Medical Break-Through Announced in Long Fight Against Multiple Sclerosis

A scientist believes she has isolated a micro-organism which is probably the cause of multiple sclerosis. This development, if it proves to be as described, is of major medical significance.

The scientist, Miss Rose Ichelson, believes she has developed a skin test which will tell whether a patient is afflicted with multiple sclerosis. She thinks that her findings must now be checked to be substantiated, though she predicts they will be, and that scientists should begin to seek a way to perfect an immunizing serum against the disease and a way to cure it.

It is estimated that about 800,000 Americans are afflicted with multiple sclerosis. There has been no known cure for it and slight relief for certain forms of the disease. Therefore, if Miss Ichelson's work results in a serum, or some other immunization, she will have achieved the goal of a lifetime and will have made a major contribution to the progress of mankind's never-ending battle against disease.

Graduates Face Golden Opportunities

Thousands of young men and women, on the campuses throughout the country, are celebrating the completion of their formal academic training. In all, about 200,000 young men and 150,000 young women have received or are receiving bachelor's degrees this month.

These young people are entering into a different world from that they have been accustomed to. The major purpose of their study and training has been to fit them for prompt and useful accommodation in this different world. How well they adapt themselves to it is the most vital test of our system of higher education.

College graduates, at this particular time, have a more favorable outlook than usual. There is a great demand for skills in many fields, such as engineering and the sciences. Personnel teams from business and industry have been touring the colleges since early spring, interviewing them, and they are offering higher starting salaries than ever before.

It is an accepted fact that there is a wider recognition of the value of the college academic course as a good background for adaptation to our society. In many fields it has become an almost indispensable background, and the young people of our nation have seemed to accept this fact with collegiate population increasing accordingly.

All of us will agree that our graduates are not entering a static society. On the contrary, today is probably one of the most exciting periods in the world's history. It is a time of peril, but it is also a time of magnificent opportunity for the strong of heart and for those who are willing to dedicate themselves to a chosen task.

It is a time of "commencement" for them, and adults can often recapture some of the vitality, purpose and imagination of life from the annual crop of college graduates.

If a girl expects to win a husband, she ought to exhibit a generous nature—or else how generous nature has been to her.—Dope Sheet.

The spending program of the nation may be giving the President many headaches, but the tens of millions of taxpayers will be fellow sufferers.

Interesting is a disclosure that jet-propelled planes and missiles are indiscriminate in their fuel requirements, operating on anything from coal oil to Napoleon brandy. Sounds like night life in the twenties.

Washington Report

By Senator Charles F. Potter
 The latest news from Washington of special interest to Michigan.

EVER SINCE my boyhood days on a farm back in Lapeer county, I have had a deep interest in the exciting possibilities of agricultural research. And today, some 25 years later, I shall sponsor a bill to lift the farmer's income by scientifically developing new uses for his surpluses.

A child's toy made from cereal grains—a pair of gloves fashioned of processed white potatoes—a filmy curtain of tree-nut origin—a table built of animal-by-products—these are some of the possibilities if our research laboratories face up to the challenge.

"A technological explosion is occurring on American farms," Agriculture Boss Ezra Benson told me recently. Production is shooting up and up, outstripping our ability to consume. Surpluses have become a fabulously expensive problem, costing the taxpayers billions of dollars. The surplus problem is a national problem, and it is one that will continue indefinitely—giving rise to artificial supports and government interference—unless we get busy and capitalize on our farm surpluses.

The best answer, in my opinion, lies in research. The few dollars we may spend on developing new uses for farm products are small change compared to the cost of handling agricultural surpluses.

Right now, industry pours three billion dollars per year into research, bringing forth an avalanche of new products—fabrics, plastics, building materials, surface coatings, detergents and chemicals. Basic raw materials have been recycling some systematic attention in the laboratory, but very little research has been done on farm products. However, in the instances where money and scientific brainpower have been invested, results are amazing. Frozen fruit juice, nylon from corn cobs, and commercially-produced penicillin stand out as examples of the possibilities to come.

Recently, blue-ribbon Presidential commission of farm experts took ten months to study what research could accomplish in absorbing surpluses. The members came up with an optimistic report, but the Government will have to devise an organized plan—and get it rolling. I had all of this in mind when I drafted my new bill.

