

Public School Enrollment Hits 973 Total

Kindergarten Tops Classes with 117 Reporting to Class

A total of 973 pupils were enrolled in the Chelsea Public schools Tuesday morning when classes convened for the 1954-55 school year. The number includes 597 children in the elementary grades and 376 in junior and senior high grades.

By classes, the enrollment figures were as follows: kindergarten, 117; first grade, 81; second grade, 104; third grade, 81; fourth grade, 67; fifth grade, 67; sixth grade, 68; seventh grade, 54; eighth grade, 52; ninth grade, 74; tenth grade, 68; eleventh grade, 78; twelfth grade, 57.

Because the new north elementary school is not yet completed, all elementary children are being cared for at the south elementary building.

The all-purpose room has been put into use for three classes, a section each of the first, second and third grades. Another section of the second grade is housed in the kitchen.

Maintenance work at the schools consisted during the summer in painting the outside trim and the side walls of the halls at the south elementary school.

At the high school, students' desks were varnished in eight rooms and in the study hall; ceiling and side walls under the balcony in the gymnasium and bleachers, shed, senior stand and ticket booths at the athletic field were painted.

The entire school plants were completely scrubbed, waxed and generally given a thorough cleaning.

A group of people representing different agencies working with farmers in Washtenaw county have joined together recently in forming a "Washtenaw County Agricultural Council." Agricultural Council members are Don Johnson, Agricultural Agent; Bill Dexter, Assistant Agricultural Agent; Ray Pfeiffer, District Forester; Frank Gendron, 4-H Club Agent; Pat O'Malley, FFA Supervisor; Don Maurer, Farm Planner for Soil Conservation; Lon Sherman, District Soils Scientist; Anne Brown, Home Demonstration Agent; Dick Larsen, Agricultural teacher at Dexter High school; Phil Smith, Agricultural teacher at Chelsea High school; Mel Sheppard, Agricultural teacher at Milan High school; Ira Jump, Agricultural teacher at Manchester High school; James Lilley, Agricultural teacher at Saline High school; Robert Hall, Secretary-Treasurer of National Farm Loan Association; and Andrew Campbell, Manager of Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

The purpose of this council is to promote in all ways possible better farming in Washtenaw county. It is felt that by forming this group that maximum coordination could be had in getting information to farmers about the services available in the county thereby assisting the individual farmer with any needs he might have and at the time he needs them most.

Officers Destroy Marijuanna Valued At Nearly $35,000

Undersheriff Charles Shaw and Detective Sgt. Melvin C. Fuller responded last week when Warren Hoover reported that plants growing on his farm were identified as marijuanna. Their inspection of the fields on the farm brought to light the fact that a large quantity of the narcotic weed was growing there and the plants were pulled up and taken away by the two officers.

The officers reportedly placed the retail value of the marijuanna found there, if converted to cigarettes and sold on the illicit market, at approximately $35,000.

Marijuanna plants in the location near the Hoover house where they were found last week, are believed to have been growing in the same spot for more than 60 years without being recognized.

4-H Youth Win Honors At State Show

Marlene Kuhl and Olive Ann Reddeman of this vicinity, and Robert Middleton of Plymouth, are Washtenaw county representatives among a group of 4-H club members who left Tuesday morning on an all-expense bus trip awarded them for honors received at the State 4-H Show at Lansing last week. They were accompanied by Mrs. Anna Brown, Washtenaw county Home Demonstration agent and Duane Girsch, assistant 4-H club agent.

Marlene Kuhl won the trip by giving a demonstration on growing gladioli, while Olive Ann gave a demonstration on how to bake a cherry pie. This was the first year of state competition for both girls.

The trip takes them to Columbus, Ohio, and special tours include the Westinghouse Research Laboratory, Ohio State University and the Ohio State Fair. They will return home Friday.

The Plymouth youth won the trip for being in first place with an electrical demonstration at the State Show.

Four Washtenaw county boys who placed in the top eight in dairy judging at Lansing have been called to participate in judging contests at the State Fair in Detroit. The scores they receive there will determine whether they are sent to Chicago or Waterloo, Ia., for further competition. The boys are Gordon Schultz of Manchester, Paul Geiger of South Lyon, Alfred Harwood of Ann Arbor, and Kendall Rogers of Saline.

Darold McCalla of Whitmore Lake placed on the state livestock judging team.

Among those from this vicinity who won honors at the State Show and their placings are as follows: Kenneth Haist—first on yearling ram lamb, ram lamb, aged ewe and champion ram lamb, all in black tops.

Doris Haist—grand champion and reserve champion on Corriedale ewe.

Janet Kuhl—reserve grand champion pen of lambs.

