Chelsea's cagers, after losing four games in succession, bounced back last Friday to win from Flat Rock, 51-45.

Flat Rock scored the first two points and that was the last time they were ahead. First quarter score was 17-11 and half-time score was 26-17.

Although Chelsea made many mistakes they played over them and hustled every minute of the way.

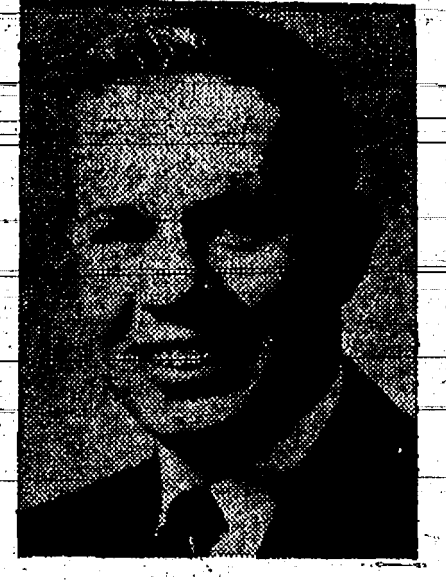

The Bulldogs outscored Flat Rock in the third quarter, 14-13, to lead 40-30 at the end of the third quarter. In the fourth quarter in which Chelsea was outscored, Flat Rock picked up four points on Chelsea, outscoring them 15-11. Final score was 51-45.

Both teams made 10 field goals, but Chelsea beat the Rams on the free throw line by making 18 free throws to six for Flat Rock.

Willie Hill was high for Chelsea with 20 points. George Mayer and Loren Keizer each had 10. Frank Fredrick, 6. Odie Richardson, 3, and Denny Schumm, 2, rounded out the scoring for Chelsea.

JAMES GLEASON

Whitmore Lake Youth Chosen as IFYE Delegate

James Gleason, Whitmore Lake, has been selected as an International Farm Youth Exchange (IFYE) delegate for 1958, according to Marvin Boas, Washtenaw county 4-H club agent.

James has been tentatively assigned to visit Austria and expects to leave in June and return in November.

The IFYE program, world-wide in nature, is a "people to people" activity intended to promote world peace through better understanding. While in these host countries, the delegates live and work with farm families. During the 10-year history of IFYE, 894 delegates from 44 states and Alaska have visited 58 other lands. More than 1,000 exchanges from 60 countries have come to the United States to visit with more than 8,000 families.

James, 22-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. E. Gleason, is a senior in agricultural economics at Michigan State University. He was a 4-H club member for five years when he carried major projects in swine and electrical work. He was president of the county 4-H council and member of the 1952 state 4-H livestock judging team. He also worked a summer 4-H job as agent in 1956. He is the first Washtenaw county resident to be so honored.

Mrs. Floyd Darby, suffered a stroke at 7 a.m. Wednesday, Jan. 15, at her home on Old US-12 and that evening was taken to St. Joseph Mercy hospital, Ann Arbor. She is in room 5018.

Fire Destroys New Home of C. Trinkles

The new home of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Trinkle at 12980 Sio Church road, was in complete ruins Saturday after it was hit by two fires in about 12 hours. The house was less than two years old.

No one was at home at the time the fire was first discovered shortly before 2 p.m. Friday. Extensive fire damage resulted in the kitchen area at that time and the rest of the house was severely damaged by smoke and water. Chelsea firemen remained on the scene for almost two hours and the fire appeared to be completely extinguished when they left.

Fire Chief Ted Balmer, however, cautioned that the place be watched for possible outbreak of fire later and Trinkle remained on guard until after 11 p.m.

The second fire was discovered at 2:45 a.m. Friday and Manchester and Cassidy Lake firemen joined Chelsea firemen in fighting the blaze.

Chelsea firemen then remained on the scene until noon.

Laetz stressed that the public is invited. Reservations for the dinner may be made by contacting chapter headquarters in Ann Arbor, NORMANDY 2-5548.

Interest in various courses has been indicated in previous requests, including cake decorating, china painting, typing, bookkeeping, conversational English, sewing, furniture refinishing and upholstery.

Anyone interested in any of the subjects mentioned or in others that might be desired, should attend the meeting, Principal Lane suggested.

Registration Deadline Date Approaches

Village Clerk Robert Devine is reminding people of Chelsea that it is time to check on their registration status before the registration deadline date of Feb. 10. Unless Chelsea residents are properly registered by that date it will be impossible to vote in the March 10 village election.

It is no longer possible to "swear in" voters on election day, Devine pointed out. Everyone who wishes to vote in the election must be properly registered by Feb. 10.

Anyone who is not certain of his registration status may call Devine at the New York Central Depot, he said.

He will check the registration roll and advise the caller as to whether his registration is in order. If it is not in proper order, the voter must register in person with the clerk if he wishes to vote.

Chelsea residents who have not voted in a village election in the past four years are automatically dropped from the list.

People who have moved into town since the last election must also register with the village clerk if they wish to vote.

Public Hearing Set Tonight on Zoning For Private School

Archdiocese of Detroit Asks Permit To Build on Van Valkenburg Farm

Sylvan Township Zoning Board has published notice of a public hearing to be held at 8 o'clock this evening (Thursday) at Sylvan Town Hall on the granting of a conditional use permit in an agricultural zone.

Such hearings are in accordance with Article IX of the Sylvan township zoning ordinance which states that public and private schools and educational institutions are required to have conditional use permits.

The permit is being applied for by the Roman Catholic Archdiocese of Detroit which has entered into a purchase agreement with Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Van Valkenburg for their 180-acre farm at 16167 Old US-12, West, for the purpose of using the property as a site for a private school for boys.

Representatives of the Archdiocese will be present for the hearing tonight.

Plans for the school for approximately 60 boys have been underway for the past 18 months, a spokesman for the Archdiocese said yesterday. However, announcement of the plans was postponed until such time as Sylvan township's zoning ordinance, then in the tentative stage, became effective.

It was explained that full approval of the proposed project by township area residents is the desire of the Archdiocese before the school is located here.

The school, as planned, will be for boys whose intellectual capacity is below average to the extent that they lack the ability to make normal progress in public or parochial schools.

Boys selected to become students at the school will not be the type commonly referred to as underprivileged or delinquent or in need of custodial care, but will be chosen because of their interest in learning and ability to learn about farming.

A religious order of priests and brothers, known as the Order of Service of Charity, has consented to administer the school in order that the boys will have the benefit of training that will help them to live happy, useful and productive lives.

A similar school for girls was begun about a year ago near Northville.

Plans for the proposed school call for faculty members and students to work the farm as a means of practical application of the study of profitable farming methods.

It is planned to use the present farm home on the property until a school building is erected. Beginning of such construction probably could not be started before May or June, a representative of the Archdiocese stated when asked about the project yesterday.

Scouts' Peanut Sale Adds $164 To Polio Fund

The Boy Scouts "Peanut-for-Polio" sale last Saturday added $164.37 to the March of Dimes campaign, according to reports given the March of Dimes chairman, Mrs. Norman Ratcliffe.

The annual "Mothers' March" which concludes the month-long campaign for funds, will be held Friday, Jan. 31, from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. in the evening. Mrs. M. L. Dietz is chairman of the Mothers' March project.

The school, as planned, will be for boys whose intellectual capacity is below average to the extent that they lack the ability to make normal progress in public or parochial schools.

