Washington Report

By Senator Charles F. Potter
The latest news from Washington of special interest to Michigan.

MICHIGAN WEEK has stolen a little of the Washington spotlight from the federal budget. My office is decorated with a vivid yellow poster on which a red robin chirps, "It's Great to Live in Michigan!" I've sent a four-pound gift package of our famous Michigan navy beans to President Eisenhower, Vice President Nixon and each United States Senator to remind them of the week. Four beautiful Michigan queens, I am told, are on the way to Washington to visit members of Congress. And to further observe the occasion, my current weekly radio and television report is called "Meet the Michigan Press." On it I am interviewed by a panel of top reporters who cover Congress for the TV cameras. Michigan's achievements stem from the energy and creative abilities of her people and to me, Michigan Week calls for a very personal salute to 7,000,000 great citizens of a great state.

SENATORS SLASHED mightily last week as they acted on money requests to run the various government agencies. We shattered precedent by revealing our selves even thrifter than members of the House of Representatives. Unkindest cut of all was reserved for the United States Information Agency which performs the task of telling America's story to the rest of the world. The president had budgeted $144 million to run the USA which the House chopped down to $106 million.

tion. As a member of the Senate Appropriations Committee, I voted to cut that to $90 million. Then, on the Senate floor, a tidal wave of cut-the-budget mail from home swept four-fifths of the Senators into line behind our $90 million figure. Soon a House-Senate conference will agree on a sum somewhere between $90 and $100 million. Funds for the Voice of America, USA's best-known and most dramatic effort, were kept intact.

INTERESTED FARMERS have been querying my office for the latest word on my bill to protect them from overplanting penalties and I'm happy to report that a subcommittee of the Senate Agriculture Committee has acted favorably on it. That gives it a fine chance of a prompt sendoff by the full Committee and quick trip to the Senate floor. As the law now stands, a farmer may freely plant only 15 acres of wheat. If he exceeds his marketing quota, he is penalized. My bill would remove all penalties for overplanting wheat when it is used on the farmer's own property for feeding or seeding. I am delighted at the number of farmers who have expressed support for this proposal.

MORE SHIPS and bigger ships are needed by 1959 when the St. Lawrence Seaway opens. As a start in that direction, I've introduced a resolution to sell 12 war-built vessels, now in mothballs, to private shippers. If it passes, up to a dozen C4's, largest and fastest cargo vessels built during World War II, and easily convertible to container ships, will be come available. Of course, the Government will be protected by a "recapture" clause in the event of war. Actually, these ships, deteriorate less in use than they do when held in reserve. In the past, iron ore, coal, grain and other bulk cargo provided the tonnage moving between Great Lakes ports. When the Seaway opens, there will be a need for a deep-draft capacious vessels to move agricultural machinery, automobiles, electrical supplies and other general cargo. It is important to have American ships available for if we don't, foreign ship lines will get first crack at that lucrative tonnage.

GOOD PROGRESS has been made by another maritime measure—my bill to encourage ship building at our Lakes shipyards.

The day's lesson on the topic, "Planning for Later Years," was given by Mrs. Thomas Masterson. Hostesses for the day were Mrs. George Goodwin, Mrs. Lawrence Shanahan and Mrs. Thomas Masterson.

Memorial Day, May 30, will find the Chelsea high school band marching in two parades. During the morning parade and will play in the local parade and will march a few selected numbers at the dedication ceremony at the cemetery. In the afternoon, the band will march in the Pinekey parade and will participate in their dedication ceremonies.

The Junior-Senior prom of 1957 has passed, but not from the memory of students. The glorious evening started with a banquet at 6:30. Grace was given by Father Lee Laige. The dinner consisted of apple juice, ham, creamed potatoes, green beans, cole slaw, bread and butter, pickles and relishes, milk, coffee and pie-a-la-mode.

Toastmaster of the program, Douglas Collyer, introduced the fine entertainment offered by Byron Pearson, coronet soloist; Carol Reddeman, pianist; and the Cassidy Lake Quartet. The welcome was given by Helen Morgan; introductions by Karl Klemm-schneider.

After the banquet, the attendees had pictures taken, picked up dates, etc., then returned to "Oriental Gardens" at 9 p.m., dancing to Richard Borge's orchestra.

Main features of the decorations were a gaily colored dragon hung on the stage curtain, colored branches with lanterns suspended from them, and an enormous golden Buddha, holding incense.

