Jan. 17—Flat Rock basketball team plays here.
Jan. 20—21—Exams in high school.
Jan. 22—End of the semester. No classes in junior and senior high school.
Jan. 23—Report cards again.

Chelsea's Junior and High School Band students are now over their first big challenge. Last Wednesday evening, Jan. 9, the brass sections held their solo contest, with Mr. Beeres as judge. He rated each soloist with his pianist, into five groups. Those students receiving ratings in the upper four groups will go to Ypsilanti in early February to try out with other students from Michigan. Those winners will go to the state solo contest.

On Thursday, Jan. 9, afternoon, the woodwind sections held their contest. The judging was rated in the same manner. Parents were invited to both. Those winners will also go to Ypsilanti.

The candy bar and fruit cake sale proved very successful. The band purchased a new baritone with the proceeds from this sale. The band has received an invitation to attend Band Day in 1958. It was decided to accept the invitation.

Members of the annual staff are proud to announce that they have succeeded in completing a portion of the Annual in time for the Dec. 30 deadline. They worked very hard over Christmas vacation typing and selling advertising. All are eager to receive this year's edition of "The Barker."

The high school chorus is practicing for the mid-winter concert which will be held Feb. 17, in conjunction with the Lyra Male Chorus of Ann Arbor. They were sorry to miss the rehearsal which they needed while Parents' Night was in progress. Anyone wishing to join evening choir for the second semester is welcome to do so.

The Golf Club of Chelsea High School, founded by Quentin Smith and Jon Harris, and supervised by Mr. Wesley Cowell, is beginning to get organized. About 25 girls are interested in joining the club, and only 10 boys. An application has been distributed which tests a person's knowledge of golf.

The student council plans to have a record auction soon during a noon dance. Old records will be sold to the highest bidder. Plans were approved for the Freshman Party to be held April 5. The party will be all-high after 9:00. The price is 30 cents and 45 cents.

Dennis Gary will go before the faculty, and try to secure a new flag for the school.

Journalism Club met Jan. 8, during Activity Period. The date for the Journalism dinner was set for Jan. 28. It will be pot-luck. Ideas for the next Bulldog were discussed, with the editors and Miss Fox racking their brains.

The Girls Phys. Ed. class has started class to turn in reports in basketball. They have four teams who alternate so that they can all play each team.

They have also been playing dodge ball and Indian Dodge ball. When two teams are playing the members of the other two can play badminton, tumbling, or ping pong, on the sidelines.

Mr. Sanborn's seventh grade girls chorus went ice-skating Jan. 8, at Memorial Park. An enjoyable time was had by all.

The following movies are being shown between Jan. 13, and Jan. 21. The Biology class will see "Reptile," and "Birds are Interesting." The typing class will see "Advanced Typing-Duplication."

The English 10 class has been reading plays, and making an outline of each act. They listened to a recording of the whole play, and were required to learn 15 lines, of their own choosing, from Shakespeare's "Julius Caesar."

Mr. LaGoe, the teacher of the course, was ill, and didn't return until Monday, Jan. 12. The students missed him although they have enjoyed the presence of the substitute, Mrs. Mayers.

The Sophomores hope to give a party for the Freshman class in the very near future.

School started, again, after a two-week vacation and the Freshmen returned and took up where they had left off with a flourish.

In English, the dreaded autobiographies were graded and put on a shelf, in room 9, for public exhibition.

Semester finals, however, are the cause of the highest per cent of worry among the Freshmen.

Biology, English, algebra, civics, etc., etc., are the exams scheduled for the next two weeks.

As typical of all CHS, the Juniors have that lazy, not-care-in-the-world feeling, up to coming back to school after such a nice, long, holiday vacation.

However, it is not long before the bubble bursts! Already, Mrs. Baid is beginning a two-week unit on "How to write a Term Paper." At the end of that period, all Juniors must produce a three-page search paper dealing with some phase of science. Good luck, Juniors!!! You'll need it!!!

Seniors are busily studying for their exams, which begin in this week. Book reports in English, scrapbooks in History, radio scripts in speech and term papers in American Government are only some of the many projects due for this six weeks. All are hoping for good grades on their semester exams!

A gold trophy came home with the Chelsea FFA Soil Judging team from their match against Milan, Dexter, Saline, sponsored by the Washtenaw Division of the State Conservation District. The soil judging was done both on a team and individual basis. Chelsea's first-place winning team included Earl Heller, James Heydlauff, John Eisenbeiser, Douglas Stark and James Grau. Individual competition, first place went to Paul Rothfuss, second to Paul Frisinger, and third to Earl Heller. In other words, Chelsea made a clean sweep of the event.

