Bulk Fertilizer May Prove Popular To State's Farmers
 Bulk handling of fertilizer may be the coming thing for many farmers in Michigan.
 That's what a survey by Vernon L. Sorenson, a Michigan State College farm economist indicates. The survey showed that farmers who have tried it are generally happy with bulk fertilizer—if they handle it themselves rather than having it spread.
 And they mentioned there are no old bags to dispose of, no fertilizer lost from broken bags and less heavy lifting.
 Most farmers who apply the bulk fertilizer with their own equipment have been drilling it in with small grain. Some have used it on corn—both drilled and checked—on top dressing on grass, on vegetable and small fruit crops and on orchards.
 Sorenson points out that the savings on eliminating bags—and the bagging process—could be big. He found that labor costs in one fertilizer plant per ton of fertilizer produced could be reduced from 92 cents to 23. And bags represent about five per cent of the sale price.
 The farm economist estimates that manufacturers could supply retailers with bulk fertilizer at a saving of from $3.50 to $4 a ton under the bagged kind.
 This saving probably would not be passed on to the farmer, however, unless he handles the fertilizer himself, emphasizes Sorenson.
 Sorenson concluded that retailers in many cases could use existing buildings for storage of bulk fertilizer. And they could use a small farm tractor with a bucket attachment for handling and loading. If the retailer bought delivery equipment, his investment would be larger.
 And if the farmer had to hire the spreading of his bulk fertilizer, he probably wouldn't save cash, according to Sorenson. Most bulk fertilizer spread by truck now leaves the plants for immediate delivery to farms.
 The big disadvantages in bulk fertilizer are these: It is almost impossible to store on the farm. It's hard to tell how much fertilizer you're applying per acre until you use all you plan to apply; and bulk fertilizer is hard to handle in a stiff breeze.
 You would have to eat three and a half dozen eggs to get as much calcium as you'd get drinking a quart of milk, say Michigan State College food specialists.

MSC'S Continuing Education Service Has Many Phases

East Lansing—Truck drivers are conferring today on the Michigan State campus for new information about safety. Rookie police officers are getting advanced training. Newly-elected public officials are hearing Michigan State professors explain about the operations of government.
 "Yes, there is a growing movement to bring the people and the university together to learn, to share, to build, to seek answers to problems of today and tomorrow," declares Dr. Durward B. Varner, vice-president for off-campus education at Michigan State.
 The many and varied programs of Michigan State designed to help adults to find new horizons and more-meaning experiences are directed by the Michigan State Continuing Education Service. Michigan State officials contend that the "Continuing Education" philosophy and operation recognizes that education never ends for anyone, that it is a life-long process. The seven-story, $2,500,000 Kellogg Center on the Spartan campus is the headquarters for this service, which will serve more than 200,000 persons this year.
 The Michigan State College faculty and the Continuing Education Service are close-working partners doing an educational job for Michigan adults—whatever they are, wherever they live, whatever their age or occupation. Wherever Continuing Education programs are held, faculty members in every field assume the major responsibility for instructional phases of the work.
 The service was established in July, 1948.
 Michigan State, now observing its Centennial year, was one of the pioneers of the Cooperative Extension Service to reach out into Michigan rural communities and onto Michigan farms with an ever-increasing flow of new ideas, research and service. Today, the Continuing Education Service is striving to extend college services into new areas; to reach all other groups. It functions through four departments—the Department of Special Courses and Conferences, the Department of Business and Industry, the Department of Educational Services, and the Department of Community Services.
 Each of these departments performs specialized functions as part of the over-all job of making education available to an ever-widening circle of Michigan people.
 One of the major techniques used at Michigan State to meet the needs of all the people is the conference approach. The Continuing Education Department of Special Courses and Conferences helps develop programs ranging from technical meetings for beekeepers, nursing home operators or war-housemen to conferences in the broad areas of safety, health, international understandings, agriculture, business and industry, labor, education or public service. In arranging such conference programs, Continuing Education uses the knowledge, experience and skill of the Michigan State faculty and staff.
 The Department of Business and Industry conducts activities both on campus and off campus in the industrial plants or offices of business firms. Courses and workshops are conducted to solve the individual problems of particular business or industrial groups.
 The department activities seek to improve management competency, employer-employee relations, productivity, safety records, and worker satisfaction.
 The Department of Education Services works to maintain and increase the vital flow of facts and information from the university to the teachers and community leaders of the state. The range of projects includes Michigan State Evening college, extension courses, "University of the Air" educational telecourses, school bus driver training, adult education projects, school custodian training, driver education, worker education, and others.
 The Community Services Department was established in July of 1954 to help community groups obtain assistance with varied problems. Consultations, visitations, conferences, and other techniques are used to help communities with problems of juvenile delinquency, the aging, industrial development, fringe areas, citizenship education, home and family living and others.

