R. Waltrous Dies at Lima Farm Home

Roland B. Waltrous, widely known Lima township farmer, died Monday at home, 14526 Jerusalem road, following a long illness. He would have been 84 years old August 30.

A member of Olive Lodge No. 156, F&M for more than 60 years, he was a past master of the lodge and also a past patron of Olive Chapter No. 105, OES.

Born in Lima township in 1873 on the homestead farm where he died, he was a son of J. F. and Ada Bennett Waltrous.

December 12, 1893, he was married to Ruth May Loomis of Chelsea. She died in 1935. They were the parents of two daughters, Ada Catherine who died when she was a year old, and Rose, now Mrs. Jess F. Miller of Ann Arbor.

'Shooting Safety' Film Will Be Shown Rod, Gun Club Members Tuesday

Members of Chelsea Rod and Gun club will have an opportunity to view a color sound film, "Shooting Safety," at their next meeting, Tuesday, Aug. 13. The film is on loan from the Michigan Department of Conservation, according to the club president, Lea Bennett.

Since Rod and Gun club members will start the annual trap shooting season in the near future, the film is expected to be of special interest.

Detroit Area Milk Price Boosted to $5

The new milk price agreement in Detroit will add nearly three million dollars to farmers' milk checks in the next six months, according to Glenn Lake, president of the Michigan Milk Producers' Association.

Some dairies serving the Chelsea area raised their prices one cent a quart on Class I milk this week to absorb the higher price being paid the farmers. Others have kept their price at the same level for the present.

"The $5.00 Class I price obtained by the Association will average 35 to 50 cents a hundred above the Federal Order minimum for the life of the agreement," Lake said. "This figures out to about $50 extra income per farm per month."

"We are extremely pleased," the MMPA president added, "that a costly strike was avoided. Those of us who have observed these things know that a milk strike is accompanied by a great deal of bitterness and strife in rural areas. We naturally prefer to prevent this from happening if at all possible, yet we are prepared to exert every possible effort to obtain a price we are convinced is reasonable."

In the out-state Michigan markets, meanwhile, MMPA locals began negotiating this week for price hikes comparable to that obtained in the Detroit market. In the past 18 months, the prices in most out-state areas have been fairly close to Detroit prices. If this holds true for the next six months, farmers supplying the out-state markets will boost their incomes by an estimated million dollars.

Yesterday, reports were received that the Dairy Farmers' Cooperative Association of Michigan (DFC) was planning a milk strike Aug. 14, demanding $8 per hundredweight for Class I milk.

According to the reports, members of the DFC are not satisfied with the agreement made by the Michigan Milk Producers' Association with the Detroit dairies last week, requiring the $5 per hundredweight for Class I milk.

The group is organized in 28 Michigan counties, including all that ship milk to Detroit.

Van Bonn said his group is seeking a price of 90 cents a quart for milk used in making butter, ice cream, cheese and other manufactured products. He said, "the present so-called price support system which is supposed to give us 76 per cent of parity has not helped the farmers. Instead it has merely guaranteed some profit to the processors. Meanwhile, the organizational director for the DFC said he believed 400 per cent of the farmers will respond willingly to a milk strike on the Detroit market."

The market includes such cities as Ann Arbor, Ypsilanti, Pontiac, Dearborn, Grosse Pointe, Farmington Hills, and East Farmington as well as Detroit and its immediate suburbs.

Samuel Ballo of South Lyon, secretary of the DFC and an organizer and vice-president of the National Dairyman's Association, was quoted as stating that the strike would also affect Indiana, Ohio, Pennsylvania, New York, New Jersey and six New England states and would be supported by farmers in Wisconsin and Illinois who would prevent shipments of milk from those two states.

MANAGEMENT TOUR PREVIEW—Michigan State University officials, county agricultural agents and representatives of the press, radio and television made a preview visit last Friday to the two Washtenaw county farms, to be inspected on the State Farm Management Tour Tuesday, Aug. 20. Shown in the above photo are the group met at the Warren Huff farm near Plymouth, are, from left, Wilbur A. Dexter, assistant county agricultural agent for Washtenaw county; W. L. Finley, animal husbandry extension specialist, MSU; Ira Jump, vocational agricultural instructor, Manchester High school; Charles Beer, MSU extension specialist in agriculture economics; John Merrifield, farm editor of WWJ-TV; K. C. Lott, district extension supervisor, MSU; James C. Hendley, president, Union Savings Bank, Manchester; Warren Huff, farm owner and operator; Donald Johnson, Washtenaw county agricultural agent; and Dan Boutell, executive vice-president, Union Savings Bank, Manchester. In past years from 800 to 1,600 people have taken part in the annual tour. This is the first time Washtenaw county has been host to the group.

County, State Agents Plan Farm Management Tour

A preview of the Aug. 20 farm management tour took place Friday when representatives of newspapers and radio and television stations visited the two farms selected for the 1957 tour and were guests of the Union Savings Bank of Manchester at a noon luncheon at Schumm's.

The tour on Aug. 20 is for all interested farmers of the state. Dr. Clifford M. Hardin, chancellor of the University of Nebraska, will be the featured speaker at the noon program to be held at the Warren Huff farm on Curtis road, near Plymouth.

Dr. Hardin is a friend of long standing to Michigan farmers. Before becoming chancellor at University of Nebraska, Dr. Hardin was director of the Michigan State University experiment station. Prior to the directors position he was head of the Department of Agricultural Economics.

Friday's preview tour began in the morning with a visit to the Richard Powers farm at 4895 Peckens road, sometimes referred to as a "modern" milk factory. Where 100 dairy cows are kept on a productive basis on limited acreage.

