination. To Cobb, however, this was a carefully calculated risk. The test was carefully supervised, the course was closely examined for surface smoothness and the vehicle was as mechanically near perfection as possible."

"The result was, that Cobb was counting death no more than any of us who drives 40 miles an hour when the visibility is bad, the highway wet or slippery, or when our tires are thread-bare."

The simple process of driving three blocks to the grocery store is a calculated risk.

"By driving safely and sanely, we are calculating our risks in such a way as to minimize the dangers to ourselves. The moment that our speed becomes faster than road, weather or the mechanical condition of our car warrants we begin to enter the ranks of the foolish."

Wheat Test
A rapid and simple test to measure the bread-baking quality of wheat has been developed by the U. S. department of agriculture.

Mr. and Mrs. Leon Chapman and son, Larry, with Mr. and Mrs. Howard Baker, of Xpiland, visited Harold Baker at Strawberry Lake.

Koengeter Reunion

The annual Koengeter reunion was held Sunday at Pierce Park with 52 relatives present from Lansing, Ann Arbor and Chelsea and vicinity.

Following the pot-luck dinner, Roland Koengeter, of Ann Arbor, president of the group, presided at a short business meeting during which officers for the coming year were elected. Herman Schave, of Ann Arbor, was named president and Mrs. Anna Reichert was made secretary-treasurer.

With Mrs. Donald Gray, of Ann Arbor, and Mrs. Karl Koengeter as program chairman, games were provided for all guests.

Rain in the afternoon forced an adjournment to the home of Karl Koengeter for the remainder of the day.

Bauer-Roh Reunion

Sixty-two members of the Bauer-Roh families attended the annual reunion held Sunday at Dexter-Huron park. Those present were from Detroit, Ann Arbor, Chelsea, Grass Lake and Dexter. Adam Bauer, of Ann Arbor, who will be 90 years old in October, was the oldest one present.

Officers elected for next year are: Carl Lesser, of Dexter, president; Carl Guenther, of Detroit, vice-president; Mrs. Clarence Nicolai, of Grass Lake, secretary-treasurer.

Next year's reunion is to be held the second Sunday in July, 1952, at the same place.

THIS PETTY PRICE
BY
BROWN LEE YATES

THE PRICE RUCKUS has hit 1 Dawdle Dell.

Sam Steepbilly, proprietor of the General Store, allows that his price setting swap with Henry Potter, storekeeper over at Sweet Lick, is hereby null and void by authority of the Supreme Court spitting the fair trade laws.

Sam aims to cut the price on buggy whips 50 per cent tomorrow. Sam sees by the papers about those big stores up in the city cutting the price on electric mixers, and he has some hand egg beaters he's hankering to let go cheap.

Potter says he "ain't pestered." He doesn't carry buggy whips in his up-to-date emporium, and he doesn't see Sam cutting prices on Model-T magnetos and other new stock. "If Sam tries any more polecatting," Hank swears, "I've got some slick auto-mobilia curtains I can fetch from the back room at creek bottom prices."

Squire Glademey Debitside, moneylender herabouts, figures a real price fall won't come until Sam starts cutting staples like hog jowl and molasses instead of luxuries like egg beaters and buggy whips. "Folks still are gonna need lots of greenbacks and I got 'em to lend," chuckles Squire.

Eddie Spindleshanks came back from the city with news that Bloomberg's is starting a price war in girdles. You know how women folks can't let a bargain alone. They all traipse up to get girdles, the skinny ones as well as the fat. Now the beanpole gals look lumpy, with those loose girdles folded around them a couple of times, and the potato sacks look like somebody just stirred up the potatoes—that cheap elastic just rearranged the bulges.

Bernard Benchwarmer, older statesman and courthouse bench philosopher, sees a business trend in female duds: "After this buying binge in girdles is over, I predict complete relaxation of elastic controls and further inflation, but until then, there won't be much freedom in women's garments."

