Class of 48 Seniors Receive Diplomas Wednesday Eve

Chelsea High school graduates of the Class of '54 received their diplomas at the commencement exercises held in the school gymnasium last night. The diplomas were distributed at the conclusion of the exercises following the commencement address by Howard Robert Jones, professor of school administration in the University of Michigan School of Education.

Class Night was held Tuesday evening and honors and awards were announced during the program.

Graduation activities began Sunday evening with the baccalaureate service in the Methodist church.

Rev. Thomas Toy, pastor of the Congregational church in his address to the class of 1954, told the young people that, generally, people get out of life chiefly what they put into it.

With all the modern progress and inventions, he stated, to get much out of life it is still personal industriousness and honest toil with hands and heart that pays wages beyond any pay checks which may be received.

He said that personal attitudes toward others in fields of work and play determine the type of returns received and that friendships are also an important factor.

"Friends influence our lives as we influence theirs," Rev. Toy said, "and we are still judged by the company we keep."

He concluded by reminding the young people that it is still true that "Jesus, the Master, is the best friend of everyone."

Not Ancestors, But Competitors

In an article appearing in last week's Standard regarding the retirement of Fred Seeley, Sr., it was erroneously stated that L. A. Young Industries was a forerunner of the present Chelsea Spring company. It has been pointed out now that L. A. Young Spring and Wire, as it is now known, was at no time connected with Chelsea Spring or Falls Spring and Wire—in fact, they are competitors.

200 Attend Ziegler Reception in Dexter

Approximately 200 people, many from this vicinity, attended the open-house reception held Sunday in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Max Ziegler in observance of their 25th wedding anniversary. The reception was held at the Ziegler home in Dexter.

Assisting at the affair were Mrs. Edward Schmidt of Ann Arbor, who poured coffee, Joan Koenigster of Ann Arbor, niece of the Zieglers, who poured punch, and Mrs. Reuben Lesser, sister of Mrs. Ziegler, who cut the anniversary cake.

Margaret Hornberger, a niece of Mr. Ziegler, who makes her home with the Zieglers, was active in planning the refreshments, the noon dinner for members of the original wedding party and a supper for former choir members of Zion Lutheran church, Rogers Corners. She also placed flowers on the church altar for the Sunday morning service in honor of the Zieglers' anniversary.

During the church service, Rev. M. W. Bureckner, who officiated at the wedding ceremony 25 years ago, congratulated the couple. Their niece, Joan Koenigster, of Ann Arbor, sang two solos during the service, "Bless This House, O Lord" and "Lord's Prayer."

The honored couple received many lovely gifts at the afternoon reception. Several friends and relatives who attended the open house remembered that Mrs. Ziegler's sister and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Lesser, were married 30 years ago, June 4, and presented them with gifts, also.

Mrs. Ziegler and Mrs. Lesser are daughters of the late Mr. and Mrs. George Koenigster, Rogers Corners and Chelsea residents for many years. Guests at the reception were from Dayton, Ohio, Mt. Clemens, Ann Arbor, Pleasant Lake, Detroit, Manchester, Lansing, Saline and Chelsea and vicinity.

Today is what we were all looking forward to yesterday.

Folks used to deny themselves luxuries to have money in the bank today they go without money to have luxuries.

Survival Is Not All
Tremendous gains have been made over the years in the skill and knowledge of the medical profession. Curing disease, accomplishing surgical miracles, and the discovery of new drugs can be classed as one of the wonders of the world.

But survival is not all! Even though broken bodies can be mended and diseases cured, what about the broken spirits and mental anguish caused by financial strain due to accident and illness? You and I have seen it time and again.

My Company, Woodmen Accident, has been furnishing protection against financial losses due to accident and sickness for 64 years. Such protection for you or your family costs only pennies a day! Let's talk it over—

Big-Car Luxury and Performance at the Lowest Price of all

The closer you compare values the more certainly you'll see that Pontiac is the standard buy on automobile row.

In size and weight alone Pontiac offers you more car per dollar than a like amount ever bought before. And that's important, because that long wheelbase is the reason for comfort, riding ease and roadability unapproached within hundreds of dollars of its modest price.

