County Polio Drive Starts Tonight with 'Kick-off' Dinner

Campaign Workers, Local Government Officials Invited

More than 100 Washtenaw county March of Dimes campaigners have been invited to a kick-off dinner for the January drive at 6:30 p.m. today at the Local Order of Moose Lodge, 380 South Maple, Ann Arbor.

All mayors in the county have been invited to attend, together with representatives of business, labor and the medical profession. Featured speaker will be Dr. David Dickinson, medical director of the polio respirator center at University Hospital.

Those invited to attend from this vicinity include Village President Anton Nielsen, Walter P. Leonard, publisher of The Chelsea Standard, Mrs. Norman Ratcliffe and Mrs. Charles Popovich, March of Dimes co-chairmen; Mr. and Mrs. George Winchester, E. M. Beach, Mrs. Jack Wellnitz, Mrs. Homer Kuhl, two teen-agers working on the drive who remain to be selected; Mrs. James Cady and Mrs. Paul Boehler, Freedom township chairman; Mrs. Carroll Ordway, Lima township chairman; and Mrs. Mary Clark, Lyndon township chairman.

Donated by the Moose Lodge, the dinner will mark the formal opening of the county-wide campaign to raise $46,900 for polio prevention, research and rehabilitation. The drive runs through Jan. 31.

Dr. Dickinson will use case histories of respirator center patients to show how individuals once wholly dependent on the iron lung can now be restored, in many instances to happy, productive lives. His talk will be illustrated with color slides.

The respirator center was established at University Hospital in 1951. It is one of 15 such centers throughout the nation supported by the March of Dimes. In five years, the University Hospital unit alone has enabled nearly 150 polio patients once bedridden in hospitals to return to their homes and enjoy a more normal life.

Studies conducted by the center show that the medical expenses of persons who have returned home after treatment at the center have been reduced from more than $30 per day to an average of about $2.50 per day.

Sgt. Katopodis Quits Sheriff's Dept. For City Position

Gregory S. Katopodis, a detective sergeant with the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department for the past seven years, resigned Friday to accept a similar position with the Ann Arbor Police Department.

Sheriff Erwin L. Klager announced that Deputy Roy Tice of the uniformed division will succeed Katopodis in the Detective Bureau.

Tice is a veteran of more than 21 years service with the Army, Marines and National Guard.

He served a hitch with the Marine Corps from 1926 through 1930 and during World War II was in command of a prisoner-of-war compound.

He left the Army in 1945 with the rank of lieutenant-colonel and in 1946-47 worked as area organizer in the state-wide reorganization of the Michigan National Guard.

The resignation of Katopodis became effective Monday night and Tice took over his new duties yesterday.

Deer Hunters Asked To Supply Needed Information

Lansing—Some 16,000 Michigan hunters are being asked to supply deer hunting information in the Conservation Department's annual postcard survey of hunting activity and success.

Questionnaires designed to gather information on the 1956 special seasons were mailed to more than 6,000 deer hunters in early December. About two-thirds of the postcard replies from this mailing had been received by the Department by Dec. 28. Reminder cards, urging prompt replies, were mailed to hunters who had not answered.

Another 10,000 questionnaires will be sent out during the next few weeks to a different group of hunters, seeking information on the regular deer season.

In this survey, a statistically-based cross-section of hunters are asked about their hunting success—or lack of it—and hunting activity. Data obtained in the survey provides a close estimate of the total kill, hunting distribution and other basic information used in establishing hunting regulations and in other aspects of deer herd management.

Under the present system, every 40th hunter on license lists is contacted in the regular season survey. The high rate of cooperation among hunters—as many as 98 per cent respond—adds in the poll's accuracy.

Results of the poll won't be known until early spring, after all replies are received and processed.

In addition to chairman Creal, executive board members present will include Mrs. Gordon Gable of Ypsilanti, vice-chairman and her husband, Mrs. Ruth Milford of Ypsilanti, second vice-chairman; and Mrs. Patricia Newkirk Hardy, secretary of the county committee executive board.