James Grau—first on senior calf Brown Swiss.

Petitions Ask for Vote On Serving Hard Liquors in Sylvan

The question of "whiskey-by-the-glass" as it is popularly known, is to be an issue of the November election in Sylvan township.

Petitions to place the issue before voters of the township were presented to Robert G. Foster, Sylvan township clerk, the past week in accordance with state law which requires signatures of one-third the number of registered voters who cast ballots in the township in the latest presidential election.

On that basis, 592 signatures were required while the 37 petitions filed with the township clerk bear the signatures of more than 650 electors. The petitions may be examined at the clerk's office, Foster said yesterday.

The sale of liquor "in addition to beer and wine for consumption on the premises" was previously voted upon in Sylvan township in November, 1946.

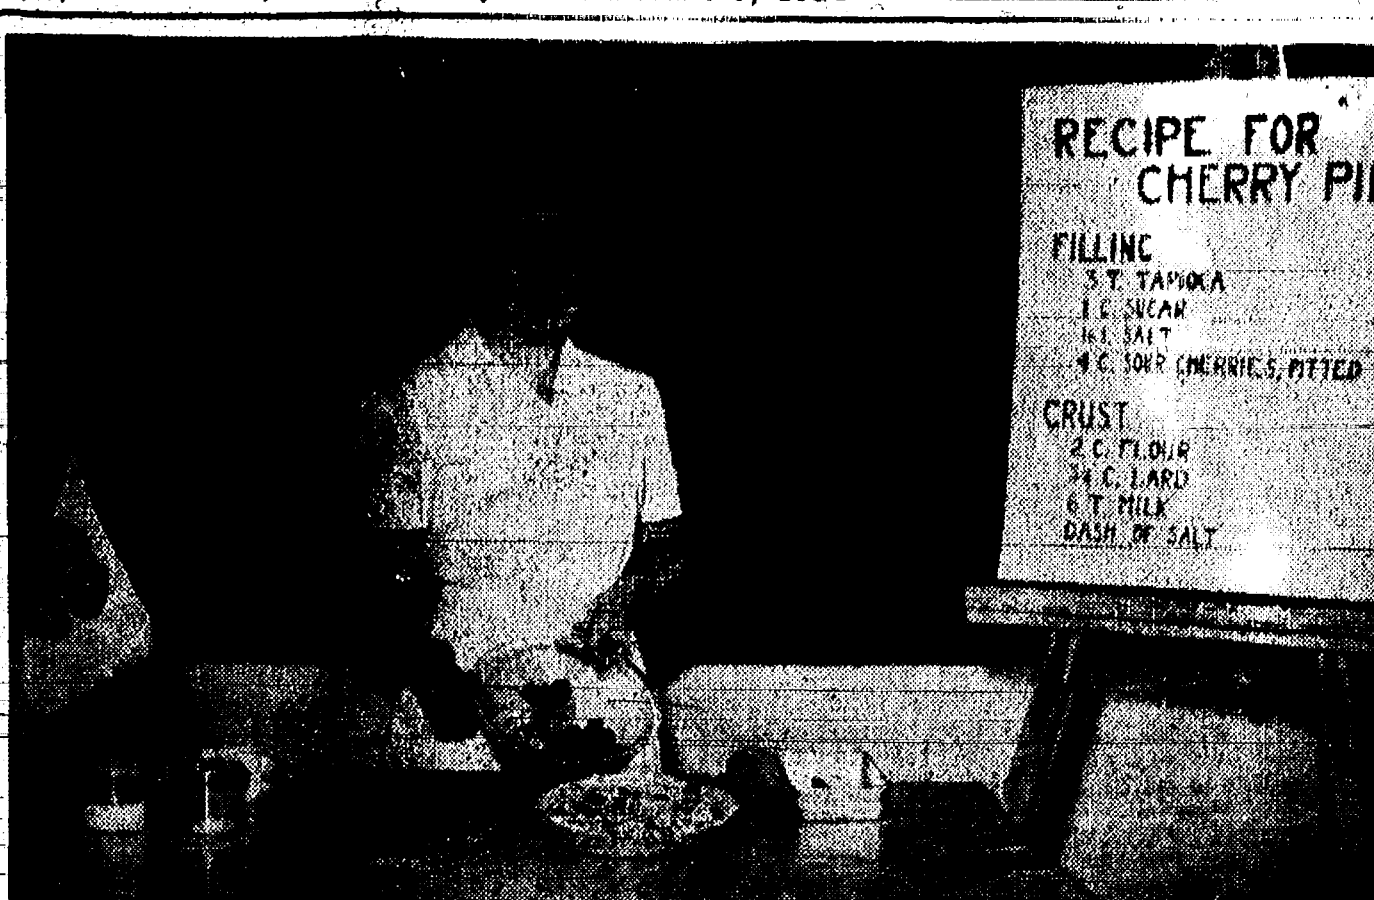

At that time the issue was defeated by 294 votes when a total of 1202 electors cast their ballots on the question. The vote at that time was 748 against and 454 in favor of the proposal.