And along with these big-car features you get remarkable savings. Operating and upkeep economy are, of course, exceptional. First cost is the least for any big, luxury automobile—within a few dollars of the lowest-priced cars. Our trade-in appraisals are notably large and Pontiac's resale value is among the highest in the industry. Come in for the facts about today's most startling value.

It was announced that a work "bee" is to be held at Camp Norcom, the VFW camp for boys and girls near Dexter. The "bee" is scheduled for the coming week-end.

tertainment and Mrs. Joseph Merkel was awarded the door prize. KOREAN SERVICE BUDDY VISITS ARDEN-MUSBACH

Cpl. Arden Musbach, home on furlough, was surprised Sunday when a friend with whom he had served in Korea, stopped at the Musbach home for a short visit. The friend, Cpl. Fred Parks, was accompanied by his wife and they were enroute from their home in LaPorte, Ind., to Niagara Falls. Cpl. Musbach had last seen Cpl. Parks in Korea and had no idea he was back in the United States. Cpl. Parks said he noticed the Chelsea sign as he traveled along US-12, and decided on the spur of the moment that he would look up Cpl. Musbach before continuing his trip to Niagara Falls.

Life will be a lot happier for you if you use the advice you have been giving your friends.

State Police Unveil New Mobile Trailer For Emergencies

The Michigan State Police have just placed in service a brand new field office and communications center on wheels equipped for use as a mobile emergency headquarters in time of need.

Plans were developed following the experience at the Port Huron and Flint tornadoes, when such a unit would have been of great value in directing rescue efforts and maintaining police control.

The 33-foot trailer contains four radio transmitters and a telephone switchboard with a capacity of five trunk lines and 12 extensions. The transmitters will provide communications with the regular networks of the State Police and Conservation departments, local police and sheriff's departments. Telephone extensions can be rigged to other emergency headquarters such as the National Guard and Civil Defense.

The office section is complete with desk and typewriter facilities and telephones.

