BREAD!

Who Says So!

Look for the red Michigan Made Seal on these three brands!

Man overboard!

and, my gosh
it's me

You have heard the story of the man telling of his experience on a crowded dock. "Suddenly," he said, "there were cries of 'Man overboard'! I look, and my gosh, it's me!"

There are people today who join in the cry, "Down with corporation profits." If they succeed, they will soon be looking around and finding it's they who are overboard; they've pushed themselves off the dock.

Corporation profits do not go into the pockets of just a few. Profits are used to buy more and better machines so that more products can be made at lower prices. Without more efficient machines, there could not be any hope for better wages. In fact, there might be less wages, and the Company would soon be out of business.

Doesn't it follow that people who shout against corporation profits shout against their own jobs? Obviously they're pushing themselves right off the dock.

NEW BASKETBALL SYSTEM

A new system has been inaugurated into our basketball competition in the Huron League. In former years each of the eight teams played one game against each of its seven opponents. This year each league team will play three extra games, thus playing three of the teams twice.

The teams are divided into seven rounds. At the end of these seven rounds, each team will have played each league school once. At the end of the seventh round, the first three will be repeated with home team sites reversed.

Next season the schedule will begin with round four and rounds four, five, and six will be repeated. Although a difficulty may result from one team playing two games against a strong team, and another team playing two games against a weak one, it is believed that these weaknesses will even up over the years and that the ten-game schedule will show a much truer championship picture than did the old seven-game schedule.

EYE TESTING PROGRAM

In cooperation with the Washtenaw County Health Service, the Chemistry class will sponsor an eye-testing program Thursday, Dec. 13. Junior High and Senior High pupils will have their eyes examined for a few of the most common defects, but this is in no way supposed to be considered a complete examination; instead, it is merely to determine whether or not to recommend eyes for further examination.

Students should show courtesy and cooperation toward these testers, realizing that the project is being done for their own benefit.

CBS TO DEBATE DANVILLE

In speech class the students are working on debate techniques. Some of the topics debated are Communism, intercollegiate sports, capital punishment in Michigan, etc. Tape recordings are being made of these debates and are played back for the students. These recordings are helpful to the students by pointing out various speech faults.

The varsity debate team will meet Danville at the Danville High school on the evening of Dec. 13 at 7:30. Representing Chelsea's affirmative team will be Jean Schweinfurth and Barbara Speer. The negative team is represented by Sandra Baldwin and David Bertke. Bruce Peabody and Harvey Koselka will act as substitutes for this year's team in case one of the regular members becomes ill.

The team will be driven to Danville in the school station wagon, accompanied by their coach, Miss Nanry. Anyone who would like to attend this debate is cordially invited.

GAA NEWS

The girls have started their weekly bowling. Captains and team names are as follows: C. Paul, "The Green Thumbs"; M. Moore, "The Lucky Strikers"; A. Harker, "The Pin Poppers"; and B. Fowler, "The Striking Seniors."

The girls' basketball team will play its first game Friday afternoon, Dec. 14, against U. High.

STUDENT COUNCIL

The Student Council approved the nomination of the persons appointed to purchase Christmas gifts for the teachers.

HI-Y

The HI-Y went swimming last Wednesday. Chaperones were Mr. Fischer and Mr. Benjamin.

HOMEMAKING

Homemaking I girls have been planning and serving meals. Guests have been the teachers, friends and anyone the groups chose.

Homemaking II girls have been remodeling and patching clothes. Homemaking III girls are finishing their formal, suits, dresses and housecoats.

Movies . . .

The American Government class saw two movies last week. The first, "The Supreme Court," showed the nomination of the persons appointed to purchase Christmas gifts for the teachers. The second movie, "Basic Court Procedures," showed the basic procedure of a criminal case from the indictment to the verdict.

The driver-training classes saw a movie entitled "Last Date." The movie showed two couples who were driving after a party. The first boy was a good driver who followed all the laws, but the second boy broke some of the laws, caused an accident in which he was killed and the girl with him was seriously injured.

"Silver Harvest," a movie about the fishing industries of Norway, was shown to the seventh grade.