Red Cross Asks for Volunteers To Aid In Hospital Work

Red Cross workers will be in the Chelsea State Bank from 10 until 12 a.m. next Thursday, Sept. 16, to receive applications from Chelsea people interested in doing volunteer work for the Red Cross.

In charge of recruiting volunteers in the county is Mrs. Walter C. Pomeroy, who has been named vice-chairman of County Chapter, the Washtenaw County Chapter, a newly-created post. Her first assignment is to secure approximately 200 volunteers to fill requests for workers received from the VA hospital in Ann Arbor and the Ypsilanti State hospital.

The work for which volunteers will be recruited here next week includes reading and writing letters; interpreting foreign languages; assistance with occupational therapy; and help in giving parties for patients.

FOOD PREPARATIONS CHAMPION—Olive Ann Reddeman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Reddeman of Lima township, was rated tops in the foods preparation demonstrations at the State 4-H Club Show held last week at Michigan State College. Her cherry pie demonstration won her an expense-paid trip to the Westinghouse Research Center in Columbus, Ohio.

Emergency March of Dimes Local Total Exceeds $900

County Expected To Exceed $25,000 for Total Figure

Tuesday figures on the Emergency March of Dimes contributions for Chelsea showed a total of $908.53, according to Mrs. Hugh Sorensen, local chairman.

This includes $156.60 received from dime cards and $107.65 from canisters.

Also included in the total is a contribution of $2.06 turned in by Lana and James Centilli and Joan Weinkauf who staged bicycle races and an amateur show in their South street neighborhood Thursday afternoon.

The Washtenaw county total Tuesday was reported to be $22,788.63 and Leonard Chase, Washtenaw county chairman, said he believes the final total will reach the sum of $25,000.

The Mothers March in rural areas of the county has netted $5,912.14.

Tuesday's total did not include dime cards received in Ann Arbor over the week-end nor any canister receipts from Ann Arbor.

There are also some special events planned in the county and proceeds from the three sources as well as late contributions are expected to bring the grand total to $25,000 or more.

It was again pointed out that two-thirds of the total contributed will go to the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis for the polio prevention program and respiratory centers; purchase of equipment; training of doctors, nurses and physical therapists; and assistance to local chapters.

One third of the amount contributed remains in the county and local officials said when the funds of the Emergency March of Dimes are depleted they will ask for an additional grant to care for local patients.

The $20,000 goal was set for Washtenaw county early in the summer before the heavy incidence of polio.

The local chapter has had additional grants from the National Foundation for patient care the past five years.

Clare Fenn Represents Washtenaw '40 et 8' at Convention in Washington

Seaborn P. Collins, Jr., of Lakewood, N. Mex., was elected national commander of the American Legion at the 36th annual convention, held last week in Washington, D. C.

A World II flyer, Collins was chosen unanimously to succeed Arthur J. Connell, of Middletown, Conn.

Also elected at the convention were Vice-commanders Leonard Jackson of Clark, La.; Robert Shelby, Salt Lake City, Utah; Howard C. Kingdom, Conn.; O. Patrick H. Mangum, Jr., Brattleboro, Vt.; Dr. Carl J. Rees, Newark, Del., and national chaplain, Rev. Albert J. Hoffmann, Dubuque, Ia.

The convention went on record as being in favor of Congressional Communist-hunting committees—including the Senate investigations subcommittee headed by Senator McCarthy (R. Wis.)—and recommended that the committee be given "ample funds" to continue their investigations. It was also proposed that Congressional action be taken to expose contributors to Communist front organizations and to pass additional anti-Communist legislation.

Other convention action included a proposal for immediate rearmament of Germany under the North

Plans Announced for Special Attractions At Community Fair

Governor Williams Will Be Present To Crown Queen

According to the Chelsea Community Fair entertainment chairman, Paul F. Niehaus, Gov. G. Mennen Williams will be present to crown the Community Fair queen Saturday, Sept. 25.

Niehaus received confirmation Tuesday of Gov. Williams' acceptance of the invitation to participate in the program at the Fair on the final night of the four-day annual event.

Each float in the parade is entitled to enter a "queen" in the contest.

Walter Harper and Ted Balmer are in charge of floats for the parade and they are urging that prospective entries be reported to them as soon as possible.