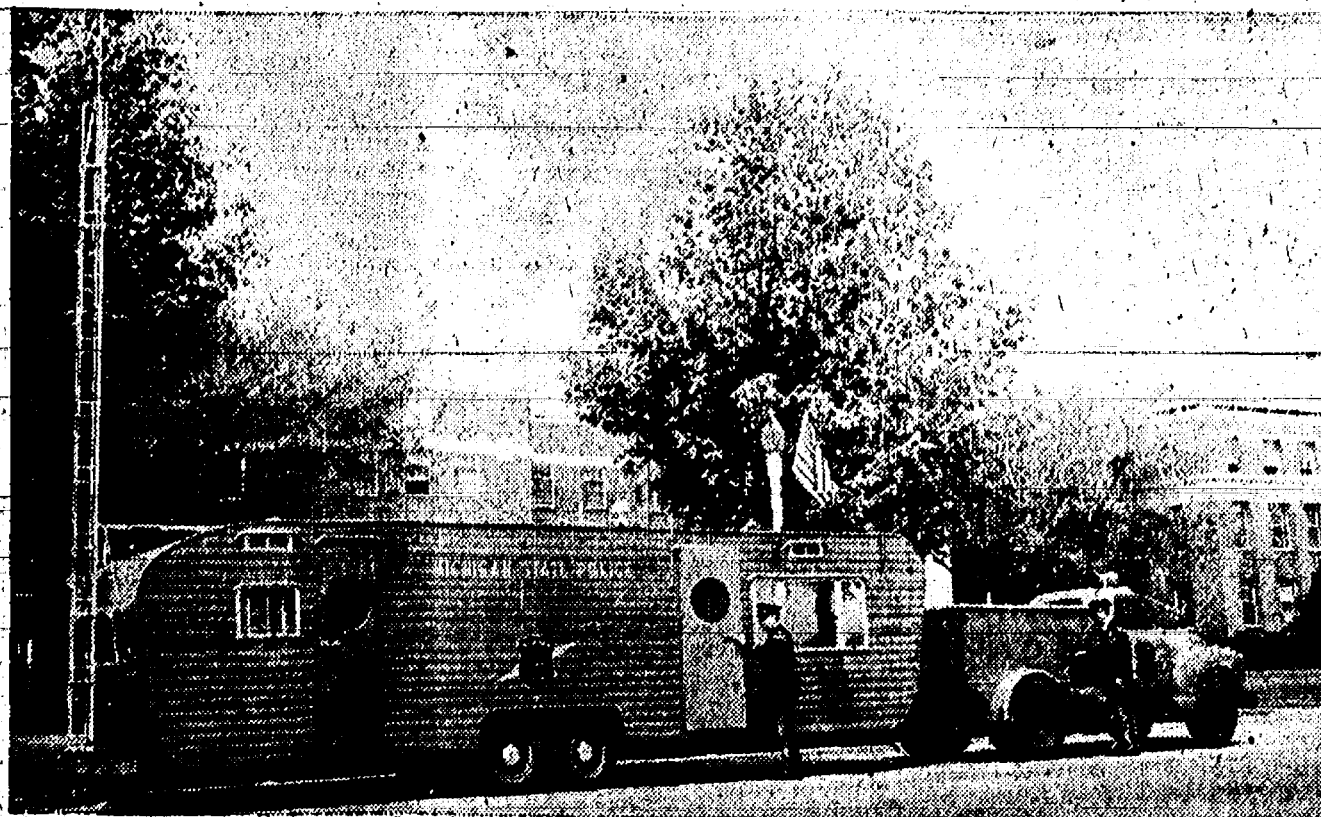

A public address system with four speakers is mounted on the roof top. An antenna tower with a height of 45 feet telescopes into a length of 20 feet and tips over so that it can be carried flat on the roof.

If regular power is not available, auxiliary power for both radio and lights can be supplied by a 5,000-watt generator—carried in the truck tractor that pulls the trailer.

The telephone system, installed by the Michigan Bell Telephone company, may be operated over commercial central office facilities or by local battery power supply.

All the work of building, desks and installing equipment, with the exception of the telephones, was done by State Police employees with little new equipment being used. Joseph A. Childs,

STATE POLICE EMERGENCY TRAILER

Ready for use anywhere in the state is this new emergency field office and communications trailer of the Michigan State Police. Equipment includes four radio transmitters, a telephone switchboard and desks in the office quarters. The 45-foot antenna tower mounted at the left end telescopes into a 20-foot length and tips over so that it is transported flat on the roof. An emergency power generating plant is carried in the truck tractor.

State Police commissioner, said much of the equipment had been service in previous emergencies, but had to be assembled at the scene piece by piece in whatever makeshift locations could be utilized.

Childs foresees a broad use for the trailer in providing a headquarters not only at disasters, but whenever a large number of police are mobilized for any purpose.

The trailer is said to be the most complete unit of its kind in the country.

The clinic will be held regardless of weather conditions. The Washtenaw county dairy program is considered one of the best in the state, with approximately 150 members enrolled. The county Holstein herd was winner of the State Herd in the state 4-H show in East Lansing in 1953.

Second Democrat Seeking Nomination For Sheriff Position

A contest in the Democratic primary election Aug. 3 was assured today when Robert B. Kidd, 43, of Willow Village, announced he would seek the nomination for sheriff. Last week Lawrence F. Oltersdorf, also of Ypsilanti said he would file for the same post.

Mr. Kidd has been a resident of Ypsilanti township since 1942 when he came from Clarksburg, W. Va., to work at the Willow Run bomber plant. In 1945 he took a federal civil service position in Alaska which was terminated with V-J Day.

Since that time Mr. Kidd has been employed at the United Stove company, Ypsilanti, and active in civic affairs. He is presently serving as a member of the executive committee of the Ypsilanti Council of Social Agencies—as a representative of the Community Chest board. Since 1949 he has been chairman of the Labor Division in the annual Red Feather campaign, and a member of the chest-budget committee.