Following the noon luncheon the group went to the Warren Huff farm. Here they saw the methods used in a large beef feeding project. Huff customarily has approximately 1,000 feeding cattle which he purchases in the west, feeds to a certain weight and then sells on the market in Detroit.

Both farms have unusual barn facilities and provide special demonstrations in feed groups, corn plant population, fertilizer feeding, feed storage, and business management.

Donald Johnson, Washtenaw county agricultural agent, said, "These are not typical farms. That's why they have been chosen for the State Farm Management Tour. They are farms and businesses conducted on tomorrow's know-how. That's why we think they will be interesting and educational to all who visit them on the tour on August 20."

Among those previewing on Friday were W. L. Finley, animal husbandry extension specialist at Michigan State University; Charles Beer, MSU extension specialist in agricultural economics; and K. C. Lott, MSU district extension supervisor.

Rec. Program Attendance Totals 5,422

Participation in the summer program of the Chelsea Recreation Council for the six-week period ending Friday, Aug. 2, reached a total of 5,422, according to a preliminary tally from figures reported weekly by Alan Conklin, recreation director.

The afternoon swimming was consistently popular, an average weekly attendance for the six-week period being 385. Peak attendance of 442 was reached the fourth week. All children who wished to go swimming could not be accommodated because of lack of transportation facilities for larger groups.

The morning athletic and playground attendance figures reached an overall total of 2,653 and evening athletic participation a total of 709, according to present figures.

Playground attendance last week, the sixth and final week of the 1957 program, was 350, while 354 children participated in the afternoon swimming; 157 at the morning athletic program; and 122 at the evening athletic program.

Wednesday night the Chelsea Junior League baseball team lost to Dexter in a game played on the local field. The score was 4-1.

In the Midget League, the "Yankees" won the championship by beating the "Tigers," 8-4.

Final league standings for the Midget League put the "Tigers" in second place, the "Indians" third, and the "White Sox" fourth. The "Indians" won their final game from the "White Sox" by a score of 12-4.

Summer Band Program To End Friday

This week marks the conclusion of the summer band program. Attendance at rehearsals of all three bands has been good according to Gayle Gordon, the director. Much progress has also been shown by individuals in their weekly class lessons. Rehearsals of all school bands will be resumed during the first week of school. However, senior high members may be contacted one week before school opens for marching practice if conditions at school permit.

Last Friday the Junior and Senior bands presented their concluding concerts at the high school. A cornet trio consisting of Robert Balmer, Donna Walz, and Byron Pearson and patron twirlers, Matthew Brown and Dolores Schmitt were featured. Donald Wilson and Virginia Miller were the announcers for the Junior and Senior band programs, respectively. The Band Boosters under the leadership of Mrs. Willard Pearson sold popcorn and pop to raise funds for needed band equipment. The public address system was again furnished through the courtesy of Frigid Products.

A small group from the Senior band met Monday afternoon at the school to play through some new football half-time shows to be played this fall.

Several of our Senior Band members have been playing in the Dexter High and Waterloo community bands this summer, in addition to the local group. Also, Alan Bodell, who is a drummer in the Dexter High band, has attended several of our summer rehearsals. Marvin Fisher, Quentin Smith, (Continued on page 12)

Zion Evangelical Lutheran Church Marks 90th Year

Mrs. L. Chapman Dies Wednesday at Ann Arbor Hospital

Mrs. Leon Chapman died early yesterday at St. Joseph's Mercy hospital, Ann Arbor, where she had been a patient for several weeks.

The former Dorothy Satterthwaite, she graduated from Chelsea High school and attended Eastern Michigan College at Ypsilanti, then Michigan State Normal College. She taught rural schools in the Loveland and Red school districts.

Mrs. Chapman was a member of the Congregational church and the Women's Fellowship of the church. She was also a member of the South Sylvan Extension club and the Hi-Neighbor club.

Born at Jackson, Feb. 7, 1903, she was a daughter of George and Katherine Buehler Satterthwaite. The family moved to the Chelsea area in 1912.

She and Mr. Chapman were married June 24, 1925 in Chelsea. Their home is at 20501 Jerusalem road.

Survivors of Mrs. Chapman are her husband; a daughter, Mrs. Howard Baker of Ann Arbor; a son, Larry, at home; two grandchildren; her father; a sister, Mrs. Paul Klager of Ann Arbor; and two brothers, LeRoy and Vernon Satterthwaite of Chelsea. Her mother died Nov. 18, 1936.

Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon at the Stefan Funeral Home with the Rev. Thomas Toy officiating. Burial will take place in Vermont cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home.

The history of the church actually dates back to November, 1865, when a number of members of St. Thomas Evangelical Lutheran church, several miles to the east, decided to organize a separate congregation for the so-called western half of the original congregation.

The group's plans for erecting a church were delayed however, until 1867, when the present church at the corner of Waters and Fletcher roads was constructed. The church was dedicated shortly before Christmas of that year and has served as a place of worship for the Zion congregation throughout the intervening 90 years.

The Rev. Mr. Hildner, pastor of Bethel church in Freedom township, served the newly-formed group from 1865 until after the death of the church's first pastor, Rev. H. H. Hildner, who had adopted a constitution at its annual meeting in 1867. The constitution was signed by 34 charter members, many of the names remaining familiar in activities of the church to the present time—Schank, Eschbach, Russ, Knaus, Grau, Eisenmann, Halst, Koengster, Zahn and others.

The first church council included Michael Hinderer, John Schenk and Jacob Eschbach. They were elected Jan. 1, 1866.

