

Grid Team Trounces Dundee, 28-14

Final League Game To Be Played Friday At Flat Rock

Last Friday night, before a large crowd, the Chelsea Grid Team defeated Dundee, 28-14, to knock the Vikings out of a first-place tie. Dundee showed a grinding type of football which produced two touchdowns but the Vikings could not match the explosiveness of the Bulldogs attack. Three of the four Chelsea touchdowns came on dashes of 50 yards or more. Halfback Jim McLaughlin scored on dashes of 60 and 58 yards, while Capt. Ted Nixon raced 89 yards for the final score.

After a scoreless first quarter, which saw some excellent defensive football, things really opened up as four touchdowns were scored, three by the fired-up Bulldogs.

The first score came as a result of a 77-yard march. Chelsea had moved the ball from their own 28 to the 41. With second down and eight to go, quarterback Hugh Weinberg, who did an excellent job of directing the Bulldog offense, handed the ball off to Jim McLaughlin. Mac, as he is called by his teammates, broke through a hole opened up by Joe Bauer and George Collier and sped through the Dundee secondary for 59 yards and a touchdown. McLaughlin was 15 yards ahead of any Dundee defender as he crossed the goal line. Capt. Ted Nixon summed up the middle for the extra point and the Bulldogs lead, 7-0.

Minutes later the Bulldogs tallied again. Speedy Eddie Richardson raced down field on the kickoff following Chelsea's first score and fell on the loose ball on the Dundee 20. Five plays later Chelsea scored. Left half Johnny Jones picked up half the yardage with a 13-yard dash of tackle. After two carries by McLaughlin had reached the 5, Nixon crashed over (Continued on page two)

Report Shows Library Building Fund Totals $3,322

Preston W. Slosson, professor of history at the University of Michigan, appeared here as guest speaker at the fall meeting of the Friends of the Chelsea Public Library. The meeting was held Monday evening in the library. James K. Daniels, Friends of the Library president, introduced Professor Slosson, who related his experiences during recent travels and studies in Italy and Germany.

Professor Slosson's observations were of special interest because of his attitude in relating present-day happenings to the over-all picture they will present historically in time to come.

Approximately 80 members and guests were present at Monday's meeting. Because of the interest shown in Professor Slosson's lecture, the group is considering the possibility of making an annual event of a lecture program at the fall meetings customarily held in October. The regular spring meeting is scheduled for the fourth Monday in April.

During a brief business session following the program, Mrs. J. Eaton reported on activities of the Chelsea Public Library and Mrs. Warren Daniels, reporting for the library building and site committee, stated that the building and site fund now shows a total of $3,322.38.

Also mentioned at the meeting was the fact that 24 new members of the Friends of the Library have been added. Membership requires a nominal annual fee of one dollar or more and anyone interested may join.

Winners Named in Area Interscholastic Auto Economy Run

Bedridden Man Severely Beaten Thursday Night

Fred Roberts, 67 years old, is in St. Joseph's Mercy hospital, Ann Arbor, where he was taken Saturday morning suffering from possible rib and jaw fractures, allegedly sustained when he was severely beaten, probably Thursday night. His assailant or assailants were not known until yesterday when Carl Fletcher, 19, called a lie detector test and admitted his guilt. He signed a statement saying he struck the old man but could give no reason for doing so.

A bedridden invalid who has been cared for by a neighbor, Roberts was discovered to be in bad condition Friday morning by Willard Webb, a youth who lives in another part of the house with his mother.

A physician was called to attend him at that time but local police were not notified until Friday evening.

According to police department records, the alleged beating probably took place during a drunken brawl at the residence and several men had been questioned during the past few days.

Roberts was unconscious for several hours after being taken to the hospital but later appeared to be feeling slightly better.

Charges against Fletcher are to be filed today.

Windows Broken at Canfield School by Halloween Vandals

One major case of vandalism reported to Chelsea police over the Halloween week-end was the smashing of 31 panes of glass at Canfield rural school. The broken windows were discovered when school opened Monday morning and police were notified at once.

Stones had been pitched through the windows. Also found on the schoolroom floor was a large chunk of cement taken from the school foundation. Police said the chunk was too heavy for one person to handle and at least two must have heaved it through the window.

Another case reported was the burning of two stacks of baled hay on the Carl Heydlauff farm on Sylvan road.

In the village, according to Chief of Police John Carman, there was almost no trouble of any kind seen. Halloween pranksters, he commented, the cooperation of youngsters in refraining from soaping cars and windows.

A prank, which might have turned out to have serious consequences to finishes on cars, was nipped when police found a group squinting shaving cream-soup mixtures to launch. Garage attendants said the mixture would ruin the finish on car bodies if not removed immediately.

to score. On the play Weinberg had faked a hand-off to McLaughlin and then slipped the ball to Nixon who went through a big hole opened up by center Jay Ferguson and guards Neil Fahner and Joe Bauer. McLaughlin cracked over for the extra point to give the Bulldogs a 14-0 lead.

However, Dundee took the kick-off and marched 88 yards to score with Gordon Toburen going over on a sweep from the eight. Frank Pickens rushed the extra point and Dundee was back in the game, trailing only 14-7.

Following the score, Dundee tried a short kick hoping to get possession again as there were only seconds left in the half. However, center Jay Ferguson fell on the ball on the 50. Then came the key play of the game. Dundee, expecting a pass, dropped its secondary deep. But quarterback Weinberg crossed them up as he handed the ball off to McLaughlin on the same play that had scored earlier. McLaughlin, after clearing the line of scrimmage, cut back to his left and picked up two beautiful blocks. End Glen Weir picked off the pass and McLaughlin again cracked over for the extra point to tie the Bulldogs, lead at half-time, 21-7.

After the half-time intermission, which saw the fathers of the varsity players honored and the senior members of the team and band introduced, Dundee came storming back to score with Bob Schultz scoring and adding the extra point to tie the Chelsea 40 lead.

But the Bulldogs, many who remembered last year's 40-7 defeat by Dundee and who were dedicating this game to their dad, came roaring back. It took them only two plays to travel 66 yards. After McLaughlin had picked up four yards, Ted Nixon cracked up the middle aided by end Don Mshar's block on the linebacker. Ted ran over two Dundee defenders and finding himself all alone at the 50 he cracked the ball into the end zone. The play covered 62 yards and was the longest run of the season for the Bulldogs. McLaughlin again cracked over for the extra point.