Although this is his first entry into a county campaign, Mr. Kidd has been Democratic chairman of precinct 5, Ypsilanti township, at Willow Run and was a candidate for justice of the peace in last year's township election.

Mr. Kidd and his wife Ruth and two of their three children live at 1213 Savoy Court. A son, Thomas, is at St. Benedict's College, Atascadero, Kan. Their other children, Sue and Robert Dale, attend Roosevelt High school in Ypsilanti. Mr. Kidd is a graduate of Victory High school, Clarksburg, W. Va.

Textile specialists at Michigan State College suggest that you invest in only one nylon sheet until after you've tried sleeping on it. Many individuals like the luxurious feel of the sheets, but others say they feel like they are slipping off the bed. You may find the sheets are not too comfortable in hot, humid weather, either.

Cars in Dent, Minnesota Have More Dents Than Autos in Average U. S. City

DENT, Minn.—Dents are denser in Dent than in America as a whole.

This town of 200 people has nearly four times as many dented fenders per car than the average in the country, representative of the national "Get the Dents Out of Your Fenders Month" committee found in a survey of the cars parked on the main street. The "Dents Out of Fenders" committee counts such things as part of its job of inspiring car owners to take better care of their cars' appearance in order to extend their cars' life.

The "DOOF" committee found 33 cars with an average of 2.5 dents each in Dent, far ahead of the national average of two dents for every three cars, according to "DOOF" national committee chairman Clare W. Goodsell.

One of the towns Dent beat in the dent derby is Fender, Ga., which had a total of 37 dents in the fenders of 18 cars or an average of 2.05 dents per car at the time of the "DOOF" survey.

Proper attention to the appearance of your car will extend its life by a year, according to the "DOOF" committee, which is composed of representatives of the automotive industry.

June is "Dents Out of Fenders Month" and the "DOOF" committee has some tips on what to do about it.

1. Get the dents out of your fenders, is the committee's first point of advice. Otherwise summer heat, humidity and weathering of kinds will increase damage to the extent that you may have to get a new fender because it will be too late for a minor repair.

2. Have every spot of rust on your car taken care of, no matter how small.

3. Wash your car frequently, particularly if you live in an area where it is exposed to sea salts or where calcium chloride is used on roads or streets to melt ice or lay dust. Always use a hose for washing and an open meshed cloth for drying and polishing since tightly woven cloth is likely to catch abrasive particles that will scratch the finish of the car.

4. Have your car waxed as frequently as its appearance shows it needs it, which will depend on your weather conditions. The finish will last longer and look better if you do.

5. Have the underpart of your car coated with a rubber-base material. This part of your car will rust rapidly once rust begins, particularly if the car is more than two years old.

6. Be extremely careful of your chrome. Anything harmful to the finish of your car is even more harmful to the chromium parts. You can avoid much of the damage from road conditions by having the chrome coated with a protective covering. And have clips put on loose chrome strips immediately before the entire strip is lost.

7. For summer driving use a bug deflector and keep a can of bug remover on hand because the acids in the decomposing bodies of bugs eat into your car's finish.

8. To lessen the chance of having your car struck from behind at night, put a strip of red reflective tape to the rear bumper. This means added safety for the car when it is parked, and added safety for you when driving, because the tape can be seen farther than your car's tail lights.

Miles-Trinkle Marriage Vows Spoken in Dexter

Patricia Miles, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Miles, 1880 Baker road, Dexter, and Charles Trinkle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Trinkle, 9631 Trinkle road, exchanged wedding vows in a ceremony performed at 8 o'clock Saturday evening in the Dexter Gospel church. Rev. Henry A. Campbell officiated at the double-ring ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was gown in white lace and net over satin. The skirt, of net over satin, extended into a cathedral-length train.

A cap of seed pearls held her veil, which was finger-tip length and tiered. She carried a cascade arrangement of white roses, lilies-of-the-valley and white satin streamers. Her ensemble was completed with a double strand pearl necklace, a gift of the bridegroom.