For the first six years after its organization the church was served by the Rev. Mr. Gebauer who had been jointly called by St. Thomas and Zion Evangelical Lutheran churches.

In 1873 the Rev. John Baumann became the first full-time pastor of the Rogers Corners church and a parsonage, as well as a school for religious instructions, was erected. In 1893 the original parsonage was replaced by another house erected on Fletcher road, some distance north of the church.

The Rev. Baumann served the church until 1895 and was succeeded by the Rev. F. Merz, 1895-1898; the Rev. H. Lemster, 1898-1910; the Rev. E. Thieme, 1910-1926; the Rev. M. W. Bruckner, 1926-1935; and the present pastor, the Rev. Robert C. Kaiser.

In 1930, during the second year of the Rev. Lemster's pastorate, a number of members of Zion Evangelical Lutheran Church left the congregation and formed the neighboring St. John's Evangelical church, now the Evangelical and Reformed church of St. John's church members have been invited to attend the 90th anniversary service. The church board, in extending the invitation stated, "In view of the fact that your forefathers were also involved in the formation of this congregation and also, especially, in view of the spirit of Christian love that now prevails between our two congregations, we want to extend a special invitation to all of you to (Continued on page 12)

Illegal To Train Dogs at Night

County Conservation officer Don Boyer has warned area hunters that the training of dogs at night is illegal at this time of year. Boyer said several arrests for this offense have been made in this vicinity in recent weeks.

A new conservation law goes into effect Sept. 1, permitting night training of hunting dogs from Aug. 15 through Oct. 25. Boyer stated, "Because of the Sept. 1 effective date, however, this year's starting date will remain the same as that provided by the original law which set the dates at Sept. 1 through Oct. 5."

Fremont Boyer, accompanied by his mother, Mrs. Alpha Sanders of Charlotte, and Mrs. John Miller of near Cassidy Lake, spent from Friday until Monday on an automobile trip to St. Louis, Mo., and Belleville, Ill. In St. Louis they visited the Keith Boyer family and at Belleville they visited Alvin Second Class and Mrs. Gary Packard. The latter is a daughter of Mrs. Miller and Alvin Packard is a grandson of Mrs. Sanders.

PLAYGROUND PARTY—Cold lemonade and cookies were served as refreshments at the party held Friday, concluding the six-week summer playground program of the Chelsea Recreation Council. The party was held on the playground at Chelsea High school with Audrey Haab, assistant playground supervisor, serving. A similar party was held for another group at South Elementary school.

Mrs. Haab and Mrs. Edmund Kaiser, playground supervisor, have been in charge of playground activities, Miss Haab serving at South Elementary school and Mrs. Kaiser at the High school playground. Total participation in morning playground and athletic field activities for the six weeks was 2,653. The final week of the program 350 children attended the supervised playground activities for a daily average of 70.

REPORT FROM BERLIN:

Three Nazi War Criminals Remain in Allied Prison

By Norman Lindhurst
(Foreign Correspondent)

For years the prisoners have not been allowed to cut their own food. Radio has been "verboten," newspapers have been barred. In the early days, the only kind of foot wear permitted were wooden slippers with two canvas straps, similar to those worn by captives in Hitler's concentration camps.

The men of Spandau have never been allowed to handle a razor. The prison barber shaves them. Since no German is allowed near the war criminals, the barber and all other civilian personnel are to come into contact with the inmates must be non-German—D.P.'s, Yugoslavs, Czechs, etc.

German civilians of the staff—stokers, mechanics and clerks—never lay eyes on the former Third Reich leaders.

At one time, the Soviet prison administrators voted post blank Western proposals that the men of Spandau be allowed to do-out work in the prison yard.

No, they insisted, the inmates must stay locked in their cells. But after arguing the point for four years, they gave in.

And in other ways there have been slow-motion changes. The concessions have been grudging, but they show a slight cooling off from the Nurnberg anger.

Just which national contingent provides the monthly guard for Spandau, and which warden has the final say, has always been the most important thing in the daily life of the handful of prisoners.

Christmas 1953 was a red letter date. GIs were in charge of guarding the Men of Spandau.

In no way pandering to the Nazi war criminals, the US Army did show them a conqueror's humanity.

There was turkey for Christmas dinner, extra tobacco, eggs and bacon and grapefruit for breakfast. Walter Funk could play carols on a harmonium.

In their T-shaped cell blocks the three remaining ex-Nazi overlords wonder what the future holds for them. Technically, they are not entitled to a second's remission of their prison term. Good conduct doesn't count (there is little opportunity for bad conduct anyway.)

If Spandau is closed, what should be done with the last three prisoners?

Hess is serving a life term. Speer and von Schirach, who both got 20 years at Nurnberg, are not due for release until 1966.

It is true that both Funk and Reader, who have already been released, were serving life terms. They were much older men and in bad health.

Seek To Find If Farm Youth Suffer in Jobs

East Lansing—Do young people from farming areas really lag behind their city cousins in achieving advancement and success in industry?

An answer to this question is sought in a ten-year study being made of young men in Michigan's Lenawee county under direction of Dr. Archie O. Haller, associate professor of sociology and anthropology at Michigan State University.

Results of the study, sponsored by the Agriculture Experiment Station, will be used in counseling those who must seek employment off the farm.

