Union Thanksgiving Services Scheduled At Methodist Home

The class of '68 will present "My Three Angels," a captivating comedy by Sam and Bella Speravack based on "La Cuisine Des Anges" by Albert Husson on Nov. 22 and 23.

"My Three Angels" tells how three convicts become the good angels of a sadly harassed household. The scene is French Guiana, where on Christmas day the temperature graciously drops to 104 degrees and where convicts not only hire out, but apparently never report back.

The three angels, Bob Brown, Jerome Forner, and Byron Pearson, are employed as roofers by a family in danger of having no roof over their heads. Enroute from France is a snarling cousin, Melvin Seitz, to oust Papa, Gerry Klats, from the business he has botched. Accompanying the cousin is a cold-blooded nephew, Denny Schumm, who plans to jilt Papa's daughter, Janet Bernath, for an heiress.

The three angels, two murderers and the other a swindler, decide to take on the visitors. The convicts have sunny natures, warm hearts, clever hands, sleepless brains; possessing every criminal art, they decide it is easier to bump off Scrooge than to convert him.

Others in the cast include a troubled mother (Emilie Duocet), played by Judy Wagner, a foxy customer (Madame Parole) Shirley Dyer and the Lieutenant, Bob Weber. The play is under the direction of Mrs. Waltraud Bald, with Sandy Buehler acting as student director.

He pointed out that one dollar contributed to this program provides the equivalent of $25 to $30 worth of food purchased through regular channels. The CROP program utilizes surplus food commodities for its overseas relief program.

Hunters Urged To Report Deer Kills To Game Biologist

Jackson hunters killing buck deer near Chelsea or elsewhere in southern Michigan are urged to phone the Conservation Department's District office in Jackson.

The Chelsea area hunter can telephone his report collect to this office at State 4-6183. A game biologist will go to the hunter's residence or frozen food locker, determine the age of the deer by the amount of wear on the teeth, and measure its antlers and record the weight. Even if only the head remains he can still obtain the necessary information.

"We need to examine more than 200 southern Michigan buck deer this fall," states Ralph Bailey, Game District Supervisor. "Only by examining an adequate number of well-fed deer from southern Michigan farmland deer range can we have a measure of the inroads that deficient winter food supplies have made in much of our northern Michigan herd."

"Weights and antler measurements from southern deer will be compared with the much larger volume of data obtained from northern deer at the voluntary roadside checking stations," says Bailey. "Annual inventories of this type will contribute much toward determining the improvement in the deer herd by means of special sections such as are authorized again this fall."

Usually southern Michigan bucks are larger and develop better antlers than most northern deer of the same age. Southern season, normally develops six-point racks and dress out at 150 pounds. Most northern bucks at a year and a half are spikehorns or three or four pointers and weigh about 100 pounds.

John Carson of North Bay, Ontario, Canada, is spending this week here visiting with the granddaughters and her family, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Hafner and children.

November is a busy month for promoting the welfare of children in many respects. The annual American Education Week having been celebrated Nov. 10-16, and this week being Children's Book Week gives us many things to think over.

Do we realize the grave need for better education in our country? Are we reminded of our responsibility to further this education? What can we do to help our schools? Can we truthfully make the following statement? "I know my child's teacher. I have visited our school this year. I know about the school's curriculum. I have taken an active part in P.T.A. I do know some statistics about education. I believe education is better today than ever before. I assist my children in the use and choice of library books."

Your P.T.A. will put forth efforts to promote better education for each and every generation. Western Washtenaw County Council of P.T.A. met at our South Elementary School on Nov. 7. The main discussion of the evening was P.T.A. publicity. The purpose of publicity being to bring to our people all events and information concerning P.T.A. aims and objectives.

One of the first newsmen to drive out on Michigan's Mackinac Straits bridge, wrote: "It didn't seem like a bridge. It was like driving on a super-highway in the sky."

Nov. 22-23—Senior play at 8 in High School gymnasium.
Nov. 23—Thanksgiving.
Nov. 23—Thanksgiving vacation.
Nov. 23—Game at Milan.

The entire Senior class has been busy during the past week in the final preparation for their play, "My Three Angels," which will be presented Nov. 22 and 23. It is a delightful comedy based on the adventures of three convicts who, possessing all the malevolent arts, undertake to help a desperate family.

The varsity cheerleaders had charge of the skit for the pep rally preceding the Ypsilanti-Roosevelt game on Nov. 8.

On a sheet which was hung between the curtains on the stage they had painted the figures of three cheerleaders and had cut holes for their heads and legs. Then while a record was playing three of the girls put their heads and legs through the holes and danced.

