

Plans Complete for Blood Donor Clinic Next Wednesday

Red Cross Unit
To Be in Congl.
Church Basement

Plans for Chelsea's Blood Bank donor clinic here next Wednesday, Oct. 12, are practically completed, according to Mrs. Dudley Holmes, Blood Bank chairman. She said yesterday that her list of volunteer workers was completed after publication of her request for helpers in last week's issue of The Standard. She said the quick response was gratifying and helped greatly in planning the clinic.

Volunteers who will work at the clinic are Mrs. Winifred Coffron, Mrs. Lewis Bernath, Mrs. Leonard Eder and Mrs. Paul Schallie, registrars; Mrs. Norman Perkins, Mrs. J. V. Fisher, Mrs. Willard, Mrs. Leigh Palmer, Mrs. Eugene Fisher and Mrs. Warren Daniels, nurses' aides; and Mrs. Maxwell G. Sweet, Mrs. James Daniels and Mrs. Cameron Colquhoun, registered nurses. Mrs. Holmes will act as chairman of the day.

Donors who are registered in preparation for the clinic are Mrs. Robert Wagner and Mrs. Russell McLaughlin, who arranged factory employee appointments, and Kay Runciman and Diane Holmes who distributed posters.

Clinic workers are to report for instructions at 10:45 a.m. the day of the clinic and should wear wash clothes. Clinic hours are set for 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. and 2 p.m. to 5 p.m.

The clinic will take place in the basement of the Congregational church with Red Cross personnel in charge and Red Cross equipment being used. An eight-bed unit will be in operation here. Ten donors can be handled every 15 minutes. Thirty minutes is the time limit for each donor.

Rules and requirements for blood donors are listed as follows:
Age limit—18 through 55 years, those under 21 requiring a written permit from parent or guardian unless married or in the armed services.

Weight—Must be at least 110 pounds or more.

At least eight weeks must have elapsed since a previous donation of blood was made and no one should give more than five times a year. In the case of servicemen returning from overseas duty, a full year must have passed since the return before blood may be donated.

Four hours' before donating blood—no fatty foods should be eaten, such as fat meat, fried food, salad dressing, butter, pie, cake, milk or cream.

For pre-screening of prospective blood donors the following questions are asked:

Have you ever had jaundice or malaria?

Have you had a major operation in the past year?

Have you had any pregnancies in the past year? (Mothers of babies under one year not eligible).

Have you had penicillin or sulfa one week prior to clinic?

Have you had a blood transfusion within the last six months?

Do you have a cold?

If the answer is "yes" to any of these questions the donor will not be acceptable.

Methodist Sunday School Rally Day To Be Held Sunday

The annual Rally Day service of the Methodist Sunday school will take place during the morning worship service at 10 o'clock Sunday morning. Primary and junior department children will take part in the program and a class of junior boys and girls will graduate to the junior high division of the general Sunday school.

The program will include songs by the classes taught by Nancy Atkinson, Lois Pierce and Kathryn Stephens; Mrs. Jesse Parsons' class will recite Bible verses; classes of Willadean Gullett and Bernice Miller will give a playlet entitled "The Baby Moses."

Mrs. James Allen's class, which is the graduating group, will recite the 23rd Psalm, the Two Great Commandments and the Lord's Prayer.

The entire junior department is to sing a song and the graduating class will give an exercise.

Prizes will be awarded to an outstanding scholar during the Rally Day program.

The offering received at the service will be sent to the Detroit Conference of Methodist churches to be used for Christian education. Part of the money goes for youth of the conferences of the state to help them enjoy camping experiences. A total of 4,500 children attended the camps this year.

Primary department children will go to their regular classrooms as they arrive for the 10 o'clock service. Junior children are to come at 10 o'clock also, in order to be present for their part of the program.

Reports of the state convention were given at the Kiwanis club meeting Monday night. Paul Mann was program chairman.

Charles Cameron, reporting on the address given by Dr. Donald Phillips, president of Hillsdale College, said the college president pointed out what he believed to be shortcomings in the educational program of secondary schools of today.

M. J. Anderson reported on the talk given at the convention by Dr. John H. Furbay, lecturer and author who attended the Geneva conference and told of impressions of national leaders who participated. Dr. Furbay had charge of arrangements for air landings at Geneva and was present when President Eisenhower and his party arrived.

Convention reports also included the information that Aldrich Locke was elected governor of the Michigan District of Kiwanis International.

Announcement was made at Monday's meeting of the annual Kiwanis governor's hall to be held Oct. 12 in a Detroit ballroom.

Monday's meeting was held in the social center of the Methodist church.

Second Half Rally Wins For Bulldogs

Meet Milan Friday
In Annual Battle
For Kiwanis Trophy

Chelsea High's Bulldogs won their first game of the young season last Friday as they rallied for two touchdowns in the second half to down Ypsil. Roosevelt, 14-0.

After a poor first half which saw three Bulldogs fumbles and numerous penalties stall the offense, the Bulldogs came to life in the second half. The Bulldogs lost one touchdown in the first half as Hugh Weinberg went 17 yards on a sneak only to have the play called back because of an offside penalty.

On the first scrimmage play of the second half Roosevelt pulled off a fine forward pass lateral play which moved the ball to Chelsea's 10. However, a clipping penalty on the next play moved them back to the 25. The Bulldog defense held and the Gold and Blue took over on their own 31. Fourteen plays later the Bulldogs had marched 79 yards for their first touchdown of the season. Capt. Ted Nixon sparked the march as the Bulldog line opened up big holes. Nixon carried seven times in the drive contributing runs of 27 and 15 yards. The drive almost ended in a fumble.

Result of an offside penalty, Ypsil. third and 10 John Jones carried off tackle for nine and then Nixon smashed for a first down on the 30. On the next play Jones slipped off tackle again for the TD. Halfback Jim McLaughlin crashed off tackle for the extra point.

Following the kickoff the Bulldog defense held and forced Roosevelt to punt to Chelsea's 32. Chelsea promptly marched 68 yards to score with Nixon going over on fourth down from six inches out. McLaughlin snatched up the middle for the extra point.

Roosevelt came back after the kickoff with a strong passing attack but Jones intercepted at mid-field and raced to the 30. Roosevelt took over then and on the last play of the game sophomore halfback Bill Lake brought the crowd to its feet as he broke away for a 22-yard dash only to be stopped by the Roosevelt safety man on the 18.

Coach Al Conklin had special praise for the offensive line of the Bulldogs. Coach Weir, George Collyer, Joe Bauer, Neil Fahner, and Jay Ferguson. Also, Tim Schulze and John Eisenbeiser, both guards, showed up well when regulars were forced out of action.

Kenny Bauer, Odie Richardson, Nixon and McLaughlin lead a tight defense which has allowed only two touchdowns in three games.

This Friday the Bulldogs travel to Milan to meet the Kiwanis trophy and a chance to rise in the league standings. The two-foot trophy was originated by the Milan and Chelsea Kiwanis clubs last year. Each year the trophy goes to the winner of the Milan-Chelsea game. The trophy has been resting in the Bulldogs' case since last year's 14-0 victory.

Last week Milan was a surprise winner over defending champion Dundee, 20-0. The week before they edged Roosevelt, 12-7, and thus share first place with Lincoln.

Game time Friday is 7:30 p.m.

PLAN COMMUNITY CHEST CAMPAIGN—Alfred D. Mayer, right, chairman of the 1955-56 Chelsea Community Chest campaign, and M. W. McClure, chairman-in-charge of business and professional division solicitations, are shown beside the Community Chest poster being used this year in campaigns throughout the United States. The poster features Stevan Dobanos' painting of a family group. Models for the poster are Connecticut friends and neighbors of the artist who volunteered their services. Dobanos, nationally known Saturday Evening Post illustrator and magazine cover artist, is associated with leading painters as a member of the faculty of the Famous Artists Schools in Westport, Conn. In the Community Chest poster he has captured the spirit of volunteer "giving" which is an essential element for success of the annual drive for funds.

Vogel's Store Given New, Modern Front

Most recent store front improvement on Main street is that of Vogel's Store operated by Miss Helen Vogel.

Installation of a modern, all-glass door and new windows, which eliminate the former wood casings, and aluminum siding above and below the glass combine to give the store an attractive appearance.

E. M. Eisenmann and Albert Pielmeier visited Philip Seitz in Lima township Tuesday afternoon.

Don't over-estimate your own fire-fighting ability, warns Fire Chief Balmer.

"Don't be embarrassed to call for an investigation by the fire department at once if you smell smoke or even suspect a fire," the Chief urged.

"You'll only be calling on us to do the job we're trained and ready for," he adds, "and we'll appreciate your alertness. If we actually find a fire, you certainly won't regret it either."

Public Hearing on Village Zoning Plan To Be Held Monday

Next Monday, Oct. 10, is the date for the public hearing on the proposed zoning ordinance for Chelsea. Official announcement of the hearing, which is the final pre-adoption meeting, was made two weeks ago. The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. and will be held in the Village Council room in the Municipal building.

People of the community interested in the zoning proposal should make every effort to attend the meeting.

Protection of property values, as well as protection of future residential, business and industrial development of Chelsea, are listed as benefits which may be expected from a zoning ordinance.

