C. of C. Told Chelsea Area Has Promising Tourist Attractions

S.E. Michigan Tourist Association Manager Is Guest Speaker

Leonard Thompson, secretary-manager of the Southeastern Michigan Tourist Association, was the guest speaker at the Chamber of Commerce meeting Tuesday evening and gave a complete picture of the possibilities of the entire Chelsea area as a recreation area to attract tourists from all over the country. He said the color tours sponsored here by the Chamber of Commerce are already being advertised nationally.

Thompson recommended that the Junior Chamber of Commerce plan to continue to promote its chicken barbecue project, predicting that another year will see much larger numbers of people coming here for the event. The chicken barbecue, held at Pierce Park in connection with the annual color tour sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce will prove a high spot of the fall season for people in northern Indiana and Ohio and southern Michigan, Thompson believes.

Thompson invited Chamber of Commerce members to attend the annual meeting of the Southeastern Michigan Tourist Association next month and three members have already indicated they will do so. The Chelsea Chamber of Commerce is a member of the association.

During the business session at the dinner meeting, held in the Congregational church, Robert Merkle reported on the progress of plans for additional street decorations for the Christmas season. Working on the committee with him are M. W. McClure and Elmer Schaeffer.

The "Sidewalk Days" sales project, promoted by the Chamber of Commerce and held here Oct. 4 and 5, was pronounced a success in a report given by F. W. Merkel and Louis Noll.

Wolland Spaulding and Leon Noll reported on their study of the probability of a skating rink on the Station property near Veterans Memorial Park and outlined tentative plans for the proposed winter recreation project.

Five Young People Injured in Webster Township Crash

Three Chelsea area youths, a Whitmore Lake youth and a Pinckney youth were injured in an automobile collision in Webster township early Monday evening. According to sheriff's deputies, reports the Whitmore Lake youth stated that he saw the lights of the other car but thought he had time to cross the highway.

The Chelsea youths injured in the crash which severely damaged both cars involved, are George Mayer who suffered left knee injuries and lacerations, and Robert Smith and Donald Ferguson, passengers in the car Mayer was driving, who sustained head, face and leg lacerations. All three are 16 years old. They were taken to University hospital, Ann Arbor.

The Whitmore Lake youth, James Daniels, 18 years old, was treated at St. Joseph's Mercy hospital for cuts and bruises and the Pinckney girl, 17-year-old Pamela Tostine, a passenger in Daniels' car suffered ankle injuries and cuts.

The accident occurred at Walsh and Mast roads as the car driven by Mayer was headed north on Mast road and the one driven by Daniels was moving west on Walsh road.

Chest Fund Campaign Starts Slowly

The red feather sign on the lawn at the Post Office, placed there to indicate the progress of the Chelsea Community Chest campaign, showed that only 20 per cent of the $15,211 goal had been reached by Friday night. An additional 10 per cent was marked up by Tuesday.

The slow beginning of the present campaign is attributed to the fact that the flu epidemic had closed the schools for two days and had caused absenteeism in offices and factories, thus delaying solicitation.

Flu is also blamed for the incompleteness of house-to-house solicitation, a number of workers having suffered the illness.

The business area has been canvassed and approximately one-fourth of the 30 per cent tabulated by Tuesday night was contributed in this category, with more still to come in.

Door-to-Door Chest X-Ray Mobile Clinic Will Start Monday

Mrs. Elvira Visel Dies Monday After Brief Illness

Mrs. Elvira Clark Visel, founder of the Chelsea Greenhouses located on the family homestead farm on Lingane road where she lived her entire lifetime, died Monday afternoon at St. Joseph's Mercy hospital, Ann Arbor. She had been taken to the hospital Monday morning following a brief illness.

Mrs. Visel was a charter member of the Florists' Telegraph Delivery Association. She was also a member of the Michigan State Florist Association and the Allied Florist Association.

Locally, she was a member of the Gay Nineties club, a group of older graduates of Chelsea High school who meet for a reunion each year. Mrs. Visel graduated from Chelsea High school in 1897 and was one of five members of the class who were present for the 60th anniversary of their graduation, observed at the high school alumni banquet in June.

Mrs. Visel observed her 50th anniversary as a florist in 1951 and at that time related that she started her life-work in September, 1901, after reading an article in the Saturday Evening Post. She financed the construction of the first greenhouse building located in the front yard of the present home, 7010 Lingane road, with $750 she had saved as a rural school teacher. She had taught in Lyndon Center, Savage and McLaren schools for about two years.

In addition to her business here, Mrs. Visel opened a florist shop in Ann Arbor in 1931 and operated it as the Chelsea Flower Shop for 20 years.

On March 15, 1933, Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Armstrong became associated with Mrs. Visel in the Chelsea Greenhouses and since 1934 have been in partnership with her.

Born April 2, 1880 at the present home, she was a daughter of Chauncey and Ellen Fitcher Clark. She was married March 30, 1910, to Christian Visel. He died Jan. 23, 1925.

Only survivors of Mrs. Visel are her grandsons, Charles E. Clark of Dearborn, and a grandniece, Mrs. Ellen Irish of Lake Orion. A brother, William T. Clark, died in 1932.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Friday at the residence with John Fisher, first lay reader, of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, Ann Arbor, officiating. Burial will take place in Oak Grove cemetery.

Friends may call at the residence. Funeral arrangements were made by the Burghardt Funeral Home.

Home Canvassing Is First Use of Plan In Entire Country

Next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, the Mobile X-Ray Unit of the Washtenaw County Tuberculosis Association will conduct a door-to-door clinic in Chelsea, the first ever to be held in Michigan and believed to be the first ever held anywhere in the United States.

A similar door-to-door clinic will be held Thursday and Friday in Manchester.

The two communities have been selected for this type of x-ray program on a trial basis. If successful, the plan might be adopted for all future residential clinics.

Under the direction of Mrs. W. R. Daniels, a past president of the Washtenaw County TB Association, and Mrs. Maxwell G. Sweet, both now association board members and chairmen of the local project, Chelsea volunteers will accompany the unit and call at each home in the community. No special preparation is necessary for having an x-ray taken and bringing the unit to the person in this way is believed to be a practical means of reaching much greater numbers than the stationary method which has customarily been held here.

Results of the clinic here and in Manchester next week will be used in making reports to other counties in Michigan. If as successful as predicted, it might result in the Chest X-Ray program throughout the country.

