Robert Lillie Made County CD Director

Robert E. A. Lillie, of Ann Arbor township, who retired as a lieutenant-colonel after 27 years in the U. S. Marine Corps, was appointed Tuesday by the Board of Supervisors as Washtenaw county's first full-time Civil Defense director.

Until July 1, when he will have completed his senior year of study in electronics in the School of Engineering at the University of Michigan, he will serve as part-time director.

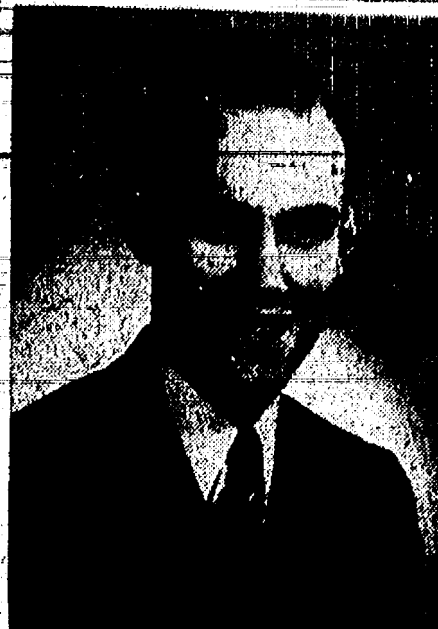

He took office immediately after his appointment following the Board of Supervisors vote of 29-5 over Thomas A. Fitzgerald who had been serving as part-time Civil Defense Director.

Lillie's annual salary will be $5,392, beginning in July and he will receive salary for the time he spends on Civil Defense affairs until then.

Lillie was recommended for the position by Supr. John W. Rae's Civil Defense committee. Rae put Fitzgerald's name before the Board as a recommendation of the Civil Defense Council.

Fitzgerald had told the Council and committee that he was interested in serving as Civil Defense director but that the beginning salary was "too low." Fitzgerald has been an employee of the county for eight years. At one time he was both Civil Defense director and register of deeds.

Lillie was a Marine aviator who served with the Fleet Marine Force in the Pacific and Atlantic. As Civil Defense director, he will be in charge of organizing all service clubs in Washtenaw, enlisting volunteers for Civil Defense work, and organizing the police and sheriff's departments for emergency action.

In response to local requests, Michigan State is offering a course at Chelsea in "Methods of Teaching Reading in the Elementary School." The course, to be taught by William K. Durr, instructor in teacher education of the MSU College of Education, held its organizational meeting Monday, Jan. 7.

The course will grant three term hours of graduate or undergraduate credit. Permission generally to attend the course but not for credit.

Rod-Gun Club Schedules Fox Hunt With Detroit Nimrods

Fifty-four members were present for the January meeting of the Chelsea Rod and Gun club at the Legion Home Tuesday evening. Also present were Charles Ritter, a new member, and Ralph Guenther, a guest.

Plans were announced for the annual Ladies Night dinner, March 6, and for the annual fox hunt in conjunction with Detroit sports clubs.

The fox hunt will be held Feb. 10 and all hunters of the community are invited to participate. The group will meet for the start of the hunt at 8:30 a.m. at the corner of M-92 and US-12. Further details are to be announced later.

Two More Adult Classes Scheduled To Start Monday

Monday, Jan. 14, at 7:30 p.m. two Adult Education classes will begin at Chelsea High school.

Cake decorating, with Mrs. Edw. Visek as instructor, will be taught in the Home Ec. room, while the china painting class, with Mrs. H. Maule of Jackson, in charge, will be held in room number 6 which is the art room.

Length of the classes will be determined at the first session, according to preferences of those attending.

Although there are a sufficient number of enrollees for an adult driver training class, it has been decided to wait until March to begin.

The prospective instructor, Robert Taylor, stated that with his basketball season over by that time he will be in a position to devote more hours per week to the driver training program. Also cited as a reason for delay in starting the driver training class is the fact that winter driving conditions generally are difficult and less safe for beginners.

Bookkeeping and typing classes will begin as soon as an instructor is secured. High School Principal Charles Lane said yesterday. A few more people may enroll in these classes by contacting the high school principal's office.

Rabies Vaccination Clinic Schedule Told for County

Completed plans for the county-wide rabies vaccination clinics were released today by Dr. George Bowler, public health veterinarian, on the staff of the Washtenaw County Health Department.