Quota of $9,650
Set in Annual Appeal for Funds

Next Tuesday, at 12 o'clock noon, Chelsea Community Chest workers will meet for the "kick-off" luncheon at the Congregational church which signals the opening of the 1955 campaign for funds. Workers will receive all the supplies they will need for the campaign before they leave the building, according to Alfred D. Mayer, campaign chairman.

As announced last week, this year's budget calls for a goal of $9,650, which is $650 more than the amount set for the first drive last fall.

Mayer emphasized that one of the chief reasons for a unified Community Chest campaign is to relieve people of the community of the multiplicity of drives for the various campaigns of previous years. The slogan of "Give Once for All" appealed to people of the community when it was used last year and the quota for the Community Chest was quickly raised.

Mayer, in announcing the opening of the campaign, emphasized that solicitors are not "begging" when they approach people for contributions, but are performing a community service. "This is a community project," he said, "and making a contribution should be deemed not only an obligation but a privilege for everyone who is able to give, whether the amount, of necessity, is small, or whether it is one of the larger contributions."

A 48-foot "thermometer" will "check the pulse" of the campaign each day. The outfit will be set up on the corner lawn of the post office at South Main and South streets. Jack Merkel and Don Hilde have been given the responsibility for keeping the tabulation of contributions up to date during the campaign. A system of reporting contributions has been worked out whereby ninety reports from solicitors will be available.

Agencies approved as beneficiaries of this year's Community Chest include the Red Cross, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Chelsea Recreation Council, Chelsea Social Service Committee, Michigan United Fund, the Salvation Army, Band Boosters Uniform Fund and Band Boosters Instrument Fund.

Mayer is being assisted in the campaign by Lowell Davison, who is to be in charge of labor and industry contacts; M. W. McClure who will be in charge of the business and professional division; Mrs. Walter Mohrlock, residential; and Mrs. W. R. Daniels, organizations.

Charles Cameron, superintendent of schools, has been appointed by Mayer to be responsible for the division including schools and instructors.

The rural areas will also be contacted for their contributions, Mayer said.

With arrangements for the campaign planned in detail, Mayer said he believes the campaign should reach a successful conclusion before the closing date, Oct. 24.

VISITING WASHINGTON OFFICIAL—True D. Morse, undersecretary of agriculture, left, was greeted by John Brooks Monday afternoon when a party of dignitaries stopped at the Brooks farm as a part of a county tour of selected farms. Several farmers of the area gathered to informally discuss current agriculture problems and the general outlook for farm prices.

Farm Prices To Improve, Secretary Morse Predicts

Approximately 800 farmers heard True D. Morse, undersecretary of agriculture, at the Farm Forum held at Saline Monday evening after Morse had made a tour of farms in Washtenaw county during the afternoon. Accompanied by farm leaders of the county, Morse visited the John Brooks farm on Chelsea-Manchester road, south of US-12, late in the afternoon.

Walter Wolfgang of Chelsea, who is a farmer and a subcommittee member of the Washtenaw county Republican Committee, was in the party who toured the county. He also attended the Kiwanis-sponsored luncheon held at the Legion Home in Ann Arbor at noon. Another Chelsea man at the luncheon was Alfred D. Mayer. More than 200 people were present.

At the Farm Forum at Saline in the evening, Morse stated that most surplus "inherited from previous administrations" have been cut down to a great extent. He quoted figures showing that stored butter has been reduced from 468 million pounds to 144 million pounds; non-fat dry milk from 600 million to 19 million pounds; and the one billion pounds of soy bean oil to almost nothing at this time.

With important surpluses being reduced, Morse predicted that farm prices should begin to smooth themselves out early in 1956. He assured farm leaders that the worst of the post-war adjustment for agriculture is over. "We've about got production and consumption in balance," Morse said.

Morse stated that returning confidence is being established by the fact that acreage values are back to the November, 1952, peak; debts on farms are only about 11 percent of assets; and an average of seven out of ten farms have no mortgage debt. He said value of farm property in the United States is 163 billion dollars.

In forecasting a better year for farmers in 1956 Morse said, "It is unfortunate that farmers have not shared fully in the prosperity of the nation."

Panelists who participated in the discussion at Saline included William Burke, Michigan state Grange master; Dan Reed, assistant legislative counsel for the Michigan Farm Bureau; and Ernest Girbach, a director of the Michigan Milk Producers' Association. Senator Potter served as moderator.

The meeting, sponsored by the Washtenaw county Republican Committee, was held in the auditorium of the Saline Area Elementary school.

Mrs. Joseph Steele was in Ann Arbor Monday to visit her aunt, Mrs. Herman Weber, who is a patient at St. Joseph's Mercy hospital.

Local Chapter of Businessmen's Group Signs New Members

Marion Longworth, district chairman of the Chelsea Chapter of the National Federation of Independent Business, currently being organized here, announced yesterday that local membership has more than doubled.

Members listed to date are Longworth, Ferdinand P. Surmain, Louis M. Benkert, R. J. Johns, William K. Blaess, Julius E. Blaess, William A. Thomas, E. E. Wiman, E. A. Rice, Leonard Thiel, William L. Wilkerson, LaVern Nishaus, Wes Howes, Howard W. Flintoft, John J. Alber, Robert G. Foster, Walter E. Kanteleiner and George W. Lubahn.

It was pointed out that local business and professional men who were not contacted by E. L. Bracy, district manager, while he was in Chelsea last week, should register their membership with Longworth as soon as possible.

Purpose of the National Federation is to make wishes of the small businessman known to Congress. These wishes are made known by means of monthly balloting on forthcoming legislation. Each member expresses his own opinion on the subject and these opinions are tabulated and sent to the congressman, in the local case to George Meader. The theory is that the congressman is thus advised of the businessman's views before he votes on various bills and issues which might affect their economy.

Fire Department Called To Heat Treating Plant

An overheated tank of solution at the Wayne Heat Treating plant resulted in a run for the Chelsea Fire Department at 11:12 p.m. Saturday.

Police Officer George Doe turned in the alarm, according to Fire Department records, after he noticed some of the spilled liquid had begun to burn.

Elementary PTA Group Names Year's Committees

The program period at the Elementary PTA meeting Wednesday, Sept. 28, opened with introduction of teachers present by Principal Arthur Schmunk. Parents who had children in each teacher's room were also asked to rise as their child's teacher was presented.

Mrs. Grace Jennings, chairman of the program committee, introduced Rev. and Mrs. Forrest Cook and a quartette of youths from Cassidy Lake Technical school. The quartette sang several hymns and other songs, accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Cook.

Mrs. Arlys Haroldson opened Wednesday's meeting by reading the PTA prayer.

The business session included a treasurer's report showing a balance of $995.95.

Miss Mary, representing the high school journalism staff, explained matters pertaining to the school paper "The Bulldog Barks," and told of the necessity for subscriptions in order to meet costs of publication.

A discussion related to a proposal to have mothers of kindergarten children help the teachers so the latter may spend all their time teaching resulted in turning the problem over to parents and teachers under the direction of Principal Schmunk.

Other business included naming of standing committees for the year and electing a chairman named first in each group.

Program—Mrs. Grace Jennings, Keith-Poulson, Mrs. Francis Smyser, Mrs. Fred Schumm, Mrs. Ellsworth Smith and Mrs. James Windell.

Legislation—Mrs. Fred Schumm. The next regular PTA meeting will be held at South Elementary school Oct. 19 and those who plan to attend are asked to submit questions on the topic "What the parent expects of the teacher and what the teacher expects of the parent." The questions may be sent to the office of Principal Arthur Schmunk to be put into a question box which will be in place there until the next meeting. A panel of administrators, parents and teachers will try to answer the questions during the program period at the meeting.

Approximately 150 parents and teachers attended the September meeting.

According to our present calendar, every year divisible by four is a leap year, with the exception of those years divisible by 100 but not by 400. Thus, the years 1700, 1800, and 1900 were not leap years.

George Sallade (R-Ann Arbor) and the news stirred political thinkers. Dr. Hannah immediately refused the bid of the Young Turks, stating that he could better serve Michigan as the president of a great university.

Republicans backing him, still insist he could be drafted to go against a Democratic candidate for governor. He has built the university into a powerful force in the state.

Republicans are making history with their activity during an off year. Democrats have campaigned the year around since 1946.

William weekly schedule is as strenuous as any campaign. Wherever he stops, he shakes hands with everybody in sight and spreads the word. People like him.

Whoever the Republicans pick will have to outdo the governor.

Plans of State Chairman John Felkens, who said both Gov. Williams and President Eisenhower will run in 1956, may be changed if the president announces his intention not to run.

The illness of the president will have a bearing on his availability for a second term. But Democrats are looking for Gov. Williams to try for a fifth term, regardless of the national situation.

Williams is in the habit of breaking precedent. He won his first term in 1948 in a nominally Republican stronghold and his popularity with the voters is still at a high pitch.

Because of an early primary in Michigan, Williams will have to cast off from hopes for a fifth term on the national Democratic ticket.

"Most governors can go into the convention and keep a grip on the job back home," said one top Michigan Democrat. "If Soapy wants to try it, he has to abandon Michigan."