Since this clinic is in the nature of a trial, it is not known at this time whether the three days will be sufficient to cover the entire town. For those not reached at this time, the Mobile Unit will be in Chelsea from Oct. 12 from 10 a. m. to 12 p. m. (Continued on page 12)

Taylor, was fatally wounded. The second gunman, Victor W. Whitley, was captured and faced the electric chair in Indiana. Shown with Vogel in the photograph are his wife, Marilyn, and Sgt. Junior Varsity Cheerleaders were very happy when the Junior Varsity defeated Milan's varsity to remain undefeated. The game at Milan ended 13, Chelsea 15. The cheerleaders would like to feel that they contributed something to the spirit of the hard-won struggle.

Student Council, under the able direction of vice-president Bob Eder, decided to continue the anti-smoking campaign, and appointed a committee of four to make posters relating to the matter.

A time extension was granted to the "Varsity Club" to get their charter ready. Chorus has been granted the use of December 14 for their winter dance; plans will be submitted soon. Junior high plans for their Nov. 2 dance will be submitted at the next meeting.

The Senior Band has elected the following students for their officers this year: Byron Pearson, president; Donna Walz, vice-president; Sharon Smyser, secretary; Jean Larson, treasurer. Donna Walz and Joan Weinkauf were appointed as librarians.

Byron has been a member of the local band for eight years. He has been featured on numerous occasions as soloist, is first chair cornetist of the Concert Band and is a right guide in the Marching Band.

Donna is second chair cornetist in the Concert Band, a right guide in the Marching Band, and has been featured as soloist with the band on several occasions.

Sharon is first chair clarinetist in the Concert Band, a right guide in the Marching Band, and last summer attended the Intermediate All-State Band session of the National Music Camp at Interlochen.

Jean is second chair clarinetist in the Concert Band and has been active in the band for a number of years.

The Junior and Senior Marching Bands both are planning to play for the Homecoming game with Lincoln, Nov. 1.

The Grade Band did not perform at the PTA meeting last week as announced, since the meeting was cancelled.

Grade Band try-outs were held again last week with the following results: first chair players and their sections—Cheryl Werner on flute; Susan Schroen, clarinet; Daniel Kephart, saxophone; Michael Schrader, cornet; and John Brier, drums.

The better the speaker, the smaller and more understandable are the words he uses.

Hatcher Opposes Adding to Student Share of Costs

Ann Arbor—Attempts to shift more and more of the cost of higher education to the student ignore the fact that democracy is dependent upon education, University of Michigan President Harlan Hatcher believes.

The idea, prevalent in some circles, that college training has economic value to the individual, who therefore should assume the cost of his education, overlooks the benefits which society as a whole receives from higher education, he asserts.

"Such an idea can be extended to support the view that a person shouldn't go to college unless he wants to increase his earning power," he points out. "As a result, the feeling that the student should pay more and more of the cost of higher education is tending to grow."

Current economic conditions coupled with an increase in semester fees has tended to reduce anticipated enrollments precisely at a time when there is critical need for more trained scientists and teachers, Hatcher declares.

"The critics of higher education had better take another look and see what could happen to this nation if their idea of constantly increasing the students' share of the cost is extended beyond the present levels," he warns.

Veterans Urged To Promptly Report Any Allowance Overpayment

Overpayments to disabled veterans receiving extra compensation for dependants are subject to recovery by the Government, but may be avoided if the veteran reports promptly any change of dependancy.

Lloyd H. Jameson, manager of the Veterans Administration regional office in Detroit, said additional payments because of dependants are authorized by law for veterans whose service-connected disabilities are rated at 50 per cent or more.

Overpayment of these allowances is usually the result of changes of marital status, death, or dependent children marrying or reaching the age of 18, Jameson explained.

Russia May Have Her Moon But We Are Superior in the Science of Golf

Now that the Russians have begun to sing "Moon Over Moscow," we think that President Eisenhower has not only lost the scientific ball but is in danger of losing the general psychological initiative in the missile field. Therefore, prompt action should be forthcoming.

As it seems impossible for the United States to launch a satellite in the near future—we are promised some tests will be made in December—some other course of action must be followed. We are told that the United States will launch a heavier satellite than the Russians—when we get around to it, probably in March.