As another part of the skit, Priscilla Neal imitated Elvis Presley and Sue Steger played the part of Pat Boone singing "Love Letters in the Sand." The entire skit was thoroughly enjoyed by everyone.

Members of the annual staff put their thinking caps on each Tuesday night at 7:30! It takes plenty of hard work to put out a book suitable to honor a senior class. This year much additional work will be required of staff members since the prom and graduation activities are to be included. There is a temporary decline in attendance at meetings due to senior play practice. Everyone is eager to have the "missing" members back!

The Future Farmers of America held freshman initiation Nov. 11. The formal initiation was given to the boys and then the members played "hit the ceiling" with the new boys. Refreshments of elder and doughnuts were served by Bill Sorenson.

At the meeting of the Future Nurses of America on Nov. 7, a report was given on the convention in Detroit, attended by Barbara Williams, Barbara Maynard, Kathie Meston and Mrs. Benedict.

At the Nov. 14 meeting, there was a nurse from the Public Health Service answering questions on the convention and giving other information.

The Band Follies will be held Dec. 4 instead of Dec. 8 as previously announced. The talent will be local adult and student talent.

The Brass Sextet played "Choral" and "Ring Christmas Bells" at the Kiwanis meeting Nov. 11. Those in the sextet are Byron Pearson, cornet; Donna Wailz, cornet; Jon Harris, French horn; David Talbot, trombone; Marvin Fisher, bass; and Ronald Papsdorf, baritone.

The Senior high band is hard at work preparing for the Christmas program which will be held Dec. 17.

The Junior band is under the direction of Mr. Grove. The president is Kathy White; vice-president, Virginia Levan; secretary, Chris Fisher; and the treasurer is Louie Wain. First chair recognition goes to Jean Rajat, flute; John Widmayer, Wendy Gilbert; French horn; Roger Lehman, drums; Duke Wiese, tuba; Ellen Fisher, oboe; Arlene Zahn, cornet; Judy Grove, clarinet; and Virginia Levan, saxophone.

Chelsea High is indeed proud of its Junior band.

For the girls' volleyball tournament the eighth grade and the seventh grade played Wednesday Nov. 13. The seventh grade won with the score of 26 to 16. The Star Dusters is the name of the seventh grade team. The Star Dusters will play the senior team next week. This week the girls have been testing their skill at hitting the volleyball across the net.

The Junior Varsity Cheerleaders are very proud to have finished an undefeated season in football. They are looking forward to basketball season which starts Nov. 26.

The Home Economics classes have been working very busily. First and third hour classes have been baking pies, making jelly rolls, and experimenting with jelly. They have also been reading about different ideas on bedrooms: how they can improve them without money, but by neatness and cleanliness.

The GAA girls held their second "fun night" on Monday, Nov. 4. A supper in the Home Ec. room was followed by a trip to the roller rink where the evening was devoted to skating. The girls enjoyed themselves thoroughly.

Future Homemakers of America met during Activity period Nov. 13 to discuss the swimming party to be held Nov. 19 at the Ann Arbor High swimming pool.

The Camera club has been discussing and making a permanent charter. Under the direction of their advisor, Mr. Prinzing, they are learning how to use a light meter for various pictures.

Art classes are still continuing water coloring, "wet" and "dry" One picture with all "finish touches" is required from each student at the end of the six weeks. Students have enjoyed their experiences with "wet" and "dry" water coloring.

The seventh grade Home Ec. class has been cooking and sewing, while the shop class has been working on individual projects. The reading class has been reading stories; occasionally an individual will treat the class to cookies or brownies.

Shop is a main activity of section C of the seventh grade while section B is having its try at making Brownies in Home Ec. This semester assignment due in history is to make a report on one country in each continent. Farming is the major topic now, though Diagramming and the various parts of speech are being studied in English. In physical education, the girls are playing soccer, but on alternate days they have health, in which they are studying about ears.

This being the sixth week of the second six week's marking period, freshman students are working on projects for the next grades to make up for the bad ones gotten in the former five weeks. Many tests are popping up in all classes and students are polishing up their skills of cheating. But truly there are a few honest ones who study hard. In biology, Mr. Poulson's classes are studying stems and roots. Mr. Conklin's classes are studying leaves and flowers. In algebra, balancing equations is the topic of study, fret and worry. French and Latin first year students one day can begin to understand the foreign language and the next are as muddled and confused as ever. There is a hope however that it might someday soak in.

Boys' physical education classes are thoroughly enjoying the tumbling they have been taught by Mr. Taylor recently.