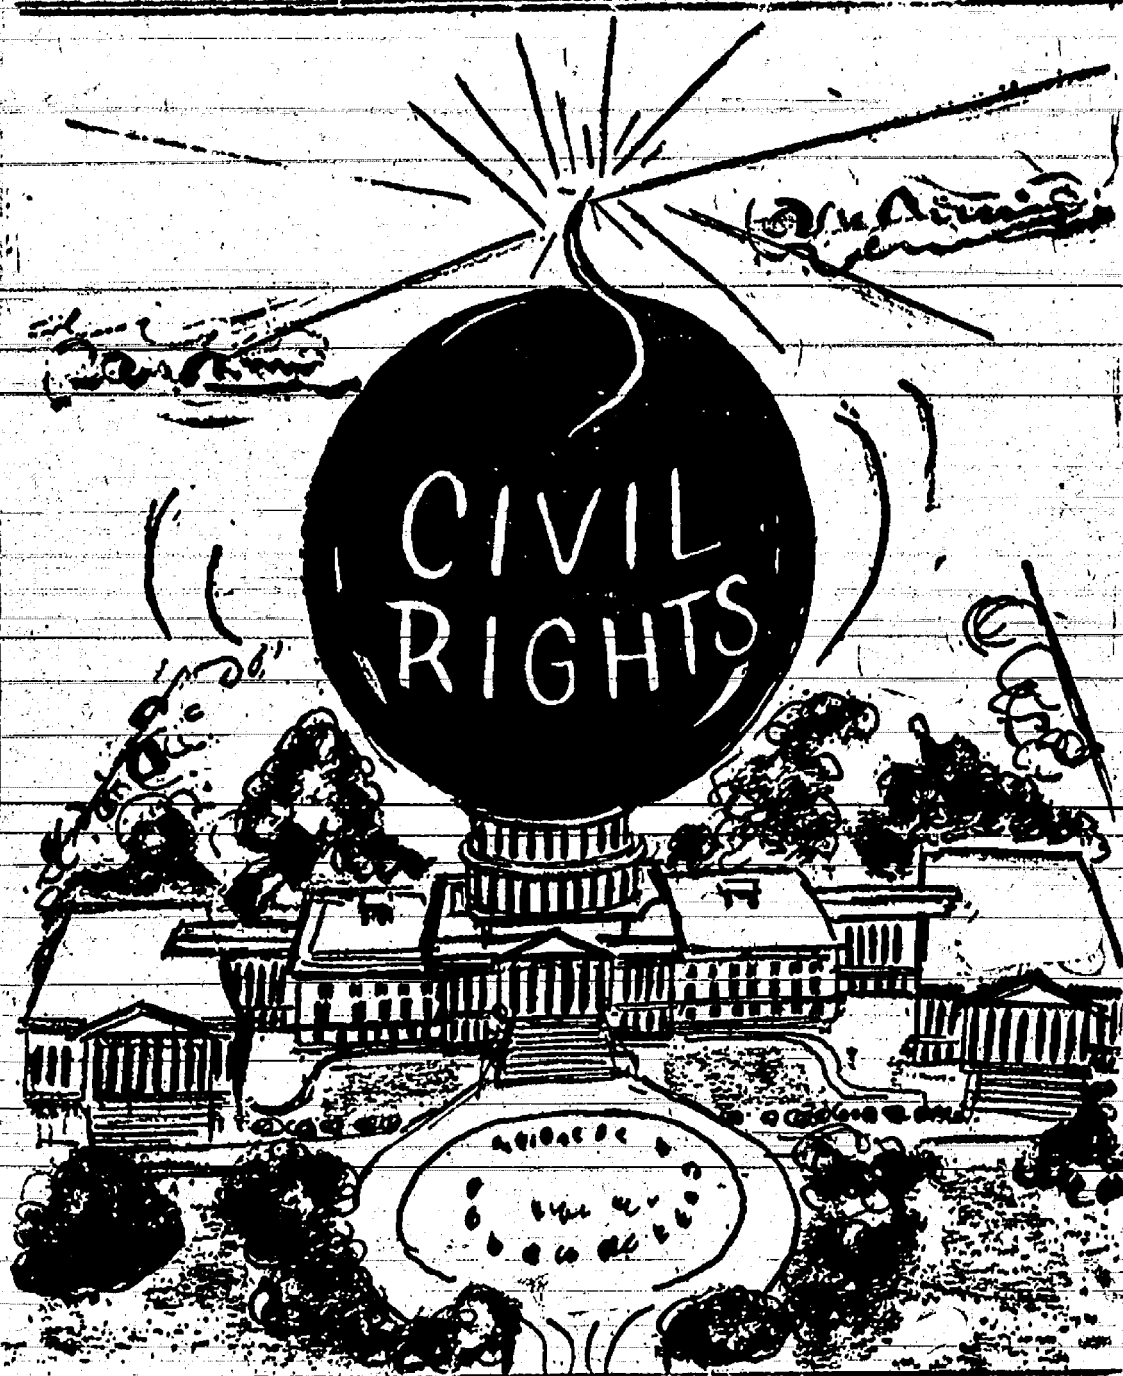

Briefly, the bill would do this: Set up an Agricultural Research and Industrial Board of five members, four to be appointed by the President and one by the Secretary of Agriculture. They would employ the necessary technical brains to find new industrial uses for farm products, to develop new crops, to make pilot tests and many other things—to offer incentives to farmers to convert to new crops and methods.

Don't forget that, several of the so-called "miracle" products of modern research have provided the base for vast new industries and stimulated new consumer demands. Michigan produces many of the crops which would receive first attention in the laboratory under my bill. Here's the complete list: cereal grains, cotton, oil seeds, meat and animal by-products, tobacco, wool and mohair, dairy products, sugar, fruits, vegetables, edible tree nuts, white potatoes, poultry and eggs.

WOMEN—certainly not an oppressed minority in this country—nevertheless need a legislative protection and that is why 82 Senators, including myself, have introduced the so-called "Equal Rights for Women" amendment to the Constitution. It is astonishing, in this day and age, when women have achieved distinction in almost every area of activity, that such legislation should be necessary. But the fact remains that women do not receive equal pay for equal work and are discriminated against in other ways. Both political parties have recognized this in their platform and advocate an amendment protecting women.

SAULT STE. MARIE was described by Henry Clay as the " remotest settlement in the United States, if not in the moon." It was the first permanent settlement in Michigan and is the third oldest surviving community in the United States.

The Annual Finale

★ MICHIGAN MIRROR ★

By Elmer E. White, Secretary, Michigan Press Association

Michigan got a reminder last week that it has another major bridge project on the planning boards.

