Library Story Hour Sets New Record For Attendance

There was a record attendance at this summer's Wednesday story hours at the Chelsea Public Library, according to reports of the project. Mrs. John Hale said the peak attendance was 22, while the lowest was 69 children between the ages of three and ten years.

Dorothy Beach, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leigh Beach, who is a kindergarten teacher in the Jackson school system, has been the "story lady" for the past several years. She alone was in charge of the children during the story hour and kept the entire group interested with stories, finger plays and recordings.

The summer story hour is a service sponsored annually for a six-week period by the Chelsea Public Library. The series was concluded Wednesday of last week.

Juvenile Delinquency Cases Reported Increasing in State

Juvenile delinquency is increasing faster in Michigan than in the nation as a whole and a growing number of cases involve violence, a panel of authorities said at Michigan State College's Forum in State and Local Government.

But despite the black picture supplied by statistics, "We don't think our kids are going to the dogs, a vast number grow into good citizens and the majority of parents are doing a good job," said panel chairman Sam Rabinovitz, executive secretary of the Michigan Youth Commission.

One reason for the boost in juvenile cases is the fact that courts now are sending in more complete reports of juvenile cases, he said. Another reason is that more delinquents are coming to the attention of law enforcement agencies and other groups which are better equipped to deal with delinquents.

In 1948 in America, Rabinovitz said, there were 300,000 juvenile cases brought to the attention of courts. This figure jumped 45 percent in 1953 to a total of 435,000. In Michigan, the 1948 figure was 5,415, compared with 8,650 in 1953, an increase of 60 percent.

Rabinovitz said the age of a juvenile delinquent is figured at 10 to 17. The largest number of juvenile cases involve stealing, breaking and entering, and driving away cars. But cases involving violence are increasing.

Figures can be very misleading, said Oakland county probate judge Arthur E. Moore. He said increases in population, informal and formal cases, repeated offenses and other factors should be taken into account.

Assailing the system of handling divorces in Michigan, Moore said that divorce cases should be decided from the children's standpoint. "They are more important than the parents," he said.

Mr. and Mrs. Elton K. Mustbach spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Norman Perkins at Chippewa Lake.

Grandson of Mrs. Eva Dancer Seriously Injured in Bicycle-Auto Accident

Dennis Hoek, eight-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Hoek of Grand Rapids, was seriously injured near his home when an automobile went out of control and struck him as he was riding his bicycle. He was unconscious when taken to Butterworth hospital immediately after the accident at 4:30 p.m. Thursday and at last reports was still unconscious.

His mother is the former Joy Dancer, daughter of Mrs. Eva Dancer, who is spending some time at the Hoek home.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Feldkamp of Ann Arbor, were callers Saturday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Joseph Wright. They also called at the Walter Beutler home. Tuesday visitors at the home of Mrs. Wright were Mr. and Mrs. Julius Feldkamp of Pontiac, Mrs. W. E. Dietiker of Saline, and Fred Feldkamp of Rogers Corners.

New Law Requires Signal Equipment On All Commercial Vehicles

Drivers of large commercial vehicles are barred from signaling turns by hand and are required to use signaling equipment, such as signal lamps, to warn other drivers approaching from the rear, under a new law which becomes effective Aug. 15.

The same law also requires owners to have the needed turn signaling equipment installed.

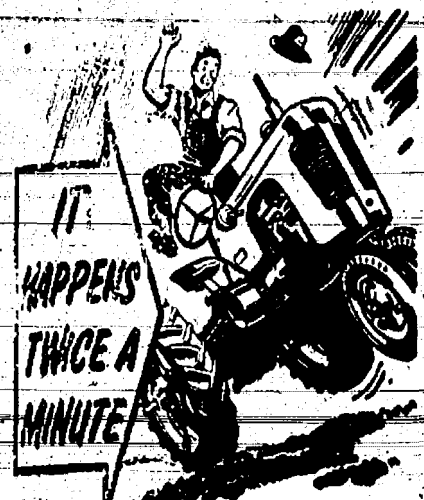

Every commercial motor vehicle, old as well as new, operated on a Michigan highway comes under the requirement when the distance from the center of the top of the steering post to the left outside limit of the body, cab or load exceeds 24 inches, or when the distance from the same point to the rear limit of the body or load exceeds 14 feet. The measurements apply to any single vehicle, also to any combination of vehicles.