Lives Can Be Saved Through Allotting More Money for Medical Research

The United States is expected to spend $38,000,000,000 this year on defense. This does not include some additional expenditures which are designed to provide military aid to our allies.

By contrast, the government is spending less than $1,000,000,000 on medical research. Yet, it is a well known fact that if the government could spend several billion dollars on research, in attempting to solve the mysteries which surround some diseases, and which prevent the discovery of a cure, great progress could be made. In fact, it is thought that the cure to several of the major diseases could be found if several billion dollars were allotted to research on them.

Some may think that the money we are spending on national defense is in about the proper ratio, since wars exact a heavy toll in human life and since national defense is designed to prevent another war. While the money we are now spending on defense may prevent a war, the facts are that the discovery of a cure for several of the major diseases would prevent more deaths and suffering than the prevention of another war on the scale of the Korean War.

Wars are terrible and we are not trying to belittle even one death caused by a war. However, when we realize that we kill as many people on our highways every year as were killed in Korea, we can understand that discovering a cure for some "incurable disease" or finding a way to reduce highway accidents is a highly worthwhile project and one which would justify the expenditure of several billions of dollars. For some unknown reason there always seems to be enough dollars available in Washington to send abroad for every pet scheme that comes along so it might just happen that some of this could be diverted to research.

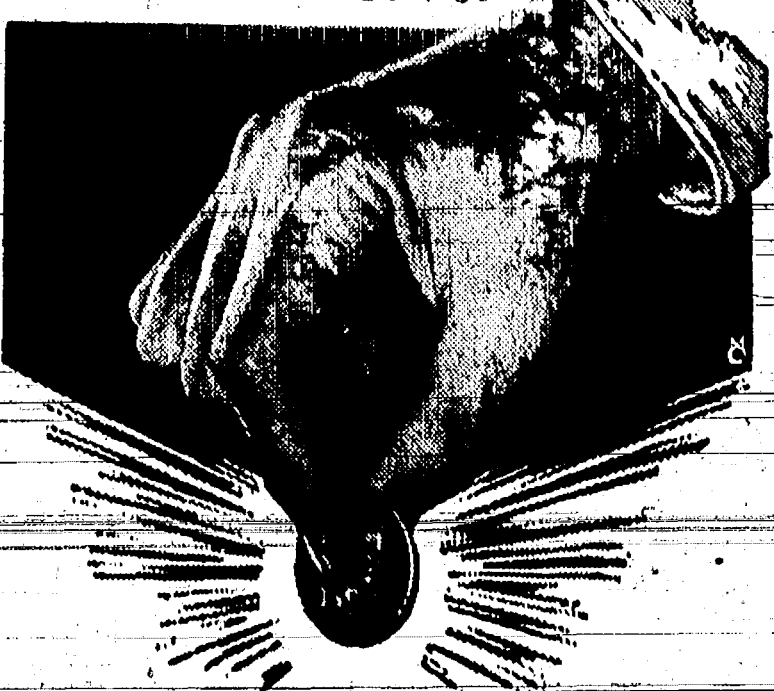

We think that the Budget Bureau should allot at least three billion dollars annually to medical research. When one considers the hundreds of thousands of lives which might be saved if a cure for even one of the major diseases is found, the cost of the research becomes relatively unimportant. The fact that the lives of these human beings were saved and will continue to earn a living and pay taxes, will in time—offset the expenditures.

In addition, merely from a humanitarian standpoint, the program is justified. We hope to see the day when the President will include in his annual program the expenditure of at least three billion dollars for medical research. And we think that day will come sooner than many people expect.

Nearly every American thinks he is a writer except the men and women who have to make their living by writing.

The man who engages in cut-throat competition usually feels the effect around his own neck.

Then see to it that these dollars go promptly into your savings account every week . . . before they have a chance to go elsewhere. ## Highlights Of 1957 Football Season

★ MICHIGAN MIRROR ★

By Elmer E. White, Secretary, Michigan Press Association

Taxes and their impact on Michigan's business and industrial life are becoming the biggest political news of the year.

The issue has been blown into the hottest off-year fight between Democrats and Republicans in decades.

Republicans got in the latest blow, citing the departure of the Daisy Manufacturing Co. of Plymouth, and a small firm in Crosswell for other states where taxes are lower.

They charge that companies are leaving the state because Gov. Williams is threatening new fiscal policies and additional expenditures which will force new business taxes.

Democrats retort that the Republican-controlled legislature must pass all tax bills and if business is leaving, it is the fault of Republicans.