Republicans have one question now: Who can beat Williams?

Separate groups have rallied support for the nomination behind Mayor Cobo, of Detroit; Congressman Ford, of Grand Rapids; Congressman Bentley, of Owosso and Dr. John A. Hannah, president of Michigan State University.

The two congressmen appear to be most eager for the nomination with qualifications.

Rep. Ford's condition is that he could be the candidate with full party support, a rare circumstance in the light of past Republican primary battles and the existing four-man situation.

He is personable, 41, and available. Party regulars, however, feel he hasn't spent enough time in Michigan.

Rep. Bentley also is popular and carries an appeal to the conservative branch of the party—figuring it has been neglected in the campaign to outdo Williams and the liberals.

Mayor Cobo is reluctant to get into the melee.

In the past, he has been a willing candidate in non-partisan Detroit city politics when he had the odds.

Cobo said he would like to see a good, strong, willing candidate appear on the scene so he could forget the boom that has been created for his own candidacy.

His main drawback is his relatively small area of operation. In Detroit, he is known as a top administrator, a planner.

"There are a lot of people in outstate Michigan who don't know me from a bale of hay," he said.

Republican legislators, who launched the trial balloon for Cobo, figure he could out-do Williams' Detroit vote. They also predict that outstate areas, as usual, will go Republican.

But Democrats, with a "tato farm program" in the making, are going after outstate votes, too.

Dr. Hannah carries the idea of close association with President Eisenhower, having been assistant secretary of defense for manpower.

His potential candidacy has been launched by a group of "Young Turks" from the legislature.

It happened at a Sunday afternoon picnic at the home of Rep.

who already is about 5 million handshakes ahead of the game. Republicans are counting on the latest merger of the national and state ballots to give them the pull of Eisenhower at the top to elect a governor halfway down.

The President's illness may make a difference, but that's the way the tune is going now, right to the bar.

Finland became a republic in 1919. For a century or more earlier, it was an autonomous grand duchy of the Russian Empire.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

Shades of Tom Sawyer!

Hack Willis had just stopped the tractor so he could cool off at the pump, when a young insurance salesman came up the drive. Hack was tired of plowing, and needed insurance on his new barn. But he also needed to get that winter eye-in-fast. The salesman, an eager kid, noticed hesitation. "I come from a farm," he said. "Why don't you look at these booklets—get all the dope—and I'll take that plow a couple of rounds for you."

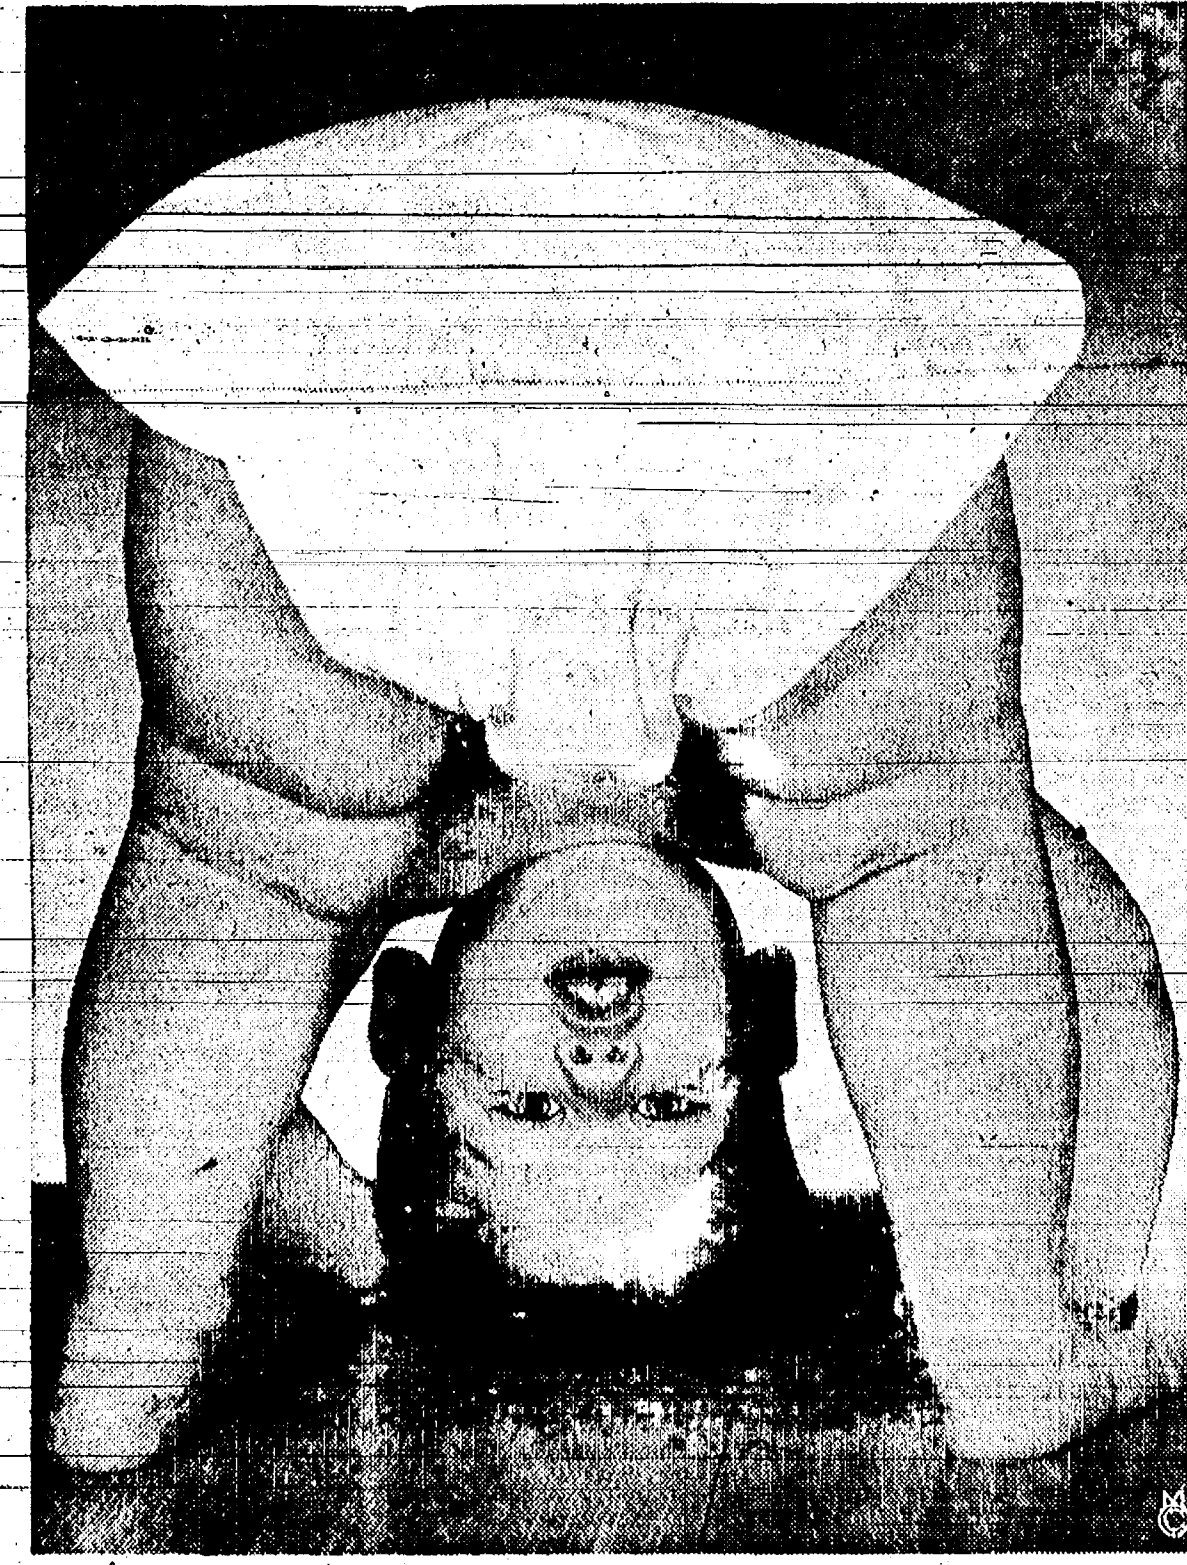

Young fellow laid off a pretty straight furrow, too. It was almost dark before Hack—sitting in the shade—was able to decide just what kind of policy to get. From where I sit, to be a good salesman—or a good citizen—it always helps to "put yourself in the other man's place." He may have a different sort of job with different problems... he may prefer to close a deal over, say, a friendly glass of beer while you might prefer something else. But both of you can co-operate if you make it a "policy" to try.

Assembly of God Purchases Site for Proposed Building

Chelsea Assembly of God church has purchased from Alvin Pommeroy a piece of ground located on Old US-12, just east of the Chelsea Restaurant which is located at the corner of South Main street, and plans are underway for building a church on the property.

According to the pastor, Rev. H. J. Meppelink, plans for the structure are not yet completed but it is possible the building will be of modern architectural style with plenty of parking space.