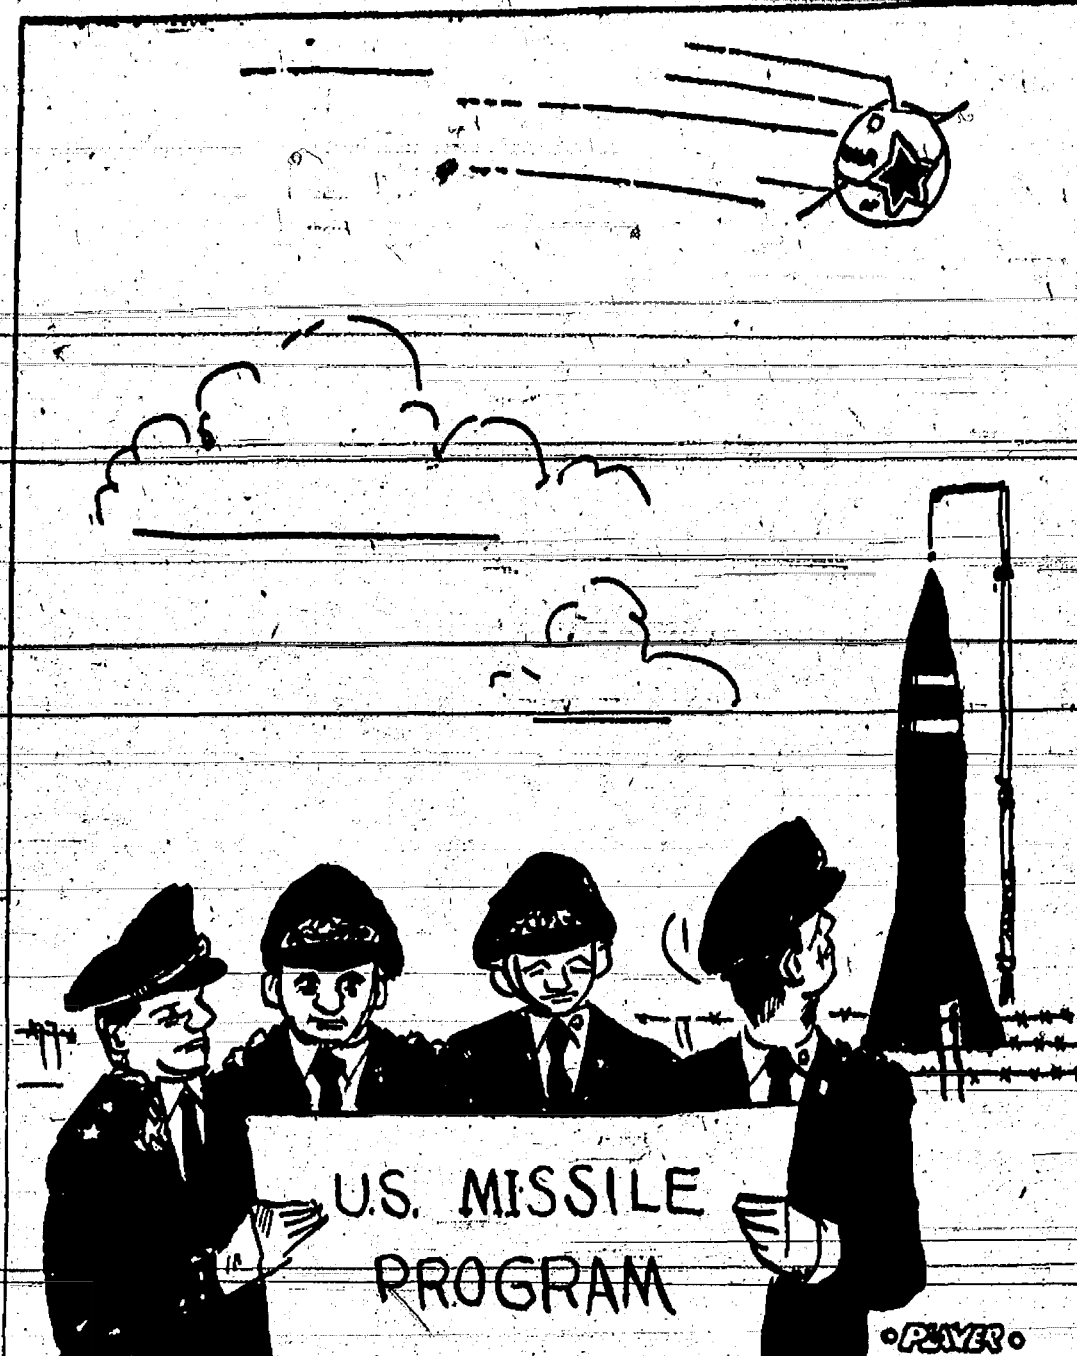

This, however, will not give the United States the psychological or propaganda lead in the world race. The only thing that will restore our position is for us to shoot something into space immediately—something the Russians won't quite understand. One thing seems to fit the bill.

We suggest that President Eisenhower provide our rocket scientists with a number of his best golf balls. Surely we have a rocket capable of shooting one of these golf balls into outer space. Even if we fail, the golf ball is so small that we could speculate that it was up there, and probably no one would see it fall to earth if it failed to make the grade.

What is more, we might get some useful information out of this which would be valuable to golfers and to the game of golf in general. Since a golf ball, if smacked into outer space, would continue to sail almost indefinitely, it would be interesting to get some facts and figures on such things. It might even be arranged for the President to push the button that fired the golf ball, or even swing a golf club at a lever to detonate the missile, so he could claim the unique distinction of having propelled the longest drive in history.

In any event, our newspapers could proudly proclaim that we had fired a golf ball into outer space and that it was circling the earth. No one could deny our claim. If the Russians did seek to dispute our claim, President Eisenhower could challenge Nikita Khrushchev to a game of golf and settle the issue on the links. And we would put our money on Ike. We think the Administration's golf program has been much more thorough and more concentrated than the Russian effort in this field.

It is not insignificant that you never hear the Russians bragging about golf. They know President Eisenhower has a definite edge on them in this category.

★ MICHIGAN MIRROR ★

By Elmer E. White, Secretary, Michigan Press Association

Michigan's industrial climate, which has been kicked around often and hard between Democrats and Republicans when discussing the state tax structure, finally felt the warming glow of favorable light.

The state of Oklahoma, which is carrying on an active campaign to interest new industry to locate there, wrote 10,000 letters to plants all over the country. Don C. Weeks, director of the Michigan Department of Economic Development, recently heard from an Oklahoma official that Michigan industrialists show "outstanding loyalty to their state." This loyalty was so marked in replies from 400 Michigan industries contacted, that it became a subject for general discussion in Oklahoma.

Oklahoma businessmen will soon be following up the letters with personal visits to offices which received the letters. This, of course, includes Michigan. Important aspect about this display of loyalty is that it can overcome some of the undeserved poor publicity which resulted from political fighting when Democrats were charging that industry should be taxed more and Republicans were charging the present tax structure is "driving industry out" of the state.

The uninsured driver and related problems are receiving careful study. A commission appointed by the governor is examining him as a cause of financial hardship to others when he becomes involved in an accident.

Commission members are weighing pros and cons of several plans which deal with this problem in other states. A report, or probably a majority and several minority reports, will be submitted about Christmas.

Two basic philosophies from which commission members must choose involve plans which will set up funds within state government so that people suffering loss from uninsured drivers can be paid, or plans which will force uninsured drivers to become insured at the risk of losing their right to drive.

The first approach attempts to spread the cost damages caused by uninsured drivers over all drivers; the second attempts to reduce loss by fixing responsibility on the individual driver and forcing those who are not insured off the road.

Neither approach is as simple as it sounds, but the commission is working in the hopes that it can recommend some plan which will be an improvement over existing conditions.

Politicians are sprinting toward next year's election like men in gray flannel suits wearing track shoes.

Party finances for years have been shunted into the background with partisans pushing policies and personalities, leaving the dollars and cents work in the precincts.

Now both sides have discovered that it takes money to elect a state in November.

It has always been this way, but the parties liked to pretend that money was a convenience. Not really necessary, but handy.

Democrats conducted a door-bell and front porch campaign this fall. It was well-publicized, and the yield was satisfactory.

State Chairman Neil Staebler said the program was designed to raise money, but also to make the precinct workers feel they had a key role in the Democratic party.

Republicans took up the same sort of program.

Don E. Ahrens, former vice-president of General Motors (Cadillac division), was named party finance chief. He has experience with a number of local campaign drives.

His first move was to start a "Republican United Fund" campaign, and suggested that party members contribute $1 a month, or year, to provide a continuing fund to pay expenses.

Ahrens is interested in "business-like concepts, budgeting of necessary expenditures, thorough audits, and the utmost in establishing financial responsibility by party leaders."

Michigan's prisons are still overcrowded. This has been an annual complaint since the 1952 riots at Southern Michigan Prison at Jackson.