LAST WILL AND TESTAMENT

People are inclined to put things off. They wait until tomorrow to do things that are not too urgent. Tomorrow does not come, at least you cannot be sure you will be there to do it. Have you made your will? You should do so at once regardless of the state of your health. Life is uncertain, accidents happen, sickness strikes without warning. BE READY.

THANK YOU

I wish to thank my friends, relatives and neighbors for the flowers, cards, food and calls I received while I was at the hospital and since my return home. Mrs. Fred Hadley.

THANK YOU

CARD OF THANKS

I am deeply grateful to friends, relatives and neighbors for the many kindnesses shown my husband during his long illness and for the sympathy extended by means of Masses, cards, flowers and other thoughtful remembrances following his death. IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our dear brother, Leon Cushman, who passed away Jan. 11, 1955. His pleasant ways and smiling face are a pleasure to recall; He had a pleasant word for each and died beloved by all. Some day we hope to meet again. Some day, we know not when, To clasp his hand in the better land. Never to part again. Sadly missed by his sisters and brother.

Mr. and Mrs. Duane Luick returned home Tuesday night from a two-week trip during which they visited their sister and family, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Gage and children, at Tucson, Ariz.

High protein feeds, such as soybean oil meal and 48 to 55 percent protein dairy concentrates, are good buys for dairymen, say Michigan State University dairy specialists.

Daylight Hours

Ann Arbor—January days will lengthen by an hour over the shortest day of December (21st), but don't expect warmer weather yet, warns a University of Michigan astronomer.
Longer hours of sunshine will make no mark on the weather until rate of the earth's heating overtakes its rate of cooling, about the beginning of February, observes Hazel M. Losh, associate professor in the U-M Department of Astronomy.
More than 20,000 school children visit the University of Michigan Exhibit Museum every year.

Rockefeller Report Calls for Drastic Changes in U. S. Military Organization

Another report concerning the military preparedness of the United States has been brought to the attention of the American people. It is the report of a survey group which was financed by the Rockefeller brothers' fund.

This group began surveying the defense picture in June of 1956 and the report has just been released. Among other things it urges the United States to boost defense spending by three million dollars a year in each of the next several years. This is proposed because, as the report says, the United States is rapidly losing its edge in the armaments field.

The survey shows that without an effective defense, which is not now available, a nuclear attack on 50 of the most important metropolitan areas in the United States would produce probably 15 million dead and 20 million injured.

The group believes that an effort must be made toward unification of the armed services and effective co-ordinated defense policy. Specifically, the group reports that the Secretary of Defense does not have the authority he needs to carry out and implement unification decisions in the field of defense.

It is proposed that the chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff be designated as military advisor to the Secretary of Defense and the President and should be able to shape strategic planning without too much interference from the senior members of the three services.

In effect, the role of the Chief of Staff of the three services would be subordinated to the authority of the Chairman of the Joint Chiefs, acting with the President and the Secretary of Defense.

More important, the military departments, Army, Navy and Air Force, would be removed from the channels of operational command and "cease to be responsible for carrying out particular combat missions." This would be the obligation of the Defense Department, the President, the Secretary of Defense, and the chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

New, unified commands would be composed in operational areas of armed services' personnel from the three services and all officers above the rank of brigadier general would lose their identity with a single service.

The Rockefeller report is obviously of tremendous importance to the nation. In general, its suggestions are sound. Also, in general, it is in line with what is known about the findings of the secret Gauthier-Committee report. It is now up to Congress to see that some of these recommendations are written into law.

Progress Seen on Control of Weather

There are distinct possibilities that nuclear bombs will, sometime in the future, be able to exert a considerable influence on the weather. In fact, there are hints from Russia, and from sources which are studying Russian work in this field, that they are hoping to learn to control the weather to a frightening degree.

It will be recalled that experiments were carried out during and after World War II with bombs as used on hurricanes, in an effort to deflect these huge storms from their path. Little is known as to the actual success or findings of such efforts, though they did not result in any immediate practical benefits.

However, it is stated that nuclear explosions, or perhaps a series of limited atomic explosions, can counter the drift of storms, and combined with knowledge about seeding clouds with silver iodide, one has the beginning, and possibly the promise, of eventual mastery of nature's weather.

★ The Winning Side

We don't seem to have much time any more for parlor games like checkers and Flinch. But at a recent party, George Gillette and a pal got together for a game called Opportunity, which seems to be a less strenuous form of Monopoly.