In the fourth quarter Dundee threatened again as they marched to the Bulldog 10 but the defensive team, lead by Ken Bauer, Don Harris, Odie Richardson and Bill Lake, held. After moving out to midfield the Bulldog reserves took over and despite a flurry of passes, Dundee could not score again.

Couch Al Conklin had special praise for his offensive line which constantly outcharged the larger Dundee forwards. The running of McLaughlin and Nixon was also outstanding, while center and line-backer Jay Ferguson stood out on defense. However, again it was a tremendous team effort that gained the prized victory.

This Friday the Bulldogs travel to Flat Rock to take on the Rams. In other league games Saline defeated Flat Rock 27-7, while the other co-leader, Lincoln, was held to a tie by a winless Roosevelt team, 13-13.

ing Mr. and Mrs. Howard Dancer of Ann Arbor, Rev. William Haliday of St. Cloud, Fla., Mrs. Cleon Taylor of Baton Rouge, Rev. and Mrs. S. D. Kinde, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Spiegelberg and Mrs. Elmer Lindemann.

Mrs. Dancer was presented with a number of gifts from her family and friends and was especially pleased with one sent by special delivery from Florida by Dr. and Mrs. A. L. Brock who had requested Mrs. Otto Lucht to make the presentation at the installation ceremony.

Past Matrons of OES conducted a brief ceremony accepting the outgoing worthy matron, Mrs. Guy Weatherwax, into membership and Mrs. Carl Sanderson presented her with a past matron's jewel.

Decorations for the installation ceremonies were exceptionally effective, tall white crosses marking each star point station. Star point colors were identified by means of colored ribbon bows on the crosses. Bases of the crosses were covered with matching colored chrysanthemums and the entire room was banked with a profusion of various colored chrysanthemums. Yellow candles and flowers were used on the table in the dining room where refreshments were served at the close of the evening. Mrs. Dancer and Mrs. Schrader poured.

The timber harvest from U. S. national forests between Oct. 1 and Dec. 31, 1954, was valued at $25,071,110.

• DOGS •

By Farley Manning

DENTAL CARE

So you "brush your teeth twice a day and see your dentist at least twice a year." Naturally, you do if you want to retain that pearly white grin and avoid the ill health that so often accompanies neglected teeth.

But what about your dog? Maybe his grin isn't so important but his health certainly is and if you want him to stay sleek and happy you should pay careful attention to his teeth and mouth.

A dog's teeth are unlike a human's. They don't have pulp and nerves and therefore are not susceptible to cavities. If a dog breaks a tooth it does not decay but wears smooth and there is no necessity for having it capped or crowned. But, if the tooth breaks below the gum line then he requires immediate professional care.

Although his teeth are not so vulnerable as his master's, a dog's mouth should be inspected regularly. If there is any objectional odor the mouth may be rinsed with a weak antiseptic solution applied with a soft, small tooth brush or a swab of cotton. All particles of food which may become lodged between the dog's front teeth can be removed, since such matter will ferment rapidly. Not only can it cause a bad case of halitosis but it may also result in severe attacks of sore gums, pyorrhea and the premature loss of teeth.

The first teeth to appear are the baby "milk" teeth, which erupt when the pup is four or five weeks old and remain until five or six months. When his dentition is complete a dog has forty-two teeth, twenty in his upper jaw and twenty-two in the lower.

In the past six years, tree planting in the United States has increased 133 per cent.

New Pink Colored Light Bulbs Available In Common Sizes

New pastel pink colored light bulbs have been announced by three major light bulb manufacturers. These new bulbs are available in sizes the same as other bulbs, excepting the 100-watt, extension lamp, incandescent bulb. These wattage numbers include 60, 75, 100, 150, 200, 250, and 300.

Miss Marion says the pink bulbs are good for many uses. They provide a soft light, reduce glare and shadow, flatter complexions and produce a pleasing atmosphere for comfortable living.

Pink bulbs will enhance warm colors in fabrics, foods and furnishings. But she warns, do not use them in reading lamps, because of the lower output of light due to the pink color.

Do not use them for sewing, because of the lower output of light and because color in fabrics may be distorted. Another "don't" to remember in using pink light bulbs is when applying make up. Miss Marion says that under white light there will be less chance of misapplying cosmetics.

Fire Expert Urges Fall Safety Check

Ann Arbor—"The coming of winter and the necessity of heavy firing of furnaces, provides the acid test for fire safety in our homes, businesses and places of public assembly," Francis Hartman, head of the fireman's training program at the University of Michigan, stated this week.

Hartman, a former fire chief who has seen many a home go up in smoke because of carelessness, urged home-owners and business-men to complete safety inspections now, before furnaces are fired up to "full blast" for the dead of winter.

Points to be checked closely, he said, are:

Furnaces—see that all connections are tight; if oil or gas is used, there should be no leaks in fuel lines; the smoke or exhaust pipe should be inspected, just in case they loosened up during the summer; if electricity is used to force vent, see that the wiring and motors are in good condition; if you have a coal-fired furnace be sure you have ample metal containers for ashes and clinkers.

Never use kerosene or gasoline to kindle a fire!

Chimneys—check them from the basement to the top of the stack for loose bricks or cracks in the masonry—escaping gases can cause extreme sickness and death; be sure that no combustibles are stored near the chimney or furnace; install a screen or spark-trap at the top of the chimney.

Electricity—because of short daylight hours during the winter, a heavy strain will be placed on electrical circuits—don't overload them; if a fuse "blows out" it is an indication that the circuit is overloaded or shorted. If you reduce the load and it continues to blow fuses, call a competent electrical repairman—do not put pennies or other metal objects in the fuse receptacle! Reduce the number of extension cords in your home, they are a constant source of danger.

It would be wise to remember, Hartman pointed out, that almost all fires are caused by carelessness. Constant alertness and thoughtful-

THE MIDDLE GUARD by LES BINGAMAN

INEVITABLY THE question arises, "what's wrong with the Lions?"

I'm asked that question all the time, and I wish I knew the answer. This is a wish shared by Coach Buddy Parker and his staff, General Manager Nick Kerbaway, Lions President Edwin J. Anderson and the entire board of directors.

Everyone knows that all's not well with the Lions but no one knows exactly why. Parker shakes his head in silent misery. I feel equally as bad.

Probably the best answer to the $84,000 question is that a combination of factors has contributed to our decline. Not among them, however, is the theory that the Lions are an aging team.

Despite possessing several veterans, Detroit is essentially a young team. Even such "greybeards" as Bobby Layne, Doak Walker and Leon Hart are 28, 27, and 26, respectively.

More valid is the suggestion that a combination of breaks, the player draft and difficulty in integrating offense and defense is responsible for our current plight.