There have been a number of building and remodeling projects, but still there are more prisoners than cells.

The latest problem is the state's women prisoners, now stationed at the Detroit House of Correction, at the Detroit House of Correction, itself overcrowded.

Last month the state corrections commission urged quick action to take over the Detroit House of Corrections, at least it's women's division.

The theory was that, if the commission was charged with the responsibility of caring for and rehabilitating all state prisoners, it should have jurisdiction over the facilities.

In addition, an investigating group hired by Detroit concluded that the institution was ill-fitted and ill-administered to care for prisoners.

The state commission then said it should either make the Detroit prison a state institution or build a women's prison of its own.

That led up to a proposal by Senator Elmer R. Porter, of Blissfield, that the state take over one of its less-occupied tuberculosis hospitals as a women's prison.

Whether it can or will be done must await the next legislative session, starting next January.

Washington Report

By Senator Charles F. Potter

The latest news from Washington of special interest to Michigan.

AS WASHINGTON, in best bib and tucker, turned out in drizzly weather to hail the British Queen, we watched comedy unfold. It was Prince Philip from a television screen in Michigan. Earlier, I had declined an invitation from the Vice-President to lunch with Her Majesty and a bid from the British Embassy to attend a reception in her honor. On my date list royalty was crossed out in favor of Flint, Lansing and Grand Rapids, where I had long-standing speaking engagements. Much as I would have liked to chat with the British monarch, I wanted even more to visit with the folks back home. But whether one works in Michigan or Washington, Queen Elizabeth's visit serves as a reminder of the historic ties between the British Commonwealth and our Republic. The importance of those bonds to our hopes for a free world cannot be over-emphasized.

FISH FUNDS AND WILDLIFE WAMPUM are being distributed by the Department of the Interior, and it's a jackpot year! Michigan's fish and wildlife will benefit by restoration and development money totaling $1,242,000. For every $9 of this our State puts up $1, and all of it goes to improve the hunting and fishing which contribute so much to Michigan's dynamic tourist industry. All told, in 1958 Interior will apportion over $25 million to the 48 states to check depletion of wildlife and stimulate its restoration.

TOO MANY BUSINESSMEN look upon government and political activity as a spectator sport. I told the Saginaw Junior Chamber of Commerce last week that business is inclined to remain in the stadium, off the field of play, always reserving its right as a Monday-morning quarterback. In my opinion, there is no higher form of public service than the honest practice of politics. Way back when the great American naturalist, Henry Thoreau, was jailed for speaking out as his conscience dictated, his friend, Ralph Waldo Emerson, visited him. Looking into the cell, Emerson asked in a shocked voice:

"Why, Henry, what are you doing in there?"

Thoreau looked right through the bars at Emerson and asked in turn:

"Ralph, what are you doing out there?"

It would be wonderful one day to see this attitude develop toward politics and government. Instead of asking incredulously of those who are politically active, "What on earth are you doing there?" I think we'll see the day when those on the sidelines can expect to hear: "What are you doing out there?"

★ Enthusiasm

Just about the best salesman I ever knew was district sales manager for the Folger coffee company in Salt Lake City. I'll never forget his enthusiasm. Frank kept telling me about the fine flavor of Folger coffee. And since the Mormon faith frowns on the use of "hot drinks," you really have to be enthusiastic to sell coffee in Salt Lake City!

A good salesman can always give you a reason why you should buy his product. The reason for buying Folger coffee (which is distributed only in the West), Frank would explain at any hour of the day or night, is that it is composed entirely of mountain-grown coffee. As far as I'm concerned, one kind of coffee tastes about the same as another, but in Frank's mind there was no doubt that mountain-grown coffee is definitely superior to other coffee.

The secret of making good coffee, according to Frank, is to use a coffee maker that is clean. At home you can boil your equipment in soda water, but Frank would use some special fluid to clean all the hidden parts of coffee makers in hotels and restaurants. It is the old rancid coffee that collects in the crevices of a coffee maker that ruins the flavor.

That reminds me of the drummer who breezed into Aunt Vivian's kitchen one day and asked, "Have you got any coffee? It's boiled and boiled and boiled?" When the girl said "Yes," he replied, "Well, throw it away and make me some fresh."

The word "enthusiasm" comes from the Greek words "en," meaning "in," and "theos," meaning

Thursday, Oct. 22, 1953—

Henry Schumacher who will observe his 88th birthday Oct. 25, is arranging to sell his blacksmith shop on Park street to the village. The building has been at the present location since Oct. 25, 1889. Eventual use of the site will be for municipal parking facilities.

News of servicemen of the community: Norman L. Koch serving with the 1st Cavalry Division in Japan; Pvt. David Yoell at Fort Knox, Ky.; Paul Rude home on leave from Gary Air Force Base, Texas, awaiting assignment to Korea; Arden Muebach, in Korea since May 18 with the 14th Infantry, promoted to corporal; and Capt. William Storey has just completed two weeks of reservist training with the U. S. Marines.

"god." When the pagan priests worked themselves into a frenzy by listening to sacred drum-beats or drinking sacred wine or breathing sacred smoke, they were said to be "enthusiasmatic" meaning that a god was dwelling in them. St. Paul, a very enthusiastic traveling salesman for Christianity, borrowed this language when he said, "It is no longer I who live, but Christ who lives in me." All over his territory he enthusiastically demonstrated to people that Christ could come into their lives and help them to live enthusiastically.

At any rate, being enthusiastic is the best way of selling coffee.

A forest survey can tell you how much your woodlot is worth. It includes information on the volume and quality of the timber as well as growth data and the types of trees that make up the forest.

Mrs. Alvin Schiller, Mrs. Joseph Steele, Mrs. Francis Birch and Barbara O'Hara attended the annual alumni reunion Sunday at St. Joseph's Academy, Adrian.

Chelsea and four surrounding townships will launch their drive Friday to raise the quota of $1,500 for the National War Fund.

Oliver Chapter No. 105, OES, observed its 60th anniversary at a special meeting Wednesday evening. Oliver Chapter received its charter from the Grand Rapids Chapter, Oct. 11, 1893, and was organized with 25 members.

Pfc. James Barkley is home on furlough from Moses Lake Air Base, Washington; Bluejacket Dudley F. Foster was graduated last week from the Service School for Gunnery at the U. S. Naval Training Station at Great Lakes, Ill.; Victor G. Rindling, stationed at Percy Jones hospital, Battle Creek, promoted to staff sergeant; and Roland A. White who enlisted in the U. S. Army Camp, Great Lakes, Ill.