The object of this game is to accumulate a number of points in each of three categories: Fame, Cash, and Happiness. These can be traded around to make them come out right; for example, a player who has more Fame than he needs, may trade some of it for Happiness.

People in real life who try to achieve glory through fame are seldom envied by those who have the opportunity of appraising them from the distance of a few years or a few thousand miles. Russia's Khrushchev was Time magazine's selection for "Man of the Year" in 1957, as Hitler had been a few years earlier, but which of my readers would be eager to trade places with Khrushchev or Hitler? Fame isn't everything.

Those who have tried to buy glory with cash have usually found it to be no bargain. As Professor Jurkat used to say, "Money won't make you happy—what makes you happy is the things that money can buy." But that, of course, was just his way of saying that the things which money can buy are not the things that bring happiness.

Posessions are subject to the law of diminishing returns. The first car you buy gives you a real thrill. The tenth car you buy is just another car. If you could afford a thousand cars the thousandth one wouldn't increase your satisfaction a bit. No, cash isn't the answer.

Many have thought that happiness was glorious. But those who have really concentrated on being happy have not won the esteem of mankind. "Playboy" and "glamor girl" are not generally considered to be complimentary terms.

While reading the Bible the other day, I discovered a better source of glory than cash or fame or happiness. In the first chapter of Colossians are these words: "Christ in you, the hope of glory."

The line of thought seems to be: God is the source of all the glory in the universe. Christ inherits glory for he is "the image of the invisible God." We too can be touched with glory if we let God have his way in our lives.

There you have it—your hope of glory is to let your life glow with the spirit of God, which is made known to us in the spirit of Christ. If you can count on God's love and power, you won't need to worry about cash, fame, or happiness. For you are "belonging" in the universe. Whether it brings a crown or a cross, or both, you will be on the winning side.

Washington Report

By Senator Charles E. Potter

The latest news from Washington of special interest to Michigan.

TOOLING UP for the mighty Jupiter intermediate range ballistic missile is getting into high gear at the Chrysler Warren plant just outside Detroit. Regular pay checks await 500 men and women now being hired and everything points to doubling of the present work force by the end of the year. That would bring it close to 10,000 workers at Warren. Unquestionably the most cheerful development in a month of Sundays, the new jobs come as a result of the recently announced Army award of a $52,000,000 missile contract to Michigan.

Of course, this merely dents Michigan's jobless list, but it offers enormous encouragement to those of us who needle the Pentagon ceaselessly to place defense contracts where they are needed most—in Michigan's labor-surplus centers. Nothing is sure to be followed by hefty production orders. I'm confident that the effect of this first huge Jupiter contract will span out through southern Michigan to smaller businesses who will garner a share of the subcontracts.

The President has asked Congress for $1.2 billion in emergency defense funds and $40 billion in the new budget, much of it for stepping up missile work. What has been labeled as "Potter's Push on the Pentagon" will be continued in an effort to get this money into Michigan in the form of defense contracts and new jobs.

PAY TV hearings opened Wednesday and I predict a verbal slugfest. Can Mr. and Mrs. America lounge in front of the family television set to be informed and entertained free of charge? Or must they drop a coin in the slot to receive certain programs?

I oppose any form of pay TV. A man buys a television set expecting that his investment ends right there; with the exception, perhaps, of a few service charges. Pay TV is like buying a refrigerator and having to drop money in the slot before you can open the door and get something to eat. I expect to appear before the House Commerce Committee to point out my reasons for opposing these schemes. Today we have 40 million television households in the nation and the investment of American citizens in our free system of television adds up to $17 billion. That money has enabled networks and local stations to build their news and public events coverage to the point where the American people are among the best-informed in the world. It has all been free of charge, built by free enterprise. Let's keep it that way.

LAST WEEK'S CARAVAN of Michigan visitors brought U. S. Attorney Wendell Miles of Grand Rapids and Mr. Henry Wolfenden, distinguished Detroit lawyer, to my office. Both gentlemen asked me what I considered the most urgent tasks facing Congress in the coming session. First and foremost, I replied, comes national security. I believe any strengthening of our defenses should give special emphasis to missiles. Second, but equally important, are scientific training. Third, America's economic strength must be guarded by wise allocation of funds for these costly programs.

I was gratified to note, after President Eisenhower delivered his State of the Union address, that his list of eight priorities for "total peace" included the three objectives I had pointed out.