It won't be quite as long, as high, or as expensive as the Mackinac Straits Bridge, but it will be important.

For years, governors appointed members to the International Bridge Authority, but the work went on quietly until this spring.

The Authority's mission is to build a bridge linking the Upper Peninsula and Canada, from Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., to Sault Ste. Marie, Ont.

For years, the plans were a toss-up between a bridge and a tunnel. This spring, the legislature appropriated $1 to the Authority—a maneuver to link the Authority and its finances directly to state government.

Last week Attorney General Thomas M. Kavanaugh ruled that the Authority is "an agent and instrumentality of the state and is acting on behalf of the public."

This added official stature to the Authority and observers predicted the day will arrive soon when the bridge is financed and started.

Only nagging fear—a fear present when the Mackinac Island project is started: that the direct tie-in with the fortunes of the state will require the state to pay off her bonds if revenues do not.

There are still myriad details to be worked out. Michigan has cleared the approaches to the bridge, but the Canadian phase of the project is still in negotiations.

Machinery devised by state government to keep as many bad drivers off the road as possible has set another record.

During the first five months of 1957, Secretary of State James M. Hare said the licenses of more than 6,000 motorists were revoked or suspended.

More than 3,183 drivers were called in for re-examination of their driving fitness, another new record. More than 4,400 were sent warning letters.

"This is the first step in slowing down drivers who are headed for trouble," Hare said.

Prisons are "harvesting" a crop of more than 600 youths a year. Young men between 15 and 25 represent 40 per cent of the state's annual prison intake. They were born during the years of World War II and are known as the "War Babies."

The increased number of young people in the prisons is bringing charges of neglect. Prisons are being planned for the future feature rehabilitation and vocational training, rather than the sheer detention of a criminal as punishment for his crime.

Alfred Knickerbocker Wins Olivet Varsity Baseball, Track Awards

In the track summary at Olivet College for 1957, Alfred Knickerbocker of Chelsea, is listed as one of the "constant winners" with his recorded 100, 220, 220 low hurdles events.

Knickerbocker, who was track captain, is also listed among the varsity award winners in track and in baseball in which, as an outfielder, he is listed among players batting over .800. His average was .310 for the season.

KNOW A JUNE BRIDE?
Who doesn't! The question is—what about a gift? Well, one of the most practical and stylish gifts is an extension phone in color! Additional phones make life so much easier, and they're appreciated all year long. As gifts, they're not likely to be duplicated by others. An extension phone costs only about a dollar a month, plus one-time charge for installation and color. The charges can appear on your regular telephone bill. Choose from eight smart decorator colors.

HOW OFTEN do you use a public phone? If you're like a lot of people, you're using them more and more. Especially since they're getting so convenient. Wherever you go, you're likely to find a public phone—inside drugstores and restaurants, and outside for people-on-the-go. Outdoor phone booths are lighted at night and open 24 hours every day in the year. It's a natural thing, when you're out, to use a public telephone—your "phone-away-from-home."

PLAN YOUR VACATION TRIP by Long Distance—the fastest, surest way to get information on resorts and travel facilities all over the country. Make your reservations by Long Distance, too—no mistake about dates or rates. Speaking of rates, did you know you can call places a day's drive away for less than a dollar? Take along a Telephone Credit Card, too. Then you can call Long Distance anywhere along the way and have the calls billed to you at home. Phone our telephone business office and ask about a credit card.

CUB SCOUT NEWS

The Cub Scout Camp-out for 1957 was held the week-end of June 8-9. The Cubs met at the Municipal building at 9 a.m. Saturday, and were transported to the camp site at Cedar Lake by several of the dads. They were met at the camp by the camp ranger who welcomed them to the camp and advised them as to the things expected of them while there.

The camp-out was attended by 47 Cubs, 3 Den Chiefs, and 10 Dads. The Den Chiefs were Tom Brooks, William Morley, and Gary Berger. The Dads, Cub Scoutmaster William Hittingham, Assistant Cub Scoutmaster Lawrence Diehl, Committee Chairman Douglas Lange, Committee Secretary Downie, Homer Kuhl, Evan Knott, Vernon Parks, and Sponsor Representative Walter Schrader.

Each day's activities began with the flag ceremony. Also the flag ceremony was conducted Saturday afternoon, but not Sunday as the group left camp to early. Recreation consisted mostly of soccer and volleyball. There was an enforced rest period following each meal, and lights out sounded at 8 p.m. Saturday. There was at least one dad in each cabin with the Cubs and there in the larger ones taken to and from the church of their choice, and all were back for dinner shortly after noon. Some young ladies who were at a nearby camp dropped in to see how Cub Scouts are at meal time, but turned down an invitation to eat with them.

The Saturday noon lunch consisted of hot dogs and buns, with all the trimmings, potato chips, milk and cookies. At the evening meal cold cuts, green beans, potato chips, pickles, and fried chicken were served. After the rest period, all went down near the lake to a camp-fire, and had a sing. Marshmallows were passed around, but most of the Cubs didn't have room for more than one. Sunday breakfast consisted of orange juice, cereal (choice of several kinds), bananas, milk, toast and fried cakes. For Sunday dinner roast ham, roast new potatoes, bread and butter, peas, apple sauce, fruit cocktail, and milk were served.

Coffee was served after the meal. Just before the Cubs left home, most of them with their parents who came to see the camp and escort them home, they were served a bottle of pop and a candy bar.

The Cubs, with some of the dads, packed the entire area, while others did the KP Sunday afternoon. Such a good job was done that the camp ranger gave an A-1 rating.