Late supper was in order after the party. Toledo, Marshall, Ellet and Jackson entertained some of our students. Breakfast for seniors was given by Jack Cattell, Jerry Slusser, and Bud Guest at Jack Cattell's home, at 8:30. A 4:30 breakfast for the Juniors was served by John Eisenbeiser at his home.

In the not-so-see hours of the morning, the celebrants returned to their homes, tired but overjoyed with memories about "Oriental Gardens."

On May 18, several eight grade girls and boys were entertained by Carolyn Baxley at a hayride. Following the hay-ride was a barbecue in the woods. Dancing filled the rest of the evening.

Seventh grade homemaking class is making pot holders, comb cases, drawn aprons, chef aprons, gathered skirts and beach coats. Interior decorations and housing are being studied by Home Ec. I. The correct clothing for each type of figure is being studied in the second year class. Home Ec. III had a picnic during noon hour at Pierce Park. The girls prepared the meal the preceding day.

Freshmen English classes are studying grammar, reading from their literature books, and are working on book reports. Biology students went to the museum of natural history in Ann Arbor, May 21. Besides the field trip the students have been considering forest and soil conservation. They will be reviewing for exams soon.

Civics classes have been studying how to get work and what they are suited to work at. This class will also be reviewing for exams.

Mrs. McClellan's librarians, Linda Lyons and Carol Sharrard, report that their 31 classmates withdrew 32 books this week. Mrs. Cornell's group claims 32 books read by 24 children; Lynne Shepherd, librarian for Mrs. Warren's third grade, reports 35 books read by 28 children; and Mrs. Jennings' 34 fourth graders read 57 books, according to librarians David Run-ciman, Robert Parker, Joyce Col-ciman, Marilyn Smith, and Joanne Cragdock.

Seniors will leave for their trip early tomorrow morning, leaving Detroit at 8:30 a.m. They will have lunch, spend the afternoon, have dinner and spend the early evening at Niagara Falls, and will arrive at the Hotel New Yorker Saturday morning in time for breakfast. After a free morning, they will then visit the Statue of Liberty on Bedloe Island, and then spend the evening at Coney Island.

Sunday they plan to tour the United Nations Building, the National Broadcasting Company building, and then live it up at a night club called the Copacabana. Monday they plan to visit the Empire State Building, do a night tour of the lower East Side, and Broadway and Times Square. Tuesday they plan to tour Rockefeller Center, attend a movie premier at Radio City Music Hall, and will arrive in Detroit at noon on Wednesday; then "Home, Sweet, Home" and rest, rest, rest.

There is some possibility that there may be a rearrangement of tours day by day to provide time for church attendance on Sunday. It might be, too, that some of the places scheduled for Sunday are not available on that day.

Michigan Week Gives Us Opportunity To Brag About State

Back in 1837 Congress gave its approval to the admission of Michigan as the 26th state of the union. In those days the mighty Water Wonderland was a vast area of beautiful lakes and forests.

What has happened during the past 120 years?

Quite a few things have happened. Here is your Michigan today.

Michigan has become one of the greatest industrial states in the nation, and at the same time has gained top national ranking as a vacation paradise and agricultural leader.

The thumb state today has more than 160,000 manufacturing and trade firms—more than 10,000 factories. It is the automobile center of the world and ranks first in the nation in the percentage of income derived from manufacturing.

While leading the nation in automobile production, Michigan has a remarkably diverse economy. Our state manufactures 81 per cent of all types of products. It is first in the production of pharmaceuticals, machine tool accessories, foundry products, paint, heavy chemicals and grey iron.

It is also a leader in the production of food products, paper, furniture, refrigeration machinery, automobile trailers, cereal and salt.

Recent reports of the Census of Manufactures for the year 1954, the most recent census, shows that Michigan led the nation in dollar value of capital expenditures. Michigan is still growing—still building.

Across the state industry is expanding for the future. In Sterling township Ford Motor Company recently opened its new multi-million dollar chassis parts plants.

Other new plants include General Electric at Holland, Carmet Division of Allegheny Ludlum Steel Corporation at Bad Axe, and Continental Can Company at Three Rivers.

Elsewhere Michigan has gained national prominence in the manufacture of chemicals and drugs, with production centers at Detroit, Kalamazoo, Midland, Wyandotte and Montague.