Boys selected to become students at the school will not be the type commonly referred to as underprivileged or delinquent or in need of custodial care, but will be chosen because of their interest in learning and ability to learn about farming.

Only shotguns are carried. The use of dogs and rifles are barred. Friends of club members, if good safe hunters, are invited to join.

Farmers in the area are especially invited to participate, according to announcements by the Chelsea Rod and Gun club.

Lyra Male Chorus To Appear Here in Feb. 17 Concert

The Music Department of Chelsea High school is again, at last year, planning to present the Lyra Male Chorus of Ann Arbor under the direction of John Morrill, conductor of the Ann Arbor High School Chorus, in an informal concert at 8 p.m. in the high school gym on Feb. 17.

The high school choir, directed by David G. Sanborn, will assist the Chorus.

Last year's concert proved to be one of the outstanding musical activities of the year, though marred by a small audience. Both groups have grown in size and quality this year and promise a fine evening's entertainment.

All proceeds go to the high school choir robe fund.

POLIO MOTHER OF YEAR—Although seriously crippled with polio, 24-year-old Mrs. Julie Speese, of Kalamazoo, has assumed complete charge of her family of four children and as a result of her great comeback has been named Michigan's Polio Mother of the Year. Able to walk with the aid of braces, Mrs. Speese will be marching with other mothers during the March of Dimes. Shown above are Mrs. Speese and three of her four children: David, 4; Melissa, 2, and Susan, 3. Her fourth child, three-month-old Mark, was born since she had polio.

Kalamazoo Mother of Four Named Michigan's 'Polio Mother of the Year'

LASSO NOT AUTOS

Harrisburg, Pa.—Robert Mitchell, 14, found out that a lasso might stop a steer but not an automobile. The youngster tossed the lariat onto the license plate of a passing car and found himself dragged for several feet before the motorist stopped. The experience cost Mitchell a few brush burns.

Kalamazoo—A 24-year-old Kalamazoo housewife who assumed the complete care of her three children—and gave birth to a fourth less than 18 months after a crippling attack of infantile paralysis—is Michigan's Polio Mother of the Year.

Pretty, auburn-haired Julie Speese was just one of the 80 Kalamazoo county residents stricken by polio in 1956 and for her it meant five long months in Borgess hospital during which time she often wondered if she would ever walk again.

But her determination to come back, the help of an understanding and patient husband and the backing of the March of Dimes organization—all have resulted in as normal a life as possible for Mrs. Speese.

Polio struck in July, 1956—tragically, just 10 days before Salk vaccine became available for others than children and pregnant women. Julie was completely immobile from the waist down. Only constant hospital care and regular physical therapy treatments which she still takes twice a week have enabled her to walk again.

"She no longer uses a wheel chair and needs crutches only if she plans to be on her feet for great lengths of time," explained her husband, Richard, who is an employee of the Michigan Bell Telephone Company. "Julie has more courage than you can imagine."

Attesting to this is the fact she takes complete care of the family's four-bedroom frame home near the outskirts of the city. This includes all cleaning, housekeeping and cooking for her husband and their four small children, David, four years old; Susan, three; Melissa, two and three-month-old Mark.

Recently, she learned to drive the family car, which has been fitted with special attachments. This enables her to do the family shopping.

The case of Julie Speese typifies the theme of the 1958 March of Dimes—"Survival is not Enough."

"It certainly wasn't enough for me!" Mrs. Speese said. "There was a time when I didn't know what the March of Dimes was and what it did. Now I know I can't say what would have happened to me were it not for the National Foundation and its wonderful volunteers."

"After all the help I got, I vowed I would learn to walk again—and that as soon as I did, I would walk with the others during the Mothers' March on Polio. This year I will do it!"

Her rehabilitation has been rapid, but by no means is it over. Soon, she will return to the hospital for a series of two operations. In these, stronger muscles in her legs and ankles will be transplanted to do the work of those made useless by polio.

A graduate of Nazareth Academy, Julie attended Western Michigan University before her marriage to Richard. They attend St. Joseph's church.

A large family doesn't scare her at all.

"I love children and don't mind caring for them," she said. "But we may need a larger house." When the day comes, she hopes all the rooms will be on one floor. Climbing from the basement to the second floor wearing heavy metal braces and carrying heavy family laundry isn't the easiest thing in the world.

Small Businesses Should Attract Farm Operators

Ann Arbor—Long-term solution of America's farm surplus problem may depend largely on finding an attractive place in industrial society for the small commercial farmer.

That's the opinion of Kenneth E. Boulding, a University of Michigan economist. In the past 10 years, he notes, nearly a million Americans have given up farming for city life. But this has done little to relieve the surplus problem.

The reason: nearly all those who moved were subsistence farmers. They contributed relatively little to the nation's total farm output. Commercial farmers—those who raise food in volume for a profit—more than made up this loss through increased productivity.

Where farm laborers may not have found it too difficult to enter the industrial work force, however, a commercial farmer with capital of his own may not find the transition as easy. Comments Boulding:

"Of course, no one would expect a farmer to start a steel mill or auto plant. But there are many areas of industry where small capitalists are important: retailing, construction, personal services and the professions, to name a few. It seems likely, however, that in the over-all distribution of enterprises by size, there is a disproportionate number of small enterprises in agriculture. This may present a real obstacle to the transfer of small worker-capitalists from agricultural to industrial employment."

The University of Michigan Law School requires a $5.00 application fee and a $45.00 deposit from all those accepted for admission. These deposits are refunded when a student enrolls.

'Survival Is Not Enough...'

In a year filled with many world tensions, doubts and fears, one bright spot stands out which should cause everyone to rejoice. That great blessing of 1957 has been the sharp decline in the number of new polio cases across the nation. But, while we're rejoicing over the success of the Salk vaccine in controlling epidemic polio, let's take a closer look at the polio picture. Is it really over? Can we sit back now and say "goodbye" to one of history's most dread, costly and tragic of all human diseases?

Tens of thousands of crippled polio victims know better. And so do March of Dimes volunteers in Chelsea and elsewhere across the land. They can show you how visible polio still is on the national scene with a short visit to one of the National Foundation's Respirator Centers—the U. of M. hospital in this area.

Approximately 300,000 living Americans have survived attacks of paralytic polio, nearly half of them in the past 10 years.

Estimates made by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis indicate that nearly one-third of this group now suffers from some form of disability which can be remedied or eased.

Last year the National Foundation spent nearly $22,000,000 in assisting and caring for 57,000 polio patients. And only 8,700 of this group contracted polio last year. The balance of the group, 56,000 of them, were victims of attacks in previous years who still need help. And they will need continued help and rehabilitation for years to come.

These aren't just statistics from a textbook. They are real people, some of them you know personally.

The real success of the current campaign for funds to try March of Dimes volunteers will be measured by the thousands of lives of rehabilitated victims of the disease who have been nursed back to become once again happy, useful citizens.

The March of Dimes again deserves our wholehearted support in its work of serving humanity. Please be generous as you have in past years.