The breaks were going our way when we were on top but the ball is bouncing in the other direction this season. The law of averages has caught up with us. If we had been lucky, we might now possess at least a 500 average.

That great leveler, the player

Fall Is Best Time To Fertilize Fruit Trees

Now is a good time to apply fertilizer to fruit trees.

Fruit trees have root systems that often go deep into the soil, according to Paul Larsen, extension horticulture specialist at Michigan State University. Fall application gives the fertilizer a chance to reach the roots by spring so that the tree can make quick use of it when the warm weather arrives.

Potash and phosphorus can be applied in the fall to all fruit trees under all soil and cultivation conditions, according to Larsen. Nitrogen can be applied except on light soils where clean cultivation is practiced.

Larsen recommends these rates for nitrogen: For apples—one-half pound of ammonium nitrate or its equivalent for each year of orchard age until 5 to 7 pounds per tree have been applied. For other tree fruits—about half that amount.

Larsen suggests that phosphorus and potash be applied if there is evidence of need in individual orchards. Usually 300 to 400 pounds of 0-10-30 or its equivalent is enough potash and phosphorus to satisfy the needs of orchard trees.

If the trees need lime, Larsen recommends that it be applied in the form of dolomite or high magnesian limestone.

Less Calories, More Produce Eaten Today Than 50 Years Ago

Today's average American eats about the same amount of food, measured in pounds, as an average American ate 50 years ago. But the kind of food he eats is the big change.

According to research done by the U.S. Department of Agriculture, there were increases in dairy products (except butter), eggs, meats, fish, poultry, citrus fruits, tomatoes, vegetables (leafy, green and yellow) and sugars and sirups. In contrast, only half as many potatoes and sweet potatoes and half as much flour and corn-meal are eaten now as compared to 1909.

Increases in the eating of fresh fruits and vegetables is probably due to the advances in transportation, refrigeration, merchandising and geography of production. Fifty years ago available food changed with the seasons because perishables had to come from near by due to slow transportation.

It seems today's average American has replaced the high calorie counts of potatoes with those of fats. Although the food supply today is eight per cent lower in calories, a large portion of the calories comes from the use of fats and oils in salads and cooking and from the so-called invisible fats in white milk dairy products, meat, poultry and fish.

More of the carbohydrate supply comes from sugars and less from potatoes and grain foods.

And, the report continues, many of the diet changes are shifts from the lower priced to the higher priced foods. Some of these higher priced foods result from increased processing of many foods. Even though they are more costly, they save the homemaker many long hours in the kitchen.

The largest state park in the nation is the 47,000 acre Porcupine Mountain state park in the western end of Michigan's Upper Peninsula.

Do you personally know your children's teachers?

VISIT YOUR SCHOOLS during AMERICAN EDUCATION WEEK NOVEMBER 6-12

Isn't it natural to want to spend a little time with the people who spend most of their time with your children? Isn't a first-hand knowledge of your schools worth while? Especially in these difficult years of swiftly rising enrollments—when teachers, principals, and school boards deserve the active interest and support of every citizen.

One of the best ways to learn about schools—their programs and their problems—is through local community conferences on education. If one is held in your community during American Education Week, be sure to attend. The work you do for better schools is your investment in America.

American Education Week has become an annual community custom across the nation. This year, the 35th annual observance, some 20 million Americans will visit their local schools during the second week in November. Shall we see you then?

Social Security OK'd by Road Commission Crew

Washtenaw county Road Commission employees voted Friday in favor of incorporating social security with their Michigan Municipal Retirement pension plan which has been in effect since 1947.

Under the pension plan employees have paid in 5 per cent of their earnings and incorporating with social security will not change the amount except that only 3 per cent will go into the retirement fund and the remaining 2 per cent into social security.

Of the 101 eligible to vote, 99 cast ballots, 90 voting in favor of the plan and only 9 against it. The result has been certified to the Michigan Municipal Retirement Board and to the governor for approval. The plan is to be retroactive to Jan. 1, 1955.

Greatest immediate benefit will be for the 60 and over age group who will receive an average of $50 more per month by means of the combined social security-retirement plan.

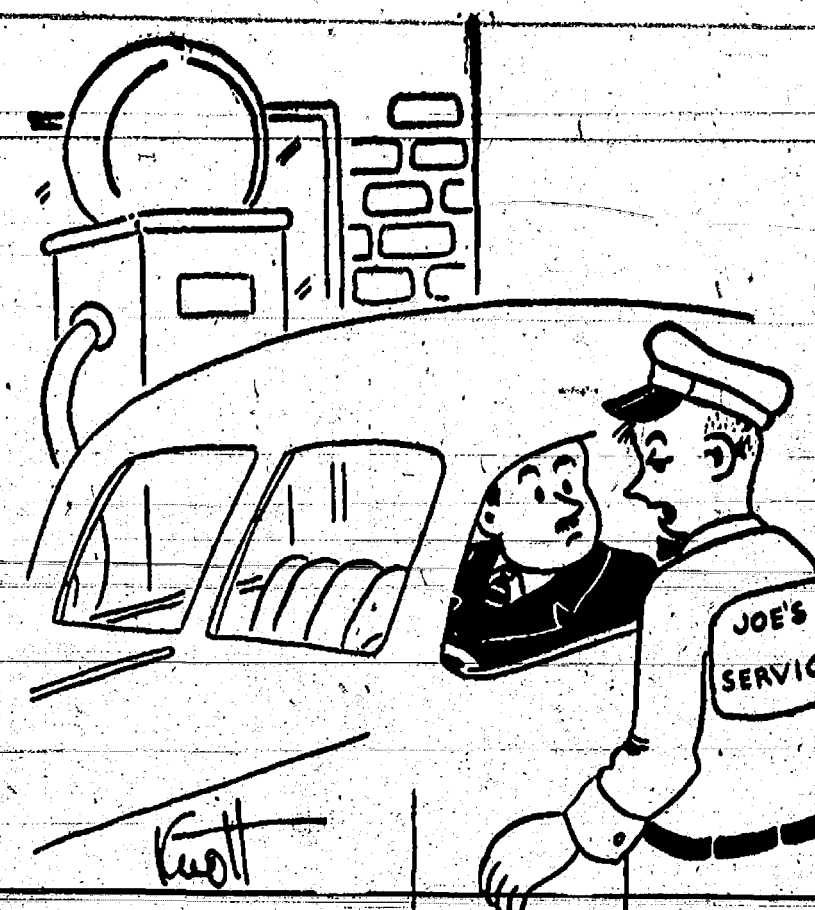

This plan was made possible by legislation passed in June and the Road Commission immediately made plans to give employees the chance to express their choice in the matter as soon as it became legally possible to do so. Necessary procedure required authorization for the referendum from the Washtenaw county Board of Supervisors and the proper notification of employees.