Merchants Revive Popular Feature of Free Door Prizes

At the Community Fair Association meeting Tuesday evening, it was decided that merchants' free prizes will again be featured at the fair.

A canvass of merchants was completed during the past week. The popular give-away project was omitted last year because of the agitation at the time about the possibility of its being considered to come under the gambling category along with the ban on bingo.

However, since the prize was always awarded without any sale of merchandise or charge of any kind, it was decided the gambling theory does not apply.

Ezra Lesser of Dexter, officially announced that he will donate a fat steer to be auctioned following the Thursday night pig scramble. The steer will probably be quartered for the sale.

The Thursday night horse pulling contest, originally intended for lighter weight teams has been changed to heavy weight teams since that is the only type available this year.

As an inducement to get a large number of antique cars to participate in the parade here, George Knickerbocker, local gas and oil dealer, told Fair officials he will sponsor the oil and gas to bring the old cars to Chelsea. Awards for old cars will be provided by the Fair Association in the form of a printed plaque one by two inches in size and bearing appropriate inscriptions.

At Tuesday's meeting it was also decided to offer prizes of $15, $10 and $5 for the best bands in the parade. Judges are to be carefully selected out-of-town musical authorities.

Another meeting of the Community Fair Association, when final arrangements for the fair will be completed, is scheduled for next Tuesday, Sept. 14, at 8 p.m.

18,500 Expected To Enroll at U-M For Fall Semester

Ann Arbor—Classes will open Monday, Sept. 20, for the fall semester at the University of Michigan.

Predictions based on reports from the deans of the 15 schools and colleges indicate the resident credit enrollment should climb to 18,500 this fall, an increase of 1,000 from last fall.

Adding further support to President Harlan Phillips' oft-stated assertion that the University will continue to offer a strong, undergraduate program, is the report that a third successive record-breaking freshmen class will enroll this September.

Freshmen entering directly from high school are expected to number 2,850, an increase of 250 over last fall. Transfer students will bring the total enrollment on campus to more than 5,000.

As has been the custom for years, the University will hold a week-long orientation program for the freshmen and transfer students.

Frequent Oil Changes Protect Engine...

When was that last oil change? Last month? Last week? Actually should be every 1,000 miles. Constant grind of driving "breaks down" oil's efficiency causing excess engine wear. Let us drain the crankcase and refill it with fresh, clean Good Gulf oil... and change the oil filter too. So, play safe! Drive in today and say, "Check the oil!"

Interpreting the News

Death of a Michigan child, whose parents were unable to secure medical attention, emphasizes a basic problem facing the people of this state.

It is a problem that takes on tremendous personal significance, engendering both anxiety and anger in the individual who is faced with the need for a doctor and is unable to engage one.

It is a condition that troubles various civic leaders and some members of the medical world.

The problem defined in brief: The need for more doctors.

Investigations by the State Board of Registrations in Medicine into the case of the Hazel Park four-year-old indicated that the parents had delayed so long in calling a doctor that it's questionable whether she could have been saved; that a doctor who was called instructed the parents to take the child to a hospital. The important point is that no doctor could be found to attend the little girl.

There are fewer medical doctors in Michigan now than in 1942, a war year, according to the federal Public Health Service. Latest figures for the state show that in 1942 there were 121 physicians per 100,000 people; in 1949 there were only 111. Another table shows that there was one doctor for every 831 people in 1942; in 1949 one doctor was available for each 904 people.

"It seems obvious to me," says Dr. A. C. Furstenberg, dean of medical school at University of Michigan, "that we need more doctors if you can't find one when you are sick. The law of supply and demand is fundamental and easily understood by anyone. If a doctor is not available when his services are required, and appointments must be made 30 to 60 days in advance, surely there is something wrong with the supply of medical talent."

The dean says that there are valid reasons for increasing present enrollments in medical schools, but cautions that it must be done in an "orderly manner as budgets will permit."

Great worry of some medical school administrators is that the quality of doctors would be lowered under an accelerated training program.

Reminding that "no medicine may be much better than bad medicine," one midwest authority further cautions: "as the quantity of professional men is increased (under undesirable conditions), the quality is likely to go down. This does not mean that we still would not have many outstanding doctors and dentists, but rather that they would be harder to find if the number of professional men were increased."

Medical training is expensive. Technical instruction by skilled doctors to small groups of students is a necessity if a college is expected to produce competent physicians.

U. of M. medical school for the past three years had admitted 200 students annually. A total of 720 were enrolled the first of this year.