After the Pack picnic, scheduled for June 19, there will be no more Cub Scout activities until the week after school starts next fall, except for the adult leaders who will be notified as to meetings.

The HERB CORNER

Flavor, Fragrance, Beauty

There is no pleasanter place to dine on a warm evening than a screened porch or breezeway near which a bed of mint adds its cooling fragrance to the soft summer breeze. Not all have such a setting in which to serve meals, but there are many ways mint can give a lift to summer meals.

For breakfast, add a sprig of mint to each cool glass of orange juice, or serve sliced oranges lightly dusted with powdered sugar and garnished with a sprig of mint.

When roast leg of lamb is served, it is usually accompanied by mint jelly. Lamb chops, too, are better with mint. Have the butcher slit them, put a few leaves in the slit, fasten with a skewer, and broil as usual.

A small pinch of crumbled dried mint leaves, added to canned or frozen spinach when it is put on to heat, enhances the fresh-spinach flavor.

Salads of pear halves and cream cheese balls rolled in chopped nuts, or sliced pineapple and cottage cheese are delightful any time, and particularly in warm weather, when a bit of chopped fresh mint leaves is added to the cheese.

A cold fruit cup is an especially refreshing finale to dinner on a warm evening when it has been slightly sweetened with a mint sauce made with equal portions of fresh fruit, packed down, and water, and a double portion of sugar boiled together for five minutes, strained, and colored with green food coloring. After the cooled sauce has been added to the fruit cup, it should be chilled a couple of hours to give the flavors time to blend.

A tasty sandwich to serve with iced tea is made with your favorite bread and a pineapple-cream cheese spread to which chopped mint leaves have been added.

Just before the Cubs left home, most of them with their parents who came to see the camp and escort them home, they were served a bottle of pop and a candy bar.

NROTC Students Will Participate in Training Cruise

Ann Arbor—Sixty-five University of Michigan students in the Naval Reserve Officers Training Corps will participate in summer training cruises as midshipmen in the U. S. Navy, included in the group will be Frederick R. Anderson, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Anderson.

The U. of M. students will be among 5,885 midshipmen from the U. S. Naval Academy at Annapolis and other colleges and universities participating in the NROTC program to take part in three cruises—Alfa, Bravo and Charlie.

U. of M. students will join the latter two cruises for a first-hand opportunity to learn their jobs as future naval officers.

Cruise Bravo will begin June 10 at Norfolk, Va., where 2,085 NROTC midshipmen will board the battleship Wisconsin, the cruiser USSA Albany and eight destroyers bound for the west coast of South America. After taking part in the Jamestown Festival, these ships will embark for the Panama Canal on June 19, then visit Valparaiso, Chile, their first liberty port.

Later they will make stops in Cristobal and Balboa, Cuba, and land in Puerto Rico for gunnery and operational training. Cruise Bravo will return to Norfolk Aug. 5.

Cruise Charlie will embark 1,120 NROTC midshipmen in Norfolk and get underway July 8 for Quebec, Canada. After six days there they will move to Boston to spend July 28-30 there. The cruise will end Aug. 7 when the ships return to Norfolk. This group is composed of the cruiser Des Moines and 12 destroyers and escorts.

Mississippi's vacation period season stretches the year around.

Marriage To Last Lifetime, Requires Bride's Minute Care, Preparation

Give Your Attention To Details

Marriage is a most momentous event in a woman's life.

Shaped by tradition that has evolved over the centuries, the wedding ceremony emphasizes the permanence of marriage.

And like anything that is to last a lifetime, marriage requires much care and preparation. Just as a building is erected on the finest steel girders so the framework of a wedding is constructed of faithful attention to small details.

Nuptial etiquette isn't a meaningless conglomeration of ironclad rules. There's reason or charming significance behind every wedding custom. Although they may keep the bride—and her mother—running in hectic, happy circles for weeks before the big day, neither would willingly forego a single one of them.

Make a Calendar

There are the invitations to be ordered and hand-addressed to both the bridegroom's family list and the bride's list three or four weeks before the wedding.

If it's to be a church wedding, the couple should talk to the clergyman about reserving the church, about decorations, music, what to pay the organist and other arrangements.

At a formal wedding the bride wears a traditional wedding gown and veil. The train is a matter of preference. Her bridesmaids, usually from one to six, and maid or matron of honor, wear the style and color of dresses she selects.

Selecting the gown, attending rehearsals and a round of partying, making reception plans, gathering a trousseau—and getting a good night's sleep before the wedding—are only a part of the bride's responsibilities. As for the brunt of expenses—well, that's what fathers' savings accounts are for.

The bridegroom isn't exactly idle, either. He has to get the ring, see to the license, give flowers to the bride, and the mothers, provide the ushers with boutonnieres, give the bride a sentimental, memorable gift, arrange the honeymoon, attend rehearsals, and so on.

Down the Aisle

But the wedding day finally dawns. The march down the aisle is maneuvered smoothly; the ceremony proceeds without hitch if you don't count the groom's only slightly nervous fumbling with the ring. The reception is delightful and gay, with caterers and photographers performing their chores with unobtrusive efficiency.

Finally the couple slips away, showered with rice and good wishes, to begin a lifetime of happiness.

The work and planning to bring it off was monumental, but what better monument can be built than a happy marriage?

INVITING INVITATIONS

When the bride and her mother have completed their invitation and announcement lists they should go to a printer and settle on a style from his samples of printing and engraving. And remember to allow him plenty of time to deliver.