Demolition of Old Courthouse Starts This Week

Work of demolishing the old Washtenaw County Courthouse was begun this week following an auction of furnishings which were moved to the new County Building. The auction, held Saturday, netted the county approximately $2,700.

Sold were the old Circuit Court judge's bench, a curved clerk's table, witness chairs and speaker desks, wastebaskets, three safes, glass paneled cabinets and shelves.

It is expected the job of razing the old building will take approximately 30 days. Another two weeks will be required to completely clear away the remains of the former Courthouse.

Preliminary plans for a proposed two-level airport to be erected on the spot are being studied by the Board of Supervisors. Work on a parking project would not begin until after the rubble of the demolished building had been entirely cleared away.

Your neighbors are — and you're invited! The time is November 6 to 12... the place, our local schools... the occasion, American Education Week. And the purpose is to make you better acquainted with the fine men and women responsible for the education of our children — a responsibility every citizen shares.

Isn't it natural to want to spend a little time with the people who spend most of their time with your children? Isn't a first-hand knowledge of your schools worth while? Especially in these difficult years of swiftly rising enrollments—when teachers, principals, school boards and community conferences on education deserve the active interest and support of every citizen.

American Education Week has become an annual community custom across the nation. This year, the 35th annual observance, some 20 million Americans will visit their local schools during the second week in November. Shall we see you then?

Changes Made in Administration of Correction Camps

According to announcements made in Lansing, Gus Harrison, state corrections director, has stated that a separate administration set-up has been created to govern the Conservation-Correction camps in the state. The camps have been under the control of the state prisons since 1948.

The new plan will affect Cassidy Lake Training School here which has been under the jurisdiction of Ionia State Reformatory. Jurisdiction will be transferred to Harrison's office, according to the announcement.

He declared that the camps may handle their own escapes and prosecutions under a 1955 law. Until adoption of that law, camps had to be attached to a prison if the escapees were to be prosecuted legally.

The prison work camps are located at Waverly, Brighton, Wilkes, State Park, Cusino, Jackson, Pontiac, the Porcupine Mountains, Tahquamenon Falls and two at Grayling.

In another announcement made by Harrison, he said a pre-parole training program for first offenders at Cassidy Lake Training Camp will be started next spring. He declared a two-week "socialization program" will launch the plan and that 60 to 70 inmates will go through each month.

The department plans to move a 170x34-foot federal surplus building from Ft. Sheridan, Ill., to Cassidy Lake. The building will be used for lectures, demonstrations and courses in the new unit.

Harrison said some help will be obtained from the University of Michigan and the program will be aimed at "specific" problems of homeward bound young offenders.

Soil Researcher

Disclaims Benefits
From Fall Plowing

Is fall plowing worth while? Tests at Michigan State University show the best yields with fall plowing in some years. But the yield advantage is tipped toward spring plowing other years. Experiments were with corn, sugar beets and tomatoes.

Lynn S. Robertson, a soil science researcher at MSU, cuts into the claim that fall plowing takes advantage of freezing and thawing of the soil to break up large clods. That break up, he says, also means a loss of soil stability and an increase in top crust. That's especially true for light soils low in organic matter.

Main disadvantages of fall plowing, Robertson says, are soil erosion and the lack of cover crops which protect against washing and leaching. And cover crops add to the organic matter when the soil is plowed in the spring.

Sometimes, he admits, a farmer can plant earlier in the spring when he fall plows. And fall plowing makes more plant food of some kinds available. But, indicates the soil scientist, this would be important only if low rates of fertilizer are used.

Most farmers, with their modern tractors and machinery, don't have to fall plow to avoid the spring rush.

Michigan ranks first in the nation in the production of salt, gypsum, calcium-magnesium compounds and marl.

U-M President
Sees Larger
Enrollments

Ann Arbor—Predictions of expanding college and university enrollments are not a matter of speculation, University of Michigan President Harlan Hatcher declares. "These predictions are based on the rising birth rate in the United States," he points out. "Forecasts of a 1970 college enrollment almost double that of today are based on the college-age population which we know we will have by that year. These college students of 1970 have already been born."

Despite the fact that the University of Michigan will be faced with this inevitable increase in its enrollment, Dr. Hatcher emphasized that the people of Michigan can expect and will receive the highest quality performance from the University in its teaching, research, and other educational services.

"The number of students admitted will be based on the ability of the University to maintain its traditional quality of instruction from the freshmen classes through the graduate and professional degrees," the U-M president says. "The University will, of course, carry its fair share of the students of Michigan."

The U-M president also emphasized these points about the University: Eighty per cent of the young people who enroll as freshmen continue their college studies four years or longer and earn degrees. This is one of the best records in the country.

For the fourth straight year, enrollment of freshmen has been the "biggest ever," far exceeding the peak of the post-war bulge in 1946-50.

The University expects to continue its present ratio of about 30 per cent freshmen and sophomores, 30 per cent juniors and seniors and 40 per cent graduate and professional students.

Despite its "bigness" in total numbers, the University will continue to be divided into 15 schools and colleges each with a separate faculty, dean and student program. Eleven of the 15 presently have enrollments of about 1,000 each or less. Five have 500 or fewer students. This gives a student in a relatively small college the benefits from library and other facilities that only a large university can provide, Dr. Hatcher points out.

is very fortunate to have about 80 children's books from the Extension Department of the University of Michigan for use in the various class rooms. They are books for recreational reading for boys and girls in grades 1-6. Many of the books have beautiful pictures.

This year high school classes have been using the library as a group. English classes have been doing a great deal of studying on occupations, and the sociology class has been working on term papers.

grade entertained Mrs. Schairer, their former teacher, at a party on Friday, Oct. 21. They served ice cream and cookies for refreshments. Cynthia Hepburn and Francis Smyser brought candy for everyone.

Mrs. Baldwin's first grade has been very busy recently. They went to see the two moose which were hanging up town. They made a story and many pictures of the trip, and Miss Wiese has sent them several moose stories which they have really enjoyed.

Gloria Brackney and Mike Policht had birthdays this month. They enjoyed the treats which their mothers made for the room.

They have been collecting pretty leaves, caterpillars, and cocoons. They have many new plants which Mrs. Lachowitz gave them, and are grateful for them.