Since the legislature, no matter which party controls it, must pass all tax bills, the Democrats are accurate when they point out this fact. The real issue Republicans try to press home is this: It is the general economic atmosphere created over a long period by Williams with what they regard as his constant effort to go to industry and business, that is causing concern in the mind of the employer. In short, Republicans claim it is not only the present tax and labor situation which makes the employer uneasy. It is not knowing how and how much he will be taxed or hampered by union activities now.

Casa Hugh, top man in the Daisy firm, which manufactures air rifles and toys, said he was taking his company south to shed high labor costs and taxes.

He said labor comes for about $1 an hour less in the south and the firm will save about $75,000 a year in taxes.

The Groswell firm says substantially the same thing.

The added element of high labor costs to the issue that has been concentrated on taxes is a more direct attack on labor unions, the political allies of Democrats.

Williams' aides quickly remembered that House was a member of the State Aeronautics Commission whom the governor replaced. They said this was his way of getting revenge.

Political seers in Lansing are waiting to see if Republicans can keep the issue alive for another year, long enough for effective use in the 1958 state campaign.

Members of the Michigan Milk Producers' Association announced their opposition to a state milk marketing law. This is a reverse of last year's stand.

The organization of more than 25,000 dairy farmers, representing the most powerful of three such forces in the field, is expected to have the final word on the bill.

Last year, MMPA supported the plan which would have created a special marketing department in

Washington Report
 By Senator Charles F. Potter
 The latest news from Washington of special interest to Michigan.

SCIENCE, glittering with challenges and rewards, is an unopened box of jewels waiting for the youth of America to lift the lid. Physics, chemistry, astronomy, and mathematics are shaping the destiny of this world and tracking through the heavens toward new planets.

An army of scientific experts has become a nation's first line of defense.

Highlighting President Eisenhower's latest television address was his warning of Soviet scientific emphasis. "When a Russian graduate from high school," the President said, "he has had five years of physics, four years of chemistry, one year of astronomy, five years of biology, ten years of mathematics through trigonometry." Total twenty-five years of scientific training.

What of the high school graduates in the United States? On the average, he gets a paltry two years.

Recently I asked the President to set up a Scientific Progress Agency to tackle space age problems. Such an agency could work out plans to mobilize our educational system in the race for space.

American youth, our greatest resource, will be hamstringed in a technological era unless we give them adequate training.

In the long run, leaders in government, industry and education starting at the local level, must guide young people to the scientific jewel box and encourage them to explore its contents. Only in that way can we capture the treasure of technological leadership, on which rest our hopes for security and the good life.

MICHIGAN has every right to wear the missile crown. I have always contended that diversified production capabilities, so abundant in our State, are a sounder and surer base for missile production than aircraft firms, which essentially serve as assembly points.

Michigan's outstanding work on the Jupiter proves my contention. I am pushing hard to draw more missile contracts into our State.

Uncle Sam can save money by placing such contracts with our basic manufacturers, and at the same time provide much needed jobs for Michiganders.

SIXTEEN WONDERFUL KIDS in Mrs. Glenn Smith's eighth grade class at Vanderbilt Area School in Gaylord made my birthday complete by sending me a batch of cheerful cards and greetings. The personal messages revealed a surprising amount of knowledge about Michigan. I was impressed by the children's comments on the lamprey, the proposed voyage of Mayflower II up the St. Lawrence, and the significance of the American flag.

I hope I may continue to merit their faith and confidence.

★ Pictures

The best way to put an idea across is to put it into a picture. This thought was locking home to me while I was drafting a booklet about how to get the most mileage out of your car. Of course, a vivid imagination is the simplest device for boosting gas mileage, but this booklet was talking about other ways.

The book had pictures of two bicycle riders: one gliding along easily at a normal rate, the other hunched over his handle bars, pedaling along for all he was worth at racing speed. It didn't take much explanation to show that the faster you go, the harder you have to work.

The author pointed out that the same laws of nature which govern the speed of a bicycle also apply to a car. In fact, he said, to get twice as much speed, you need to use six times as much horsepower.

He went on to show that quick acceleration burns gas at an exorbitant rate—and that sudden braking wastes all the energy you might have used free if you had coasted to a stop.

But it was the picture that stuck in my mind, rather than the statistics, and when I am tempted to "step on it," I think about that poor kid laboring away on his bicycle, and I decide the extra speed isn't worth all the effort.

This is easier for me, as well as for the car. Fast driving is not only a sign of nervous tension—it is also a cause of nervous tension. During World War II, when gas was rationed and speed was restricted, I used to drive a distance of about 35 miles over a route that included city traffic, a highway, and some winding country roads.