The bridal consultant at your favorite store will be glad to advise you about your wedding gown, bridesmaids' dresses, trousseau, etc. Any problem, in fact, has years of experience will be a big help to you.

Make Shower Gay, Gifts Practical

Showers—the bride with gifts of lasting usefulness is a charming institution. And it's fun for everybody.

In fact, the bride is rare who would feel quite properly married without at least one shower in her honor.

The party itself is all frothy gaiety. But the gifts are practical as practical can be. As Vogue puts it: "The practical wedding present—for the bride."

The shower—which is given by friends, never relatives of the bride or groom—may center around a luncheon, bride party, tea or supper.

Usually the mothers of the bride and groom and girl friends of the bride's age are invited. No one should be asked who isn't on the wedding list.

Purpose of Shower

Invitations may be given by telephone or informal note. The theme and color scheme, if any, are included in the invitations. The main purpose of a shower is to give the bride gifts she needs to start housekeeping. Since the same persons will have to give wedding presents later on, shower gifts are usually not too expensive.

But this doesn't rule out giving larger gifts. Open two or more gifts—or the whole group—will pool their money to buy a toaster or electric coffee maker or roaster. These gifts make more sense than the cute but useless contributions that clutter an attic later on.

The most successful showers carry the theme through gifts and decorations.

Decorations, of course, don't have to be elaborate to be effective. Ingenuity and good taste are what count.

One good basic decoration—which can be varied to suit—is the opened umbrella, standing at an angle on table or floor, serving as a sort of cornucopia from which the gaily wrapped gifts spill.

Here are some suggestions for kinds of showers to give:

THE STEEL SHOWER

The latest—and most practical—kind of bridal shower features the many wonderful gifts of steel to make the bride's home more beautiful and her housekeeping easier. These include pots, mixing bowls, egg beaters, ladles, stainless-steel flatware, trays and chafing dishes, pitcher-ice buckets, a strainer, candelabra, fireplace screen and the various electric appliances.

For decorations, a perfect note is a pretty umbrella—which can be one of the bride's gifts because it has steel ribs—placed open in the center of the table to frame the gifts. Around the edge of the umbrella, at the tip of each steel rib, attach a small steel cooking utensil—children's sets are ideal for this purpose—such as a small coffee pot, egg beater, spoon, etc.

A steel shower centerpiece may be made using a flower-trimmed steel umbrella frame, inserted partially open, into an inverted funnel surrounded by a wreath of forget-me-nots.

KITCHEN SHOWER

Among gifts to delight a bride's homemaking heart are the practical items to stock a well-equipped kitchen: Steel pots and pans in a wide range of sizes and at least two sturdy steel can openers. Cutlery is ever welcome: paring knives, potato peelers, bread knife, carving set, set of steak knives.

Showering the Bride

Bridal showers probably originated in the 1880's when a guest had an idea. She put all the little packages for the bride in a parasol. When the bride opened the parasol she was literally showered with gifts.

Hotel Reception

If you are unable to give a reception in your home, hotels are a socially accepted substitute. The room will be festively decorated for the occasion, and the catering will take care of the food and entertainment problem.

LINEN SHOWER

Linens can be displayed in a decorated laundry basket.

Bride's Hobbies Are Guide To Choice of Useful Gifts

Show her the bride's hobbies—and watch them grow.

Whether she plans to live in the country, suburbs or city, it's practically certain she'll be able to make her plants, window boxes, bulbs, vases, flower pots, wall plant holders, garden tools.

Who knows, she may name a new dahlia after you.

If she's an outdoor girl, what about a compass, sports watch, flashlight? And the indispensable picnic equipment—insulated jugs, barbecue grill, insulated bags—is almost a "must" these days.

If entertaining is her special delight, shower her with stainless steel flatware for the dinner table, iced bucket or cocktail shaker, chafing dishes, cigarette accessories, snack tables, bridge chairs and table corn-poppers. The gift list is as long as she'll be able to make her guest list.

Whatever the bride's hobby, she'll appreciate your remembering with gifts that indulge both it and her.

CATER TO THE CATERER

If you're giving a reception in a private home, you'll find it easier to call in a caterer than to try to do it all yourself. A caterer relieves the bride's mother of many tiresome responsibilities and insures a carefree, happy time for the bride.

Golden Rule of Living Suggests Enduring Gifts for the Bride

Steel Now Plays Big Gift Role

In choosing a gift for a bride, the Golden Rule is as usual—a good rule of thumb. Put yourself in her white satin shoes and think what you'd like to have—something practical, useful, a gift that would get constant use.

You wouldn't want one of those gag gifts that clutter a kitchen until it's dusted off and put away when the donor is expected to visit.

Take the kitchen, the center of home life. Just about everything that goes into a kitchen these days that goes into a kitchen is made of enduring steel.

All appliances—large and small—are made to last. Pots and pans, knives, gadgets and utensils, garbage cans, canisters, ice crushers—the list goes on and on.

Personal gifts, too.

For other parts of the house, you will always find practical gifts. An electric bed cover to keep her warm and an electric fan to keep her cool are bedroom equipment.

There are items to keep her beautiful and feeling fit as a bride for years to come: hair dryer, electric shaver, manicuring set.

Don't forget the personal gifts such as a sports watch, luggage or umbrella (if she didn't get one at the shower).

A clock is a timely gift. It will help her help him get to work on time. A clock-radio gives years of pleasure.