The plan provides for 14 clinics to be held throughout the county. The Chelsea clinic will take place Thursday, Jan. 31, from 7 p.m. until 9 p.m. in Sylvan Town Hall, with Dr. P. E. Sharvard and Dr. Wilfred Lane, local veterinarians, in charge.

Other area clinics are the one at Dexter Saturday, Jan. 19, from 2 p.m. until 5 p.m. in the new fire hall; Lyndon Town Hall, Friday, Jan. 25, 7 p.m. until 8:30 p.m.; and Manchester Road Commission garage, Wednesday, Jan. 30, 7 p.m. until 8:30 p.m.

These clinics are conducted by the Washtenaw County Health Department in cooperation with the Washtenaw County Veterinary Medical Association to offer rabies vaccinations to dog owners at a reduced rate of $1.50 per dog. This is done to facilitate compliance with a 1948 county ordinance requiring all dogs to be vaccinated within one year preceding the sale of the license.

Vaccinations are available to anyone throughout the year in the offices of the private veterinarians, said Dr. Bowler, at a standard rate. The reduced rate applies only to those vaccinations given at the clinics.

Representatives of the township clerk's office will be on hand to issue a license to anyone who wishes to purchase it at the time the vaccination is given. Dog licenses must be purchased before March 1 to avoid paying a penalty for late purchase.

The business meeting will consist of the presentation of the annual report and the election of two new district directors. He will speak at the farm management banquet to be held at 6 p.m., Thursday, Jan. 31. Wallace served as U. S. Secretary of Agriculture and Secretary of Commerce and is now doing research in plant science.

All morning sessions will begin at 10 a.m.; all afternoon sessions at 1:30 p.m.

On Tuesday afternoon, the leaders of Michigan's Grange, Farmer's Union, and Farm Bureau will explain where their organizations stand on vital public issues. Members of five Michigan farm families will question them.

Will the thousands of small farms in Michigan survive in our highly competitive farm economy? This question will be discussed in Thursday morning's program.

Talks will be given on the influence of the Soil Bank on small farms; income, investments, expenses and loans for the small-scale operator; and the possibility of going into part-time farming.

Tips to help you save time and money through wise use of machinery and buildings will be given on Thursday afternoon. Two top-notch farmers, a commercial farm manager, an extension worker and an MSU researcher will speak and answer questions.

An exhibit entitled "Farmer or Wage Earner" will be located on the east side of Macklin stadium throughout the week. The exhibit will deal with a decision facing thousands of boys—whether or not to move away from the farm.

State Police Job Offers Opportunity For Young Men

"Start the new year right in a well paid career by joining the Michigan State Police."

That's the advice given young men by Sergeant John Horvath, commanding officer of the Jackson road patrol.

Men between the ages of 21 and 28, inclusive, married or single, are being given a new opportunity to become members of the State Police, but they must have their applications on file by Wednesday, Jan. 30," Sgt. Horvath said. "We strongly urge that they look into this opening, because it is a fine career with security and a future."

"The pay is excellent. In the trooper rank alone it ranges up to about $7,000 a year and, as everyone knows, there will be a new pay raise which has already been approved by the state civil service commission and applies to everyone."

Pay increases with length of service and after two years the trooper gets a further boost by being automatically promoted one full step in classification. There are also very substantial increases with each promotion in rank. In addition, the trooper receives longevity pay according to length of service, a subsistence allowance, two paid vacations a year which also increase in length, paid sick leave and other benefits. At the end of only 25 years of service he is eligible to retire on a pension of one-half his pay which also goes to his widow.

Entrance requirements include a minimum height of five feet, nine inches and a high school education or its equivalent.

Sit Down To Iron; Save Your Energy

Your ironing chores will be much less tedious if you set up an ironing center.

To do this home management specialists at Michigan State University suggest you surround yourself with your equipment for an easy flow of work.

Place all the things you need where you can reach them from a seated position. If you have never sat to iron before, get an adjustable ironing board so that you can give sit-down ironing a fair chance. It may take a while for you to get used to sitting while ironing, but after you become acquainted with this method, you'll not want to stand to iron.

The specialists suggest you arrange your chair at the ironing board with your laundry basket of clothes to be ironed to your right. Set a table behind you for placing folded and ironed clothes, and a clothes rack to your left to hand dresses, blouses and shirts.