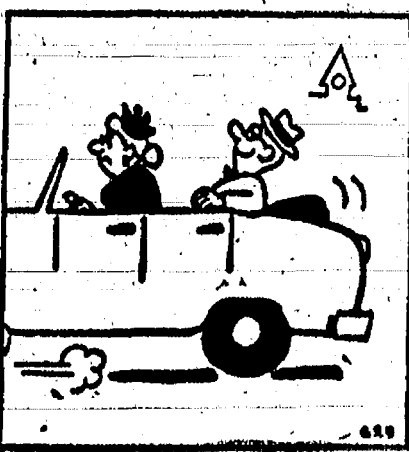

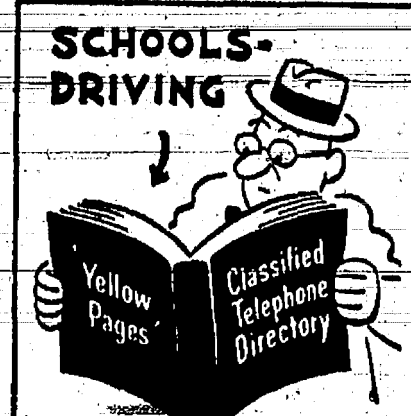

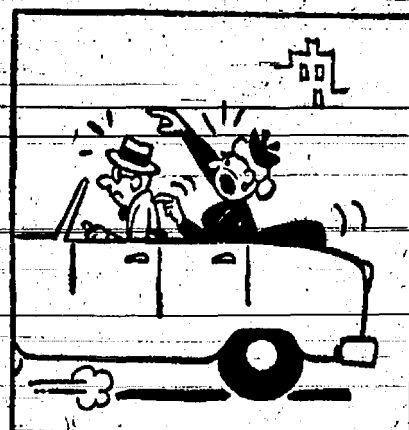

"Previous research at University of Wisconsin shows there is a close correlation between the prestige level of the occupation young people hope to reach and what they actually do," Dr. Haller said. "For example, a boy may decide to become a doctor. Although he may not actually become a doctor, he is likely to enter some type of professional work—perhaps becoming a lawyer."

"On the other hand, a boy who only hopes to work in a factory is likely to be in this type or some closely related work (such as truck driving) instead of a profession several years after graduation from high school."

According to Dr. Haller, previous research also has shown that the occupational level which young people hope to reach is closely related to the amount of education they receive following high school.

A situation which the study seeks to examine is that of the farm youth who is trained only for his intended goal of farming, then has to leave the farm to seek employment in the city.

"Even though a city boy only plans to work in a factory, he has taken some technical school training or some high school courses pointing in this direction. We think he will be in a position to advance faster than the unskilled farm youth," Dr. Haller said.

New Market Seen for Michigan Potatoes in 'Flakes'

A new market may be developing for Michigan potato growers. Through a process recently developed by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Michigan potatoes can now be made into high-quality, dehydrated mashed potatoes called "potato flakes."

Before, this process was developed only for western grown potatoes with very high dry-matter content would yield an acceptable dehydrated product. Consequently the potato dehydrating industry is now centered in Idaho.

But this new process, according to Smith Greig, agricultural economist at Michigan State University, could easily cause shift in producing areas and give Michigan growers a wider market. Michigan potatoes, made into flakes, can probably compete on an equal price basis with dehydrated potatoes from Idaho, he says.

The result of potato dehydrating in Michigan would not likely give any higher price to growers, says Greig, but it would allow them to produce and sell more without a cut in price.

Greig adds that market tests have already shown a promising potential for this product. He says, Michigan State University is now conducting additional market studies on potato flakes.

Single Operation Cleans, Sanitizes, Preserves Eggs

Farmers may soon be able to preserve eggs by applying oil while they are washing and sanitizing them. This research development was announced by Y. Sabot, microbiologist at Michigan State University at the Poultry Science Association meeting in Columbia, Mo.

Eggs are usually washed in a sanitizing solution to remove dirt. Sometimes oil is applied to preserve them for a longer period of time. The oil keeps the surface of the eggs dry and protects them from penetration by bacteria.

With the method developed by Sabot, the oil can be applied at the same time the eggs are washed. In his experiment, Sabot used a 10 per cent solution of oil mixed with the washing solution. The eggs were washed for three minutes in an egg washing machine and dried by a fan.

Sabot counted organisms in a sample of the eggs immediately after washing, after 30 days and after 60 days. The results showed that the treatment protected the eggs from organisms and maintained quality for a longer time.

Ammonia Needs Help To Do Fertilizing Job

Some farmers are not getting the crop response from anhydrous ammonia that they did when they first started using it.

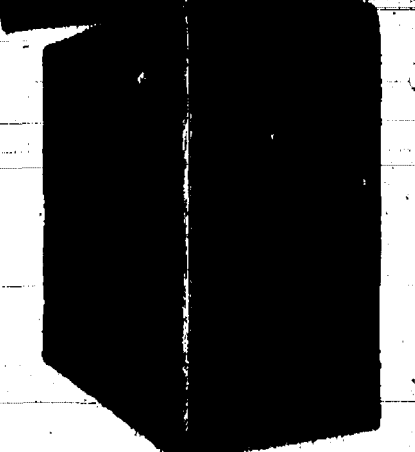

J. P. Davis, soil scientist at Michigan State University, said crop yields may be high temporarily because of the reserve fertility that has been building up over the years, but unless extra phosphorus and potassium are used with the extra nitrogen, response to anhydrous ammonia or any high rate of nitrogen fertilizer may not be as great as it was at first.

Pharmacy Grown from Trade Status to Exacting Science

Ann Arbor—"No prescriptions filled today. Pharmacist is out in the woods gathering more drugs."