Michigan is the home of the world's largest commercial limestone quarries at Rogers City and Port Inland. The state also is gaining as a center of production and research for the production of guided missiles.

Michigan's Upper Peninsula is in the middle of an economic boom with the resurgence of copper and iron mining.

Everywhere indications are that Michigan industry will continue to grow and prosper. Signs of the future may be found in the mighty Mackinac Bridge which will connect the state's Upper and Lower Peninsulas next fall. Throughout the state, lake ports are preparing for the opening of the St. Lawrence Seaway which is scheduled for 1959. The Seaway is expected to bring even greater prosperity to the state through export and import trade to foreign countries.

These are only a few of the advantages and facts about Michigan. Many more could be detailed but it would require a book. Michigan Week, the annual observance of Michigan's advantages and blessings, is a time to remember all these things. It is a time to be proud, to say to anyone anywhere, that "It's Great To Live in Michigan."

It is also a time to remember that Michigan lives by its industry. Help keep it strong—help it expand. It means a greater future for you and for all of the 7,500,000 citizens of this great state.

General Cass Designed First Michigan State Flag

With a history that dates back to the early days of statehood, the Michigan flag is at last coming into its own.

Brought out of obscurity during the first Michigan Week celebration in 1954, the beautiful emblem with the state coat-of-arms on a field of blue will be seen in more places and by more people this year than ever before. It is estimated that more flags will be sold during 1957 than in all previous years since the first one was made 120 years ago.

It was on Washington's birthday, 1837, that the first state flag was born. It was presented to the first state militia, known as the "Brady Guards" of Detroit, by Stevens T. Mason, Michigan's first governor. On one side there was a portrait of Mason and on the other the state coat-of-arms, a soldier and a lady. This was the only flag until 1865, just after the close of the Civil War, when the legislature officially adopted a new design with the state coat-of-arms on one side and the United States coat-of-arms on the other. It was first unfurled on July 4, 1865, at the cornerstone laying of the Soldiers Monument in the National Cemetery at Gettysburg.

History of the State Seal of Michigan

Interest in the history of the Great Seal of the State of Michigan has been mounting annually since the first Michigan Week was celebrated in 1954.

The seal, which is imprinted on the official state flag as well as all documents of the state, dates back to the days before Michigan was admitted to the union.

The seal was designed by Lewis Cass, who was appointed governor of Michigan territory in 1813 by President Harrison, and served until 1831 when he was named to the cabinet of President Andrew Jackson.

The Civil War flag remained the official emblem until 1911 when the legislature adopted the present emblem, dropping the national coat-of-arms. General Lewis Cass, governor of Michigan territory from 1813 to 1831, designed the Michigan coat-of-arms which today varies somewhat from the original.

Rules for display of the state flag are simple. On a staff it should float below the Stars and Stripes. If against a wall the state flag should be on the left, the flag's own left. On the pulpit it should be on a staff at the speaker's left as he faces the audience, and the Stars and Stripes on his right. The state flag may be displayed alone but it is more appropriate to be with the national emblem.

When carried in a procession with other flags the state flag should be carried a little back of the American flag. When displayed with the Stars and Stripes against a wall from crossed staffs, the state flag should be on the flag's own left and its staff should be back of the staff of the American flag. No state flag should ever be placed above or to the right of the Stars and Stripes.

In 1835 the seal was presented to the Michigan constitutional convention and was adopted as the coat-of-arms of the state and the official seal. Several changes appeared in the decorations of the emblem around 1879, but the present seal, which was adopted by the legislature in 1911, is a return to the general pattern of Cass' original of 1835.

The Latin motto, "Si Quæris Peninsulam Amoenam Circumspice," which means "If you seek a pleasant peninsula, look about you," has remained unchanged.

MICHIGAN MIRROR

By Elmer E. White, Secretary, Michigan Press Association

Voters will get a chance in 1958 to rewrite the constitution which has guided Michigan's state government since 1908.

Whether to call a constitutional convention will automatically go on the November, 1958 ballot.

Dozens of major amendments have been made to the constitution in the last 50 years, including state civil service, sales tax distribution, and reapportionment of the legislature.

The latter, adopted in 1952, is the crux of a new fight between political parties and will, in effect, determine the makeup of a constitutional convention if the voters order it.

Under another section of the constitution, a convention to write the basic law is composed of three delegates from each state senatorial district.