Another suggestion from the MSU specialists is to use both hands when ironing. Interchange the iron from one hand to the other depending on the direction which the iron is moving. Avoid lifting the iron to an iron stand. Rest it at the point where last used and don't return it to the right end of the board each time. Use long rhythmic strokes; let the heat and moisture do the work. No pressure is needed.

"This is really an opportunity well worth examining," Sgt. Horvath said. "Those interested are advised to call at any State Police post or write to the state civil service commission in Lansing. But they should act promptly."

Reno, Nev.—When six prisoners who broke out of the Washoe County Jail on October 28, captured and held for Federal action at Sacramento, Cal., wrote and asked return of $199 they had left behind in the jail, District Attorney A. SOME WAY TO DO IT

Bluefield, W. Va.—A dental patient insisted that a local dentist melt down her gold wedding band to use to fill her teeth. When the dentist assured her there was a better and cheaper way she told him that she had promised her first husband that she would always wear his ring. Since she was getting married again, and her second husband had insisted that she wear only his ring, she wanted the dentist to use the first gold ring as filling for her teeth. In that way, she could keep her promise to both.

Southern Made
Sausage Hits Snag
In Michigan Sales

Such meats as lungs, snouts, stomachs, spleens or skins are unlawful ingredients for any type of sausage sold in Michigan as one Detroit wholesaler learned recently when jailed for selling sausage canned in the south that contained those ingredients.

The wholesaler was spotted with the illegal sausage by representatives of the Michigan Department of Agriculture's division of foods and standards, who placed the merchandise under seizure. He was arrested for moving 22 cases of the merchandise after it was under seizure.

Arraigned in a Pontiac court, the distributor was found guilty. He was sentenced to serve 10 days in jail and pay a $100 fine, with an additional 20 days in jail if he failed to pay the fine.

Under Michigan's strict law only skeletal meats of animals may legally be used in sausage or ground meats sold in this state. Some other states permit use of the ingredients contained in the sausage seized. These also are legal under Federal law. The cans of sausage bore the stamp of Federal approval and also stated the ingredients on the label.

Some of the sausage under seizure was manufactured in Mississippi by a firm that is licensed by the Michigan Department of Agriculture to market its products in this state. Sausage from two Georgia manufacturers and one from Alabama were seized for similar reasons.

Although Michigan has the most strict sausage law in the nation, citizens appear to approve of the superior product for sale because Michigan leads all other states in sausage consumption. Michigan's law was adopted at the request of the state's sausage industry itself.

Possibility Exists That Russia Might Precipitate War

There are some in the State Department and in the Pentagon who believe that Soviet Russia is close to precipitating a war now than she has been in recent years. There are several reasons for this theory.

First and foremost is the fact that the Russians are now undergoing a severe strain as regards the maintenance of their control over their satellite countries. Rebellion in Poland and Hungary is a ominous sign in Moscow, for it means that the huge Communist empire—built up so laboriously by Joseph Stalin over the years—may be falling apart.

When this kind of thing happens the Russians sometimes resort to very extreme measures to unify their people behind the government. The present Communist government of Russia might be placed in a similar position as the people in a war which could be used as an excuse for totalitarianism, nationalism and enthusiasm for the state.

The only danger now in Europe according to some of our experts is thought to be

East Germany. In East Germany discontent is widespread, although it has not come to the surface since the June, 1955, uprisings. Nevertheless, there is a real danger that trouble may break out at any time.

Western observers believe that West Germany would have a major task on its hands in trying to prevent West Germans and perhaps many government leaders from joining East Germany should they ever rise against the Communist government of that country. West Germany is now in NATO, and it should be noted that if West Germany is involved in any sort of war with the Communists the countries which are members of the NATO alliance might easily become involved.

Therefore the premise of the "Western policy" is to be the consideration that the Communists might be leaving going to war now that they have been in some time. This may prove to be incorrect, and no danger now is a danger which must be considered and is particularly cause for a closer watch in these critical days.

Unofficial Reports Show U.S. Progress in Missile Race

A report from an Army source recently revealed a distance of 1,500 miles as a record of approximately 15,000 miles an hour. Although this report reached the Washington Post, the Army has not yet confirmed it.