They made witches to decorate their room, and later made pumpkins with funny faces. They are learning to write their last names, and Lyndon's group has already finished its first book, "We Look and See". They are all in that book, and are doing a fine job.

HALLOWEEN PAINTINGS

In Mrs. Jennings' fourth grade the children worked on drawings of fall trees and Halloween paintings in art class.

Seventeen parents from the room were present at the last PTA meeting.

In geography, the class has started on the story of the "Children of the Highlands". The class has also started to learn time tables.

Each member of the class brought 50 cents for the parties during the year.

The class has a new lesson in language now. It is learning the poem of "Little Orphan Annie," by James Whitcomb Riley.

PEP MEET HONORS CAPTAIN. Just before the Dundee game, the FFA staged a skit called "This is Your Life," a take-off on the well-known program of the same name.

This particular program honored the Bulldog captain, Ted (Duke) Nixon. The central character was played by Jim Klobuchar, the announcer was Llewellyn Lehman, Orville Shepherd played Al Fredwards, while Bob Fischer, Bussie White, and the whole Freshmen class were members of his family.

Apparently the skit roused the Bulldog supporters to proper pitch for the team and the captain surely distinguished themselves Friday evening.

SENIORS SLAVE OVER PLAY. Twenty-six industrious seniors are meeting every night at 7:30 with the thought of throwing away their inhibitions and really becoming actors and actresses.

Under the capable direction of Mrs. Marian Johnson the seniors are definitely shaping their play into a polished performance. Since the play is a drama it requires the seniors to convincingly portray our human emotions: for example, Mr. Kovelesky, the janitor, must transmit all the mingled emotions of a man tried for murder and Mr. and Mrs. McGinnis (the parents of the boy who was killed) must also convey their sense of heartbreak and loss. Each senior in the play knows he has an important job to do in his acting if this drama is to be as suspenseful and heartwarming as the author intended.

From all reports the senior play "The Remarkable Incident at Carson Corners" is certainly going to present a thoroughly enjoyable evening to all those in its audience.

CASSIDY LAKE VISITED. Cassidy Lake Technical School was visited by the sociology class Wednesday, afternoon, Oct. 20. Accompanied by Mrs. Gloria Prins and Mr. John Griffin, the class toured the camp with Mr. Fleck, the machine shop instructor. The machine and welding shops were especially interesting to the boys.

Fertilizer Applied In Fall Gives Best Results on Grapes

Grapes can make more effective use of potash and phosphorus fertilizers if they are applied in the fall.

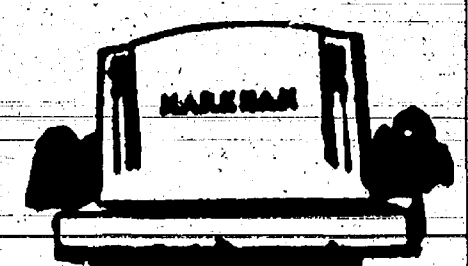

That's the recommendation of Paul Larsen, extension horticulture specialist at Michigan State University. Fall application of these two fertilizers allows them to move into the soil nearer to the roots so that in spring the plants can make quick use of them.

Potash and phosphorus fertilizers may be applied any time in the month of November or until the ground freezes, according to Larsen. The fertilizers should be applied broadcast so that the cover crops will benefit.

Where growth of vines has been normal or adequate, Larsen recommends using 300 to 400 pounds of 0-10-30 or 3-6-27 or their equivalents. If there is a serious potash deficiency, Larsen says to use 300 to 400 pounds of sulphate of potash per year until the condition is corrected. Then follow with the normal recommended rates.

Nitrogen fertilizer should be applied to grapes in the spring, Larsen reminds growers.

The University of Michigan is the oldest state university in the country. It was also the first state university to admit coeds.

Poisoned Oats Recommended for Control of Mice

If meadow mice are serious problems in your apple orchard, try them a helping of strychnine-treated oats this time of year. Paul Larsen, extension horticulture specialist at Michigan State University, urge apple growers to take steps now in controlling the mice population. Mice can do much damage after bad weather begins.

If the mice population is high in an orchard, Larsen recommends using "concentration stations" to center the mice activity in known areas. He suggests placing a bale of straw in the orchard. Mice will build their runways to include these shelter spots.

Then place strychnine-treated oats in the runways that go through these spots. It is fairly certain that mice will visit these stations, sometimes dying.

In mulched orchards, Larsen says a piece of tar paper about 18 to 20 inches square placed over the mulch will make a concentration station. Bales of straw brought into the orchard now for mulching next spring can also make effective spots for placing the poison. It may be better, however, to place barriers around each tree to prevent mice damage in mulched orchards, Larsen says.

Other methods for poisoning mice include the use of zinc-phosphide treated corn or apple cubes sprinkled with zinc-phosphide.

Strawberry Plant Shortage Looms

Order your strawberry plants for next year right away. That's the advice of Harry K. Bell, extension small fruits specialist at Michigan State University.

Last summer's hot dry weather killed many plants in nurseries, Bell reports. As a result, he advises Michigan strawberry growers to order now to be sure of getting all the plants they need for next year.

The shortage of plants will be particularly noticeable in the newer varieties, Bell warns.

Another Balloon Found From Illinois Children's Home

Another of the thousands of toy balloons released at Addison, Ill., Sept. 11 in a balloon race sponsored by the Lutheran Child Welfare Association was found in this area last Friday. This is the third one reported here, one having been found on the Robert Heller farm Sept. 13 and the other on the Julius Kees property Oct. 18.

The one found last Friday was located by Derrell Kniss, predatory animal control officer for the Michigan Department of Conservation. He found the deflated balloon attached to its identifying card in Section 26, Lyndon township. The card mentioned that the balloon had been released on behalf of the William Juhl, one of the children receiving care from the Lutheran Child Welfare Association.

The child whose balloon went the farthest was to get a prize, it was announced after the first one was found here in September.

It's been estimated that the value of white pine lumber cut in Michigan exceeds by 10 times all the gold ever taken out of Alaska and triples the value of all the gold dug in California.

Survival Is Not All

Tremendous gains have been made over the years in the skill and knowledge of the medical profession. Curing disease, accomplishing surgical miracles, and the discovery of new drugs can be classed as one of the wonders of the world.

But survival is not all. Even though broken bodies can be mended and diseases cured, what about the broken spirits and mental anguish caused by financial strain due to accident and illness? You and I have seen it time and again.

My Company, Woodmen Accident, has been furnishing protection against financial losses due to accident and sickness for 64 years. Such protection for you or your family costs only pennies a day! Let's talk it over.