Married in Salem Grove Church

MR. AND MRS. JAMES GAUNT

Donna Kalmbach Becomes Bride of James Gaunt

Donna Lou Kalmbach became the bride of James Frederick Gaunt in a ceremony performed at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon in Salem Grove church by the pastor, Rev. Vern A. Panzer. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar W. Kalmbach while the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Edwin I. Gaunt. Approximately 200 guests attended the wedding.

The church was beautifully decorated for the occasion with palms and bouquets of white gladioli and white delphinium and with cathedral candles. The white candles, with arbor vitae greens, also marked each pew down the aisle through which the bridal party passed to the altar.

The bride's uncle, Walter Kalmbach, was the soloist. Accompanied on the organ by his daughter, Phyllis, he sang "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a traditional gown of white faille, the bodice having a lace yoke with scalloped edge. The sleeves were long and tapered. The full skirt extended into a modified train. Her veil was fingertip-length and was held in place with a headband of lace matching the lace yoke of her gown. White orchids and stephanotis formed the bouquet she carried.

Mrs. James G. Beal, of Saline, was her sister's matron of honor while Isabelle Morrison, of Traverse City, former roommate of the bride, and Mrs. Robert Robbins were bridesmaids. Joan Torrey, of Birmingham, was the flower girl. The attendants all wore floor-length gowns of flocked marquisette over taffeta fashioned with a scalloped yoke and scoop neckline. They all wore petal hats of matching material. Mrs. Beal, in yellow, carried a bouquet of Vanda orchids and the bridesmaids, in pale green, carried rubrum lilies. The flower girl, whose gown was orchid-colored, wore a picture hat and carried a miniature bouquet of daisies, carnations and roses in shades of pink and lavender. Duane Luick assisted the bridegroom as best man. James G. Beal, brother-in-law of the bride, and William R. Gaunt, of Detroit, a cousin of the bridegroom, seated the guests.

The reception at the home of the bride's parents followed immediately after the ceremony. Mrs. Leon Sanderson, another sister of the bride, cut the wedding cake while Mrs. Chester Davis, of Flint, and Mrs. William Piper, of Royal Oak, an aunt of the bridegroom, poured. Lillian McVannell, of Saginaw, was in charge of the guest book. There were 125 guests at the reception.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Kalmbach wore a powder blue sheer afternoon dress with navy and white accessories. Mrs. Gaunt, mother of the bridegroom, in an afternoon dress of navy lace, wore white accessories. Both mothers wore corsages of lavender orchids. When the couple left for a few days' trip to Canada the bride was wearing a beige sheer silk shantung dress. Her accessories were white and pinned to her shoulder was a corsage of white orchids taken from her bridal bouquet.

After July 20 the couple will be at home at 6651 M-92.

A 1949 graduate of Chelsea High school, the bride attended Michigan State College for two years and became a member of Tower Guard, sophomore women's honorary society. The bridegroom, who graduated from Chelsea High school in 1945, was in the U. S. Navy V-5 program for one year and graduated from the University of Michigan in 1950. He is now associated with his father in farming at the Southview Gladious Farm.

Pre-nuptial parties given for the bride included showers by Mrs. Fred Kitch and Mrs. William Piper, of Royal Oak; the WSCS of Salem Grove church; and Mrs. Kenneth Proctor and Mrs. Robert Robbins. The rehearsal dinner was given Friday night by the bridegroom's parents at their home on Sibley road.

SHOWER

Mrs. John Brooks, Jr. and Mrs. Arthur Grau entertained at a shower at the home of Mrs. Brooks for the pleasure of Mrs. Carl Heller Friday evening.

A color scheme of yellow and green was carried out in the decorations used throughout the house. Little plastic umbrellas marked each guest's place at the table where ice cream and cake was served.

The honor guest was the recipient of many beautiful gifts.

The trouble with great minds is they sometimes grate.

Engagement

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd D. Rowe have announced the engagement of their daughter, Madelyn, to Walter Bury, of Detroit. The couple is planning an early fall wedding.

