Campaign Is Started To Raise Emergency Funds To Fight Polio

County, National Chapter Treasuries Nearly Depleted

Chelsea's participation in the Emergency March of Dimes drive was launched Monday simultaneously with the drive all over the country for funds that are sorely needed immediately. Mrs. Hugh Sorensen, who headed the annual January drive here is Chelsea chairman. She announced that contributions to the present drive may be mailed to The Chelsea Emergency March of Dimes Fund, c/o Mrs. Hugh Sorensen, Chelsea, Mich.

There are no individual goals for the various communities in the county but the overall aim for the entire county is $25,000.

The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis had set a goal of $75,000,000 for last January's drive but this fell short by approximately $20,000,000, Mrs. Sorensen said.

The emergency drive at this time of the year is a necessity because of the huge expense involved in the fight against polio, including the gamma globulin used as a precautionary measure following exposure to the disease, and the Salk trial vaccine tests now being evaluated by Dr. Thomas Francis, Jr., and a staff of physicians and technicians at Ann Arbor for the National Foundation.

"If the trial vaccine proves effective there is hope that in the near future polio may be wiped out," Mrs. Sorensen said, "therefore, it is vital that every individual give generously to the emergency drive."

Mrs. Sorensen suggested that organizations of the community might put on fund-raising entertainments or activities to augment the individual contributions.

Washtenaw county chapter officials have stated that this county should feel obligated to make a great effort to help reach the $25,000 goal since the treasury, as of July 1, contained less than $3,000.

For the past three years the Washtenaw county chapter has had to ask the National Foundation for extra money because of the exceptionally large number of patients in the county.

One-third of all contributions received will be used for Washtenaw county patients and two-thirds will go to the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis to pay for vaccine, iron lungs, respirators and other equipment which is furnished by the national organization. The national group also furnishes nurses and doctors where there are epidemics and pays for the Respirator Center at U. of M. hospital. J. Wayne Meadows, associated with the State Savings Bank at Ann Arbor, is Washtenaw county chapter treasurer. He has his headquarters at the bank and he will explain expenditures without giving individual names of people who have received aid, according to Mrs. Sorensen.

Residents Forbid Hunting To Focus Attention to Roads

A new slant has been added to attempts of Lyndon township residents to force improvement "now" on the four and one-half mile stretch of Waterloo road which is listed for re-surfacing in 1957 on the Washtenaw county Road Commission's long-range county road improvement plan.

The stretch of road which extends from M-92 to the Jackson county line is declared by township residents to be worn down to hardpan and beyond ordinary repair.

Lyndon township and the Washtenaw county Road Commission have stated they do not have the money for the job at this time and both have expressed the conviction that because of the large acreage of state-owned lands in Lyndon township the Conservation Department has an obligation to assist with the project.

Meetings with Conservation Department officials last fall resulted in findings that the department could not legally use funds for road construction except within state park limits. And so it went—every avenue seemed to lead to disappointment.

Now, however, Lyndon township residents are trying out a new slant which they hope will lead to favorable action on their road situation.

The plan is to post their lands and prohibit hunting in the belief that hunters' complaints to the Conservation Department will bring about the desired result—assistance on the road improvement project.

It is believed approximately 18,000 acres of private lands adjacent to state-owned property will be posted before the hunting season opens.

Closing the hunting lands has

Herbert Roy Quits Fire Department After 40 Years

Herbert Roy, who had been a member of the Chelsea Fire Department for the past 40 years, resigned at last week's regular firemen's meeting.

An employee of the Hoover Steel Ball company the past 30 years, here and in Ann Arbor, he had faithfully responded to fire alarms whenever he was in town.

His first fire, as he remembers, was in 1914 at the former Holmes & Walker hardware and furniture store in the building now occupied by the Municipal building which also houses the present fire equipment and where the firemen hold their monthly meetings.

When asked about the biggest fire he worked on he said it was a two-family house at the corner of Madison and Park streets, owned at that time by the late Dr. George Palmer. The fire occurred in November, 1932.

Roy said there were bigger fires than that during the 40 years but they occurred at times when he was not in town to respond. He mentioned particularly the Central Fibre plant fire seven years ago which began after he had left for his work in Ann Arbor.

After the meeting at which Roy tendered his resignation, firemen held a practice session with fire equipment at the creek on North Main street and also drilled on ladder work.

Lima Club Wins Major Share of Horse Show Awards

Chelsea area 4-H club members have again achieved fine records in the annual Washtenaw county 4-H Fair, held last week at the fairgrounds in Ann Arbor.

