

Grid Team in First Defeat of This Season

Bullpups Also Lose to Jackson St. Mary's in Reserve Squad Game

The Chelsea Bulldogs traveled to Flat Rock last Friday evening only to be defeated 12-0 by the Rams. The Rams scored in both the first and second quarters, while the Bulldogs were unable to hang onto the football and lost the ball twice inside the 15-yard line by fumbles which cost Chelsea the ball game.

In the first quarter the Rams kicked off and Chelsea took the ball on their own 23. With fourth down the Bulldogs were forced to kick. Flat Rock returned the kick to the Chelsea 43. They moved to the 2-yard line with first down and Rams' left half, Weddle, cracked off right tackle for a TD. The try for the extra point was wide and the Rams led, 6-0 at the end of the first quarter.

In the second quarter the Rams stopped a Chelsea drive on the 12-yard line. From there they moved to Chelsea's 47-yard line when the Rams' passer hit Goodhue for Flat Rock's second tally, and as the half ended, the Rams led, 12-0.

In the first half Chelsea tied Flat Rock for first downs, seven each, while Chelsea racked up ten to Flat Rock's three in the second half, to completely outplay them. However, the fact that the Bulldogs had a few breaks, cost Chelsea the game.

Don McClear played outstanding ball for Chelsea on offense, while Bob Bertke, Eder, and G. Sweeney were the outstanding players on defense. For Flat Rock Weddle and Matus were outstanding on both offense and defense.

Tomorrow evening Chelsea plays host to Lincoln High. Game time will be 7:30.

Reserves Lose, 37-0

The Bullpups took a beating Monday evening at the hands of Jackson St. Mary's to the tune of 37-0. Chelsea just couldn't seem to get started. St. Mary's had a very good pass defense which stopped Chelsea's offensive tactics cold. The Bullpups twice lost the ball on fumbles, during the first and third quarters. Both losses occurred deep in their own territory.

Jack Hummel and Don Schneider were outstanding on offense.

Local Campaign for Salvation Army Progressing Well

Mrs. Herbert Sanborn, chairman of the present, Salvation Army drive for funds which officially began here Monday, said she and her workers were gratified with the splendid response of the people already contacted. The campaign continues until the end of the month.

Mrs. Sanborn said block workers have reported they were getting good cooperation in their work of house-to-house canvassing. No quota has been set and all contributions are free-will.

Mrs. James Allen is one of the captains in charge of one of the districts into which the town has been divided. Mrs. Sanborn said. In announcing the names of the various chairmen and captains the name was incorrectly given as Mrs. James Almond.

Trailer Loses Wheel, Auto Wrecked, Yet No One Is Injured

In an accident on US-12 at Froer road about 9:15 Sunday evening, a car driven by O'Neil Provencer of Detroit, was badly damaged when it was struck by a wheel which came off the trailer of a truck he was attempting to pass. The truck, owned by Willard Herick of Ferndale, was loaded with household furniture.

Herick's wife was reportedly driving at the time of the accident. As the right front wheel broke off it ran across the center lane of the pavement where it collided with Provencer's car. Both vehicles were traveling east.

No one was injured, according to reports of officers who were called to investigate.

Corrections Noted on Community Fair Award Listings

Earl Heller, 10-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Heller, received the grand champion award in the beef cattle division at the Chelsea Community Fair. In the award list given to The Standard last week Earl's cousin, Robert Heller, was erroneously credited with the honor. Fair officials did an excellent job of tabulating the hundreds of winners in all divisions and may surely be excused for a slip-up in the two names. Earl and Robert both had many entries exhibited at the fair and when the list was being made up the coveted honor was inadvertently credited to the wrong boy.

There was also an error in the listing of the awards given on Angus steers in the beef cattle division. Award winners were, 1st, Don Bauer; 2nd, Reuben Leaser; 3rd, Robert Heller. (The second and third place winners were previously listed by mistake as Nancy Van Riper and Kenneth Hailst who are correctly in those respective positions in the Herford division.)

The live young steer given away at the fair and awarded to George Beeman was not given by the Chelsea Chamber of Commerce as stated in the list of prizes given by Chelsea merchants and others. A steer is given away at the fair each year and the one awarded to Beeman was the one given in the same manner this year through Fair channels.