Physics class saw a film entitled "ABC's of Internal Combustion."

A long trip through South America was shown to the seventh grade history class in the movie "Pan-American Highways."

At joint installation services held in the Municipal building Thursday evening, Dec. 6, officers of Lafayette, Cavanaugh Lake and North Sylvan Granges were installed by Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wheeler, of Webster Grange. The Wheelers qualified as installing officers because of their attendance at the State Grange convention this year as delegates of Washtenaw Pomona Grange.

Following the installation, Mrs. Wheeler gave a report on the state convention. Mr. and Mrs. Fred Ahrens, of Saline, visitors at the installation, also reported on activities at the convention.

Report from Washington

By Congressman George Meader

Washington, D. C.—Discussions with American businessmen and with State Department and Economic Cooperation Administration officials during my six weeks of investigations around the world with the Bonner Subcommittee of the House Expenditures committee have fortified my conviction that there is urgent need for action on two proposals which I have made.

I discussed my proposal to establish a commission on aid to undeveloped areas with diplomatic and business officials, and found rather universal endorsement of the program by individuals who are actually dealing with these problems in their day-to-day duties and responsibilities.

I also found, even within the State Department itself, rather widespread support for my proposal that the State Department be carefully and impartially examined by the Congress with a view to adopting measures which could strengthen it and improve its performance in international affairs in these critical times.

While I may have to revise my thinking upon further investigation of specific cases, I was unable to discern any interest on the part of our State Department or ECA in the problems of American businesses abroad, or any confidence among business representatives that American officials would take any action to assist them in some of the difficult obstacles confronting them in doing business abroad. Today, American investors abroad face not only the well-recognized hazards of currency exchange, possibility of expropriation, discrimination against foreigners and instability of governments, but the more serious danger of favoritism and corruption.

It would seem natural that our representatives, in their stewardship of American tax funds, provide for economic and military aid to bolster the defense of the free world, would have the obligation to make certain that such funds were not diverted from their purpose into the hands of a favored few. Such insistence upon honest dealing in public affairs would go a long way toward eliminating or minimizing the obstacle of corruption which confronts business investors.

However, recent revelations as to the level of ethics in our own government, as evidenced by scandals in the Reconstruction Finance Corporation loans, the income tax evasions, and in many other government activities, raise the very serious question whether our representatives under this administration are in any position to insist upon honesty and fair and impartial dealings in the governments which receive our aid.

I feel sure I am not alone among the numerous Representatives who have spent recent weeks witnessing, at first hand, our activities and expenditures overseas in feeling that our resources are being squandered abroad.

We are getting very little from the huge sums devoted to foreign aid compared with what we could get if those funds were more intelligently administered by hard-headed, patriotic agents, sincerely devoted to the principles, purposes and interests of the American people. There should be excluded from this blanket appraisal a great many officials who are working diligently and patriotically, but who, unfortunately, seem to have altogether too little influence on the basic trend and direction of our policy. What we need is more common sense in the administration of these aid programs.

My attention was called to at least a dozen and a half specific instances of situations confronting American concerns in which the authority of our State Department or other agencies could be of direct or indirect assistance in arriving at a solution. Before commenting publicly on these concrete cases, which in my judgment will reveal the true picture more clearly than general statements, I want to conduct further investigations, primarily in this country.

I can, however, report some conclusions of which I am confident: If we are to combat the totalitarian communist economic and political system, the United States cannot avoid taking an interest in international economic affairs and in economic conditions in countries outside the Russian orbit. Merely pouring out U. S. tax dollars, whatever the amount, never will produce lasting results. These tax dollars should be no more than a tool, which, intelligently employed, would accomplish our basic objective of establishing and maintaining free economic and political institutions which will enable the citizens of foreign countries to become productive and self-sustaining.

No government official was willing to hazard a guess as to the termination date of the aid we are furnishing, on the basis of our present method of supplying aid.

There seems to be no policy or any appreciable effort on the part of agents and agencies of the United States government to utilize the leverage of our donations to encourage the governments receiving our aid to inaugurate reforms which would render their countries more nearly self-sustaining, and to eliminate or minimize legitimate grievances of the downtrodden.