Mysterious Virus Disease in Michigan Deer Herd Has Apparently Died Out

Lansing.—Michigan's mysterious deer killer—believed to be a virus disease—appears to have died off itself after taking a toll of several hundred whitetails.

Conservation Department game specialists said the deaths apparently reached their peak in early September and only a few have been reported this month.

About 110 dead or dying deer were reported in a five-county area, with Manistee county as the hub of the area. Another 20 deaths were reported in Midland and Saginaw counties.

The known number of dead deer indicated the losses numbered several hundred.

Conservation Department officials said no reports have been received that livestock or other domestic animals were affected by the malady.

Death came almost immediately to deer which contracted the disease, lessening any possibility that hunters might shoot a sick deer during the firearm hunting season.

Examination of dead deer indicated a virus infection probably caused the deaths. Earlier reports that deer had been poisoned by eating wilted cherry leaves were discounted by tests conducted at the Houghton Lake wildlife station.

An outbreak on deer death in the state of New Jersey last month reportedly reached several hundred and was diagnosed as a "virus infection" by authorities at the Rockefeller Institute of medical research.

A similar problem cropped up in Michigan two years ago when hundreds of deer died mysteriously.

Study of Art Cited As Necessary for Good Education

All ideally educated men and women need to have included in their training some study of art.

Prof. Howard Church, head of the Michigan State University art department, explains why in an article in the MSU alumni magazine.

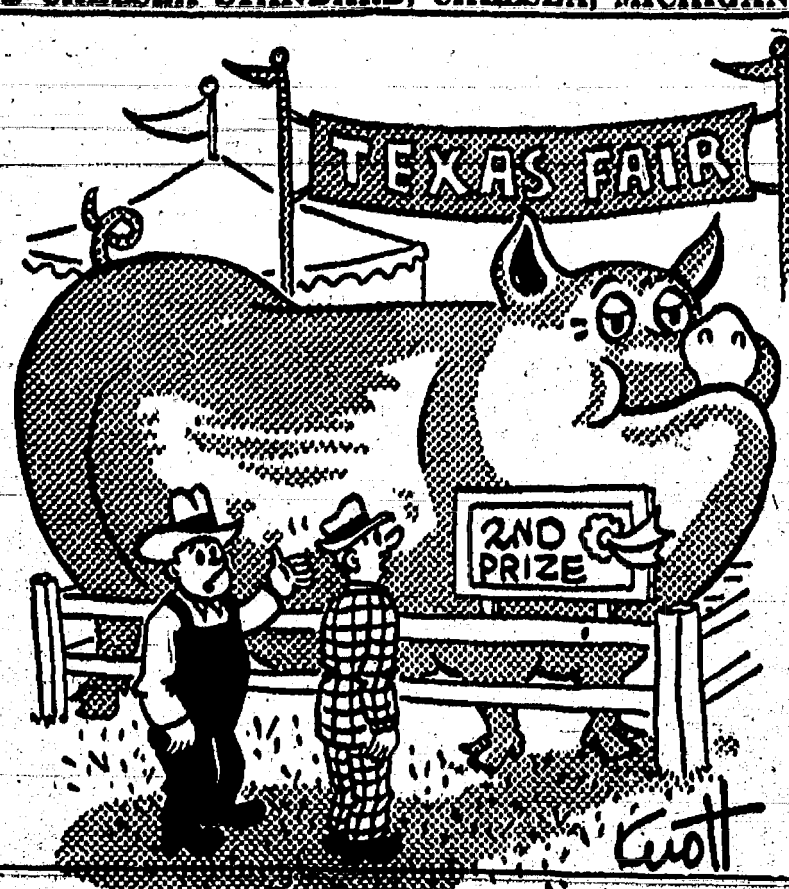

"Through art we become respectful of the new, the strange and the different, not only in artistic expression, but in all phases of life," he says.

"Art study gives purpose to our emotional and intellectual potentialities. A knowledge of the universality of the basic formal components of artistic expression makes for a better understanding of our own and other cultures."

Today's artist, like the scientist, pursues an uncharted course faced with baffling forms of abstract reality and deeper meanings beneath everyday experience, the article changes in newer artistic forms puts a burden on the observer "to forsake the familiar passive, visual experience which merely absorbs beauty or revels in content, challenges all who will adopt the role of active participant."

The study of the art of any kind is to study mankind, Prof. Church concludes, since art provides valid and revealing evidence of the infinite forces and intimate thoughts of man from prehistoric to present times.

"Wait until you see the one that won first prize."

New Fur-Like Fabrics Need Care Due Real Fur

Fur-like fabrics seen in so many of the new fall and winter coats are really orlon-dynel pile materials.

The fabric, which is on some yard goods counters, resembles sheared beaver or a high quality mouton, describes Bernette Kahabka, clothing specialist at Michigan State University. But it is entirely new and is not intended to be a substitute for fur, she declares.

The coats are available in full-length and 3/4-length and shortie styles and come in color tones of beige, grey, brown and black. There are two types of fur-like fabrics in the orlon-dynel combination, explains Miss Kahabka. One has a knitted back, the other a woven back. The pile of the knitted back fabric is 65 per cent orlon and 35 per cent dynel, and the backing is 100 per cent dynel.

Miss Kahabka describes the material as strikingly different, with a deep-rich pile and very light in weight. Because of dynel's extreme sensitivity to heat, the fabric should receive special care. She suggests that when such a garment is taken to be cleaned, the dry cleaner should be told the fiber content.

Another precaution given by the Michigan State extension specialist is not to brush or try to smooth the pile of the fur-like fabric when it is wet or damp.

Correct Stitch Size Varies with New Synthetic Fabrics

A stitch in time can save nine. But the length of that stitch is important and should be adjusted to the thickness and texture of the fabric.

Florence Rann, extension clothing specialist, points out that her experience in sewing on synthetic materials has led her to set her machine for shorter stitching and loosened tension. This makes for stronger seams and greater beauty to the stitching line, she says.

The Michigan State University specialist explains that this idea is in contrast to sewing on man-made fabrics when they first came on the market. Then women were advised to lengthen the machine stitch for best results and to help avoid puckering of the seam line. But, contends Miss Rann, the smaller stitches seem to blend into the fabric.