It is thought that the Army has made a considerable amount of progress in the development of the intermediate range ballistic missile, which will naturally be the preferred missile of the intercontinental ballistic missile, which is now the object of a major military effort.

Although the Army has not yet confirmed the development of long range rockets, which the Air Force has been developing, the Air Force has been developing a range of more than 3,000 miles, based in Alaska, or northern Canada, Greenland, Iceland, Norway, Continental Europe, Turkey, Pakistan, Okinawa, or Japan, or other U. S. bases, could hit practically any target in Russia, including Leningrad, Moscow, or Vladivostok.

The latest reports indicate the Russians are working on an I.B.M. of their own, although most experts think they are behind the U. S. in their program to develop an intermediate-range missile.

Two More Major Magazines To Be Discontinued

Editor's and Woman's Home Companion, two of the nation's leading magazines, have been discontinued since the last century have reached the end of the line.

The Board of these two magazines, following the passing of the American Magazine and the last of the nation's leading magazines, have decided to discontinue them.

Editor's and Woman's Home Companion, which at one time published a number of major magazines, is nearly out of the magazine publishing business.

Is Nehru Drifting or Being Pushed by the Communists?

Overlooked in the recent visit of Prime Minister Nehru to the United States, was the Indian Prime Minister's proposal to the United Nations.

In a major speech before that body, Mr. Nehru proposed that all present military alliances be scrapped. The Prime Minister would substitute moral force as a means of solving the world's problems.

Anyone familiar with the efforts of the integralists to curb Communist activities in recent years will readily realize the ridiculous nature of this unbelievably naive proposal. Nehru must be living in a dream world and is either being led, unconsciously by his Communist aide Khilana Menon—or he is living in a pink cloud.

There isn't much to see in a small town but what you hear makes up for it.

MICHIGAN MIRROR
By Elmer E. White, Secretary, Michigan Press Association

Higher state taxes become more a reality in 1950 when Gov. Mennen Williams made his final address. Pointing to the increased cost of government, he said taxes will "inevitably go up."

Highest priority, the governor indicated, are education and mental health needs. He also listed as important the need to deal with changes caused by automation, atomic energy and atomic surplus, saving for the aged and the maintenance of industrial leadership.

Education is a "made to order" need at this time. Some think that schools constitute an important and pressing problem. The governor has pointed this out before and has shown a continued interest in school problems.

In addition, the Superintendent of Public Instruction is one of the two remaining positions on the State Administrative Board in the hands of Republicans. It is logical to expect that Democrats would like to take over that position as well as the office of Republican Highway Commissioner Charles M. Zigler soon as possible.

The election in the spring offers a fine chance.

Both incumbents for these positions have announced they are not candidates for re-election. The races are considered wide open. In fact, both parties are having trouble finding candidates. The high qualifications and relatively low salaries ($12,500 per year) automatically reduce the applicants for the job.

While working for a solution to a vital educational problem, the Governor also works for the solution to a party political problem.

Who will be taxed? This is always the question. It is widely agreed the consumer pays all taxes in the long run, but there is always a tough argument about how the bill will be passed to him.

The Governor has favored a corporation profits tax for years. It is another try to establish one. Democrat Walter Nill, veteran Mukewagon member of the House, has already announced he will introduce his corporate profits tax—as he has done in the last two sessions.

Three years ago when the state needed money badly, the Legislature came up with the business receipts tax. This was enacted in place of the governor's recommended profits tax. This session the Legislature must face up to the same recommendation. It still has alternatives: sizable increases in existing taxes; a state income tax; other new taxes or new tax ideas.

A "Michigan first" that gets little attention as such, outside professional circles, is the Michigan United Fund organization. Michigan was the first state to set up this efficient method of collecting and spending charity money. It has been a leader in the field ever since, while most states have organized similar plans to follow Michigan's pattern.

About 10 years ago, 125 interested citizens met. Their aim: to do more good with each dollar donated for charity; to spend less for collection and administration. In this group was Henry Ford II, and Detroit banker Ben Young. Sixty-one of Michigan's 83 counties were represented.

The United Fund idea came out of this meeting. Essentially, it meant that one charity drive should collect funds for many worthy agencies.