There is too little noticeable effort on the part of our representatives to foster and encourage the establishment of free competitive economies founded upon the principle of equality of opportunity, which has been the genius of American productivity and the abundance which has rendered our general standard of living the highest in the world.

Fabulous wealth and abject poverty exist side-by-side today in Europe and Asia, as they always have. Our aid programs have had no noticeable influence on this situation, nor is there any apparent evidence of an effort on the part of our officials to do anything about it.

Tax structures which favor the wealthy, unsound social programs, widespread tax evasion, favoritism, and downright corruption seem to be unaffected by American aid programs, except that the dollars extracted from the American people are mingled with the public and private funds of the countries we are aiding.

Those are the impressions gained in a 26,000-mile flight which included 21 hearings, 137 hours of recorded testimony, 50 hours of inspecting depots, repair shops and other installations, and numerous conferences with officials of American business concerns and U. S. agencies abroad.

Picture of a man
making a smart decision

HERE is a man who's been doing a lot of thinking.

Someday, he's told himself, I'm going to turn in my old car and get a new one.

And he said, still talking to himself, when I do that I'm going to size up the field—give 'em all a real going over.

You see him here at the wheel of a Buick. He hasn't bought it—yet. It's a demonstrator, and he's trying it out.

But the more he tries it, the more he knows he's been wasting a lot of time.

From the moment he looked inside, he said: Here's the room—and the comfort—and the style I've been looking for.

Then he nudged its Fireball Engine into action. It's a high-compression valve-in-head, as you probably know.

He eased out into traffic. Stopped and started for a couple of traffic lights, and said something to the effect that this Dynaflo Drive* is a honey. Why don't they all build 'em this way?

He saw a bump ahead. Place where the pavement had been torn up. Other cars were braking down to a creep to cross it. He held back—rolled right across at regular speed with barely a bobble.

It's hard to believe, he said, but what they say about Buick's ride is right.

Ten minutes later he was out on an open stretch of road. Tried an experimental push on the gas treadle. Boy—what a take-off! You couldn't want more power than that.

Ten minutes more—and he knew something else. You don't really steer a Buick. It just about steers itself. Stays right on the beam on the straightaway. Even straightens itself out after a curve.

To make a long story short—he's found out that nothing else he's tried out can hold a candle—not even a little Christmas candle—to this bonnie beauty.

Back at the Buick showroom, he's going to get one more surprise. The price of a Buick is a lot less than he'd guessed it would be.

Moral: Smart Buy's Buick—right now.

Fair Play in Business

In a unanimous decision handed down in 1936, the U.S. Supreme Court formulated a new concept which held that trade-marks, like patents and copyrights, are property and deserve safeguards against being exploited, without the owner's consent. In this declaring fair trade laws constitutional, the high court denounced the practice of using well-known brands as price-footballs.

South Lyon—Irvin Cecil Witt, 13 year old son of Louis R. Witt, of Fenton, died in the University hospital in Ann Arbor Monday evening as a result of a fall in the barn where he was playing. The accident occurred at the home of an uncle, Samuel Witt, at Ewart, Mich., where he was visiting.

This is the third time tragedy has come to the Louis R. Witt family. It will be remembered that in December 1946 members of the family were riding in a car which collided with a locomotive on the Ann Arbor railroad near Horse-shoe lake. The mother was killed and a sister lost a leg. Mr. Witt was slightly injured in this accident.

Irvin's brother David was killed Nov. 22, 1950, when his car hit a freight train on the Grand Trunk railroad at Rushton.

The Witt family formerly resided in South Lyon—South Lyon Herald.

Saline—Sue Thomas, Rotary's "Youth for Understanding" representative, has written a letter to the Observer about her "good will trip."

She writes in part, as follows: "Damage from the war is still quite evident here in Mulhouse. Most of the people have told me the same story so it must be true. It seems that the American flyers were to bomb the railroad station as there is a large one in Mulhouse. However, their bombing wasn't very accurate and they destroyed a lot of the town but they didn't even touch the station! Well, what could I say after that? However, when they told me this story the people were usually smiling so I didn't even try to say anything!"