A sign like that have told the truth 100 years ago, says Dr. Fredrick F. Blicke, of the University of Michigan College of Pharmacy. In those days materials of the pharmacist's trade occurred naturally, such as saffron, coal tar, cherry bark, and dried animal organs.

"Where the mixing of drugs was a skilled trade many years ago, today it is an exacting science," he notes. "Where 100 years ago there were neither pharmaceutical manufacturers as we know them today, nor academic courses in pharmacy at any university, today research in pharmaceutical chemistry is a strong part of the University's graduate program, and close cooperation exists between the pharmaceutical industry and the U-M College of Pharmacy in all phases of research."

Why the great change? Somewhere along the line chemists began synthesizing drugs—making new, unknown compounds chemically. Once the door was opened, thousands and thousands of new compounds were made. For a change, pharmacists found drugs that would actually cure disease instead of merely lowering pain and relieving symptoms. Some of the curative drugs were found naturally, such as penicillin, quinine, and reserpine.

"We did not actually begin to cure diseases until chemists got the idea of synthesizing compounds that did not occur in nature," says

Dr. Blicke, who is a professor of pharmaceutical chemistry. Synthesis has become an extremely complex business. Many of the drugs we take now do not occur naturally.

Not all of these are perfect either, he reminds. There is no such thing as a drug without side effects.

"Our research at present is primarily concerned with improving the more recently discovered families of drugs such as anti-spasmodic, tranquilizers, and anti-histamines. Our graduate student researchers are hard at work to find compounds with fewer side effects than those on the market now. For example, we are attempting to take the sleepiness effect out of those anti-histamines which cause this side reaction," Dr. Blicke explains.

The University's College of Pharmacy works closely with pharmaceutical firms to bring the public better drugs. The industry contributes to pharmaceutical chemical research at the University by providing fellowships and grants which help finance the work of Pharmacy's Ph. D. candidates.

Senator Kennedy Speaks His Mind About the French-Algerian War

Senator John F. Kennedy, Massachusetts Democrat, unexpectedly called upon the United States to stop supporting the French war in Algeria. The announcement stunned State Department officials and, it was assumed, caused a wave of hostile reaction in France.

However, it is now revealed that Senator Kennedy's proposal received surprising support in France itself. Secretary of State Dulles took a dig at young Senator Kennedy's remarks by saying that he would do better to busy himself with Communist colonialism, rather than to criticize our already sensitive allies.

The United States, in supporting French colonialism in Algeria, is doing more to inflame the Arab world and turn them toward Communism than by any other one act.

Senator Kennedy, who is not afraid to speak out on the subject, can see that also. Furthermore, he can see contrary to Dulles' assertion that we do not want to concern ourselves with a very complicated French problem—that we are already very much involved.

France is a member of NATO and we are supplying the French with aid, in the form of money, loans and arms. Moreover, we are trying to win the friendship of the Arab world and establish a new Middle East Doctrine in that area.

Yet, the Carlo radio, and all Arabs, continually harp on the theme that we are supplying the French with arms and backing their colonialistic war in Algeria. The French contend that Algeria is a part of France, but this is a rather weak contention, and the war in Algeria, the French colonialist war, will probably turn out the same way the French colonial war in Indochina and in Morocco turned out—in French defeat.

Why the French are not wise enough to see the light in time, and pull out with dignity and generosity, maintaining the friendship and respect of the Arabs, we are at a loss to understand. Even the British have acted much more wisely in this respect.

Pacifism Is Not Considered Peace

The over-emphasis that some religious leaders place upon pacifism is unfortunate because this tends to develop an erroneous attitude on the part of young men as to the duties and responsibilities that rest upon them as citizens of a great nation.

This effect may be seen in the number of young Americans, who during our recent wars, proclaimed their conscientious objections to war. Surely, no man in his good sense, would suggest that we submit supinely to the attack of barbarians and permit them, in their ignorance and avarice, to destroy the civilization that we think has been created very largely by the Christian philosophy itself.

While we realize that every person professing any religion should follow its teachings, there is nothing to be gained by allowing a misinterpretation of great principles to cause one to turn his back upon the practical problems of human life. The idea that pacifism is the way to peace has never been established.