In announcing the proposed new church building program, the pastor said, "Chelsea is growing and with its growth comes the growing need for a Christ-centered life on the part of everyone here. I know that with the cooperation of everyone, curbed and many things done to make Chelsea the best place in which to live. We are here for that purpose."

Chelsea Assembly of God has been located in Chelsea the past 15 months and meetings are being held at 116½ South Main street.

Your Child and Reading

By Dr. Byron H. Van Rookel
Assistant Professor of Education
Michigan State University

Most of the articles in this series have discussed activities which could be used by parents to help children develop a good background for the work of the kindergarten and primary grades. Perhaps the information previously given might be more meaningful if parents knew how children are taught to read in elementary schools.

A good elementary teacher recognizes that there are usually some children in each grade who are far ahead of the others, some who are very slow, and others who fall in between these two extremes. In order to have children of somewhat equal abilities working together, many teachers group the children according to how well they appear to be doing in reading, arithmetic, etc. The number of groups in a classroom depends upon how much difference there is among the children in reading readiness, reading ability, etc.

The most common practice, when reading instruction begins, is to help children build a vocabulary of words which they can recognize when they see them. This is called developing a sight vocabulary. The children do not memorize the letters of the alphabet first, but rather learn the word as a whole, that is, children learn to recognize that some words, such as grandmother, are long and that others, such as run are short. They also see that some words, such as look, have a tall letter at the beginning and another at the end.

Teachers also help children to see that some words, such as look and book, are very similar except at the beginning, and that words such as them and there, are very similar except at the end. These are some of the characteristics we use to distinguish one word from others. This procedure is used to help children build a beginning sight vocabulary of some sixty to ninety words.

There are many reasons why this procedure is used, but I want to present only one. Most children learn to read more quickly this way than was the case with many other methods that have been tried. For example, in the alphabet-spelling method it was customary to spend an average of six months in learning the alphabet and the syllables that accompany that method. I visited a first grade recently and the better readers in the group had already read an entire book. They had learned the words by the method discussed in the previous paragraph.

After children have learned a sufficient number of words to read the first books, the children are gradually introduced to the sounds of the letters and how to use these sounds in pronouncing words not in their sight vocabulary. This is what we commonly refer to as phonics.

Teachers help children learn how to use the other words in a sentence to determine what the unknown word is. This is called using context clues.

Children learn how to break words into syllables and how to use the sounds of the syllables in pronouncing words.

Children also learn the letters of the alphabet but it is done gradually as they encounter the letters in the words which appear in the books that are used for beginning reading. The alphabetical order of the letters is learned when children need this to use the index of a book, the library, and other sources of information.

Windbreak Tree Packet Offered Farmers by MSU

Michigan farmers can get a special packet of forest seedlings adapted to windbreak use. The new packet along with the order list for other trees has been announced by the conservation nursery at Michigan State University.

The seedlings are for delivery in the fall of 1955 and the spring of 1956, according to Wm. H. Bull, MSU forester in charge of the nursery.

The windbreak packet includes 100 red pine, 100 Norway spruce and 100 white spruce transplants. Transplants of red pine, jack pine and white spruce along with seedlings of white pine, jack pine, Austrian pine and Scotch pine are available for reforestation use. Hardwood seedlings on the list include black locust, American elm and red oak.

Douglas fir transplants appear on the list for the first time in several years, according to Bull. Black walnut stratified for spring planting will also be available for purchase during the winter and spring. Early purchasers can get small numbers of Norway spruce and tulip poplar.

Trees sold by Michigan State cannot be used for ornamental plantings, warns Bull. They cannot be planted within corporate limits of towns and cities, nor can they be planted on building lots in residential subdivisions outside of cities.

Orders can be made now for both fall and winter planting. Price lists and order blanks are available at county extension offices and soil conservation district offices. They may also be obtained by writing to the Conservation Nursery, Michigan State University, East Lansing.

Folder Tells Rates For Custom Work

If you want a guide on how much to pay for custom work, you can get an idea from a folder recently written by E. M. Elwood, Michigan State University farm economist. The folder, "Rates For Custom Work in Michigan—1954, 1955," is available from the county extension office and the bulletin office at MSU.

In his folder, Elwood reports that the going rate for field baling is a dime a bale and field chopping of grass stubble is $12.50 per acre. Sugar beet growers can look forward to paying $15 to $25 per acre for getting their beets harvested. Rates for almost every type of custom work are included in the folder.

Heads of colleges and universities in America are variously known as rectors, presidents, chancellors, provosts and principals.

Forest Resources Inventory Information To Be Available

East Lansing—An inventory of Michigan's forest resources is near completion.

Lester E. Bell, extension forester at Michigan State University, said the inventory crews expect to finish field work in the Upper Peninsula by December.

M. B. Dickerman, director of the Lake States Forest Experiment Station, indicated that complete inventory information on Michigan's forest resources should be available by early spring next year.

Field work on the inventory for the lower peninsula was completed last fall and reports covering 30 counties have been published.

When the entire survey is completed, Bell added, it will serve as the basis for long range management and use plans for Michigan. The survey is expected to point out areas where certain species of trees are available in sufficient quantities to warrant new industries.

About 65 per cent of Formosa's people can read and write.

Michigan ranked eighth in milk production last year, according to the U. S. Department of Agriculture. The state's production total amounted to 5,631,000,000 pounds. This was 4.56 per cent of the total.

Wisconsin lead in milk production with 10,550,000,000 pounds and 13.4 per cent of the total. Other states which topped Michigan in production were New York, Minnesota, California, Pennsylvania, Iowa and Ohio, in that order.

In the last five years Americans have purchased more than 350,000,000 electrical appliances to increase their comfort and convenience. This is an average of two appliances for each man, woman and child in the United States.

Michigan Ranks 8th In Milk Production

Michigan ranked eighth in milk production last year, according to the U. S. Department of Agriculture. The state's production total amounted to 5,631,000,000 pounds. This was 4.56 per cent of the total.

Wisconsin lead in milk production with 10,550,000,000 pounds and 13.4 per cent of the total. Other states which topped Michigan in production were New York, Minnesota, California, Pennsylvania, Iowa and Ohio, in that order.

Chemical Spray Developed To Kill Yellow Rocket

East Lansing—Want an alfalfa or clover field without that pesky yellow rocket next spring?

You can. Just spray the field with MCP, advises Boyd Churchill, a farm crops researcher at Michigan State University. Spray after frost has killed the top growth in October.

MCP is a chemical similar to the weedicide, 2,4-D. The right amount to use is one pint per acre and the cost is about $1.25 per acre, according to Churchill.

You can use the treatment on either spring or early August seedlings of red clover. But alfalfa must have an established stand before you can use MCP on it. Otherwise you'll probably lose the alfalfa. Clover seems to be tougher.

The treatment will have to be repeated in the fall of 1956, however, to make sure yellow rocket doesn't make a return visit the following year.

And be sure to use the amine form of MCP, Churchill warns. The ester form is too strong for legumes.

The University of Michigan was the first large university to admit women and the first also to admit freshmen on the basis of their high school diplomas.

U-M Professor Says Whale Once Swam in Great Lakes

Ann Arbor—It may come as a surprise to Michigan land lubbers to learn that whales once cavorted in the Great Lakes!

Russell C. Hussey, professor of geology at the University of Michigan, points out that whale skeletons have been found in the Lower Peninsula.

And in case you think this is just a tall tale about "the big one that got away," several finds have been made. "One whale skeleton was found near the town of Oscoda where an excavation was being made for a new high school; another was made near Flint; and still another near Tecumseh."

portion of a fourth skeleton was found in a swamp south of Ann Arbor," the professor says.

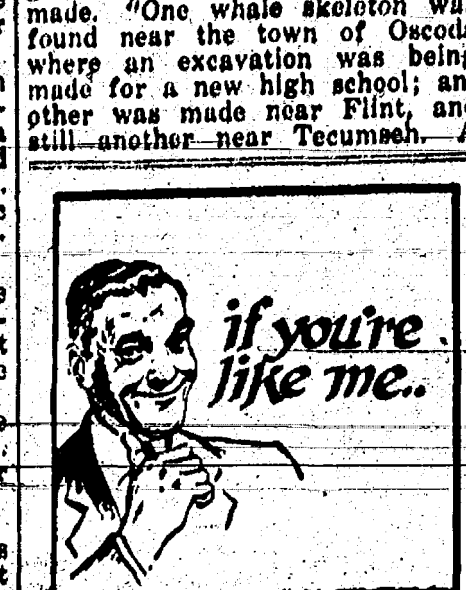

"These bones were in place. They showed no evidence of having been broken in by the ice of prehistoric glaciers and there was no possibility that they had been carried by human beings," he continues.

Whales are marine animals today and cannot live long in fresh water. The question immediately arises, how did they get from the ocean to Michigan, for this is exactly what they managed to do.

According to the University geologist, the problem may not be so difficult, after all.

When the ice started to melt, great quantities of water poured out from the ice front, and collected in depressions on the land surface, eventually forming a great system of glacial lakes. This water covered portions of Michigan and drained into the Atlantic Ocean by a variety of channels that formed at different times.

"There was, then, after the Ice Age, a fairly direct water way between this state and the ocean, and the big sea-rangers followed up one of these old water connections and eventually reached Michigan where they perished of starvation," he concludes.