John Popovich, general chairman of the Youth Center project (second from left) said thanks are due "all the wonderful people of this community for their help and donations" which made the Center possible. With Popovich in the picture are some of the Jaycees Youth Center committee. At left, seated, is Ron Eder and next to Popovich is Norman Ratcliffe. Nation Has Achieved Record Heights in '56 Business Life

Detroit — The nation has achieved new high levels of economic activity in 1956, and the impetus can be expected to carry business along at a high rate for at least the first few months of the coming year, Ernest G. Swigert, 1957 president of the National Association of Manufacturers, said today in a year-end business forecast.

Swigert, who is president of the Hyster Company, Portland, Ore., said that the business outlook for the rest of 1957, and beyond, is somewhat clouded by two factors—rising production costs and the fact that profits have not shared in the economic advance seen on other fronts. It is noteworthy, he said, that while taxes and dividends have both gone up 14 per cent, earnings retained in business have gone down 28 per cent.

Highlights of Swigert's year-end business analysis follow: Total economic activity—the gross national product—will show for 1956 a five-and-one-half per cent increase over 1955 or from $391 billion to a record $412 billion.

Total personal income for the year as a whole is up 6 1/2 per cent, from $300 to $326 billion. Prices were forced slightly—the Consumer Price Index will probably be up about two per cent.

Business spending for plant and equipment has been called the "economic multiplier," since its effects in stimulating the economy are more far-reaching than ordinary consumer spending.

It should be noted that not all of our new economic records are solid gains. Approximately one-half of the increase in gross national product over 1955 probably was due to the gradually rising price level.

The actual gain in physical output of industry—according to the Federal index—shows for 1956 a percentage gain of only about three per cent.

Thus to some extent our record prosperity of this year bears an inflationary stigma.

In order to have prosperity and high employment on a sound basis, we must avoid a repetition of the wage-price spiral that intensified the postwar inflation; we must continue the fight for governmental economy and a stable dollar; and we must take steps to reduce the high and discriminatory taxes that drain off vast amounts of potential investment for industry.

NATIVITY SCENE AT METHODIST HOME—The Nativity scene at the Methodist Home, together with the large lighted tree behind it, was one of the highlights of the holiday season here. Many people drove by or stopped for a better view of the decorative arrangement. Inside the Home another Christmas scene was set up for the pleasure of residents and visitors. Arranged as a Christmas village, the display includes replicas of churches and houses made over the past five years by Charles Maass, retired Detroit architect who now resides at the Home. He was assisted in constructing the miniature buildings by Leonard Hendee and Charles Thomas, also residents at the Home. The inside scene was located in the lounge.

Free Trees, Shrubs Offered Farmers To Improve Game Cover

Washtenaw county farmers and others living along highway M-20 should get now to take advantage of the spring "game habitat improvement program" of the Michigan Conservation Department. Urges Donald R. Johnson, County Agricultural Agent.

According to the Agent, seedling trees and shrubs are offered without cost to landowners wishing to improve their farms for wildlife. The seedlings include pine, spruce, nut trees and a variety of shrubs.

Recommendations generally tie in with existing farm program and good soil and water conservation practices.

Tree and shrub plantings may be suggested for eroded hillides, gullies, pond or marsh borders, woodlots edges and for windbreaks.

While growing, the trees and shrubs will provide food and cover for wildlife and at the same time aid in conserving soil and water.

Interested farmers living south of highway M-20 can get additional information on the "game habitat improvement program" by writing to the Game Division, Michigan Conservation Department, Lansing-26.

BUTTER-FINGERED BURGLAR
Omaha, Neb. — It must have been a butter-fingered burglar who recently broke into a packing company here. The burglar slashed his hands on broken glass; jammed a door only to find it led to an outside loading dock; tried again and tried two padlocks free to find they guarded a cooler door; found a quart of beef too heavy to carry and settled for a small piece of beef cut from the quarter, which was of the very poorest grade.

U. S. PAY ROLLS
The cost of Government civilian employment rose above the $100,000,000 mark to $101,000,000 in the fiscal year which ended on last June 30, according to Senator Byrd, chairman of the Senate-House Committee on Reduction of Nonessential Federal Expenditures. This figure eclipsed the previous peak of $98,000,000 recorded in 1953 and was nearly a billion dollars above the fiscal 1955 total of $92,000,000. Higher pay scales voted by Congress over the years account for much of the rise, according to Byrd.