In the 24 years ago column (Oct. 18, 1933), two well-known farmers on Territorial road in Lima township have sold their farms. They are Wilbur McLaren and Harvey Clements, the latter having been in the family since it was taken up from the government. Purchasers are Bradbury Brothers of Minnesota and love who are moving here by auto, the trip expected to take about 10 days.

modern GAS ranges
give you

"Set it and forget it"
cooking!

It's easy to be a "best cook" when you own a modern, automatic Gas range. Foolproof controls take all the guesswork out of cooking—give you perfect results, every time.

The magical new top "burner with a brain" lets you dial the degree of heat required; the burner maintains that heat automatically, so that foods can't scorch, boil over, burn dry.

Automatic oven controls start your oven even in your absence; cook foods perfectly, turn the oven off automatically. Smokeless broiling gives foods that "just right" flavor.

Gas cooking is clean, cool, fast, economical . . . the favorite of the nation's finest chefs. Choose a modern Gas range from dealer or Gas Company offices today!

See our WEATHER SHOW with Dr. Phelps, Channel 2, 6:10 to 6:15 p.m., Monday through Friday.

ABOARD THE FORRESTAL:

U. S. Navy Air Power Holding Spotlight
In North Sea Joint Naval Exercises

By Edward H. Sims
Special Writer for
The Chelsea Standard
(Edward H. Sims is aboard the U. S. S.
Forrestal covering the joint naval exercise in the North Sea and Norwegian Sea. This is his first article, flown off the Forrestal and air-mailed from London. Further articles will follow.—The Editor.)

Aboard The Forrestal—The United States Navy's six aircraft carriers, an imposing array of aerial striking power, holds the spotlight on the current joint Allied naval exercise.

The Blue forces, which compose most of the surface ships—both the battleships involved and all six U. S. carriers—is comprised of some 75 ships.

The range forces, which are the theoretical enemy forces, have numerous submarines, some surface ships, but no aircraft carriers.
Not by coincidence, the Russian Navy has no aircraft carriers but many submarines.

And, speaking of the Russian Navy, the very day out was not the big ships of the Blue Force weighed anchor in the Firth of Clyde, which was Sept. 17th, a Russian trawler steamed through the middle of the gathering U. S.
fleet, turned around and took up position in front of the Forrestal—headquarters of Rear Admiral M. Edward Arnold, of Kembler, Idaho, commanding

Carrier Division FOUR.

The Russians and their Navy and airpower now are one of the toughest subjects discussed on board the Forrestal. Their submarines are operating in the area of the large concentration of Allied ships and the Russian Navy is holding an exercise of its own several hundred miles to the northeast.

The appearance of the trawler
on the first day out was not unexpected and was a rather tame method of keeping up with the movements of the fleet on the part of the Russians.

The Forrestal's great speed, which is better than 43 miles per hour, and even the lesser speed of other warships in the Blue Force, enabled the warships to step away from the trawler. However on the first day out the Forrestal was making only about 16 knots, and the trawler managed to stay with her.

Although this combined fleet exercise is not a war game and no unpleasant will be present to declare a victor and a vanquished, Orange Force submarines will attempt to theoretically torpedo ships of the Blue Force. When a submarine is spotted by the For-restal a green rocket is fired into the air and all circumstances of the submarine attack will be evaluated at a later date.

For example the submarine
could have been "sunk" by a screening destroyer, which sighted earlier and as attack would therefore, be evaluated as meaningless.

One of the intriguing questions
in this naval exercise is the strong probability that submarines will be detected at places, where no
Allied underwater craft are operating. These discoveries will be Soviet submarines.

Another phase of major interest in this joint fleet exercise is the fact that this is the last show, for a while at least, of the big battleships. The Wisconsin and Iowa are taking part in the maneuvers with the Blue Force, but they are so expensive to operate they will be mothballed, in line with the Navy's current economy program, at the end of this exercise. To battleship men, the mothballing of the last two battle-wagons is something of a tragedy.

As one of them confided to the writer, the new, fast, big battleships such as the Iowa and Wisconsin, can do just about anything
a cruiser can, and can make better than 30 knots (approximately the speed of the cruiser) and track much more authority and wallop.

But the carriers, like the giant Forrestal and Saratoga, are the ships around which this operation is designed. Approximately 60,000 tons, carrying just under 4,000 men, these carriers operate jet bombers, jet reconnaissance planes,
jet fighters and propeller aircraft and helicopters. Skipper of the Forrestal is Capt. Richard L. Kibbe, of Orlando, Fla. Chief of Staff to Admiral Arnold, Commander of Carrier Division FOUR, who flies his flag aboard the Forrestal, is Capt. Alexander Salley Heyward Jr., of Camden, S. C. Whether the big carriers can survive in a nuclear war and whether they can rain thermonuclear devastation on the enemy is a vital question.

The Navy has fought a gallant battle to have the carriers and build a fleet of them, contending that properly scattered in the various bodies of water all over the world, the enemy will never be able to find and sink all of them and that their potent striking power will prove invaluable.

Walking through the endless corridors up and down the ladders and through the countless narrow passages, all teeming with activity
—11 full decks of activity—one can conceive of a tragedy almost behind the description of an atomic or thermonuclear weapon from the enemy struck such a target.

This fleet exercise demonstrates the ability of the carriers to intercept enemy aircraft and display their mobility. It should be remembered that they can move an estimated 60 to 70 miles after being spotted by an enemy plane
before enemy bombers could be expected to arrive overhead. They can take advantage of bad weather
to approach close to enemy territory, minimizing chances of detection.

THE DRIVER'S SEAT

One of the most prosaic yet tel-lible bits of our Americana is the simple street name sign. History, hope for the future, the leading citizens—these are but a few of the many points of character a town is apt to wear on its sleeve for all to see.

In many towns, a schoolboy could learn the names of the nation's presidents by simply repeating the names of the streets.
Lincoln, Washington, Madison,
Jefferson, Harrison, Van Buren—
common street names and a little more. Nor are local heroes and heroines forgotten. In Madison, Wis., the streets Clyde Callagher,
Avenue, H. H. Conquistador, Drive and Esther Beach Road pass on the names of these local greats to posterity.

Perhaps your town tells something of its industry or boasts of a local characteristic on its street signs. Is there a town in the state of Washington's apple empire that doesn't have its Apple street? Southern California's fruit belt towns are dotted with Orange streets and Grape Boulevards. In the Midwest, you're likely to find Corn Avenue, Wheat street and Alfalfa Drive with some regularity.