—Saline Observer.

Manchester—What's it like to sign your name 1,900 times?

Franklin M. Reck of Manchester found out in Chicago Sunday, Nov. 25, during the National 4-H Club Congress, when he autographed that many copies of his latest book, "The 4-H Story," the new, approved history of the 4-H movement. Through the courtesy of Thomas E. Wilson, packing house executive, all the delegates, leaders and guests at the Congress received free copies of the book.

Reck reports that the job of autographing the books took seven hours. Reck and his daughter, Sarah, accompanied him to the Congress, turned the signing into a production line job. One handed him the books opened to the title page, and the other took the books away and stacked them. The pile of books made a stack about the size of four cords of wood.—Manchester Enterprise.

Milan—What might have been a fatality on the new route of US-23 was averted Sunday by the new road just placed on the shoulders.

Donald Beckley, two year old son of Donald D. Beckley of 502 4th Street, Ann Arbor, was thrown from his father's car traveling at about 50 miles per hour.

The child was playing in the back seat and opened the door and was thrown out. Fortunately he landed on the soft sod and when his father stopped the car and ran back to pick him up, was already on his feet and walking toward the father.—Milan Leader.

Mrs. Harvey Johnson, of Detroit, came Saturday to be the guest of Miss Josephine Walker until after the funeral of her uncle, William Canfield, held here Monday afternoon. Other guests of Miss Walker Monday were Mr. Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Canfield, Mrs. William McNae and daughter, Leota, and Mrs. Ronald Whetter, all of Detroit.

Sunday evening visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Eisenman were Mr. and Mrs. Harold Eisenman, of Rogers Corners.

4-H CLUB NEWSBy FRANK GENDRON

The Junior Livestock Show in Detroit proved to be quite a show and I certainly enjoyed every minute of it.

Mrs. Brown accompanied the girls from the county who showed their livestock at the show.

The boys and girls were the guests of the many commercial industries such as the Dearborn Motors Corp., and Detroit Edison, General Mills, Independent Slaughterers Association, U. S. Rubber Co., to name a few.

On Tuesday evening they were guests at the show, "Holiday on Ice."

Wednesday evening at the Annual Banquet Phil Ward, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Phil Ward of Ypsilanti, was awarded the $500.00 scholarship by the Independent Slaughterers of Detroit. To be eligible the boy must be a high school senior with outstanding 4-H Club achievement records.

It is interesting to note that Washenaw county had the first Grand Champion Steer of the Junior Livestock Show won by Foreyth McCrone in 1929 and now we again have another first by Phil winning the first $500.00 scholarship of the show.

Seventeen members had their animals at the show. In the Lamb division Suzanne Nixon of Dexter placed sixth in pen of three, seventh with her individual South-down lamb, Roy Losey, Ypsilanti, seventh with pen of three and sixth in individual; Marjorie Bradbury, Dexter, placed fifth in pen of three and fourth in individual class.

In the Steer division Willard Ward, Ypsilanti, was third in the medium weight Angus class and Philip Ward, Ypsilanti, was fifth in the heavy-weight Angus class. Others showing steers were William Nixon, Joan Losey, Roger Mulholland, Robert Ward and Jack Ward all of Ypsilanti; Robert Leland and Nancy Leland of Whitmore Lake, Darlene and Barbara Klump of Saline; Arlene Lesser, Dave Fischer and Fred Fischer of Dexter.

Just a reminder, boys and girls, who are entering the beef project for next year's show should have their animals and be started on this project at this date.

Any boy 12 years old or older will have an opportunity to join a tractor maintenance club to be organized at the Washtenaw county Farm Bureau Store on Dec. 20 at 8:30 p.m., with Morgan McCalla as leader. A movie will be shown. Anyone interested call Morgan McCalla before the day of the meeting.

All winter projects should be well under way in order to be completed before Achievement Day. If there is anyone who hasn't sent time in his or her enrollment do so by January 15.