The North Sharon Extension Club entertained with a very amusing minstrel show. The group was led by Beulah who was a good end man.

Mrs. Clinton Torrey, county recreation leader, relaxed the group with a stretch so they might better enjoy Dr. Elsie N. Glover's illustrated description of her trip, "Shooting the Rapids on the Colorado River." She also showed pictures taken the next year when she went back and lived among the Indians. Dr. Glover is in the Botany Department at the University.

The afternoon session was closed the repeating of the Extension Women's Creed.

Another Easter Lily Breaks into Bloom; Something's Mixed!

Mrs. T. B. Quigley, who lives on US-12 west of M-32, reports that she has an Easter lily in blossom at her home, also. She had read in The Standard two weeks ago of the lily in bloom in the garden of Mrs. Ray Thomas. Mrs. Quigley said she has been covering the plant each night to keep it from freezing and there are now two large blossoms and two buds on it. Like Mrs. Thomas' plant, Mrs. Quigley's is blossoming for the second time this year. It was given to her last Easter.

Several other reports of late-blooming flowers were also received during the past week.

Posting Does Not Prohibit Owner from Hunting

Under the Horton Tresspass law, passed by the legislature in 1935, no hunting is permitted without the permission of the farmer on whose land the hunting is to be done. The law states specifically that those who enter enclosed farm lands or woodlots with firearms and dogs are subject to arrest if they have not received permission to hunt on such lands.

Such trespassers are arrested only on the complaint of the person on whose land they are trespassing. Farmers are advised by conservation officials to take the back tag numbers of any trespassers and follow through by obtaining warrants for their arrest. The law applies equally on posted or unposted land.

Misinformation regarding the posting signs has led a number of people to believe that if they post no hunting signs they cannot themselves hunt on their own land. Conservation Officer Donley Boyer branded this information entirely false saying that hunting on farms and enclosed woodlots is the owner's privilege and he may hunt himself or allow anyone else to hunt on his land. He stressed that conservation officers do not arrest hunters on posted land except on the complaint of the farmer.

Rod-Gun Club Says 'First Get Farmer's OK'

"Ask The Farmer First," that is the slogan of the Michigan United Conservation clubs this fall in its campaign to encourage better respect for the farmer's property by all hunters, according to Dr. L. J. Paul, president of the Chelsea Rod and Gun club, the local organization affiliated with MUCC.

"The state law forbids hunting on private farm lands without permission of the property owner and we want to see that law strictly enforced because lax law enforcement penalizes the real law-abiding sportsman in favor of the irresponsible and lawless hunter," says Dr. Paul.

In its effort to prevail upon all hunters as well as organized sportsmen, to respect private property and to "Ask The Farmer First" before hunting on his land, the Michigan United Conservation club received full cooperation from the Conservation commission which has ordered the slogan "Ask The Farmer First" and the notice, "Important, it is unlawful to hunt on private property without permission of the owner," printed on all small game hunting licenses this fall.

The MUCC inaugurated this campaign after a survey of farmers revealed that the great majority would permit hunting on their lands if the hunter would but ask permission first and behave like a sportsman and a gentleman.

MUCC Farmer-Sportsman Relations committee consulted with organized farmer groups who gave full approval of the campaign. "The organized sportsman want the farmer and owners to know," says Dr. Paul, "that they realize his problem and will do everything in their power to help protect his property from the depredations of hoodlum hunters."

Mrs. Freda Westfall and Mrs. Edna Gross of Saline, called on Miss Iaka Boettger and Mr. and Mrs. Warren Geddes Sunday afternoon.

PTA Head To Be Elected Next Week

At a meeting of officers and room representatives of the High School PTA Monday evening plans were completed for the pot-luck supper to be held at the school next Monday, Oct. 22 at 6:30 p.m. Those not solicited for a special dish for the supper are to be asked to contribute 50 cents toward the cost of the meat which will be prepared at the school. Those who attend are to bring table service and buttered rolls or bread for their own family.

At the business meeting following the supper, a new president of the High School PTA is to be elected to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Mrs. Stephen Slane. Present plans for the social hour after the meeting call for a square dance for which appropriate music will be provided.