WATERVLIET, Dutch for "flowing water," was settled way back in the early 1830's and named for the rapids once existing in the Paw Paw River.

Laudable harmony: government and industry are starting a joint campaign to sell Michigan to the world and each other.

It is part of a program to look at the other side of the state's economic climate—and the flight of business and industry to other states because of taxes and labor costs.

Dan Gerber, president of Gerber's Baby Products at Fremont and chairman of the Michigan Economic Development Commission, said the theme of the campaign is "Michigan Means Business."

"The need is for Michigan people to cooperate in solving their problems and to cooperate in selling their state," he said.

About 100 of the state's leading businessmen and industrialists have agreed to take part in a program as "Industrial Ambassadors" to carry the word of Michigan's attractions on their travels around the nation.

The campaign has its sides do not get into the controversy over taxes and labor costs which has raged over the past two years.

The in-state political impact of this battle between Republicans, who claim Williams' tax ideas are wrong, and Democrats who deny everything, is still unknown.

It can be gauged after the 1958 campaign when Democrats seek to extend their almost blanket control of state elective offices.

Gerber said 20 new industries located in Michigan in 1957.

If the selling campaign is successful, the GOP charge will lose some of its punch when the votes are counted next November.

The significance of the 1958 election is not lost by either party. Democrats claim it is their last chance under Williams to take control of state government. Republicans know they must start a comeback soon, or maybe never.

Democrats are aiming for a new foothold in the legislature, still dominated by Republicans.

In the Jan. 4 inauguration, Democrats formally took over five seats on the Michigan Supreme Court bench, control of the state board of agriculture which governs Michigan State University and gained a 4 to 4 split on the University of Michigan Board of Regents.

All top elective state officials are Democratic. Republicans hope to save their last top post with U. S. Senator Potter next fall.

Financial crises have a way of occurring every year for state government.

The 1958 crisis brought a turnabout by Williams, who in other years has preached the expanding needs of a growing state and demanded more money with a tax on corporate income.

Republicans held the line on the budget and have held off on further taxes whenever possible.

Williams took an economy tact this year. Opponents relate this effort for economy to the fall election.

First, he told state agencies their budgets would be slashed before they got to the legislature. Then, he told them to save all the money they could this year.

After declaring that the legislature was in no mood to raise new taxes this year, Williams recommended a doubling of the intangibles tax.

The levy is on stocks, bonds and other intangibles—including annuities bought years ago by workers to make their lives more secure in their old age.

"It's a tax on thrift, let's face it," said Senator Edward Hutchinson (R-Fennville).

Republicans generally are wary of Williams' tax idea this year.

They claim he lifted the intangibles tax plan from one preliminary report of a citizen group to a Republican study of the state's revenue structure.

Rep. Rollo G. Conlin (R-Tipton), chairman of the study, said Williams was unfair to run with the ball on a partial report.

Williams' plan would raise $21,000,000 if it achieved his expectations. This is only part of the total need this year to keep the state solvent until Conlin's tax plan is completed in 1959.

Elementary School Library Clubs
Visit Argus Planetarium in Ann Arbor

Members of the 7th and 8th grade library clubs journeyed to Ann Arbor Tuesday afternoon, Jan. 7, to hear a lecture on astronomy in the Argus Planetarium in the Ann Arbor High school and to tour the library.

John C. Rosemergy, a science teacher in the high school, talked for an hour about the sky and the solar system. He began by lowering the lights, simulating sunset. Background music provided the set for the starlight.

First, he described the various constellations. Then he explained the large and the small dippers because the famous navigational star, the North Star, may be located from the stars in the dipper constellations. Then he explained the lunar geography, pointing out the mountains and gulches on the surface of the moon, the earth's satellite. The moon when closest to the earth is some 238,000 miles away. Some postmen walk over 200,000 miles during a lifetime.

Rosemergy spent some time naming and describing certain stars. Our entire solar system can be accommodated in some with room to spare. He manipulated the planetarium so that the students could see the stars in the sky above Jamaica in the West Indies near Cuba south of the Tropic of Cancer and view the famous Southern Cross, a constellation which aids navigators in the Southern Hemisphere. He then returned the sky above Chelsea, and told us what we might see the evening of Jan. 7.

Mr. Rosemergy displayed a model of our solar system with the various planets revolving around the sun. He told us that light travels at the rate of 186,000 miles per second and that some starlight was years old. He concluded his wonderful account of the sky by projecting the Star of Bethlehem in the eastern skies and taking us back to the time of the birth of Jesus.