One of the most pressing items is a steam or dry iron. And don't forget the ironing board.

Perhaps she likes to garden. Tools are a sharp idea.

Brides like to start out being busy. What could be more helpful than matched closet accessories: shoe, tie, bag and belt racks; multiple skirt, blouse and trouser hangers; hat stands and garment bags. An inviting closet is good for husband training, too. It wouldn't be caught throwing his clothes around with such lovely surroundings to hang them in.

A gift that won't last very long, steel though it is, will be so deeply appreciated she'll forgive it—its short merry life. It's a gift box of drama, cocktail meat balls, date nut bread, boned chicken and other yummers. These are wonderful for the bride and groom as a party of two or when they're entertaining.

VERSATILE—This portable steam iron is one of the most practical gifts a lucky bride can receive. It's so light and compact it can be taken along on the honeymoon and, of course, it can be used forever after.

For Bride's Desk

Since marriage has its business side, why not outfit the bride's desk with staples, paper clips, letter opener and scissors, hole puncher, pencil sharpener and file boxes for recipes and bills? You'll be smoothing the way for the rough budgeting sessions ahead.

Decorative gifts include trays, bowls, pitchers, vases, ashtrays, cigarette boxes and lighters, bookends, wall brackets.

And don't forget stainless steel flatware, the pride of the bride's dinner table.

For the bride who likes to entertain, why not folding snack tables, ice bucket, cocktail shaker, or chafing dish? And for outdoor entertaining, lawn furniture or backyard barbecue grills can't be beat.

A gift that won't last very long, steel though it is, will be so deeply appreciated she'll forgive it—its short merry life. It's a gift box of drama, cocktail meat balls, date nut bread, boned chicken and other yummers. These are wonderful for the bride and groom as a party florist who will do the rest.

Practical Gifts Found in Cleaning Aids

A practical gift for the bride is a set of cleaning supplies to help her keep a spick-and-span home.

Two or more galvanized steel pails top the list, since many cleaning chores require one pail for soapy wash water and another for rinse water.

Other musts for setting up housekeeping include:

Dish cloths and towels, scrub brushes, sponges, bar, flake and liquid soap, cleanser, steel wool, scouring pads, and of course a carpet sweeper.

You may not think it's a romantic gift, but when it comes to mopping a floor—and most brides do come to it—a pail-and-sponge mop delight a girl's heart.

Stainless Steel Gifts Sure To Bring Modern Touch to Bridal Showers

By RUTH GELARIE
Housewares Editor

Stainless steel has some of the magic that the ancient alchemists were seeking. It is made for the young married who thinks, feels and lives informally.

Think how awkward it would have been fifteen years ago to give a bride a gift made of steel. Today, your new bride will likely be glad to have enough.

Electric appliances, stove to tableware, kitchen utensils and flatware made of stainless steel will last a lifetime, can never rust or tarnish, need no scouring, will not dent, chip, or scratch, and like glass, shed tastes and odors easily. It is next to precious gold and platinum in its ability to withstand time, wear and corrosion. Though beautiful and malleable, it is almost alone in its toughness and surface resistance to wear.

Family of Metals
What makes it stainless? Why is it sometimes bright and sometimes dull?

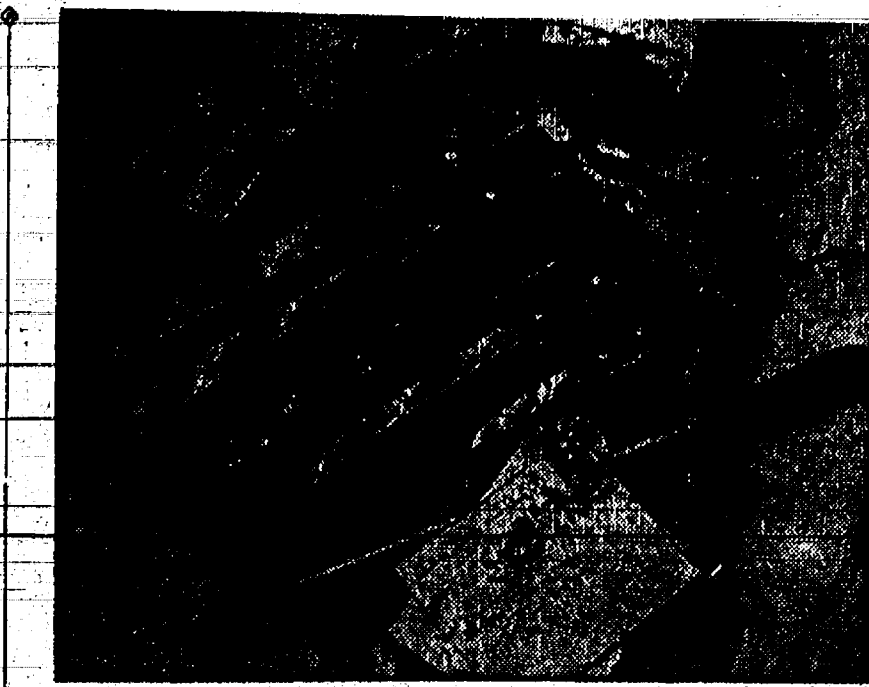

Actually it is a family of metals. The most common family characteristic is chromium. This provides the corrosion resistance.

Next most common ingredient is nickel. This tends to produce a whiter or more silver color. Other members of the family bear a close resemblance to each other, yet each is slightly different, having certain talents and traits for specialized jobs.