Democrats already are fighting for another system.

The 1952 amendment created the "balanced legislature," with the House (110 members) representing people or population and the Senate (34 members) representing areas.

Democrats charge that a constitutional convention will be peopled by Republicans because traditionally, outstate voters send Republicans to the new convention. The voters approved the reapportionment amendment in 1952, thus tacitly agreeing to the procedure for electing delegates to a constitutional convention.

Despite their hold on the Senate and the makeup of a convention the Republicans are fearful that any rewrite of the constitution might upset the reapportionment process.

Civil service, in effect since 1941, has a growing number of critics, and its champions fear the way

Michigan hires its 27,000 employees would be changed.

Both parties agree that the voter has it in his power in 1958 to alter Michigan's government.

There have been numerous proposals in the past, including the adoption of the Nebraska system of a one-chamber legislature. Or a generous convention could legalize bingo, a proposition defeated in 1954; it might add a member to the Supreme Court to end 4 to 4 decisions.

One major point: No legislator may be a delegate to a constitutional convention, placing Michigan's government for a time squarely in the hands of the governed.

And, under the present constitution, the voters have a chance to vote automatically for or against a constitutional convention—every 16 years.

Experts in local property valuation will help fix property tax rates next year.

Gov. Williams has signed into law a bill reorganizing the state board of equalization to include two new members, recognized experts in the fields of rural and urban property tax assessment.

The bill was sponsored by Senator John P. Smeekens (R-Coldwater), a former member of a county board of supervisors who listened to the woes of local taxpayers.

"We will now have men on the board who know the local problems," he said.

The two new members will replace the state auditor general and the director of agriculture.

Enactment of the law came too late for the change to take effect this year. The board approved a 10 per cent across-the-board increase, totaling $70,000,000 in new local property taxes.

Prison troubles again plague Michigan. There are no riots at Jackson State Prison, no mass escapes from Marquette State Prison, and things are quiet at Jonia State Reformatory.

This time the trouble is at the Detroit House of Correction, where the state houses all its women prisoners and a number of male trustees.

The state corrections commission has asked for an investigation of conditions following a sit-down strike by the women and Detroit penal officials have agreed. In addition, Corrections Director Gus Harrison is worried about overcrowded conditions at all prisons. The total inmate count is expected to reach an all-time high of 10,500 next year.

IN MEMORY

In Loving Memory of our Virginia May, Clarice Ann, Gerald Ellis and Linda Lee Smith, who passed away May 24 and 25, 1952. He watches over little ones upon the golden sand.

So, though we grieve, we will not weep. For they are safe on sunlit shores. Within their Master's arms. Sadly missed by Daddy, Mother and Monica and Family.

NEWS

News comes that Lana Turner and Lee Phillips will costar in the much-talked-of "Peyton Place." Phillips, who had the romantic lead in "Middle of the Night" on Broadway, has signed a long-term contract with Twentieth Century-Fox and is due for a real build-up.

Bette Davis, who, everyone thought, had just about retired, has taken a house in San Monica for the rest of this year and has plans for lots of pictures and television shows. Gary Merrill, her husband, is working at Warners in "Missouri Traveler."

Deborah Kerr is the busy one. After she does "Bonjour Tristesse" in Paris, she will appear in "Separate Tables" here in Hollywood. She still has four more pictures for Twentieth Century-Fox.

The screen play for "Party Girl" with Charles Schnee as producer, will be written by George Wells, who wrote the screen play for M.G.M.'s "Designing Woman," which starred Gregory Peck, Lauren Bacall and Dolores Gray. Fall production is planned for it.

Dan Dailey is set to get a good slice of the profits of "Ride the West Wind," which he is doing for Corder Productions. He will play a Texan who takes the first shipment of cattle to the Hawaiian Islands.

Oscar Homolka has called for Europe, where he will play the doctor in "Farewell to Arms," in which Jennifer Jones and Rock Hudson costar. He was magnificent in "War and Peace," and many think he should have won an Oscar for his excellent work in that film.

Broderick Crawford has certainly kept busy this past few months. He has made three movies and 78 TV shows during the past year.

Clint Walker, who appears on TV as "Cheyenne," will star in "Backtrack," at Warners, his first feature-length movie. In return for this Clint, who wanted to get out of his role as "Cheyenne," agreed to film another 20 shows.