Army Loses Top Leader in Decision Of Gen. Gavin To 'Retire' from Service

1st General James M. Gavin has announced he is retiring from the U. S. Army. Gavin, one of the Army's great leaders, has been Army Missile Chief in recent years and has more recently had a disagreement with the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

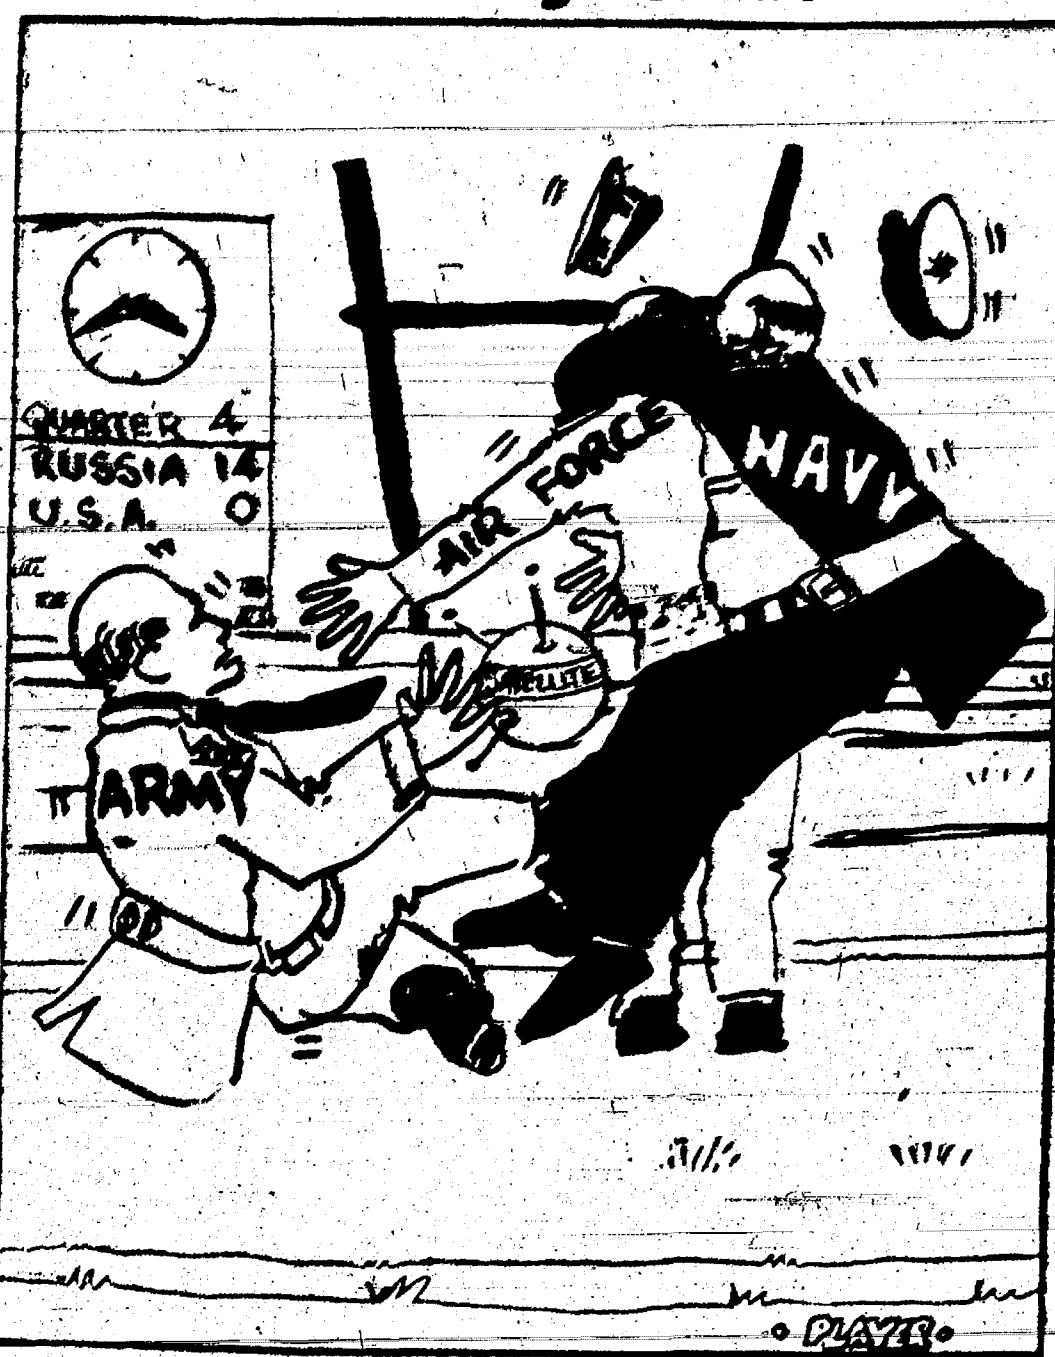

Gavin believes that there is too much rivalry between the services and no doubt he feels that the Army's missile program, which was held up by various "areas of responsibility" decisions, has been seriously handicapped.

As an example, it is reported the Army was ready to fire the Jupiter missile into outer space with an earth satellite long before the Navy's satellite-launching program was ready. Thereafter, when the Russians launched successful earth satellites, and the Navy attempted to hurry its program, a fiasco developed. The Army still maintains it could have fired an earth satellite into outer space before the Russians achieved their success.

Gavin is one of the Army's toughest generals. From the enlisted ranks, without a high school education, he studied on his own to be admitted to West Point. Since graduating from the Academy he has had a successful and colorful career, leading the famed 82nd parachute Division in World War II.

It seems to us that Gavin is yet another casualty of our always out-moded top-level military command structure. If it is regrettable that the Army must lose the abilities of such a man, but maybe, as he says, he will be able to do more to help the Army when working from the outside.

★ MICHIGAN MIRROR ★

By Elmer E. White, Secretary, Michigan Press Association

Republicans are looking for a candidate to replace Governor Williams before they try again to wrest the state's top office from the Democrats.

Many will come but only one will be chosen. The party is working on its "new look" as 1958 gets underway with a $224,700 budget and getting issues organized for the campaign.

They believe Gov. Williams, five years in office and expected to try for a sixth, is in a more vulnerable spot than at any time in his history-making career in Michigan politics.

Remembering the candidate cannot be judged from their confidence in Williams, who brought the party off the back streets and pointed state government from top to bottom with the party faithful.

Every appointive office is held by Democrats, all administrative offices are in their hands. The last bastion of Republicanism—the legislature—is the party's next major target.

There has been an almost complete burnout since Williams, appointed by a Republican governor, was elected to the legislature in 1948.

He was the only Democrat at the inaugural Jan. 1, 1949. Now, Republicans claim they have reversed in their party the same which Democrats brought into the first 10 years of political dominance.

Republicans have a budget for next year and an organization, rebuilt from the ground up in all of Michigan's 83 counties. They will pay state chairman Lawrence L. Lindsey $21,000 this year, plus a $5,000 expense account. They will keep their publicist, Arnold J. Levin, and give him an assistant.

Democrats have shown the way of modern politics with professional-type television shows, state-wide tours and year-around campaigning.

But most important, Republicans say, are the issues. "After 10 years in office, the governor admits he is a failure," said Senator Edward Hutchinson (R-Pontiac).

They point to the flight of business and industry to other states, charging that the move was due to the tax situation.

ing made to escape Williams' proposed tax increases. They talk sincerely about the "unhealthy economic climate" produced by Williams' long record of little sympathy for businessmen's problems. They remind it is not so much what business faces today as what might be thrown at them by the Williams administration.

Democrats deny the assertions pointing to rapid turnover showing that taxes are only a minor factor in the move.

"But the businessmen and industries are moving out, anyway—perhaps not so much because they are threatened with ruin, but because they have been led to believe they might be," said one observer.