It is also planned to provide a question box where members may drop in any questions on teaching methods, courses of study or anything else of interest. Later, these questions will be discussed and answered at regular meetings of the PTA.

U. of M. Prof. Declares 'War Not Probable'

U. S. Armaments Should Discourage Aggressor by Spring

Dr. Marshall M. Knappen, author, Rhodes scholar, former member of the Office of Military Government for Germany, professor of Political Science at the University of Michigan, Monday night addressed the library lecture series on the topic of "The European Situation," which he believes is such that the world is reasonably immune from the prospect of an outbreak of major war, for at least six months, chiefly because Russia does not want a strenuous winter campaign. By spring the American armament program should have progressed to a stage to make any aggressive nation think seriously.

He pointed out that none of the areas of present conflict are vital to us on a short-range basis, and that diplomatic wisdom might advise strategic withdrawals within that period, so that we could better work out a more satisfactory long-range program. Since the days when Kipling was reporting British military campaigns, Britain has followed this program of harassing "the bear that walks like a man" on a long range, but has withdrawn from areas of conflict on a short range, so that major world conflicts were avoided. This proves that, diplomatically, it can be done.

He further stated that Western Europe, capable of 25 per cent of the world's production, is a great prize, and must be held at all costs. That 25 per cent productivity would tip the scale of victory either way. However, the world is much less desperate, he thinks, than it was three years ago. He believes that we could and should support the Fulbright program of asking European nations to carry a much greater proportion of their own economic and military burden. He stated emphatically that many European leaders quite agree with this theory, when they speak "off the record."

We should not withdraw from our absolute responsibility in Europe, but should re-examine the whole foreign aid situation, and establish a more realistic scale of participation in rebuilding the western world. He pointed out that during the half century mentioned above, Britain practically never came to the financial aid of exiles. American diplomacy is doing well, he argued; we have no right to expect a diplomatic team to bat 1,000; a batting average of .350 or .330 is usually considered good in leagues where competition is keen. America is just now assuming the position of an adult in the world family, and so must assume direction, leadership, protection, and the responsibility of that position.

Commerce Group Plans for Future of Pierce Park

Kenneth Runciman, local landscape architect, was a guest at the Chamber of Commerce meeting Tuesday evening at the invitation of the group's president, Howard Flintoft. Flintoft had asked him to make suggestions regarding the future development of Pierce Park and he outlined long-range plans and made valuable suggestions on ways to carry out the plans.

Runciman worked for three years with the Michigan Park Service and Chamber of Commerce members were interested in his views. He was especially impressed with his suggestion for the need of a master plan for the future development program so that all efforts at improvement will be coordinated in the right direction. Immediate steps he recommended included marking trees to be cut out in the heavily-wooded section during the coming winter.

Roland Spaulding, reporting for the committee in charge of work on the roadside park site to be improved at the north entrance to the village, at the new bridge, said work was progressing. The cement abutments for a rustic footbridge across the creek have already been completed, he said, and grading of the picnic grounds in preparation for seating is expected to be completed next week.

The evening's entertainment feature was colored slide pictures shown by Ole Johnson. The pictures were taken on his recent trip to the west and at his fishing lodge in northern Canada.

Thirty-seven members and guests attended the meeting held in St. Paul's church hall. A suetkraut dinner, served by ladies of the church, was much enjoyed by all who were present.

Sylvan Farm-Bureau men served a ham dinner Saturday evening to the women of the group in return for the dinner served by the women last spring to men of the Farm-Bureau and their business guests. The ham and potatoes for the meal were prepared by Mrs. Emerson Lesser and Mr. Lesser assisted the serving of the meal.

Guests at the meeting were Mr. and Mrs. Laurence Wacker and Mrs. Joseph Haider of Ocean Point, N. J., who is visiting her daughter, Mrs. William Van Riper, and family. About 80 men, women and children were present for the evening's gathering.

During the business session there was a discussion on the proposed state reapportionment bill but no decision was reached as to what stand the Farm-Bureau will take on the matter.

A legislative committee was named to act on matters of importance which come up between regular meeting dates. Carl Heller was named chairman of the committee and others named are Roy Kambach, John Bruns, Jr., William Van Riper and Harley Hatt.