Bonnaly Schreoder of Trenton, was maid of honor and Jean Mast and LeMayne McDonald, of Dexter, and Joan Ferry of Ann Arbor, were bridesmaids. Their gowns were fashioned of white lace over-colored taffeta. Miss Schreoder's being aqua and the others' yellow. They all wore choker-style pearl necklaces and earrings, which were gifts from the bride.

The maid of honor carried red roses and wore a matching headpiece while the bridesmaids' flowers and headpieces were of pink roses.

Connie Lyn Krull, of Dexter, who was flower girl, wore white net over white taffeta and carried a basket of red rose petals. Her single-strand pearl necklace and bracelet were a gift from the bride.

Erwin Trinkle was his brother's best man and the ushers were Ralph Trinkle, a cousin of the bridegroom, David Miles, brother of the bride, and John Weber of Dexter.

Douglas Trinkle, nephew of the bridegroom, was the ringbearer. A reception was held immediately after the ceremony in the Copeland Auditorium in Dexter.

The new Mr. and Mrs. Trinkle will make their home at 9631 Trinkle road following their return this week-end from a trip to northern Michigan.

Legislature Invites President to Move White House to Mackinac

The eyes of the world will be focused on Michigan next year if the invitation extended to President Eisenhower to bring the summer White House to Michigan in 1955 is accepted. A delegation headed by Lt. Gov. Reid and Speaker of the House Van Valkenburg arranged through U. S. Senators Ferguson and Potter to present the invitation recently. Since only one President in the nation's history has visited the Upper Peninsula, it is hoped that Eisenhower will accept the invitation. The world-famous Soo Locks will be 100 years old in 1955 and the president's visit would emphasize their importance to the state which has often been called the Arsenal of Democracy.

Humor crops up in most election campaigns.

Funny little incidents make for a laugh when they happen. They provide material for yarns that are told over and over as years pass. Most of the newsmen who cover the Capitol can go on for hours with jokes and stories based on unimportant, unexpected and peculiar happenings. This year's race, it seems, will be no exception.

The "attempted drowning" of Gov. Williams at the Holland Tulip Festival is a good example of an incident that will become such an anecdote.

Both the Governor and State Senator George F. Higgins, who hopes to win the Republican nomination and run against him this fall, were part of the Holland celebration. Both were dressed in Dutch costumes to take part in the traditional street washing. Williams carried a broom; Higgins some pails of water.

When photographers showed up to picture the pair, Higgins managed to jump in front of the Governor whenever cameras were brought into play. This was considered to be quite an accomplishment, for Williams has a long-earned reputation for "scene stealing" himself.

The one time Williams succeeded in getting in front of Higgins, the wily little Senator "accidentally" doused him with water under the pretense of flooding the streets. Since the costumes included wooden shoes, the Governor enjoyed the unique experience of wading with his shoes dry on the outer side.

Higgins was heard to mutter, it is reported, "For once the Governor didn't steal the show."

Considerably more startling and less funny to candidate at least was the unhappy discovery that nominating petitions at State Treasurer D. Hale Brake might be considered illegal because of a printing technicality.

Defect amounted to only one 36th of an inch, but that small difference was enough to cause Brake to submit the question to the Attorney General. The law provides that a paragraph warning signers that it is a violation to sign more than one petition for one candidate must appear on each form. It specifies that 12 point type be used.

Brake's petitions, it was discovered about three days before he intended to file the 30,000 names, contained the paragraph in slightly smaller 10 point type. A printers' point is about one 72nd of an inch.

After initial shock wore off, even Brake was able to view the matter with amusement. Checking showed that his petitions had been approved by election authorities before they were circulated; they were the same in type size as had been accepted in other years for other candidates. Further checking showed that minor variations existed in most petitions: some were an eighth inch shorter or longer; a trifle narrower or wider than the code specifies.

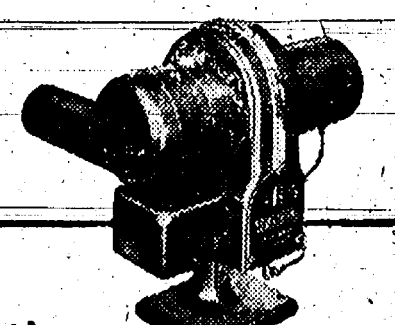

The Attorney General's office ventured a verbal opinion that the election code was directory rather than mandatory. The absence of intent to defraud, they thought, would make the petitions to be accepted as legal.