"A" ratings awarded at the event, as compiled in the Washtenaw county Agricultural Extension office, are printed in this issue of The Standard.

Earl Heller, of this vicinity, won the grand champion award on the steer he exhibited.

In the showmanship contest Friday evening "A" ratings were won as follows: Gordon Schultz of Manchester, in the dairy division; Doris Heller of Chelsea, sheep; Robert Weiss of Chelsea, horses; Frances McCalla of Whitmore Lake, beef; and Dave Baldus of Dexter, swine.

The Lima Up-and-Down Horse club, led by Carroll Ordway, and including 10 members, took more than one-half the ribbons awarded on horses at the 4-H Fair.

There were approximately 38 entries in the horse and colt division according to Ordway. These included entries from four county horse clubs as well as horse entries through projects carried out in other livestock clubs.

As officially listed, "A" awards in horse projects were won by Louise LeClear, Donald Proctor, Robert Weiss, Herbert Erke and LeRoy Warden, all members of the Lima Up-and-Down club.

George Mayer and Sandra Sherrod, also members of the club, received "B" ratings on their two-year-old colt projects.

Other awards included a first place for Robert Weiss, a third for Louise LeClear, fourth for LeRoy Warden and seventh for Herbert Erke, in the Western Pleasure class.

According to Carroll Ordway, plans are already being made to divide the Western Pleasure class, which had 29 entries this year, into two or three classes, so more of its members will have a chance to show their horses properly.

You and Your Money

A PENNY SAVED

IS A PENNY EARNED

By Dr. Lawrence S. Ritter

Assistant Professor of Economics Michigan State College

"A penny saved is a penny earned."

This famous quotation is usually attributed to Benjamin Franklin's "Poor Richard's Almanac" and honored accordingly. This is as it should be, for old Ben certainly was a wise one and could coin a phrase with much truth in it.

Some of his lesser known ones undoubtedly should be repeated just as frequently. Such as, "A little house well filled, a little farm well tilled, and a little wife well willed, are great riches." Or "Fish and visiting relatives smell in three days." Or "There are more old drunkards than old doctors." Not to mention, "Love your neighbor; yet don't pull down your hedge."

But to return to the original subject: a penny saved is a penny earned. There is no doubt of this. At six per cent compound interest, $100 put in a savings account today will grow to $200 in 12 years and to $400 in 24 years. Money, earning six per cent compound interest will double every 12 years.

In 120 years that original $100 will have grown to over $102,000! This even beats chain letters as a way of getting rich, and it has it all over working for a living.

There are a couple of hitches to this, of course, as far as you and I are personally concerned. For instance, who has $100 to put in the bank? And second, who can afford to wait around for 120 years? Nothing is perfect in this world; it seems.

And then prices of goods change, too, and it seems as though they always go up and rarely come down.

This poses a problem for the saver. Some people bought war bonds in 1940 for $18.75. In 1950 they got $25 back, but this $25 could buy only as many groceries as about $14 could back in 1940.

They had waited ten years and then couldn't buy as much with the $25 they got back as they could with the original $18.75 they had saved!

If they had bought common stocks or real estate or something else that goes up in price along with the prices of the things they buy, they would have been better off in 1950. But then they would have run the great risk that the things they put their savings into might have gone down in value, and thereby wiped out their savings!

So remember, if you have the money to save, if you can leave it alone and wait for the earning to occur over the years, and if you can find just the right place into which to put your savings, then old Ben was right—a penny saved is a penny earned.

Wheat growers can't slight the use of fertilizer on their 1950 crop if they expect to maintain profits with acreage allotments, say MSC crops specialists.

Facts About Aging Persons Gathered By U-M Division

Ann Arbor—Most of the some 462,000 Michiganders 65 years of age and over live in the southern half of the Lower Peninsula; 40 per cent of them dwell in the counties of Wayne, Kent, Oakland and Genesee.

These are among facts gathered by the Division of Gerontology at the University of Michigan in compiling information concerning problems of aging. Population figures from the 1950 U. S. Census were used.

Actually every county in the state showed an increase in persons 65 and older from 1940 to 1950, as might be expected. However, this ranged from just over five per cent in Kalamazoo to 110 per cent in Roscommon.

However, it's the proportion of the population in that age group that is most important.