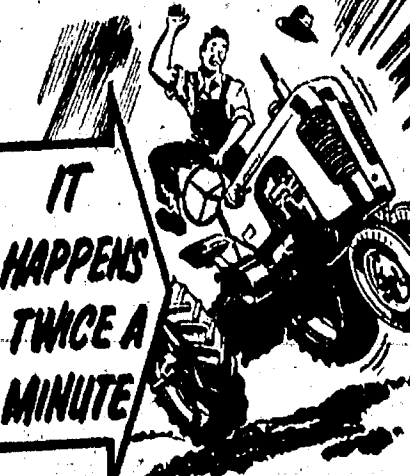

Wayne University, the only other medical school in Michigan, is now admitting 75 each year.

Some 4,737 physicians were reported practicing in Michigan in 1950. If each student who began training graduated and started practice in Michigan (which all do not), only 275 new doctors a year would be available to ease the existing shortage and replace physicians who die or retire.

Quickest remedy seems apparent at Wayne University. "At the present moment, we have physical facilities for taking 100 students per class," states Dean Gordon H. Scott. "We have no additional facility necessary to handle another 25."

students per class. When we were granted a new building by the legislature, we were taking 68 students. We have strained every resource since that time so that we might raise the number from 68 to 75. We cannot go further than we have without diluting our instructional program."

Cost of increasing the student load at Wayne to 100 per year would be approximately $250,000 per year in the opinion of Dean Scott. It amounts to $2,500 per new student.

No state money is spent to operate Wayne medical school. It is financed by the city of Detroit.

Dean Scott points out: "It seems logical that since health is the admitted business of the state, witness a State Health Department, state care of mental patients, persons suffering from tuberculosis and other diseases, that the state cannot separate medical education, an integral part of health maintenance, from these other publicly accepted responsibilities."

State indications are that a higher percentage of Wayne medical graduates stay in Michigan to practice than do those from U. of M., there is room for argument that the legislature should help support the smaller medical school.

The Legislature is less concerned with problems caused by doctor shortage than it could be. A resolution that would have created a committee to study the subject in general did not receive favorable action despite efforts of Representative Ben E. Lohman, chairman of the Public Health Committee.

Trout Fishing

Season Closes

Sunday, Sept. 12

Lansing—Fishing activity on trout lakes and streams ends in Michigan on Sept. 12, but conservation department fisheries workers point out that now is a good time for fishing on other waters. -10

Spring and fall, say the old-timers, are always busy periods for avid anglers and the months of September, October and November are especially important to bass, pike and walleye fishermen. -10

Trout fishermen, however, have to hang up their boots for another year after Sept. 12, except for those who wish to enjoy lake or Mackinaw trout on non-trout waters in the extended fall season. -10

In general, trout lakes and streams close to all fishing on Sept. 12, with few exceptions, but on other waters the non-trout species, in general, may be taken at least through the remaining months of 1964. -10

Bass season—on non-trout waters and the Great Lakes—does not close until Dec. 31, so there is still plenty of time to plunk plugs at your favorite batch of lily pads. -10

Pike and walleye fishing will also continue until March 15 on non-trout lakes and there is no closed season on these species on non-trout streams. Large numbers of anglers will enjoy trolling or casting for them through fall months. -10

Pan fishing—again on non-trout waters—is always popular and the season on these fish extends through the fall and winter months on a sunfish and bluegills and throughout the year on crappies, perch, rock bass and other lesser-known species. -10

Muskelunge, sturgeon, whitefish, white bass and "other fish"—bullheads, carp, catfish, smelt and suckers—are also legal game throughout the year on non-trout waters. -10

So, say fisheries workers, there are still plenty of days of good fishing available for the taking—at a time when the water is generally free of swimmers, motor-boaters and other fish disturbers. -10

Adequate wiring systems are an investment not only in home safety but also in efficient and economical operation of electrical appliances. Pay equipment specialists at MCO. -10

Training Child in Safety Must Be Continuous Process

"Child traffic safety education is a continuing process and is the responsibility of all of us," according to Sergeant John Horvath, commanding officer of the Jackson post of the Michigan State Police. The sergeant offered his comment in connection with the current state-wide child safety campaign being conducted by police agencies and safety groups.
Children should be taught the rules of safety as soon as they are able to understand, but these rules must be repeatedly emphasized and kept in their minds as they grow older for they will forget and they will be careless," he said. "Furthermore it is extremely important for older persons to set good examples as the children do what grown-ups do."
There were 100 child pedestrian deaths in Michigan in 1953 and 18 were killed riding bicycles. In addition, 3,800 children were injured.

"Most child pedestrian deaths in the 5 to 14 year age group occur in residential areas," Sgt. Horvath said. "Crossing between intersections accounted for 56 per cent last year. Other frequent causes were stepping from behind parked cars and walking unsafely or playing in the roadway."
The sergeant pointed out that the slogan of the campaign, "Watch Out For Kids," is directed to drivers. They are asked to remember that children often do the unexpected and they should help to their safety thinking for them.