Here are some rules which will assure you of getting a quality stainless steel product:

1. Because stainless is stainless all the way through, judging the value of stainless steel is simply a matter of evaluating what you can see.
2. Look for proper grading (a balanced thickness). It provides the right symmetry, wear and "feel" to the item. Look for a spoon or fork that is somewhat thicker at the neck than at the extreme ends. The bowl of the spoon should also taper or grade toward the sides.
3. Check that the finish is uniform. That both sides of the handles are smooth to touch and polished in conformity to the flatter area.
4. Knives: the choice of stainless steel knives depends largely upon preference and the uses for which they are intended. Good quality stainless knives have excellent cutting edges, are highly durable, corrosion resistant, and seldom need resharpening.

Type is Important
In these days of high-quality manufacturing, whether the blade is forged or ground strip has no bearing on the excellence of the edge. More important is the type of stainless steel used and the control exercised in manufacturing. Blades made from strip steel are usually of nearly equal thickness throughout the length, except where metal has been ground away to provide the edge. Forged blades are often tapered.

APPRECIATION—Happy notes with nice gifts, such as this lifetime stainless steel knife set, give a warm feeling to the prospective bride. She can show her gratitude by writing thank you notes as soon as possible.

5. Look for a simple design. It is less costly as well as more in keeping with a material capable of high luster and a beauty all of its own. Moreover stainless steel needs no bumps and knobs to protect its surface from scratching; it is sufficiently hard in itself to resist marring.

If you want to give stainless steel pots and pans (you couldn't make a sound investment), keep in mind that this material is a poor conductor of heat. That means that for dry cooking, frying or braising a stainless pan must have some other metal that is a good conductor bonded to it. Here are some of the combinations of metals used in today's quality stainless steel cooking equipment: 1) Aluminum - cast bottom. 2) Copper clad bottom. 3) Stainless steel bonded to a copper sheet. 4) Ordinary steel sandwiched between two layers of stainless. 5) Copper sandwiched between two layers of stainless steel. 6) Ordinary steel between two layers of stainless, plus an outside layer of copper plate. 7) Iron sandwiched between two layers of stainless steel.

Each of these is an excellent

Ring History Very Old

The history of the wedding ring reaches far back into prehistoric days. The early woman was supposed to have sat before her cave displaying a circle of rushes around her wrist or ankle. Later, her ever-loving spouse replaced the rushes with a band of iron—in these days it would probably be steel—to signify the enduring nature of the relationship. (The circle was an early pagan symbol of eternal life). The band eventually wound up on the third finger of the left hand.

Gift Variety In Electric Housewares

Give a bride her wish, and likely as not she'll take electric housewares.

Either as a shower or a wedding gift, nothing delights the heart of the prospective homemaker half so much as an electric appliance. There's a vacuum cleaner or portable television or vibrator.

In the kitchen her coffee maker for her very first breakfast in the new home. Her electric mixer and waffle iron insure waffles just the way he likes them. No burnt toast will pop from the automatic toaster; the orange juice is just right, squeezed in the blender.

But the perfect first breakfast will be followed by a perfect dinner if she has been given an automatic skillet with controlled heat, a broiler, a rotisserie, a pressure cooker.

There are shredders, juice extractors, deep fat fryers, egg cookers, food mixers, ice cream freezers, ice crushers, knife sharpeners, meat grinders, roasters, sandwich grills, hand mixers—all designed to let the inexperienced bride serve meals that look and taste like an expert's. With such first rate help constantly assisting her, how could she miss?

Of course in certain areas of application, the fact that stainless is a poor conductor of heat, can be an advantage. For example, a stainless spoon left in hot soup will not get too hot to hold.

Clean Pots and Pans

If your gift is for a truly modern bride (one who wants none of the boredom of household chores—but all of its pleasures)—a table service or a pot and pan that will clean with soap and water and yet be pretty enough to use for "spit and polish" occasions, will surely appeal to her. And if the budget permits, she'll want to own it.

Bridal Bouquet

The groom always buys the bride's bouquet, although the bride selects it. It will be either all white or of delicate pastel flowers to match a pastel wedding gown. Your florist will be glad to make a bouquet with a detachable corsage in the center. You can take it out to pin to your going-away suit before tossing the bouquet to your attendants.

SHOWER GIFT put to use right away by the new bride. No coffee-making problem here—not even for the girl who's never boiled water. An automatic coffee maker is one of the most needed and treasured gifts a bride can receive.

Friendship Should Be Your Guide to Giving

Unless you are invited to both the wedding and reception, only the strength of your friendship with either bride or groom can tell you whether you should give a wedding present.

If either of the couple is a fairly close relative or a dear friend, it is customary to send a gift even if you are unable to attend the festivities.

Picture Pointers

Most photographers take pictures of the church decorations, house and bridal table before the ceremony. You'll need the clergyman's permission to take pictures during the ceremony itself.

Usually the professional photographer takes the formal pictures of the bride in her wedding dress either at the store during the final fitting or at the bride's home after the dress has been delivered, a few days before the wedding.

Wheat Quota Penalty Set

The marketing-quota penalty on 1957-crop "excess" wheat has been set at $1.12 per bushel, Max Kalmbach, Chairman of the Washington County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, has announced.

As the law directs, the penalty represents 45 per cent of the May wheat parity price of $2.50 per bushel.

This means, according to the chairman, that any farmer who harvests more than 15 acres of wheat and who did not comply with the wheat acreage allotment for his farm must pay a penalty of $1.12 for each bushel of the farm marketing excess. The penalty is computed on all acres in excess of the allotment.

