

"Hello! This is the Sooper Hooper Manufacturing Co. We've got a defense contract for hydro-

Such a request is duck soup for the Michigan Department of Economic Development.

From its files of more than 2,000 Michigan plants, it quickly comes up with the right answer.

So the hydrogobinators go into production, the Air Force and a defense contractor and a more payroll comes to Michigan.

This is just one of the services the DED performs to build Michigan prosperity.

Our Industrial Development Service takes credit for assisting in bringing two large plants to Michigan recently and has helped several plants not to move or expand out of the state.

Up at Iron Mountain, the former Ford body plant stood idle since last December. One of our agents was hired by the owners to build a building to expand full-time filling the plant with new industry already has 20 per cent of the space occupied.

Meanwhile the division is working with five other hard-hit areas to help stimulate all-out community programs to attract industry.

Michigan business itself has subscribed $20,000 for a survey of the economic potential of the Upper Peninsula. In progress is a program to run on a $100,000 by subscription by business for a Michigan-wide promotion program.

Business realizes, in the words of Weeks, that "nothing is more important to the whole community of Michigan than to be recognized as a place which has an economic climate favorable to industry. That climate can't be improved until Michigan residents know what has to be done and action is then predicated on careful planning to unite Michigan in attracting industry."

A survey made last year by the University of Michigan, with business footing the $20,000 bill, shows that industry thinks of the state, and the state thinks of industry, as a place which has an economic climate favorable to industry. That climate can't be improved until Michigan residents know what has to be done and action is then predicated on careful planning to unite Michigan in attracting industry."

Always working with the community itself, the department has an average list of 150 industrial buildings available for rent, lease or purchase.

The Industry Service Division has played a prime part in getting defense contracts and sub-contracts for Michigan plants since the start of the Korea police action.

The Research division provides technical services to the other divisions and communities which want to survey their own assets (and liabilities) and prepare brochures to attract industry.

Economics is an awfully dry sounding term. But reduced from all those syllables, it means, basically, how much money does John Q. Citizen have in his pocket and what can he buy with it?

In those terms, economics is something that concerns everybody all of the time.

That's why Michigan citizens are lucky that the Department of Economic Development is directed by a commission made up of 19 prominent business and professional men from all parts of the state.

Their names are too many to enumerate here, but Dan Gerber, Governor's Budget Director, is chairman of the commission and is typical of the stature of the men who guide this program since the commission was created five years ago by the legislature.

How's business in Michigan? The report of the Michigan Department of Revenue just released for the month of June indicated it's improving steadily since March.

Total sales and use tax collections for June were $21.06 million, an increase of $618,031 over May's $20,442,000.

Remodeling Livery Stable for Plant Use

Longworth Plating Works Will Move Into New Quarters

The old livery stable on Jackson street, just east of the W. R. Daniels garage, has been undergoing extensive remodeling for the past three months and, according to present plans, will be ready for its new role as a modern, well-equipped plant for the Longworth Plating Service within the next few weeks.

The plating service, owned and operated by Marion Longworth, will move from its present location in the Tower building as soon as the remodeling is completed.

The 70x75-foot building has a new concrete floor. Approximately half of the first floor space will house the plating room which is being equipped with a truck system. Material to be plated will be put into a barrel at the starting point and will follow through the various steps of cleaning, rinsing, acid bath, plating, and cold water rinses to the finished job.

The new equipment also includes an electric hoist. More work will be possible with less manual effort, Longworth said. He said it will be possible to expand operations in the new location and more equipment will be added as needed, to handle the larger volume of work.

An office, 9x16 feet, and a laboratory, 11x16 feet, will also be located on the first floor, with the remaining space reserved for storage. Storage space will also be provided on the second floor of the building.

Five men are now employed at the plating works, in addition to Longworth.

Store Building To House Attorney, Insurance Offices

The store building at 115 Park street, formerly occupied by Chelsea Appliance, is undergoing extensive remodeling to provide office space for James Hendley, local attorney, and Alfred Mayer, insurance agent.

The Mayer office will occupy the front part of the building and will be separated from the Hendley office by a solid partition. The Hendley office, at the back part of the building, will be reached by a hallway leading from the front entrance.

The Hendley office, approximately 600 square feet in size, will have a reception room, secretary's office, consulting office, and library. The move from the present office, Hendley said, will provide more available space for the office and have the added convenience of being on the ground floor.

Hendley has been located in the present office since he became associated with the late John Kalmbach in 1936. He continued practice there following Kalmbach's death in 1942.