More Questions, Answer Time at Farmers' Week

Visitors to the 1957 Farmer's Week at Michigan State University will be able to use their time efficiently in learning the latest tips and views on farm production, marketing and many other subjects.

The event will be held from Jan. 28 through Feb. 1 on the MSU campus at East Lansing.

General sessions lasting about a half-hour will begin at 1 p.m. on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. In all other sessions, extension and research specialists from the University will speak about and answer questions on current problems and developments in agriculture.

At Thursday's general session, three outstanding leaders of Michigan agriculture will receive a "Distinguished Service to Agriculture" award.

These leaders are Stanley M. Powell, Ionia, who is legislative representative for the Michigan Farm Bureau and a member of the executive committee of the Michigan State Grange; Harry E. Rohlf, Akron, certified seed grower and active in many agricultural organizations; and Erich Kerlikowski, Coloma, fruit grower who has been a leader in many Michigan horticultural groups.

John A. Hannah, president of MSU, will preside at the Thursday session and Gov. G. Mennen Williams will deliver the main address.

At the general sessions on Tuesday and Wednesday, the theme of Farmers' Week, "Blueprint for Tomorrow's Agriculture," will be dramatized in a special program. All programs during the week will be built around that theme as a joint effort with the plans recently developed by the state's farm organizations to make Michigan agriculture one of the most progressive and prosperous in the nation.

Visitors will be able to buy a hot lunch in the new Anthony Hall during each noon hour before attending the general sessions in the building's auditorium.

In a new animal husbandry presentation, MSU specialists will demonstrate how to judge carcass desirability of beef cattle and hogs through on-foot appearance.

Many departmental exhibits will be displayed in Macklin stadium and the auditorium visitors will also have a chance to inspect the university's livestock facilities.

Burgs Ask To Be Eliminated in '57 Lighting Contest

The J. V. Burgs said they "were very pleased" that the judges in the Christmas lighting contest awarded them first prize for their house decorations. The contest was sponsored by the Chelsea Chamber of Commerce.

The Burgs explained that they expect to use the same pattern of decorating next year but will ask to be eliminated as contestants since they feel it would not be fair to compete again with the same design.

It took many hours of work to complete the beautiful effect. Two large blue spruce trees, 35 feet tall, helped frame the picture created by means of the house decorations which featured a lighted doorway outlined with greens and colored lights with a three-foot lighted star above the entrance. The architectural lines of the entire front of the house were emphasized by stringing red and blue lights symmetrically the length of the building.

Three picture windows were outlined with matching red and blue lights with an individual lighted arrangement in the center of each. With the house set well back on the grounds, the over-all effect was striking when viewed in its entirety from the road.

Bubby Schwieger returned home Friday from Foote hospital, Jackson, where he underwent a tonsillectomy.

Douglas Doll of Detroit, is spending this week here having come to Chelsea Monday afternoon with his grandmother, Mrs. Albert Doll, Mrs. who had spent the past two weeks in Detroit.

Dorothy Jean Gullett, Ronald Sheeks Speak Vows Saturday

Dorothy Jean Gullett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Gullett of McKinley street, and Ronald K. Sheeks of Ann Arbor, were married at 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon in the Methodist church, with the Rev. S. D. Kinde officiating. The bridegroom is a son of Mrs. E. L. Greene of Riviera Beach, Fla., and Haskell Sheeks of White Lake.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length gown of imported nylon tulle and a chintilly lace. Her finger-length veil of French illusion was held in place with a headpiece trimmed with seed pearls and iridescent sequins. Her bouquet was of white carnations.

Doris Woods, as maid of honor, wore a costume of pale pink lace with a matching headpiece. She carried blue and white carnations. Carol Adkins served as a bridesmaid. She wore pale blue lace and carried pink and white carnations. Her headpiece matched her gown.

The bridegroom was assisted by Ted Zimmer of Ann Arbor as best man, his father as groomsmen, and his brother, Larry Greene of Riviera Beach, Fla., and Carl Gullett, brother of the bride as ushers.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the church social center and later, open house was held at the home of the bride's parents.