I was startled to find that I could make the trip at a speed of 35 miles an hour in almost the same length of time that it took when I drove at 50 or 60.

They were disclosed to the state safety commission by a special committee organized for the purpose by Secretary of State James M. Hare.

The report shows that two bottles of beer or two cocktails without an hour make a driver a menace behind the wheel for one additional hour.

It used surveys developed at Evanston, Ill., and Toronto, Ont., as evidence that the drinking driver is often more dangerous on the highway than the intoxicated motorist.

Now that the evidence is in, what can be done to keep motorists from drinking and driving?

There must be an educational program that will show them that three drinks can be dangerous as 18 drinks," said Hare.

IMPLICITY NEEDED
 Denver, Co.—Declaring lawyers ought to use simpler words and shorter sentences, Chief Justice O. Otto Moore, of Colorado's Supreme Court, told the Denver Bar Association.

"I've got to use a dictionary in reading some of your legal briefs. And too much of that becomes embarrassing."

MICHIGAN BELL

TELEPHONE lines

WHAT GIFTS BRING pleasure every day of the year, make life easier, and are not likely to be duplicated? Additional telephones in color, of course, a welcome solution to the "what to give" problem. Bed room phones are wonderful for Mother, Dad would get a real kick out of a telephone for his den or basement workshop. And teen-agers think a phone in their own room is tops. Christmas will be here before you know it—a perfect time for giving gift telephones.

THE DISTANT EARLY WARNING LINE

A chain of radar stations stretching 3,000 miles across the Arctic is now in operation and will give 4 to 6 hours warning if enemy planes approach from the north. The Air Force asked the Bell System to design the DEW line. Among the thousands of men who worked for many months in the cold and desolate Arctic to complete the job on schedule were 4,478 telephone men—many from Michigan. The Bell System skills that produced the DEW line are the same ones that help make your telephone service better and more useful to you every day.

WE RAN ACROSS these figures recently, and we thought you might be interested in seeing how the telephone industry is contributing to Michigan's prosperity. Last year the Bell System's manufacturing and supply unit, Western Electric Co., paid $19,325,784 for supplies and materials bought from 1,223 firms in some 146 towns and cities in Michigan. That's quite a lot of business coming into the state, creating job opportunities and helping to keep the factories humming. Since we're all Michiganders ourselves, we're mighty glad to see this.

End of Economic Boom Forecast by MSU Analysts

East Lansing—Economic analysts at Michigan State University predict an end to our three-year business boom and say that the decline has already begun. Dr. John H. Hoagland, associate professor of management at MSU, in an article in the current issue of "Business Topics," interprets some economic indicators to mean that "business conditions are not good."

No Evidence To Bar Using Plant Growth Stimulator

There is no evidence yet discovered that gibberellin, the much discussed plant growth stimulator, has a harmful effect. This is the report of S. H. Wittwer, horticultural scientist at Michigan State University, who has done much of the research on the growth stimulant that makes plants grow faster and mature sooner. Since gibberellin is not an insecticide, fungicide or herbicide, the Food and Drug Administration will not make any statement for or against the use of gibberellin on food crops unless there is some evidence that it has a harmful effect on man.

Alcoholism Center Offers Treatment On Cost-Basis Fee

Dr. W. B. Prothro, Grand Rapids City-County Health Officer, announced that the Health Department is continuing to provide both in-patient and out-patient services for alcoholics at its Alcoholism Rehabilitation Center.

In-patient service is provided for men patients only, whereas out-patient service can accommodate either men or women. The Center is staffed with professional people trained in the field of alcoholism.

The program regime consists of medical care, psychological and psychiatric screening, diet and counseling therapy, work therapy, plus an intensive education program. All patients receive a complete physical examination including a chest x-ray and blood test. In-patient care is limited for approximately two weeks.

A cost-basis fee is charged for the period of treatment. The center provides all necessary needs of the patients other than personal items such as clothing and toiletries. For persons unable to finance costs of treatment, the Michigan State Board of Alcoholism is authorized to accept applications for the purposes of treatment. Further information relative to this assistance may be obtained by writing Ralph Daniel, Executive Director of the Michigan State Board of Alcoholism, 230 North Grand Avenue, Lansing.

Patients may be referred directly to the Center by physicians, social agencies, churches, or any interested person. All inquiries should be addressed to the Grand Rapids Health Department, Alcoholism Rehabilitation Center, 726 Fuller, N. E., Grand Rapids.

The two 552-foot towers that support the cables of Michigan's new Mackinac Straits bridge are anchored in rock lying nearly 200 feet below the water's surface.