FAMILY TIME IN THE WILD

Springtime is family time in Michigan's animal kingdom. Bear, bobcats, rabbits, squirrels, foxes, coyotes, loons bring their young into the world, to be greeted by the bright sunshine that goes with April and May.

Bear are first to reproduce, while the mother bear is in mid-winter hibernation. There is strong evidence that she has little or no knowledge of the birth of her one, two or three cubs, so deep is her sleep of hibernation. They may be more than a month old before she rouses from her long nap to recognize them as her offspring and to take over her maternal responsibilities.

Young bobcat kittens first see the light of day from beneath a stump deep in some swamp. From the moment their eyes are open, the youngsters have a wary disposition, and the sharp little claws are always ready to slash at a suspected enemy—or even at brother or sister who may suddenly anger them. This writer has no record of a wildcat kitten ever having been completely tamed.

Possum True Marsupial

In southern Michigan—and sometimes as far north as Roscommon County—you may spot a mother possum in the springtime, her brood of six or eight ratty-looking youngsters riding piggy-back clinging to her grayish fur. Earlier in their life they reposed in a pouch in the mother's underside, very similar to the much-publicized pouch of the kangaroo of Australia. Animals with a pouch are known as "marsupials," and the possum is the only mammal in America of this classification.

The Dainty Bunny

Mother rabbit is careful to conceal her naked, helpless brood of babies in a hollowed-out bit of ground. She plucks fur from her breast to line the little den snugly, then while she is foraging for food for herself she covers them with fur thoroughly to kill any scent that might lure a fox or weasel to the tiny burrow. Finally the hole is camouflaged with loose grass and twigs until it looks much like level ground. Mother nature teaches her children well—and they are best left unmolested by human hand.

(Note: In a recent column relative to special restrictions for fishermen on the main stream of the Au Sable River between Burton's Landing and Wakely's Bridge, the creel limit was specified as 8 trout. This is incorrect. The law specifies a daily limit of 5 trout none of which can be less than 10 inches in length.)

MILK PRODUCTION TESTS

Velte Lea Ormsby Triune Lily, a registered Holstein-Erieau cow owned by George Macomber, has recently completed a test period of 334 days. Average milk production was 22 quarts daily for a total of 16,240 pounds milk and 574 pounds butterfat.

SUBMERGED BRIDGE

The Manistique River bridge on the outskirts of Manistique goes through instead of over the river. The roadbed is actually several feet below the river's surface, and sides of the bridge form bulkheads for a huge concrete water tank.

List Points To Consider In Building New House

East Lansing—What are the main things you should think about in building a house? Site selection, style and design, space requirements, convenience, comfort and economy are the most important, advises Henry Krause, assistant professor of engineering drawing at Michigan State College.

"Perhaps nothing adds more to the long-term satisfaction and contentment than the location," the MSC professor said. "Not every house can satisfactorily be built on any site. By all means, acquire the site first."

In choosing the style of house you want, you should have two broad classifications insofar as the outside appearance is concerned. The two are "traditional" and "modernistic." The modern scientific way to plan a house, he said, is to start with the needs for the interior, draw the best possible plan, and then design a suitable exterior. "This is called functional planning and architects call the functionally-planned home 'modernistic.'"

Prof. Krause points out that in every well-built house there should be enough space for all activities of all the family—individual and group activities whether cultural, personal, physical, social, habitual or occasional. "You want enough space for all the things you have and use. This should be arranged space, so planned that it will yield the maximum use of space where possible. That is space adapted to different uses at different times."

Convenience is space arrangement, he said, and comfort means planning not only the space but the equipment, materials and facilities. "Planning for convenience requires careful placing of the rooms in relation to each other. Well-thought-out arrangements of everything in the various rooms result in items being as close as possible to the places where they will be most used."

"It takes many conditions and factors in addition to convenience to produce comfort in a home. This is because comfort implies control of temperature and humidity, both natural and artificial light, water and sanitary facilities, sound, odors and color."

"Comfort is psychological as well as physical and is conducive to comfort differ with different people," the MSC professor declared.

How much should your home cost? That's up to you, but remember that economy comes with good planning and design—both economy of first cost and economy of operation and maintenance.

"Very often just a little added cost will mean substantial savings in the end, as well as freedom from the inconvenience of interruption of use," Prof. Krause said.

"The more trouble-free piece of equipment may cost more, but it will be a real saving over a period of years. Also, the resale value of the house will be higher. Brick veneer is just one example of an investment that pays for itself in a few years. Insulation is another investment that pays for itself. Storm sash, good plumbing, heating, copper pipes and non-corrosive gutters are a few others."

"Since most home owners will have large amounts of their savings invested, Prof. Krause has a final word of warning: 'Be careful not to over-build or under-build for your present or future family, and don't forget the resale value of your house.'"