The new law was enacted to cope with one of the traffic safety problems resulting from the increased length and width of commercial vehicles. Many of them, it appears from studies made by traffic engineers, are either too wide or too long for their drivers to give visible signals by hand.

The new law amends Section 648 of the Vehicle Code, which requires every driver of a motor vehicle of any type or size, including private passenger automobiles, before turning his vehicle from a direct line, give an intelligible signal or warning to another driver approaching from the rear.

Amended Section 648 should not be confused with another new turn signal provision, identified as Section 687a of the Vehicle Code, which will make it unlawful either to sell or to operate any motor vehicle manufactured or assembled after Jan. 1, 1955 unless it is equipped with mechanical or electrical turn signals.

More Construction Slated for U-M's New North Campus

ANN ARBOR—North Campus at the University of Michigan, a 377-acre tract across the Huron river valley from the main campus, will be the center of considerable construction activity during the next year.

Work is well under way on two buildings and by fall three more construction projects should be started, Vice-President W. K. Pierpont has reported. At present the Cooley Memorial Laboratory, dedicated last October, which houses special research facilities for the engineering Research Institute, is the only building in use in the new area.

Construction work has been started on the Phoenix Memorial Laboratory which it is expected will be completed by the summer of 1955. This is a $1,041,000 building financed by the Michigan Memorial-Phoenix Project which will provide centralized facilities for research on the peaceful uses of atomic energy. It is located just west of the Cooley building.

Scheduled to be completed by December is a $457,447 Central Service and Stack building, located south of the Cooley building, this unit represents the first step in meeting a long-standing need for additional library facilities. The State Legislature provided the funds for the building which will house books and periodicals not in every-day use at the main library.

All of these buildings are located in the southeastern portion of the new campus which is just 1.1 miles to the north and east of the center of the main campus. Two of the three projects on which work will start this year will be located in the same area. These will be a $1,860,000 Automotive Laboratory and a $1,000,000 nuclear research reactor.

Slated for the northern part of the new campus which fronts along Plymouth road (U.S. 12) will be housing for married students and scattered all over the campus and has had to limit its enrollment because of lack of space.

The University announced its plans to expand in the area across the Huron river in January, 1952. At the time President Harlan Hatcher made the announcement, the North Campus area included 287 acres. Additional purchases since then have enlarged the area to the present 377 acres.

Plans for the long-range development of North Campus had been prepared by Saarinen and Associates of Birmingham and the University hopes to proceed with an orderly development of these plans as money becomes available for construction.

Cornelius L. T. Gabler of Detroit was the architect for the first building to be located in the area, the Cooley Memorial Laboratory, and he likewise has prepared the plans for the Phoenix Memorial Laboratory.

Jeffrey Dyer of Ann Arbor, was the contractor for the Cooley building and has the contract for the Central Service and Stack building on which Albert Kahn of Detroit is the architect. The DeKoning Company of Ann Arbor, is the contractor on the Phoenix building.

Smith, Hinchman and Grylls, also of Detroit, are preparing the plans for the building to house the nuclear research reactor which will be adjacent to the Phoenix Memorial Laboratory. The engineering details on the reactor are being prepared by Babcock and Wilcox of Akron, Ohio. The research reactor is expected to develop 1,000 kilowatts of power and thus should become the most powerful nuclear research reactor outside of the Atomic Energy Commission facilities.

Construction work should be started by fall with completion set for some time in 1958. The reactor will be built from a $1,000,000 gift to the Phoenix Project from the Ford Motor Company Fund.