WAX PROTECTS TOOLS

A coating of hard paste wax makes a good protecting surface for those shop tools that rust so easily, report extension agricultural engineers. The wax seals out moisture and also helps the tools shed dust and dirt. However, he advises polishing tools that have spots of rust on them before waxing.

What is the life expectancy of Michigan's Mackinac Straits bridge?

It's engineer-designer, David B. Steinman, New York, says the span is built to remain serviceable for at least a century.

MAKE A WISH

Think of Thanksgiving and you think of turkey. Think of turkey and you're apt to think of that perennial custom of wishing on the wish-bone.

Much of thanksgiving hasn't changed. But, thanks to trucks, the kind and character of the various foods that make up the typical Thanksgiving dinner HAVE changed—and for the better, of course.

Turkey is still the main dish—but it's tastier and more tender today. Vegetables are fresh or fresh frozen—hence much more flavorful. There's a crisp tossed salad and fresh fruit "out of season." And for dessert—the choice is wide and the quality high.

All this has been made possible largely by the facilities of modern truck transport. Trucks bring you everything you eat, wear or use—and they'll help make the "eatin'est" day in the year a happier one for most Michiganders. Just sit back and make a wish—and trucks will make it true.

Michigan Experience Proves

LOW-COST SOIL-CEMENT WILL ANSWER YOUR ROAD PROBLEMS

There's a new economical, easy way to end the problems of dusty, rutted gravel roads or asphalt roads that break up every spring and need constant patching.

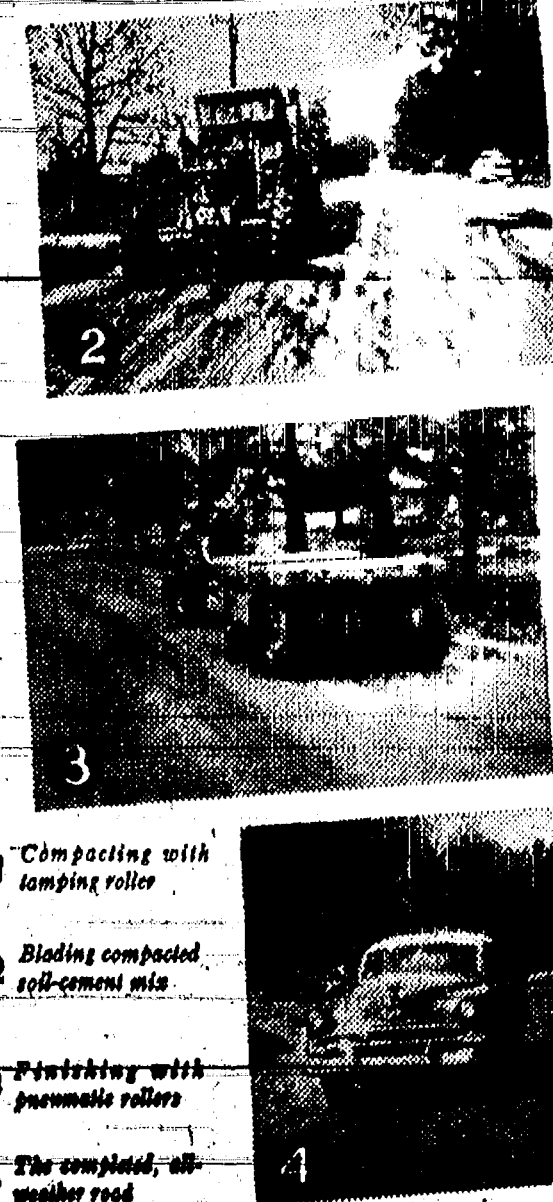

Soil-cement base construction provides a durable, all-weather road which is low in cost and requires only minimum maintenance. As its name implies, this type of road is built simply by compacting soil, cement, and water, producing a hard concrete-like base suitable for light-traffic trunklines and county roads. The base actually gets stronger with age!

Soil-cement already is proven in Michigan. Genesee County, for example, has 113 miles of soil-cement roads giving excellent service. Public approval is enthusiastic. Huron, Macomb, and Oakland Counties also have successfully tested soil-cement.

Soil-cement roads are quickly built. Traffic can immediately use a soil-cement road without detour delays. Up to 2.5 miles have been built in a single day in Michigan!

How important is milk?

to your community...

Milk is essential to the economy of your community. Much farm income, for example, is dependent upon milk. Local business, in turn, is largely dependent upon farm buying power. Sound milk marketing, therefore, is critically important. That is why the policies of the Michigan Milk Producers Association are based on guaranteed market and guaranteed payment, guided by long experience, supported by facts.