Plastic Liner Helps Apple Storage

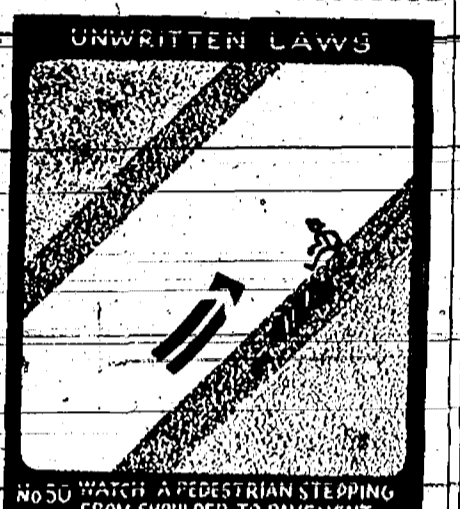

A new plastic, crate liner now under test, may help put crisp Michigan apples on the store shelf past late winter.

The liners are similar to the transparent plastic bags you see around fruits and vegetables at the grocery store. Donald H. Dewey and Walter Ballinger, Michigan State horticulturists, have the bags under test in southeast Michigan as well as on the campus. The researchers achieve the bags may keep the apples in good, crisp condition past early spring.

They say growers, wholesalers and retailers are well pleased with the new plastic liners, particularly for storing the Golden Delicious apple. They want to be sure, however, that the bag helps keep other varieties from wilting and shriveling.

For the best results, the scientists say, the bags should not be sealed, merely folded.

Unwritten Laws of the Road

No 30 WATCH: A FEET-THIN STEERING FROM SHOULDER TO PAVEMENT

No self-respecting pedestrian, walking on the highway shoulder, would be dumb enough to step into a puddle of water when with in one step there is that nice dry pavement. With his mind on the puddle he may well forget that a car may be coming—at 60.

A pedestrian on the loose on a high speed highway is always bad news for a motorist. All you can do is to slow down, prepare to dodge and try to "second guess" him.

For a motorist to fail to recognize any pedestrian ahead as a hazard is as foolish as a sea captain failing to take special precautions when he reaches shoal water or the fog begins to roll in.

Hi-Neighbor club members were entertained Friday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Steele with Mrs. Amy Genter and Mrs. Frances Alber as hostesses.

Cards were the evening's diversion and prizes were awarded as follows: Mrs. Emerson Lesser, traveling award; Mrs. George Steets and Howard Gilbert, high; and Mrs. J. V. Burg and Douglas Hoyes.

Next meeting will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Chapman and will include a supper. The date for the meeting is to be announced.

WOMEN'S FELLOWSHIP

Pilgrim Chapter of the Congregational church was in charge of the program and Dorcas Chapter was responsible for the devotional service at the Women's Fellowship meeting held Thursday evening at the church, the two groups combining their efforts to present an effective Lenten-Easter program.

Mrs. Russell McLaughlin read the Scripture and Mrs. Edward Visel was the reader for a presentation entitled "Out of the Heart of the Gospel," which interestingly gave the history and special uses of five types of crosses—the Latin, Pilgrim, Anchor, Greek and Congregational-Christian.

Mrs. Visel was assisted in displaying replicas of each of the crosses by the following women: Mrs. Eugene Shroyer, Mrs. David Poda, Mrs. Evan Knott and Mrs. H. C. Powers.

Thirty-eight members and one guest were present for the meeting. The next Women's Fellowship meeting is scheduled for 1:30 p.m., Friday, June 24.

LYNDON FARM BUREAU

Lyndon Farm Bureau members were entertained Friday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Boyce on Dancer road, near Dexter. It was a regular meeting of the group and was attended by 37 members and children.

The chairman, Spencer Boyce, presided and Lawrence Shanahan led the discussion on the topic, "The New Look in the Agricultural Extension Program."

During a social hour which followed, games were played and pot-luck refreshments were served.

The next meeting will be held Friday evening, May 13, in Lyndon Town Hall.

In schools taking part in the National School Milk program, children are drinking at least 50 per cent more milk than they did last year. Be sure there's enough milk at home to satisfy their increased appetites, advise Michigan State College home economists.

County Civil Defense Chairman Addresses Legion Auxiliary

William Buettner, American Legion Second District Blood Bank chairman, and Thomas FitzGerald, Washtenaw county Civil Defense chairman, were guest speakers at the meeting of the American Legion Auxiliary, held Tuesday evening in the Legion Home at Cavanaugh Lake. There were 23 members present.

All hospital equipment of the local Auxiliary, with the exception of one hospital bed is now in use, it was reported.

Mrs. Ernest Guenther, child welfare committee chairman, read an invitation for Auxiliary members to visit the children's billet at Otter Lake.

It was decided that the Auxiliary will help the local Post with the county initiation April 16 by arranging a planned pot-luck dinner.

Dianna Barr has been selected as the local girl to represent the Chelsea Auxiliary at Girls' State in Ann Arbor in June. Named as alternate is Marie Munden.

The local Auxiliary is making itself responsible for accumulating a number of cribbage boards to be given to hospitalized veterans and anyone who has one to contribute may leave it with Mrs. Hilda Hall, it was announced.

