The proposed zoning map is to be on display in the window of the Electric Light and Water Department office in the Municipal building and residents are asked to examine it. If they have any comments or suggestions for changes, it was pointed out, any councilman or Robert Devine, the village clerk, may be contacted. Comments and suggestions will be listed and will be considered for possible changes. Comments and suggestions will also be in order at the public hearing, it was announced.

Rich Natural Gas Well Hit in Drilling Near Northville

A gas well, which Northville and South Lyon area residents believe may be the "largest in the nation" was brought in on the Charles Nerret farm on Chubb road, two miles west of Maybury Sanatorium Tuesday afternoon, May 11.

The gas was struck at a level of approximately 4,300 feet. Drillers were looking for oil and had struck some gas on Friday, May 7, and ran the oil in paying quantities on Sunday.

Believing they would reach a deeper, larger oil pool, drillers continued operating and discovered the present gas supply estimated to produce 20,000,000 cubic feet per day.

The force of the gas pressure blew the heavy cable and drill out of the hole and high in the air with a thunderous roar. Workmen scrambled for safety and then returned to cap the hole to prevent danger of fire and explosion.

Nerret, on whose property the rich gas well was drilled, is a former Kaiser-Frazer employee and has been laid off the past six months.

Last February oil and gas in paying quantities was found in wells drilled by William C. Taggart on the Roy LeMaster farm and the Ralph H. Wilson farm in Salem township and increasing numbers of drillers have been busily engaged in trying to locate oil in the northeast section of Washtenaw county since then.

The well on the Nerret farm was being drilled by William C. Taggart of Edward Torosian & Associates.

Veterans Council
Studies Proposed
Children's Facility

The May meeting of the Washtenaw County Veterans Council was held Monday evening at the Legion Home at Cavanaugh Lake and continued its study of a proposed children's facility for the county. A committee of the Veterans Council has been assigned to assist the county supervisors' committee in planning such a facility.

E. W. Eaton of Chelsea, is a member of this Veterans Council committee.

In order to learn the opinion of the public and get ideas of what would best suit the wishes of people of the county, a meeting of interested citizens has been scheduled for 8 p.m. Monday, May 24, at the Ann Arbor Legion Home at 1035 South Main street. Any one who is interested is urged to attend, Eaton stated.

The complete lack of suitable juvenile detention quarters in Washtenaw county is becoming increasingly serious, the committee explained. Children, who for any reason were taken into custody for even short periods have had to be taken to nearby counties since there are no quarters in the Washtenaw County Infirmary have been declared unsuitable. Crowded conditions in the neighboring counties are now forcing officials there to turn away outsiders in many instances.

At the May 24 meeting there will be a discussion of possible solutions to the problem and the advisability of providing a county children's facility as soon as possible.

Electric Contractors,
Union Join Forces
in Re-Wiring Camp

Approximately $3,500 worth of electrical work was done the past week-end, free of charge, at Camp Takonah, located at Clear Lake, which is a Young Women's Christian Association camp.

Almost complete re-wiring of the buildings took place and, in addition, outdoor lights were installed on the bench and a public address system was put in at the main building and on the grounds.

The work was a joint project of the Washtenaw County Electrical Contractors Association and Union Local No. 252 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers. The two organizations co-operated on projects such as this one each year.

O. L. Turner of Turner's Electric Service here, was one of the chairmen of this year's committee. Herman Schroen of East Ann Arbor, was co-chairman, and Jacob Ross of Ann Arbor, assisted.

Members of the Washtenaw County Electrical Contractors Association donate the material required and members of the Union Local No. 252 do all the work. Thirty men worked at the camp Saturday.

Dissection in conservation administration has cooked up some lively controversies during recent years and more can be expected until some changes are made. This seems the opinion of several newspaper people close to the scene as well as other observers who have watched the wrangling.

A rugged fight was expected at the most recent meeting of the Conservation Commission May 6 at Higgins Lake. That it failed to take place doesn't mean that all the ingredients for continued controversy aren't still present, qualified to judge, they are.

Basic trouble seems to be a deep-seated difference in philosophies about the way the department should be run.

Gerald E. Eddy, director since 1951, believes that the future of conservation depends on technical application by trained men to problems that develop. He defines the most fundamental problem at present as "supplying more game and fish to a rapidly increasing population."

He also believes that more time to spend in the woods and with money to spend on outdoor equipment and trips.

This approach conflicts squarely with the opinion of all too often with attitudes usually championed by Commissioner Joseph R. Rahilly. These might be described as "the practical approach" as contrasted with administration policies based on sound scientific research. Rahilly does not exactly ignore research, but he is reported as taking it with a grain of salt.