The most potent issue, one that Republicans have ignored, is that Williams has been in office for 10 years.

Few officeholders can come up with a convincing answer to the "time-for-change" argument.

Even some Democrats are uneasy about the latest Williams proposal.

The governor first said tax breaks should not be forthcoming this year. Within two months, he proposed a $21,000,000 year-increase in the state-intangible tax.

This, of course, was aimed at the wealthy coupon clippers who live off vast stores of corporate wealth and whose fortunes are invested.

Shortly after the announcement, protesters started flooding Lansing from the willows and the aged retired citizens whose earnings and wide investments are keeping them solvent and off welfare rolls.

About 57,000 individuals now file intangible tax returns, according to Gerrit Van Converg, director-in-charge of the Michigan Tax Division. And it is suspected many more should be doing so. It is difficult to enforce collection of this type of tax.

Regardless of other factors, the intangible tax has certain political advantages because it hits a relatively small proportion of the population. But a large percentage of those affected are retired, having saved their money when the dollar bought more than it does today.

About 40 per cent of the tax payers pay less than $50 each. This equals 8 1/2 per cent of total revenue. Only 4 per cent pay more than $1,000 which makes up 60 per cent of the tax.

More Than One Million State Residents Now Drink Fluoridated Water

Lansing—More than a million Michigan residents are now drinking fluoridated water, according to the Michigan Department of Health.

Figures listed in the latest issue of the department's magazine, "Michigan's Health," show that six Michigan cities began fluoridating their water in 1957, bringing the number of Michigan communities fluoridating to 58.

Adjusting the fluoride content of drinking water to one part of fluoride for every million parts of water reduces tooth decay by two-thirds among children who consume the water from birth. Some of the fluoride becomes a part of the child's teeth when they are being formed, and the fluoride increases the resistance to decay throughout the child's life.

According to the state health department, water fluoridation costs about 10 cents per person annually.

The department added that fluoridation works its benefits without causing undesirable side effects in persons of any age.

★ Crumple & Bubble

OUR FAMILY has found that a visit to a factory makes an interesting break in a vacation trip. Last summer we took a tour through the Dow Chemical Company in Midland.

Our guide offered to lend us a pair of unbreakable glasses for the afternoon, but regretted that he had only two sizes: too large and too small.

Many of the chemicals produced in Midland are sold to other manufacturers, so they don't reach the public under the Dow label. Our guide told us they make 60 per cent of the aspirin manufactured in this country, but they sell all of it to other firms. This reminded me of the fact that all aspirin is chemically the same, so one brand is just as good as another, no matter what the price.

ONE PRODUCT the Dow people do market themselves is Saran-wrap. I found that the way they make it is so thin it blows up like a balloon. On the production line there is a big bubble of the stuff. A small cube (about 1/2 inch in diameter) feeds into the bubble through a pair of rollers, and the expanded tube (three feet in diameter) is drawn away from the bubble through a pair of rollers. Because the rollers in front and back of the bubble are air-tight, the same air stays in the bubble while the tube keeps passing around it.

Occasionally the bubble bursts; then a crew of workers rush into action to inflate the tube again and get it into production. This indicates one of the new viewpoints that automation has brought into being.

"WHEN A MAN IS SITTING DOWN" and doing nothing," said our guide, "then he's making money for the company. When he is busy at work, we know something is out of order. Since the company has nearly $30,000 invested in plant and equipment for each man who has a job in the plant, it is important to keep the machinery working constantly."

There are some 12,000 people working in the Midland plant. Like most of the large manufacturers, the Dow people reward tourists with a free sample of one of their products. As the guide handed us a gift package of Saran-wrap for the kitchen, he invited us to come back and take the tour again when that package was used up. And he gave us a money-saving tip: if you want to save Saran-wrap to use it again, don't fold it; crumple it. It's easier to flatten it out than it is to unfold it.

Washington Report

By Senator Charles E. Potter
The latest news from Washington of special interest to Michigan

SPORTS FANS will be reassured to learn that the Department of Justice is probing the television blackout imposed recently in Detroit, when local folks were not permitted to view the Lions' thrilling victory over the Cleveland Browns for the national pro football league championship.

With Briggs Stadium sold out in advance and standing room in brick demand, NFL Commissioner Bert Bell vetoed TV coverage for Detroit, while the rest of the nation watched the exciting contest over a coast-to-coast hook-up. Up to the time of the opening whistle, appeals from the team, private citizens, public officials and the press failed to budge the Commissioner.

If a single individual can deprive hundreds of thousands of loyal fans of a chance to see their team fight for the championship, then perhaps a change in the law is needed. I wrote the Attorney General that the public interest is not always served when so much power is placed in the hands of one man. He replied last week that the Antitrust Division has been put to work on the case.

THREE MICHIGAN LAWMAKERS intend to get natural gas into the Upper Peninsula to know the reason why. The other day I set up a conference in my office at which Representatives Victor Knox, John Bennett and I urged Federal Power Commissioner Jerome Kuykendall to slash red tape and speed action on this vital resource for the UP. Mr. Gerald Johnson of the Upper Peninsula Development Bureau sat in on the meeting. Two pipelines Michigan Wisconsin and Midwest want to serve the UP and Mr. Kuykendall promised us fastest possible action. If all goes well gas should be moving up there within nine months to a year.

EMERGENCY defense funds, now being rushed through Congress, contain a hefty slice of construction and missile money for Michigan. Out of a total request by President Eisenhower for $1.2 billion, Michigan's share is $195 million for Strategic Air Command dispersal, communications, and Jupiter intermediate-range ballistic missile contracts.

At least $104 million are for Chrysler, tripling the Jupiter contract awarded last week. Another $27,500,000 is for SAGE communications and SAC installation at K.I. Sawyer Air Base near Marquette. Kinross Air Base at Sault Ste. Marie draws almost $24 million for SAC. Selfridge Air Base, at Mt. Clemens another $17 million for SAC, and Wurtsmith Air Force Base at Oscoda pulls over $22 million.

All this is what we term "supplemental" money, requested to beef up the defense establishment between now and next July. The funds will expand Michigan's Air Force plant and provide needed jobs for our people. We must remember that this is an emergency request for the current fiscal year. Michigan can expect additional benefits from the 1959 budget already sent to Congress by the President and presently being analyzed by Appropriations Committee staffs in House and Senate.

THE PRESIDENT'S Committee for Government Contracts, a group which fights racial discrimination, brought more than 400 delegates to Washington last week from all parts of the United States. I had a fine talk with several of the Michiganders who stopped in at my office to discuss job opportunities. They were Mrs. A. Banks, and Edward Davis, Edgar Beozelator, John W. Webb, Miss Cora M. Brown, R. S. Scruggs, and S. F. Grigsby, all of Detroit.

THE POST OFFICE Department's austere Washington headquarters has just issued a new plan for co-operation from householders in its well-publicized campaign to protect letter carriers from dog bites. One of my constituents—a postal worker himself—has written in, suggesting the perfect solution. "Put those bounds up in spitballs," he demands. "If there they can't nip a soul and might help us all out with a few bees." The Post Office Department, which declares that "the safety and well-being of 125,000 letter carriers" is at stake, undoubtedly would agree.

HYBRID COTTON

The possibility of growing hybrid cotton, a discovery which may rival the development of hybrid corn in its impact on world agriculture, is reported.

Experiments at the University of California College of Agriculture, Riverside, resulted in the creation of male-sterile strains of cotton, indispensable for obtaining hybrid plants.