Mayer's office, entirely separated from the Hendley suite by the solid partition, will be entered from the hallway and will have one large room and two smaller private offices. The private offices will be at the east side of the building. The large room will have counter space similar to that in the present second-floor office space in the Freeman building.

Mayer said the move to the new location was planned as a convenience to the public as well as to provide more space for his office which is also the local branch of the office of the secretary of state for issuing automobile licenses.

The move to the new office will be made as soon as remodeling is completed, probably about Oct. 1.

Proceeding the dinner there will be a reception from 6 until 7 o'clock honoring the candidates in the lounge of McKenny hall.

The public is invited to attend both the reception and the dinner. Tickets for the dinner may be secured by contacting Democratic headquarters, 103 South Fourth avenue, Ann Arbor.

U. of M. Graduate Schools Ready for Opening Next Week

New High School Students Register Today, Tomorrow

School buses will make their first runs on Thursday, Sept. 4, which is the day school opens here for all classes. According to an announcement by Supt. Charles S. Cameron, the bus schedules of last year will be followed. These are familiar to all who were transported to school the past year.

Following the custom of the past year, also, all pupils, except those who live near the rural schools they attend, will be transported to Chelsea, and the second and third grades will be taken from there to the four rural schools where classes are held.

The rural schools of the district are the Biemer School, Savage, Sylvan Center and Pumpkin College schools. All second and third grade pupils bring lunches. Adjustments in the bus schedules may be made later, Supt. Cameron said, but for the present, last year's routes and schedules will be maintained.

Including the new, 30-passenger GMC bus, the Chelsea Agricultural Schools district now has a fleet of seven buses and a station wagon. Pupils in the district who will not be served by the bus schedule should call Supt. Cameron at once.

Kindergarten pupils are to be accompanied by their parents the first day of school and parents will be asked to come after their children Friday because it will be impossible to have the bus schedule set up for the newly-entered children before Monday.

Kindergartners who live within walking distance of the school should be brought to school at 1 p.m., while those served by the school buses should come in the morning.

Sale of lockers and text books for junior and senior high school pupils and registration of students not previously registered in the two high school groups are in progress today and tomorrow. The registration began yesterday and is being processed in the office of the high school principal, John Griffin.

Football candidates are reminded to have physical examination forms filled out and ready to hand in when equipment is issued at 9:30 a.m. Saturday, Aug. 30.

North Main Street Work for This Year Near Completion

The North Main street road construction program, begun last May, is nearing completion on the work to be done this year. Village President Anton Nielsen, checking on the progress of the work this week, said it was almost certain that the New York Central Main street crossing will be finished this week. The crossing has been closed since June.

Gravel fill is being applied on the roadbed from the crossing to the North Main street bridge. As one layer becomes packed down another is applied. A seal coat will be added when all gravel has been applied. This will complete the preparations for the pavement which is to be the final step of the improvement project.

Necessary sidewalk construction is still to be done. Gould and Cross of Grand Rapids are the contractors in charge of the construction.

New Grade School To Be Completed Within Two Months

The new elementary school construction is proceeding rapidly but the building will not be completed in time for the opening of school. All partitions are now in place and ceilings are being installed. Carpenters are putting in the tack boards and blackboards and the painters are to follow when the carpenters are finished.

The weather delayed the installation of the oil tanks, scheduled for two weeks ago, but the installation was to be completed by this week. It is believed the remaining work should be completed within the next two months.

Visitors the past week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Sager included Mr. and Mrs. Fred Boon, Mrs. Herman Podewil and daughter, and Mrs. Richard Springman, all of Ann Arbor. Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Reynolds and son, of Webberville, and Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Dalton of Danville. The Sagers' daughter, Mrs. C. A. Brandy, of Birmingham, spent several days here helping care for Mrs. Sager who was ill.

Drivers Urged To Use Caution Over Labor Day

With two holiday week-ends having already accounted for 56 Michigan traffic deaths this summer, State Police Commissioner Joseph A. Childs is urging motorists to prevent a deadly conclusion to the season by exercising extra care on crowded highways over the Labor Day period.

"In 1941," Childs said, "the combined traffic death toll for the three summer holiday week-ends, Memorial Day, Fourth of July and Labor Day, was 118, the highest on record. The lowest was 24 in 1944.

"Last year 14 persons were killed over the Labor Day period, Friday through Monday. It was the safest Labor Day week-end, from the standpoint of fatalities, since 1944, when only seven were killed. The highest toll was 46 in 1940.