GUESTS AT GAUNT HOME

Relatives and friends who were supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin I. Gaunt after the wedding of their son, James, and Donna Kalmbach Saturday are Mr. and Mrs. William E. Gaunt and son, Bill, Ruth Wells, Mr. and Mrs. William Meacham, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gaunt and sons and Mr. and Mrs. Grosvenor Campbell, all of Detroit; Mr. and Mrs. Lyle F. Torrey and children, of Birmingham; Mr. and Mrs. Frederick B. Kitch, E. Nixon and Mr. and Mrs. William J. Piper and sons of Royal Oak; Mrs. Russell Long and daughter, Sharon, of Flat Rock; Mr. and Mrs. John Jensen, of Fowlerville; Carole and Daryl Glick, of East Lansing; and Duane Luick and Jennie and Florence Ives, of Chelsea.

Many a woman has married her idol, and he has been idle ever since.

Might Say
The Birds Got "Nettled"

Had dinner with Tik Bradley the other day, and over a frosty bottle of beer I found out about his job with the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

"Now just exactly what do you do?" I asked him. "Shoot birds with a cannon," he calmly replied. Seems they actually do use a cannon—to shoot out a net over a flock of birds feeding on the ground. The birds start to take off at the sound of the shot, but the setting net brings them back to earth. Then they're banded around the leg so more can be learned about their migratory habits. Afterwards, they're let loose—and everyone's happy.

From where I sit, it was a good example of how when you learn the real facts they're often not as bad as they may sound at first. Like with people. Get to really know your neighbor and chances are you'll be more tolerant of his preferences—even though they're not your own. Take a good look, before you jump to conclusions.

Prompt Care May Prevent Blindness, Univ. of Michigan Specialist Declares

Ann Arbor—Many cases of blindness can be prevented by prompt diagnosis coupled with proper and adequate treatment, according to a University of Michigan eye specialist.

"It is wrong to think that one's vision merely goes bad as the result of advancing age," Dr. Harold F. Falls, associate professor in the University Medical School's Department of Ophthalmology, declared.

He estimated that there are upwards of one million people in the United States affected with blindness. Many of these cases are due to preventable causes.

"Prevention of blindness in the adult individual is largely a problem of education," the U-M doctor said. "Loss of any visual capacity warrants a careful eye examination to expose the cause."

People should recognize that vision difficulties are often associated with constitutional disease and should seek prompt medical attention when eye symptoms present themselves, Dr. Falls explained.

The belief that people in their forties and fifties have to spare their eyes is false, he pointed out. Healthy eyes need not be spared and close work does eyes no harm if adequate lighting and corrected glasses are provided, he added.

Five outstanding causes of blindness were listed by Dr. Falls as: (1) glaucoma, a hardening of the eye-ball causing pressure on the optic nerve and the delicate nervous elements of the retina; (2) industrial or household injury; (3) pterygium, a wing-like growth of new formed tissue occurring over the cornea; (4) cataract, a disease of the eye lens; and (5) detachment of the retina, the nervous membrane of sight.

Glaucoma is responsible for total blindness in over 20,000 individuals and for partial visual loss in another estimated 300,000 patients, Dr. Falls said. If treated in its early stages, glaucoma can usually be kept under control, he explained. The disease is frequently hereditary and he urged relatives of glaucoma patients to have complete eye examinations yearly.

Carelessness is the cause of most industrial and household eye injuries, he indicated. Ordinary care, the use of goggles and machines equipped with safety devices will prevent these injuries.

Prompt surgical treatment determines the degree of vision retained by individuals with pterygium, Dr. Falls pointed out. Partial blindness can result unless the creeping growth of tissue over the cornea is checked.

Cataracts usually occur in the later years and cause a slow loss of vision, he indicated. Removal of modern surgical methods is painless, relatively simple and successful in 95 per cent of cases, Dr. Falls said.

Detachment of the retina occasionally follows a severe blow on the head or it may accompany severe nearsightedness, Dr. Falls declared. Prompt surgical attention is necessary to avert permanent blindness.

If more people would think more about where they are going instead of where they have been, this world would be better off.

Report from Washington

By Congressman George Meader

Washington, D. C.—The paradox of extreme laxness as a companion tool to gag rule now is being demonstrated in the House of Representatives as a means by which Administration leadership can prevent the majority of the elected representatives from expressing national policy through orderly and fair legislative procedures.