Fresh Cut Flowers Suffer from 'Shock' If Not Babied

Cut flowers on your table are out of their natural environment just as captured wild animals are. Just as we go to much trouble to give animals a "just like home" atmosphere, we ought to do the same for cut flowers. Create the same conditions as they had in the garden, advises C. E. Wildon, Michigan State College horticulturist.
He lists these pointers: Flowers should be cut after sunset when their food supply is highest. After the flowers are cut, they should be plunged into warm water—90 degrees—up to within a few inches from the bloom and kept there for four to eight hours. After they are taken out of water, the ends should be cut off again to start a new water column.
Wildon says it makes little difference how you cut flowers. Burning or scalding the ends does not help. Putting ice cubes in water causes respiration to slow up.
After the flowers have been "hardened off" by deep plunging in warm water, they may be placed less deeply in cooler water and then put in a cool location free of drafts until you are ready to use them.

Many people have the idea that placing wilted flowers in the refrigerator will revive them. Wildon disagrees with this notion that wilted flowers have been put in refrigerator for weeks and never have become fresh.

Specialist Advises Careful Selection Of Feeder Steers

Don't be in a hurry to buy your feeder cattle unless you can get a bargain on the kind you want. The drought bargains are gone and shrewd buying of feeders will be needed to make good profits.
That's the word from Donald L. Stark, extension livestock marketing specialist at Michigan State College.
Feeder buyers, he contends, need a margin between the price they pay for feeders and the sale price of fat cattle to make a profit this season.
Feeders will be as plentiful as last year for fattening and there will be more calves, according to Stark.
He believes that if the fat cattle market stays around $25 per hundredweight, feeders should buy their stock for $20 a hundredweight or less.

Seedling Trees Available from Conservation Dept.

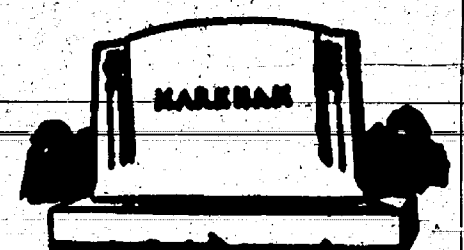

Lansing—The conservation department has a record 19,500,000 seedling and transplant trees available for public purchase in the annual fall nursery sale now getting under way, foresters report.

The total is more than was available in last year's spring and fall sales combined.

However, foresters note that probably only seven or eight million of the trees will be planted this fall; the remainder will hold over until the heavier spring planting.

Two- and three-year-old red, white, jack and Scotch pine seedlings and three- and four-year-old red and white pine transplants are available.

The stock is sold to commercial or individual purchasers for reforestation, Christmas tree production and farm windbreak uses. The trees will not be sold for ornamental landscape use or for resale with roots attached.

Think you were treated unfairly by a mover? The gas or electric company? Do you think the telephone company should give better service for the rate you pay?

If your sentiment is justified, you have a powerful ally to enforce a fair settlement.

Standing guard over the rights of individuals in such cases is the state Public Service Commission.

When a consumer becomes dissatisfied with a grocery or hardware store, he can trade elsewhere. When he is dissatisfied with a utility, he has no such alternative.

He can, however, appeal to the Public Service Commission. All they ask is that the complaint be made in writing. This eliminates misunderstandings and requires the complainant to spell out a specific charge.

If investigation proves a complaint to be groundless, the person who originated it receives a letter to that effect. But if there is reason to believe that it is justified, the Commission can order the agency involved to make adjustments. PSC can also make new regulations that will prevent repetition.

But the Public Service Commission is designed to be fair to the agency serving the public as well. In addition to controlling utilities, PSC has jurisdiction of motor transportation; bus and freight lines that serve more than one municipal area.

In addition to making regulations to protect public safety, the Commission sets rates which shall be charged and must approve the financial stability of organizations that want to deal with the public.

Law provides for three commissioners appointed by the governor. At present only two are in office, and the vacancy will probably exist until after the fall election.

The law also provides that the Senate must approve the appointments. It is natural to assume that the governor would appoint a Democrat while the Senate would prefer a Republican. No qualified person has turned up who will run the risk of a temporary appointment. Issues could be decided with only two commissioners, should each vote differently on an issue, but this has not caused serious trouble.

Commission verdicts can be taken to the courts if a party feels them to be unfair. They are considered in Ingham County Circuit Court or in State Supreme Court.

Judges can confirm, reverse the Commission's ruling, or send it back to PSC with a recommendation for re-study. The third road can be a fact-saving device.