Electrical supplies are available at the office. Our enrollment has reached the 356 mark.

Fred Mensing left here yesterday for Jackson and is leaving Jackson today to return to his home in Ventura, Calif. Mr. Mensing had spent the past six weeks with his sister, Mrs. P. M. Brosame, and for two weeks of that time had visited relatives in the east.

DEATHS

William E. Canfield

William E. Canfield, who was born in Chelsea and operated a meat market here in the 1890's, died early Saturday at the home of a niece, Mrs. Jennie Leota Johnson, 17697 Westmoreland avenue, Detroit, where he had made his home the past three years. He was 90 years old. His wife, the former Lois Chase, member of a pioneer Chelsea family, died Dec. 24, 1947. They were married in Chelsea July 10, 1885.

After leaving Chelsea, Mr. Canfield and his brother, Fred, operated a grocery store and meat market in Detroit for a number of years and then he was employed as a salesman for a butchers' supply company until his retirement.

A son of Wesley and Sarah Letts Canfield, he was born in Chelsea Oct. 13, 1861.

Survivors of Mr. Canfield are two nieces and two nephews, Mrs. Johnson at whose home he died, Mrs. Mabel McNaie, and Ralph and Merrill Canfield, all of Detroit.

Funeral services were held at the Staffan Funeral Home here at 2:30 Monday afternoon, with Rev. David Bryce officiating. Burial was in Oak Grove cemetery.

Detroit Women Win Bowling Match from Local All-Stars

George Winchester, Jr., Philip McGinley, George Lawrence, Philip Stoll and Richard Ringe, Chelsea men's team of crack bowlers, lost to the all-star women's team from Detroit by only 9 points last Sunday afternoon. Final score of the afternoon was 2688 for the ladies and 2679 for the men. The ladies, score on the second game was 975, considered an outstanding record.

The ladies' team has invited the Chelsea men's team to a match in Detroit soon with a third match to be played in Chelsea in the spring.

Olga Galay, one of the regular team members was unable to attend Monday's contest and Gladys Dempsey, of Detroit, substituted for her. Other women on the team were Anita Cantalino, Marge Skel, Ann Cohane and Pat Lipa. They call themselves the Badalament Bananas.

They belong to a Detroit league which requires an average of not less than 850 for two successive seasons to remain eligible as league members.

Local Soldier Named to Honor Guard for Touring Royalty

Pfc. Paul Rudd, who is stationed with the Air Police Squadron at Peperrell Air Force Base at St. Johns, Newfoundland, Canada, wrote a letter to his sister, Mrs. Richard Wahl, in which he told her he was one of the 50 men picked from the base personnel to act as honor guard for Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh on their recent tour. Pfc. Rudd wrote that the honor guard there was the only one in the armed forces of the United States for which the princess held inspection with the exception of the one in Washington. He said the Princess is very charming and is much more beautiful than her pictures.

to alert defense chiefs for possible crackdowns. The wage stabilization board is considering a plan to halt the shanghaiing of men from one employer to another.

● The Michigan State Bar association again is pushing legislation which would "reform" the state's judicial system. They would nominate judges from a list drawn up by a panel consisting of the chief justice of the Michigan supreme court, three attorneys and three laymen; establish a court administrator to keep tabs on work done by judges, and give the supreme court power to fine, rebar or jail judges found guilty of conduct unbecoming a judge, on or off the bench.

● The Midwest will become a "depressed area" unless the St. Lawrence seaway is built, according to Lt. Gen. Lewis A. Pick, chief of army engineers. He echoed the argument long voiced by Michigan that the steel industry is moving east of the Appalachian mountains and that the automobile industry won't be far behind. Encouragement for the passage of the seaway bill has been received from congressmen.

Same legislation was defeated by the lawmakers two years ago.

● Michigan State College officials predict their self-liquidating building program will pay for itself within 15 years.

● Mental health officials are working over plans for a model state-operated neuro-psychiatric institution at Wayne university patterned after research programs in Indiana and New York.

● Champion and runner-up champion wheat growers of North America are Michiganders. Harold