With research facilities taking shape and plans proceeding for housing, the next move towards the further development of the North Campus area will be facilities for the School of Music. The Legislature will be asked to provide funds to locate this unit of the University in the western sector of the new area. The School of Music now has to use classrooms

Easy now to KILL RATS

WARFARAT, new Dr. Hess rat killer is made with warfarin, new rodenticide developed at the University of Wisconsin. Rat control specialists refer to warfarin as the "ideal poison" and report "miraculous results." Kills common brown rats, black rat, roof rats, mice, etc. They eat it and bleed to death internally—do not become bait shy.

Warfarin is a prepared bait. More attractive than a rat's usual diet of farm grains. Best way to use it is to establish rat feeding stations and keep it there until all rats are killed. Rats do not develop tolerance. Give it a thorough trial and you'll say it's the best yet.

You and Your Money

By Dr. Leland E. Traywick, Associate Professor of Economics Michigan State College

Americans are asking thousands of questions today about our economy: Will we have a depression? Will it be a long one? How many will lose their jobs? What can be done to bring on recovery?

This reminds me of the student who asked the other day, "What do you mean by a depression or recession? It all sounds so unrealistic!"

This made me stop to think. I suppose it is true that only a little over half of the present population of the United States is old enough to remember the 1930's.

We have had our "ups" so long we have forgotten what the "downs" are.

Some yardstick often used for measuring a depression is unemployment.

Some unemployment is natural. But when the figures climb to 12 to 15 million unemployed then it is as alarming as it was in the midst of the 1930's.

Today, the number of unemployed is about 3 1/2 to 4 million persons. This is not necessarily alarming in itself.

Michigan gets about one out of every 20 tourists in the United States, but it is not the top tourist state. This honor goes to New York with 10.9 per cent of the total.

With all our natural attractions in Michigan of streams, lakes and wonderful summer climate and winter sports, we could well spend more than we do to advertise the state and the money would be returned many times to us.

Michigan INTERPRETING THE NEWS

Wanted—7,000 young people. Attractive pay (starts from $3.00 to $3,600); good working conditions; summers off; steady employment; social acceptance in community; assured opportunity for advancement.

This sort of a help wanted ad could easily describe the serious need in Michigan for qualified school teachers.

Faced with the alarming situation of 7,000 too few trained school teachers today and the obvious need for an additional 2,000 each year for at least the next five years, Dr. Glaser L. Taylor, state Superintendent of Public Instruction, is leading a frontal attack.

A committee of 35 members has been appointed to solve this and other educational problems. A special subcommittee of industrial public relations experts, newspaper publishers, educators and representatives from radio and television was assigned to work out a program to interest bright young people to enter the teaching profession.

Adopting techniques already proved successful by industry, business, and the armed services, this subcommittee announced its plan which will be carried out through Michigan newspapers, radio and TV, and sales presentations to students.

These will be aimed at three groups: the 65,000 students who will graduate from high schools this spring; students already enrolled in the state's colleges; former teachers who might qualify themselves by securing a few more hours of college work.

Lack of promotion for the teaching profession has permitted other vocations to skim off much of the cream of graduates," explained Dr. Taylor. He feels that low salaries paid teachers several years ago were an important factor in student minds when they considered teaching as a life work.

Present pay schedules are about comparable to those in industry," stated the state superintendent. "Particularly this is true for young ladies, who might have trouble finding jobs that pay as well as school teaching."

Figures indicate that next year teachers' salaries will average about $4,300 for the 10-month school year," stated Dr. Taylor. "While the present pay schedule might not be considered ideal, it represents a trend toward more money for good teachers that is desirable. And it eliminates to a great extent the low salary as a factor against teaching."

Serious need does exist. Of the 45,000 teachers busy in Michigan at present, 10 per cent leave the profession each year. Some marry, retire, die or change vocations. Census figures show that 60,000 new pupils will be enrolled each year for at least the next five years. They will require 2,000 more classrooms.

These needs emphasize the opportunity for advancement in teaching. There will be many more openings for teachers and school administrators than there are qualified people to fill them. Many present teachers do not meet minimum requirements for teaching standards. Some are teaching with "special" certificates because better qualified instructors are simply not available.