The recent successes of such "spectacles" as "The Ten Commandments" and "War and Peace" has led M.G.M. to announce the production of a new version of "Ben Hur," as its "biggest and most important production of this or any other year."

Among metropolitan areas, Detroit ranks third in factory payrolls and value of manufactured products. Average wage or salary of all persons covered by Social Security is higher than that of any other major area.

GOLDEN ROCKET 88 HOLIDAY SEDAN

"I like those extras
you get in an Olds!"

MR: You mean the advanced styling, I suppose.
The Accent Strips and . . .

SMR: Oh, there's more to it than that. For example, the "park" position on the Hydra-Matic Drive makes it safer and easier to start, even on hills.

MR: Well, Olds has a reputation for attention to detail. That's one reason the value lasts.

SMR: You can tell that someone took a lot of patience in planning and building it right. Even the two ash trays are lighted.

MR: I'll bet the Oldsmobile engineers would love that, but I wonder how they'd feel about you not mentioning the Rocket Engine? Now there's a power plant. There's still nothing quite like a Rocket!

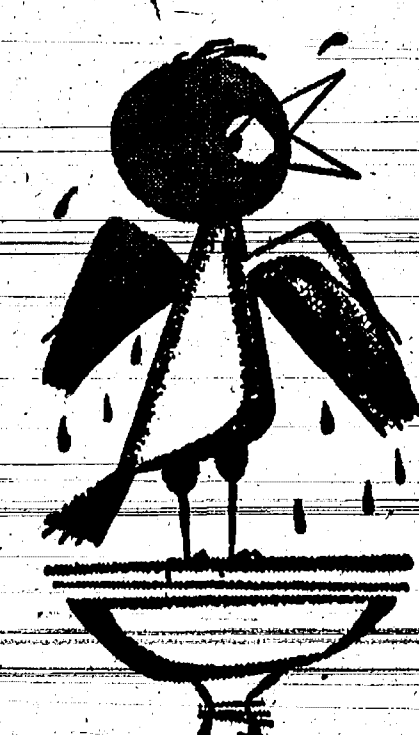

SMR: That's for me too, but I look for lots of other things—like upholstery . . . and that glove box. It's big enough for an umbrella. I wish . . .

MR: Tell you what. Let's stop wishing. Let's go see our Olds dealer . . . right now!

Some Insecticides Listed as Potential Human Killers

Lansing—Some insecticides and weed killers now available commercially are extremely poisonous and should be treated as potential human killers, a Michigan Department of Health physician warned today.

Dr. F. S. Leeder said just a taste of some insecticides and herbicides is enough to kill an average-size adult. The same holds true for some chemicals used for killing rodents and fungi.

"As plant and animal pests become more resistant to DDT and other older control materials," Dr. Leeder explained, "the anti-pest chemicals must be made more deadly if they are to do their job."

"Since they are now stronger than ever before, follow directions very carefully whenever using these chemicals," Dr. Leeder advised.

He said farmers should be especially careful because as occupational groups they are exposed to more potentially harmful materials than any other major class of workers.

Dr. Leeder said that in addition to pesticides there are other chemical preparations used routinely in most homes today which can be deadly in amounts of one ounce or less. These include most disinfectants, some dry cleaner solvents, some drain cleaners, moth repellents, rust removers, radiator cleaners and indelible inks.

Deadly in amounts between one ounce and one quart are cosmetics, drugs, polishes, window cleaners, stain removers, lighter fluid and bleaches.

Dr. Leeder pointed out that accidental poisonings took the lives of 10 Michigan residents during 1956.

The HERB CORNER Flavor, Fragrance, Beauty

Possibly no one makes better use of dried materials for flower arrangements nor uses them more artistically than does Louise B. Fisher, who is responsible for flower and fruit arrangements in the eighteenth-century manner, in the restored buildings of Colonial Williamsburg.

Some of the materials she uses are wild and can be gathered from the fields and roadways, others she has grown particularly for her use.

The herb garden can furnish a wide variety of interesting material for this type of bouquet. The pods of alliums (chives, garlic, leeks, shallots, and onions), lilies, and poppies; the tan fruit capsules of rue; and the grooved seed capsules of sesame are all interesting additions.