Chairman of the Commission is John H. McCarthy, a Democrat from Mt. Clemens. Maurice E. Hunt, a Sault Ste. Marie businessman and a Republican, is the other member. Both now live in Lansing because the job requires a full working schedule.

Secretary of PSC is Sophus Lund, who has held the position since 1939 except for one year. He supervises the recording of the Commission's rulings and manages personnel.

"In general, the firms we control are most cooperative," said Mr. Lund. He described as an example, the activities of telephone companies. "Although there are more than 140 telephone companies doing business in Michigan," he said, "nearly 90 per cent is done by the three big ones—Bell, General and Union."

"Sometimes, a very small firm will want to sell out and cannot find a buyer," he continued. "We can contact one of the big companies. They will establish a fair price, and make the purchase."

Application for rate changes, which usually means increases, must be approved by the Commission.

Mrs. Albert Chambers of 537 West Middle Street, left Sept. 4 for Centerville, Texas. She is visiting relatives there.

Mrs. Clara Hutzler attended the funeral of Edward Kerber in Detroit Friday afternoon and then spent until Monday with Mrs. Kerber.

Andy Fritz returned home Wednesday of last week after being a patient for ten days in the Veterans' hospital, Ann Arbor.

Marion Klingler of Detroit, spent the Labor Day week-end here as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Ren Hutzler.

Commissioners set times for hearings and interested parties from attorneys for large cities to individual customers are allowed to present their views.

Michigan Bell applied for a rate increase in July, 1963. It was refused last month after much study and testimony. A new application will soon be filed for reconsideration.

The Commission can also order rebates and sometimes does. In 1945 a general rebate to Bell's customers was ordered. It totalled $10 million and took years to complete.

Enforcement officers of PSC patrol the roads. They stop trucks to be sure haulers are moving loads according to legal conditions.

The commission thinks the motor transit operators welcome this enforcement. It protects the legitimate lines from "fly by night" truckers offering unfair competition because they do not observe the standards of safety or other requirements of the Commission.

Big Population Poses Problems For U. S. Farms

East Lansing—If the number of American farm acres in 1970 stays at today's figure of 656 million, production will have to go up 40 per cent to provide a high level diet for a bigger population.

Michigan State College's Workshop in Economic Education held this forecast from Dr. Dale E. Butz, associate professor of agricultural economics at MSC.

If production is not increased as population grows, then more farm acres will be needed to provide for America's growing number of dinner tables, he said.

"It has been estimated that more agricultural advances have been made in the past 50 years than in the previous 1,900 years," Dr. Butz said. Use of fertilizer and machines was given as the main reason for these advances.

If the present fruits of research could be placed into actual use and practice on American farms right now, production would jump 25 to 30 per cent, he said.

"While the farmer has increased his efficiency, we have always had a lag in getting research onto the farm. We are attempting to speed this up through communications and other methods," he said.

Dr. Butz said that in addition to agriculture's contributions of food to the American economy, it also contributes manpower to many segments of business and industry. This population shift from rural to urban areas has been caused by a number of factors, including that of mechanization, which requires fewer farm workers.

In discussing farm prices, Dr. Butz termed agriculture "a high risk industry," which includes many small producers.

MICHIGAN ELK ON DISPLAY

Tourists to the north central part of Michigan's lower peninsula—especially those who take a few side roads, around the town of Vanderbilt and east—may get to see a sample of Michigan's growing elk herd. Few people realize that Michigan now boasts the largest elk herd east of the Mississippi—a herd that may now number close to 300 animals.

500 Square Mile Area

The elk range in Michigan is bounded on the west by US-27, on the north by M-26, M-38 on the east, and on the south by M-32—an area of about 500 square miles. Much of this is the so-called "Pigeon River country," wild lands with many open valleys and low hills covered with second growth hardwood. This makes an ideal combination of cover for our elk.

At one time, way back in the Indian days, Michigan's elk herd numbered in the many thousands in all probability. The Shawnee tribe told of hunting these big animals for food and hides. Even today huge antlers are found buried in the muck of Antlim and Gladwin counties. And the range is expected to have extended south over the Thumb area, too.

Elk Grazing Animals
Primarily a grazing animal in the summer and fall while they're ranging the green valleys in search of succulent grasses, elk find it impossible to paw thru the heavy snows of Michigan in the winter and turn to stripping bark from trees. Maple and basswood are favorites. Stripping is done by gouging deeply into the tree with an upward thrust of powerful teeth, and many landowners in Michigan's elk range complain of severe damage to trees by the foraging animals.

Rarely in Heavy Cover

Unlike our white tailed deer, the Michigan elk is rarely found in swampy cover, preferring the open, grassy valleys. Vast numbers often report spotting cow elk with calves close by at this season of the year, and the animals have no great fear of man. It is possible to approach close enough for a snapshot occasionally.