Traffic Deaths, Injuries Down; Accidents Gain

Traffic deaths and injuries in Michigan dipped during February as compared with the same month last year, but accidents increased, according to the State Police monthly report.

There were 115 persons killed and 3,843 injured in 15,674 accidents. Deaths decreased by 11, or nine per cent, and injuries by 19, or five per cent. Accidents went up 824, or six per cent.

The record for the first two months of 1955 shows 254 deaths, 7,930 injuries and 31,162 accidents, reductions of one, six and four per cent, respectively, as compared with the same period a year ago.

Estimated mileage traveled in January, the latest figure available, was 2.1 billion, a new high for that month and an increase of seven per cent over January, 1954. The death rate of 6.7 per 100 million miles of travel, however, remained unchanged.

Farmers Are Urged To Lime Fields as Early as Possible

A very satisfactory number of farmers took advantage of the free lime test offered by the Washtenaw Agricultural Council during the week. Agricultural Conservation Program urges any farmer who finds his fields need lime to make plans to get the lime on as soon as possible. If your budget will not allow the expense, consider applying for cost share. The folks in the Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Office will be glad to explain the program. Application for cost share must be made prior to performance of the practice, so start your lime program by signing up at the Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Office located at 201 E. By Stuart Edgars

SPIKE SWITCHED off the lights and braked the black convertible to a smooth stop in the dense shadows at the curb. Taking the automatic from the glove compartment he slipped it into the side pocket of his coat, then, with the motor still running, he stepped out.

Excepting for two small boys pulling a coaster wagon along the walk, there was no one in sight. The youngsters wore the usual makeshift Halloween costumes, topped with grotesque masks, and as they slowly passed he noticed the end of a massive chain dangling from their wagon, making a rasping clink-clank on the concrete pavement.

For a brief moment Spike and the boy eyed each other silently, then he turned and walked swiftly up the driveway toward the rear of the house.

Yes, he had timed it well. The big Demarest Halloween party was in full swing, music, voices and laughter all stridently gay. But on this side of the house, at the service entrance, all was quiet.

Gently he slid a key into the slot of the night-lock, then swiftly, unseen, made his way up the stairs.

Gently now, he grasped the handle, and said, so this would be it. Turning the knob he entered and closed the door softly behind him. The room was in darkness, but his flashlight found the copy of Gainsborough's Blue Boy instantly, and here, behind the picture was the wall safe.

All right this far. Now if she was right about the combination...

He took the paper from his pocket and studied the numerals again, then, placing the flashlight under his arm-pit, its beam directed at the dial, he began...

21 right... 32 left... 6 left... 5 right... 41 left... This should do it, if that dumb blonde...

For a moment he hesitated. This was almost too easy—thanks to the dumb blonde. Maybe he somewhat underestimated her.

Gently now, he grasped the handle. The door swung open easily, soundlessly. But now, at the instant, a shrill, ear-piercing clang or rattle through the house! The thing was wired—and she had forgotten to tell him!

He snatched up the two jewel cases and slammed shut the safe. As he did so the alarm stopped. Slipping the cases inside his shirt he drew the gun and moved toward the door. Perhaps, with all that hilarity downstairs, no one had heard the alarm.

But they had. As he opened the door he heard someone already frantically talking into a telephone. And now, suddenly from nowhere, a portly butler stood facing him, barring his path to the stairs. But in that same instant the man saw the gun, threw up his hands and backed against the wall.

"Don't shoot!... Please!... Don't shoot!"

"Then stay where you are!... Don't move!"

Down the stairs and out. Now, as he reached the street and made for the car a shot blasted toward him. It missed. As he looked back he saw the veranda filled with people. So what? They couldn't stop him now, and by the time the cops got here...

He slid under the wheel and jerked the lever into second as he stepped on the gas and let out his clutch. Ah! The car started with a smooth surge of power—then stopped abruptly as if it had rammed a stone wall.

The sudden impact threw him halfway over the steering wheel, and with a frightful force his head crashed against the windshield. Blackout. Intense. Complete.

Now, as he slowly regained consciousness, he found himself stretched on the pavement with handcuffs on his wrists. Two policemen stood over him and a third knelt at his side, dribbling water from a paper cup into his face.

"What did I hit?" he gasped weakly as he attempted to sit up.

"Windshield," snapped an officer. "Almost went through it."

"Yeah, but what happened? What did the car hit?"

Without replying the officers helped him to his feet, then led him to the rear of the convertible, revealed by the headlights of the patrol car parked behind it.

Spike's jaw dropped. There was that massive chain that had been clink-clanking from the young steers wagon. They had fastened it around the axle housing and then wound it around the tree trunk at the curb!

"Those brats!... Those d—!"

"Easy now, Halloween, y'know," laughed the younger officer, "an' boys'll be boys!... Come on, Spike, let's go."

in Washington of wool growers, and interested organization representatives. The procedure developed will safeguard growers' interests and at the same time enable them to use part of their incentive payment for current operations rather than waiting until the summer of 1956 when first payments will be made.