But for all the information the names of streets pass on, it is a rare town, indeed, that has signs that serve the basic function of location. In fact, most street signs are tucked away where they can't be seen at all.

Many towns paint street names
on curbstones. In the fall, leaves hide the name; in the winter, there is snow; spring's rains do the damage in their own season, and the summer is spent repainting. Other cities rely on concrete posts two or three feet high to act as cornerstones of information.

Better yet are those towns where the street sign is on a post six or eight feet high, right out for all the world to see. And some of the more progressive cities have signs especially made to be seen after dark. The sign can be read long before you get to the corner and give you plenty of time to locate your turn. There is no dangerous hesitating in intersections, no backing, no house-to-house inquiring—
the new signs that can be read both day and night make visiting easier and safer.

History and local commerce are fine—but the street name signs should also tell us where to go.

passed through the Iceland-Faroes Gap—and moved northeast to a point off the coast of Norway where simulated air strikes were staged. Orange Force bombers from England and an Orange Force on the sea from Denmark opposed. Night and day, through foul weather, air operations were planned and carried out, except under the foulest conditions.

Flanked by cruisers and destroyers, the carriers and battleships proceeded southward off the coast of Norway. The sight of this imposing fleet, steaming rapidly over rough northern seas, or even anchored at night in the Firth of Clyde, their lights stretching for miles and miles is a highly impressive sight.

And a joint exercise of this kind,
involving the ships of France,
Great Britain, Norway, Holland,
Portugal and the United States, provides invaluable training in combined operations, communications and teamwork, so badly needed since this year exercise has been planned every year for four years and this is the first year
it has been possible to carry it out.

"HI, PARTNERS!"

THROUGHOUT MICHIGAN, some 50,000 girls and boys from upper elementary and junior high school grades are performing an outstanding service.

They are members of 2200 School Safety Patrols, a public interest activity sponsored by the AAA and its affiliate, the Automobile Club of Michigan.

These Safety Patrol members must be at their posts each day at least fifteen minutes before school opens, must stay on duty after school closes. Their loyal efforts have helped substantially to reduce fatal accidents involving child pedestrians in the 5-14 age group.

Michigan's Trucking Industry salutes these Safety Patrol members. Like them, the industry is doing its utmost to promote safety on our streets and highways through rigid driver training programs, careful maintenance of equipment, and educational campaigns. So, to you girls and boys in the white Sam Browne belts we say, "Hi, partners! We're with you!"

Opinions Differ on Benefits to U.P. from Mackinac Bridge

East Lansing—Opening of the new Mackinac Bridge on Nov. 1 or earlier is certain to benefit Northern Michigan—but authorities disagree about the amount of economic expansion to expect.

While Upper Peninsula residents rub their hands in anticipation of a great new prosperity boom, other observers are taking a let's-wait-and-see attitude.

Michigan State University specialists, familiar with various aspects of the northern economy, offer contrasting views concerning the first direct highway link between the two parts of Michigan.

A member of the Tourist and Resort Service sees the straits bridge becoming one of the nation's top tourist attractions and a magnet for tourist dollars which already mount up in millions each year.

"The greatest effect probably will be in land use and increase of recreational facilities," Dr. McIntosh said. "Land prices are jumping now. In some areas frontage for a gas station now costs $50,000, but one once of a whole section of land in the area. The impact will be felt most in the eastern portion, from Manistique to Drummond Island."

The Mackinac Bridge will join the locks at Sault Ste. Marie as a great tourist attraction, he added, pointing out that man-made objects always are the greatest attractions—"like New York City, Washington and the Golden Gate Bridge, for example. Many tourists bypass Grand Canyon to visit a nearby dam site."

Dr. McIntosh predicts heavier traffic in both directions. Eventually, he pointed out, a four-lane divided highway from Detroit to Sault Ste. Marie will be integrated with the 41,000-mile national system of interstate highways, "creating for many American shippers the shortest route to the Pacific Northwest and the Rockies."

A ten-minute instead of ten-hour crossing for deer hunters will help too, he added.

An MSU extension director in the Upper Peninsula foresees both advantages and new problems awaiting the northern area. Specialists in transportation, geology, forestry and dairy departments offer conservative views about long-range effects of the travel.

Dr. Robert W. McIntosh, MSU extension specialist with the Tourist and Resort Service, believes the bridge "will be a tremendous stimulus to northern Michigan." He points out that Straits of Mackinac traffic is expected to nearly double in the first full year of bridge operation—from an estimated 1,000,000 cars via ferry and bridge this year to an estimated 1,927,000 in 1958.

"The greatest effect probably will be in land use and increase of recreational facilities," Dr. McIntosh said. "Land prices are jumping now. In some areas frontage for a gas station now costs $50,000, but one once of a whole section of land in the area. The impact will be felt most in the eastern portion, from Manistique to Drummond Island."

A ten-minute instead of ten-hour crossing for deer hunters will help too, he added.

"Outstanding scenery is one of our greatest resources," agrees Dan Sturt, MSU's District Extension Director in the U.P. Increased travel over the bridge, he says, "may develop the Upper Peninsula into the playground of the industrial midwest."

"Of equal importance, the bridge will mean closer markets for our farm and timber products," he added. "The distance barrier which has discriminated against Upper Peninsula producers, industrial and farm alike, through the years will be lessened."

"The Michigan State University Upper Peninsula resource development program, operated from the Extension Center in Marquette, is attempting to encourage development of new enterprises of crops, improved farm forestry practices, better tourist and resort services and the like, all of which are in keeping with changed conditions which will result in the Upper Peninsula from such dramatic developments as the new bridge."

"On the debit side," he cautioned, "more people will mean more problems in some respects at present, but the need for greater safety efforts and zoning to insure our scenic beauty will no doubt be heightened."

Dr. Bennett T. Sandefur, professor of geology at MSU, concedes that the Mackinac-Bridge will have important service aspects, but is not as certain of resulting economic expansion.

"The most important Upper Peninsula products are limestone and iron and copper ores," he pointed out, "all of which will continue to depend upon cheaper lake shipping to compete with other sources."

Increased tourist trade in the U.P. could be balanced somewhat by losses at St. Ignace and Mackinac City, present ferry headquarters, he warned, with some tourist traffic moving on into Ontario resorts.

"It is possible that steel plants could be induced to move nearer our sources of essential iron ore and limestone," Dr. Sandefur explained, "but coal and electricity are necessary too and they are more available to the south."

A business specialist on the MSU faculty sees truck traffic increasing with the bridge, but declines to estimate how much and doubts immediate industrial expansion.