He is usually quoted as saying that "the findings do not coincide with what he learned from the folks back home."

Rahilly has the longest record in service of any member of the commission and has been chairman several times. He opposed Eddy's appointment as director of the department, supporting another candidate. When Eddy was appointed, Rahilly was quoted as saying that "he would be back in the saddle, within a year."

There were indications that Eddy was being pressured to demote Deputy Conservation Director Wayne Landrum at the May meeting. Although sources were difficult to prove, the word definitely was out that Osgood's "poor handling of legislative matters during the session" demanded that he be replaced.

Handwriting on the wall was so clear that a number of supporters rushed in to supply strong backing. Among them were some well-known newspaper men and some legislators.

The situation was headed off at the May Conservation meeting by positive action. Rep. Hugo A. Nelson, Republican from Indian survey committee, Nelson, who is a member of the House Conservation committee and chairman of the House Fish committee, and Nakula both spoke in favor of Osgood's activities with the legislature, stressing the high regard they had for his ability.

Commissioners received the report happily and no more was said at the meeting about replacing Osgood. Presumably, the issue of his demotion or discharge is now a dead one.

This fight is but one battle in the deeper conflict about who is going to run the conservation department and how it shall be run.

Personalities have long been involved. They still are. There is no reason to imagine that this hard feeling will subside. Peace can come only when there is harmony among commission members and the department administration. This will probably require a change in the membership of the Conservation Commission.

Ren Hutzel Named
VFW District Trustee

VFW Post No. 4076, held its May meeting Friday, May 14, in the Pythian Sisters Hall.

It was voted to make a contribution to the Chelsea Recreation Council and delegates were elected for the Sixth District, the VFW Department of Michigan and the Washtenaw county Council of Veterans.

It was announced that at the District Rally held at Graf-Ontario Post Memorial Home, Ann Arbor, Ren Hutzel was elected a district trustee for three years.

Older guards of the Chelsea Post, who marched in the Armed Forces Day parade at Ann Arbor Saturday, are Co-mandante Laurence Boyer, and Mac Packard and Norman Koo.

Five new members were added to the membership roll at this meeting.

It was announced that applications for boys and girls to attend Camp Norcom are available from VFW Post members. The boys' four-week camp period begins June 27 and will be followed by four weeks of camping for girls.

The camp is for boys and girls 10 to 14 years of age, inclusive, with the camp fee set at $16 per week.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter C. Schrad assumed ownership of the Cavanaugh Lake store located on the Cavanaugh Lake road Saturday. The former owners were Mr. and Mrs. Max Ormsby.

Toy Balloon Released Near Chicago Found at Rogers Corners

James Grau of 3880 Fletcher road, near Rogers Corners, was surprised one day last week to find a red toy balloon hanging on the orchard fence on the farm where he lives with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alton Grau. He was even more surprised when he picked up the balloon, which was still partially inflated, and found attached to it a card bearing the name, "Rose Volkema, Elmhurst, Ill." and the name of a service station at Elmhurst where it reportedly had been released, together with a number of others.

The card bore a message requesting the finder to return it to the address given and stating that the finder of the balloon which had traveled the longest distance would be rewarded with a $25 Savings Bond.

Chelsea's Fire Department telephone operator was swamped with calls Sunday afternoon when sparks from a New York Central train set fire to grass along the tracks from Chelsea to Grass Lake. Telephone Rate Increase Denied by Commission

Lansing—The Public Service Commission has denied the application of Michigan Bell Telephone Company for a rate increase.

Clifton W. Phalen, company president, said the decision "imposes a serious handicap upon the successful operations of this business which is so vital to the public interest."

He reserved comment on the company's next step. The Commission contended company earnings are adequate after adjusting the company's investment downward by nearly $88,000,000. It held that the company ought to increase its debt to lower its Federal income taxes. It said Western Electric Company, manufacturing arm of the Bell System, should be regulated as a utility in order to reduce Michigan Bell's investment in Western-made equipment.

"The order," Phalen commented, "overlooks basic economic facts, chief of which is that the price of our service, like any product, should reflect the costs of producing that service." He pointed out company rates have gone up, on the average, only 27 per cent since 1945 while the cost of living has risen 90 per cent. Investment per telephone is also increasing, he said.

"We must have a price for our service that covers all costs of doing business or something must give. Our payroll exceeds $100,000,000 a year. We are spending more than $40,000,000 a year on expansion and improvement of service—an important factor in the state's economic welfare. To carry on this construction work, we must obtain capital in competition with other industries. Satisfactory earnings are essential to attract that capital."

Michigan Bell filed its application a year ago in June. It asked for increases averaging 3 cents per telephone per day.