Dorr Whitaker, vice-chairman of Sylvan Farm-Bureau, was named chairman of the year's program committee. Those on the committee with him are Stanley Beal, Harold Powers, Clifford Heydlauf and Walter Wolfgang.

4-H CLUB NEWS

By FRANK GENDRON
 Washington 4-H Club Agent

A date which I am sure you will want to keep is our Fall Achievement Day program at the Michigan Union ballroom on State street at 8:00 p.m. This event, sponsored by the Ann Arbor Kiwanis clubs has every indication of being an outstanding affair, and I'm sure you will find the program very interesting and enjoyable.

This year the committee is trying to obtain outstanding entertainment for your enjoyment and we hope that you will find the program most entertaining. During the evening the winner of the 4-H Club cup contest will be announced and presented to the president or leader of the club by J. W. Meadows, of the State Savings Bank, of Ann Arbor, sponsor of the contest. Leaders and members awards and pins will be presented to them during the program.

There are many more events planned for the evening which we feel will be of interest to all of you.

May I call the week of Nov. 3-11 to your attention as the National 4-H Achievement week. During this week, clubs in every state will take part in the many activities sponsored during this week. The 4-H Achievement Week is set up to let the general public know what we are doing in our 4-H clubs. To see that parents in every community understand and appreciate what their own boys and girls have accomplished through 4-H club work during the past year and its significance in relation to the total 4-H effort. To give recognition to groups as well as individual achievements, through 4-H club work. To help 4-H members to develop their own 1952 4-H club plans, based on their 1951 4-H achievements, particularly in their local 4-H clubs. To emphasize the 4-H opportunities afforded rural young people and encourage those not yet enrolled to join in keeping with enrollment goals set. To highlight the outstanding contributions of 4-H club members in helping to develop world-wide understanding and peaceful relationship. During these critical times, it is important that the public be informed regarding the many worthwhile 4-H activities to promote world peace—the thousands of letters sent and received by 4-H members; the quantities of clothing and other supplies distributed abroad; the sizable number of exchange visits made involving hundreds of farms here and across the seas, and the effective follow-up from all such activities to develop better understanding among people of all races and creeds.

Sunday callers of Mrs. Louis Eschelbach were Mr. and Mrs. Will Hass of Ann Arbor, and Mr. and Mrs. Gottlieb Horning and Mrs. Martha Dible and son Norman, of Pleasant Lake.

GIRL SCOUT NEWS

The Veterans of Foreign Wars Auxiliary presented an American flag to the Chelsea Girl Scouts on Monday, Oct. 15, at their weekly meeting. The Auxiliary was represented by Mrs. Henry Werner, Mrs. William Weber, and Mrs. Carl Lenta. Mrs. Werner made the presentation and Harriet Johnson accepted the flag for the Girl Scouts, with Gloria Brown and Janet Bernath acting as color guards. The whole group then gave the pledge of allegiance to the flag.

After the presentation the Tenderfoot Scouts were invested as Girl Scouts and received their pins after giving the Girl Scout promise. The following girls received their pins: Carol Ann, Fay Gage, Kathleen, Goltz, Ellen Kesch, Norma Jean Larson, Helen Lentz, Priscilla Neal, Lynn McMannick, Teostie Owens, Gloria Parris and Mellisa Tarasow.

Mrs. Wagner's group, which is working on their hostess badge, then entertained the newly-invested scouts. First they introduced each girl to the guests. Refreshments were served, consisting of cup cakes, made by the girls themselves, and root beer. The table, decorated by the girls, was very colorful with a fruit centerpiece, fall leaves and yellow candles.

The meeting ended with the girls forming the Girl Scout circle and singing "Day is Done."

A Hymn Is Born

BY CLINT BONNER

Alas! And Did My Saviour Bleed

A preacher's visit lasts 36 years

The Lord Mayor was there. Like other elite members of London's Mark Lane Church, he rarely missed a sermon by the renowned Dr. Watts. Isaac Watts was young for the pulpit at Mark Lane. Thirty-two he was now, but he had been at the big church ever since he was 20. He was small, just five feet and his big head made his small body look even smaller and his long neck more so. Hardly had he seen a well day since smallpox nearly killed him when he was 15. At Mark Lane he rarely preached two Sundays in succession, but the congregation wouldn't let him quit. They hired an assistant and told Dr. Watts to preach when he felt like it.