Protected Throughout State
While you may see a dozen or more in a herd it is no indication of a large population of elk in this State. Since their release in 1918 when they were imported from Wyoming, the herd grew slowly to its present size at which point limited range seems to have leveled the numbers. It is unlikely that we'll ever have an open season on elk—but they make an interesting addition to animal life in our Michigan Outdoors.

Electricity Never Forgets - - Do You?

By L. C. Meyer
Electric System Specialist
It's too bad that a fallen wire doesn't have a little sign that pops out with "Do Not Touch" on it. A wire on a rural line broke and fell near one end of a corn field recently. A device protecting this portion of the line automatically shut off the circuit. The property owner was cultivating corn, working his way slowly toward the fallen wire.

Not wishing to drive over it and perhaps damage it, he dismantled from his cultivator, picked up the end of the wire, carefully rolled it up and hung it over a fence post near a power pole to which it was attached.

He had no more than turned it loose and stepped away when this coil of wire suddenly became "alive" and arced and burned its way through all the strands of the woven wire fence.

Now let's go back and see what happened:

Our farmer friend wasn't the only one who had an interest in that fallen wire. The local power company had been notified that service in the area had been interrupted and promptly dispatched a repairman to investigate. Unaware of the actions of each other, the farmer stopped his tractor at almost the same time the repair truck drew up some distance away.

New Driving Code Adopted by MSC

East Lansing—A new code permitting any Michigan State College student to own and drive a car on campus will go into effect with this fall term.

Permission—heretofore granted only to special groups of students—was extended by the State Board of Agriculture, MSC's governing body.

Mapped jointly by student government, campus police and the Dean of Students, the regulations permit the ownership and operation of cars by students and provide for specific driving and parking hours on the campus as well as fines for violations.

Included in the regulations are requirements that all cars be registered with the college police, at a fee of $1 per year, and that drivers show evidence of liability and property damage insurance.

Travelers Urged To Be Wary of Michigan's Bears

Lansing—Visitors to northern Michigan this year are again urged to be cautious of bears when traveling in the out-of-doors.

Campers, hikers and tourists should not try to feed or stand close to "semi-tame" bears. Field workers report that a dry July in the northern areas has cut into the expected berry crops and sent bears looking elsewhere for food.

Bears found near city garbage dumps, resort areas and other similar places should be cautiously avoided. Photographs should be made from a distance. The bear is one of the most hairy and treacherous of animals. His moods are variable and unpredictable. He should be left strictly alone.

Neglect of Child's Primary Teeth Can Be Expensive

Ann Arbor—"Somebody in the dental profession ought to put in good word for primary teeth," says Dr. Robert E. Moyers, a dentist in the University of Michigan School of Dentistry.

"And," he adds, "the great importance of taking care of them." Dr. Moyers is chairman of the University of Michigan School of Dentistry's Orthodontics department. This is the branch of dentistry devoted to preventing and correcting irregularities of teeth.

Seeing literally hundreds of cases of poorly arranged children's teeth each week, Dr. Moyers is strongly convinced that the child's first teeth need an aggressive public relations counsel.

(Dentists dislike referring to primary teeth as "baby teeth," because, as they rightly point out, these teeth often last the child until he is 12 years old.)

Nevertheless, Dr. Moyers declares, "Parents, even some dentists, in general practice, tend to ignore the child's first teeth. The attitude is understandable," he adds, "because they are temporary teeth."

Yet, the U-M specialist says, a properly treated first tooth may save the parent hundreds of dollars worth of corrective work in the child's later years.

Furthermore, even if the child's first teeth appear to be perfect, they could be concealing a potential orthodontic problem, necessitating years of treatment, complicated appliances, and a huge bill on the family income.

"It is my firm conviction," Dr. Moyers says, "that the field of dentistry known as orthodontics has an unfortunate public appraisal. People tend to think of corrective work as the sole property of the upper classes."

In fact, if a child wears braces on her teeth, it was a foregone conclusion that her father was in the higher income brackets.

Dr. Moyers reports that he has had parents come to his clinic from hundreds of miles away, literally begging him to straighten their children's teeth. Such people cannot afford extensive corrective work.

"The high cost of orthodontic work is largely due to delays and overights earlier in the game," he declares the U-M dentist. "Parents do not realize that by the treatment of a single primary tooth, or by the application of a simple plastic appliance, we often can guide the whole course and structure of a child's mouth."

Dr. Moyers estimates that two-thirds of the malformations and irregularities of children's teeth can be intercepted, even prevented.

"If a child is seen early enough, that might have been years of corrective work turns out to be a mere matter of months," he says.