At the reception Mrs. Albert Woods, Mrs. Ott Risner and Mrs. Jesse Fletcher assisted in serving refreshments. Others who assisted included Mrs. Homer Conley who poured punch, Mrs. Victor Hanson who cut the cake, and Mrs. David Ball, in charge of the guest book.

Mr. and Mrs. Sheeks are now at home at 181 West Middle street.

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald K. Sheeks

Clothes for the "lady-in-waiting" is being given more attention by designers today than ever before. This is due to the trend in America to larger families. The modern woman will not put up with several months of wearing unbefitting, ugly clothes.

Maternity dresses are being fashioned with all the care and thought that goes into creating any ball gown. The results are wonderful. Designers have learned that any trick to draw attention to the face of the mother-to-be is a great help. Flattering necklines and unusual sleeves are the order of the day.

Rich and eye-catching fabric is also employed. Skirts are made to hang as they should and at the same time are comfortable.

Maternity clothes for all occasions are offered. Play clothes are no exception. The maternity bathing suit is a wonder and enables one to enjoy swimming for several months longer than ever dreamed possible. Shorts, slacks, unisex dresses and sweaters are designed for this special occasion.

Because of the short time maternity clothes are worn, they are available at moderate prices, considering the extra amount of material necessary and the extra amount of cutting detail necessary. This is indeed a wonder of our age.

Foundation garments and bras give gentle support and are the order of the day. Almost all of the large foundation companies have their own line of maternity garments. It is wise to consult your doctor before buying a maternity garment. Even then it should be tried by someone trained in this art.

There was a time when comfort was the least considered element of fashion. However, designers have come to realize that, when lady is not comfortable and relaxed in her clothes, it is impossible for her to look her best. Naturally, the first item of clothing to be considered is a properly fitted foundation garment. There are so many styles and designs on the market that there is no excuse for being uncomfortable in bras, girdles or even corselettes. Keep trying until you find the one designed with your type of figure in mind.

The requirements of a young girl of sixteen and a mature woman of forty are not the same. Corselettes found in fine stores are a boon to the mature woman. Girdles of nylon elastic, they are tough and strong but, at the same time, light, cool and comfortable. The corselette will be more expensive than the girdle bought for a young girl, but is probably the most important single piece of clothing to be chosen. It is just what the name implies, the foundation for your other clothes.

Not only have foundation clothes been made more comfortable through the years but street clothes, play clothes and evening clothes, as well. Top designers have tried, in recent years, to put over uncomfortable designs as high style, only to find that American women will not accept them. They should be considered a feather in our caps.

Americans are living in the open more and more. The newer houses have a covered porch or uncovered terrace instead of a front porch. For this reason, more women are learning what a pleasure it is to work in the garden and are making the terrace a part of the garden.

The outdoor terrace or porch should have two essentials: be harmonious with the house and not try to compete with nearby flowers or shrubs. It should be a complement to them and a link between the house and the garden. From a functional standpoint, it should be comfortable.

Outdoor furniture is best done in solid colors or a stripe. Chairs and couches should be of the lounge sort, comfortable and easily moved about.

It is very important for outdoor furniture to be weather-resistant. For when furniture becomes a burden, the terrace is no longer the pleasure it should be.

Weather-resistant furniture is made from metal painted, certain types of reed or fiber, hickory, painted wood and redwood. Fibers which grow in marshy places are fine for furniture exposed to dampness.

Colors and fabrics must be chosen with attention to the color of the house itself. This is particularly true if your house is of brick. Wicker in a natural color and blue or yellow go quite well with almost all shades of brick. Almost any bright color goes well with a white brick or clapboard house except white, which does not show up well enough. Fabrics should be durable ones such as: sailcloth, cotton twills, cretonne or any number of the water-proof fabrics.

Furniture on wheels is becoming quite popular and is certainly to be recommended. The barbecue grill on wheels is convenient and just as functional, some say more, as the chimney-type built of brick or stone.

Survives 12,000 Volts
Alameda, Calif. — Although a 12,000 volt power cable burned off John D. Banks' left leg at the knee, Banks survived the shock, but was taken to the hospital in a critical condition. Banks, together with several other electricians, had worked all day clearing out old equipment in the municipal power plant. They had stepped over a power line which all believed to be dead. When Banks stepped on it there was a flashing explosion and his clothing blazed into flames, which fellow workers put out with a fire extinguisher.