"Drivers exercised a great deal of care and common sense last year and the week-end toll was comparatively low. The volume of traffic will probably set a new record this Labor Day if weather conditions are favorable, but nevertheless the toll can be further reduced if drivers are cautious. If they are, it will help bring the summer to a more happy ending."

Remodeling Livery Stable for Plant Use

Longworth Plating Works Will Move Into New Quarters

The old livery stable on Jackson street, just east of the W. R. Daniels garage, has been undergoing extensive remodeling for the past three months and, according to present plans, will be ready for its new role as a modern, well-equipped plant for the Longworth Plating Service within the next few weeks.

The plating service, owned and operated by Marion Longworth, will move from its present location in the Tower building as soon as the remodeling is completed.

The 70x75-foot building has a new concrete floor. Approximately half of the first floor space will house the plating room which is being equipped with a truck system. Material to be plated will be put into a barrel at the starting point and will follow through the various steps of cleaning, rinsing, acid bath, plating, and cold water rinses to the finished job.

An office, 9x16 feet, and a laboratory, 11x16 feet, will also be located on the first floor, with the remaining space reserved for storage. Storage space will also be provided on the second floor of the building.

Five men are now employed at the plating works, in addition to Longworth.

Store Building To House Attorney, Insurance Offices

The store building at 115 Park street, formerly occupied by Chelsea Appliance, is undergoing extensive remodeling to provide office space for James Hendley, local attorney, and Alfred Mayer, insurance agent.

The Mayer office will occupy the front part of the building and will be separated from the Hendley office by a solid partition. The Hendley office, at the back part of the building, will be reached by a hallway leading from the front entrance.

The Hendley office, approximately 600 square feet in size, will have a reception room, secretary's office, consulting office, and library. The move from the present office, Hendley said, will provide more available space for the office and have the added convenience of being on the ground floor.

Hendley has been located in the present office since he became associated with the late John Kalmbach in 1936. He continued practice there following Kalmbach's death in 1942.

Mayer's office, entirely separated from the Hendley suite by the solid partition, will be entered from the hallway and will have one large room and two smaller private offices. The private offices will be at the east side of the building. The large room will have counter space similar to that in the present second-floor office space in the Freeman building.

Mayer said the move to the new location was planned as a convenience to the public as well as to provide more space for his office which is also the local branch of the office of the secretary of state for issuing automobile licenses.

The move to the new office will be made as soon as remodeling is completed, probably about Oct. 1.

Mister, that's Cornpicking!

"I was surprised and pleased to see my Allis-Chalmers 2-Row Corn Harvester handle such a heavy yield," says Herbert Roadruck, Indiana's 1931 Champion Corn Grower with 199.4 bushels per acre.

Picking two ears where one usually grows is far beyond the normal call of duty for a picker.

Let us show you how easily an Allis-Chalmers will pick your corn crop — regardless of yield per acre.

"We Fix Everything But Broken Hearts!"

Do you believe in a ^{Dollar} signs?

There are a lot of signs to guide you to the best buy in automobiles. Popularity is a good sign. It means that a lot of people have tried a car and found it good. So it's important to know that Buick is today—and has been since 1938—the most popular car outside the "low-priced three."

Room, comfort, power, ride are good signs. So it's important to know that you can pay hundreds of dollars more and not beat the room and comfort you get in a Buick SPECIAL.

Nor, at the price, can you match its power. And only Buick gives you a real million dollar ride.

Doesn't all this give you a hint? Doesn't it suggest that you ought to try out a Buick—sample its Fireball 8 Engine—find out how it takes you over the road—feel the sure control that is yours on curves—discover its "big car" room and smoothness?

Do that—and look at the dollars on the price tag—and we know what you'll find out: If you can afford a new car, you can own a Buick—and boy, what fun that will be!

Technical Difficulties Force Cancellation of Bethel Broadcast

The radio broadcast of the services at Bethel Evangelical and Reformed church in Freedom township, scheduled for last Sunday, was cancelled because of technical difficulties encountered after arrangements had been almost completed. It was found that the telephone installations in the neighborhood of the church were not of sufficiently high power to handle such transmissions, according to Rev. T. W. Menzel, pastor of the church.

The Sunday morning service was recorded and is to be broadcast some time in October, it was announced. Ann Arbor's Bethlehem Evangelical and Reformed church service was broadcast Sunday instead of the service from Bethel church.