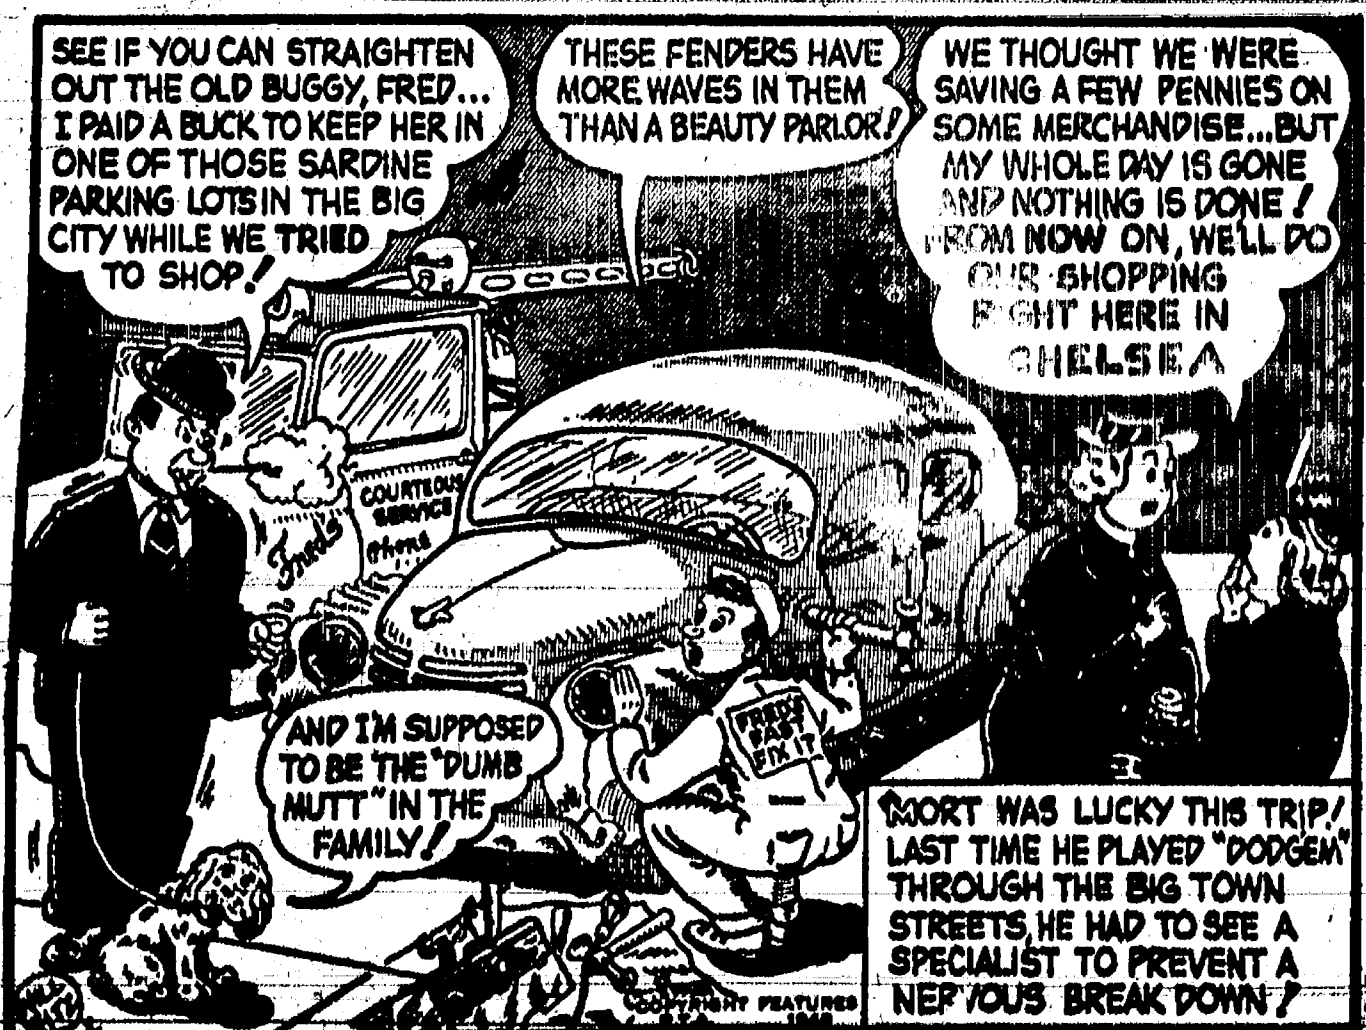

The example of India, often praised for its non-violence campaign for independence, is of little value because what gave India their freedom was the conscience of the British people. This conscience was based upon the character developed under religious influence.

If anyone thinks this is a mistaken conclusion, let them think of what happened to those who stood in the way of Adolph Hitler, and those who now face the might of Communist Russia.

Women without principle sometimes draw much interest.

Breaking the Budget Barrier

MICHIGAN MIRROR

By Elmer E. White, Secretary, Michigan Press Association

Democrats are now embarked on their first complete operation of state government for the first time in two generations. Gov. Williams voiced a warning:

"We are on the spot to produce. We welcome that."

To the top six administrative offices won in 1956, the Democrats added the department of public instruction and the state highway department last spring.

The party celebrated by staging the first spring inauguration ceremonies in Michigan history.

Taking office were Dr. Lynn M. Bartlett, new superintendent of public instruction, Highway Commissioner John C. Mackie, and Chris Magnusson, new member of the state board of education.

Williams spoke of a "mandate of the people," and said the victories at the polls meant that the public wanted Democrats to build their highways and administer the education of their children.

It was made plain that major policies and decisions would be made in a position not too far away from the office Democrats have held for almost nine years—that of Williams.

The Democratic take-over in Michigan was a step-by-step process.

Williams shocked Republicans in 1948 when he handily defeated former Gov. Kim Sigler, bringing in with him his own lieutenant governor John Connolly and Atty. Gen. Steven J. Roth.

Roth and Connolly fell by the wayside two years later, but Williams remained alone but in a commanding position as chief executive.

Came 1954 and Williams won again with his full fall slate, leaving only the department of public instruction and the highway department still in the hands of Republicans.

Last spring, the full sweep was completed.

"Now we've got no one to fight with except the legislature (still Republican controlled)," said one Democratic chieftain.

Ladies now can be appointed as officers in the Michigan National Guard.

Major Gen. George C. Moran, the state's adjutant-general, asked Atty. Gen. Thomas M. Kavanagh for the legal ruling which resulted in the decision.

Kavanagh went back into the law books and discovered that only "able bodied males" were considered officer materials in the National Guard.

This, he ruled, did not take into account the need for nurses. So, he informed Moran he was perfectly proper in appointing women as officers, so long as they were designated as nurses.

Army worms invaded central Michigan this year in the worst assault on crops in the past 10 years.

Strangely, they are not under a state control program, though thousands of dollars have been spent to eliminate the gypsy moth, and other insects that threaten to denude farms of crops and foliage.