Are you neglecting yourself?

Many mothers are so busy looking after their families that they often neglect themselves. Are you like that? Do you, for example, give your children plenty of milk, but neglect to drink enough yourself. You should drink at least three glasses of milk a day—especially if you're over thirty-five.

Milk, you see, helps rebuild body tissues as they wear out. Helps you feel more vigorous and alert. Milk keeps your skin smooth and free of premature wrinkles. Even gives your hair more sheen. That's why you—feel younger . . . look younger . . . when you drink more milk.

'Survival Is Not Enough ...'

In a year filled with many world tensions, doubts and fears, one bright spot stands out which should cause everyone to rejoice. That great blessing of 1957 has been the sharp decline in the number of new polio cases across the nation. But, while we're rejoicing over the success of the Salk vaccine in controlling epidemic polio, let's take a closer look at the polio picture. Is it really over? Can we sit back now and say "goodbye" to one of history's most dread, costly and tragic of all human diseases?

Tens of thousands of crippled polio victims know better. And so do March of Dimes volunteers in Chelsea and elsewhere across the land. They can show you how visible polio still is on the national scene with a short visit to one of the National Foundation's Respirator Centers—the U. of M. hospital in this area.

Approximately 300,000 living Americans have survived attacks of paralytic polio—nearly half of them in the past 10 years.

Estimates made by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis indicate that nearly one-third of this group now suffers from some form of disability which can be remedied or eased.

Last year the National Foundation spent nearly $22,000,000 in assisting and caring for 57,000 polio patients. And only 4,700 of this group contracted polio last year. The balance of the group—53,000 of them—were victims of attacks in previous years who still need help. And they will need continued help and rehabilitation for years to come.

These aren't just statistics from a textbook. They are real people—some of them you know personally.

The real success of the current campaign for funds by March of Dimes volunteers will be measured by the successful lives of rehabilitated victims of the disease who have been nursed back to become once again happy, useful citizens.

The March of Dimes again deserves our whole-hearted support in its work of serving humanity. Please be generous as you have in past years.

Army Loses Top Leader in Decision Of Gen. Gavin To 'Retire' from Service

Lt. General James M. Gavin has announced he is retiring from the U. S. Army. Gavin, one of the Army's great leaders, has been Army Missiles Chief in recent years and has more recently had a disagreement with the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

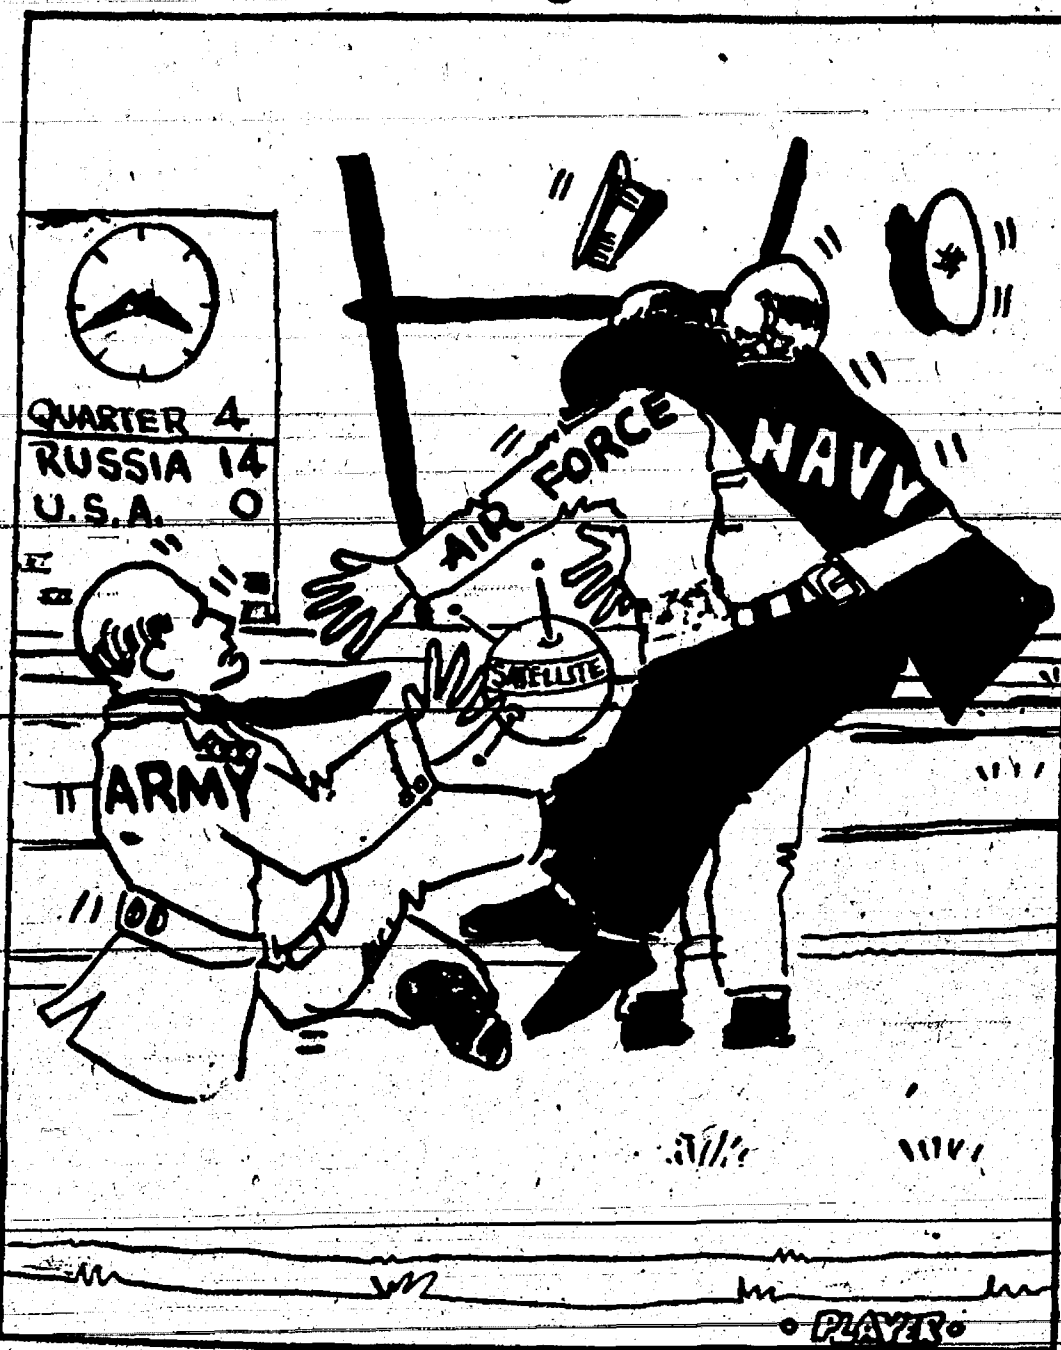

Gavin believes that there is too much rivalry between the services and no doubt he feels that the Army's missiles program, which was held up by various "areas of responsibility" decisions, has been seriously handicapped.

As an example, it is reported the Army was ready to fire the Jupiter missile into outer space with an earth satellite long before the Navy's satellite-launching program was ready. Thereafter, when the Russians launched successful earth satellites, and the Navy attempted to hurry its program, a fiasco developed. The Army still maintains it could have fired an earth satellite into outer space before the Russians achieved their success.