Chairman Pritchard emphasizes that whether the wool grower takes advantage of the assignment provision or not it will be to his advantage to get the best possible price for his wool. The wool payment will be based upon the percentage needed to bring the national average price of wool to the incentive level. This percentage will be applied to the price per pound each grower gets for his wool.

High on a bluff overlooking the Ausable River near Oscoda, a huge bronze statue stands as a fitting tribute to the former lumberer of this region. The historic three-figured memorial is a sightseeing "must" for thousands of tourists each year.

Wool Payments May Be Assigned to Market Agencies

Payments due wool growers under the National Wool Act for wool, lambs, and yearlings, marketed on and after April 1, 1955, may be assigned to financing and marketing agencies which make loans on sheep, lambs, and wool. This decision, made recently by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, clears up a question raised by many wool growers and marketing agencies since the passage of the act last year.

W. C. Pritchard, Chairman of the Washtenaw County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, explains that those receiving an assignment from the grower must make a full and specific accounting to the grower and must remit any balance due him within 60 days after receipt of the wool payment. Program funds cannot be used to pay balances remaining from advances on previous year's operations.

Another point emphasized by Chairman Pritchard is that the wool grower may make only one assignment of his wool payment. The assignment must be filed with his county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation office at 201 East Liberty Street, Ann Arbor.

The Department's decision to permit assignments of wool payments followed a recent meeting

County Immunization Clinics Report 12,401 'Shots' Given

Results of the county-wide immunization clinics which were completed Thursday, were reported today by Dr. Donald W. Martin, president of the County Medical Society. The clinics were sponsored by the County Medical Society in cooperation with the schools and the Washtenaw County Health department. Participating physicians donated their time to the clinics.

In making the reports, Dr. Martin told of the work done by volunteer helpers at the clinics. "Without these efficient and tireless volunteers, conduct of the clinics would have been impossible. The entire Medical Society wishes to thank them for their assistance," he said.

"Another group which helped immeasurably was the resident staff at St. Joseph's Mercy Hospital," said Dr. Martin. "On several occasions, we were forced to call on them for assistance on extremely short notice or no notice whatever, and we were never refused."

Local schools cooperated by furnishing quarters for the clinics and the teachers again contributed to the success of the clinics by helping with the administrative work involved, according to Dr. Martin.

This year, the clinics offered immunization for diphtheria, tetanus and whooping cough, to all children under 5 years of age, and immunizations for diphtheria and tetanus to all over 5 years of age. In addition smallpox vaccinations were available to all those children needing them.

The figures as released by Dr. Martin show a grand total for the county of 5,278 smallpox vaccinations and 7,123 immunizations.

Of these Ann Arbor's total was 1,086 vaccinations and 1,618 immunizations; Ypsilanti, 1,073 vac-inations and 1,385 immunizations; and the remainder of the county, 3,119 vaccinations and 4,120 immunizations.

Figures for Chelsea given in the final report are 175 vaccinations and 275 immunizations.

Dexter's total was 249 vaccinations and 286 immunizations and Manchester's 159 vaccinations and 196 immunizations.

Complete and official figures show that again in 1954—for the 13th straight year—MORE PEOPLE BOUGHT CHEVROLETS THAN ANY OTHER CAR

No other low-priced car even comes close to matching these important Chevrolet advantages...

If you're planning to buy a new car, the one you just can't afford to miss seeing is Chevrolet—for 19 straight years America's best-selling car. The Meteoric Chevrolet offers you so much more than the other low-priced cars that it's hardly fair to compare them. And even the high-priced cars don't have all the advantages that today's Chevrolet offers you.

The beauty's built in—not bolted on! Chevrolet's beauty is inherent in the basic contours of metal and glass. There's no excessive bolted-on ornamentation to go out of style overnight.

The Body's by Fisher! You see Body by Fisher on lots of the high-priced cars—and only Chevrolet has it in the low-price field!

Today's most modern engines! That goes for Chevrolet's new V8 and two new sixes as well. All bring you a modern 12-volt electrical system—double the voltage of other low-priced cars. Then Chevrolet's new "Turbo-Fire V8" has the shortest piston stroke in the industry!

A drive to suit your driving! There's silky, peppery Powerglide (even better this year!), new Overdrive (both extra-cost options), and a new Synchromesh transmission that's as smooth as they come.

All the power helpers you want! Windows, seat, steering, brakes—all are available with built-in "muscles" to make driving as effortless as you wish. They're optional at extra-cost—and worth it!

Come take the key! There have never been so many good reasons why you should drive a Chevrolet!

Over Ten Million Chevrolet owners—Two Million more than any other car!

Here's why MORE PEOPLE ARE BUYING PONTIACS than ever before!

1. You can buy a big, 200-H.P. Pontiac for less than many models of the lowest-priced cars and much less than stripped economy models of higher-priced makes!
2. Only Pontiac gives you luxury-car size plus the sensational Strato-Streak V-8!