The experts said the army worms invade in cycles, every three to five years, starting in July, multiplying by millions and attacking grain fields until early in August.

The 1957 invasion was on a line between Muskegon and Bay City, affecting large segments of the Saginaw Valley.

The worst concentration was in the Mt. Pleasant area where communities were asked to get together to finance an aerial spray program proven effective in other parts of the country.

One state official said the invasions normally follow mild win-

Washington Report

By Senator Charles F. Potter
 The latest news from Washington of special interest to Michigan.

ONE BLOCK away from Washington's bustling downtown business section sits a shaded mansion mellowed by almost two centuries of history. The White House has a 16-acre front and backyard, elm trees, and a place to hang out the wash. The property is enclosed by a tall iron fence through which little boys who want to be President press noses and parents peer for a glimpse of the Chief Executive, who may sometimes be seen on the lawn.

I stopped in the other day for a talk with my boss.

When you have a business appointment with President Eisenhower, you do not enter the front door at 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue, but turn the corner to the "west wing." Here, back in 1902, President Theodore Roosevelt set up the offices, copying them for the first time from the official residence, and here the offices have remained.

At the appointed time, you turn left down a corridor to the office of Mr. Bernard Shanley, Appointment Secretary, located just next to the President's room. When the Chief Executive is ready to receive you, Mr. Shanley escorts you into the handsome oval office.

The hearty handshake, the wide grin, the quick grasp of your problem, the sympathetic attention as you state your case—all these are familiar, remembered from other visits. This time, however, you launch into your problem at once. The proposal you are about to make is so important that you have prepared a short memorandum to leave with the President. Here it is:

Good Response Reported to Health Insurance Survey

The Michigan State Medical Society today announced that returns have poured in from all over the state in a record response to its only mailing of questionnaires asking the people what they want in their medical-surgical insurance policies.

In the three-week period scheduled for reply, over 10,000 Michigan families, from a representative sampling, expressed themselves on the 31-part questionnaire.

Doctor D. Bruce Wiley of Udon, special survey committee chairman, observed as the deadline for returns passed that the response has been very good, and it clearly indicates that Michigan citizens take their health insurance seriously. They are taking advantage of this opportunity to help determine just what kind of coverage should be offered by prepayment health insurance plans, such as Blue Shield," he said.

The special public opinion survey was ordered in a special April meeting of the state medical society's policy-making House of Delegates after repeated demands by pressure groups for changes in medical-surgical coverage contracts.

Recipients of the questionnaires were selected by a scientific sampling process conducted by survey experts for the medical society and distributed so that the answers would accurately reflect the best thinking of the individuals in every segment of the population, e.g., labor, farm, professional, business, etc.

The doctors are confident that this "consultation with their partner," the man in the street, will provide a sound basis on which to formulate changes and revisions in the health plans presently being offered to the public.

The results of this special survey will be made public on September 23rd after completion of the 15th tabulation of the mountain of statistics being accumulated.

which effects the laboring men and women of the United States and particularly those in the State of Michigan.
"The rapid pace of scientific advance has produced machines which in many instances can entirely take over the work of men. Automation, as this process is termed, has reached a point where whole factories can be operated by a mere handful of persons. While automation is expected to bring miracles of production, at the same time it wipes out the need for certain types of jobs."
"Nowhere have all the facts and implications of automation been brought together in comprehensive and logical form. The problems created by the tide of mechanization are urgent. Automation, for example will seriously affect small businesses. How can we save them from annihilation? Automation will deprive workers of jobs and is doing so already. Where do we reemploy them? Automation creates needs for new skills. How and where shall workers be retrained? What of the older workers who cannot be retrained?
"I cannot emphasize too strongly the need for prompt measures, so that dislocations in the economy may be avoided. I respectfully urge that a federal commission be created to study the impact of this dynamic new force of automation and that it be empowered to make recommendations in the interest of all segments of our society. I further urge that while such a commission is being set up, that you direct the Department of Labor to immediately initiate a pilot study in Michigan, one of the most highly industrialized states in the union, where the effects of automation are becoming increasingly apparent."

THE PRESIDENT, with his arm around your shoulder, says, "Charlie, this is a fine idea. We'll follow through with Jim Mitchell." As you leave, you see him pick up your memorandum and begin to read it again. Outdoors, in the steamy Washington heat, you push through a line of tourists waiting to visit the resplendent East Room, Blue Room and State Dining Room of the Executive Mansion. Hardly a one of them knows of the existence of the wing you have just left. You return to the Capitol, hoping that your efforts to serve a great State and her great people will succeed.

CONSUMER PRICES

Consumer prices reached a new high in May for the ninth consecutive month, with rising food prices a major factor in the increase. The upward trend, combined with a downward trend in the number of hours worked a week, led to another small drop in factory workers' purchasing power.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics' consumer price index rose 0.3 percent in May to 119.6. This was 3.6 percent higher than in May, 1956.

The HERB CORNER Flavor, Fragrance, Beauty

Flavor is, of course, the prime essential in any food we serve. Texture and aroma are probably next in importance.

Frequently when a food is disliked, it is the texture rather than the flavor which does not appeal. Anyone who has introduced chopped foods to a baby who has had only strained foods has observed one of our first reactions to texture in food.

Although some foods we like have little aroma and some of us have learned to like some foods whose aroma is anything but pleasant, a pleasing aroma will always increase appetite appeal.

Fresh or dried herbs can do much to improve flavor and add an appetizing appeal.

Herbs can be of great help in another factor of almost equal importance, appetizing appearance.