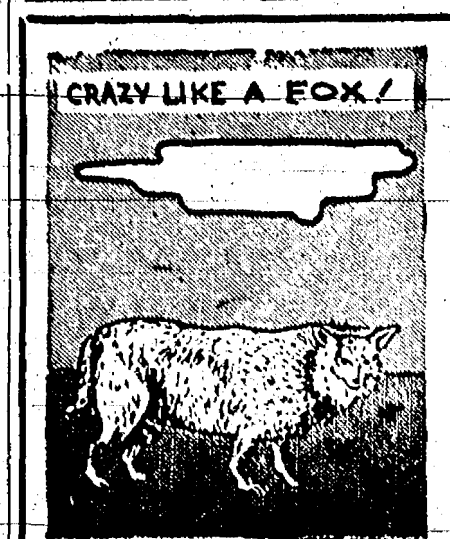

On lightweight fabrics, sheers or tricot knits, she likes to use 16 to 18 stitches to the inch. On medium weight fabrics, such as challis jersey and crepe, 12 to 16 stitches per inch is about right. And deep pile fabrics like fleeces and upholstery types, require 10-12 stitches per inch.

On stretchy fabrics like knitted goods and crepes, Miss Rann suggests a light tension and short stitches. This will allow seams to stretch with the material and not break. The same adjustment can be used for bias or semi-bias seam lines which must stretch when worn, such as sleeve and blouse underarm seams and long bias skirt seams.

"Actually," Miss Rann adds, "short stitches put more thread length into the seams than long stitches."

To bring honey which may have crystallized back to the liquid form, Michigan State University food specialists suggest placing the container in a pan of warm water until the crystals disappear. If further heating is necessary, get the container of honey on a rack off the bottom of the pan and set the pan over a low heat. Too much heat may cause flavor and color change in honey.

Apples that rate "excellent" for use in pies are: Jonathan, Northern Spy, Rhode Island Greening and Stayman Winesap.

Political embarrassments to Gov. Williams in the past year have created the first worry lines on the Democratic facade since he took office in 1949.

Some have been accidents, others have been the eruption of growing crises and still others were contrived by his political enemies.

A new factor is the responsibility Williams must assume for fellow Democrats in office.

Time was when the governor had a capitol full of Republicans he could attack as will. One Democrat, following the 1954 election, quipped:

"It's a tragedy. We don't have enemies any more and our targets are gone."

Contained in that statement is the irony of political success. Williams obtained a full slate of elective offices in the triumphant sweep in 1954, but he also got the responsibilities.

His latest embarrassment was the spectacle of his secretary of state, James M. Hare, ordering his attorney general, Thomas M. Kavanagh, to take a new driver's license examination.

The details are well-known, but whether the episode of an attorney general—the chief law enforcement officer in the state—being told to ignore a traffic summons by an enthusiastic underling in Hare's office, will hurt Williams, only 1958 will tell.

The original disclosure about Kavanagh's driving record came from Sheriff Ferris E. Lucas, in St. Clair county, conveniently a Republican.

Lucas wasn't especially interested in embarrassing Williams, but was concerned because Hare was proposing that driver licensing be taken away from the sheriffs and turned over to a state system of driver examiners.

Lucas, secretary of the Michigan Sheriff's Association, displayed a shrewdness in politics far above that of local office.

There was also difficulty in the case of Dr. Julien D. Feller, of Flint.

Feller was a member of the State Board of Examiners in Optometry, appointed by Williams, who was working with State Police and attorney general investigators to trap a bribe-giver.

Feller, for reasons of his own, concealed a $500 payment from Benjamin D. Ritholz of Chicago, an optical manufacturer. When Williams found out, Feller was suspended, then fired.

Williams was obviously angry at Feller and distraught at the situation when Feller was ousted. Mistakes by appointive officers are understandable, but when the public starts shooting it all becomes a reflection on Williams' judgement in appointing the officer in the first place.

The governor, normally careful and discreet in his public announcements, is still getting reactions to this Eisenhower "too old" episode in Chicago last summer.

There is evidence that Williams didn't sound as bad as some Republicans painted the statement, but the effect is the same.

He was almost trapped again at Mackinac Island into stating that Mayor Cobo, of Detroit, was too old to become a candidate for governor on the Republican ticket.

When he realized what was happening, he came out with a statement denying everything.

Paul Weber, Williams' press secretary, was credited with the now-familiar statement he said he would hold in readiness if Williams ever again were trapped into a statement embarrassing to himself or the Democrats.

"We must all leave immediately. The joint is afire and there isn't a second to lose."

Republicans have charged that state officials are holding back information from the legislature so that Williams can announce it with all the fanfare of his office.

The rubab, which developed when he was invited to speak at a segregated political gathering in the south was embarrassing to a governor whose state was just giving birth to FEPC.

Organization of a group of CIO workers in Washington county as "Republican Labor Organization" is a delicate subject.

There have been others, most of them inevitable with the law of averages being what it is.

Williams was elected to his fourth term, eight years as Democratic governor in a Republican state.

Now the question remains: What will Williams do in 1958?

The experts say that his refusal to go into the south and appease the militant segregationists hurt his chances on a national scale and they are looking for him to run for a fifth term as governor.

Some are going a step farther: that Williams will try for another term, then go against Senator Potter in 1958.

Williams isn't talking, waiting for the shifting political winds to change again.

Michigan is the only state which permits a manufacturer the option of paying personal property tax on either the inventory value as of December 31, or on the average value throughout the year.

Suomi College at Hancock, Michigan, is the only Finnish-American institution of higher learning in the United States.

Best Buick yet

When better automobiles are built Buick will build them

IT COMES upon the heels of the most successful Buick in history—and beats it on every score.

In shimmering steel and solid sinew, it's Buick for 1956—and there's never been anything like it for pure automobile.

You get a good hint of what we mean when you take in the sweep-ahead styling of it—from the air-splitting prow of its V-front grille to the robust rake of its canted rear profile.

You get an even better hint when you open the doors and see the dazzle there—in the decorator fabrics and décors—in the jewel-like finish of the fittings—in the precisely shaped steering wheel and controls—in the rich new instrument panel with soft-padded top and glowing dials that detail your progress in changing colors.

But it's when you put this beauty to the city streets and the open highways that you learn the best of it.

Diabetes Death Rate In State Reported Higher Than Average

Among the five leading causes of death in Michigan, diabetes is the only disease with a Michigan death rate which is higher than the rate for the country as a whole, the Michigan Department of Health said today.

Health authorities said that Michigan's diabetes death rate in 1954 was 20.9 deaths per thousand population, considerably higher than the estimated rate for the nation which stood at 15.4.