You think you know a good house buy when you see one—but you don't know the (important) half of it.

Just ask me and I'll tell you how many rooms I need, what colors I like, the neighbors I want and the going rate of interest on a mortgage.

I can argue on the merits and whether it's better to use gas than oil for heating. Just ask me.

But when someone says, "Is there an easement or restriction of record clause in the offer?" or asks "How many transactions does the abstract show?" or even asks "Did I get a warranty deed and title insurance?" why, I turn a pale green. I usually take that opportunity to expound on my favorite theme entitled: "Laws I Hate" or "Why Don't People Trust Each Other?"

Those spams don't last long, though, and I begin to realize that the "simple" act of buying a home is far from simple. That word "begin" should be "began" because I recently went through the whole business and here is what I found out.

That "preliminary agreement," that "offer to purchase" isn't something to be trifled with. That's the deal, brother; that's the deal. You change your mind, you can stop payment on the check, but you've still bought. There weren't any storm windows and the fruit trees you thought were on the property belonged to the guy next door. It doesn't make any difference, you still had bought. That little so-called preliminary "offer" was it.

That fact is one of life's little tragedies that most folks don't learn until they try to make some perfectly "reasonable" adjustment of truck taxes, or overdue telephone, or electric bill, or what have you and find that they're stuck. Skewed is the better word.

Practically all of us employ a lawyer to close the deal. Yet for little or no additional fee we could have had legal advice before we signed that "preliminary agreement." This is cheap insurance. I found out some other things too that might interest you. There are a lot of questions to be answered: When is the deal to be closed? How much insurance is in force? How much title insurance is installed and paid for? When is the purchaser to have possession? What kind of a deed must the seller give?

I found out some things like: Not all good titles are marketable. It is, in addition to being able to prove your title against all comers, the evidence of your ownership is contained in proper public records. It is a good record title—then it's marketable.

Just the possession of an abstract doesn't mean anything insofar as indicating ownership is concerned. All an abstract is, is an outline or copy of the public records which have to do with the ownership of a particular chunk of real estate. It will help a lawyer make the examination, but if you're like me, you won't know the answers to many problems which may come up in a single abstract such as: the validity of divorce, the effectiveness of foreclosures, the seriousness of restrictions, the dangers of federal or state tax lien and the effect of old claims against the land.

Walnuts rarely begin bearing fruit before five years, but the trees are long-lived and bear with increasing abundance. Many California walnut trees are 50 years old.

Fire Experts Say Clean Up Rubbish To Prevent Fires

If homes lost by fire last year in Michigan could have been saved, their dollar value would be enough to house all the people in St. Louis, Mich. (population 3,500).

That fact was pointed out by Richard G. Pfister, extension safety specialist at Michigan State University, in calling attention to Fire Prevention Week, starting Oct. 9.

The week is a memorial to the great Chicago fire which started on Oct. 9, 1871.

One hundred sixty-nine people died from fire last year in Michigan, he emphasizes, and many of those fires could have been prevented.

Eight out of 10 fires that will occur in Michigan this year could be prevented, he asserts, if everyone would clean up rubbish and correct faulty electrical wiring immediately.

The U. S. suffered more than a billion dollars worth of property loss from fires in 1954.

New Method of Planting Raspberries

If you are looking for stronger canes and better fruit, try planting raspberries in this novel manner.

First take ten lineal feet of 6" wide strips of galvanized steel. A corrugated design enables the use of thinner material. Form a square 30" end side. Sink the strips into the ground allowing one inch of the strips to project above the soil level.

At four points 90 degrees apart near the outside edge of this square, plant four raspberry plants. Fertilize the square and then fill with mulching material such as compost, decayed leaves, leaf mold, grass clippings, etc. This enables you to retain moisture and keep weeds from developing.

When the new shoots start to develop, allow four shoots to develop and remove the rest. These four shoots will develop into next year's plants. Try to keep these four shoots near the corners of the square; in that way you are able to tie the tops of the plants together "teepee" fashion. The second year, you remove the old plants and permit four more shoots to develop. Continue this practice from year to year.

Presently on the market is a product which lends itself well to this method of culture. This is No. 300 Grass Barrier in the 4 1/2" size. Using this method of planting raspberries, only the square needs to be fertilized and mulched. Fertilizer reaches the roots, giving healthy, vigorous plants that produce heavily.

Forest fire fighters were called to an average of 485 fires a day during 1954.

INEQUITY OF HUNTING LAWS

In the first of a series of meetings between sportsmen and Michigan farmers preceding the 1955 gunning season considerable complaining was heard from both factions relative to that highly controversial subject, Sunday hunting.

One might expect to hear this sort of talk from hunters whose week and planning during the season must be fashioned around wide-spread differences in county hunting regulations. But loud wails came from the farmer contingent, too. The hard working members of the "backbone-of-our-nation" clan asserted that they, too, were mighty fond of hunting, but that farm chores kept them busy from dawn 'til dark most days except Sunday. Came a day off and the law says "NO HUNTING," even on their own lands, on Sunday. And so they were forced to lie themselves many miles away, into the next county, to enjoy a sport which they might have found right in their own back yard!

Causes Concentration

Even worse, said these farmers who happened to live in counties open to Sunday hunting, the non-uniform law results in surges of hunters from the closed sections, overcrowding available hunting lands, and overshooting the game populations. These farmers were not urging universal Sunday hunting, nor were they suggesting a general ban on gunning on the Sabbath. They are pleading for ONE law covering all counties, assuring an even spread of hunters, and equal shooting rights for all.

Difficult to Realize

This may be a difficult concept to write into our regulations. Strong lobbies pro and con are active in many counties. If the state ever adopts a single law covering Sunday hunting, the writer believes it will BAN all hunting, simply because the minority group in favor of Sunday hunting is so strongly entrenched. While sportsmen battle in favor of Sunday hunting, they represent only one out of every six hunters.

Williamson Plan Scanned

The State's Williamson plan calling for a union of adjoining farmers and subsequent issuing of numbered hunting permits on a per-acre allocation seems to be gaining favor. Conservation department supervision of the plan makes it still more attractive—but the problem of agreement between all farm owners involved remains the big stumbling block. One thing remains sure: The number of hunters is skyrocketing every year. The amount of available hunting land is actually decreasing. Borrowing from the lyrics of a popular song, "Something's gotta give!"

Research Study Shows Farm Homes Need Large Size Kitchens

Farm women may live in the wide open spaces, but they need bigger and more efficient space for their kitchen and sewing areas.
Because farm girls seem to spend more time helping their moms in the kitchen and because farm families generally spend more time in the kitchen than any other room in the house, farm kitchens must be able to accommodate them. This was pointed out in a recently completed five-year study done by Mrs. Alice Thorpe, home management researcher at Michigan State University.
The study was designed to show how both farm and town families used the various rooms in their homes. "Knowing this," Mrs. Thorpe pointed out, "we will be better able to advise planning and remodeling of both rural and urban homes."
Mrs. Thorpe based her information on lengthy interviews with 50 farm families and 50 town families from central Michigan counties. Each family kept time records which told what was done in every room in the house throughout the day and evening and just what members of the family were in the rooms.
Although farm girls spend more time working with their mothers than town girls, Mrs. Thorpe found that town men and boys were in the house more than farm men and boys.
On Saturday, farm men are in the house 4 1/2 hours and city men more than 6 hours; on Sunday, farm men 6 1/2 hours and town men 8 hours; and on weekdays, farm men 4 hours and town men 4 1/2 hours.
Rural and urban homemakers seemed to agree that they wanted a downstairs bedroom to accommodate sick children, parents and children's naps. Two-thirds of all the women interviewed wanted one-story houses. "We're sick of climbing stairs," several declared.

Research Study Shows Farm Homes Need Large Size Kitchens

Farm women may live in the wide open spaces, but they need bigger and more efficient space for their kitchen and sewing areas.
Because farm girls seem to spend more time helping their moms in the kitchen and because farm families generally spend more time in the kitchen than any other room in the house, farm kitchens must be able to accommodate them. This was pointed out in a recently completed five-year study done by Mrs. Alice Thorpe, home management researcher at Michigan State University.
The study was designed to show how both farm and town families used the various rooms in their homes. "Knowing this," Mrs. Thorpe pointed out, "we will be better able to advise planning and remodeling of both rural and urban homes."
Mrs. Thorpe based her information on lengthy interviews with 50 farm families and 50 town families from central Michigan counties. Each family kept time records which told what was done in every room in the house throughout the day and evening and just what members of the family were in the rooms.
Although farm girls spend more time working with their mothers than town girls, Mrs. Thorpe found that town men and boys were in the house more than farm men and boys.
On Saturday, farm men are in the house 4 1/2 hours and city men more than 6 hours; on Sunday, farm men 6 1/2 hours and town men 8 hours; and on weekdays, farm men 4 hours and town men 4 1/2 hours.
Rural and urban homemakers seemed to agree that they wanted a downstairs bedroom to accommodate sick children, parents and children's naps. Two-thirds of all the women interviewed wanted one-story houses. "We're sick of climbing stairs," several declared.

Blood Donor Clinic...