Farmers who exceeded their allotments should have adjusted their wheat acreage by June 10, 1957, and thus bring the acreage into compliance with the allotment. Those with excess wheat acreage after that date will not receive marketing cards until the penalty on the excess wheat has been paid or the excess wheat has been disposed of as instructed.

Wheat from farms with excess wheat acreage will not be eligible for price support.

Hens Eating Up YOUR PROFITS?
Feed Economical NEW Larro SURELAY (FORMERLY LARRO EGG MASH)

You may THINK you're saving money by buying a cheap feed. But you're probably really losing potential PROFITS. A better feed that produces just one extra egg per bird every month is worth $1.12 MORE per bag.

A Leghorn hen eats about 40 lbs. of Larro Surelay a year, so 50 hens will eat about a ton. An extra egg each month from 50 cents a dozen eggs or 50 dozen each year. Fifty dozen eggs at 45 cents a dozen is $22.50 EXTRA PROFIT for each ton of Larro Surelay fed.

Just one EXTRA EGG from each bird every month makes LARRO Surelay worth $22.50 more per ton of $1.12 more per bag. And you'll probably find that your hens will produce an extra 2, 3 or even more eggs each month when you feed them LARRO Surelay.

"PAY THE CASH AND BUY FOR LESS"

WASNT THAT AN AWFUL PRICE TO PAY FOR MEDICINE?

MAYBE... BUT IT'S WORTH THE PRICE TO GET WELL SO QUICKLY!

When your pharmacist hands you a small bottle of one of the "new" medicines and tells you the cost, it may seem like a high price to pay for a prescription.

But when you consider what these new medicines your doctor prescribes can do—in getting you well quicker, back on the job, earning money again—you realize what good value you're getting.

Due to the constant advances in medical science and the development of more potent drugs, a siege of sickness costs a person less today than ever before in history.

Twenty years ago, for example, hospital patients stayed an average of 14 days, as compared with 9 days average now. An appendicitis operation used to mean a hospital stay of 3 weeks—now it's usually 3 days. Hernia cases were usually hospitalized 21 days—now they're often home in a week. And pneumonia patients, if they survived, had to stay 3 to 6 weeks. Now they're usually home in a week—if they leave it at all.

Any way you look at it—in terms of saving days of hospital time, the fewer visits needed from your doctor, or your return to income-producing work much sooner—the money you spend for prompt and proper medical care can well turn out to be one of the really big bargains of your life.

20 Cassidy Lake Youths Complete Speech Course

Among the thousands of young people completing high school and college classwork now for the school year are 20 young men at Cassidy Lake.

Special exercises were held here Monday, June 17, as these men who completed a 10-week course in effective speaking at the Cassidy Lake Technical School. This is the first time such a course, taught by Michigan State University, had been offered at this correctional institution.

This course materially helps to attain our objectives of sending confident young men into the world; men whose minds and hearts are properly directed.

So states Kenneth J. Shea, superintendent of the school, which trains young men 17 to 21 years old.

This class not only builds up the confidence of our students in their own abilities but also has the advantage of giving the men a chance to express themselves freely with no members of staff present, he explains. All the regular courses are taught by corrections employees.

Credit for the development of this non-credit MSU-Cassidy Lake project goes to John W. Rice, member on the Michigan State Corrections Commission.

Rice, who edits the Mining Gazette at Houghton, expressed the view one day last week that the MSU College of Communication Arts, that Michigan State could provide valuable service to the corrections institutions. The idea moved along and the MSU continuing education program assigned Murray Hewitt, speech instructor, to the course.

Developed as an experiment with the MSU College of Communication Arts speech department, this project began last April 15.

Twenty students were selected for the course and each has shown more than the usual desire to participate, reports H. B. Finn, principal of the Cassidy Lake School.

"Since its inception many more students have expressed a desire to enroll and our officials now are desirous of making this a permanent part of the correctional educational program," adds Principal Finn.

The class sessions, held from 1:30 to 4:15 each Monday afternoon for 10 weeks, covered many phases of effective speaking. Hewitt kept the course content flexible and helped the men when they requested class periods on the job interview, on conversational speaking, and other areas.

Each of the young men received a certificate of accomplishment at the last class meeting. And the instructor took along several gallons of ice cream to help the young men celebrate.

Cut Hay Crop Early To Give Best Quality Feed

Washtenaw county hay crop is now in the right stage for cutting to produce the best quality feed, according to agricultural agent Don Johnson.

Johnson points out that when only one-tenth to one-third of the plants are in bloom the crop will yield 15 to 25 per cent more protein than when it is in the later stages of maturity. Besides this, cows can digest early cut hay more completely than mature hay.

"When hay is cut at this early stage a dairyman can hold up milk production with less grain and protein supplement. This saving really shows up next winter," says Johnson. He adds, "The saving in protein alone can amount to as much as $25 a cow."

Grasses such as timothy and broom grass mature earlier than legumes. To get the most feed value from all hay, growers that are mostly grass should be harvested first.

The clovers change fast from bud stage to full bloom and are hard to catch at the right stage. If they become too mature, leaves fall off and much of the feed value is lost.

Alfalfa allows the widest range of harvesting time. The protein content seldom drops below 13 per cent even when harvested late. However, alfalfa produces the most protein and other nutrients per acre when it is cut early because a larger second crop can be harvested.

Johnson adds that the same hay cut early and stored properly, properly stored, produces the best feed.