A few years after his illness Watts was sought out by a beautiful lady who fell in love with him through his poetry. Her name was Elizabeth Singer and Watts fell head over heels in love with her. He proposed marriage, but Miss Singer shied away in disappointment and said she "admired the jewel but could never love the casket." Abandoning hope of marriage, the little man wrote, "How vain are all things here below . . . How false and yet how fair."

As the Abney home Watts fell in love again with the three little daughters of his hostess. He wrote verses for them about "the busy little bee" and dogs that "delight to bark and bite" and cradle song that began, "Hush, my dear, lie still and slumber; Holy angels guard thy bed." The Abneys became so attached to their guest that they wouldn't let him leave. In 1720 Watts collected his juvenile verse into his classic "Divine and Moral Songs for Children." The book sold 50,000 copies a year and six generations were raised on it. Watts died still a bachelor, at the Abney home in 1749—38 years after going there for a week's rest. Perhaps the little man was thinking of his pocketful of love letters when he wrote one of the greatest hymns that has ever been written . . .

Alas, and did my Saviour bleed?
 And did my Sovereign die?
 Would he devote that sacred head
 For such a worm as I?

Was it for crimes that I have done,
 His blood upon me shed?
 Amazing love! How strange, how sweet,
 And how beyond degree!

Well might the sun in darkness hide,
 And shut his glories in,
 When Christ, the mighty Maker, died
 For man the creature's sin.

But drops of grief can never repay
 The debt of love I owe;
 Here, Lord, I give myself away,
 'Tis all that I can do.

Cpl. William B. Birch, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Birch, was among the airmen who participated in the recent Armed Forces blood drive held at Camp Stoneman to help alleviate the critical shortage of blood needed by the Armed Forces. Birch donated blood while awaiting reassignment by the 2349th Personnel Processing Group (Air Force), Camp Stoneman, Calif.

Mrs. Florence Howlett recently returned home from St. Joseph's Mercy hospital, Ann Arbor, where she had been a patient for four weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Hovey and daughters, Nancy and Beverly, of Detroit, spent Sunday here with Mrs. Hovey's mother, Mrs. Henry Mohrlock.

GLICK'S

A Boy Can Dream,
Can't He?...

SURE. You can probably remember when you sat behind a steering wheel with your own feet dangling somewhat short of the foot pedals . . . doing some pretty excited dreaming, yourself.

Nice thing about it, as you found out, little boys' dreams have a way of coming true, here in America.

And one reason for that is the fact that the competitive companies in every industry are free to outdo one another to make them come true.

Take the petroleum industry, for instance.

This year, the Ohio Oil Company, alone, is plowing back millions and millions of dollars (as it does every year) to bring in new wells, to expand its vast pipeline network, to improve its refining, transportation and marketing facilities.

That is partly for you.

It is also partly for that youngster whose scuffed toes don't quite reach the foot pedals — yet.

As long as the companies in the oil industry are free to compete to fill your needs . . . and his dreams . . . we can all look to the future with a lot of confidence, can't we?

Recent Detroit Wedding of Interest to Friends in Lyndon

A marriage of interest to entertainment and social circles of Detroit and vicinity took place recently when Margaret Marie Wheat and W. Bert Dierkes were united in marriage in a candlelight service in the chapel of the Metropolitan Methodist church, Detroit. The ceremony was attended by close friends and relatives.

Peggy is the daughter of Mrs. Lucile D. Materson, formerly of Highland Park, now living at Lakeview Farms, Chelsea, and the late T. E. Moss Wheat, a University of Michigan graduate and formerly Associate Dean of the Chrysler Graduate School of Engineering.

Bert is the son of Mrs. Celia Hart of Highland Park, and the late John Shields Dierkes, orchestra conductor and one-time accompanist to John Charles Thomas.

The bride had planned for a musical career and among several singing engagements spent a season with the Detroit Civic Light Opera company. She is a grandniece of the late well-known character actor, William Danforth, an original member of the American D'Ory Opera company of Gilbert and Sullivan fame.

Bert is well-known in entertainment circles both in Detroit and New York. He is a member of the Dierkes Brothers trio and recently sang on the television program with the Stanley trio on "Songs for your Supper." Bert made his debut on a Detroit radio station and has since sung on numerous radio programs from New York.