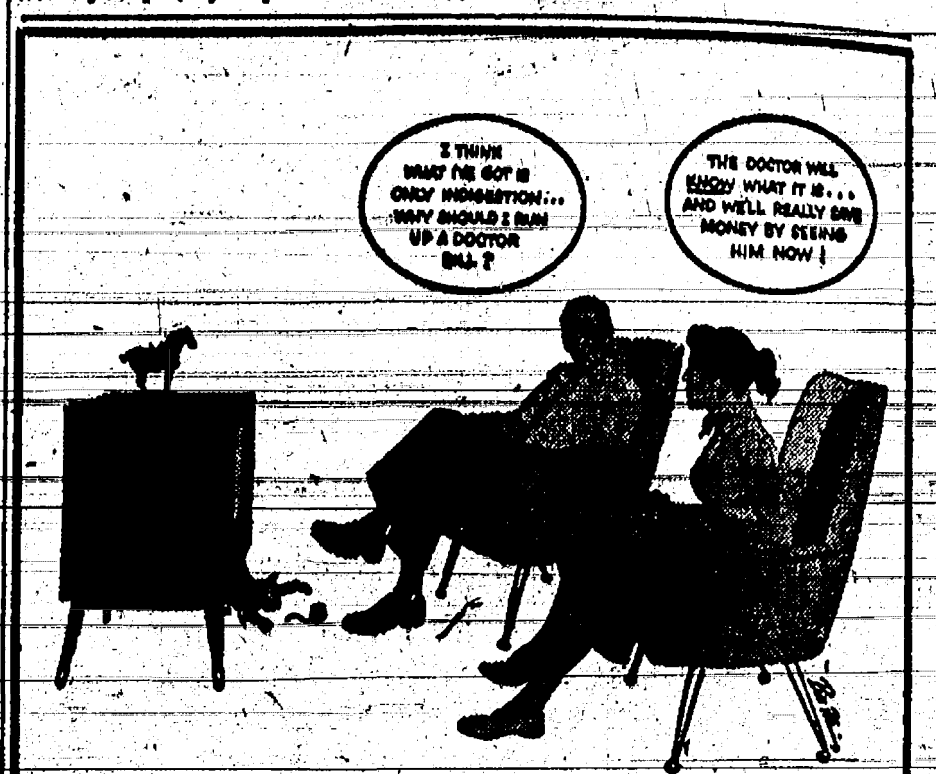

The graceful, saw-toothed leaves of scanthus; the metallic, fern-like fronds of the bronze fennel; the broad, russet-streaked (after frost) grass-like leaves of vetiver; the ashy-gray leaves of silver king artemisia are all attractive foliage for dried arrangements.

Both flowers and foliage of the fern-leaf tanay, perilla, and sweet wormwood are pretty for this use. The henna colored plumes of garden sorrel; the feathery sprays of ambrosia; the tubular flowers of all varieties of bergamot; the powdery blue flowers of mealy cup sage (Salvia farinacea), the floral heads of sweet goldenrod and the spikes of lavender are all good material.

The spikes of anise hyssop (Agastache foeniculum), which is neither anise (Pimpinella anisum) nor hyssop (Hyssopus officinalis), are also excellent for dried arrangements.

The common crow normally flies at a speed of about 30 to 40 miles an hour.

The man suffering "a touch of indigestion" is a full-fledged member of our largest ill-health club. (It's said that possibly 25 percent of our adult population could qualify for membership.)

You will find, too, that he has one outstanding trait: a readiness to try almost any sort of treatment he reads or hears about. And yet, proper treatment of digestive disturbances . . . whether it be by diet, drugs or other measures . . . can be given only by a physician after careful diagnosis.

When symptoms occur frequently, it's the better part of wisdom to see your doctor before you try someone's pet remedy. While your trouble may be simply and easily corrected, it could signal peptic ulcer, gall bladder disease, or something much more serious.

A digestive disturbance can easily edge over into the danger zone when you neglect it or try to treat it yourself . . . while getting prompt and proper medical care may well turn out to be one of the biggest bargains of your life.—Reprinted from a copyrighted advertisement published by Parke, Davis & Company, Detroit 32, Michigan.

Conservation Dept. Asks Help in Banding Mourning Doves

Dorley Boyer, conservation officer in this area, is cooperating in the Conservation project of banding mourning doves and requests that anyone who has observed their nesting places notify him immediately.

The procedure for banding is to mark the young birds which can then be traced to discover where they spend the winters and other information regarding their habits.