How the error occurred was traced to a printer with an eye for design rather than legal technicalities. The petitions when ordered called for 12 point type. But the man who set the type found that 12 point was just an unhandy size for the working. It carried over on a few letters, an additional line. He decided that 10 point would look much nicer, since it filled out the final line. Without checking with anyone, he reduced the size.

Aging Men Prefer To Live in Rural Areas, Small Towns

Michigan's older men like to live in rural areas and small towns while most older women seem to prefer urban regions.

This doesn't mean that all men 65 years of age and older are going to take up farming or set up country stores, nor does it mean that our largest cities are to be swamped by elderly women.

It does indicate that our growing number of older persons—there've increased more than 280 per cent in Michigan since the turn of the century—most often have definite ideas on where they want to live.

Significance of this preference is that rural areas and small towns, especially those where health and community facilities are limited, should be taking these facts into consideration. What about housing, recreation and leisure activities, employment, for instance?

In almost all areas of this type little has been done yet, not so much because the community leaders don't see the problems, but because it is hard to get ideas and information on what can and must be done.

The best place in the nation to get some of the answers will be at the University of Michigan June 28-30 when the seventh annual Conference on Aging will be held. To it will come experts on aging from throughout the country to discuss what they and others have done in their regions to meet the aging problems.

For the first time at such a conference anywhere, the problems of towns and rural areas of 10,000 and less population will be highlighted.

Communities of other sizes will be treated, too, at this workshop conference in which everyone will have an opportunity to ask questions and contribute information. These annual meetings are known as the best of their kind in the nation and each year have produced definite results and achievements.

Sponsors are the University's Division of Gerontology, with the co-operation of the U. S. Bureau of Census, Extension Service and Institute for Industrial Health, the U. S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, and the U. S. Department of Labor.

A 20-ton sugar beet crop uses 200 pounds of nitrogen, 55 pounds of phosphoric acid and 195 pounds of potash, according to an analysis by scientists at MSC.

Little progress can be made by merely attempting to repress what is evil; our great hope lies in developing what is good.—Selected.

The continued excess of your expenditures over your net income will eventually catch up with you. In order to prevent this, it might be advisable to estimate the approximate expenses connected with such necessities as food, clothing and rent (or a mortgage payment). This can be done on a trial basis lasting several weeks. After you have ascertained the actual expenses, the balance of your income should then be sufficient to pay the interest on your debts and leave something for your savings.

A very important and often overlooked item in family finances is what might be termed "miscellaneous expenses." Watch these and never forget that they sometimes exceed some of your "necessary" expenses by quite a bit.

Another event, which usually arrives ahead of any planned schedule, is a child. When this happens, your finances will be further affected and therefore, if it is at all possible, provide for such an event before it occurs. However, this also belongs to the sphere of family management.

INSIDE THE CAPITOL

By Charles M. Ziegler
State-Highway Commissioner

A sound approach is being made by the Legislature to the problem of providing adequate highway transportation facilities for the state. The proper solution cannot be obtained by guesswork. That is why the Legislature thwarted the governor's last-minute attempt to jam through Senator Cloon's $500 million bond proposal during the closing minutes of the recent session.

Instead, the Legislature adopted the sensible program of creating a joint Legislative-committee to make a state-wide comprehensive engineering and fiscal study and survey of highway needs on all of the highway network of the state, and to prepare a plan for providing facilities which would meet the requirements of the people.

Funds were appropriated to be matched with federal funds to obtain the services of experts in the fields of engineering and fiscal studies; and when these studies are completed, the Legislature will be in possession of all facts in regard to what and where deficiencies exist and how much money is needed. They can then intelligently submit a bond proposal with all such data and recommend a favorable vote of the people.