Biggest car at its price (122" and 126" wheelbase) • Most powerful car at its price • Only car at any price with distinctive Vogue Two-Tone Styling and the sliding and diving ease of the shock-proof chassis.

You don't have to look far to find the reason for the tremendous surge to Pontiac. No further than the fact that only Pontiac produces cars that compete with the costliest in size, smartness and power, yet carry a price tag that is well under many in the lowest-price field.

That's what brings people in to see and drive a Pontiac—a value story they simply can't afford to overlook. And once they do—once they get a close-up of America's most distinctive styling... once they sample the superlative roominess and comfort of Pontiac's luxury interiors... once they try the pulse-racing thrills of exclusive Strato-Streak V-8 performance—they lose interest in every car but this.

Come in and get the rest of the story. See, drive and price this high-powered future-fashioned beauty. You'll find that if you can afford any new car you can easily afford a Pontiac.

A GOOD NAME is the FINEST ENDORSEMENT

Almost daily, new drugs appear which we are urged to offer. To reject the unproved products is just as important to this pharmacy as is the service of being alert to provide the newest and the best.

There are certain helpful guides on which we rely. Reliable pharmaceutical manufacturers, such as Parke, Davis & Company, establish quality and effectiveness with exhaustive clinical tests before a product is announced. Your Doctor is then given facts, and on his judgment we rely in making our decision.

Thus, if a preparation is in our stock, you are assured of its reliability.

Survival Is Not All

Tremendous gains have been made over the years in the skill and knowledge of the medical profession. Curing disease, accomplishing surgical miracles, and the discovery of new drugs can be classed as one of the wonders of the world.

But survival is not all! Even though broken bodies can be mended and diseases cured, what about the broken spirits and mental anguish caused by financial strain due to accident and illness? You and I have seen it time and again.

My Company, Woodmen Accident, has been furnishing protection against financial losses due to accident and sickness for 64 years. Such protection for you or your family costs only pennies a day! Let's talk it over—

Big news about Buick's 4-Door Riviera

THIS brand-new kind of automobile—the sensation of all the Auto Shows this year—is now rolling off the Buick assembly lines in volume numbers. That's the first news.

And the second is just as wonderful—this dramatic new model is very definitely everything that eager buyers hoped it would be.

For the 4-Door Riviera is the first "hardtop" ever available with separate doors for rear-seat passengers—plus full sedan room in the rear.

It comes breezing in with all the low-lined sweep and wide open visibility of Buick's original 2-Door Riviera—and luxurious new spaciousness in its full-length 4-door body. With windows down, no posts appear for the rear doors, and you get a completely unobstructed view at both sides.

You find rear doors hinged at front edges to swing wide and free, and assure easy entrance and exit.

And you'll find legroom, headroom and hip-room extra-generous both front and rear—with interiors tailored in fabrics and patterns specially reserved for the 4-Door Riviera.

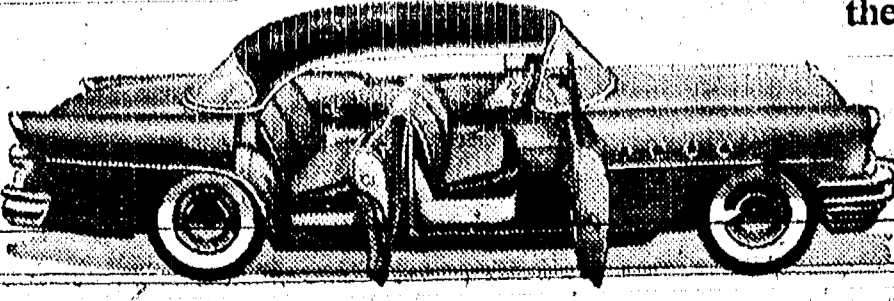

Best of all, this new Buick beauty comes off the line in both the low-price SPECIAL Series and the high-powered CENTURY Series.

So you can pick your 4-Door Riviera with the potent performance of a 188-hp or 236-hp Buick V8 engine—the swift getaway and gas saving of Variable Pitch Dynaflo*—the velvet stride of the Million Dollar Ride—the long list of Buick bonus features at no extra cost—and all at "great buy" prices that have helped move Buick into America's "Big Three" at best sellers.

But—come see us about the 4-Door Riviera now.

With all-out production—and a prompt order—this newest excitement in cars will be yours that much sooner.

*Dynaflo Drive is standard on Roadmaster, optional at extra cost on other Series.

Egg Grading Pays In Higher Prices

Don't try to cut down labor on your farm by passing up grading of eggs—it doesn't pay. H. E. Lazzero, MSC poultry economist, points out that consumers paid an average of nine cents a dozen more for graded eggs than ungraded during the first three months of 1955.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture reports that both turkey and hams are plentiful right now. On the wholesale market, hams have been selling 15 to 18 cents a pound below last year's prices. Turkey is about 6 to 10 cents a pound below a year ago.