"There aren't enough population centers in the Upper Peninsula—like Sault Ste. Marie," he said. "But the moment you get a good transportation facility the population may be drawn into the area. If it is, industry will tend to move in also. The important thing is that the expansion is now possible."

Members of the MSU forestry department predict the U.P. lumber industry will be affected slightly, particularly in the eastern end where abundant pulpwood material waits to be used.

"It will be possible for some wood to be trucked to Lower Michigan mills, traffic which is virtually non-existent now," said Dr. Lee M. James, associate professor of forestry. "A number of companies have indicated they will bring down some new materials."

Dairy spokesmen said Upper Peninsula dairy herds may not be affected greatly, though more cattle may be bred to freshen seasonally to coincide with tourist demands.

Consider the ant: Queen ants are supposed to have the longest life of any insect, some on record having lived 15 years.

County Red Cross Opens Drive for Volunteers

"To provide essential community services we need at least 500 new volunteers," Mrs. Grace Radford, Chairman of Volunteers for the Washtenaw County Chapter of the American Red Cross said today. These additional volunteers are needed to replace those who have left the area or become less active and to meet the needs created by our rapidly expanding population. Mrs. Radford pointed out that 30 per cent more blood was collected during the past year by the Red Cross Bloodmobiles; that they had 40 per cent increase in mileage of Motor Service taking children to clinics, distributing blood and other important services.

There are suitable training courses for volunteers in each of the services. Additional information about these and other opportunities for volunteers can be obtained by calling the Chapter Headquarters at NO 2-5546 in Ann Arbor.

Conelrad Test Alert Scheduled For Nation Nov. 4

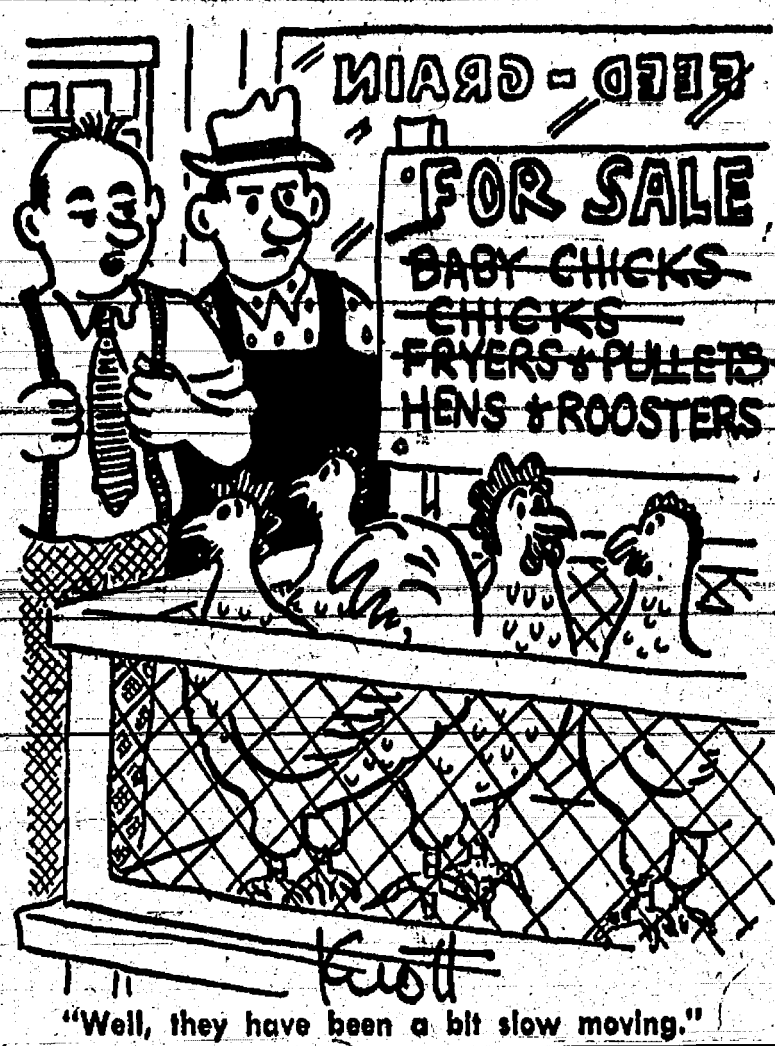

Robert E. A. Little, Washtenaw county Civil Defense director, announced this week that the Federal Communications Commission has ordered a 30-minute test of Conelrad Emergency Broadcasting facilities to be held between 8:30 a.m. and 4:00 a.m., Eastern Standard time, Nov. 4. This test will be nationwide and all AM, FM, and TV stations will be off the air during this period. Only those AM stations holding Conelrad emergency broadcasting assignments will return to the air on their assigned frequency, either 640 or 1440 K.C.

There will be no simulation of attack warnings or realistic tactics of public alerting. All radio stations will receive numerous pre-test spot announcements devoted to explanation of the November test. A 4 1/2 minute pre-test program will also be distributed to all radio stations pointing out the reasons why Conelrad was devised, how it operates, and why the Nov. 4 test alert is being held. These announcements and programs will be distributed by the Federal Civil Defense Administration early this month.

Directly after the test is announcing the coming test so that early risers or "night hawks" will not become alarmed if they turn on their radios during the early morning test period and fail to hear their customary programs.

A feature of the meeting at Manchester will be a film showing scenes at the United General Synod at Cleveland, O., in June when merger formalities were completed. Dr. Harold Skidmore of Lansing, who heads the Jackson Association of Congregational Christian Churches, and the Rev. Henry Kroehner of Jackson, who is president of the Michigan-Indiana Synod of the Evangelical and Reformed Church will be the principal speakers at the evening meeting. An open forum will follow their addresses.

Fellowship singing of the songs and hymns which have come out of the two church bodies will be part of the program. The meeting at Manchester is one of a series of similar gatherings being held throughout the country.

Michigan's Deer Harvest Is Small Percentage of Herd

Lansing—Hunters bag less than 12 per cent of Michigan's deer herd each year, one of the smallest harvests of any major deer state. Calculated deer populations for Michigan indicate the herd exceeds 600,000 animals, 345,000 in the Upper Peninsula and 259,000 in the northern lower peninsula.

Last year hunters bagged some 71,120 whitetails in these two regions or approximately 11.7 per cent of the total population.