Proportions are smallest in the industrial counties of Macomb, Oakland, Midland, Wayne and Genesee and largest in the counties of Lake, Van Buren, Keweenaw, Houghton, Antrim and Grand Traverse. Macomb has the lowest proportion with just under five per cent, and Lake the highest with 14 per cent.

The U-M division also found that the proportions of these older persons receiving Old Age Assistance are greater for counties in the northern parts of Michigan than for counties in the southern part.

This and other information concerning with our ever increasing number of elders is highly valuable in helping cities and communities plan to meet the various problems concerning persons 65 and over.

A pointed example of this is the established fact that most older persons live in urban rather than rural areas.

Compost for gardens can be made from any vegetable matter, notes Edward D. Longnecker, MSC soil scientist. Grass clippings, tree leaves and garden refuse make artificial manure for next season.

INSIDE THE CAPITOL

By Owen J. Cleary, Secretary of State

During July, the Division of Driver Services working with information forwarded by local courts and enforcement agencies, suspended or revoked the licenses of 789 drivers.

This brings to 4,888 the total of such suspensions and revocations in the current year. In addition, 314 others were placed on probation agreements or merely instructed on safe driving practices. Also, 984 letters were sent to drivers advising them a continuation of conviction reports would jeopardize their driving privilege.

Seven new Examiner Supervisors were employed, bringing the total to 21 men now in the field. This new group went through two weeks of classroom instruction and one week of field work before assuming their duties July 26. Five of the new men were sent to the Detroit office bringing the total there to six with a supervisor to handle Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties. Three of the men formerly assigned there were transferred to out-state posts, bringing the total to 16 men with a supervisor in Lansing to handle 80 counties. This made necessary some adjustment in their respective territories.

Conviction reports reaching the central files is increasing month by month, as a result of better cooperation in reporting by courts, justices, and enforcement agencies. Also, work is about to start soon on revision of the central files which will enable the Division to handle this incoming information much more efficiently.

The increase in manpower, better reporting, and more efficient handling of information all tend to place the department in a favorable position to work more closely with local authorities in effecting improved and uniform driver license examinations, and also with the local courts and enforcement agencies in correcting or removing the bad drivers from the highways.

No. 7 WATCH WHEN PASSING A ROADSIDE BUSINESS

It is illegal for a football player sitting on the bench to get up and tackle a player carrying the ball. But it is not at all uncommon for a motorist to pull out of service stations onto the highway just in time to foul up a passing maneuver.

To pass safely you not only have to evaluate all moving traffic on the highway but you have to spot cars that are off the highway and are in a position to get onto it just at the wrong time.

So when you are thinking about passing look up ahead for service stations, hot dog stands, or any business place where a car may be lurking in a potentially dangerous position.

U-M Names New 'Teacher' for 25,000 Michigan Children

Ann Arbor—Some 25,000 Michigan school children will have a new music teacher this fall when Miss Edythe Mae Albert replaces Mrs. Janice Cobb on the University of Michigan's "Festival of Song" radio broadcasts.

Miss Albert, a graduate of Morris College and the University of Colorado, will take charge of the radio series which brings vocal music instruction into rural classrooms throughout Michigan.

The "Festival" programs have been directed by Mrs. Cobb during the past three years. In that time the audience has grown from a few hundred students concentrated in Washtenaw county to a statewide service reaching into 64 Michigan counties.

During the school year, students listen to the programs twice a week in their classrooms. The broadcasts are developed by the U-M station WJUM-FM and rebroadcast by 20 stations across the state. They provide the only music instruction available to thousands of children in rural schools.

Miss Albert was supervisor of school music in Iowa public schools from 1941-52. For the past two years she has been Supervisor of Music in the Laboratory School of the State Teachers College, Bemidji, Minn. She joins the U-M faculty as an instructor in Music Education.

The first Michigan Conservation Day and Plogging Contest will be held near Constantine on Saturday, Aug. 21.

State Park Managers Hold Lost Articles for Owners

Conservation department workers annually collect several bushels of lost valuables left in Michigan's state parks, but for some reason these items often must remain in storage, uncalled for by their owners.

Parks workers say the lost and found service of the state park system receives dozens of items each year.

The most common is probably in-the billfold or small purse. At each major park, visitors or park rangers turn in several dozen. Often, these contain currency, coins and other small valuables. All go on state storage shelves to await arrival of their owners.

Other items turn up, too. Somebody lost a set of false teeth at Dodge four state park last year, but the owner has still failed to claim them.

Persons who have lost valuables should check with park managers to see if the item has been turned

Thursday, Aug. 17, 1950—
Central Fibre and Federal Screw companies institute pension plans for employees.