Ninety per cent of all blood donated at the clinic will be kept for local use with only 10 per cent going to the Red Cross for the state plasma program and for defense purposes.

The Chelsea Blood Bank plan provides that each resident or worker in the community is entitled to six pints of blood per year if needed. To procure the blood when needed, contact should be made with Mrs. Holmes or her co-chairman, Malcolm Bruce.

Ninety-two pints of blood were used by Chelsea people during the 10 months since last year's blood donor clinic when 108 pints were contributed.

It is believed next week's clinic will show an increase in the amount of blood donated here as compared with 1954, when the clinic was held the day after Thanksgiving.

Janet Boylan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Keith Boylan is a patient at St. Joseph's Mercy hospital, Ann Arbor.

'Blue Baby' Surgery Reports Are Reported

CHICAGO — A follow-up study of the first 100 children to undergo "blue baby" operations at Children's Memorial Hospital, Chicago, shows that only 14 children have died in an eight-year period.

Results were classified as good in 68 of the children and fair in 16. One child was in poor condition and one was unimproved.

Drs. Willis J. Potts, Stanley Gibson, Harvey White, and Robert A. Miller, Chicago, and Edward Bertram, Indianapolis, reported the survey in the Sept. 10 Journal of the American Medical Association.

Before the operation was devised in 1945, "blue babies" had little chance of survival. The operation provides a new and wider passage from the heart to the lungs, by passing a constriction which prevents the blood from getting enough oxygen. The lack of oxygen is responsible for poor physical development and the blue color of the skin.

Of the children, 35 were between four and six months of age and 65 were between three and 16 years at the time of the operation. The operations were performed six to eight years ago.

There were nine hospital deaths—six in children between four and 36 months for a mortality rate of 17 per cent, and three in the older group for a rate of 4.6 per cent. It is well recognized that the mortality in small children will be high, as they are operated upon at this age only because they cannot otherwise survive, the physicians said.

Three of the nine died of oxygen insufficiency. One death each was caused by lung collapse; blood poisoning and intracranial hemorrhage; cerebral hemorrhage; bacterial infection of artery walls and blood poisoning; a clot at the site of the operation and another clot which closed the artery; and multiple aneurysms of the heart and great vessels.

Five patients died after leaving the hospital. All had shown varying degrees of improvement. Causes of death were chronic pulmonary infection, pneumonia, acute rheu-matte fever, brain abscess, and heart failure.

Only four patients required secondary operations.

Of the living group, 68 "live more or less normal lives; they walk to school, climb stairs, and chafe under restrictions placed upon them by their parents. Many, however, will admit under pointed questioning that they live more easily than their schoolmates," the physicians said. These youngsters show little or no blueness at rest.

Sixteen were considered moderately handicapped. They tire easily on moderate exertion. Some have persistent mild blueness when at rest, and all show blueness after exertion or when tired. They are excused from all gymnasium work, the physicians said.

One patient was considered severely handicapped. She had made a good recovery after surgery, but recovered and now has another heart disorder. One patient was considered unimproved. He had more than 60 percent as of the two operations, which were followed by only temporary improvement.

The evaluation included x-ray, electrocardiograph, and personal examination by at least five physicians. Those children who lived far from Chicago were reported on by parents and family physicians.

County School Officers To Discuss Combined Purchasing

The Washtenaw County School Officers Association will meet next Thursday, Oct. 13, at 8 p.m. in North Elementary school.

Subject of discussion during the evening's program will be school purchasing on a county-wide basis.

David Mohrlock Hired as Guard For School Crossing

David Mohrlock has been hired by the Chelsea Police Department as a school crossing guard at the South Main and Pierce street crossing. He is on duty during the morning, noon, and afternoon school traffic hours.

His appointment followed a traffic survey made by Malcolm Bruce of the police committee of the Chelsea Village Council, Police Chief John Carman and Capt. Roland Gainsley of the Ann Arbor city police department.

The survey indicated that the amount of vehicle traffic at this point, together with the large number of children who cross there, warranted the hiring of an adult guard.

Amoebas move by rolling their bodies along a surface.

IT'S A FACT

Kenny treatment has enabled thousands of polio victims to walk, work and play—free from the handicaps formerly accepted as an inevitable consequence of polio.

Hot packs were first used for polio by Sister Kenny. They are now accepted in the conventional treatment of polio. The full Kenny treatment includes muscle stimulation and muscle reeducation as well as hot packs.

The full Kenny treatment is available in Michigan only at the Sister Kenny Polio Hospital in Farmington staffed by graduates Kenny therapists and doctors thoroughly familiar with the Kenny concept of polio. The hospital treated patients from 32 counties in Michigan last year.

Hints Offered

To Make Sandwiches More Attractive

Sandwiches are at their best when served fresh. If they are not to be eaten immediately they should be wrapped individually in waxed paper, packed snugly but not tightly together and the lot wrapped in a damp cloth or towel and placed in the refrigerator until wanted.

When packing sandwiches in the lunch box, wrap lettuce leaves, or tomato slices separately in waxed paper to be inserted into the sandwich when ready to be eaten. This prevents the bread from becoming soggy.

The following sandwich fillings are especially good for the lunch box or picnic:

Mix equal parts of chopped celery, green pepper and flaked canned salmon—or tuna. Add enough mayonnaise to make good spreading consistency.

Dice left-over roast beef or baked ham and add a small amount of finely chopped pickle. Add enough mustard to bind ingredients together.

DOGS

By Farley Manning

Many stories are told of unusual friendships which have sprung up between dogs and other animals. Dogs and horses generally get along well together and many trainers of race horses insist on having a dog around the stable because of the quieting effect on the high-spirited charges.

Newspapers frequently carry stories of canine mothers which have adopted families of another species, including kittens and even baby chicks. Stories have been recorded of many cat and dog friendships, but seldom has a tale of a dog's loyalty to another animal come to light which matches this one.

The Olson family lives in a suburban village not far from New York City with their two pets, Trigger is a lean, black and white English setter that spends every waking hour roaming the nearby woods and fields. Silver is the biggest, white rabbit you ever saw, and was usually content to stay in her hutch hour after hour munching on clean raw carrots and lettuce leaves.

One day recently the Olsons discovered that Silver was missing. They searched diligently through the surrounding woodland area without finding a trace of the lost pet. Fearful that their extremely tame rabbit would become an easy victim of a fox, they called in the neighborhood children to help seek Silver, but two days went by with no results.

"Perhaps you have guessed the end of the story. Yes, on the third day Mr. and Mrs. Olson were sitting on their porch when they spied a tired and bedraggled Trigger, the English setter, laboriously making his way to the house. Firmly, but as gently as a mother cat carrying a kitten, he was holding the puzzled rabbit by the nape of its neck. The condition of the dog's coat indicated that he must have carried his rabbit friend a good distance, and his action certainly proved that friendship crosses many barriers in animal life, even as it does among us humans.

Frozen Food Packers Presented Service Awards

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Val Peterson, Federal Civil Defense Administrator, has presented public service awards to the National Association of Frozen Food Packers and two frozen food scientists for their contributions to national defense during the big atom bomb test at Yucca Flat, Nev., last spring. The individual awards went to H. P. Schmitt, the Association's research director who served as project officer for the tests on frozen foods, and K. G. Dykstra, manager of the Birds Eye Laboratories who served as project consultant.

The test was made to determine what effect radiation from an A-bomb blast would have on foods in an average home. The frozen foods were stored in three deep freezers, all within a mile of ground zero.

Immediately after the blast, Schmitt went into one of the partially demolished homes and prepared and ate a emergency meal of food taken from the freezer. He found it was harmless.

Later, a taste panel sampled the food and pronounced it up to par. Last month an unofficial report, based on scientific analysis by the Wisconsin Alumni Research Foundation, showed that the radiation and extreme heat from the bomb had little, if any, effect on the nutritional composition of the frozen foods subjected to the test.

The Association's award was received by George L. Mentley, president.

Colonial-Style Architecture Reportedly Being Revived

A revival of colonial style architecture is reported from some parts of the eastern United States and this brings back thoughts of polished Southern Pine walls and floors alive with the glow of candles. It also recalls the permanence of the old wood structures of this country. The Antebellum homes along the Mississippi and the Cape Cod houses of New England have outlived several generations and are found for many miles in the South.

The Derby House of Boston, Massachusetts.

Summer dresses may not have as many hooks, but they have plenty of eyes on them.

Matching Sink Tops, Flooring Patterns Offered Housewife

New decorating aids have been offered to home owners with the introduction of ten plastic laminate counter top designs that match and harmonize with best selling vinyl-plastic flooring patterns in style and color. Through the use of these new materials it is possible for the housewife to have matching counter top materials that coordinate perfectly with her resilient flooring.

The matching patterns will enable the home decorator to achieve a far greater harmonizing effect in the design of kitchens, baths, powder rooms, recreation rooms, laundries, nurseries, and dinettes. The tops of set tubs and drain work tops that once characterized the laundry room can now be turned into striking accessories.

The do-it-yourself approach and the home kits provided for do-it-yourselfers put these styling improvements within the realm of today's young, style conscious, home owners. The more skilled do-it-yourself mechanics can apply sink tops and drain work tops to come room sinks while the novice can get his or her start applying plastic laminate to trays and servicing carts used around the home.