Meanwhile a study of 1955 kill figures and estimated populations by the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service indicates several other major deer states exceeded Michigan's kill percentage, including: Pennsylvania with a kill of 86,155 deer out of an estimated population of 300,000, or 28.7 per cent; New York, 50,532 out of an estimated 287,500, or 17.6 per cent; Minnesota 33,345 out of an estimated 400,000 or 8.3 per cent; and Maine, 35,588 out of an estimated 180,000, or 19.8 per cent.

Other major deer state harvests included: Texas, 43,428 out of an estimated 450,000, or 9.7 per cent; and Wisconsin, 35,000 out of an estimated 600,000, or only 5.8 per cent.

Game management specialists in all of the major deer states report they are faced with the same problem—too many deer for the available range. Most of these states already have arranged special seasons on antlerless deer this fall, generally using a system of limited permits to harvest deer in particular areas.

Approximately 200 people are expected to attend a dinner in Emanuel church hall at 6:30 p.m. prior to the general meeting in the hall at 7:30 p.m. An equal number of tickets for the supper were made available some time ago to each of the churches in the participating areas of the two church bodies. Reservations for the dinner were necessary but everyone interested may attend the evening meeting and the Rev. K. H. A. Rest, pastor of Emanuel church, said yesterday that he is hoping a large delegation of Chelsea area people will attend.

Russian History Books Portray U. S. as Villain

East Lansing—Russian historians are rewriting history and making American the chief aggressor and enemy of the world, reported a Michigan State University professor after a visit to the Soviet Union.

"Russia has suppressed or destroyed everything that is unacceptable to the party," said Dr. Arthur E. Adams, associate professor of history, who had access to libraries in Leningrad and Moscow during 28 days inside Russia.

He said all Russian history is being written to prove the doctrines of the party. One of the most "depressing" aspects, he added, "is the firmness with which intellectuals in Russia defend their system and the Marxist-Leninist ideology."

Dr. Adams is preparing a book on the Russian Civil War, but found that American libraries are richer in materials on Russia than are those in Russia itself.

He discovered a series of articles in Russia which was titled "Failure of Imperialist Policy of the United States in the Soviet Union, 1918-1921." The articles stated that America was the most imperialistic, intervening and aggressive country in the world. "You can't call that objective history," Dr. Adams commented.

Dr. Adams found the Russian people "curious as savages" because "they are isolated from us" adding that "they know only what their government tells them. We are just getting through to them, and I don't believe we ever will." He heard nothing about segregation.

The historian termed the Russians "the most friendly and warmhearted people I have ever seen until you get down to politics."

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Benson and children of Medina, N.Y., arrived yesterday to spend a week here as guests of Mrs. Benson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Hindner. Mr. and Mrs. Benson plan to attend the homecoming at Michigan State University in Lansing this week-end.

Harvest Loss Can Cut Corn Crop by 20%

Some Michigan corn growers are leaving a fifth of their crop in the field after picking.

That's the belief of Elmer Rossman, farm crops specialist at Michigan State University. Heavy losses with mechanical corn pickers average 10 per cent of the crop with some losses as high as 20 per cent.

The main trouble is, Rossman says, that many picker operators judge the efficiency of harvest by the cleanness of ears from husks. This is a mistake because attached husks do not interfere much with storage and there is no discount for a few husks when corn is sold. In fact, to get ears clean of husks, shelled corn losses will run high.

Picker operators should look on missed ears to judge the job they are doing rather than worrying about husks on the ears. Here are some tips Rossman makes to help cut picking losses. Pick as soon as you can after the corn. Losses generally increase with a delay in harvest. If corn is to be cribbed without drying, start picking when moisture is down to 25 per cent. Where driers are available, begin picking at 35 per cent moisture and the savings in harvest losses may more than pay for the drying.

Pick at speeds that will keep losses at a minimum. Losses may double as speed is increased from two to four miles per hour. Adjust snapping rolls properly to hold corn losses to a minimum yet have freedom from clogging. Increasing the roll speed in thick plantings may reduce shelled corn loss and clogging of picker. Keep picker almost close to the ground to get under broken stalks. Drive directly on the row. Losses may double when picker is slightly off center of the row.

Exercises May Prevent Heart Attack

East Lansing—Businessmen and other sedentary workers who are willing to do a few pushups and other exercises may save themselves from the nation's "big killer"—heart attack.

This is a conclusion of a Michigan State University research team which conducted a supervised exercise program involving middle-aged subjects.

Thirty-one MSU staff members, mostly in the 40 to 55 age bracket, were divided into two groups. Half of them took regular exercise for three months—two or three hour-long periods of swimming or calisthenics a week to duplicate the sort of schedule possible for a busy man. The other subjects served as a control and followed their usual sedentary routine.

The investigators were primarily interested in finding out the effects of exercise on cholesterol level in the blood, since it is known that persons with high levels of cholesterol are more subject to heart attacks.

Cholesterol—a fat substance—tends to build up in the blood of some people, particularly middle-aged men, explained Dr. Henry J. Montoye, MSU physical education specialist who directed the study. The fat deposits may thicken artery walls and make the individual more prone to heart attacks, he said.

Dr. Adams commented.

Dr. Adams found the Russian people "curious as savages" because "they are isolated from us" adding that "they know only what their government tells them. We are just getting through to them, and I don't believe we ever will." He heard nothing about segregation.

The historian termed the Russians "the most friendly and warmhearted people I have ever seen until you get down to politics."

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Benson and children of Medina, N.Y., arrived yesterday to spend a week here as guests of Mrs. Benson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Hindner. Mr. and Mrs. Benson plan to attend the homecoming at Michigan State University in Lansing this week-end.

State Senator John B. Swainson will be the speaker at a meeting of the Washtenaw County Democratic Committee to be held Thursday, Oct. 24 at 8 p.m. at Estabrook school, Ypsilanti.

Sen. Swainson, who represents the 18th Senatorial district, is in his second term and is serving as minority leader of the Senate. He is regarded in party circles as a potential candidate for higher office.

The same procedure will be followed as formerly, in processing the x-rays taken. They will be mailed to Lansing and results will be made known to each individual. If any abnormality is found the person will be referred to his physician.

Cooperating in the program are the Washtenaw County Health Department and the Washtenaw County Tuberculosis Association.

Health Department officials urged co-operation of Chelsea area people, saying any courtesy extended to the clinic personnel and volunteer workers will be greatly appreciated in this attempt to get a true picture of the door-to-door type of x-ray program.

Factories of the community were processed in January and the clinic will concentrate on residential areas at this time.

In Manchester, a return visit of the Mobile Unit will take place Nov. 13, for the convenience of those not reached in the door-to-door clinic.