Because the village water supply the past week has been pumped from the wells to the mains, by-passing the filtering equipment, the iron content has been very noticeable, bringing reminders of the "cold days." Repairs for one of the pumps caused the by-passing.

Thursday, Aug. 15, 1940—

Official census figures show Chelsea gained a total of 315 in population since the 1910 census. Population is now 2,079.
Chelsea merchants closed their stores at noon today and are attending the Grange picnic at Pleasant Lake in Freedom.
According to weather records, July produced some of the coldest weather in the history of Michigan for that month.
Village authorities have had Railroad street given a covering of gravel from the east village limits to McKinley street.

You're Never Too Old To Learn

By Dr. David Potter,
Associate Professor of Speech
Michigan State College
Has this happened to you? Joe had been working at a lathe for 20 years. He had ten years of seniority at the plant. A good man at his job. But whenever a shop foreman was selected, Joe was passed over. Finally, when a kid with some college credits in industrial relations and one year on the job was promoted over him, Joe stormed into Personnel and howled. "You're a great man at a lathe, Joe," the chief complimented. "But you've had no experience handling men."

Too frequently supervisors from foremen up know little more about handling men than Joe did. Ask Leo G. Mitchell or Colonel Charles Estes, or other members of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service who try to reconcile the differences between management and labor. Yet, fundamentally, the problem of working with men is not impossible to solve if men want to solve the problem and try to fit themselves for the task.

Colonel Estes says that he always recommends that men in management and labor—and on his staff—take at least some course in public speaking. He thinks the skills a man picks up in such courses better fit him for dealing with his fellows. Let's see if he's right. Let's put it this way. We know, without reading about it in a Ph.D. dissertation, that the best way to bring information to a man is to talk it and show it. Yet few supervisors know how to instruct and make a point clear.

We know, without reading about it in trade journals or texts, that personal discussion between each level of management from line supervisor to top-flight executive is essential for effective communication in business and industry. But, as the United States Government Printing Office pamphlet, "Better Communication in Small Business," points out, small industry seldom provides for such discussion. Result? Distortion and frequently lost man hours.

We know from our own experience that statistics and generalizations bore us when we're forced to listen to them. But do we speak in terms of people's interests and wants? And do we tell our story graphically and clearly? No, we don't and that's why most of us have felt the heartbreak that comes from watching another man climb above us when all he has that we haven't is the ability to speak well to groups and with individuals. But this doesn't have to be your story.

I can prove it if you'll help. Here's what you'll get. If you find a folder from your local adult school or continuing education division in your mailbox, don't file it in the basket. Open it and look for courses in Business-Speaking, Public Speaking, and Group Leadership. Then enroll. Of course you won't turn out to be a Daniel Webster, but you'll gain confidence in yourself. And you'll learn how to think clearly, participate cooperatively, listen carefully and speak effectively. And meanwhile you won't even mind the lather!

much trespassing, willful or not, is expected to occur and the Lyndon group has said that "local law officers will be alert to make arrests."

It was pointed out that Lyndon township farmers are "not blaming the sportsmen" and realize that "sportsmen will not be getting their money's worth when buying licenses for hunting with such a large area closed to them," but the plan was chosen as a means of putting on pressure to force cooperation from the Conservation Department on the road situation.

If the Conservation Department should be inclined to help finance the road construction, special legislative action would be necessary before money could be used for the purpose.
At meetings held at intervals during the past year the Lyndon township group claimed that "the heavy week-end traffic to higher. For this reason the Water-Recreation area, together with truck traffic to the state's Cassidy Lake property that was a factor in the road's break-down. On the other hand they state, the traffic counts taken by the Road Commission to determine which roads in the county should receive priority on the long-range improvement plan, were always taken on week-days when travel was much lighter. For this reason the Waterloo road was placed near the bottom of the list and the township residents contend this did not give a true picture of the situation.

The Waterloo Recreation Area of 13,438 acres is described as the largest in southeastern Michigan and is comprised of detached areas of swamp, lake and hills in a 60-square-mile section starting at U.S. 12 on the south and extending north almost to Stockbridge. More than half of this area is private farm lands and estates which provide all of the better pheasant, rabbit and deer hunting, and owners in general have allowed hunting privileges until now, according to Lyndon residents.

Estimated cost of reconstructing the road to modern standards is $150,000, plus free gravel. L. D. Guinan, one of a committee of five appointed in August, 1953, to push action on the road, offered to furnish the gravel from his own farm in the area.