Buy Good Quality In Fur Coat Rather Than Expensive Fur

Perhaps the most extravagant waste of money a woman can indulge in is a cheap fur coat. Not only will it look sorry for its first wearing but it will very soon look much worse and fail to provide sufficient warmth.
It is possible to purchase a good fur coat for the price of a cheap fur coat. Don't make the mistake of trying to get more for your money than it is possible to do. If you have a moderate amount of money to invest in a fur coat, choose a coat made of a fine quality of a moderately priced fur. The best buy in fur seems to be a good quality of a long-wearing and quite beautiful. The workmanship of any fur coat accounts for the variation in prices found in the same quality of fur. A let-out muskrat coat will cost about one-hundred dollars more than a seamed coat. The latter beauty may or may not be worth the extra money to you. The most admired fur, excluding a few such as chinchilla, sable and ermine, which are out of reach to most of us, is mink. Here again the best advice is—if you can afford a good quality of a cheap mink—buy a good muskrat.
The best policy when buying a fur coat is to purchase it from a reliable dealer. The furs should be pliable and have a high natural-looking lustre. The guard hairs (those only) should be long, sleek and lying on the surface should be numerous and healthy-looking.
Take your time deciding on your fur coat. You are spending more money for it than any other single piece of clothing you own and you will probably wear it for a long time.

CONSIDER CARE WHEN BUYING GARMENTS, HOME FURNISHINGS
Consider care when you're buying clothing or home furnishings, suggests Bernetta Kahakka, extension specialist in clothing at Michigan State University.
Remember that construction, fiber content and fabric finish affect the kind of care required and length of wear that may be expected in "ready-mades." Good sturdy construction is needed for long wear with minimum mending.
New man-made fibers are especially designed to lighten your laundry load. They are completely washable—nothing made from them can be washed. Inter-facings or shoulder pads made from non-washable materials. And sometimes man-made fibers are blended with other fibers that need special handling.
Man-made fibers such as nylon, dacron or orlon, are sensitive to heat, non-absorbent and spot and stain resistant. These materials also tend to retain heat-set creases but dry quickly and need little ironing if handled properly.
Soll washes out easily if the garment is washed often so soil can't build up. Stains or heavily soiled areas should be pre-treated before laundering with a thick paste of detergent and water or concentrated liquid detergent. Rub paste or liquid into the area with a soft brush or sponge. Rinse thoroughly and wash.
Consider construction of the garment and the fabric to decide between washing or hand washing. You may want to wash delicate light-weight fabrics by hand. Firm fabrics in well-made garments can just as well be washed in the machine.
Only a short washing period is needed either in machine or by hand for man-made fibers. Because they're non-absorbent soil washes off quickly.
If you do hand washing it's best not to wring or twist garments of man-made fibers as it may cause wrinkles. In machine washing you may want to use about one-half a normal load helps prevent wrinkles.
Warm water of about 100 to 110 degrees is suggested for washing man-made fibers. At high temperatures the fabrics become plastic and if wrinkled in this condition wrinkles may become heat set.
It's best to drip dry garments with pleats. If you dry other garments in the dryer use a low temperature, about 100 to 170 degrees, and about one-half the normal load. Avoid overdrying as wrinkles may become set. Take garments from the dryer as soon as they're dry and smooth them out for the least wrinkles.
Labels on the garment give helpful hints on care. If there are special instructions it's wise to follow them for best results in laundering. You may want to save the labels or have a place to jot down the directions.
An executive is one who can get his work done, as he wants it done, by doing it himself.

Correction Noted on Directions for Sheep Dip

A news release from Don Johnson, Washtenaw county agricultural agent, regarding sheep scab infection in the county, and published last week, gave incorrect directions as to amounts of lindane to be used for sheep older than one month. Johnson said the directions should read as follows: Dip sheep older than one month in 0.03 per cent suspension of lindane. To obtain this strength, use pound of 25 per cent wettable lindane powder to each 100 gallons (last week it was 3 gallons); of water in the dipping vat. Agitate thoroughly before dipping the animals. Change the dip when it becomes filthy.

The road to success runs uphill, so don't expect to break any speed records.

Keep Frozen Fowl Under Refrigeration While Thawing

Lansing—Thanksgiving Day turkeys and other fowl must be handled with care both before and after the meal to avoid food poisoning, the Michigan Department of Health advised cooks and housewives today.

Extra care must be taken with fowl which are purchased frozen. The department recommended that frozen birds be thawed in a refrigerator. If a bird is thawed outside a refrigerator, microorganisms will multiply in the bird's exterior before the interior thaws.