Previously the public was asked to contribute to numerous drives. No matter how worthy the causes, people found the steady diet of campaigns tiresome. Employees began to realize that large amounts of time were consumed in these campaigns. Production often stopped while employees heard solicitor's pleas. Other employees required so much time to conduct campaigns that it amounted to a problem.

A better way of collecting money was urgently needed.

Hard to believe it, but this big beauty is a bottom-priced Chevrolet "One-Fifty." It's got Body by Fisher quality written all over it. And it has a peppery, sweet-running "Blue-Flame" six under the hood to make your gas stops few and far between.

Like all new Chevrolets, it brings you a very special sureness of control. This is a quality that just can't be measured in dollars and cents. Lots of cars that cost lots more just don't have it. Come in and see how much pleasure we're passing out these days at Chevrolet prices!

Big beauty with small-budget ways!

It's powered by Chevy's famous six

95% of Paralytic

Polio Cases Hit

Persons Under 35

Lansing—Teen-agers and young adults need protection against polio just as much as young children need to be vaccinated, the Michigan Department of Health said today.

Ninety-five per cent of all paralytic polio cases in Michigan occur in persons under 36 years of age, the health department said.

Records show that the severity of paralysis increases with the age of the polio patient. For example, 95 per cent of all polio cases in Michigan occur in the 15-25 age group. But this same group accounts for 50 per cent of the polio deaths.

The state health department has recommended that as a public health measure all Michigan residents under 36 years of age should receive polio shots. This would leave only five per cent of the potential victims unprotected, all of them 36 years old or older.

Vaccinating 95 per cent of the potential victims in the state would virtually eliminate chances for future polio epidemics, the health department said.

However, if persons 36 years old or older want to be vaccinated as a personal health measure their private physicians probably will recommend that they receive the vaccine, the health department added.

In Michigan, polio vaccine is supplied without charge to physicians and local health departments for vaccinating children 1 through 14 years of age. About 70 per cent of the persons in these groups have now received two or more doses of polio vaccine, the department said. The vaccine is available to all other persons through regular commercial channels.

New Federal Laws On Shipping Cattle Will Help State

Shipment of cattle over state lines without certificates showing them to be free of brucellosis will become a Federal offense after next Jan. 1 with certain exceptions, according to word received this week by the Michigan Department of Agriculture from the U.S. agricultural department.

Brucellosis, sometimes called Bang's disease, is a highly contagious disease of cattle that has cost owners millions of dollars over the years. Resulting in abortion in cows, brucellosis is transmissible to mankind in the form of undulant fever.

The new Federal regulations will be a boon to the brucellosis eradication program being waged by the Federal and State departments of agriculture to make Michigan brucellosis-free by 1960.

New Federal rules for shipping cattle over state lines, in a nutshell are:

1. Not included in the regulation are steers, spayed heifers and calves under eight months.
2. Cattle moved under permit if tested within 30 days, or if not tested within 30 days must be quarantined on arrival until proven negative.
3. Unvaccinated cattle may move under permit if negative to brucellosis test within 30 days of shipment and are quarantined on arrival and found negative after 30 days.
4. Cattle for feeding or grazing may move under permit from state veterinarian of state of destination.
5. It is advisable before shipping cattle across state lines to contact State or Federal veterinarians in the case building in Lansing.

Firemen Respond To Four Calls

Recent calls received by the Chelsea Fire Department were listed as follows:

Dec. 30, to the home of Mayola Kelly, 18345 Garvey road, owned by Mahel Hoppe, cause of alarm being an overheated oil burner.

Jan. 2, to a house trailer at the same Garvey road address, occupied by Arthur Smith, where three mattresses burned. Passing motorists had stopped and helped carry out the burning mattresses before firemen reached the scene.

No damage to the trailer listed. Jan. 4, to the Martin Merkel place on Chelsea-Dexter road, called in by a passing motorist who mistakenly believed a grass fire was out of control.

Jan. 5, at 6 p.m., to the Detroit Abrasives plant at Four Mile Lake, listed as a false alarm. Crewmen, on a passing train, noticed the glow from the blast furnace at the plant, dropped off a note at Ann Arbor and the Chelsea department was notified.

IN MEMORIAM
In loving memory of my brother, Leon Cushman, who passed away one year ago today. Gone is the face we loved so dear; silent the voice we loved to hear too far away for sight or speech, but not too far for thought to reach. Sweet to remember he once was here and, who absent, is just as dear.