"Accentuate the positive" will be the theme of the campaign to get more and better teachers for Michigan according to Dr. Taylor. "We are putting our faith in public relations methods to solve this and other school problems and stressing the better aspects of education as a life work."

In addition to glamorizing the teaching profession, the subcommittee on Educational Public Relations has some other aims. It intends to find ways to acquaint the public with data about school problems so facts will be available before people make up their minds about a controversial subject. It hopes to make the "average citizen" understand the values of present teaching techniques concerning the "three R's" and other curriculum problems. It seeks to learn why voters in some areas approve plans for new, needed school programs while voters in similar districts will not.

Members of this committee as well as the department of public instruction realize the urgency of providing fine educations for the youth of Michigan. Keen thinking is needed to meet national and international problems that today's children must face. They feel a strong sense of obligation to provide the best possible training.

Cherry, Bean and Pappy Queens from Michigan in Yankee Stadium? This question might perplex the casual reader, but it is nonetheless a fact. One of the products of the state's first Michigan Week provided the opportunity for three lovely Michigan Misses to take a whirling trip around New York and Washington.

Perhaps the highlight of their trip was the opportunity to appear at Yankee stadium just before a Sunday game with the Detroit Tigers and promote the three products over which they were chosen reigning queens. Lucky young ladies were Dairy Queen Virginia Hamilton, Copacac; Bean Queen Marceline Bender, Saginaw; Cherry Queen Everil Mejoche, Suttons Bay. They were accompanied on their trip by Mrs. Joe Wells, editor and publisher of the Coloma Courier.

Financed by funds from each commodity group matched by state department of Agriculture monies, the girls left by train and returned by plane. Featured attractions of their trip were visits to Rockefeller Center, they met Nat King Cole, television and radio appearances; a fine dinner at the famous Toots Shores. They also did the rounds at Washington D. C. in both cities they were guests of local Michigan Week committees.

This trip was one example of the many methods of promoting Michigan and Michigan products that no one thought of several months ago when Michigan Economic Development Commission got to work on the Michigan Week idea. Perhaps future years will produce many more.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

"Nothing to Sneeze At"

This year our town decided to do something about its hay-fever sufferers. Hap Thomas is our health officer, so he was made rag-wed "inspector."

"Can't see why anybody should be bothered by a few weeds," he snorted. "I say it's all in their minds." But Hap went on out to do his job.

Then, yesterday, I met Hap—looking kind of sheepish. His eyes were red and as he took out a big handkerchief, he sneezed. "Know somebody who isn't allergic, who'd like a job?" asks Hap.

From where I sit, I can sympathize with Hap. It's no joke. But as Hap admitted later, he was dead wrong in scoffing at the idea of hay fever. Making light of other people's ideas and opinions is a familiar trouble with a lot of folks. Whether it's hay fever, football or a choice of, say, buttermilk or beer as a throat-quencher, I'm just naturally "allergic" to anybody who "knows-it-all!"

The hit that's changing the sales standings puts you way ahead 3 ways

This year Buick has done what no other car has done in more than a generation.

This year Buick has moved into the lofty circle of America's three top sales leaders—a circle once dominated only by the so-called "low-price three." For today, Buick is outselling all other cars in the nation except two of these "low-price three." And each new month's sales figures strengthen Buick's new sales leadership.

You can't do better—if you want the best buy for your new-car money—than to look into the soaring success that is Buick today. You'll find this glamorous new-day beauty puts you way ahead in three important ways—that's for sure. So drop in on us—tomorrow at the latest—and see for yourself that Buick is the buy of the year, hands down.

1. More new car for your money

Buick prices start close to the lowest—just a few dollars above those of the traditional "low-price three." But those few more dollars for a Buick get you a lot more automobile—more room, more comfort, more V8 power, more ride steadiness, more solid durability—plus the advanced "tomorrow" styling that has taken the country by storm.