Gavin is one of the Army's toughest generals. From the enlisted ranks, without a high school education, he studied on his own to be admitted to West Point. Since graduating from the Academy he has had a successful and colorful career, leading the famed 82nd paratroop Division in World War II.

It seems to us that Gavin is yet another casualty of our always out-moded top-level military command structure. It is regrettable that the Army must lose the abilities of such a man, but maybe, as he says, he will be able to do more to help the Army when working from the outside.

Ball Handling Teamwork

MICHIGAN MIRROR

By Elmer E. White, Secretary, Michigan Press Association

Republicans are looking for a candidate seven months before they try again to wrest the state's top office from the Democrats.

Many will come but only one will be chosen.

The party is working on its "new look" as 1958 gets underway—setting up a $228,700 budget and setting issues organized for the campaign.

They believe Gov. Williams, five terms in office and expected to try for a sixth, is in a more vulnerable spot than at any time in his history-making career in Michigan politics.

Remembering the landlides cannot be budged from their confidence in Williams, who brought the party off the back streets and peopled state government from top to near bottom with the party faithful.

Every appointive office is held by Democrats, all administrative offices are in their hands. The last bastion of Republicanism—the legislature—is the party's next major target.

There has been an almost complete turnover since Williams, appointed by a Republican governor, was a member of the liquor control commission, made his debut in 1948 with a victory.

He was the only Democrat at the inaugural Jan. 1, 1949.

Now, Republicans claim they are reviving in their party the same spirit Democrats brought into this state first of 10 years of political dominance.

Republicans have a budget for next year and an organization—rebuilt from the ground up in all of Michigan's 83 counties.

They will pay state chairman Lawrence L. Lindemer $21,000 this year, plus a $9,000 expense account. They will keep their publicist, Arnold J. Levin, and give him an assistant.

Democrats have shown the way of modern politics with professional-type television shows, state-wide tours and year-around campaigning.

But most important, Republicans say, are the issues.

"After 10 years in office, the governor admits, the state is bankrupt," he admits he is a failure," said Senator Edward Hutchinson (R-Fennville).

They point to the flight of business and industry to other states, charging that the moves are being made to escape Williams' proposed tax increases.

They talk sincerely about the "unhealthy economic climate" produced by Williams' long record of little sympathy for businessmen's problems. They remind it is not so much what business faces today as what might be thrown at them anytime while Williams holds the whiphand.

Democrats deny the assertions pointing to valid surveys showing that taxes are only a minor factor in the moves.

"But the businesses and industries are moving out anyway—perhaps not so much because they are threatened with ruin, but because they have been led to believe they might be," said one observer.

The most potent issue, one that Republicans have ignored or only lightly considered in the past, is that Williams has been in office for 10 years.

Few officeholders can come up with a convincing answer to the "time-for-a-change" argument.

Even some Democrats are uneasy about the latest Williams proposal.

The governor first said tax increases would not be forthcoming this year. Within two months, he proposed a $21,000,000 a year increase in the state intangibles tax.

This, of course, was aimed at the wealthy coupon clippers who live off vast stores of corporate wealth and whose fortunes are invested.

Shortly after the announcement, protests started flooding Lansing from the widows and the aged retired citizens whose early thrift and wide investments are keeping them solvent and off welfare rolls.

About 57,000 individuals now file intangible tax returns, according to Gerrit Van Coevering, director Inheritance and Intangible Tax division. And it is suspected many more should be doing so.

It is difficult to enforce collection of this type of tax.

Regardless of other factors, the intangible tax has certain political advantages because it hits a relatively small proportion of the population. But a large percentage of those affected are retired, having saved their money when the dollar bought more than it does today.

About 40 per cent of the taxpayers pay less than $50 each. This equals 3 1/2 per cent of total revenue. Only 4 per cent pay more than $1,000 which makes up 60 per cent of the tax.

More Than One Million State Residents Now Drink Fluoridated Water

Lansing—More than a million Michigan residents are now drinking fluoridated water, according to the Michigan Department of Health.

Figures listed in the latest issue of the department's magazine, "Michigan's Health," show that six Michigan cities began fluoridating their water in 1957, bringing the number of Michigan communities fluoridating to 18.

Adjusting the fluoride content of drinking water to one part of fluoride for every million parts of water reduces tooth decay by two-thirds among children who consume the water from birth. Some of the fluoride becomes a part of the child's teeth who are being formed, and the fluoride increases the resistance to decay throughout the child's life.

According to the state health department, water fluoridation costs about 10 cents per person annually.

The department added that fluoridation works its benefits without causing undesirable side effects in persons of any age.

★ Crumple a Bubble

OUR FAMILY has found that a visit to a factory makes an interesting break in a vacation trip. Last summer, we took a tour through the Dow Chemical Company in Midland.

Our guide offered to lend us a pair of unbreakable glasses for the afternoon, but regretted that he had "only two sizes: too large and too small."

Many of the chemicals produced in Midland are sold to other manufacturers, so they don't reach the public under the Dow label. Our guide told us they make 60 per cent of the aspirin manufactured in this country, but they sell all of it to other firms. This reminded me of the fact that all aspirin is chemically the same, so one brand is just as good as another, no matter what the price.

ONE PRODUCT the Dow people do market themselves is Saran-wrap. I found that the way they make it is to blow it up like a balloon. On the production line there is a big bubble of the stuff. A small tube (nine inches in diameter) feeds into the bubble through a pair of rollers, and the expanded tube (three feet in diameter) is drawn away from the bubble through a pair of rollers. Because the rollers in front and back of the bubble are air-tight, the same air stays in the bubble while the tube keeps passing around it.

Occasionally the bubble bursts; then a crew of workers rush into action to inflate the tube again and get it into production. This indicates one of the new viewpoints—that automation has brought into being.

"WHEN A MAN IS SITTING DOWN and doing nothing," said our guide, "then he's making money for the company. When he is busy at work, we know something is out of order. Since the company has nearly $30,000 invested in plant and equipment for each man, who has a job in the plant, it is important to keep the machinery working constantly."

There are some 12,000 people working in the Midland plant. Like most of the large manufacturers, the Dow people reward tourists with a free sample of one of their products. As the guide handed us a gift package of Saran-wrap for the kitchen, he invited us to come back and take the tour again when that package was used up. And he gave us a money-saving tip: if you want to save Saran-wrap to use it again, don't fold it; crumple it. It's easier to flatten it out than it is to unfold it.

Law enforcement agencies are trying again this year to repeal a 1936 law which enabled youths to be licensed to drive motor-scooters at the age of 14.

It was proposed by the permanent committee of law enforcement officials because of the number of deaths resulting from motor-scooter accidents.

The repealer would require that the drivers have driver education training in the schools and obtain licenses only when they become 16, on a restricted basis, or 18, it.

Washington Report

By Senator Charles E. Potter
The latest news from Washington of special interest to Michigan.

SPORTS—FANS will be reassured to learn that the Department of Justice is probing the television blackout imposed recently in Detroit, when local fans were not permitted to view the Lions' thrilling victory over the Cleveland Browns for the national pro football league championship.

With Briggs Stadium sold out well in advance and standing room in brisk demand, NFL Commissioner Bert Bell vetoed TV coverage for Detroit, while the rest of the nation watched the exciting contest over a coast-to-coast hook-up. Up to the time of the opening whistle, appeals from the team, private citizens, public officials and the press failed to budge the Commissioner.