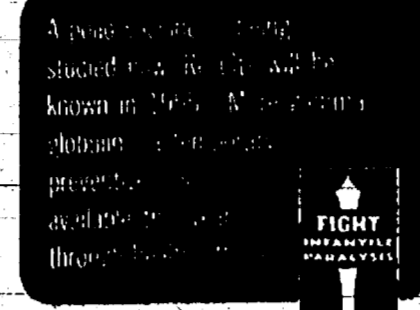

Others on the committee are Leigh Beaman, Paul Papsdorf, Bert Conway and Sam Markey. Guinan was with the group when with Howard Minier, Washtenaw county Road Commission manager, they visited Gerald Eddy, Conservation Department director in October. At that time Eddy told them he would investigate the possibility of a legislative act for funds and that he would send an investigator to get a report on the road. Guinan has also visited the State Highway Department and called on the governor.

At a meeting with Lyndon township residents July 29, Guinan reported he had obtained no results on the Waterloo road. It was then decided unanimously to put pressure on the Conservation Department by posting all farm lands of the area against all hunters, in the belief that this would center attention of organized sportsmen on the situation and that the sportsmen's protests would be directed to the Conservation Department.

Subsequently, Guinan talked with sportsmen's club representatives in Detroit and the "favorable attention" received at the Higgins Lake directors' meeting of Michigan United Conservation clubs Aug. 7 and 8 followed.
Organized sportsmen are reportedly much disturbed by the decision to post Waterloo area private property and the newly organized Sportsmen's Club of Detroit is presently active in attempts to bring the matter to the attention of the Conservation Department.

The CIO expects to campaign for the farm vote. They will make a big play at Michigan farms. They will work from tents with speeches, arguments why the farmer should go Democrat, and reams of literature to help him remember their best points. This action started at the Ionia Free Fair and will continue at Mason, Traverse City, Charlotte, Cadillac, Allegan, Saginaw, Adrian and Hillsdale.

But farmers will be reminded of what happened to them because of the recent milk strike in Detroit. GOP campaigners will point to the cut dairy farmers accepted several months back so that the price of milk could be reduced one cent per quart to consumers. They will then describe the Detroit strike which ended in higher pay for the unionized delivery men and higher cost for the consumer.

"How can the CIO expect to win farm votes when they pull this sort of thing?" asked one Republican worker.

Best way to win the election, say Republicans, is to build up a heavy outstate vote. By rough figures, they compute that there are 275,000 Democratic votes cast in Wayne County to 111,000 Republican. But in the rural areas there were 349,000 Republican votes compared to 86,000 Democratic. An important reason for the heavy Democrat vote in Wayne, they say, is the hot campaign to elect Hart over Fitzgerald. They believe many GOP voters will appear in the fall election.

Biggest worry for Democrats is what will happen to the primary vote for Fitzgerald. The Williams camp made it clear that they had no objection to Fitzgerald because he was backed by the Teamsters Union. While anxious not to chase away any votes, they claim they have no plans for overtures to the Hoffa group. Nor have they received any.

The Williams group does not like to think about the possibility, however remote, that many of Fitzgerald's votes will switch to GOP.

Republicans think that most Democrat campaigning will boost Gov. Williams; that McNamara and Hart will be little more than coattail riders.

Important test for GOP will come at their convention. Can party unity be maintained? There have been indications that the best way to do this is to re-name the incumbent. Brink for treasurer; Martin for auditor general; Cleary for secretary of state; Millard for attorney general.

This won't satisfy everyone, of course. The Upper Peninsula wants to be represented on the ticket. If this happens, some

Shape of things to come in fall election campaign is taking form.

Democrats held their state convention in Grand Rapids Aug. 13. Republicans will hold their convention in Grand Rapids Aug. 21.

Both parties met in the same place this month but only one can occupy key offices in the state administration.

Both parties expect a tough battle before the election. Both are preparing for it.

A Democratic leader, while predicting victory for his group, says, "You can't expect the GOP to not become heavily involved in a campaign affecting the senator who is head of the national Republican policy committee. They'll be in there pitching with all they have."

Republicans are well aware that the popularity of G. Mennen Williams and the re-visit from Hoffa and the AFL because he was instrumental in calling off a Congressional investigation of the teamsters by Representative Clare Hoffman is denied emphatically.

A state Republican spokesman agrees that the investigation was called off but places responsibility on "high officials including a Democrat from older states" who were worried that it would spread to Michigan to areas that would embarrass them.