2. More money for your present car

With our great and growing sales volume, we can offer you a bigger trade-in allowance on your present car when you buy a new Buick. After all, the more new cars we sell, the better deal we can make with you. So you get the benefit of our great success in the form of a higher trade-in allowance.

3. More dollars when you trade

Because Buick's broad panoramic windshield has started a whole new styling trend, you can be sure that today's Buick will keep its modern look for years to come. So you are assured of a higher resale figure when you trade it in later on.

Come see for yourself why—

Shade Tree Tour To Study Treatment Of Common Diseases

Diseases of trees such as Dutch Elms has caused much concern to property owners in the city and throughout the county and state. In Ann Arbor and vicinity alone, in 1953, Dutch Elm disease, a fatal disease, it is estimated 75 to 100 more will be removed. This is a very serious public problem.

So that the public and city and county officials can become better informed with the problems and what to do about them, a tour and demonstration will be held Aug. 17 at Burns park, Ann Arbor, starting at 2 p.m. The program will be as follows: (1) The situation—Troubles and Problems; (2) Taking a look at actual tree problems, for an example—Dutch Elm Disease, Maple Wilt Sparse or off-color foliage, etc.; (3) What to do about the problems: including demonstrations of spraying equipment, fertilization of trees by machine and manual methods; recommended methods of pruning, painting and handling trees; and (4) Table exhibits.

This event will be conducted by Ann Arbor Parks and Recreation Department, State Department of Conservation and Cooperative Extension Service. City, state and Michigan State College foresters will be on hand to lead the discussions and demonstrations.

Birth Registrations May Set New Record Again This Year

It looks like another busy year for the state.

The birth registration reached an all-time high of 181,518 births in Michigan last year, Michigan Department of Health provisional figures indicate, but 1954 is well on the way towards passing even this record.

For the first six months of 1954, the State Health Department continues, 87,915 births have been registered, an increase of 6,012 over 1953.

This increase in births is running way ahead of 1953 figures compared with '53, the State Health Department adds, the total yearly increase in 1953 over the previous year was only about 4,900.

The State Health Department says that the birth increase is part of a trend that started before World War II. And since 1940, when there were 99,106 live births registered, the number of births has nearly doubled, they add.

However, during that time the sex ratio has stayed approximately the same, the State Health Department continues. Of the 1953 live births registered, 51.4 per cent were males and 48.6 per cent females.

Methodist Home Resident Is Author Of New Book

Mrs. Lottie Stout Kelpien, now assisting at the Chelsea Methodist Home as a nurse's aide, is the author of a book "Heart, First," released Friday by Vantage Press, of New York, according to an announcement by the publishers.

Her book is described as a "practical guide to successful living—that really works."

Mrs. Kelpien writes, "Being happy and useful, caring about others and having them care about us, is part of the growth process which we call life. Her philosophy is carried out in the useful work she is doing for the aged people who are in the Home hospital."

Born near Cedar Springs, in Kent county, she lived there during her childhood. During her high school years she lived near Greenville, in Montcalm county, and taught rural schooling there following her graduation from high school and a summer course at Mt. Pleasant Normal College. She was a school teacher for four years and later prepared for her writing career by studying evening courses.

Her book was written during spare moments of the past five years, she said this week.

A brief biography of Mrs. Kelpien states that although always welcome in the family circle of her married daughter, Mrs. Arthur Sereno, of Wixom, she chose the work at the Home as an opportunity to bring helpfulness, comfort and cheer into the lives of many infirm persons who are no longer able to care for themselves.

Her book is described by the publishers as embodying the guiding principles of her own life—of God and of one's neighbors, and the day-by-day building of character through trial and error.

This is Mrs. Kelpien's second tour of duty at the Home. She came here first five years ago, remaining for three years. She returned here again last May.

President Don Alber and the vice-presidents, James Hough and Charles Cameron, were elected delegates to the 37th Michigan District convention, to be held in Grand Rapids Sept. 12 through 15. Alternates were named as follows: Paul Murray, M. W. McClure and P. F. Nicholas.