Every man has his price, every woman her figure—it's only time that makes it problematical.

Late Spring Hog Prices To Be Higher

Hog farmers will be blessed with higher prices in late spring and summer.

That's the present outlook, says Harold Riley, Michigan State College agricultural economist. The reason: "The big part of the large marketings of last fall's pigs will be over within the next few weeks. That's because most of the increase in last year's (farrowings) was in the summer months."

So hog marketings during the coming late spring and early summer will be only slightly larger than at the same time a year ago.

Larger stocks of pork in storage will mean lower supplies of beef, however. "I will prevent prices from reaching last year's highs—$24 to $28. Riley figures the peak this year will be around $20 to $22 and it will come in July. There's too much pork in the country for prices to go higher than that."

Best Blows at Garden Diseases Possible Now

The best protection against disease in that home garden can be applied even before the seeds are put in the ground, or the plants are transplanted.

Here are some tips from a Michigan State College vegetable disease researcher for cutting down on garden diseases:

Don't deZeew advise putting a pinch of seed protectant containing such materials as thiram and captan into the garden seed packets. Shake the packet to coat all the seed. Then sift the excess dust from the seed through a fine screen.

You won't have to go to this trouble if the seed has been already treated by the producer, deZeew cautions.

Buy certified strawberry and raspberry plants for new plantings. These plants are free of disease spots and blemishes are set.

Look over your bean and pea seed—only seeds free of weevils should be planted. This means you may have to buy new seed.

Here's one more suggestion from deZeew: Purchase chemicals for garden spraying or dusting in advance of the time you will need them. Be prepared to prevent the disease before it starts.

'Biggy' Munn To Serve as King At Trout Festival

Clarence L. "Biggy" Munn will serve the 19th Annual National Trout Festival at Kalkaska as King. Munn will be crowned following the festival parade April 29, at 1 p.m. He is athletic director at Michigan State College and former coach of MSC's mythical national champions in 1952.

King Biggy is also well-known for the trout he has taken from lakes and streams. Being born in Minnesota where his boyhood was spent in the great outdoors, he has become an ardent fisherman. He is a believer and teacher of the great things that outdoor life can do for the health and wealth of the nation.

The National Trout Festival is held the day preceding the opening day of Michigan's trout season, April 29 and 30, in Kalkaska, Kalkaska county.

"The Land of Lakes and Streams in Michigan's 'Water Wonderland' offers a paradise to the fishermen with its well-stocked 83 lakes and 275 miles of trout streams. The occasion is a real holiday in the northern Michigan community of Kalkaska, which attracts thousands of visitors each year.

King Biggy will rule the festival with the Queen, who is to be chosen April 15, and to be crowned the evening of April 29, which will close a day full of events. Contests in the morning for the children will be followed by a tractor rally for county 4-H club boys. The afternoon will offer a parade, the coronation of the King, horse pulling contest and fly casting contest.

At 8 p.m. the coronation of the Queen will take place at the high school. The trout season will open at midnight.

Saturday is devoted mostly to fishing, and prize fish contest with prizes and awards going to the lucky fishermen at 6 p.m.

The Fishermen's Ball is to be held in the high school gym Saturday evening, April 30.

DIFFERENCE IN AGE

"DEAR MOTHER: I've met the most wonderful man! His name is Vincent Markley. He's much older than I—more sophisticated and settled. But I do love him and I'm almost sure I'd propose if given half a chance. I want to wait until you've met him, however. Whatever you think will mean an awful lot. I'm bringing him down for the weekend..."

Mrs. Fordyce folded the letter and sighed. At last it had come. Bernice in love. Little Bernice, who had never known the comforting security of a father; who, because of this, had been more like a sister of a daughter.

Long ago, anticipating this moment, Mrs. Fordyce had warned her daughter: "Marry someone older than yourself, darling, some one you can respect."

Thinking of this, she smiled. She was only 35; folks often had mistaken her for Bernice's sister.

Mrs. Fordyce met the train in the smart roadster that she and Bernice used when they were home together. She looked almost like a girl herself as she sat there with a gay colored scarf tied about her throat. She looked like a girl, and—yes—she felt like a girl.

Mrs. Fordyce liked Vincent Markley at once. She liked the sober, sophisticated look in his eyes; she liked the square set of his jaw, the tall, muscular build of him. He was older than Bernice, much older, yet he held his years well. It was only when she compared him to young, gay Bernice, that she noticed the great difference.

"Hello, mummy!" Bernice flung her arms about her mother's neck. "It's glorious to see you again, darling!" She paused. "Mummy, this is Vincent, Vincent Markley. You remember I wrote I was bringing him down."

"Yes, I remember. How do you do, Mr. Markley. Aren't you quite overcome by the vivaciousness of this young daughter of mine?"

Vincent Markley bowed. "On the contrary," he smiled, "I'm quite charmed with your daughter, Mrs. Fordyce. And yet," he paused. "Yet, if you'll pardon my saying so, under any other circumstances I'd be prone to dispute that Bernice was ever the daughter of such a very youthful and charming person as yourself."