Chelsea students were given an opportunity to ask questions about the sky and about the planetarium. Students who made the trip to Ann Arbor are Margie Bauer, Barbara Powers, Robert Gieske, Judy

Farmers' Week
To Present Story
On Top Dairy Cows

The aim of every dairyman is to produce cows that will turn out 1,000 pounds of butterfat during one lactation.

Judging from the few who have been able to accomplish this feat, it must be other than easy.

Visitors to Michigan State University's Farmers' Week will have a chance to get the story and breeding behind some of the world's greatest cows. Michigan dairymen who have been responsible for the breeding of these top animals will be on hand to tell how they do it.

Farmers' Week is Jan. 27 to 31, at East Lansing.

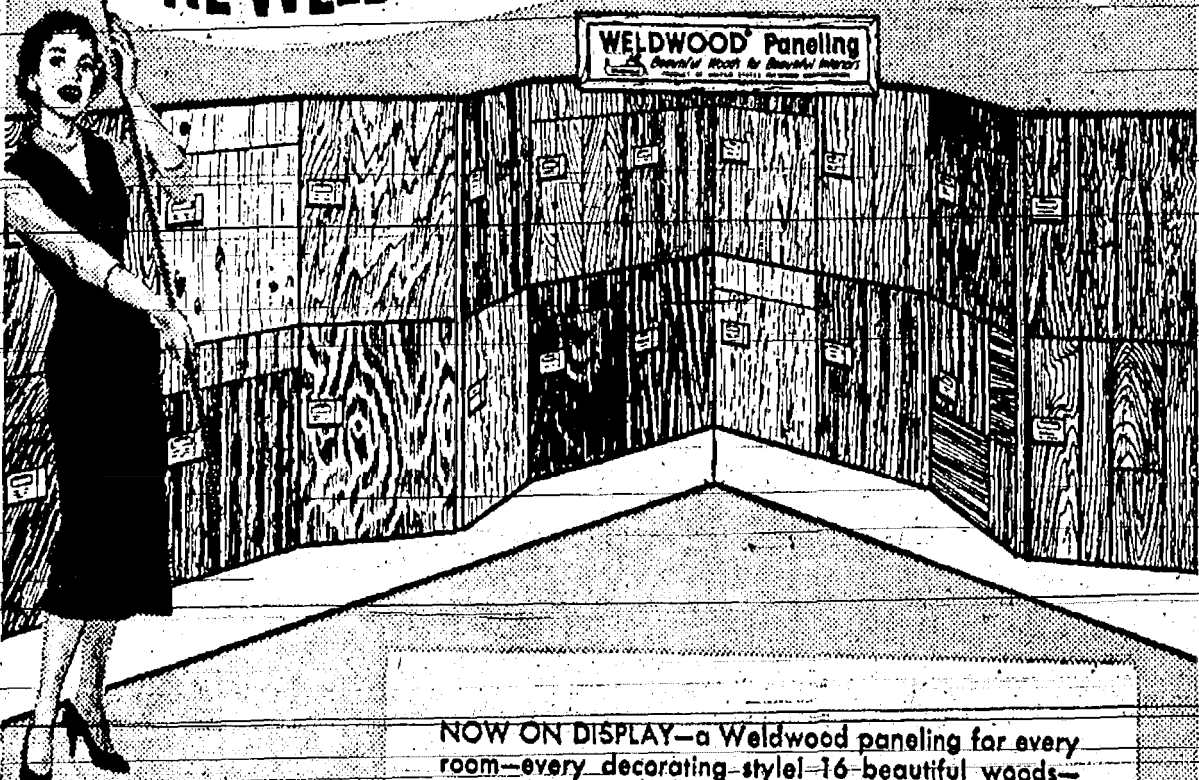

The Tuesday afternoon session will be highlighted by the story of "Minnie." She's the Guernsey cow that has just finished a world record of 1,461 pounds of butterfat during one lactation. The owner, Howard Colby of Romeo, will tell the story.

Other top Michigan dairymen who will be on hand for the "Michigan's Best" program include Dale Dean, Meadowridge Jerseys, Ridgeview; Charles Miles, Windrow Farms, Birmingham; Wilbur Harris, Grass Lake; and Jack Budd, Belleville.

Adults who accompanied the students are Miss Joan Wiese, librarian of the Chelsea Schools, Miss Shirley Bauer, an employee of Cuddeback Company, and Miss Dorothy Wiese, a senior education student at Eastern Michigan College in Ypsilanti. The bus driver was Arthur Barth, also known as Junior Barth to the students.