Wood Made More Effective for Use In Home Exteriors

The use of wood on home exteriors is becoming increasingly spectacular, while ways have been found to minimize the problems of exposure to weather conditions.

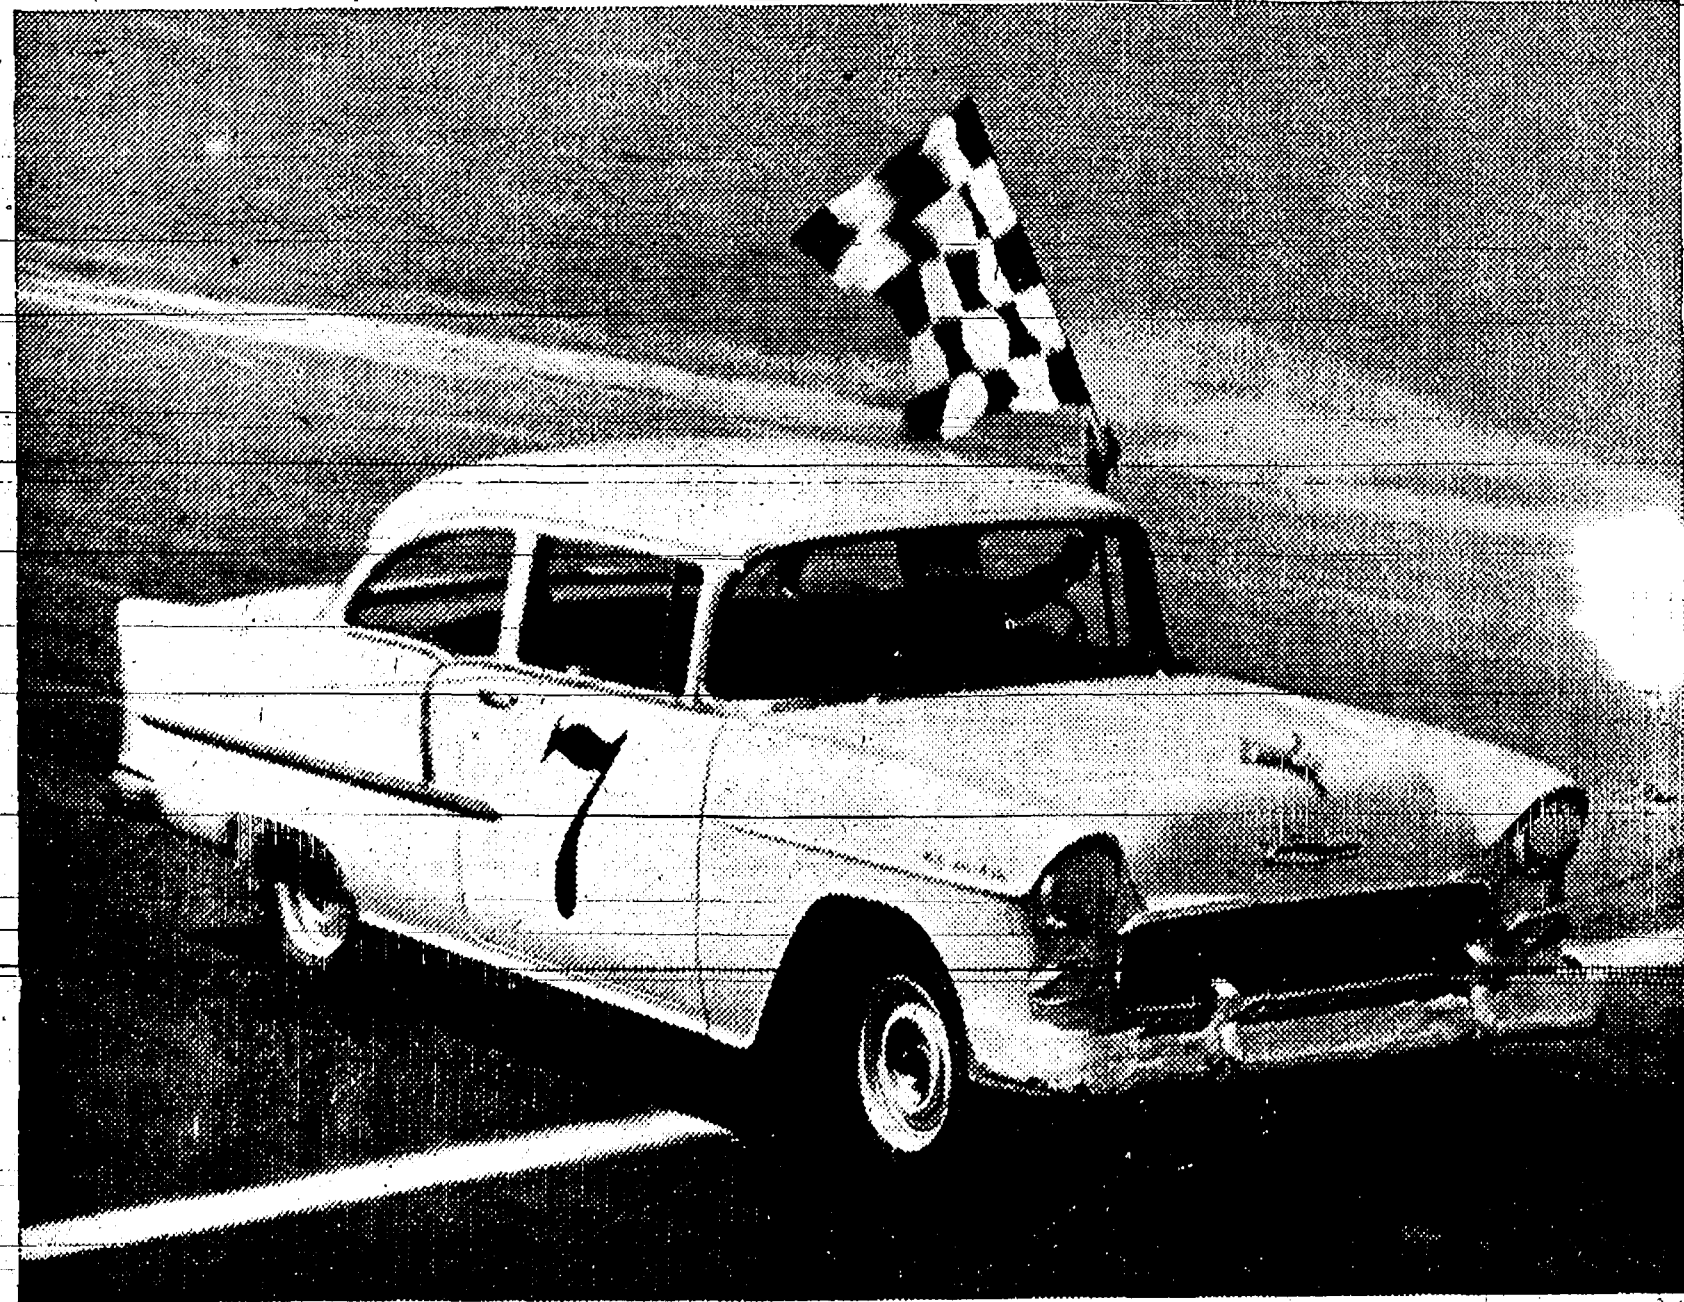

In the glamour department, the frequent appearance of long wood roof rafters on the outside constitutes a trend by itself. Rafters of this type give a rhythmic arrangement of roof line, and lend a touch of the Original to an Occidental setting. Monotony is relieved by exposing the rafters at regular intervals of a wide wood roof overhang. The rafters often are made with Southern Pine lumber because of the strength and attractive grain of that species.

For other exterior purposes, there is the same glamour treatment of wood siding. It has given more "zip" in the case of Southern Pine alone, there is a great variety of striking siding patterns, while old problems of maintenance are being relegated to the discard bin.

Modern builders no longer rely solely on paint for the protection of siding and other exterior wood against the effects of exposure. Wide roof overhangs, gutters, and downspouts lessen moisture problems, while added protection is afforded by various wood treatments. A combination preservative and water repellent applied by brush, dip treatment or vacuum process provides a clean paintable surface, and the effects of moisture are minimized.

MICHIGAN OUTDOORS

TIPS FOR DUCK HUNTERS

With a full 70 days of duck hunting for Michigan this fall there may well be a record number of hunters in our marshes and on our lakes as the big flights skid down from the skies in their long journey south. The wily ways of waterfowl are learned the hard way by veteran gunners through the years, but here and now a few tips for the beginner (and some whose luck has been running bad in the marsh) will not be amiss.

Pot Hole Shooting

This has been a fine year for "local" ducks to hatch in Michigan, and our resident population is at a peak. You'll find these ducks in pot holes scattered throughout the state—small bits of marsh or open water no more than a couple of acres in area. If you "sneak" such a pond and find it well filled with ducks, resist the temptation to shoot, and instead scare them all out with a wave of your hat. Sound silly? Not at all. They'll all be back in scattered flocks and three within an hour or two, and if you get your self concealed in a good shooting spot you're sure to have your limit. Had you fired when the pond was full of ducks you might have hit one or two, and the rest might well be gone with the wind never to return.