It was not until two evenings later that Mrs. Fordyce was able to talk to Bernice alone.

"Listen, darling, I don't believe you love this man. You deliberately brought him down here because you thought it would please me to know you were interested in the type of man I had advised for you."

"He is the kind of man you think I ought to marry then?" Bernice asked eagerly.

Mrs. Fordyce avoided the question. "You deliberately planned a

Mass production education is getting a lot of attention from those shocked at statistics. College presidents tell the legislature that the 100,000 students on overcrowded Michigan campuses will grow to 200,000 by 1970. They present figures showing that $180,000,000 will be needed to enlarge the four-year colleges to handle the flood.

He takes a dark view of educators building campuses when their training is for building character in scholars and courses in curricula. So, VanderWerp is pushing his proposal to organize a committee of business and industrial executives to tell the state how to build a state-wide educational plant. First, he wants Michigan State and the University to concentrate on the last two years of work and offer advanced courses, leaving the first two years mainly to others.

His tentative plan calls for state-aid to community and junior colleges in all parts of the state, financial assistance to church-connected colleges according to the number of students taught. "I can see no danger to the theory that the church and state should be separated," he said. Preliminary findings indicate to

MAYOR MCGUP By John Jarvis

VanderWerp told of enrolling at the University of Michigan and telling his advisor that he wanted to specialize in communications. "He told me rather curtly that I had two years of college work to complete before I could specialize," VanderWerp said. "I could just as well have taken that two years nearer home and at less expense."

Advocate expanding the number of community and junior colleges just build them up with state aid to the point where they could handle the first two years. Going a step farther, Senator Carlton H. Morris (R-Kalamazoo) is interested in expanding the teacher's colleges to take the strain of the two major state institutions at Ann Arbor and East Lansing.

Whether VanderWerp's ideas will be adopted despite heavy pressure to immediately start building at Ann Arbor and East Lansing is still in doubt. However, he and others have sponsored a proposal to organize a committee of business and industrial executives to get started on plans for "decentralized education" in Michigan.

ICE CREAM always gives a simple dessert that's received enthusiastically. A coffee or vanilla ice cream with this sauce is delightful: mix together 1/4 cup each of cream and butter or substitute, 1 tablespoon cocoa and 1/2 cup sugar. Heat to boiling and serve hot over ice cream with silvered roasted almonds.

RECIPE OF THE WEEK
Coconut Fruit Fluff (Serves 4)
1 cup drained, canned apricots
1 cup diced, canned pineapple
3 tablespoons sugar
1/2 cup cream, whipped
1/2 cup shredded coconut
Cut apricots into quarters. Add pineapple and sugar. Stir until sugar is dissolved. Fold in cream and coconut; chill. Serve in sherbet glasses.

with a glaze made by cooking together 1/4 cup apricot cooking liquid, 1/4 cup sugar and 1 tablespoon cornstarch. Use canned or fresh fruits for a fruit crisp: lay peeled or canned fruit in a buttered casserole and sprinkle this topping over them before baking for an hour in a moderate oven. For topping use 1 cup sugar, 3/4 cup flour, 1/2 cup butter or substitute and 1/2 cup broken walnuts. Here's an unusual sauce for ice cream or vanilla pudding: use 1 cup chopped, pitted, cooked prunes and a cup of the cooking liquid with 1/2 cup each of brown sugar and crushed pineapple and 1 teaspoon cornstarch. Cook slowly 5-10 minutes. Serve hot or cold. When you have only simple sponge cake and want a quick dessert, spoon butterscotch sauce over it and top with whipped cream into which you have folded some drained, crushed pineapple.

Tests Show Best Method of Freezing Fresh Pineapple

There is a right way for preparing pineapple for the freezer in your kitchen. After studying and experimenting with several methods most commonly used with pineapples available in Michigan, food specialists at Michigan State College came up with this recommendation: Cut the pineapple in thin slices or small cubes. Pack in freezer cartons, cover with a 30 per cent sirup and freeze. The recent study on frozen pineapple was conducted by Dr. Pauline Paul and Eva Swen in the department of foods and nutrition at Michigan State College. Before this study, the best way to freeze pineapple was not clear, because there were so many different methods recommended by different sources. Besides pineapple, grapefruit were also frozen and tested. They found the best results when grapefruit were sectioned and frozen with ascorbic acid and 40 per cent sirup. But the researchers felt even this method was not "particularly good" and that more work should be done on freezing this fruit. The pineapple was frozen several different ways to arrive at the best one. Samples were packed with 30 per cent sirup, dry sugar, and unsweetened. The 30 per cent sirup was prepared by using two cups of sugar and four cups of water. The fruit was sampled at the end of three months and after several months in the freezer. A panel of five judges tasted the pineapple and judged it for appearance, color, odor, flavor, sweetness and texture.