The timetable for preparing the Thanksgiving dinner should allow sufficient time for thawing the bird. The department pointed out a 20-pound bird takes three days to thaw in a refrigerator.

Care also must be taken when stuffing the bird. The stuffing should be placed inside the bird just before it is placed in the oven. If the stuffing is prepared ahead of time, it should be kept under refrigeration until the bird is stuffed.

When the meal is over, all stuffing should be removed from the bird and refrigerated in a covered container. The left-over portion of the bird should also be refrigerated until used.

Applications Taken for Participation In Conservation Game Restoration Plan

Lansing—Southern Michigan farmers wishing to participate next spring in the Conservation Department's farm game restoration program are urged to submit applications to the Department now.

Game biologists are conducting inspections of lands belonging to interested farm operators and making farm plans which will benefit game animals and birds.

Under the farm game restoration program, landowners south of the Bay City-Muskegon line receive the services of game biologists in planning habitat improvement work, in addition to free planting stock and other materials which aid in making farms more attractive to wildlife.

Shipment of fall planting stock to co-operating farmers recently was completed by the Department and initial work on the spring program is underway.

Since the farm game restoration program was started by the Department's game division in 1948, more than 5,800 co-operating landowners have received free technical assistance, planting stock and other materials.

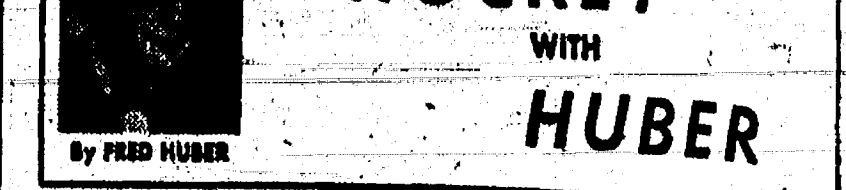

Planting stock supplied by the Department includes trees and shrubs which provide food and cover for wildlife. The landowner is responsible for the actual planting.

Plantings are suggested on eroded hillsides, gullies, pond or marsh borders and wooded edges. These plantings serve as windbreaks and erosion preventers, in addition to providing cover for wildlife.

Aircraft Engineer Predicts Atomic-Powered Airplane

A large, atomic-powered air transport, with virtually unlimited range, is practical and can be built, according to a Lockheed Aircraft engineer, Robert W. Middlewood. "It appears that we can design a logistics airplane which incorporates a nuclear power plant and that it will work," Middlewood said during a recent Los Angeles meeting of the Society of Automotive Engineers.

HOCKEY WITH HUBER

TELEVIEWERS OF hockey have become a curious and valued race of fans. They are perhaps the most inquisitive two-legged individuals in the world. Their keen eye and native curiosity appears to rake the screen minutely, seeking details, and having noted the detail, questions follow.

"A," "C" Questions One of the most prevalent questions concerns a small insignia on the uniforms of three or four players on each team. It is a simple letter, being either "C" or "A." The "A's" outnumber the "C's" about three to one.

Surprisingly, this letter, which has some significance in hockey, has become ever more significant to the viewers of the Stock hockey telecasts. It has evoked perhaps as many letters and telephone messages as any single personal character of the game.

The explanation, officially, is simple. The "C" designates the team captain. The "A" designates an alternate captain. According to league rules each team may have a Captain and three alternates.

Insofar as their designation is concerned, their jerseys, it is to identify them to the game officials. Under hockey rules only the Captain or an alternate may address an official in a matter of question or protest. The officials in turn are required to listen to such protests, if not abusively presented, and to answer questions. They are not required to pay heed to any comment from the other 14 or 15 players. The reason for a Captain is obvious, the alternates somewhat less so. However, when one realizes that by having a relative arrangement whereby either the Captain or one of his Santa's Little Helpers is on the ice at all times it speeds up even the machinery of protest. Certainly it would be a dull spectacle to see a Captain skate out on the ice each time a complaint arose. He would look more like Hermes, the wing-footed messenger of the gods than say Red Kelly.

For Kelly is the Captain of the Detroit Red Wings. And just to set the record in order his four counterparts are Joe Egan, Fernie Flaman of Boston; center George (Red) Sullivan of New York; right wings Rocket Richard and George Armstrong of Montreal and Toronto.

Four for Chicago. But who is the Chicago Captain, you ask? The Black Hawks don't have one. They have four alternates but no Captain. Perhaps, being the only hockey team nicknamed for an Indian tribe, they felt they have more chiefs than any other.

Actually, the Captain has many duties beyond carrying his "C" bravely into battle with referees and linesmen. That is a separate story in itself, however.