Because parsley has always been easily obtained, there is a tendency to use it almost exclusively when a garnish is thought of.

With a small collection of growing herbs at hand there is a variety of garnishes available.

Chervil has a more finely cut foliage and is a daintier garnish than parsley. A sprinkling of finely cut chives adds a bit of contrasting color to a bowl of soup.

The bright green leaves of lemon balm are pretty with sliced oranges, with tomato aspic, and in fruit cups.

Any of the mints, of which there are quite a number, are acceptable garnishes. A cherry and a couple of mint leaves in the center of a grapefruit half makes an ordinary breakfast dish pretty enough for the most special occasion.

Sprigs of fennel, with its dill-like leaves, are an attractive touch to add to salads, boiled potatoes and fish. The soft, feathery leaves of Sweet Cicely are pretty when a touch of green is wanted.

With a small herb garden and your own imagination, there need be no monotony in the garnishes used on your table.

No need to thaw frozen hamburgers before cooking. Just brown and cook slowly in a little fat in the skillet until they're done just the way you like them—medium or well-done.

Cotton gives a serviceable, colorful washable rug at moderate prices. The pile crushes, but can be raised by using a vacuum cleaner or carpet sweeper.

Carpet rayon has brought glamorous color and luxurious softness to rugs in the medium price range. Their compact construction gives good service, tells Miss Marion.

Nylon makes beautiful, long-wearing carpets and rugs that resist crushing. It is spot resistant and easily cleaned.

Saran is very resilient and crush-resistant. It resists spotting and can be cleaned with soap and water. Many spots can just be wiped from a Saran carpet.

PEDESTRIAN DEATHS
In a year when automobile fatalities reached a new high, 7,958 pedestrians lost their lives, 50 fewer than the previous records set in 1954 and 1953, respectively.

Floor Covering Should Be Chosen To Meet Room Needs

A rug or carpet on the floors of your home makes it attractive, cozy and livable. But, your floor covering will only do its job if it is chosen to meet the needs of the room it is in.

This takes wise planning and buying, tells Jessie Marion, home furnishing specialist at Michigan State University. Consider these points in making your floor covering plan: the size of the room, traffic, style of furniture, lighting, color and pattern balance.

In a small room—wall-to-wall carpet in a solid color and simple design or texture, gives a feeling of spaciousness. Patterned, tone-on-tone or carved effects on carpet look best in a big room. If you use a rug, the edges should be not more than eight inches from the wall in a small room and twelve inches in a large room.

Where there is a great deal of traffic, such as in living rooms, stairways and rooms used as passageways, choose good quality carpet that wears well, is crush-resistant and resists soil.

Choose the carpet that expresses the character of your furniture, whether it be traditional, modern or casual. Your carpet can coordinate all furnishings and reflect the personality of the room.

Lighting comes into the picture when you plan your floor covering. Miss Marion says a sunny room calls for cool color in carpet or casual rug or green. For a north exposure or a dark room, you might select gold or rose.

Your carpet may well be the dominant color in your room since the floor is the largest usable area and the background for all furnishings. Then wall, draperies and upholstery may be of harmonizing or contrasting colors.

Miss Marion suggests that if you choose a definite pattern in your carpet, draperies and wall-papers should be in solid colors or a simple design. A bright carpet is mated with soft colors, while a neutral rug looks attractive with gay draperies.

In case you're wondering just what kind of material your carpet should be made of to do the right job for your needs, Miss Marion lists some of the qualities of the rug fabrics now on the market. Wool is very durable, springy, crush resistant, warm and color-fast.

Cotton gives a serviceable, colorful washable rug at moderate prices. The pile crushes, but can be raised by using a vacuum cleaner or carpet sweeper.

Carpet rayon has brought glamorous color and luxurious softness to rugs in the medium price range. Their compact construction gives good service, tells Miss Marion.

Survey Seeks Needs of All Polio Victims

A county-wide survey to discover the current rehabilitation needs of all persons who have had polio will be conducted this month by the Washtenaw County Chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, according to Mrs. Carl Rehberg, of Ann Arbor, chapter chairman.

The local survey is part of a nationwide project by the National Foundation to compile a roster of polio cases of all ages and degree of disability, regardless of date of onset. The survey is to be completed by Sept. 1.

"Modern medicine has made impressive strides in developing new rehabilitation techniques in recent years," Mrs. Rehberg said. "Pilot surveys already undertaken show that there are thousands of polio-handicapped in the United States who have not yet had an opportunity for medical evaluation to determine if they might benefit from these new techniques."

"Some of the treatments employed today for those disabled by polio and whose causes were unknown or unused as recently as 10 or even five years ago."

"The March of Dimes organization, having scored a tremendous victory in its war on polio, does not now propose to walk off and leave the wounded behind, so long as there is any hope possible. We wish to find everyone who has had polio, whether paralytic or non-paralytic. We want to know what their special problems may be, so that they may be helped to regain useful lives. If humanly possible, even though it may take a considerable period of time."

Mrs. Rehberg said that the roster is to be made in close cooperation with the Washtenaw County Health Department, the Washtenaw County Medical Society and member physicians. The Department of Vocational Rehabilitation, State Crippled Children's Service, and county school systems also will cooperate. Information sought for each patient includes whether he is employed or attends school, if he can climb stairs and dress himself, whether he receives regular treatment and if he uses a respiratory aid.

Mrs. Rehberg asked that all persons who have ever had polio—whether disabled or not—send their names and addresses directly to Mrs. Robert Langford, Executive Secretary, Washtenaw County Chapter, National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, 1313 East Ann street, Ann Arbor.