The gag rule was used on the tax bill, the continuing resolution on appropriations, and the temporary extension of the Defense Production Act, each of which was an instance in which the majority desired to force through legislation with no opportunity for change in the pattern drafted by committee majorities.

A different situation exists, however, in regard to the consideration of permanent extension of the Defense Production Act. The Administration asked the Banking and Currency Committee to grant it more power to control the economy, through allocations, requisitioning and price, wage and credit controls, than it has under the present law. After extensive hearings (from May 8 to June 8, comprising 3,192 pages of printed record) the committee, by a close vote, not only refused the Administration's request, but restricted and defined more clearly the powers contained in the present law.

Normally, when substantial and numerous changes are made in a bill by the committee, a new draft, incorporating the committee's changes, is reported out for the House of Representatives to consider.

Because the changes made by the majority of the committee in the Defense Production Act extension are not acceptable to the party leadership, however, Administration leaders elected to report out the original bill and the 57 amendments made by the committee.

For all practical purposes, therefore, the bill, instead of being written in Committee, will be written on the floor of the House by the 435 Representatives.

Congressman Wolcott (R-Mich.), ranking minority member of the House Banking and Currency Committee, told the House on June 29 that of the 57 Committee amendments at least 35 were controversial. In addition, he said, Committee members were planning to introduce at least five more controversial amendments, and the Committee knew of at least five other amendments proposed by Representatives not members of the Committee. Thus the House will have to debate and vote on a minimum of 45 controversial amendments. Undoubtedly, before the bill is passed, a great many roll call votes will be demanded on amendments, to put each member on record, with, of course, an eye to the 1952 political campaign.

There is nothing wrong about this procedure. There is no reason that representatives should be reluctant to record their stand, and there is every reason that it should be recorded. Representatives should have the courage to oppose an amendment even though the amendment may be popular, when they are convinced such an amendment is against the public interest.

There is, however, strong possibility that much may be wrong with the results of this procedure. The weakness of writing the details of legislation on the floor of the House is that it loses the advantage of the Committee system. In committee, a small number of persons can concentrate their efforts and specialize in a particular subject. They can listen to the conflicting views of witnesses, consult experts, can utilize the time and talents of staff investigators, and can deliberate on the phraseology of amendments.

Amendments can be offered on the floor of the House by any one of the 435 Representatives. They can be, and frequently are, written out in long-hand, with only one copy, which is read by the clerk. Hastily-drawn, these amendments may be couched in language which is ambiguous and not well written or carefully considered. They may be so complicated as not to be understood by all members; after only one reading and the five minutes' debate allowed the author may be inadequate to explain the meaning of the amendment or the reasons for its adoption.

The decision of the party leadership to depart from the normal practice of reporting out a complete bill on the Defense Production Act extension would seem to indicate, therefore, the following: First, that the Administration is intensely displeased with the bill as written by the majority of the Banning and Currency Committee; second, that the Administration hopes it can get a bill more to its liking out of the whole House; and, third, that the majority party can claim that the bill, if it is unworkable or not understandable as may well be the result of hastily-written amendments from the floor—is the work of the opposition which failed to accept the position which the Administration had demanded.

Junior Baseballers Wallop Dexter, 45-1 in Season's First Game

Chelsea's entry in the Southern Michigan Junior Baseball League started the season with a bang on July 2 by beating a young and inexperienced Dexter team, 45-1. Chelsea scored in every inning with the big one being the sixth when 17 runs crossed the plate. They out-hit Dexter 35 to 1, and made no errors to Dexter's 16. Bruce Hoffman pitched the first four innings and Phil Bareis finished the seven innings.

Richard Bareis got the only home run of the game and was the leading hitter with two triples, a double and two singles to go with it. Bill Clark, Danny Murphy and Neil Buehler each had five hits including many for extra bases and Phil Bareis contributed more than the pitchers share with two triples, a double and a single. All of the players contributed to the hit and run total.