New Daily Food Plan Stresses Four Major Groups

Tired of planning three meals a day on the same old pattern? Then try a new daily food plan, suggest Michigan State University food specialists.

The plan stresses four major food groups. By choosing the recommended number and size of servings from the four groups, you can provide at least three-fourths of the daily allowance of essential food nutrients for the average adult. But, the plan provides only a little over half the needed calories. By wisely selecting supplemental foods and servings to round out the skeleton diet, you can provide your family with their daily food essentials.

The milk group (group one) is counted on primarily for calcium. Some milk or cheese or ice cream is needed daily, two or more cups of milk for adults and larger amounts for children and pregnant and nursing women. Milk also provides protein, riboflavin, vitamin A and vitamin D.

In the second group, the chief protein source, is included two or more servings a day of meat, poultry, fish or eggs with dry beans and peas and nuts as alternates. These give about half the day's protein requirements; the rest comes from milk, bread and cereals.

Vegetables and fruits comprise group three. Two or more servings a day, everyone needs, should include: a vitamin A-rich, dark green or deep yellow vegetable at least every other day; a citrus fruit or other fruit or vegetable important for vitamin C daily; and other fruits and vegetables, including potatoes.

One need not alternate between citrus fruits and tomatoes to supply vitamin C; sweet peppers, cantaloupe, broccoli, strawberries and many of the dark green, leafy vegetables can be substituted.

Breads and cereals, group four, contribute worthwhile amounts of many nutrients and food energy at low cost. Nutritionists recommend four or more servings a day of whole-grain, enriched or rye, stored cereals or bread. Other commonly used foods, such as butter and other fats, oils, sugars, syrups and unenriched, refined cereal products play a part in meals, too. These add satisfaction and variety to the day's diet.

Details of the new food plan are explained in a new U. S. Department of Agriculture publication, "Essentials of an Adequate Diet." Single copies are available from the Office of Information, U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D. C.

How Valuable Is
Local Newspaper Advertising
To Local Business People?

Here's What the American Bankers Magazine
Has To Say:

"No business man or woman in any town should allow a newspaper to go to press without his or her name and business being mentioned somewhere in its columns. This does not mean you should have a whole, half, or even a quarter page advertisement in each issue of the paper, but your name and address should be mentioned, if you do not use more than several inches of space.

"A stranger picking up a newspaper should be able to tell what business is represented in a town... it's the best possible town advertiser. The man or woman who does not advertise does an injustice to himself or herself and definitely to the town."

Macomber, Erke & Sons

A special report of the Holstein-Friesian Association of America, Brattleboro, Vt. has announced the completion of official production records by registered Holstein cows in the herds of George Macomber and of George Erke and Sons in this area.

Macomber's Rustic Ideal Lena Okema 3074911, milked twice daily for 322 days, produced a total of 16,778 lbs. of milk and 602 lbs. of butterfat as a 6-year-old.

The Erkes' cow, Ormsby Princess Maxine 3430446, milked twice daily for 291 days, produced a total of 14,952 lbs. of milk and 516 lbs. of butterfat as a 6-year-old.

Michigan State University supervised the weighing and testing of these records which compare with an annual production of only 5,815 lbs. of milk and 224 lbs. of butterfat by the average U. S. cow.

Liability Insurance Protects in Case of Farm Mishap

Accident statistics prove that farming is one of America's most hazardous industries.

What can you do to protect yourself?

Most important, be careful, says Warren Vincent, farm economist at Michigan State University. He emphasizes that insurance cannot prevent accidents or remove the pain of an injury.

In addition, learn about your liability to hired workers and the public from accidents on or near your farm, Vincent advises.

Farmers like other businessmen, must provide safe working conditions for their employees. They might be sued if their negligence contributes to the injury of a hired man. And a law suit can be a heavy financial burden.

Some farmers have protected themselves by taking out Workmen's Compensation Insurance. This insurance brings them under the Michigan Workmen's Compensation act which automatically provides a fair and standard payment to the employee in case of injury or death, Vincent reports.

Premiums for Workmen's Compensation Insurance vary with the employer's payroll. Today, the premium for farmers is $3.28 for every $100 paid to workers either as board and room or as wages. However, the minimum premium for any policy is $50.