The Head-On Shot

Duck hunters have all experienced unaccountable failure to hit a duck that's coming in low, straight at you over the top of the cat tails. It's one of the hardest of all shots, probably because of the relatively narrow target presented by a duck in this position. To improve your chances of a hit hold your fire until he's about 25 yards away, stand up suddenly, and your duck will flare straight up, or to one side, giving you a much bigger target.

Manners in a Blind

If you and your partner want maximum shooting from your blind make sure you NEVER MOVE when ducks are overhead when they can sight you. If you stand in the middle of your decoys absolutely motionless you'd have a better chance of getting ducks to come in than when sitting in a blind and merely tilting your face to look up at a passing flock! MOTION is the quick way to spook any waterfowl.

Calling Technique

Once the ducks make up their mind to come in to your decoys STOP calling. To continue will divert their attention to you, and they'll change their minds in a hurry!

Keep these tips in mind, and you'll find your luck with ducks will be on the upswing this season.

IT'S A FACT*

Blindness isolates its victims. It is difficult for the blind to walk, eat, read, work, or play as normal people.

A Leader Dog restores mobility, opens to the blind person a new world of freedom. He can shop, meet people, hold a job, earn a living—as an independent individual.

Leader Dogs for the Blind, a Michigan United Fund agency, is one of the oldest and largest schools of its kind. Last year it graduated 101 Leader Dog units.

LEARNING BY DOING CLUB

Learning By Doing 4-H club met Saturday with the leader, Mrs. Lewis-Hesselschwerdt, to organize the clothing club for the winter's work. The gathering also served as a surprise going-away party for Olive Ann Reddeman and Marlene Kuhl, who leave Sunday on a trip to Washington, D. C., awarded them for winning the contests in state demonstrations in clothing at the 4-H State Show in Lansing.

Refreshments were served and both girls received cards signed by all the club members.

It is a coincidence that Miss Reddeman's mother, Mrs. Clarence Reddeman, was awarded a trip to Washington in recognition of her 4-H club leadership work in 1931. She is the former Katherine Outwater. Her trip to Washington took her to the National 4-H camp and was awarded for her work in starting a new 4-H club here.

Officers of the club elected at Saturday's meeting are Olive Ann Reddeman, president; Marlene Kuhl, vice-president; Carol Reddeman, secretary; and Margaret Beach, treasurer.

The program period included reports by Olive Ann Reddeman and Marlene Kuhl of their experiences at the 4-H State Show and at the Michigan State Fair where they modeled their outfits, also.

Eighteen members were present for the organizational meeting.

PEP MEETING HELD

A pep meeting, put on by the Journalism club, consisted of a skit entitled "Million Dollar Solution," followed by a talk from Coach John Conklin and a cheer from the cheerleaders. The pep meeting was closed with the school song.

STUDENT COUNCIL

The Student Council decided that because of the great damage being done to the desks, anyone observed damaging one must refinish it after school hours. It was also agreed that only Student Council representatives should be permitted to adjust the shades in the gym during assemblies and special programs. A suggestion was made that a hunting assembly by Don Boyer should be held before bird hunting season opens. Dennis Gary, Reuben Leaser, and Bill Harris were appointed to organize a committee which would assist in choosing the assemblies for next year.

LATIN CLUB ORGANIZES

The Latin Club was formed on September 29 with the following officers: President Lynda Mayer, Vice-President Nancy Mayer, Secretary Kay Vogel, and Treasurer to be appointed. The advisor is Mrs. Margaret Schultz. Bob Smith and Bob Steger were chosen to plan the activities for the next meeting.

FHA MEETS

At the FHA meeting held Sept. 21, with Mrs. Dennis and Miss Smith present, reports were given on the regional meeting held in Ypsilanti, and a discussion was held on a date for initiation for new members. The girls also discussed activities to take place during FHA Week, which is Oct. 30 to Nov. 6.

SENIORS ARE GRATEFUL

The senior class succeeded in surpassing the goal of $3,000 in their magazine subscription sale by approximately $400.

James Young, the class advisor, and the class officers are choosing the nucleus of the Senior Annual staff. They are also choosing a committee to select the senior play.

ART CLASSES ARE BUSY

Art I is working on primitive painting, a type done by someone who has had no training in art. By the time the year is over, Art I students should no longer be painting primitives.

At present, Art II students are working on different types of sketches in preparation for working with oils. The reproductions of famous art works have arrived and have been distributed to the students.

BAND DEMONSTRATES SKILL

On Sept. 23 the band put on a half-time show consisting of an entrance and the letter formations of an "H" for Lincoln and a "C" for Chelsea.

On Sept. 30 the band again put on a half-time show for the Roosevelt game. Some of the formations were an "H" for Roosevelt, a "C" for Chelsea and a "Ten Gallon Hat" for which they played "The Yellow Rose of Texas."

The band is pleased with their new drums, a concert snare drum, and two new bass drums. The new bass drums are of the same style as the snares they received last year and are much narrower than the old ones. The drum section was featured in the "Yellow Rose of Texas" at the Roosevelt game.

SEVENTH GRADE DRAMATIZE

The seventh grade section B is putting on a play about the Golden Conquest. That is when Cortes, the Spaniard, made the conquest of Mexico and conquered the Aztec Indians. The people in the play include Mike Marsh playing Cortes, Jill Burkley and Cheryl Thomas as soldiers, Judy Summers as the Aztec ruler, and Janet Bergman, Donny Martin, and Charles Kroenn as her brave warriors. Linda Burghardt is the narrator. Other persons wrote a brief story on "My Trip to Mexico."

EIGHTH GRADE ACTS

Shelia Borders, chairman of the section 8B room committee, will soon have a new bulletin board to use for class display. This section is making much progress in decorating their room, number 8. Some other room projects are Parliamentary Procedures of which Dick Irwin is chairman, and the football team consisting of W. Morley, B. O'Dell, T. Fribble, J. Krieger, B. Kuhl, R. Schenk, Bill Kuhl, J. Patrick, and D. Irwin.

Republicans are looking for a gimmick in the call for a special session of the legislature.

Gov. Williams will issue the call for a new look at three old problems in January, two months before the 1956 regular session begins.

"If there are answers that can be effective in the two months before the next regular session, we'll go along," said Senator Crighton (R-Battle Creek).

Coleman and other Republicans privately say Williams is calling the special session for a special purpose, probably political.

If the legislature fails to come up with quick answers to problems that have concerned lawmakers for years, Williams can obviously claim GOP House Speaker Wade Van Valkenberg, of Kalamazoo, sensing the plight that could result for his party, demanded that Williams present a specific program for all issues.

The issues are highway safety, care for the mentally retarded children and education.

Public and private groups have been working on all three for years.

The Michigan Press Association (consists of most Michigan newspapers) has maintained a continuous interest in traffic safety for several years. A committee of newspaper publishers has been working with traffic experts and state officials to decide the best ways to beat accident problems.

Muskegon county has been a leader in highway safety with a civic program that is now being copied in many parts of the state. Lawmakers in both the House and Senate have long advocated programs.

Republicans are fretful that the legislature may not be able to do in four days what it and other alarmed groups have been working on for years.

Gov. Williams has never completed his program, but he has been pressing for some time. If the governor has a magic formula, we'd like to see it.

Van Valkenberg and others urged that the governor take legislators "into the fullest confidence" on proposals before the session. There are signs this may be done.

Alarm over what can be done for mentally retarded children have been sounded frequently for the past decade.

At the moment, there are more than 1,500 children waiting for care and treatment. Lapeer Home and Training School, as well as other institutions are full and overflowing.

Last year, a movement was started in the legislature to convert extra space in tuberculosis hospitals to homes for mentally retarded children. Health officials, interested in filling the beds with undischarged tuberculosis sufferers, blocked the move.

Gov. Williams is after new buildings, new staffs and other facilities, but, Republicans claim, without specific information on what will be needed.

Education, the third major issue of the special session, has become a major state problem.

Floods of new students are forcing expansion of school facilities and creating a teacher shortage. The $100 million bond issue last year for school construction was part of the answer.

Dr. Clair L. Taylor, Republican superintendent of public instruction, in August suggested that Michigan's 50,000 school teachers be given another $200 a year raise from state surplus money.

Williams at the time said that the $18 million surplus—which Republicans said was more like $13 million—could be used for a number of other pressing state needs.

But, two weeks later, the governor announced he would favor using at least $10 million to give the teachers the raise that Taylor suggested.

This development was especially puzzling to Republicans.

agencies to come up with specific programs to present to the legislature.

Rep. John J. McCune (R-East Lansing) said he would sponsor the teacher raise bill; other legislators are working on their own highway safety and mental health proposals.

Republicans, charging privately that Williams is playing politics with a special session, still are reluctant to criticize the summons to Lansing.

"Right now, we think the people may want a special session and we don't want to be placed over a barrel by Williams," said one.

McCune is also returning to the wars against beer and wine advertising.

He has prepared a resolution calling for a special House investigation of radio advertising which, he said, urged motorists to stop along the road for beer on Labor Day.

"This is sabotaging our highway safety program and must be stopped," he said.