If a single individual can deprive hundreds of thousands of loyal fans of chance to see their team fight for the championship, then perhaps a change in the law is needed. I wrote the Attorney General that the public interest is not always served when so much power is placed in the hands of one man. He replied last week that the Antitrust Division has been put to work on the case.

THREE MICHIGAN LAWMAKERS intend to get the natural gas into the Upper Peninsula or know the reason why. The other three—set up a conference in my office at which Representatives Victor Knox, John Bennett and I urged Federal Power Commissioner Jerome Kuykendall to slash rate and speed action on this vital resource for the UP. Mr. Gerald Johnson of the Upper Peninsula Development Bureau sat in on the meeting. Two pipelines—Michigan Wisconsin and Midwest—want to serve the UP and Mr. Kuykendall promised us fastest possible action. If all goes well gas should be moving up there within nine months to a year.

EMERGENCY defense funds, now being rushed through Congress, contain a hefty slice of construction and missile money for Michigan. Out of a total request by President Eisenhower for $1.2 billion, Michigan's share is $195 million for Strategic Air Command communications, and Jupiter intermediate-range ballistic missile contracts.

At least $104 million are for Chrysler, tripling the Jupiter contract awarded last week. Another $27,500,000 is for SAGE communications and SAC installation at K.I. Sawyer Air Base near Marquette. Kinross Air Base at Sault Ste. Marie draws almost $24 million for SAC, Selfridge Air Base, at Mt. Clemens another $17 million for SAC, and Wurtsmith Air Force Base at Oscoda pulls over $22-million.

All this is what we term "supplemental" money, requested to beef up the defense establishment between now and next July. The funds will expand Michigan's Air Force plant and provide needed jobs for our people. We must remember this—is an emergency request for the current fiscal year. Michigan can expect additional benefits from the 1959 budget, already sent to Congress by the President and presently being analyzed by Appropriations Committee staffs in House and Senate.

THE PRESIDENT'S Committee for Government Contracts, a group which fights racial discrimination, brought more than 400 delegates to Washington last week from all parts of the United States. I had a fine talk with several of the Michiganans who stopped in at my office to discuss job opportunities. They were Mrs. Banks, and Edward Davis, Edgar Beozel, John W. Webb, Miss Cora M. Brown, R. S. Smuggs, and S. F. Grigsby, all of Detroit.

THE POST OFFICE Department's austere Washington headquarters has just issued a new plea for co-operation from householders in its well-publicized campaign to protect letter carriers from dog bites. One of my constituents—a postal worker himself—has written in suggesting the perfect solution: "Put those hounds up in Sputniks," he demands. "Up there they can't nip a soul and might help us all out with a few beeps." The Post Office Department, which declares that "the safety and well-being of 125,000 letter carriers" is at stake, undoubtedly would agree.

HYBRID COTTON
The possibility of growing hybrid cotton, a discovery which may rival the development of hybrid corn in its impact on world agriculture, is reported.

Experiments at the University of California College of Agriculture, Riverside, resulted in the creation of male-sterile strains of cotton, indispensable for obtaining hybrid plants.

Are you neglecting yourself?

Many mothers are so busy looking after their families that they often neglect themselves. Are you like that? Do you, for example, give your children plenty of milk but neglect to drink enough yourself. You should drink at least three glasses of milk a day—especially if you're over thirty-five.

Milk, you see, helps rebuild body tissues as they wear out. Helps you feel more vigorous and alert. Milk keeps your skin smooth and free of premature wrinkles. Even gives your hair more sheen. That's why you—feel younger ... look younger ... when you drink more milk.

ENTREPRENEURS FARM BUREAU GROUP

Entrepreneurs Farm Bureau group met Thursday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Clifford Bradbury.

Reports given at the meeting included one that dog laws are to be changed.

LaVerne Coy, reporting on the Farm Bureau group meeting at Superior Town Hall Dec. 18 for the purpose of voting on a choice of location for the proposed new Farm Bureau office building, stated that of the 191 votes cast, only 24 voted against locating it at the site of the Rural Activities building on Saline-Ann Arbor road.

Other reports included one on the question of direct telephone lines between Chelsea and Dexter instead of the present long distance call system. Entrepreneurs Farm Bureau committee have been working on the project with no success reported to date.

It was decided to contact H. P. Anderson of Ann Arbor, who is in charge of rural installation for Michigan Bell Telephone company, and ask him to speak at a joint meeting of Dexter and Chelsea groups regarding the situation.

The discussion on the topic "Farm Bureau's Role in Community Marketing," was led by Leigh Beach. The group went on record with the recommendation that Farm Bureau take the lead in the area of commodity marketing legislation, expand and assist in the area of promotion of commodity marketing, exercising good judgment; but "staying out" of the area of direct commodity marketing, such as milk, etc.

At the close of the business and program period, Mrs. Bradbury served refreshments and then the group played cards.

Elden Moore of Minneapolis, Minn., spent from Friday until Sunday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Moore, also a week-end guest there was Mrs. V. E. Hull of Adrian. Sunday, all attended a family gathering at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Gagnon, in East Detroit, in observance of the first birthday of the Gagnons' daughter Rene.

Mrs. May Grossman reported on talks given by Mrs. Patricia Hardy, county register of deeds, and Probate Judge John W. Conlin on the duties of their respective offices.

The hostess, assisted by Mrs. Will Reno, served refreshments at the close of the meeting.

BUSY BEAVER 4-H CLUB

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Cook were recently entertained at a dinner at Kellogg Center as guests of Marshall Wells and radio station WJLB. They were chosen 4-H leaders of the month for January. Their broadcast will be heard Jan. 26 at 7:30 a.m.

TROOP 48—Brownies of Troop 48 made doll clothes out of socks they had brought to the meeting Wednesday, Jan. 15.

Sandy Severn was hostess. Movies of the Brownies' Christmas party at the home of Mrs. John Alber were shown at Wednesday's meeting.

Pat Opple, secretary.

TROOP 51—Brownies of Troop 51 at their meeting Monday made plans for a roller skating party to be held at the roller rink Feb. 4. They also worked on their scrapbooks. Hostess for the meeting held at South Elementary school was Mary Ann Winter.

Shirley Grammatico, secretary.

NORTH SHARON EXTENSION GROUP

North Sharon Extension group met Tuesday, Jan. 14, at Sharon Town Hall with 12 members and one guest present.

The meeting was opened by all reading "The Michigan Extension Women's Creed," then the president, Mrs. Brand, read a "Thought for the New Year" from the program book. Roll call was answered by each one telling a safety hint for the home.

The date for the annual Family Night was set for Saturday, Feb. 16, at 7 o'clock with Mrs. C. Trois, Mrs. M. Roedel and Mrs. H. Herndon appointed as a committee to plan the meal.

A very interesting discussion followed about the lessons the group has studied.

The group would like upholstering, rug making or any interesting project but objected to going to Ann Arbor for the lesson.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. F. Brand and Mrs. M. L. Cummings.

Next meeting is to be Feb. 11 at 1:30. Mrs. F. Proctor and Mrs. M. Roedel will be hostesses.

Lester Ellet always buys Ford Dealer used cars because: "Ford Dealers know how to put used cars in top condition."

"... We Need 'em Fast!"

THE SCENE IS the traffic department of any of the hundreds of manufacturing plants in Michigan. The time is 4:00 P.M. on any day of the week. The traffic manager is talking long distance to a supplier in another state about some parts needed for production.

"Send 'em by truck," he says, as he prepares to hang up, "we need 'em fast!"