Reporting 1,409 diabetes deaths in Michigan last year, the department pointed to excessive thirst, loss of weight, continual hunger and frequent urination as most common symptoms of the disease. Health officials cautioned that you are more likely to develop the condition if there is a history of diabetes in your family.

Studies cited also show that the disease occurs more often among people over 40 years of age. The rate of diabetes, the department noted, "the disease often can be found even before symptoms occur through tests of the blood and urine which can be made by your doctor."

Including production of sand and gravel, Michigan has mineral industries in all but 4 of its 83 counties.

You know you should be proud to serve on a jury, even though something tells you it might be a thankless chore.

You and I talk a lot about the American way of life, and about our freedoms, and the laws and courts that protect those freedoms. Yet, but offer us a chance to back up that talk with some down-to-earth action, and too often it's a different story.

Call a primary election and three-quarters of us don't even bother to help select the right man to run for office. As a general election, maybe half of us stop in at a voting booth (gripping some and loud too late, about the calibre of the candidates). Ask an honest, able citizen to take his share of jury duty and right away some of the strangest excuses pop up you've ever heard. And jury service is right up there with voting in at a voting booth (gripping some and loud too late, about the calibre of the candidates). Ask an honest, able citizen to take his share of jury duty and right away some of the strangest excuses pop up you've ever heard. And jury service is right up there with voting in at a voting booth (gripping some and loud too late, about the calibre of the candidates).

We have a double court system, with federal and state courts working side by side on two different levels. This creates quite a demand. So, if you're 21 years old, an American citizen with a good record, and (for Michigan courts) you're on the local tax assessment rolls, your name's liable to be pulled out of the box some day. Qualifications for federal jurors are very similar. The process in either case is simply a form of lottery, with names drawn by court officials from a list of eligible persons.

When that happens, you're officially summoned to report for the next session of court. If you don't duck it, you'll find you're in for some interesting and satisfying service. In fact, you'll discover that your job as a juror is just as important as the judge's in our method of seeing that justice is done.

Some people still act like it's an imposition to be called away from their everyday affairs to help in trying a lawsuit or criminal case, but in the United States we expect folks to pitch in to give everyone a fair deal in his day at court. This judge may preside, guide, and interpret the law, but it's the jury that makes the decision. I saw a magazine article which quotes a U. S. Supreme Court opinion this way:

"Twelve men of the average of the community, compiling a list of little education, men of learning and men whose learning consists only in what they have themselves seen and heard; the merchant, the mechanic, the farmer, and the laborer; these sit together, consult, apply their separate experience of the affairs of life to the facts proven and draw a unanimous conclusion. It is assumed that 12 men know more of the common affairs of life than does one man, that they can draw wiser and safer conclusions from admitted facts thus occurring, than can a single juror. That's about the size of it, and you can substitute men and women where it says 'men' because women are just as eligible when jurors' names are drawn. Each prospective juror is questioned carefully to make sure he or she is not biased, and that those who don't qualify, the lawyer for each side of the case has the right to reject a number of others without giving specific reason. You don't have to be an amateur detective to be a juror. As a matter of fact, you're not allowed to make your own investigation. All the necessary facts are presented in the courtroom, according to a strict set of rules. That's the job of the lawyers and the judge. But once the lawyers have finished with their witness and summed up all the pros and cons, the judge has told you the finer points of the law involved, and you and all of your fellow-citizens are on your own. You all must agree on a verdict without reservations or "reasonable doubts". Believe me, once you've served on a jury, you'll have even greater respect for the American concept of "justice for all."

THE IRRESPONSIBLE "SPORTSMAN"

Roaming unmolested among the ranks of the hundreds of thousands of legitimate sportsmen of Michigan is a minority group of renegade outlaws guilty of fish and game law violations of every description: vandalism, malicious and deliberate destruction of public and private property, littering highways and byways with trash, and assorted misdemeanors having direct and disastrous bearing on future hunting, fishing and recreation in your land and mine.

That's a long sentence carrying a serious charge. To bring the culprit to justice you and I constitute the policeman, judge and jury, and unless we accept the responsibility the situation will continue to grow steadily worse. There aren't enough law enforcement officers in the field to begin to do the job of apprehending the offenders. Time and again you and I have witnessed willful violations of our fish and game laws, and have asked angrily, "Where are all the conservation officers? Why doesn't somebody teach these guys a lesson?" The truth of the matter is just this: in a state the size of Michigan with hunters and fishermen scattered over virtually the entire area, a law enforcement staff of 5000 men would still leave thousands of square miles untended. So what's the answer? It's up to the honest and responsible sportsman to step in and go to work.

The Logical Approach
We have two courses we may follow to curb the violator we catch in the act. The "gentle" approach calls for friendly and reasonable conversation with the culprit in an effort to shame him from further violation. Your personal criticism and indictment of the act you've witnessed can arouse an "exiled" feeling distasteful to most "sportsmen," and therefore effective. If this draws nothing but a snarl and the usually profane warning to mind your own business it's your duty to make an effort to identify the party, by the back tag, or perhaps by the license number of his car. You must then swear out a complaint against the violator and appear later as witness in the case.

You aren't that kind of a guy? Then you aren't the kind of a guy that cares enough about the future of hunting and fishing in Michigan Outdoors—and the future can creep up on us mighty fast!

Think it over!

Survey Shows Age Group Determines Clothes Expenditure

Whether women spend more for clothing than their husbands depends generally on their age bracket.

Usually, explains Dr. Elisabeth Wiegand, of the home management staff at Michigan State University, the number of clothes bought by adults decreases as they get older.

For the husbands and wives under 30, the clothing for the Mrs. is responsible for the larger share of the clothing dollar. In the 30 to 39-year-old bracket, both men and women are at their maximum spending for clothing, with the money spent for feminine frills still a little ahead of that spent on men.

But Dr. Wiegand says in the 40 to 49-year-old group both husbands and wives have tapered off in amount spent for clothing and both of them spend the same. From 50 and up studies show that men tend to spend somewhat more than their wives for clothing.

These figures, which came from a survey done in Minnesota by the Bureau of Human Nutrition and Home Economics, go hand in hand with those telling the relationship of money spent for clothing to size of income. Results show that for families with a yearly income of $1,000 or less, about $40 was spent for husband's clothing and $47 for wives. Jumping to the 3 to 6 thousand dollar income bracket, about $111 was spent for Mr. and $120 for the Mrs. of the family.

Dr. Wiegand adds, that of the $21 spent per year for the average family, the largest expenditure is for the girl of the family in the 12 to 15-year-old bracket. She spends $121. Girls 2 to 5 years old account for the smallest amount, $38.