The Automotive Safety Foundation of Washington, D. C., which provides the finest highway engineering analysis service available in the country at cost, has been invited to make the study. Studies of ways and means to finance the road improvement program indicated by the engineering study will progress simultaneously.

The Legislature has acted wisely in the people's interests.

You and Your Money

SO YOU'RE PLANNING TO BE MARRIED

By Dr. Stanley J. Chipper
Lecturer in Economics
Michigan State College

The desire to marry, except in the eyes of some bachelors, is a noble thing. To economize, or to make the best of what we have, is also a noble thing. Unfortunately, these two human activities do not always enjoy the bliss of peaceful co-existence.

It would be too much to expect people to behave rationally at the time which probably represents the most memorable day in their lives. The wedding day is all too often an occasion for pinching pennies. Suppose, however, that you want to be one of the more sensible members of our society. How much should your wedding cost you?

There are figures, indicating the average cost of an average wedding. However, one trouble with these figures is that they do not refer to any real thing. No wedding is an "average" wedding. The rest of all the ones you plan!

Statistics do not show us what proportion of their income people spend on a wedding, on the average. However, it may be a good idea to keep the expenses within your income, meaning, that you should not go into debt just because you want to show to the rest of the world what a terrific couple you are. Most likely, even a modest wedding will involve going into some sort of saving, and it would not be quite prudent to use up all of them, since most of the down-to-earth expenses will start after the wedding.

Once the wedding is over and more mundane matters are faced, a question may arise as to whether the wife should work or not. Now more than 30 per cent of all married women earn money at work outside of the home. This means that quite a sizeable amount of young people feel the need for such additional income. It seems sensible, if she worked before her marriage and if her work is not entirely unbearable, that a wife should keep on earning and help pay the considerable expenses connected with setting up a new home.

Money difficulties rarely arise high as a cause of marriage troubles. Therefore, it might be a good idea to have a clear understanding before marriage. Agree to some rough procedure of how to manage the future home.

The strict-income and expenditure approach in marriage economics is being given as a guide for successful management. The rule is simple: "Don't spend more than you earn." This "golden rule," as other such rules, is bound to fail in a majority of cases for the simple reason that we live in a highly developed credit economy which is very ably assisted by the advertising conjurers who have a pre-judice of young married couples.

Therefore, unless you are a millionaire or a very cool-headed person, do not be surprised if your family budget will acquire a healthy looking bulge of deficit. The problem then is, how to keep this deficit from growing, and how to wipe it out eventually. Never think that you can afford a certain amount of deficit. You are not the U. S. Treasury.

The continued excess of your expenditures over your net income will eventually catch up with you. In order to prevent this, it might be advisable to estimate the approximate expenses connected with such necessities as food, clothing and rent (or a mortgage payment). This can be done on a trial basis lasting several weeks. After you have ascertained the actual expenses, the balance of your income should then be sufficient to pay the interest on your debts and leave something for your savings.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

Wise Stepmother

Have you heard about young Skeeter Roberts' unusual pet, the tame owl "Blinky"? He's had her about three years.

I say "he" because up to a couple of weeks ago nobody was quite sure. But now "Blinky's" a mother-of two chicks!

Seems "Blinky" had been acting kind of strange—so on a hunch, Skeeter put a couple of hen's eggs in her nest. Darn if "Blinky" didn't set on them for 5 days! Last Friday they hatched, and now "Blinky's" as proud as a mother hen! (So's Skeeter.)

From where I sit, there's a lesson for all of us. Guess you'd call it "tolerance." Birds and animals often seem to do better in that respect than humans. If I like a glass of temperate beer with supper and you'd rather have cider—it should be okay with both of us. Neither of us should give a "hoot" what the other fellow likes, says, or does, as long as he follows the law of the land. Right?

To Which

Some people go years without much attention to health. Others may need the Doctor on hand to start the day—every day. Between these two extremes are great numbers of thinking people caring for their health in an orderly manner.

They see their Doctor at regular intervals for guidance. They take the medicine he prescribes according to direction. They report unusual symptoms promptly. All these are common sense precautions and intelligent steps in health care, as is the practice of bringing your Doctor's prescriptions to this fine pharmacy.