Peggy wore a wait-length gown of ice-blue satin and lace with illusion over the satin skirt. The lace of the off-shoulder effect was accented with rhinestones. Her double veil hung from a halo crown of lace, outlined with rhinestones. Her shower bouquet was of white roses, stephanotis and ivy tied with blue satin ribbon.

The bride's sister, Mrs. Lucile Rich, was her attendant and wore a coral, wait-length taffeta gown with matching hat also trimmed with rhinestones. Her shower bouquet was of yellow carnations, large, shaggy chrysanthemums and ivy.

The two mothers carried out the blue and coral theme. Mrs. Materson wore soft blue crepe with beige accessories and a yellow tulle roses corsage, while Mrs. Hart wore navy blue crepe with lace and a coral hat with matching corsage.

Shields Dierkes served as best man for his brother. The bride was given in marriage by her stepfather, Thomas M. Materson.

Ushers were Donald Dierkes and Jack Reid, other members of the Dierkes trio.

After a reception in Dearborn, the couple left on a motor trip to New York City.

THIS being a land where it is every man's right to dream of getting ahead—and the pursuit of happiness is guaranteed by the Constitution—it happens that a great many people aspire to own a Buick.

It's what happens HERE that counts

The drawings on the left show one reason why the CA Tractor has unusually good traction. Wide-based 10-inch tires on a 10-inch rim have a broad face, using the full width of the tread to grip the earth. When properly inflated, each rear tire has approximately 17 percent more square inches of surface on the ground than with conventional rims.

Another reason is the hydraulic Traction Booster which gives the CA the weight instead of deadweight. With mounted tools, as the load increases, the Traction Booster automatically increases weight on the rear wheels in proportion to the load.

The new CA has plowing power you've never seen before in a tractor this size. Let us prove it on your farm.

Report from Washington

By Congressman George Meader

Washington, D. C.—At the invitation of Chairman Herbert Bonner (D-N.C.) I will take part in a world-wide field investigation which is a sub-committee of the House Committee on Expenditures in the Executive Departments. The committee is making a study to determine whether the federal government is using business-like methods in its management of defense supplies.

The Bonner sub-committee has been active in this investigation since last January, and on Oct. 9 was authorized by Speaker Sam Rayburn to carry its study into our actual military operations around the world.

The purpose of the inquiry is stated in an announcement by the sub-committee as follows:

"To insure the speediest possible construction of an adequate national defense, the Congress has written the military establishment a blank check. This is the greatest expenditure authorization in our history.

"It is the responsibility of the tribulation of military supplies are concerned exists largely in name only.

"With the tremendous budget with which we are faced in the Congress, we must take all necessary steps to eliminate duplication, waste and extravagance. We are in need of all our resources with care and thought in the interest of national security.

"With military contracts being let at the rate of one billion dollars a week, the sub-committee is convinced that military supply activities offer a productive field for achieving large economies. Furthermore, well-planned supply management policies will result in a more effective fighting force, achieve a higher degree of efficiency, and better unify our strength for resisting aggression.

This investigation deals with the same fields of military operation in which I conducted investigations around the world for the Senate War Investigating Committee during World War II. It was partly because of my familiarity with the subject that I was invited to accompany the Bonner sub-committee.

At the same time, this investigation will provide me with an opportunity to make first-hand inquiries and observations on the manner in which American business concerns abroad are being assisted by our government agencies, the problems which private enterprise is encountering in doing business in foreign countries. This information is important to the proposal I have put forward for emphasis on the exporting of our American free enterprise system as our best approach to helping the free world with a minimum drain upon public funds.

Through the Department of Commerce, the Detroit Board of Commerce, and other sources, I am seeking to establish contact with representatives of the American business concerns located in the various cities on the sub-committee's itinerary. I hope to have interviews with them to obtain first-hand knowledge of their problems and of the effectiveness of our government agencies, including the State Department and the Economic Cooperation Administration, in those areas.

The sub-committee already has shown its determination to conduct a thorough investigation. In preparation for this field trip, it has held extensive hearings in Washington with representatives of the State and Defense Departments and the Economic Cooperation Administration, to develop as