The farm vote is taking on an unusual importance. Democrats are sure they see a trend in rural areas in their favor.

The CIO, strongly behind Phil Hart for lieutenant governor, has but little choice when it comes to a senatorial candidate. With Moody out, they are forced to embrace, however reluctantly, Patrick V. McNamara. McNamara's AFL background seems to preclude an enthusiastic support.

This won't satisfy everyone, of course. The Upper Peninsula wants to be represented on the ticket. If this happens, some incumbent would have to bow out. Former senator George Higgins, who withdrew from the race for governor, has announced that he would like to be secretary of state. If Higgins can't be fitted in, what will become of him?

Conflicting reports can be found regarding the sentiments of Donald S. Leonard, successful GOP candidate for governor. On the one hand, he is said to favor the existing set-up. On the other, he is said to want a UP candidate for auditor general. Since Frank G. Millard, attorney general, is unpopular in rural areas because of some of his decisions regarding township government, he appears to be on the shaky ground. There are rumors of plans to shift Martin to Millard's position to fill Leonard's wishes. Then a UP candidate could be picked for auditor general.

SUMMER MENU AID

Cheese, an important protein food, fits especially well into summertime menus, say home economists at MSC. As you know, it can be used without cooking—or even if you do use it in cooked meals, it never needs to be cooked long nor at high temperatures. Chunks of cheese combine make a good addition to vegetable salads, too, the home economists remind you.

Survival Is Not All

Tremendous gains have been made over the years in the skill and knowledge of the medical profession. Cures for disease, accomplishing surgical miracles, and the discovery of new drugs can be classed as one of the wonders of the world.

But survival is not all! Even though broken bodies can be mended and diseases cured, what about the broken spirits and mental anguish caused by financial strain due to accident and illness? You and I have seen it time and again.

My Company, Woodmen Accident, has been furnishing protection against financial losses due to accident and sickness for 64 years. Such protection for you or your family costs only pennies a day! Let's talk it over—

Michigan Can Boast of Being Very Diversified Farm State

While most out-of-staters generally regard Michigan as an industrial state, most Michigan farmers could tell them that cars, gray iron and cereals aren't the only thing their state produces in quantity.

If the state suddenly were cut off from the rest of the world, Michigan residents would continue to eat and eat fairly well, according to facts supplied by the Michigan and U. S. Departments of Agriculture.

For while Michigan ranks only about 10th in the nation as an agricultural state, it can boast of being one of the most diversified of the farming states. This agricultural diversification and wealth in the midst of industrial power is only another aspect of Michigan's greatness.

An ideal climate and soil for fruit trees along Michigan's west shore has earned the state the title "Fruit Basket of the Middle West."

In the growth of red tart cherries, Michigan ranks first in the nation, and Grand Traverse county holds the honor of harvesting more cherries of any kind than any other county in the United States. In 1950, Grand Traverse harvested a bountiful crop of 31,395,000 pounds of cherries.

In the growth of peaches and apples, Michigan has lost and gained ground. Formerly in second place in the growth of peaches, Michigan fell to fourth when last year's peach crop fell 18 per cent below average.

But apple production has increased to such an extent in Michigan that the state now is one of the top three apple-growing states in the union. Previously it had only ranked fifth, averaging 7,070,000 bushels from 1942-51. The indicated 1953 figures show that Michigan increased its apple production to 8,084,000 bushels.

Although still in third place, Michigan has also shown an impressive gain in the growth of grapes over the past few years. Its 1942-51 average was 31,580,000 tons; and its 1953 crop, 43,000,000 tons.

In plums Michigan ranks second among states, and in pears, fourth. Growth of the latter fruit has also increased considerably in Michigan in 1953, 80 per cent over its 1942-51 average.

Truck crops also play an important part in Michigan agriculture. More cantaloupes and pickle cucumbers are grown in Michigan than in any other state, and the state ranks second in the growth of fall and summer celery, onions, and spearmint.

Michigan ranks third in the growth of carrots, cauliflower, sweet corn, cucumbers, straw-berries, and tomatoes, and fourth in snap beans and peppermint. In field beans Michigan also stands among the leaders in acreage it ranks first in production, second in acreage.

For most Michigan farmers, however, hay, corn, oats and wheat are still the staple crops of importance. Even in those widely raised grains, Michigan doesn't fare badly ranking eleventh in hay production, tenth in corn, sixth in oats, and ninth in winter wheat.