Employer's liability insurance is also provided by most private insurance firms in the state. Generally, medical expenses are the only costs which these policies automatically pay.

Along with employers' liability insurance, most companies offer a comprehensive policy covering a wide variety of accidents to farm visitors and to the public.

These policies vary greatly between companies. Because the accidents which they cover are rare, a small increase in premium may extend the coverage to many mishaps on or near the farm.

Portable farm elevators are accident hazards. Use extreme care when moving them to new locations.

REPORT FROM EUROPE:

Travel in Europe Can Get Complicated for Amateurs

By Edward H. Simms
(Foreign Correspondent)

Frankfurt, Germany—Traveling in Europe is an experience that frequently produces the unexpected. So many different countries are often involved in only a short trip — by U. S. standards — that delay, red tape and surprises are almost to be expected.

As an example, the writer recently bought a ticket in Germany for transportation from Amsterdam to London and then to Paris. The travel man in the German tourist office assured me everything had been arranged properly. But when my wife and I arrived in Amsterdam, the KLM people said the German had been misinformed.

We could not fly KLM as the German had arranged our trip. We would have to go back to Paris, and then we could fly KLM, to London, where we wanted to go. Yet we were closer to London in Amsterdam than we would be if we made the tiresome trip back to Paris. We fought it out on that line all summer, it seemed (this was last year), and finally the KLM people relented and we didn't have to fly back to Paris to get on London-bound aircraft. We went to London the simple, sensible way.

Flying from London to Paris or Paris to London is a poor experience. But because of the little stretch of water between Dover and Calais, the trip between these two capitals is a long one. Flying time is roughly one hour in the newer planes making this haul but by the time one clears customs, rides the bus for an hour or more to and from the two airports, and waits for baggage and other delays, he could have driven the distance in a car — were there a bridge.

The train provides an overnight mode of travel, but this entails getting on a train, then riding a boat across the drink during the night (and hoping the sea isn't rough) and then going through the same entry inspections, etc., on entering the country, after which comes another train ride. In short, there is no easy way to get from London to Paris or vice versa.

First-class train service on the continent, or in Great Britain, is something else again. It is first-class by all standards. The trains are smooth — coupling done much more smoothly than in the United States — and they run on time almost always. They are fast and the service is good. They are also clean.

Laying flocks will be more profitable during the year starting Sept. 1937 than in the season just ahead. MSU farm economists advise buying chicks this winter and spring to be ready for this price rise.

While most European locomotives still use coal as fuel, they use a coal which produces a white smoke and which does not shower down the chimneys, soot and dirt that was the trademark of many U. S. coal burners for so long. And the European trains are cleaned more regularly and efficiently.

Even the windows are washed while the train is in operation. At Cologne a few weeks back the window washers appeared alongside as the train stopped to take on passengers, and before it left they had cleaned every window on the passenger coaches. That gave passengers a good view of the Rhine River, which they were following, northward to Germany.

The highways in Europe are not as good as those in the U. S. But in Germany and in some other rare instances, one can get on the new super highways, make good time and thoroughly enjoy himself. These highways are as yet too few, though they are beginning to appear in most of the major countries.

Gasoline is high — and the pinch is doubly acute now that the Suez crisis has cut off the flow of oil from Middle East wells. And this might restrict one's automotive travels, though Americans usually find the short distances between capitals and resorts, and the good mileage European cars get, enough to fully compensate for the high cost of fuel.

The scenery to be enjoyed in an automobile is very beautiful along the Italian and French Mediterranean Sea Coast, and in Spain too, and in Germany — south Germany and the Rhineland, mostly — as well as in Scotland and many parts of England. But a European driver is advisable unless you have an excellent knowledge of the languages you are to encounter and unless you know the regulations and laws of the various countries and will have no trouble getting your license accepted along the way.

A car with a European driver is, by all odds, the first choice of the methods of travel. The price to be paid varies drivers varies greatly, so shop around a little bit if the price first quoted you seems too high. It might be.

Laying flocks will be more profitable during the year starting Sept. 1937 than in the season just ahead. MSU farm economists advise buying chicks this winter and spring to be ready for this price rise.