He knows from experience that motor transport is the fastest link between shipping and receiving. He knows he can depend on it. In fact, he and thousands of his fellow traffic managers have been the men most responsible for the rapid growth of motor transport. Once they experienced the efficiency and speed of trucks, there was no satisfying them with anything less—and today their companies could not operate successfully without truck transport.

deeply-ribbed aluminum front brake drums, it is our agreeable duty to report that these are the best brakes on a Detroit sedan by far that we have tested, and that they are, conservatively, a 100 per cent improvement over conventional Detroit brakes."

Direct quotation from the new issue of SPORTS CARS ILLUSTRATED in a report entitled:
"THE SPORTS CARS ILLUSTRATED 1958 AWARD
IN RECOGNITION OF OUTSTANDING ACHIEVEMENT AND SIGNIFICANT CONTRIBUTION IN THE AUTOMOTIVE FIELD
PRESENTED TO THE BUICK MOTOR DIVISION
GENERAL MOTORS CORPORATION, FOR MAJOR ADVANCES IN BRAKES."

NOW—more than ever—when better automobiles are built
Buick will build them

22 emergency stops from 60 mph—and Buick's brakes still effective!

As a result of this grueling brake test, SCI stated:
"We find it the rule for Detroit sedans to brake quite efficiently for the first few stops, but then they deteriorate rapidly." But here's what happened in the Buick Century, 22 "crash stops" were made from 60 MPH, and afterwards, the brakes were still fully effective. Says SCI: "This was by far the most severe test we ever have submitted a sedan's brakes to, but after it was over the Buick's brakes functioned perfectly . . . Buick has done it, has achieved a much better product, and has set a new standard of brake quality for Detroit."

"Crash Stop"—fastest full stop possible for a car traveling at a given speed.

That's the story as told by SPORTS CARS ILLUS-TRATED. You'll find how true the story is when you drive the Air Born B-58 Buick yourself and learn about all its great features.

There are totally new features in ride, in performance, in all-round comfort and ease of handling. Come on in

REPORT FROM COPENHAGEN:

Most Accurate Clock Ever Built Displayed in Denmark

(Editor's Note: This is the second and concluding part of our foreign correspondent's report on the world-famous all-time clock at Copenhagen, built over a long period of years to calculations of fantastic accuracy. The clock was based on the designs of the late Jens Olsen.)

By Norman Lindhurst
Foreign Correspondent
Part II

Copenhagen, Denmark—On this great clock's ten dials, are shown, among other things, the days, weeks, months and years of the Georgian and Julian calendars; the movement of the planets; the stars and the moon; sunrise and sunset. It calculates the time of day any place in the world.

It even allows for leap year in its movements and shows local townsfolk the correct time in both mean and sidereal (by the stars) equation.

Actually, the clock consists of 12 separate "clocks," each computing separate information but connected together through shafts, arbors, chains and geared wheels.

Eleven of the 12 clocks are provided with 18 dials. The one movement without a dial serves as the control for all the others.

The center section of the clock shows mean and sidereal time and contains the clock's main calendar. On the left are four dials showing local time, true solar time and the equation of time plus the time anywhere in the world.

A dial also shows sunrise and sunset calculated in both mean and sidereal time. At the bottom is a calendar that clicks off the days, weeks, months and years.

On the right are dials showing purely astronomical motions of the heavenly bodies, including the next eclipse of the moon.

The frame for the main movement is a bronze-casting and arbors and pinions are of highly polished steel. The escapement operates on constant impulse. The keepers of the famed clock wind the mechanism every eight days.

The entire clock is mounted in an air-conditioned glass case that will only be opened to make repairs when the clock's time runs out.

Had Jens Olsen known that the Russians were going to launch an earth satellite he would have shown its orbit on his clock.

The Junior Varsity cheerleaders have made up a new cheer, "Bulldogs," and have given some new words and actions to, "Hand to Hand."

A new rule was added to J.V. cheerleaders' constitution dealing with absences from games.

All of the Junior Varsity cheerleaders would like to see everybody out and cheering at their games. The Junior Varsity team will do its best but it needs your support.

Most seventh graders are busily studying for exams. They do not have time for any silliness. In history there was an assignment for each student to have 8 reports in Jan. 16.

The freshman class crammed for their exams all last week. They reviewed for almost a week. Freshmen Home Economics girls had to have their home and class projects in by Friday, Jan. 17.

The freshmen have submitted plans for a dance for the sophomores to Student Council. It is hoped that it will be held in the early spring.

The deadline for class dues of five dollars was Jan. 10. People who just paid half of the dues will have to pay the other half by May 31.

The Chelsea High-Y planned a skating party Saturday Jan. 18. They had a fun night two weeks ago and have had a fun night at the Ann Arbor YMCA where they went swimming and played basketball.

I, II and III home economics classes are all studying very hard for their exams in home ec. Tuesday.

They have been finishing up their required projects.

Miss Potter has been teaching the I class the different parts of the sewing machines.

The III class is also bringing sewing to do every day and are learning the parts of the sewing machine for their final exams.

The speech class has begun a new unit on interpretive reading in which they will read selections and study the meaning of each selection.

Latin Club met Jan. 15, and decided to send for information on a Roman dinner. Lynn Lippert, Carol Danforth, Peter Flintoft, and Linda Burghardt were chosen as a committee to write a skit for the pep rally.

A wave of team spirit spreads across the girls as they battle it out to see which team will be the class champions in basketball. Calisthenics are the cause of a lot of muscle aches and pains.

Physical education class for the past six weeks has been having an elimination boxing tournament. Terry Ringe and Alton Nixon were the co-champs in the heavy-weight division; Steve Bristol is the midweight champ, and Kurt Howe is the lightweight champ.

Future Homemakers of America held a fun night Jan. 29 to which they had invited the members of the Manchester FHA club. Eating, playing games, and dancing were featured during an evening in which everybody seemed to be having fun.

Polio Vaccine Is Available For Everyone

"To assure any degree of protection at all, polio immunizations should be started immediately by persons under 40 years of age," said Dr. Otto K. Engelke, Washtenaw county health officer. "This caution is directed at the 15 to 40 age group," he said, "since about 90 per cent of the children under 15 years of age are already protected and the incidence of polio seems to decrease in that age group over 40."

The current schedule for administering the polio vaccine calls for the initial injection to be followed by a second injection one month later, and a third injection seven months after the first. Even if the injections are started now, it will be August before the series is completed. This generally is the season in which the highest incidence of polio is experienced," he noted.

Vaccine is available through commercial channels for anyone who wishes to have it. The family physician should be contacted to arrange to have the vaccinations. "Due to apathy on the part of the general public, there is vaccine going to waste on pharmacists' shelves," Dr. Engelke said. This is in sharp contrast to 1955 when the vaccine was first released and the demand was extremely heavy.

The present program of distributing vaccine to private physicians through the health department has been very effective in getting the 1-14 age group immunized, according to Dr. Engelke. State-purchased vaccine is still available through the health department for administration to children under the age of 15 and to pregnant women.

To gain the maximum immunity, one should have the entire series of three injections. Parents who have started their children on the series should be certain that they are completed as soon as the schedule allows. Authorities seem to agree that immunity from the three injections is of a longer lasting nature than the less complete protection gained by the two injections.

National figures show that the number of cases of paralytic polio has been declining since the vaccine was put into use. The vaccine is effective only against the paralytic form of polio.