INTERPRETING THE NEWS

An enemy invasion, which threatens to spread all over Michigan, is being combated in the central part of the state.

If present tactics are successful, the threat will be eliminated. If not, more extensive means must be employed. Already $150,000 of Michigan money has been appropriated in this battle. Future activities will be even more costly. The alternative—doing nothing—is infinitely more expensive.

The foe in this case is the gypsy moth, insignificant-sounding perhaps, but known to be one of the most destructive of insects. In its larva, or caterpillar stage the gypsy moth satisfies its prodigious appetite on the green leaves of trees, shrubs and other leafy plants. The larvae appear in such astonishing numbers that they can totally destroy all foliage in an area.

State officials were faced with the urgent problem of what to do. The choice was to immediately adopt a program involving spraying and other precautions in cooperation with federal authorities, or face a federal quarantine under which every material that stands out of doors would be inspected and certified before it could leave the area. They chose to take action.

"Never in the 30 years that I have worked in this field did I see such splendid cooperation between various branches of the government and the community," stated C. A. Boyer, chief of the Bureau of Plant Industry for the Michigan Department of Agriculture.

Boyer told the story of how the gypsy moth came to be found for the first time west of Pennsylvania.

"A peculiar bug is raising havoc with my plants," reported a Lansing housewife to the city forestry office. "Will you tell me what to do to get rid of it?"

Samples of the insect picked by these men showed it to be foreign to the area. They called upon Boyer of the Agriculture department; Dr. Gordon E. Guyer and Prof. Ray Hutson of Michigan State College's entomology department. These men identified the insect as the destructive gypsy moth.

Specialists of the Conservation and Highway departments were quickly called into consultation and the United States Department of Agriculture was notified. USDA sent 10 top experts, headed by Vern Odell, a leading gypsy moth fighter of 30 years' experience in New England. Together they studied the situation.

Quick action was taken by the Governor. He called the "Little Legislature" into emergency session and $150,000 was set aside for a mammoth "do-nothing program." The "Little Legislature" consists of members from the House Ways and Means and the Senate Finance Committees. About $500,000 is budgeted each year for emergencies. It was from this fund that the $150,000 was appropriated.

Plans to spray 104,000 acres of Ingham and Clinton counties were put into effect. A four-motor B-17 and three single-motor planes were hired to spread 55,000 gallons of a DDT solution from an altitude of only 200 feet. The multi-motor plane was to fly over the metropolitan areas. Spraying was to be done when wind velocity was less than eight miles per hour. Cost of spraying: $76,560. Residents would also benefit from DDT's effect of killing flies and mosquitoes.

Spraying contract was awarded to Central Airlines of Yakima, Wash., a group of flyers experienced in insect fighting in the country's forests.

Traps will be set for the gypsy moth in a circular area stretching 50 miles in all directions from Lansing.

Boyer says that Washington has indicated to the state Agricultural department that money will be appropriated in the national office on a matching fund basis to help fight the moth if it continues to be a problem in Michigan.

Nature makes the gypsy moth a difficult opponent. Its eggs are laid on "almost anything"—from a stone to an automobile. From 4,000 to 5,000 eggs make up a mass; as many as 400 masses are found in one group. Eggs hatch into larvae which float through the air. When it lands, it chews the heck out of everything green—even pine needles. Once developed into adulthood, the female quickly becomes so heavy with eggs, she cannot fly.

Reports of the moth in other parts of the state were not long in arriving. Several came from areas along US-16, Brighton and Detroit. These, and all others that are made are to be quickly investigated. If conditions warrant, spraying and other weapons will be put to use.

Men have been fighting the gypsy moth for nearly half a century in New England. Every effort possible will be made in Michigan to win the battle early—before the enemy is able to become firmly entrenched.

If your coffee seems to lack that aromatic freshness you desire, try cleaning the coffee pot with a soda solution. Use three tablespoons of soda to one quart of water and let it stand in the coffee pot for five minutes, advised Marjorie Fridgeon of the Michigan State College foods and nutrition department.
